Questions should be so framed as not to call on the witness for a critical review of the testimony given by the other witnesses, compelling the expert to draw inferences or conclusions of fact from the testimony or to judge of the credibility of witnesses. A question which requires the witness to draw a conclusion of fact should be excluded. Such a witness is called not to determine the truth of the facts, giving his opinion as to the effect of the evidence in establishing controverted facts, but to obtain his opinion on matters of science or skill in controversy.(2) "A question should not be so framed as to permit the witness to roam through the evidence for himself, and gather the facts as he may consider them to be proved, and then state his conclusions concerning them."(3) Inasmuch as an expert is not allowed to draw inferences or conclusions of fact from the evidence, his opinion should generally be asked upon a hypothetical statement of facts. The question need not be hypothetical in two cases-(a) where the issue is substantially one of science or skill merely the expert may, if he has himself observed the facts, be asked the very question which the Court or Jury have to decide(4), (b) possibly also according to the dictum in the celebrated Macnaghten's Case(5) where the issue is substantially one of science or skill such a question may be put if no conflict of evidence exists upon the material facts, even in cases where the expert's opinion is based merely upon facts proved by others. In this case, however, the question can only be put as a matter of convenience and not of right, the correct course being to put the facts to the witness hypothetically, asking him to assume one or more of them to be true and to state his opinion upon them.

It is always, however, improper where the facts are in dispute, and the opinion of the expert is based merely on facts proved by others, to put to the witness the very question which the Court or Jury have to decive, 60 since such a question practically risks him to determine the truth of the testimony as well as to give an opinion on it (7). So it was held that the evidence of a new contraction of the contra opinion of an expert as to the manner in which those injuries were inflicted, and as to the cause of death. A medical man who has not seen the corpse is only in a position to give evidence of his opinion as an expert. The proper mode of eliciting such evidence is to put to the witness hypothetically the facts and penl, and that it was not sufficient that the shap was in a diagrous position in the sense that to certain events which did not actually helpen ade must have been in actually pin! If was, honsist, held that the term damper was not so hunted (see The Chestotter, Vinn Rob., 71 "The Hisson," Lush, 28th, and that the hypothetical question which was released in the readon the readence was admissible. In the matter of the German steam ship: "Inveshelds", Returter v. Druckestits. Highly v. Druckestit. 2; (1 509 (31st dan, 1960)

of

- (I) Rogers Expert Testimons, 68
- (2) Rogers' Expert Testimons, 60-64
  (3) Doke v. Morrie 17 N. V. Sup. Ct., 202
  (Amer.) cited, 16, 61
- (4) So where a medical expert had made a personal examination of the utrus of a deceased woman, it was held proper to ask him. 'what in your opinion caused the death of the person from

- whom the uterus was taken " State v Idase, 5 Oreg , 73 (Amer ) See Rogers op cit , 75, 76
  - (5) 10 ( & F , 200
- (6) So on a question whether a particular act, for which a priving ro on his rula were mare of meanth, a medical man conversant with that dissess who knows nothing of the facts, but has simply beard the trial cannot be broadly asked his opinion as to the state of the pressure's much at the time of the commission of the alleged crim. The project and usual form of question is to ask him whether assuming such and such facts, the pressure was salse or mission. The Court or July are then left to ask whether the assumed facts exist or not. Microphilar a Core, 10 ( € ± 200 , Tasker, E. § ± 1421).
- (7) Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 345, 346, and cases there cited Rogers, op. cit., § 31 Taylor, Ev.-§ 1421 Wharton, Ev., § 452 which the evidence of the other witnesses attempts to prove, and to ask the witness's opinions on those facts (1) So also a medical man who has not seen a corpse which has been subjected to a post-mortem examination, and who is called to corroborate the opinion of the medical man who has made such nostmortem examination, and who has stated what he considered was the cause of death, is in a position to give evidence of his opinion as an expert. The proper mode of eliciting such opinion is to put the signs observed at the post-mortem to the witness, and to ask what in his opinion was the cause of death, on the hypothesis that those signs were really present and observed.(2)

In order to obtain the opinion of the witness on matters not depending upon general knowledge, but on facts not testified of by himself, one of two modes is pursued, either the witness is present and hears all the testimony, or the testimony is summed up in the question put to him; and in either case the question is put to him hypothetically, whether if certain facts testified of are true he can form an opinion and what that opinion is. The question may be based on the hypothesis of the truth of all the evidence, or on an hypothesis especially framed on certain facts assumed to be proved for the purpose of the mquiry. Inasmuch as it is no part of the expert to determine the truth of the evidence care must be taken in framing the questions not to involve so much or so many facts in them, that the witness will be obliged in his own mind to settle other disputed facts in order to give his answer.(3) The witness should ordinarily not be left to form an opinion on such facts as he can recollect where the evidence is at all voluminous and where it is not entirely harmonious, it is improper to permit a question to be put which requires the expert to give an opinion upon his memore of what the evidence was and upon his conclusions as to what the evidence proved.(4) Though in examination in chief the general rule is that it is error to include in the hypothetical question an assumed state of facts which the evidence in the case does not prove or tend to prove, Counsels on the crossexamination of the witness are not amilasta n mav be assumed

Whenever the opinion of any living person is relevant, the grounds on which such opinion is based are also relevant.(6) Thus an expert may give an account of experiments performed by him for the purpose of forming his opinion (7) When a skilled witness says that in the course of his duty he formed a particular opinion on certain facts, he may further be asked by examinationin-chief how he went on to act upon that opinion For the acting on it is a strong corroboration of the truth of his opinion, (8) and what a person does is usually better evidence of his opinion than what he says. (9) Section 46 is but rounds of

nd corre

ind rebutal of opin-

<sup>(1)</sup> Roghum Singh v. R , 9 C , 455, 461 (1882) (2) R v. Mehre Alt, 15 C., 589 (1888); and see also Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 345-347, where the authorites are collected and analysed

<sup>(3)</sup> Rogers, op ett., 61-69.

<sup>(4) 15 . 70, 71. |</sup>So in the matter of the German steamship Irachenfels, 27 C , 860 (31st Jan 1980), in which the evidence was very voluminous, the Court required Counsel to read to the experts specific portions of the evidence in which their opinion was required even though they had heard the evidence bring given ]

<sup>(5) 16., 79</sup> (6) S. 51, post.

<sup>(7)</sup> Ib , illust., we R. v. Hesidine, 12 Cox , [404] on a charge of amon, evidence of experiments made subsequently to the fire is admissible in order to show the way in which the building was set fire to] Not only may pre-existing objects be inspected, but the Court may order scientific experiments to be performed (Bigs v. Dickinson, 4 Ch D , 24), artistic tests undertaken (Belt v. Laues, Times, 1882), or specimens of handwriting executed (s 73) in its presence, Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 4, 345

<sup>(8)</sup> Stephenson v River Tyne Commissioner, 17 W. R. (Eng.), 390

<sup>(9)</sup> Field, Ev , 351, where it is said : "The evidence would doubtless be admissible under 8 8, or under s. 11, ante " See Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 94.

a roundabout way of stating that the opinion of an expert is open to corroboration or rebuttal. The allustrations sufficiently exemplify the proposition that for this purpose evidence of res inter alios actor is receivable. (1) This section is in accordance with the rule of English law. (2)

An expert who is called as a witness may refresh his memory by reference refreshing to professional treatises (3) or to any other document made by himself at memory-the time.(4) So a medical man in giving evidence may refresh his memory by referring to a report which he has made of his post-morten examination, but the report itself cannot be treated as evidence, and no facts can be taken therefrom.(5)

An expert witness like any other may on cross-examination be asked questored to too to test his vectority, to discover his position, and to shake his credit by **Zperts' injuring his character.(6) Independent evidence may be given to show his conviction of a criminal offence of to impeach his impartiality.(7) His credit may be impeached by the evidence of persons who testify that they believe him to be unworthy of credit and by proof that he has been corrupted, or that he has expressed a different opinion at other times.(8)

Section 60 enacts a proviso relating to the opinions of experts, to the opinion of general rule that oral evidence must be direct. Under this proviso the opinion of experts of experts expressed in any treatise commonly offered for sale, and the grounds witness, on which such opinion are held, may be proved by the production of such treatises, if the author is dead or cannot be found, or has become incapable of giving evidence, or cannot be called as a witness without an amount of delay or expense which the Court regards as unreasonable(9)

47. When the Court has to form an opinion as to the per-Opinion as son by whom any document was written or signed, the opinion when of any person acquainted with the handwriting of the person want by whom it is supposed to be written or signed, that it was or was not written or signed by that person, is a relevant fact.

Explanation.—A person is said to be acquainted with the handwriting of another person when he has seen that person write, or when he has received documents purporting to be written by that person in answer to documents written by himself or under his authority and addressed to that person, or when, in the ordinary course of business, documents purporting to be written by that person have been habitually submitted to him.

Illustration.

The question is, whether a given letter is in the handwriting of A, a merchant in London.

B is a merchant in Calcutta, who has written letters addressed to A and received letters purporting to be written by him. C is B's clerk, whose duty it was to examine

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Et., 225. illust (b) is the case of Follow. Chadd, 3 Dougl., 157 illust (a) is precisely like it in principle., ib., s. 46 is analogous to s. 11.

<sup>(2)</sup> See Taylor, Ev , § 337, 9th Ed . § 335 . Field Ev , 347; Steph Drg , Art. 50 See s 51, post,

<sup>(4) 15</sup>

<sup>(5)</sup> Roghun Singh v R , 9 C , 455 (1882)

<sup>(6)</sup> hs 146—152, post (7) h 153, post

<sup>(8) 155,</sup> post, Taylor, Ev. § 1445 (9) S 60, post, as to the madmissibility of mere medical certificates, see R. v Ram Rutton, 9 W R., Cr., 23 (1868), as to the necessity of direct evidence, v. post and file B's correspondence. D is B's broker, to whom B habitually submitted the letters purporting to be written by A for the purpose of advising with him thereon.

The opinions of B, C and D on the question whether the letter is in the handwriting of A are relevant, though neither B, C, nor D ever saw A write.

Principle—The opinion or the belief of a witness is here admissible because all proof of handwriting, except when the witness either wrote the document himself, or saw it written, is in its nature comparison;—it being the belief which a witness entertains, upon comparing the writing in question with an exemplar formed in his mind from some previous knowledge.(1)

- s. 45 ILLUST. (c) (Opinion of experts as to identity of writing.)
- 9. 3 (That a man holds a certain opinion
- is a fact.)
  s. 51 (Grounds of opinion.)
- s. 51 (Grounds of opinion.
- 5. 3 (" Court.")

73 (Comparison of handwriting)
 3 ("Document")
 67 (Proof of signature and handwriting.)

s 3 (" Relevant.")

3 (" Relevant.")

s. 3 (" Fact ")

Taylor, Fr., §8, 1862—1868; Lawson's Expert and Opinion Evidence, 277; Best Lv., §§ 232—238; Rogers on Expert Testimony, 285; Nteph. Dig., Art. 50; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 353, Powell, Ev., 309—403, Harris, Law of Identification, 231.

COMMENTARY

Proof of hand-writing and signature

As to the general charact -- * ommentary to section 45, ante. The word " "any person acquainted with the handwriti es both handwriting in general and signature One person's knowledge of the handwriting of another may be confined to his general style and may not extend to his signature. A signature may and very often does possess a great peculiarity. Although, therefore, a person can recognise another's general style, it may not follow that he can recognise his style of signature, this he may have never seen On the other hand, a person may be competent to recognise another's style of signature, although quite unable to recognise his general style of writing, for of his style beyond his a guature he may be quite ignorant, and the one may be very different from the other. Where the signature is in the ordinary style of writing one not acquainted with that style except in the signature cannot recognise his style in any other writing unless he assumes or it be conceded that the style in his signature is the style of his usual writing; and supposing that assumption or concession to be made it is obvious that one or even a hundred signatures may lead to mistake, the number of small and capital letters in the signature being few, and many letters which occur in the general handwriting not occurring in the signature On the contrary, if one is acquainted with the style of another's writing except his signature, if that style be in the signature he can as well recognise it in the signature as he can in any other words composed of the same letters.(2)

In India a great number of persons are marksmen. In England a witness has been allowed to express his opinion that a mark on the document is the mark of a particular person.(3) Handwriting ordinarily means whatever

Lawson, op cit., 298, and a witness may be acquainfed with the signatur of a firm without being able to identify the handwriting of either or any, partner, ib, and cases there eited

(3) A M is said on a bill of exchange which she had endorsed with her mark, the writing

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ex., § 1869; Dor v Nuclermore, 5 A. E., 731, and we Fryer v. timberede, 13 Jur., 512, ante, Introd. tos 45-51, Posell, Ex., 460 (2) Ram on Facts, 72, 73 That one is not acquainted with another's general writing downot dequalify him from proving his signature

the party has written (i.e., formed into letters) with his hand,(1) though Parke, B., in the case undermentioned (2) said : " I think you may prove the identity of the party by showing that this mark was made in the book and that mark is in his handwriting," thereby including the affixing of a mark in the term handwriting. It may, however, reasonably be doubted whether the term should be so extended, and though the words 'signed' and 'signature' have been defined for the purposes of other Acts as includ ing marks(3) there is no such definition in this. Therefore, though proof of a mark may be given by calling the person who made it, or a person who saw it affixed, opinion-evidence would not appear to be admissible under this section, either with regard to mark or a seal, which may similarly be proved by calling the person who affixed it or who saw the scal affixed.(4) or by comparison with a seal already admitted or proved.(5) But though this section does not appear to have provided for the case, it does not follow that such evidence is inclinisable. In practice a witness who knows the seal of another has been permitted to say that a seal appearing on a document submitted to him is the seal of that other, even though he was not present and saw the seal affixed. Such evidence is relevant to prove identity of the thing, etc., the seal in question. (6) In every question of identification. whether of a person's handwriting or other thing, the evidence of a witness is opinion-evidence founded on a mental comparison of the person or thing which the witness has seen with the person or thing he sees at the trial (7) The Act has in the present section made special provision with respect to the subject of handwriting, one of common occurrence requiring in many cases on the part of the witness considerable judgment and involving questions of difficulty, and has treated opinion-evidence ' from necessity, '(8) whether upon the identity of other things or persons, or upon other matters as being not strictly opinion in the sense in which that term is used in the Act. Similar observations are applicable in the case of marks, the only difference between the two cases being that there is nearly always a distinguishing feature in a seal while the usual mark (a cross) is not generally distinguishable from a cross made by another, though a mark may and sometimes does contain a peculiar and distinctive feature (9) If there is something peculiar to identify the mark as being that of a particular person, it is impossible to distinguish the case from any other form of proof ex visu scriptionis, (10) and as already stated such evidence has been admitted both in England and America.(11) If there is nothing to identify the mark

&quot;A M her mark " being in the plaintiff's handwriting IF testifies that he has frequently seen A M make her mark, points out some peculiarity in it and expresses the opinion that the mark on the bill is hers. His opinion is admissible George v Surrey, M & M , 516 , See Lawsons, op est , 206, 297 , Pearcy v Decler, 13 Jur , 997 S to prove an obligation which is signed by EB in her handwriting and by IB her husband, by his making a mark in the shape of a cross, calls their son who testifies to the handwriting of his mother, that he knows the mark of his father and that the mark attached to the foot of the instrument he believes to be his father's mark This was held sufficient. Strong v Brewer, 17 Ala . 710 (Amer.) See Best Er . § 34

<sup>(1)</sup> Com v Webster, 5 Cush, 301 (Amer.) (2) Sayer v. Glossop, 12 Jun., 465.

<sup>(3)</sup> e.g. Civil Pro Code, s. 2. Registration Act (XVI of 1908), s. 3. On the other hand, the Succession Act (A of 1865) draws a distinction between a mark and a signature (s. 50).

<sup>(4)</sup> Moses v Thornton, ST R , 307

<sup>(5) $ 73,</sup> pm

<sup>(6)</sup> See s 9, aute, and s 3, definition of fact "

<sup>(7)</sup> v ante, Introd to ss 45-51.

<sup>(8)</sup> v ante, 1b

<sup>(9)</sup> Thus in Feshwadabai v Ramchandra, 18 B, at p 73 (1893), the mark was that of a plough (10) Best. Fv., § 234

<sup>(11):</sup> onte p. 414. However, in Currier s, Minnajor, Il 11-40, 311 (Amer.), Rufin, c. 1, thought that it was only in some very vatra-ordinary minnaiors that the mack of an illiterate person may become so well known as to it susceptible of proof like handswring, and it has been held in two cases in Pennsylvanus that a mark' to a will cannot be proved by one who did not winness it, but who testifies that he is acquainted with the mark on account of certain pred wither.

and file B's correspondence.  $D \bowtie B$ 's broker, to whom B habitually submitted the letter, purporting to be written by .I for the purpose of advising with him thereon,

The opinions of B. C and D on the question whether the letter is in the handwriting of A are relevant, though neither B, C, nor D ever saw A write.

Principle.—The opinion or the belief of a witness is here admissible because all proof of handwriting, except when the witness either wrote the document himself, or saw it written, is in its nature comparison ,-it being the belief which a witness entertains, upon comparing the writing in question with an exemplar formed in his mind from some previous knowledge,[1]

- s. 45 ILLUST. (c) (Opinion of experts as to " 73 (Comparison of handwriting.) identity of writing )
- s. 3 (That a man holds a certain opinion . 67 (Proof of signature and handwriting.)
  - is a fact.)
- s. 51 (Grounds of opinion )
- s. 3 (" Court ")

- 8 3 (" Document.")
- . 3 (" Relevant.")
- s 3 (" Fact )

Taylor, Ev., §§ 1862-1868; Lawson's Expert and Opinion Evidence, 277; Best Ev., §§ 232-238, Rogers on Expert Testimony, 285, Steph. Dig., Art. 50; Phipson. Ev. 3rd Ld., 353; Powell, Lv., 309-403, Harris, Law of Identification, 231.

COMMENTARY

Proof of hand-writing and signature

As to the general characteristics of handwriting, see comment my to section 45, aute. The word "handwriting" in the sentence "any person acquainted with the handwriting etc," presumably includes both handwriting in general and signature. One person's knowledge of the handwriting of another may be confined to his general style and may not extend to his signature. A signature may and very often does possess a great peculiarity. Although, therefore, a person can recognise another's general style, it may not follow that he can recognise his style of signature, this he may have never seen. On the other hand, a person may be competent to recognise another's style of signature, although quite unable to recognise his general style of writing, for of his style beyond his agnature he may be quite ignorant, and the one may be very different from the other. Where the signature is in the ordinary style of writing one not acquainted with that style except in the signature cannot recognise his style in any other writing unless he assumes or it be conceded that the style in his signature is the style of his usual writing; and supposing that assumption or concession to be made it is obvious that one or even a hundred signature, may lead to mistake, the number of small and capital letters in the signature being few, and many letters which occur in the general handwriting not occurring in the signature On the contrary, if one is acqueinted with the style of another's writing except his signature, if that style be in the signature he can as well recognise it in the signature as he can in any other words composed of the same letters.(2)

In India a great number of persons are marksmen. In England a witness has been allowed to express his opinion that a mark on the document is the mark of a particular person.(3) Handwriting ordinarily means whatever

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev. 4 1869 . Doe v. Suckermore, 5 1. & E., 731 , and we Fryer v. Gatherede, 13 Jur . 542, ante, Introd to se. 45-51 ; Fowell, Er , 418). (2) Ram on Facts, 72, 73 That one is not acquainted with another's general writing does not desqualify him from proving his signature.

Lauson, op cit , 298, and a witness may be acquanted with the signature of a firm without lsing able to identify the handwriting of either or any, partner, to , and cases there ested.

<sup>(3)</sup> A V is sued on a bill of exchange which she had endored with her mark; the writing

the party has written (i.e., formed into letters) with his hand,(1) though Parke, B., in the case undermentioned,(2) said: "I think you may prove the identity of the party by showing that this mark was made in the book and that mark is in his handwriting," thereby including the affixing of a mark in the term handwriting. It may, however, reasonably be doubted whether the term should be so extended, and though the words 'signed' and 'signature' have been defined for the purposes of other Acts as includ ing marks(3) there is no such definition in this. Therefore, though proof of a mark may be given by calling the person who made it, or a person who sawit affixed, opinion-evidence would not appear to be admissible under this section, either with regard to mark or a seal, which may similarly be proved by calling the person who affixed it or who saw the seal affixed.(4) or by comparison with a seal already admitted or proved.(5) But though this section does not appear to have provided for the case, it does not follow that such evidence is inadmissible. In practice a witness who knows the seal of another has been permitted to say that a seal appearing on a document submitted to him is the scal of that other, even though he was not present and saw the seal affixed. Such evidence is relevant to prove identity of the thing, riz., the scal in question.(6) In every question of identification. whether of a person's handwriting or other thing, the evidence of a witness is opinion-evidence founded on a mental comparison of the person or thing which the witness has seen with the person or thing he sees at the trial.(7) The Act has in the present section made special provision with respect to the subject of handwriting, one of common occurrence requiring in many cases on the part of the witness considerable judgment and involving questions of difficulty, and has treated opinion-evidence ' from necessity,'(8) whether upon the identity of other things or persons, or upon other matters as being not strictly opinion in the sense in which that term is used in the Act. Similar observations are applicable in the case of marks, the only difference between the two cases being that there is nearly always a distinguishing feature in a scal while the usual mark (a cross) is not generally distinguishable from a cross made by another, though a mark may and sometimes does contain a peculiar and distinctive feature. (9) If there is something peculiar to identify the mark as being that of a particular person, it is impossible to distinguish the case from any other form of proof ex eisu scriptionis,(10) and as already stated such evidence has been admitted both in England and America.(11) If there is nothing to identify the mark

&quot;A M her mark " being in the plaintiff's handwriting W testifies that he has frequently seen A M make her mark, points out some piculiarity in it and expresses the opinion that the mark on the bill is here. His opinion is admissible George v Surrey, M & M . 516 . See Lawsons, op est , 206, 297 Pearcy v Decker, 13 Jun , 997 S to prove an obligation which is signed by EB in her handwriting and by IB her husband, by his making a mark in the shape of a cross, calls their son who testifies to the handwriting of his mother that he knows the mark of his father and that the mark attached to the foot of the instrument he believes to be his father's mark This was held sufficient Strong v Brewer 17 Ala , 710 (Amer ) See Best Ev , § 34

<sup>(1)</sup> Com. v. Weister, 5 Cush., 301 (Amer.) (2) Sayer v. Glossop., 12 Jur., 465.

<sup>(3)</sup> eg, Civil Pro. Code, s 2; Registration Act (XVI of 1908), s 3. On the other hand, the

Succession Art (A of 1865) draws a distinction between a mark and a signature (s. 50)

<sup>(4)</sup> Moss s . Thornton, 8 T R , 307.

<sup>(5) $ 73</sup> pmt

<sup>(6)</sup> See s 9, ante, and s 3, definition of ' fact''
(7) v ante, Introd to ss 45-51

<sup>(8)</sup> v ante, ib (9) Thus in Jeshicadabat v Ramchandra, 18

B, at p 73 (1893), the mark was that of a plough (10) Best, Fr., § 234

<sup>(11):</sup> ante, p. 444. However, in Currier v. Humpton, 11 Ired., 311 (Amer.), Ruffin, C. J., thought that it was only 'in some very extraction or the state or the state of an interast person may become so well known as for less expetible of proof like handwriting, and it has leen held in the cases in Pennylrians Islat a 'mari' to a will cannot be proved by one who did not witness it, but who testifies that he is acquainted with the mark on account of certain pere 'stifes.

the evidence will be eitner madmissible(1) or if admissible, of no value whatever.

Section 67 enacts that if a document is alleged to be signed or to have been written wholly or in part by any person, the signature or the handwriting of so much of the document as is alleged to be in that person's handwriting must be proved to be in his handwriting. Handwriting may be proved or disproved in the following ways -(a) by calling the writer; or (b) any person, e.g., an attesting witness, who actually saw him write the document; (2) or (c) by the evidence of the opinion of experts under the provisions of section 45, ante, which differs from the present in this that under its provisions the witness is required to be skilled in the art of distinguishing writings, while under the present section he must be acquainted with the handwriting of the person alleged to have written the document; or (d) by the opinion-evidence of non-experts, namely, under the present section by the evidence of a person who has acquired a knowledge of the character of the handwriting in one of the wavs specified in this section. A witness who has such knowledge may testify to his belief that a writing shown to him is in the hand of another person, though he cannot swear positively thereto. Such knowledge may be acquired (a) by having at any time seen the party write (3) The frequency and recentness of the occasions and the attention paid to the matter by the witness will affect the value and not the admissibility of the evidence. Thus, in England, such evidence has been admitted though the witness had not seen the party write for twenty years, and in another case, had seen him write but once, and then only his surname (4) The witness's knowledge must not, however (it has been said), have been acquired for the express purpose of qualifying him to testify at the trial, because the party might through design write differently from his common mode of writing his name :(5) and if it should appear that the belief rests on the probabilities of the case, or on the character or conduct of the supposed writer, and not on the actual knowledge of the handwriting, the testimony will be rejected.(6) (b) By the receipt of documents purporting to be written by the party, in answer to documents written by the witness or under his authority and addressed to that party. This evidence will be strengthened by acquiescence by the parties in the matters, or some of them, to which these documents relate. (7) (c) By having observed in the ordinary course of business documents purporting to be written by the person in question. Thus the clerk who has constantly read the letters, or the broker who has been consulted upon them, is as competent as the merchant to whom they were addressed, to judge whether another signature is that of the writer of the letters; and a servant who has habitually carried his master's letters to the post, has thereby had an opportunity of obtaining a knowledge of his writing, though he never saw him write or received a letter from him.(8) In whichever of these two latter ways, the witness has Lasson, op ci., 297 The correct uses, horvers, is that stated in Best, Et., 293, and other cases above citcl. As to wills, in this country the alterstage withcrease must affile their signature and not a mark. See notes to see 88-72, poet in Frichardshow. Fanchandre, 18 B, 73 (1893), a wifores in cross-reasonation stated that his father could not write or sign his name but weed to make a mark (the mark of a plough), and that the paper then shown to him was.

(1) Best, Ev., § 234 (2) Taylor, Ev., § 1862 For a case in which the writer was called and while denying the execation of the document admitted that the writing was exactly like his own, see Oirish Chunder v. Bhugwan Chunder, 13 W R, 191, 193 (1870) (3) Taylot, Ev., § 1863, Best, Ev., § 233.

fs. 47.1

(3) Taylor, Ev., § 1863, Best, Ev., § 233.
 (4) Ib. Freld, Ev., 348
 (5) Ib. Stranger v. Searl, 1 E-p., 15. Best.
 Ev., § 236, R. v. Crouch, 4 Cox, 163, for exceptions.

tions, see Lawson, op. ctl., 307
(6) R. v. Murphy, 8 C. & P., 306, 307; Da Costa v. Pum, Pea. Add, Ca., 144, Taylor, Ev..

§ 1863. (7) Taylor, Er., §§ 1864-1866, see the Illustration to the section (8) Taylor, Ev., § 1864; Lawson, op. cet., 288;

Smith v. Sainsbury, 5 C. & P., 196; ees the Illusacquired his knowledge, proof must be given of the identity of the person whose writing is in dispute with the person whose hand is known to the. witness.(1) It has been held by the Bombay High Court. following the English rule, that a witness need not state in the first instance how he knows the handwriting, since it is the duty of the opposite party to explore in crossexamination the sources of his knowledge, if he be dissatished with the testimony as it stands. It is however, permissible and may often be expedient that the matters referred to in the explanation should be elicited on the examination-in-chief; and it is within the power of the presiding judge and often may be desirable to permit the opposing advocate to intervene and cross-examine so that the Court mey at the t stage he in a position to come to a definite conclusion on adequate. materials as to the proof of the handwriting.(2) The witness need not swear to his belief, his bare opinion being admissible, though a mere statement that the writing is like that of the supposed writer is insufficient. For such a statement may be perfectly true, and yet within the knowledge of the witness, the paper may have been written by an utter stranger.(3) The evidence, being primary and not secondary in its nature, will not become madmissible because the writer himself or some one who saw the document written, might have been called.(4) And evidence is admissible though the disputed document cannot be produced, as where it is lost or incapable of removal.(5) (e) Lastly, handwriting may be proved by comparison of two or more writings, as to which see section 73, post; and as to comparison by experts, section 45, ante, and Illustration (c) thereto.

48. When the Court has to form an opinion as to the exist-contine as ence of any general custom or right, (6) the opinions, as to the or right or existence of such custom or right, of persons who would be likely custom to know(7) of its existence if it existed, are relevant.

Explanation,—The expression 'general custom or right' includes customs or rights common to any considerable class of persons.

Illustration.

The right of the villagers of a particular village to use the water of a particular well is a general right within the meaning of this section.

Principle.—Upon such questions the opinions of persons who would be highly to know of the existence of the custom or right are the best evidence. Such persons are, so to speak, the depositaries of customary law; just as the text-books are the depositaries of the general law.(8)

tration to the section and List Mohon v R, 22

Shankar Rao v Rampee, 28 B, 58 (1903)
 Taylor, Ev., § 1868.
 Taylor, Ev., § 1862; Best, Ev., § 232.

<sup>(5)</sup> Sayer v. Glossop, 2 Ex., 409; see Lucas v Williams, 2 Q B. (1892), 113, 116, 117.

 <sup>(6)</sup> As to the meaning of the term 'right,' see Gujju Lall's Fatch Loll, 6 C, 186, 187, 180 (1880).
 (7) See Jugmohan Das v Sir Mangaldas, 10 B, 542, 543 (1886)

<sup>(8)</sup> v. ib., observations on Opinion Evidence; and see Luchman Rai v. Albar Khan, 1 A., 441 (1887), Bas Sanji v Bas Sanok, 20 B., 59 (1894). As to this and the next section and English law, see Tholium Comunications v. Kwinger Shaparandhunja, 4 C. W. N., XIXTII (1800).

- s. 3 (That a man holds a certain opinion ss a fact.)
- R. 60 (Evidence of opinion must be direct.) s. 3 (" Court.")
- 3 (" Relevant.")
- s. 13 (Facts relevant where right or custom is in question.)
- 51 (Grounds of opinion.)
- 8. 33, CL. (4) (Opinion of witness as to public right or custom or matter of general interest.)
- s. 42 (Judgments relating to matters of a public nature.)
- 32. CL. (7) (Statements contained in certain documents.)

Norton, Ev., 227; Field, Ev., 348, 349; Cunningham, Ev., 193, 194.

COMMENTARY.

Opinion as to usage or

The thirteenth section applies to all rights and customs, public, general, and private, and refers to specific facts which may be given in evidence. Fourth clause of s. 32 refers to the reception of second-hand opinion-evidence in cases in which the declarant cannot be brought before the Court, whether in consequence of death or from some other cause, upon the question of the existence of any public right or custom or matter of public or general interest made ante litem motam; and the seventh clause to statements contained in certain documents. The present section also deals with opinion-evidence, but refers to the evidence of a living witness produced before the Court, sworn, and subject to cross-examination. For this section, when read with section 60, post, requires that the person who holds the opinion should be called as a witness; the Proviso to the latter section applying only in the case of experts. It refers only to general rights and customs, not public, the Explanation to the section adopting the sense in which the term 'general' is used by English text-writers (1) It does not appear why the section does not provide for the admission of oral evidence expressing opinion as to the existence of a public custom or right. It may perhaps be said that every public custom or right is a general custom or right, though the converse of this proposition would not hold good (2), or that having regard to the reasons for which these terms are used by English writers the distinction between them is not of importance in this country.(3) The present section further differs from the fourth clause of section 32 masmuch as it is not governed by the limitation ante litem motam.

Evidence as to usage will also be admissible under this section which is not limited to ancient custom.(4) The word 'usage' would include what the people are now or recently were in the habit of doing in a particular place. It may be that this particular habit is only of very recent origin or it may be one which has existed for a long time. If it be one regularly and ordinarily practised by the inhabitants of the place where the tenure exists there would be 'usage' within the meaning of the section.(5)

Ordinarily speaking a witness must, in his exam nation-in-chief, speak to facts only, "but under this section he will be allowed to give his opinion as to the existence of the general right or custom. He will not be confined to instances in which he has personally known the right or custom exercised as a matter of fact. Custom is not a matter to be submitted to the senses. It is

<sup>(1)</sup> See pp. 164-166, ante

<sup>(2)</sup> Field, Ev., 349; Cunningham, Ev., 194 (3) See pp. 164-166, ante.

<sup>(4)</sup> Sarvatullah Sarkar v. Pran Nath, 26 C. 184, 187 (1898), following Dalglish v. Guzuffer Hassain, 23 C., 427 (1896); Fitzhardings v. Purcell (1908). 2 Ch . 139; & Bajrangs Singh v. Mano. Larnika Balah Singh (1909), L. R. J. A., 35.

<sup>(5) /6</sup> The distinction between custom and usage has been said to be that "usage is a fact and custom is a law. There can be usage without custom, but not custom without usage. Usage is inductive, based on consent of persons in a locality. Custom is deductive, making established local usage a law" Wharton, $ 965. See notes to s. 13. ante.

made up of an aggregated repetition of the same fact, whenever similar conditions arise; and though a bare opinion is worth nothing without we can ascertain the data on which it is founded, yet it is always to be remembered that section 51 is to be read with this section, and that the grounds for the witness's opinions are sure to be cheited in cross-examination, even if they ordinary in Molussal practice. The Explanation excludes private rights from the operation of this section. Opinion or reputation evidence is not receivable to prove such rights. They must be proved by facts, such as acts of ownership. This kind of evidence is admissible to disprove as well as to prove a general right or custom."(1) Majib-ul-arz or village-papers made in pursuance of Regulation VII of 1822, regularly entered and kept in the office of the Collector and authenticated by the signatures of the officers who made them were held to be admissible, under section 35, in order to prove a custom. The Privy Council further put it as a query, whether they were not also admissible under the present section as the record of opinion as to the existence of such custom by persons likely to know of it, or under the following section (2) And the Prvy Council held them to beso admissible under this section in the undermentioned case.(3) In a suit by the landlords to avoid the sale of an occurrent operation of the such as a constant of the such as a constant of the section in the undermentioned case.(3) In a suit by the landlords to avoid the sale of an occurrent of the section in the undermentioned case.(3) In a suit by the landlords to avoid the sale of an occurrent of the such as a constant of the suc

In the underment oned sut(5) also the plantifis by virtue of pulm settlements sought to obtain khas possession of certain jote laids which purported to have been conveyed by the jotedars, the first set of defendants, to the second set of defendants, although there was no custom or usage in the village recognizing the transferability of occupancy-rights. Held that in order to establish usage under ss. 178, 183, of the Bengal Tenancy Act, it was not necessary to require proof of its existence for any length of time. Held also that the statement made by the persons who were in a position to know the existence of a custom or usage in their locality were admissible under this section (6)

49. When the Court has to form an opinion as to—the usages and tenets of any body of men or family,(7)

the constitution and government of any religious or charitable foundation, or

(1) Norton, Et., 227 'The opinions of persons likely to know alout village-rights to partage, to use of paths, water-courses, or ferrest to collect fuel, to use tanks and hathing ghats, mercantle usage and local customs, would be relevant under this section' Cunningham, Ev.

(2) Lekraj Kuar v Mahpal Singh, 7 I A, 63, 71 (1879), 5 C, 744

(3) Museamat Lall v Murls Dhur, 10 C W N,

(4) Dalglish v. Guzuffer Hassain, 23 C. 427
(1896), followed in Seriatullah Sarkar v. Pran. Nath, 26 C. 184 (1895)
(5) Sarvatullah, Sarkar v. Pran. Nath, 26 C.

(1899)

(6) "For example, a person who had been in the habit of writing out deeds of sale, or one who had been seeing transfers frequently made, would certainly be in a position to give his opinion whether there was a custom or usage in that particular locality and we think that the opinion of such persons would be admissible [under this section] '16, 187, 188

(7) See Lekraj Kuar v. Mahpal Sing, 7. L. A., 13, 71 (1879). 5C, 744, Caruradhwapa Prasad v. Narabji Partab v. Indorjit Partab, 2. All. L. J., 720, 732 (1904).

Opinion as to usages, tenets, &c. when rele the meaning of words or terms used in particular districts or by particular classes of people, the opinions of persons having special means of knowledge thereon, are relevant facts.(1)

Principle.—On such questions the opinions of persons having special means of knowledge are the best evidence.

- s. 3 ("Court')
  s. 3 ("Relevant")
  s. 5 (Exidence as to technical expressions, etc.)
- s. 3 (" Fact.") s. 51 (Grounds of opinion.)
  - 3 (That a man holds a certain openion is s. 60 (Evidence of opinion must be a "fact") direct.)
- s. 91 Prov. (5) (Usage and custom in contracts.)

Rogers' Expert Testimony, §§ 117, 118; Norton, Ev., 228; Field, Ev., 350, Cunningham, Ev., 194.

COMMENTARY.

Opinions as to usages, tenets, etc.

Under this section a witness may give his 'opinion' upon-(a) Theusages of any body of men. This will include usages of trade and agriculture, mercantile usage, and any other usage common to a body of men, and the opinions of persons experienced therein will be received in evidence. "Usage is proved by witnesses testifying of its existence and uniformity from their knowledge obtained by observation of what is practised by themselves and others in the trade to which it relates. But their conclusions or inferenses as to its effect, either upon the contract or its legal title or rights of parties is not competent to show the character or force of the usage. (2) The section only requires that the persons testifying should have "special means of knowledge." It does not in any manner limit the character of such special means of knowledge which may be derived only from the witness's own business if that has been sufficiently extensive and long continued,(3) or from his knowledge of the same or different business carried on by others if he has been connected with such business. (4) So it has been held that a London stockbroker is a competent witness as to the course of business of London Bankers (5) A person may be competent to testify as to the usage which prevails in a certain business, without himself being engaged in that business. So that when the question was as to the custom of the New York Banks in paying the cheques of dealers, it was held proper to call as witnesses persons who were not employed in Banks.(6) On the issue whether an alleged commercial usage exists, a witness may be asked to describe how, under the usages in force, a transaction like the one in question would be conducted by all the parties thereto from its inception to its conclusion.(7) Usage may annex incidents to a contract with the banks, and had knowledge of the ordimary course of dealing with them. There is no necessity for showing a man to be an expert in banking in order to prove a usage. He should know what the usage is, and then he is competent to testify whether he be a lander, or employed in a bank, or a dealer with banks. There is no reason why a dealer should not have a smuch knowledge in such a subject as a person employed in a bank." Bogerts, op. etc.

(7) Karshaw v. Bright, 115 Mass , 361 (Amer.)-

<sup>(1)</sup> See also generally, as to this section, the Notes to s. 13 and Chapter VI, post.
(2) Haskins v. Harren, 115 Mass., 514, 535

(Amer.), cited in Rogers' Expert Testimony,

<sup>(3)</sup> Rogers, op eit

<sup>(4) 16</sup>

<sup>(5)</sup> Adams v Peters, 2 C. & K., 722

<sup>(6)</sup> Criffs v. Rice, 1 Hilton, 1 N Y, 184 (Amer.), in which it was said: "" Although not employed in banking business, the witnesses were dealers.

which are not repugnant to or inconsistent with its express terms.(1) The testimony of those engaged in a particular business that they never heard of an usage is admissible.(2) This section deals with 'opinion': specific facts as to usages are provable under the 13th section, ante. (b) Tenets of any body of men. This will include any opinion, principle, dogma, or doctrine which is held or maintained as truth. It will apply to religion, politics, etc. (c) Usages of a family. Such for instance, as the custom of primogeniture in the families of ancient zemindars; any peculiar course of descent; the usages of native convert families and the like. (3) Custom is of two kinds,kulachar, or family custom, and desachar, or local custom.(4) (d) Tenets of a family.(e) The constitution and government of any religious or charitable foundation. As to the Acts and Regulations touching such foundations. see note (5) (f) The meaning of words or terms used in particular districts or by particular classes of people. Under section 98, post, evidence may be given with reference to a document to show the meaning of 'technical, local, and provincial expressions, abbreviations, and of words used in a peculiar sense.' For this purpose, as for others, the opinions of persons having special means of knowledge on the subject would be the best evidence.(6) portion of the section is particularly valuable in a country like India, in which there are so many different languages, and in which justice is largely administered by Englishmen in languages other than English. (7) A Judge may also consult a dictionary as to the meaning of a word, as to which see the penultimate paragraph of section 57, post. This section, like the others, must be read with section 51, post, for the opinion, without the grounds upon which it is based, may be of comparatively little value. (8) By section 60 if oral evidence refers to an opinion or the grounds on which that opinion is held, it must be the evidence of the person who holds that opinion on those grounds. Thus it is admissible evidence for a living witness to state his opinion or the existence of a family custom and to state as the grounds of that opinion information derived from deceased persons, and the weight of the evidence would depend on the position and character of the witness and of the persons on whose statements he has formed his opinion. But it must be the expression of the independent opinion based on hearsay and not mere repetition of hearsay.(9)

50. When the Court has to form an opinion as to the rela-opinion on tionship(10) of one person to another, the opinion, expressed by relation when conduct, as to the existence of such relationship, of any person relevant who, as a member of the family or otherwise, has special means of knowledge on the subject, is a relevant fact : Provided that such opinion shall not be sufficient to prove a marriage in proceedings under the Indian Divorce Act(11) or

<sup>(1)</sup> S. 92. Proviso (5), post. (2) Evansville, etc., R. R. Co. v. Young, 28

Ind , 516 (Amer ) (3) See Garuradhuaya Prasad v. Superundhwejs Praud, 23 A , 37 (1900), v. post

<sup>(4)</sup> See Notes to s. 13, ante, Field, Ev, 112-114. (5) Beng, Reg. XIX of 1810, Mad. Reg. VII

of 1817; Act VII (Bom ) of 1865, Act XX of (6) Cunningham, Ev., 194; Norton, Ev., 228

See notes to a. 98, post. (7) Field, Ev., 350.

<sup>(8)</sup> Norton, Ev., 228.

<sup>(9)</sup> Garuradhuaya Prasad v. Superundhuaya Prasad, 23 A , 37, 51, 52 (1900), s. c , 5 C W. X . 33

<sup>(10)</sup> It will be noted that the words " by blood, marriage or adoption" have not been inserted after the word "relationship" by Act XVIII of 1872, as m the case of a 32, cls (5) and (6), Illustration (a) refers to the case of marriage, and ellustration (b) to relationship by blood. Relationship by adoption is not expressly mentioned but is no doubt included within this section. See Notes to s. 114, with reference to Hindu and Mahomedan Law.

<sup>(11)</sup> Act IV of 1869.

in prosecutions under sections 494, 495, 497, or 498 of the Indian Penal Code.(1)

Illustrations.

- (a) The question is, whether A and B were married.
  - The fact that they were usually received and treated by their friends as husband and wife, is relevant.
- (b) The question is, whether A was the legitimate son of B
- The fact that A was always treated as such by members of the family, is relevant.

Principle —As the opinion in this case is to be evidenced by the conduct of the witness, there is an additional guarantee for its trustworthiness, besides that of a special knowledge of the subject.(2) The provison is enacted because strict proof is required in all criminal cases,(3) as also in proceedings under the Divorce Act, in which marriage is the main fact to be proved before jurisdiction can be shown or relief granted (4)

s. 3 (" Court ")

- s. 32, Ct. (5) (Statement on relationship burnon-vertness)
- s. 3 (That a man holds a certain opinion is a 'fact.')
- 8 32, CL. (6) (Statement relating to relationship in family document, etc.)

s, 3 (" Relevant ")

s 51 (Grounds of opinion.)

Taylor, Ex., §§ 649. 578; Norton, Ev., 229, 230, Field, Ev., 350, 351, 192, 193; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 93-94, 338, Steph. Dig., Art. 53; Act. IV of 1869 (Indian Dirorce); Penal Code, ss. 494, 495, 497, 498.

COMMENTARY.

Opinion on relationship-

So far as opinion is expressed by conduct, that is by evidence of specific facts of the character mentioned in the illustrations, this section is in accordance with English law upon the subject, according to which "family conduct,"—such as the tact recognition of relationship, and the distribution and devolution of property,—is frequently received as evidence from which the opinion and belief of the family may be inferred, and as resting ultimately on the same basis as evidence of family tradition. For, since the principal question in pedigree cases turns on the parentage or descent of an individual, it is obviously material in order to resolve this question, to ascertain how he was treated to the same of the same transfer of the same case, Sir James Mansfield remarked ught up the party as his legitimate son, this amounts to a daily assertion that the son is legitimate. (5) So the

<sup>(1)</sup> Act XLV of 1860, v. post (2) Norton, Ev., 229; and see Taylor, Ev., $\frac{1}{2}$ 578, 649, and notes, post

<sup>(3)</sup> R. v. Kallu, 5 A, 233 (1882)

<sup>(4)</sup> See R. v. Pitambar Sangh, 5 C, 586 (1879): Norton, Ew., 233 "The provision smeeted because in divorce and bigamy case the marriage must be strictly proved, that is, by the evidence of a witness who as perent at the marriage, or for the production of the register, or examined empy of the register, or of such other record as fit law of a country, or custom of a class, may prevale." 19 concealment of the birth of a child from the husband. (1) the subsequent treatment of such child by the person who, at the time of its conception, was living in a state of adultery with the mother, - and the fact that the child and its descendants assumed the name of the adulterer and had never been recognised in the family as the legitimate offspring of the husband,-are circumstances that will go far to rebut the presumption of legitimacy, which the law raised in favour of the issue of a married woman. (2) Again, if the question be whether a person, from whom the claimant traces his descent, was the son of a particular testator, the fact that all the members of the family appear to have been mentioned in the will, but that no notice is taken of such person, is strong evidence to show, either that he was not the son, or at least that he had died without issue before the date of the will(3) and if the object be to prove that a man left no children, the production of his will, in which no notice is taken of his family and by which his property is bequeathed to strangers or collateral relations is cogent evidence of his having died childless."(4) A person claiming as an illegitimate son must establish his alleged paternity like any other disputed question of relationship and can, of course, rely upon statements of deceased persons under the fifth clause of s. 32, upon opinion expressed by conduct under this section and also upon such presumptions of fact as may be warranted by the evidence.(5) The section is not limited to the opinion of members of the family. The opinion may be of any person who, as such member or otherwise, has special means of knowledge on the subject. When the legitimacy of a person in possession has been acquiesced in for a considerable time, and is afterwards impeached by a party, who has a right to question the legitimacy, the defendant in order to defend his status, is allowed to invoke against the claimant every presumption which arises from long recognition of his legitimacy by members of his family (6) That portion of section 60 which provides that the person who holds an opinion must be called does not apply to the evidence dealt with by this section, namely, opinion expressed by conduct, which, as an external perceptible fact, may be proved either by the testimony of the person himself whose opinion is so evidenced, or by that of some other person acquainted with the facts which evidence such opinion. As the testimony in both cases relates to such external facts and is given by persons personally acquainted with them, the testimony is in each case direct within the meaning of the earlier portion of that section (7) According to English law general reputation (except in petitions for damages by reason of adultery and in indictments for bigamy where strict proof of marriage 18 required) is admissible to establish the fact of parties being married

<sup>(5) 4</sup> Camp, 416, Wharton, hr.; 211. See also as to treatment and acknowledgment under Mahomedon Law, see Amere Ali's Mahomedon Law, H. 215, 240 Ed. (1894), Ballie's Digest of Mahomedon Law (1875), Part I, 400, Part II, 293; 104d. Err, 341, and case cited, ib, at pp. 161, 162, and Addal Renal's Ago Mahomed, 21 C, 565 (1893); e. c., 21 I A, 56. (Acknowledgment in the sense meant by that law is required, rsy, of antereduct right, and not a more recognition of paternitry Airquister Mahom.

<sup>(1)</sup> Hargara v. Hargara, 2 C & Kir., 701.
(2) Goodrojk v. Sozi, 4 T. R., 326, per Abbarst, J. Morris v. Davies 5 Cl & Fin., 163, 241, et eq., Banbary Perego, App. n. e to Les Marchants Rep. of Gorden Perego, 324,
423, 1 Sim & St., 183, e. c, R. v. Manyfidd, 1
Cl. 444 Torontaded Perego, 10 Cl. & Fin.
228 Attellay v. Sprogt, 33 L. J., Ch., 345 "That verdence will be admissable in India under s.
9, or 11, ante, and under v. 50, post "Pc41,
Ev., 192, 197 "Ev., 192, 197 "C.

<sup>(3)</sup> Tracy Verrage, 10 (1 & Fm., 100 per Lord Campbell Robson v. Att. Genl., ed., 498—500, Per Lord Cottenham See Taylor, Ev., $ 620 af fn

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor Ev., § 649, Hungate v Gascagne 2 Phill., 25; 2 Coop., 414, a. c., De Ross Perroge, 2 Coop., 540; and are as examples of this class of training, Baylo Bahadur v. Dhupjudor Bahadur

<sup>17</sup> A 456, 462 (1895), Mathemicany Jogotera v. icanoids vera r. Felaya, 12 M I A, 206 (1895), s. c., 11 W. B, P. C, 62 B. L. R, P. C, 15, Kenedro Nath v. Jogendro Nath, 14 V I. A., 75 (1871) s. c., 15 W. R. P. C., 41. Maharajak Pertab v. Maharajak Sabboo, 3 C, 626 (1872), s. c., 1 C, L. R., 113, 4 I. A, 228.

<sup>(5)</sup> Gopalasomi Chetto v Aruna Chellam, 27 M., 32 34, 35 (1903).

<sup>(6)</sup> Rajendro Nath v. Jogendro Nath, 14 M T A , 67 (1871)

<sup>(7)</sup> In the R v. Subbruyon, 9 M., 9, 11 (1883), it seems to be suggested by Hutchma, J., that proof of the opinion by other than the person holding it can only be given when the latter is dead or cannot be called. But if this be so, it is submitted that such a limitation is morrest, for amospit others, the reason given above.

Accordingly, general evidence of reputation in the neighbourhood, even when unsupported by facts, or when partially contradicted by evidence of a contrary repute, has been held receivable in proof of marriage. (1) But the present section is limited to opinion as expressed by conduct, and there appears to be no other provision in the Act under which such evidence of general reputation would be receivable.

GROUNDS OF OPINION.

Divorce or Criminal Proceedings

The proviso 's not sufficient to prove -סיננו secutions for ce f*the Evidence Act have endeavoured, in dealing with this subject, exactly to follow the English law, according to which in an indictment for bigamy the first marriage, or in proceedings founded upon adultery, the marriage must be proved with the same strictness as any other material fact. In the case of .: 1 is as essential an ele-31.00 \ d the provisions of this ٠, . · n · offence, as in bigamy, adultery and the enticing of married women, the fact of the marriage must be strictly proved.(2) And this is so not only having regard to the provisions of this section, but to the principle that strict proof should be required in all criminal cases (3) "In the English Courts a marriage is usually proved by the production of the parish or other register, or a certain certified extract therefrom , but, if celebrated abroad, it may be proved by any person who was 20 11 11 1 1 · · ad, from which the jury the law of the country · . . 1y was performed by a person appearing and officiating as a priest, and that it was understood by the parties to be the marriage-ceremony according to the rites and the customs of the foreign country, would be sufficient presumptive evidence of it-(see R v. Inhabitants of Brampton), (4) so as to throw on the defendant the onus of impugning its validity (Archbold, p. 925, Bigamy). And even a marriage in England may be proved by any person who was actually present and saw the ceremony performed; it is not necessary to prove its registration or the license or publication of banns. [Ibid, quoting R v. Allison, (5) R. v. Manuaring. (6)1"(7)

Grounds of opinion, when relevant

51. Whenever the opinion of any living person is relevant, the grounds on which such opinion is based are also relevant

(1) Taylor, Ev., § 578. So the uncorroburst-ed statement of a single witness, who did not appear to be re-aited to the parties, or to live near them, or to know them intimately, but who asserted that he had been they were married was held sufficient printf [sen., to warrant the jury in finding the marries, the adverse party not having cross examined the winters, nor controverted the fact by prior if Euser v. Morgas, 2 C & J., 430.

(2) R. v. Pitambar Steph, 5 C., 388, F. B. (1870); 6 C. R. R. 507 (three see must be taken to have overruled. R. v. Wazuvo, 8 B. L. R., App. 63 (1872); followed in R. v. Sariad Ali, 13 C. L. R., 125 (1883); R. v. Kallar, 5 A., 233 (1883); discussed in R. v. Nathersjee, 9 M. 9 (1883), an back Hatchina J., and that if the learned judges meant to decide in the preceding casee that a husband or wide is precluded from proving his or her marriage he expressed his downt. It is whinfitted that the fearned judges.

did not so decide, but that a vagor assertion by cather to the effect 'I am married,' or the like be insufficient proof, in fact the statement assumes the very question to be proved. The cutterior of a railed morriago is a mixed question of law and fact. A witness therefore must aprak to the fact which are faul to constitute the marrings so that the Court may determine whether what the vatness states to have taken place did take place in fact, and, if so, whether it constituted a marriage in not of law. In this country there is no statiotory marrings law for natives and the validity of any particular marriago dependendly on the unages of the caste to which the patters belong (v. 8, at p. 11).

(3) R. v. Kallu, 5 A , 233 (1882)

(4) 10 East., 282.

(5) R. & R., 109

(6) Dears & B , 132; sc , 26 L J. (M. C.), 10

(7) R. v. Subbarayan, 9 M., 9, 11 (1885).

Illustration.

An expert may give an account of experiments(1) performed by him for the purpose of forming his oninion.

Principle.—A test of the value of such evidence is thus provided. The correctness of the opinion or otherwise can better be estimated in many instances when the grounds upon which it is besed are known. The value of the opinion may be greatly increased or diminished by the reasons on which it is founded.(2)

ss. 45, 47-50 (Opinions when relevant.) s. 3 (" Relevant.") Lawson's Expert Ev., 231; Field, Ev., 351; Cunningham, Ev., 196.

COMMENTARY.

The present section applies to the opinions of "any living persons" Grounds of whether those opinions be the opinion of "experts" under ss. 15, 46 or of others under ss. 47, 48, 49. Quare-whether the section is applicable to opinion "expressed by conduct" under s. 50. The section to some extent repeats the principles involved in s. 46. The present section, however, deals with the subjective grounds upon which the opinion is held which can only generally be proved by the testimony of the persons whose opinion is offered, whereas s. 46 deals with objective external facts provable either by that person or others which support or rebut the opinion of an expert. With regard to the latter it has been said(3) that the consideration that the opinions may be given on the assumption of facts not proved is a reason why the grounds and reasons of the opinion should be stated, in order that the Court and jury may see that it is not founded on hearsay, general rumour, or facts of which some evidence may have been given, but being controlled by other evidence are not found true by the Court or the jury. This inquiry is perhaps more frequently mode in cross-examination, but it is also competent evidence in chief (4)

v. ante, p. 412.
 I icki, Ev., 351, Canningham, Ev., 196;
 Lawson's Expert Ev., 231.

ANSON'S Expet Es., 231. (4) 15., (7) Dickinson v. Inhabitants of Flichburg 13 347.

Gray, 555 (Amer), cited in Lawson, Ev., 232, 233.

<sup>(4)</sup> Ib., we also Physion, Ev. 3rd Ld., 346 347.

CHARACTER, WHEN RELEVANT.

The rules with regard to evidence of character(1) are divisible firstly into those which concern the character of witnesses, and those which concern character of parties.

In respect of the first, the rule is, that the character of a witness, whether party or not, is always material as affecting his credit. The credibility of a witness is always in issue.(2) For, as witnesses are the media through which the Court is to come to its conclusion on the matters submitted to it, it is always most material and important to ascertain whether such media are trustworthy. and as a test of this, questions amongst others, touching character, are allowed to be put to the witnesses in the cause.(3)

In respect of the character of a party two distinctions must be drawn, namely, between the cases when the character is in issue and is not in issue. and when the cause is civil or criminal. When a party's general character is itself in issue, whether in a civil(4) or criminal(5) proceeding, proof must necessarily be received of what that general character is, or is not (6) But when general character is not in issue but is tendered in support of some other issue. it is as a general rule, excluded. So in civil proceedings evidence of character to prove conduct imputed is declared by the Act to be irrelevant (7) The two exceptions to this rule are, that in civil proceedings evidence of character as affecting damages, is admissible; (8) and in criminal proceedings, for reasons which will be found considered in the Notes to sections 53 and 54, the fact that the person accused is of a good character, is relevant, but the fact that he has a bad character is, except in certain specified cases, irrelevant.(9) Evidence of character in criminal proceedings "is, generally speaking, only a makeweight, though there are two classes of cases in which it is highly important .-(a) Where conduct is equivocal or even presumably criminal. In this case evidence of character may explain conduct and rebut the presumptions which it might raise in the absence of such evidence. A man is found in possession of stolen goods. He says he found them and took charge of them to give them to the owner If he is a man of very high character this may be believed. (b) When a charge rests on the direct testimony of a single witness, and on the bare denial of it by the person charged. A man is accused of an indecent assault by a woman with whom he was accidentally left alone He denies it. Here a high character for morality on the part of the accused person would be of great importance."(10) In one case the character of the party prosecuting is made relevant by the Act. When a man is prosecuted for rape or an attempt to ravish, it may be shown that the prosecutrix was of generally immoral character.(11)

<sup>(1)</sup> As to the meaning of the term "character," see s 55, Explanation, post, and the Notes to that

<sup>(2)</sup> Best, Ev , $ 263.

<sup>(3)</sup> See to. 145-153, post

<sup>(4)</sup> See Notes to s. 52, post. (5) See s. 54, Explanation (1), and Notes to

<sup>(6)</sup> Taylor, Ev. $ 355, Best, Ev. $ 258

<sup>(7)</sup> S. 52, post

<sup>(8)</sup> S. 55, post. (9) Sa 53, 54.

<sup>(10)</sup> Steph Introd , 167, 168,

<sup>(11)</sup> S. 155, cl (4), post,

52. In civil cases the fact that the character of any person in civil concerned is such as to render probable or improbable any con-recter to duct imputed to him is irrelevant, except in so far as such duct imputed to him facts otherwise relevant. character appears from facts otherwise relevant.

Principle. - Evidence of character is excluded in civil cases as being too remote, and at the best affording but slight assistance towards the determination of the issue.(1) Such evidence is foreign to the point in issue and only calculated to create prejudice.(2)

- 8. 55 (Meaning of term "character.")
- 8. 140 (Witnesses to character may be crossexamined and re-examined.)
- s. 3, ILLUST. (e) (" Fact. ') s. 55 (Character as affecting damages.)

Steph. Dig., Art. 55; Taylor, Ev., §§ 354, 355; Wharton, Ev., §§ 47-56; Roscoc, N. P. Ev., § 87; Best, Ev., § 256, et seq., Norton, Ev., 230.

COMMENTARY.

The meaning of the term "character," as used in this and the following Character section, is defined in the Explanation to section 55, post, which must be read in civil in conjunction with the present section. (3) The term "persons concerned"; cases is vague, but this section, it is presumed, refers to the character of parties to the suit, and not to the character of witnesses, (4) whose credibility is always in issue (5) and represents the old state of the law according to which, in actions unconnected with character, the character of either of the parties is irrelevant, and evidence introduced with the sole object of exposing the character of a party to the view of the Court is excluded. (6)

But under this section, as under section 54, a distinction must be drawn between cases (a) where the character of a party is in issue, and (b), where it is not in issue, but is tendered in support of some other issue (6)

In case (a), the party's general character being itself in issue, proof must necessarily be received of what the general character is or is not (7) This section only excludes evidence of character for the purpose of rendering probable or improbable any conduct imputed to him So where the question in a suit was whether a governess was "competent, lady-like and good tempered" while in her employer's service, witnesses were allowed to assert or deny her general competency, good manners and temper (8) And in such cases it is not only competent to give general evidence of the character of the party with reference to the issue raised, but even to enquire into particular facts tending to establish it (9) These cases, however, can scarcely be deemed an exception to the rule of exclusion; for it is clear that, as in cumulative offences. such as treason, or a conspiracy to carry on the business of common cheats, many acts are given in evidence because such crimes can be proved in no other way; so where general behaviour of a party is impeached, it is only by general evidence that the charge can be rebutted (10)

In case (b), where character is not in issue but is tendered in support of some other issue, it is excluded as irrelevant, except so far as it affects the

(I) Taylor, Er , § 354 , v note, post (2) Roscoe, N P Et , 87

<sup>(3)</sup> v. Notes to 8 55, port

<sup>(4)</sup> Norton, Ev , 330

<sup>(5)</sup> Beat, Er , § 263 see as to witnesses, se 145, 146, 153, post.

<sup>(6)</sup> Norton, Ev., 230.

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Ev., 355 , Best, Ev., 258 , Roscoe,

N -P , Ev , 87

<sup>(8)</sup> Fountain v Bordle, 3 Q B , 5. And see Brine v Bazalgette, 3 Ex R , 692 , R, v Wear.

ing, 5 Esp. 41

<sup>(9)</sup> Best, Et , $ 258; Wharton, Et . $ 48 (10) Taylor, Et , § 353. and see Best, Et .

amount of damages.(1) As evidence of general character, can, at best, afford only glimmering light where the question is whether a party has done a certain act or not, its admission for such a purpose is exclusively confined to criminal proceedings.(2) in which it was originally received in favorem vita.(3) So in an action of electment brought by the heir-at-law against a devisee, where the defendant was charged with having imposed a fictitious will on the testator on extremis, he was not permitted to call witnesses to prove his general good character; and a similar rule was laid down in an action for slander, where the words charged the plaintiff with stealing money from the defendant, though the latter, by pleading truth as a justification, had put the character of the former directly in jeopardy.(4) So also in a divorce case the husband cannot, in disproof of a particular act of cruelty, tender evidence of his general character for humanity.(5)

ter appears from facts otherwise relevant

Except in That is to say when facts relevant, otherwise than for the purpose of so far as such charace showing character, are proved, and those facts, in addition to their primary inferences, raise others concerning the character of the parties to the suit they become relevant not only for the purposes for which they were directly tendered, but also for the purpose of showing the character of the parties concerned. The Court may, of course, form its own conclusion as to the character of the parties of witnesses from their conduct as exhibited by the relevant facts proved in the case and it is perfectly legitimate for a Court to draw, from the opinion which it has so formed of the character of a party or witness, the inference that he might probably enough have been guilty of the conduct imputed to him or that he is not worthy of credit (6)

In Criminal cases pre vious good character relevant

53. In criminal proceedings the fact that the person accused is of a good character is relevant.

Previous bad charac-ter not relevant except in reply

54. In criminal proceedings the fact that the accused person has a bad character is irrelevant, unless evidence has been given that he has a good character, in which cases it become relevant.

Explanation 1.—This section does not apply to case in which the bad character of any person is itself a fact in issue.

Explanation 2.- A previous conviction is relevant as evidence of bad character.(7)

Principle - Evidence of good character is allowed to be given on grounds of humanity for the purpose of raising a presumption of innocence, and as tending to explain conduct; (8) but evidence of bad character is in general excluded as being too remote, (9) and as tending to prejudice(10) the accused whose guilt must be established by proof of the facts with which he is charged. and not by presumptions to be raised from the character which he bears.(11) The exceptions are, firstly, where the character is itself a fact in issue, as distinguished from cases where evidence of character is tendered in support

<sup>(1)</sup> See s. 55, post.

<sup>(2) 8 53,</sup> post.

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 354

<sup>(4)</sup> Ib., and cases there ested.

<sup>(5)</sup> Narracott v. Narracott, 33 L. J. P. & M. 61 : Apri sec Jones v. James, 18 L. T. N. S . 243-

<sup>(6)</sup> Norton, Et., 230,

<sup>(7)</sup> This action was substituted for the original,

a 54 by Act Ill of 1891, a 6.

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev , § 352; Stephen's General I sew of the Criminal Law of England, pp. 311,

<sup>(9)</sup> Stephen's op. ett. 399, 310 (10) R. v. Bylust Nath, 10 W.R., Cr., 17 (1868);

R v. Aartick Chunder, 14 C., 721 (1887) (11) R. v. Tuberfield, 10 Cov. 1.

of some other issue. Being a fact in issue it must necessarily be proved. Secondly, where the accused has by giving evidence of good character challenged enquiry, it is as fair that such evidence, like any other, should be open to rebuttal, as it is unjust that he should have the advantage of a character which in point of fact is undeserved.(1)

- s. 3, Illust. (e) (" Fact.")
  s 3 (" Relevant.")
- s. 14. Explanation (2), Illust. (b) (Releiancy of previous consistion.)
- s. 55, Explanation (Meaning of term s
- 3 (" Evidence.")
- "character.)" s. 3 ("Fact in issue.")
  s. 155, Cl. (4) (Character of prosecutrix.) b. 140 (Witness to character may be cross-
- examined and re-examined.)

Taylor, Ev., §§ 349—353; Wharton, Cr. Ev., §§ 57, 84; Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 94, 95, 12th Ed., 88; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 144; Steph Dig., Art. 56; Best, Ev., § 256, et seq., Wills, Ev., 56; Norton, Ev., 231—233; Stephen's General View of the Criminal Law of England loc. cit., Cr. Pr. Code, ss. 310, 311, 221, 511; Penal Code, s. 75; Act VI of 1864, ss. 3, 4; Act V of 1869, Art. 117.

COMMENTARY.

Section 53 is in accordance with the English rule. "Though general evidence of bad character is not admitted against the prisoner, general evidence food character is always admitted and in the favour. This would, no doubt, be an inconsistency justifiable, or at least intelligible, on the ground of the humanity of English law, if such evidence were not often of great importance as tending to explain conduct. A loses his watch; B is found in possession of it next day, and say he found it, and was keeping it for the owner. If A and B are strangers, and if B can call no one to speak to his character, this is a very poor excuse; but if B is a friend of A's and of the same position in life, and if he calls many respectable people, who have known him from childhood and say he is a perfectly honest man, the story becomes highly probable. If the same thing happened to a thoroughly respectable, well-established inhabitant of the town, say, for instance, to the Rector of the Parish, being a man of first rate character and large fortune, no one would think twice of it. These illustrations give the true theory of evidence of character. Judges frequently tell juries that evidence of character cannot be of use where the case is clearly

This risoner

ntly of

tuse of

it.' Evidence of character would thus be superfluous in every case. 'The true distinction is that evidence of character may explain conduct, but cannot alter lacts.'(3) Where the act done is in itself indifferent, or, in other words, where the act amounts to an offence only by reason of being done with a vicious cell in character, who has stolen us pairs of sill, stockings;  $^{11}$  and see Hydy,  $^{12}$ ,  $^{12}$ , observation to the jury in R is . Tursor, 6 Hos. 5: Tr., 613, R v. As  $^{11}$  Makesed, 8 Bs., 223, at p. 227 (1884) [no importance can be attached to evalence of this kind when the case against the accused is clear.]

(i) c notes, por , Will, Ex., 57.
(2) "When the point at some is whether the accused has committed a particular criminal act, existence of his general point character is obvious be entitled to little weight, unless some resconsible doubt exists as to his guilt; and, therefore, in this exists also will the part be advised to act upon such evidence." Taylor, Fr., § 331, see also Notton, E. 231, in which the case is given of an Irish Judge who summed up thus "Gentlement of the Jury; there stands a boye, of most result."

(3) htephen's General Frem of the Criminal Law of England, pp. 311, 312; and one Best, Ev., § 262, Taxlor, Ev., 231, Wharton, (Y. Lv., § 60, intention, evidence of character is valuable as to the probability or otherwise of the existence of such an intention. Where, on the other hand the intention is not of the essence of the act, such evidence may be of use, only if it be doubtful whether the prisoner was the person who committed the act.(1) Evidence of the good character of the accused may be given either by cross-examining the witnesses for the prosecution, or by calling separate witnesses on behalf of the accused.(2) This section must be read in conjunction with the Explanation to section 55, post According to English and American law the character proved must be of the specific kind impeached as honesty where dishonesty is charged, good character in other respects being irrelevant.(3) and must relate to a period proximate to the date of the charge (4)

Previous bad character

By the provisions of section 54, evidence of bad character, except in reply, was rejected as irrelevant.(5) This section is in accordance with English law,(6) and its provisions were followed in India even before the enactment of this Act. (7) "A man's general bad character is a weak reason for believing that he was concerned in any particular criminal transaction, for it is a circumstance common to him and hundreds and thousands of other people, whereas the opportunity of committing the crime and facts immediately connected with it are marks which belong to very few, perhaps only to one or two persons. If general bad character is too remote, a fortiors, the particular transactions, of which that general bad character is the effect, are still further removed from proof: accordingly it is an inflexible rule of English Criminal Law to exclude evidence of such transactions ''(8) And when in England a person charged with an offence is called as a witness in his own defence in pursuance of the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898, he can only be cross-examined as to character subject to the provisions set out in that Act. It is sufficiently clear from this section that in criminal proceedings the fact that the accused person has a bad character is not relevant for the purpose of raising a general inference from such bad character that the accused person is likely to have committed the crime charged.(9)

This section, as originally framed, (10) allowed a previous conviction to be in all cases admissible in evidence against an accused person for the purpose

<sup>(1)</sup> Field, Ev., 353.

<sup>(2)</sup> Cf. s. 140, post.

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Ev. § 551, Wharton, Cr. Ev. § 60.
(4) R. v. Surendsen, 14 How. St. Tr., 596. "A man is not born a knave; there must be time to make him so, nor is he presently discovered after he becomes one."—tb., per Lord Holt.

<sup>(3)</sup> S. 54. R. v. Ram Saran, 8 A, 394, 314 18865, Norton, Ev., 272; R. Tuberfeld, 10 Cox., 1, Best, Ev., § 237, as to evalence in re-buttal, see Taylor, Ev., § 352; Best, Ev., § 261, 91, the subject is fully considered in R. v. Rosston, 34 L. J. M. C., 57.

<sup>(6)</sup> A. post, and see also Taylor, En. § 332, to this general rule the Statute 32 & 33 Ne., sapslya., 11, which allows evidence of persons convictions to be given in order to proce guilty knowledge in cases of receiving stolen goods, forms an exception: Taylor, En. § 3331 see R. Antel Chander, 14 C., 121 (1887).

<sup>(7)</sup> R. v. Gopal Thalaor, 6 W. R., Cr., 72 (1866), R v. Behary Dosadh, 7 W. R., Cr.

<sup>(1867),</sup> R. v. Phodchand, 8. W. R., Cr., 11 (1867); R. v. Bykuni Nath Banerjee, 10 W. R., Cr., 17 (1688). [Evolution of charter and privation conduct of a presence, leng matters of prejudice and not direct evidence of facts relevant to the charge against the prisoner ought not to be allowed to go to the Jury. R. v. Aulum Shetth, 10 W. R., Cr., 30 (1888).

<sup>(8)</sup> Stephen's General Trew of the Criminal Law of England, pp. 309, 310

<sup>(9)</sup> R. v. Alloomiga, 5 Bom. L. R., 805, 819 (1903), s. c., 28 B., 129 (1903)

<sup>(10)</sup> The original section ran as follows:

In criminal proceedings the fact that the accused prime has been pressonally consisted of any officee is relevant; but the fact that he has a bad character is irrelevant with as evaluate has been given that he has a good tharacter, in which case it of prejudicing him, and in so doing deliberately departed from the rule of English law already mentioned.(1) The framers of the Act gave as their reason for such departure that they were unable to see why a prisoner should not be prejudiced by such evidence if it was true.(2) In consequence of the decision of the Full Bench in the case of R. v. Kartick Chunder Das.(3) the present section was amended by Act III of 1891, so as to bring it into more general accordance with the English law on the same subject.(4) And now a previous conviction is not admissible against an accused person under this section, except where evidence of bad character is relevant, (5) t.e., (a) when evidence of bad character is admissible to rebut evidence given of good character, for here the accused challenges or invites enquiry, and the reply of a previous conviction by the prosecution is fair and legitimate enough ;(6) and(b) where the fact of bad character is itself a fact in issue, namely, where the charge itself implies the bad character of the accused. (7) But a previous conviction may be admissible otherwise than under this section. Thus, firstly, a previous' conviction is admissible in evidence in cases in which the accused is hable to enhanced punishment on account of having been previously convicted.(8) Secondly, where, upon the trial of a person accused of an offence, the previous commission by the accused of an offence is relevant within the meaning of section 14, ante, the previous conviction of such person is also a relevant fact. So it has been held that having regard to the character of the offence under s. 400 of the Penal Code (punishment for belonging to a gang of dacoits) previous commissions of dacoity are relevant under the fourteenth section; and convictions previous to the time specified in the charge or to the framing of the charge are relevant under the second explanation to that section : alter as to subsequent convictions.(9) Thirdly, a previous conviction may be admissible as a fact in issue or relevant otherwise than under section 14 or 54, as for example, under the eighth section as showing motive.(10)

becomes relevant. Explanation.—This section does not apply to cases in which the bad character of any person is itself a fact in issue.

(1) See R. v. Kartick Chander, 14 C., 721 (1887). Notwithstanding the express provisions in the original section, the Calcuta High Court in the earlier case of Robus Docada v. R., 5 C., 708 (1850), refused to allow a previous conviction to be given in evidence.

(2) See First Report of the Soliet Committee on the Endease Ellip, p.20, cited in R. v. Karrick Chandre, supera at p. 729. It was apparently also considered that in such cases the matter hal been reduced to legal certainty by the contribution, see R. v. Parkhader, I. Boom, H. C. R., 90 (1874). R. v. Ram Streas, 8 A., 204, 314 (1866); but as pointed out in Norten, Pr. 9. 11, the language or the original section was no wide as to include facts not relevant in any real-more of the word at all. For what bearing would a pressure coarsection for the that so on a question of grait for a charge of rape. And see I Phill, Pv. 606, 10th El, Best, Rv., 4, 209.

(3) 14 C, 72) (1887). See as to the effect of the decision R, v. Noba Agmar, 1 C. W. N., 146, 148 (1897).

(4) Ib; s. 14, sate. Explanation (2) and Plus.
(b) must be considered in dealing with the effect of this amendment, which, while removing the latitude relating to the introduction of evaluace of precious convictions which prevailed under this section as it originally stood, has yet not made such previous convictions wholly madmissible, v. post,

(5) S. 54, Explanation (2) cf. the following carlier cases as to previous convictions: R. v. Taksbordse Choder, T.W. R., Cr., 7 (1867); R. v. Photchand, 8 W. R., Cr., 11 (1867); R. v. Photchand, 8 W. R., Cr., 11 (1867); R. v. Daond v. R. 4, 5 C., 768 (1880).

(6) S. 54, Norton, Ev., 232, in England previous convetton is allowed to be given in reply in certain cases only; Roscov, Cv. Ev., 85, Physion, Ev., 3rd El., 146, Steph. Dig., Art. 38

(7) S. 54, Explanation (1), v. post

(8) See Cr. Pr. Cole, a. 310 [Not-ult-tanding anything in this section, evalueto of the persons countion may be given at the trial for the subsequent offence, if the fact of the previous convertion is relevant under the provisions of the Indian Federic Act, 1572, Act III of 1941, a. 91, Cr. Pr. Cole, a. 221; Parall Crist, a. 23, 4 V of 1964, a. 3, 4 (Winping Act), Act V of 1964, at 3, 4 (Winping Act), Act V of 1964, at 121 (Todaba Articles of War), Cr. Pr. Cole, a. 531 (mode of proving persons convenient).

(9) E. v. Noba Kumar, I C. W. N., 146 (1897);
v. 14. Explanation (2) and Illust (4) [added by Act III of 1891, s. 1], see p. 187, sair., arrived (4), supra.

(10) S. 43, sate, are Illustrature (e, and U); it cannot be east that these two Elustrature are mtention, evidence of character is valuable as to the probability or otherwise of the existence of such an intention. Where, on the other hand the intention is not of the essence of the act, such evidence may be of use, only if it be doubtful whether the prisoner was the person who committed the act.(1) Evidence of the good character of the accused may be given either by cross-amining the witnesses for the prosecution, or by calling separate witnesses on behalf of the accused.(2) This section must be read in conjunction with the Explanation to section 55, post According to English and American law the character proved must be of the specific kind impeached as honesty where dishonesty is charged, good character in other respects being irrelevant.(3) and must relate to a period proximate to the date of the charge.(4)

Previous bad character

> lead a step towards substantiation of guilt. This principle has been carried so far that, on a prosecution for an infamous offence, evidence of an admission by the accused, that he was addicted to the commission of similar offences. was rejected as irrelevant.(5) This section is in accordance with English law.(6) and its provisions were followed in India even before the enactment of this Act. (7) "A man's general bad character is a weak reason for believing that he was concerned in any particular criminal transaction, for it is a circumstance common to him and hundreds and thousands of other people, whereas the opportunity of committing the crime and facts immediately connected with it are marks which belong to very few, perhaps only to one or two persons. If general bad character is too remote, a fortion, the particular transactions, of which that general bad character is the effect, are still further removed from proof : accordingly it is an inflexible rule of English Criminal Law to exclude evidence of such transactions "(8) And when in England a person charged with an offence is called as a witness in his own defence in pursuance of the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898, he can only be cross-examined as to character subject section person has a bad > charact such bad character that the accused person is likely to have committed the crime charged.(9)

This section, as originally framed. (10) allowed a previous conviction to be in all cases admissible in evidence against an accused person for the purpose

<sup>(1)</sup> Field, Ev., 353

<sup>(2)</sup> C/. s. 140, post.

 <sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 551; Wharton, Cr. Ev., § 60
 (4) R. v. Suendsen, 14 How, St. Tr., 596. "A man is not born a knave; there must be time to make him so, nor is he presently discovered after he becomes one "-+b, per Lord Holt. (5) S. 54. R. v. Ram Saran, 8 A, 304, 314

<sup>1886),</sup> Norton, Ev., 232, R. v. Tuberfield, 10 (ox., 1, Best, Ev., § 257; as to evidence in rehuttal, see Taylor, Ev., § 332, Best, Ev., § 261, 91, the subject is fully considered in R. v. Romton, 34 L. J. M. C., 57.

<sup>(6)</sup> v. post, and see also Taylor, Ev., § 332; to this general rule the Statute 22 & 33 Vicep 193s., 11, which allows evidence of previous convictions to be given in order to prove guilty knowledge in cases of receiving stolen goods, forms an exception; Taylor, Ev., § 353; see R. v. Aprill. Chandler, 14 C., 72 (1887)

<sup>(7)</sup> R. v. Gopal Thalour, 6 W. R. Cr., 72 (1860), R. v. Behary Dosseld, 7 W. R. cr. (1867), R. v. Photoleond, 8 W. R., Cr., 11 (1867), R. v. Photoleond, 8 W. R., Cr. 11 (1867), R. v. Photoleond, 8 W. R., Cr. 11 (1867), R. v. Dyhan XAG, Buserrer, 10 W. R. Cr., 17 (1868) [Evidence of character and privatous conduct of a prosene, Isony matter of prejudes and not direct evidence of facts relevant to the charge aspains the primoure cought not to be allowed to go to the Juryl, P. v. Aulum Sheilh, 10 W. R. Cr., 20 (1868).

<sup>(8)</sup> Stephen's General I tem of the Criminal Law of England, pp. 309, 310

<sup>(9)</sup> R. v. Allormiya, 5 Bom L R, 803, 819 (1903); s c, 28 B, 129 (1903)

<sup>(10)</sup> The original section ran as follows—
(10) The original proceedings the fact that the occurperson has been pretiously consisted of any off-secis relevant; but the fact that he has a bad character is irrelevant unless evidence has been given that he has a good character, in which case it of prejudicing him, and m so doing deliberately departed from the rule of English law already mentioned.(1) The framers of the Act gave as their reason for such departure that they were unable to see why a prisoner should not be prejudiced by such evidence if it was true.(2) In consequence of the decision of the Full Bench in the case of R. v. Kartick Chunder Das. (3) the present section was amended by Act III of 1891, so as to bring it into more general accordance with the English law on the same subject. (4) And now a previous conviction is not admissible against an accused person under this section, except where evidence of bad character is relevant, (5) i.e., (a) when evidence of bad character is admissible to rebut evidence given of good character, for here the accused challenges or invites enquiry, and the reply of a previous conviction by the prosecution is fair and legitimate enough ,(6) and(b) where the fact of bad character is itself a fact in issue, namely, where the charge itself implies the bad character of the accused.(7) But a previous conviction may be admissible otherwise than under this section. Thus, firstly, a previous' conviction is admissible in evidence in cases in which the accused is hable to enhanced punishment on account of having been previously convicted.(8) Secondly, where, upon the trial of a person accused of an offence, the previous commission by the accused of an offence is relevant within the meaning of section 14, ante, the previous conviction of such person is also a relevant fact. So it has been held that having regard to the character of the offence under s 400 of the Penal Code (pumshment for belonging to a gang of dacoits) previous commissions of dacoity are relevant under the fourteenth section; and convictions previous to the time specified in the charge or to the framing of the charge are relevant under the second explanation to that section aluer as to subsequent convictions.(9) Thirdly, a previous conviction may be admissible as a fact in issue or relevant otherwise than under section 14 or 54, as for example, under the eighth section as showing motive.(10)

becomes relevant. Explanation.—This section does not apply to cases in which the bad character of any person is itself a fact in issue.

(1) See R. v. Kartel. Chunder, 14 C., 721 (1887). Netwithstanding the express provisions in the original section, the Calcutta High Court in the sadier case of Roskin Donald v. R., 5 C., 768 (1880), refused to allow a previous conviction to be given in evidence.

(1) See First Report of the Soldet Committee on the Evidence Bull, p. 239, cute in R. v. Korrick Chasdre, supra at p. 129. It was apparently also considered that in such cases the matter had been reduced to legal certainty by the conviction, see R. v. Parkhade, Il Bom H. C. R. 90 (1874). Et al. 128 R. v. Ram Sarea, 8 A, 2014, 214 (1886); but as pointed out in Norton, Ex. 211, the language of the original section was no wide as to include facts not relevant in any real sense of the word at all. For what bearing would a previous convection for their there on a question of patch there on a question of guild on a things of rape? And see I Phill, Fr. 606, 10th Et; Best, Fr., E 209.

(3) 14 C., 721 (1897). See as to the effect of this decision R. v. Nobe Kumar, 1 C. W. N., 146, 148 (1897).

(4) 1b, a. 14, outc. Explanation (2) and Illus.
(b) must be considered in dealing with the effect of this amendment, which, while removing the latitude relating to the introduction of evidence of previous convictions which prevailed under this section as it originally stood, has yet not made such previous convictions wholly inadmissible, v. post.

(5) S. 54, Explanation (2) cf. the following cather cases as to previous convections R. v. Thalwords Chooler, T. W. R., Cr., 7 (1867); R. v. Photchand, 8 W. R., Cr., 11 (1867), R. v. Shboo Mundle, 3 W. R., Cr., 38 (1893), Foshun Dosadh v. R., 5 C., 788 (1880)

(6) S. 54, Norton, Ev., 232; in England previous convetton is allowed to be given in reply in certain cases only; Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 95; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 146; Steph. Dig. Art., 56

(7) S. 54, Explanation (1), v. pod.

(8) See U. P., Colle, a. 310 [Not substanding anything in this section, evidence of the previous conviction may be given at the trial for the subsequent offence, if the fact of the previous conviction is relevant under the proximons of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, Act III of 1991, a. 91; C. Pr. Cole, a. 271; Penal Cole, a. 73; Act V of 1864, as. 3, 4 (Wipping Act); Act V of 1869, Art. III (Indian Articles of Way); C. Pr. Cole, a. 311 (mode of proving previous correspondence).

(9) R. v. Nola Aumer, I. C. W. N., 140(1907); s. 14; Explanation (2) and Illust. (3) [added by Act III of 1891, "see p. 187, are, and more (4), super.

(10) S. 41, it cannot ' (* am' (/; Where, with a view of raising a presumption of innocence, witnesses to good character are called by the defence, the prosecution may rebut this presumption either by cross-examining these witnesses (1) as to particular facts or as to the grounds of their behef, or by calling separate witnesses to prove the bad character of the accused, though such evidence is seldom resorted to in English practice. (2) And in England when a prisoner elects to give evidence on his own behalf under the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898, he may be cross-examined as to character if he has been put forward as a man whose character is unblemished (3)

The present section must be read in conjunction with the Explanation to section 55, post. The words 'unless evidence has been given 'a reambiguous. They may refer either to the evidence of writnesses called for the defence or to evidence elected in cross-examination from the witnesses for the prosecution [4].

Explanations The section does not apply to cases in which the bad character of any person is itself a fact in issue.(3) The first Bankara in which the charge itself implies the bath the second Explanation a previous convibad character. Therefore, whenever evidence of bad character is admissible, a previous conviction will be admissible, namely, to rebut evidence which has been given of good character and in cases under the preceding Explanation where the bad character is itself a fact in issue (7) The character of the accused not being a fact in issue in the offence of belonging to a gang of persons associated for the purpose of habitually committing theft punishable under section 401 of the Indian Penal Code, evidence of bad character whether by proof of previous conviction or otherwise is indiansisible.(8) And evidence of commission of offences other than dacotites brought against persons accused of belonging to a gang of dacoits, has been held to be evidence of bad character and as such excluded by this section.(9) A charge under cl. (f), s. 110 of the Criminal Procedure Code, cannot be proved by general reputation, but there must be evidence of the facts charged.(10) It is only in the case of a verson exhaustive, and that in no other cases except those mentioned can a president conviction he relevant this is shown by Explanation (2) to 8 14 R v Nuba Kumar, 1 C. W. N., 146, 149 (1867)

(1) S 140, post, Taylor, Lt., § 352

(2) Taylor, Ev., § 352, though in Best, Ev., § 362, criticising this practice, it is said that witnesses to the characters of parties are in general freated with great indulgence—perhaps too much.

(3) R v. Hollamby (1908) C. C. C., v. 149, p. 169

(4) It was held upon the repealed Statute 14 and 15 Ver, c. 19, that if a presence's connect elected, on cross examination from the witnesses for the presecution, that the presence has been a good character a previous conviction might be put in evalence against him in the manner as it statues to be baracter had been called R. v. 664bary, 8 C. & P. 676; it was "graing evidence" within the meaning of that Act; R. v. Shringhon, 2 Den. C. C. D., 319: Hosco, CY P., 12th Ed.; P.

(5) Explanation (1).

(0) Norton, Ev., 233, Field, Ev., 355, cf. (r. Pr. Code, Ch. VIII, relating to the taking of se-curty from persons of lad character; nodes a, 117, th, the fact that a person is A habitari offender may be proved by evidence of general repute. Row Inv V. 127 C., 621 (1850). See as to Excitonce of general repute: Row Jan Sungarantee of See as to Excitonce of general repute: Row Jan Sungarantee of See as to Excitonce of General repute: Row Jan Sungarantee of See as to Excitonce of See as to Exciton Se

(7) v. anti, p. 428 the amended section clears up an obscurity which existed in the old section; see Norton, Er., 232.

(8) Meaken Paris v. R., 27 C., 120 (1990); a c. A.C. W. N., 80% sub-mon Dearks Banin v. R. In this case the previous convirtions were rejected as endeane of land character; it does not appear to have been superior consistent within such convictions were admissible under a. 14 (as was both in R. v. Natho Panel, 1 C. W. N., 146 (1877), which was a trail for the commission of a caputate offices under a. 400 of the National Code), or under other sections of the lett v. nat.

(9) The Public Prosecutor v. Bonigiri Pottlgody (1908), 32 Mad., 179.

(10) Kalas Holder v. R., 29 C., 770 (1901).

Where, with a view of raising a presumption of innocence, witnesses to good character are called by the defence, the prosecution may rebut this presumption either by cross-examining these witnesses(1) as to particular facts or as to the grounds of their belief, or by calling separate witnesses to prove the bad character of the accused, though such evidence is seldom resorted to in English practice.(2) And in England when a prisoner elects to give evidence on his own behalf under the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898, he may be cross-examined as to character if he has been put forward as a man whose character is unblemished.(3)

The present section must be read in conjunction with the Explanation to section 55, post. The words "unless evidence has been given" are ambiguous. They may refer either to the evidence of witnesses called for the defence or to evidence elicited in cross-examination from the witnesses for the prosecution.(4)

Explanations

The section does not apply to cases in which the bad character of any person is itself a fact in issue (5) The first Explanation aims at that class of cases in which the charge itself implies the bad character of the accused.(6) Under the second Explanation a previous conviction is made relevant as evidence of bad character. Therefore, whenever evidence of bad character is admissible. a previous conviction will be admissible, namely, to rebut evidence which has been given of good character, and in cases under the preceding Explanation where the bad character is itself a fact in issue. (7) The character of the accused not being a fact in issue in the offence of belonging to a gang of persons associated for the purpose of habitually committing theft punishable under section 401 of the Indian Penal Code, evidence of bad character whether by proof of previous conviction or otherwise is inadmissible.(8) And evidence of commission of offences other than dacoities brought against persons accused of belonging to a gang of dacoits, has been held to be evidence of bad character and as such excluded by this section. (9) A charge under cl. (f), s 110 of the Criminal Procedure Code, cannot be proved by general reputation, but there must be evidence of the facts charged (10) It is only in the case of a person exhaustive, and that in no other cases except those mentioned can a previous conviction be relevant this is shown by Explanation (2) to 8 14 R. v. Naba Kumar, 1 C. W. N., 146, 149 (1807)

- (1) S 140, pow, Taylor, I'v , § 352
- (2) Taylor, Ev., § 352, though in Best, Ev., § 262, criticising this practice, it is said that witnesses to the characters of parties are in general treated with great indulgence—perhaps too much.
- (3) R v Hollamby (1908) C. C. C., v. 149, p. 168
- (4) It was held upon the repealed Statute 14 and 15 Ver, c. 19, that if a prisoner's conneil elected, on cross-transmation from the witarees for the presecution, that the prisoner has born a good character as previous consistion might be put in evaluree against him in like manner as it witnesses to character had been called B. A. Galdbary, S. C. & P., 676, it was "gring evidence" within the meaning of liket Act, R. A. Skinnphon, 2 Den. C. C. R., 319 Recees, Cr. Fr., 12th E.3, P.
  - (5) Explanation (1).
- (0) Norton, Ev., 273; Fuld, Ev., 355, cf. Cr. Pr. Code, Ch. VIII, relating to the taking of se- curity from persons of bad character, under a 117, b. the fact that a person is a habitarial offender may be proved by vidence of general reput. But far v. R. 23 (1855). See as to Evidence of general reput. Fast part v. R. 24 (1855). See as the Evidence of general reput first person of the fact of the fast person of

- (7) v arte, p 428, the amended section clears up an obscurity which existed in the old section: see Norton, Ev., 232
- (8) Monking Pairs v. R., 27 C., 129 (1800), so. c. 4 C. W. N. 957, sub-mon Pairs in Pairs C. R. In this case the previous convertions were rejected as cycleace of lost classrost; it does not appear to have been argued or consistent whether such convertions were admissible under a 14 (as was held in R. v. Nobe Pairsel, 1 C. W. X., 146 (1877), which was a trail for the commission of a cognate offence under a. 400 of the Unal Code, or under other sections of the lett, v. ants.
  (9) The Paillo Proceedor v. Bondjer Patils
- gadu (1908), 32 Mad , 179.
- (10) Kalas Haldar v. R., 29 C., 779 (1901).

who is an habitual offender and is called upon to furnish security for good behaviour that the fact of his being an habitual offender may be proved by evidence of general repute. Where a person is called upon to furnish security to keep the peace, evidence of general repute cannot be made use of to show that such person is likely to commit a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity [or to do any wrongful act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquility (1) Upon the objection that the evidence given before a magistrate was not that of "general repute," but of specific acts spoken to by witnesses from mere hearsay, it was held that though the evidence given was hearsay yet it amounted to evidence of repute and that hearsay evidence amounting to evidence of general repute was admissible for the purpose of proceedings under Ch. VIII of the Criminal Procedure Code. When there is direct evidence of any offence committed by a person the action taken against him by way of prosecution is one of a punitive character, but when the object of the Legislature is simply to provide preventive measures, evidence of repute though hearsay is admissible.(2) The second Explanation does not say that a previous conviction is never . relevant unless evidence of bad character is relevant or is itself a fact in issue. Evidence that the accused had been previously convicted of the same offence is admissible to show guilty knowledge or intention.(3)

CHARACTER OF PARTY PROSECUTING.—See Notes to section 155, clause (4), post.

55. In civil cases the fact that the character of any person and the such as to affect the amount of damages which he ought to damages. receive is relevant.

Explanation:—In sections 52, 53, 54 and 55, the word 'character' includes both reputation and disposition; but except as provided in section 54 evidence may be given only of general reputation and general disposition, and not of particular acts by which reputation or disposition were shown.

Principle.—In suits in which damages are claimed, the amount of the damages is a fact in issue. (5) Therefore, if the character of the plaintiff is such as to affect the amount of damages which he ought to receive, such character becomes relevant for the purpose of the determination of that fact in issue. As to the reasons for the definition given of the term 'character,' see Notes post.

· vioces pont

*. 3 (Relevant.) amount of damages.)

. 12 (Facts tending to determine the s. 140 (Witnesses to character.)

Steph. Dig., Art. 57; Taylor, Ev., §§ 356—362; Mayne on Damages, 457—467; Roscoe, N.-P. Ev., 87; Wharton, Ev., §§ 47—56; Wigmore, Ev., § 1608, et seq.

COMMENTARY.

In a suit for damages, evidence of the character of the plaintiff, if it gives, character it is, increases or diminished (6) the amount of damages which he upgin to damages tective is relevant under this section. According to the section the period to the section that the section

<sup>(1)</sup> R. v. Bidkyspati, 25 A., 273 (1903).

<sup>(2)</sup> R. v. Raop: Falchand, 6 Born. L. R., 36 (1903).

<sup>(3)</sup> R. v. Allicomiya, S Rom. L. R., 805, 819, 821 (1903), see us. 14, 15, units

<sup>(4)</sup> The words and figures in leacasts in the explanation to this section were morned by Arrill of 1891, a. 7.

<sup>(5)</sup> v. este, p. 16tt

<sup>(6)</sup> Norton, Ev., 233; Tayle, Lin ! 25.

whose character is made relevant is the person who is to receive the damages. In England evidence impeaching the previous general character of the wife or daughter, in regard to chastity, is admissible in a petition by the husband for damages on the ground of adultery or in an action by the father for seduction. And in these cases not only is evidence of general bad character admissible in mitigation of damages, but the defendant may even prove particular acts of immorality or indecorum.(1) But in such a suit for damages for adultery or seduction evidence of the character of the wife or daughter will not be admissible under the present, though perhaps it may be so under the twelfth section of this Act, because in such cases the character is that of a third person and the person who is to receive the damages is not the person whose character would affect the amount of damages to be recovered.(2) Character may be admissible in mitigation of damages, in the following, amongst other, cases: (a) Breach of promise of marriage.(3) Promises must be kept to persons of bad character as well as to those of good character But when a woman claims that her character has been damaged, and her feelings crushed by such breach of promise. then in mitigation of damages it may be shown that she had no character to be hurt by the breach and no feelings that would be particularly shocked. (b) Defamation. It has been much discussed, whether, in an action for defamation, evidence impeaching the plaintiff's previous general character, and showing that at the time of the publication, he laboured under a general suspicion > dant, is admisver, to be now before the pubreport has ciehis door by the without justifying that the words published were true in substance and in fact, may say that whether they were or not the plaintiff had a bad reputation "(5). The English rule, as gathered from the case-law, has been stated to be that, in civil cases, the fact that a person's general reputation is bad, may, it seems, be given in evidence in reduction of damages, but evidence of rumours that his reputation was bad, and evidence of particular facts showing that his disposition was bad, cannot be given in evidence (6). The plaintiff's general character is in issue in this section and the defendant may show that the plaintiff's reputation has sustained no injury, because he had no reputation to lose. (c) Petition for damages for adultery. The husband's general character for infidelity may be proved, for in such a case he can hardly complain of the loss of that society upon which he has himself placed so little value (7).

In aggravation of damages the plaintiff cannot, according to English rule, give evidence of general good character, unless counter-proof has been first offered by the defendant; for until the contrary appear, the presumption of law is already in his favour. (8)

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev. § 356, and cases there cited Compensation anche cases is in reality sought for the pain which the defendant has caused the plantiff to suffer by diagracing the latter's family and running his donester happines. The damages should therefore be commensurate with thu pain, which must vary exceeding as the character of sife or daughter had been previously unbehunded or otherwise. It.

<sup>(2)</sup> Field, Ev., 356, "The person whose character is in question is therein assumed to be the same as the person who claims damages." It.

 <sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 358; Wharton, Ev., § 52.
 (4) See Phipson, Sv., 3rd Ed., 147, Sout v.
 Sampson, L. R., 8 Q B D, 491, Hood v.

Durham, 21 Q. B. D., 501 , 1 ald, LA , 356 (5) Per Manisty, J., in Word v Earl of Durham

<sup>(1888), 21</sup> Q B D., 505 & Taylor, § 359.

<sup>(6)</sup> Steph. Dig., Art. 57, act Seedt v. Sumpson, L. R., 8 Q B D., 491, in which all the older cases are examined in the judgment of Case, J., Whatten, Ev. § 53, followed in Hoods v. Cor (1888), 4 Times L. R., 655

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 358.

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev. § 362: Jones v. James 18 L. T. N. S. 243. Narracell v. Narracell, 33 L. J. P. & M., 61; in Packl, Ev., 357, it is suggested that the may be that this rule will be affected by the Above section.

The Act includes in the term 'character' both reputation and disposi- Meaning of tion, and thus departs from the English law, according to which character is "character' character." confined to reputation only. The subject is considered at length in R. v. Rowton.(1) The Indian Legislature has adopted the opinion of Erle, C. J., and Willes, J., in that case, who held that evidence of character extended to disposition as well as reputation; and of Taylor, (2) who says that the ruling of the majority in this case rests more upon authority than reason.(3)

There is a distinction between 'character' and 'reputation'; 'char "Reputaacter' signifying the reality and reputation what merely is reported or understood from report, to be the reality about a person.(4) 'Reputation' means what is thought of a person by others and is constituted by public opinion; it is the general credit which a man has obtained in that opinion. (5) When a man swears that another has a good character in this sense he means that he has heard many people, though he does not particularly recollect what people, speak well of him, though he does not recollect all that they said (6) One consequence of the view of the subject taken by English law is "that a witness may with perfect truth swear that a man, who to his knowledge has been a receiver of stolen goods for years has an excellent character for honesty, if he has had the good luck to conceal his crimes from his neighbours. It is the essence of successful hypocrisy to combine a good reputation with a bad disposition, and according to R v. Rowton the reputation is the important matter The case is seldom if ever acted upon in practice. The question always put to a witness to character is, What is the prisoner's character for honesty, morality or humanity " as the case may be . nor is the witness ever warned that he is to confine his evidence to the prisoner's reputation. It would be no easy matter to make the common run of witnesses understand the distriction "(7) Disposition ' complehends the springs and motives of actions, is per-"Disposimanent and settled, and respects the whole frame and texture of the mind (8) When a man swears that another has a good character in this sense, he gives the result of his own personal experience and observation or his own individual opinion of the prisoner's character, as is done by a master who is asked by another for the character of his servant. (9) From this section it thus appears that there are two forms in which a question as to character may be put to a witness. So if an accused be charged with theft a witness to character might be asked either-What was the general reputation of the accused for honesty? or he might be asked-Was the accused generally of an honest disposition? These two questions differ very widely. The witness would answer one from what was generally known about the accused in the neighbourhood where he lived . but he would, or might, answer the second from his own special knowledge of the accused (10)

In either case evidence may be given only of general reputation and general Both must be general. disposition. Both he in the general habit of the man rather than in particular acts or manifestations. When it is said that the reputation must be

```
(I) I L & C , 520 , 10 Cox , 25
 (2) Taylor, Ex , § 350 see Steph Dig , pp
178, 179
```

<sup>(3)</sup> Norton, Ev., 334 (4) Per Durfee, C. J., in State v. II tloor, 15 B. 1 , 180 | 1 All | 415 (Amer ) see Wigmore, Ev .

<sup>$ 1618,</sup> et erg (5) Taylor, Fr , $ 350 , Wharton, Er., $ 49 "It is possible for a man to have a fair reputation who has not in reality a good character, although non of really good character are not likely to have a bal reputation " (Yalb's Synonyms. See Pas

lers v R , 23 ( , 621 (1895) (6) Steph Dag. p 181

<sup>(7)</sup> Steph Dig , p 179 (8) Field, Et , 357, esting Crabb's "enonyms

<sup>(9)</sup> Taylor, Et , § 350.

<sup>(10)</sup> Markby, Ev., 43, 46 In the leading case R. v. Rowton, I L. & C. 520, supra, there was, as already stated, a difference of opinion amongst the Juliers as to which of these two was the reoper form of question, strong reasons are given in favour of both, and no doubt this is why the Act admits both, il.

general, it is meant "that the community as a whole must be agreed on this opinion in order that it may be regarded as a reputation. If the estimates vary and public opinion has not reached the stage of definite harmony, the opinion cannot be treated as sufficiently trustworthy. On the other hand it must be impossible to exact unanimity, for there are always dissenters. To define precisely that quality of public opinion thus commonly described as general is therefore a difficult thing . . . . there is on this subject often an attempt at nicety of phiase which amounts in effect to mere quibbling. because the witness will not ordinarily appreciate the discriminations. Such requirements of definition should be avoided as unprofitable. "(1) Where evidence of character is offered, it must be confined to general character; evidence of particular acts, as of honesty, benevolence, or the like, are not receivable. "For, although the common reputation in which a person is held in society may be undeserved, and the evidence in support of it must, from its very nature, be indefinite, some inference varying in degree according to circumstances, may still fairly be drawn from it, since it is not probable that a man who has uniformly sustained a character for honesty or humanity, will forfeit that character by the commission of a dishonest or a cruel act But the mere proof of isolated facts can afford no such presumption 'None are all evil,' and the most consummate villain may be able to prove, that on some occasions he has acted with humanity, fairness or honour." (2) Negative evidence such as "I never heard anything against the character of the man" is cogent evidence of good character, because a man's character is not talked about, till there is some fault to be found with it (3) The words and figures inserted in the Explanation by Act III of 1891 were so inserted because, by section 54. in certain cases, a previous conviction which is a particular act by which character is shown, is made admissible. And further, particular acts may be relevant when the bad character is itself a fact in issue. (4)

<sup>(1)</sup> Wigmore, Ev., § 1612.

Wigmore, Ev., § 1614.

<sup>(2)</sup> Ib., § 351. (4) v onte, notes to ss 63, 54. (4) v onte, notes to ss 63, 54.

PART II.

ON PROOF.

ONE of the main features in the Act consists in the distinction drawn by it between the relevancy of facts and the mode of proving facts.(1) Its first part deals with the relevancy of facts or with the answer to the question 'what facts may you prove?' while the present part proceeds to enact rules as to the manner in which a fact, when relevant, is to be proved.(2) "This introduces the question of proof. It is obvious that, whether an alleged fact is a fact in issue or a collateral fact, the Court can draw no inference from its existence till it believes it to exist; and it is also obvious that the belief of the Court in the existence of a given fact ought to proceed upon grounds altogether independent of the relation of the fact to the object and nature of the proceeding in which its existence is to be determined. The question is whether A wrote a letter. The letter may have contained the terms of a contract. It may have been a libel. It may have constituted the motive for the commission of a crime by B. It may supply proof of an alibi in favour of A It may be an admission or a confession of crime; but whatever may be the relation of the fact to the proceedings, the Court cannot act upon it unless it believes that Adid write the letter, and that belief must obviously be produced, in each of the cases mentioned, by the same or similar means. If, for instance, the Court requires the production of the original when the writing of the letter is a crime, there can be no reason why it should be satisfied with a copy when the writing of the letter is a motive for a crime. In short, the way in which a fact should be proved depends on the nature of the fact and not on the relation of the fact to the proceeding. The instrument by which the Court is convinced of a fact is evidence. It is often classified as being either direct or circumstantial. We have not adopted this classification. If the distinction is that direct evidence establishes a fact in issue, whereas circumstantial evidence establishes a collateral fact, evidence is classified, not with reference to its essential qualities, but with reference to the use to which it is put, as if paper were to be defined. not by reference to its component elements, but as being used for writing or for printing. We have shown that the mode in which a fact must be proved depends on its nature, and not on the use to be made of it. Evidence, therefore, should be defined, not with reference to the nature of the fact which it is to prove, but with reference to its own nature. Sometimes the distinction is stated thus : direct evidence is a statement of what a man has actually seen or heard. Circumstantial evidence is something from which facts in issue are to be inferred. If the phrase is thus used, the word evidence in the two phrases (direct evidence and circumstantial evidence) opposed to each other, has two different meanings. In the first, it means testimony; in the second, it means a fact which is to serve as the foundation for an inference. It would indeed be quite correct, if this view is taken, to say circumstantial evidence must be proved by direct evidence. This would be a most clumsy mode of expression, but it shows the ambiguity of the word 'evidence,' which means either-(a) word spoken or things produced in order to convince the Court of the existence of facts; or (b) facts of which the Court is so convinced which suggest some inference as to other facts. We use the word 'evidence' in the first of these senses only, and so used it may be reduced to three heads:—(a) ord evidence: (b) documentary evidence; (c) material evidence."(1)

(I) See Proceedings in Council on the Evalence (2) Draft Report of Bill, 31st March, 1971. the Fasience Bill (Ga

438 PROOF.

In the first place, the fact to be proved may be one of so much notoriety that the Court will take pudicial notice of it; or it may be admitted by the parties. In either of these cases no evidence of its existence need be given. Chapter III, which relates to judicial notice, disposes of this subject. It is taken in part from Act II of 1853, in part from the Commissioner's draft bill, and in part from the Law of England. If proof has to be given of any facts, it may be so given by either oral, or documentary evidence. The Act accordingly proceeds in Chapters IV and V to deal with the peculiarities of each of these kinds of evidence.

With regard to oral evidence, it is provided that it must in all cases whatever, whether the fact to be proved is a fact in issue or collateral fact, be direct. That is to say, if the fact to be proved is one that could be seen, it must be proved by some one who says he saw it. If it could be heard, by some one who says he heard it; andso with the other senses. It is also provided that, if the fact to be proved is the opinion of a living and producible person, or the grounds on which such opinion is held, it must be proved by the person who holds that opinion on those grounds. If, however, the fact to be proved is the control of the provided that, it is also provided that, it is also provided that, it is also provided that, if the provision is held. It must be proved by the person who holds that opinion on those grounds. If, however, the fact to be proved is the control of the provided that it is a capterseaf and any published that it is a control of the provisions on relevancy contained in Chapter II, sets the whole doctrine of hearsay in a perfectly plain light, for their joint effect is this x—

- (a) the sayings and doings of third persons are, as a rule, irrelevant, so that no proof of them can be admitted;
- (b) in some excepted cases they are relevant;
- (c) every act done, or word spoken, which is relevant on any ground, must (if proved by oral evidence) be proved by some one who saw it with his eyes, or heard it with his own ears.

With regard to the Chapters which relate to the proof of facts by documentary evidence, and the cases in which secondary evidence may be admitted, the Act has followed with few alterations, the previously existing law. The general rule is that primary evidence must, if possible, be given, subject to certain exceptions in favour of 'public documents' Chapter V further contains certain presumptions, which in almost every instance will be true-as to the genumeness of certified copies, gazettes, books purporting to be published at particular places, copies of depositions, &c.(2) Two sets of presumptions will sometimes apply to the same document. For instance, what purports to he a certified copy of a record of evidence is produced. It must, by section 76, he presumed to be an accurate copy of the record of evidence. By section 80 the facts stated in the record itself as to the circumstances under which it was taken, eg, that it was read over to the witness in a language which he understood, must be presumed to be true.(3) Lastly, Chapter VI deals with certain cases in which writings are exclusive evidence of the matters to which they relate.(4)

<sup>(1)</sup> Draft Report of the Schot Committee (Gazette of Indea, July 1, 1871), are as to material cylinger, gate, pp. 110, 111.

zette of India, July 1, 1871). (3) Steph. Introd , 170, 171. (4) Ib

439

(a) Judicial notice: Jucts admitted.—Certain facts are so notorious in them- The rules selves or are stated in so authentic a manner in well-known and accessible pub. with results of profit to profit. serves of are stated in a service of the court, if it does not know them, can may be inform itself upon them without formally taking evidence. These facts are marized said to be judicially noticed. Further, facts which are admitted need not be proved. (b) Oral evidence. All facts, except the contents of documents, may be proved by oral evidence which must, in all cases, be direct. That is, it must consist of a declaration by the witness that he perceived by his own senses the fact to which he testifies. (c) Documents. The contents of documents must be proved either by the production of the document, which is called primary evidence, or by copies or oral accounts of the contents, which are called secondary evidence. Primary evidence is required as a rule, but this is subject to seven important exceptions in which secondary evidence may be given. The most important of these are (a) cases in which the document is in the possession of the adverse party, in which case the adverse party must in general (though there are several exceptions) have notice to produce the document before secondary evidence of it can be given; and (b) cases in which certified copies of public documents are admissible in place of the documents themselves. (d) Presumptions as to documents. Many classes of documents which are defined in the Act are presumed to be what they purport to be, but this presumption is hable to be rebutted. (c) Writings when exclusive evidence. When a contract, grant, or other disposition of property is reduced to writing, the writing itself, or secondary evidence of its contents, is not only the best, but is the only admissible evidence of the matter which it contains It cannot be varied by oral evidence, except in certain specified cases

It is necessary in applying these general doctrines in practice to go into considerable detail, and to introduce provisos, exceptions, and qualifications which are mentioned in the following sections.(1)

(1) Steph. Introl . 170, 171. c

CHAPTER III

FACTS WHICH NEED NOT BE PROVED.

ALL facts in issue and ielevant facts must, as a general rule, be proved by evidence, that is, by the statements of witnesses, admissions or confessions of parties, and production of documents.(1) To this general rule there are two exceptions which are dealt with by this chapter, viz., (a) facts judicially noticeable; (b) facts admitted. Neither of these classes of facts need be proved.(2)

Facts judi-cially noticeable

Of the private and peculiar facts, on which the cause depends, the Judge is (as in trial by jury, the jury are) bound to discard all previous knowledge: but it is in the nature of things that many general subjects to which an advocate calls attention should be of so universal a notoriety as to need no proof. (3) Certain facts are so notorious in themselves, or are stated in so authentic a manner in well-known and accessible publications, but they require no proof The Court, if it does not know them, can inform itself upon them without formally taking evidence. These facts are said to be judicially noticed.(4) 'Universal notoriety' 19 a term which is vague and scarcely susceptible of definition. "It must depend upon many circumstances, in one case perhaps upon the

upon the extent h instances upon ommunicated.'' "Still more must the lim" according to the extent

who had made chemistr

of scientific chemists; one to whom a foreign language was familiar, would read a document without translations, or comments, one who had resided in India, would hear and speak of the customs there, as matters of course. Other Judges might, with proper diffidence, require evidence on which they could rely; but after all it is obvious that there are many subjects on which were it not for the learning of the Judge, any quantity of evidence would fail of supplying the defect."(5) The list of matters made judicially noticeable by section 57 is not complete.(6) It may be doubted whether an absolutely complete list could be formed, as it is practically impossible to enumerate everything which is so notorious in itself, or so distinctly recorded by public authority, that it would be superfluous to prove it.(7)

The English Courts take judicial notice of numerous facts, which it is therefore unnecessary to prove. Theoretically, all facts which are not judicially noticed must be proved, but there is an increasing tendency on the part of Judges to import into cases heard by them their own general knowledge of matters which occur in daily life.(8)

Pacts admitted

These need not be proved.(9) And obviously so, for a Court has to try the questions on which the parties are at issue, not those on which they are

(1) See p. 114, ante. (5) Greeky, Ev., 396, 395, and v. proom, ils, (2) Sa. 56, 58. 195-420. (3) Greeley, Er , 395; Wharton, Ev., § 276, (6) c, notes to s. 57, pod.

(7) Steph. Drg , p. 179, (4) Steph Introl . 170. See Wigment, Pr . (8) Powell, Fr . 154.

(9) S. TR. 144 $ 2363.

agreed.(1) Facts may be so admitted (a) by agreement at the hearing, or (b) before the hearing, or (c) by the pleadings.(2)

(a & b). It often happens that it is advisable for each party to waive the necessity of proof, and to admit certain facts insisted upon by the other, but insufficiently proved by the pleadings. This may be either for the purpose of mutually avoiding the expense and delay of a commission for examining witnesses, or for the sake of respectively purchasing advantages by concessions : or of saving some expense to the estate; or there may be a mixture of these and other motives. (3) There is no provision in the Indian Law of Procedure. as in England, for enabling one party in a suit to call upon the other to admit a fact, other than the cenumeness of a document.(4) and in the event of the other party not doing so to throw upon him the expense of the proof. Some such provision might be a useful addition to the Code, and a clause to this effect was proposed when the Code of 1877 was drafted. It was, however, probably, considered, to be too much in advance of the general intelligence: and section 117 of the Code now provides that at the first hearing the Court shall ascertain from the parties what facts they respectively admit or deny (5) There is, however, nothing to prevent such a notice being given And if the parties either upon such notice, or without such notice, agree in writing to admit a fact, the latter need not to be proved.(6) If the party to whom such a notice is given does not agree to admit the fact in question, the Court may possibly, where the circumstances so warrant, take that matter into consideration in dealing with the costs of the suit or application.

(c). The function of admissions made on the pleadings is to limit the issues and therewith the scope of the evidence admissible. (7) But the effect given in the English Courts to admissions on the pleadings has always been greater than that given to admission in the less technical pleadings in the Courts in India (8) The function of pleadings in narrowing the issues and limiting the number of facts which it is necessary to prove is, in India, mainly fulfilled by the procedure which regulates the settlement of issues (9) Where. however, by any rule of pleading in force at the time, a fact is deemed to be admitted by the pleadings, it is unnecessary to prove such fact.(10) The Court may, however, in all these cases, in its discretion, require the facts admitted to be proved otherwise than by such admissions (11)

56. No fact of which the Court will take judicial notice Fact judicially noticeable noticeable need not be need be proved.

s. 3 (" Fact.' )

3 (" Court.")

proved

4. 3 (" Proted. )

Principle. - See Introduction, ante

COMMENTARY

According to the definition contained in the third section a fact is said Need not to be proved when after considering the matters before it, the Court be proved believes it to exist." Such matters are those brought before the Court by the parties or otherwise appearing in the particular proceedings. In the case of the facts dealt with by this section the Judge's belief in their existence is induced by the general knowledge acquired otherwise than in such proceedings

(1) Burgorys Curvetys v. Munckerys Kurreys, 5

B , 152 (1850). (2) S. 58, p.ul.

(3) Greeley, Fr., 47.

(4) As to which, see Or. 17. ( olr. a. 128 (5) Cunningham, Ev., 205

(10) K, 58,

(6) 8. 55, post (7) Willis, Er., 101 (6) T notes to s. 54, peut (9) r. notes to a 34, just

(11) /4

and independently of the action of the parties therein. This section and the last two paragraphs of the next come to this :- With regard to the facts enumerated in section 57, if their existence comes into question, the parties who assert their existence or the contrary need not in the first instance produce any evidence in support of their assertions. They need only ask the Judge to' say whether these facts exist or not, and if the Judge's own knowledge will not help him, then he must look the matter up; further, the Judge can, if he thinks proper, call upon the parties to assist him. But in making this investigation the Judge is emancipated entirely from all the rules of evidence laid down for the investigation of facts in general. He may resort to any source of information which he finds handy, and which he thinks helps him Thus, he might consult any book or obtain information from a bystander. Where there is a jury, not only the Judge, but the jury also must be informed as to the existence or non-existence of any fact in question. In the cases mentioned in section 57, therefore, the Judge must not only inform himself, but he must communicate his information to the jury.(1)

Facts of which Court must take judi-cial notice

The Court shall take judicial notice of the following facts :-

- (1) All laws or rules having the force of law now or heretofore in force, or hereafter to be in force, in any part of British India :(2)
  - All public Acts passed or hereafter to be passed by Parliament and all local and personal Acts directed by Parliament to be judicially noticed :(3)
  - Articles of War for Her Majesty's Army or Navy :(4) (3)
  - The course of proceeding of Parliament(5) and of the Councils for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations established under the Indian Councils Act.(6) or any other law for the time being relating thereto:

Explanation.—The word 'Parliament,' in clauses (2) and (4), includes—

- (1) the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland:
- (2) the Parliament of Great Britain :
- (3) the Parliament of England;
- (4) the Parliament of Scotland; and
- the Parliament of Ireland.

<sup>(1)</sup> Markby's Evidence Act, 49. See generally as to Judicial Notice, Wharton, Er., $$ 276-340

<sup>(4)</sup> Ib., § 5. (5) Ib , $$ 5, 18

<sup>(6)</sup> Printed in the collection of Statutes relating to India, Vol. II, Ed. 1881, p. 695-

<sup>(2)</sup> See Taylor, Er . 5 5.

<sup>(3) 14, 15 7, 8, 1523</sup>

- The accession and the sign manual of the Sovereign (5)for the time being of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland :(1)
- (6) All seals of which English Courts take judicial notice: (2) the seals of all the Courts of British India and of all Courts out of British India, established by the authority of the Governor-General or any Local Government in Council: the seals of Courts of Admiralty and Maritime Jurisdiction and of Notaries Public, and all seals which any person is authorized to use by any Act of Parliament or other Act or Regulation having the force of law in British India:
- (7) The accession to office, names, titles, functions and signatures of the persons filling for the time being any public office in any part of British India, if the fact of their appointment to such office is notified in the Gazette of India, or in the Official Gazette of any Local Government .
- The existence, title and national flag of every State (8)or Sovereign recognized by the British Crown :(3)
- The divisions of time, the geographical divisions of (9) the world, and public festival, fasts and holidays(4) notified in the Official Gazette:
- The territories under the dominion of the British (10)Crown :(5)
- The commencement, continuance and termination of hostilities between the British Crown and any other State or body of persons :(6)
- The names of the members and officers of the Court, (12)and of their deputies and subordinate officers and assistants, and also of all officers acting in execution of its process, and of all advocates, attorneys, proctors, vakils, pleaders, and other persons authorized by law to appear or act before it
- (13) The rule of the road [on land or at sea].(7)

In all these cases(8) and also on all matters of public history, literature, science or art, the Court may resort for its aid to appropriate books or documents of reference.

<sup>(1)</sup> Taxlor, Ex , § 14; Mighell v Sultan of Johnse, 1 Q B (1814), 149

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, Ex', § 6, s. post. (3) Taylor, Et , § 5. Maghell v Salinn of Julius, 1 Q B (1894), 161

<sup>(4) 16 , 5 16</sup>

<sup>(5) 16. § 17.</sup> Dameder tordhan v Drewen

Kanji 1 B., 404 (1876) Lackmi Narain v. Raji Partol., 2 A 17 (1878)

<sup>(6)</sup> Taylor, Ev. 4 18

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Ev. 5 5 the words in brackets in a 57, para (13), were inserted by Act AVIII of 1872 to 5.

(b) Taylor, Fr., $21, for an additional case,

If the Court is called upon by any person to take judicial notice of any fact, it may refuse to do so unless and until such person produces any such book or document as it may consider necessary to enable it to do so. (1)

Principle.-See Introduction, ante, and Notes, post,

s. 3 (" Fact.") s. 3 (" Court.") s. 87 (Presumption as to books of reference.) A. 114 (The Court may presume the existence

s. 3 (" Proved.")

of certain facts.)

Wharton, Ev., $$ 276-340; Taylor, Ev., $$ 4-21; Steph, Dig., Art, 58; Best, Ev., $$ 253, 254; Phinson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 15; Wills, Ev., 16-20; Field, Ev., 370-378; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 80-84; Powell, Ev., 334-343; Gresley, Ev., 395-420; Wigmore, Ev., § 2565, et seq.

COMMENTARY.

Judicial Notice

It has been pointed out(2) that the list given in this section of the facts of which the Court shall take judicial notice is far from complete and that

· which they are directed ndholders who have not 19) : in Madras bye-laws of 1862, section 5); in Bombay notifications in the Gazette (Bom. Act X of 1866, section 4), in Oudh the list of Talukdars and grantees published by the Chief Commissioners (Act I of 1869, section 10)." (6) It is submitted that since (as was pointed out with regard to the corresponding section of Act II of 1855) (7) the section does not forbid the Courts to take notice of any facts other than those mentioned. the Courts may and will take judicial notice of, generally speaking, all those other facts, at least, of which English Courts take judicial notice. Thus, though the section does, not expressly so provide, the Courts here as in England will, it is apprehended, take judicial notice of matters appearing in its own proceedings (8) An enlargement of the field of judicial notice will further be in accordance with that tendency of modern practice of which mention has been already made.(9)

Clause (1).

Under this provision by which the Courts are required to take judicial notice of all laws(10) or rules having the force of law, now or heretofore in force are Act XIV of 1882, a 411 and v. post, Notes to er tion

(I) Taylor, L. , § 21 , I an Omeron v. Dorock,

&quot; Camp . 44. (2) Whithy Stokes, Anglo-Jodian Codes u. HIR, ROFE.

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, hy., $ 16; rg, that a man is not the father of a child, where non-secress is already proved until within six months of the woman's delivery. Nor it is mecessary to prove the course of the heavenly bodies, or the like, th. With respect to this criticism it may, however, is observed that some matters which might appear to have been omitted are dealt with by a 114 (presumptions), post; eq. the common course of natural events

<sup>(4) 16 ,</sup> so in H v B'ooduard, 1 Moo. C. C.

<sup>3.23,</sup> the Judges held that they were bound to notice that beans were a kind of pairs. (5) So a Court must take indical notice of the fact that a Foreign State has not been recognized by Her Majesty, or by the Governor-General in Council, Civ. Pr. Code, Part IV, v. 81 (2), p. 337-

<sup>(6)</sup> Whiteley Stokes, loc, cd (7) R. v. Nabadwep Goscani, I B L. R O Cr. at pp. 27, 28 (1868).

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 5.

<sup>(9)</sup> See Introduction, ante! Powell, Ev., 134; and remarks m note, ante.

<sup>(10)</sup> See as to the law in force in India, bield. Fr., 4, 5, 372, 376, or thereafter to be in force, in any part of British India, notice will be taken of the Statute and common law and of all customs when settled by judicial determination or certified by proper authority to the Court though not of all customs indiscriminately.(1) In other cases customs must ordinarily be proved. So while the Courts will take judicial notice of the general recognised principles of Hindulaw, the Court will not, it has been said, take judicial notice of what the Hindulaw is, with regard to Hindu custom, which must always be proved.(2)

The judgment of the Privy Council in the case of the Collector of Madura v. Mootoo Ramalinga(3) gives no countenance to the conclusion that in order to bring a case under any tule of law laid down by recognised authority for Hindus generally, evidence must be given of actual events to show that in point of fact the people subject to that general law, regulate their lives by it. Special customs may be pleaded by way of exception, which it is proper by evidence of what is actually done. But to put one who asserts a rule of law, under the necessity of proving that in point of fact the community living under the system of which it forms part is acting upon it, or defeat him by assertions that it has not been universally accepted or acted upon, would go far to deny the existence of any general Hindu law, and to disregard the broad foundations which are common to all schools, though divergencies have grown out of them.(4) As by the Bengal Civil Courts Act,(5) the Legislature has enacted that the Mahommedan Law shall be administered with reference to all ques-" urts must take judicial . . .

the parties are relieved law, the Courts may refer to appropriate books or documents of reference Swent translations of little known Sanskrit works embodying Hindu law together with the futerds, or opinions, of pundits versed in that law, have thus been referred to (7) With regard to law reports under the provisions of the Indian Law Reports Act.(8) no Court is bound to hear cited, or to receive or treat as an authority binding on it, the report of any case decided by any of the High Courts (established under 24 & 28 Vict., cap. 104) on or after the day on which the Act came into force, other than a report published under the authority of the Governor-General in Council But the Act does not prevent a High Court from looking at an unreported judgment of other Judges of the same Court.(9)

Statutes are either public or private. Public Statutes apply to the whole Clause (2) community, and are noticed judicially, though not formally set forth by a party claiming an advantage under them. They require no proof, being supposed to exist in the memories of all, though for certainty of recollection, reference may be had to a printed copy. Private or local and personal acts posed to exist in the memories of all, though for certainty of recollection, reference may be had to a printed copy. Private or local and personal acts operate upon particular persons and private concerns only. The Courts were formerly not bound to judicially notice them, unless, as was customary, a close was inserted that they should be so noticed. The effect of this clause was to dispense with the necessity of pleading the Act specially. Since, how-

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev., $5. Loodeve, Ev., 310 as to mercantile custom, see Taylor, Ev., $ 5. Sheikk Fairalla v. Ramkumal Miller, 2 B. L. B., O. C. J., 7, 9 (1868)

<sup>(2)</sup> Juppa Molerer. Directle Nath. 8. S82, 557 (1892) per Garth, C. J. the custom may be of such antisum; and so well known that the Court will take judicial notice of it. Sec Golo Prosed V. Radha, 10 A., 27, 383 (1888) Juda Lal Nahu v. Junis Kore (1908), 25 C., 575- as to the methods of accertaining the general law, see Bayerina Singly v. Dierrem Songly, 21.

<sup>1 412, 433 (1898)</sup>

<sup>(3) 12</sup> Moo 1 A , 437 (1868)

<sup>(4)</sup> Bhagwin Singh v. Bhagwan Singh, 21 A., 412, 423, 424 (1898), P. C.

<sup>(5)</sup> Act All of 1897, a 37

<sup>(6)</sup> R v. Ramian 7 A., 461 (1885).

<sup>(7)</sup> Collector of Modure v. Mostros Ramalings, 12 Mars. I. A., 297 (1885), see the penultimate paragraph of s. 57, and good.

(S) Act \VIII of 1875, s. 3.

<sup>(2)</sup> Mahamed Al. v. Novae Ali, 28 C., 284 (1901).

ever, the commencement of the year 1851 this clause has been omitted, the Legislature having enacted that every Act made after that date shall be deemed a public Act and be judicially noticed as such, unless the contrary be expressly declared.(1) As to the presumptions which exist in the case of gazettes, newspapers and private Acts of Parliament, see section 81, most.

Clause (3)

The Courts must judicially notice the Articles of War for His Majesty's Army or Navy. The Articles of War for the Government of the Nattwo officers, soldiers and other persons in His Majety's Indian Army, are contained in Act V of 1869. With regard to the Articles of War governing the British forces whether in the naval, marine or the land service, including the auxiliary forces,—that is, the milita, the yeomanny and the volunteers,—and also the reserve forces, see note below (2) and of the Indian Councils is also So also, it has been held in Engnd custom of Parliament, and the privileges and course of proceedings of each branch of the Legislature, (3) as also the stated days of general political elections, the date and place of the sittings of the Legislature, and, in short, "all public matters which affect the Government of the country" (4) So also both English and Indian tribunal notice the accession (as also in the case of English Courts, the demise) of the Sovereian, (6) the royal sign manual and matters stated under it. (6)

Clauses (4)

Clause (6)

"The English Courts take judicial notice of the following seals -The great Seal of the United Kingdom, and the Great Seals of England, Ireland and Scotland respectively , the Queen's Privy Seal and Privy Signet, whether in England, Ireland, or Scotland . the Wafer Great Seal, and the Wafer Privy Seal, framed under the Crown Office Act, 1877; the Seal, and Privy Seal of the Duchy of Lancaster, the Scal and the Privy Seal of the Duchy of Cornwall , the seals of the old superior Courts of Justice , and of the Supreme Court, and its several divisions , the seals of the old High Court of Admiralty, whether for England or Ireland, of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury; and of the Court of the Vice-Warden of the St maries, the seals of all Courts constituted by Act of Parliament, if seals are given to them by the Act : amongst which are the seals of the Court for Divorce and Matrimonial Causes in England; of the Court for Matrimonial Causes and Matters in Ireland ; of the Central office of the Royal Courts of Justice, and of its several departments; of the Principal Registry, and of the several District Registries of the Supreme Court of Judicature, of the Principal Registry, and of the several District Registries of the old Court of Probate in England and of the present Court of Probate in Ireland; of the old and new Courts of Bankruptcy; of the Insolvent Debtors' Court now abolished, of the Court of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in Ireland (which since the 6th of August 1872, has been called "The Court of Bankruptcy in Ireland"): of the Landed Estates Court, Ireland; of the Recc-1 - (Tal An

and of the County Courts; Courts of law also Corporation of London. Various Statutes (7)

missible in evidence without proof of their gentinances (c) many bodies are by particular Statutes created corporations and given a seal, for instance founty Counties, yet in each such case the seal must be formally proved in the absence of statutory provision that judicial notice shall be taken of it.(d)

(5) Taylor, Ev., § 18.

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev., $1 1523, 5.

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, Fr., § 5, and authorities there exted.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ib. as to proof of the proceedings of the Legislatures, see s. 78, cl. (2), post (4) Ib. § 18. Taylor v. Barelov. 2 Sun., 221

<sup>(6) 1</sup>b , § 14; Mighell v Sultan of Jehore, 1 Q. B (1894), 149

<sup>(7)</sup> See Taylor, Ev. 5 6, where these statutes will be found collected

(R) 16 . § 6

<sup>(9) /6 , § 14.</sup>

According to English law, the seal of a foreign or colonial notary-public will not generally be judicially noticed, although such a person is an officer recognised by the whole commercial world.(1) The present clause, however, draws no distinction between domestic and foreign notaries public. And so the official seal of a British Notary Public has been judicially recognisedly. The other seals of which Indian Courts are required to take judicial notice will be found mentioned in this clause. They will not, however, take notice of any seal which is not distinctly legible.(3) In Kristo Nath Koondoo v. T. F. Brown.(4) a registered power of attorney was admitted under section 57 of this Act without proof, the Registering Officer being held to be a Court under the third section of the Act. But this decision has been dissented from in a later case, in which it was pointed out that mere registration of a document is not in itself sufficient proof of its execution.(5)

The provisions of this clause are in advance of, and more extensive than, Clause (7) those of the English law,(6) according to which it has been said to be doubtful whether the Courts would recognise the signatures of the Lords of the Treasury to their official letters.(7) So the Court, prior to the passing of this Act, took judicial notice of the fact that a person was a Justice of the Peace, (8) and of the signature of a jailor under the 16th section, Act XV of 1869 (Prisoners' Testimony Act).(9) But this clause requires that the facts of the appointment to office be notified in the Gazette. So where the Court was asked to presume that A was Kazi or Sudder Ameen of Chittagong in 1820, it was said-"there is no evidence that any person named A held such appointment in July 1820. We think that we cannot take judicial notice of this fact under the seventh clause, section 57 of the Evidence Act, for there is nothing to show that A was gazetted to the appointment of Sudder Ameen in or about that year The Gazette of India was not in existence, and was not introduced until Act XXXI of 1863 was enacted, and we are not shown that there was, in the year 1820 or thereabouts, any official gazette in which the appointments of Sudder Ameens were usually notified; or that this particular appointment was notified in any such gazette;" and the Court accordingly refused to take judicial notice of the Claues (8—12) are in general accordance with the English law (11) Under Claues (8—the eighth section, the existence, title and national flag of every Nate or 125. Sovereign recognised by the British Crown will be recognised. "The status of a foreign Sovereign is a matter, of which the Courts of this country take judicial cognizance—that is to say, a matter which the Court is either assumed to know or to have the means of discovering without a contentions enquiry, as to whether the person cited is or is not, in the position of an independent Sovereign. Of course the Court will take the best means of informing itself on the subject, if there is any kind of doubt, and the matter is not as notorious

(1) B, there have been decisions to a contrary effect it, a distinction must be drawn between case of judicial notice of seals and those in which (whether his seal be or be not notice able to the certification of documents are in question. So according to the law of Eurland the nerry production of the certificate of a Notary Public with cast many facilities and a deed lad been secreted lefore him would not in any any depense with

(3) Jakir Al. v. Raj Chander, 10 C. I., R., 400,

(4) 14 € , 176, 180 (1855)

(5) Solimatel Fatima v Krylaskjeti Narain 17 (., 90 (1891)

(6) Fr.H. Et . 376

(7) Taylor, Ev. § 14

(a) R + Melodery Commun. 1 E L B., O (r. 15 57, 25 33, 34 (1865) 15 W B. (r., 75,

19. Tamer Sing v Kalidas E y 4 B L. E.,

() ( ) SI (1869) See now Act III of 1916 (The Prisorer e Act). (10) Julie Ali v. Ley Charder, 10 C. L. P., 479, 475, 476 (1852).

(11) Taylor, Er., # 4, 10, 17, 18.

the proper evalence of the execution of the deed. Apr v. Mardonald, L. R., P. C., 331, 345. (2) In the goods of Henderson, 22 C., 491, 494. (1805), and sections rited in a. 82, prof.

as the status of some great monarch such as the Emperor of Germany."(1) Under the ninth clause the Bengali, Willaiti, Fasli, Sambat or Hindi, Hiri and Jalus Eras will be judicially noticed in those districts in which they are current, and reference may be made to the usual almanacs when occasion requires (2) If it be true that the Indian Courts must take judicial notice of the territories of the King in India, then if there has been a cession of territory they must take notice of that and they must do so independently of the Gazette, which is no part of the cession but only evidence of it (3).

The Court will take judicial notice of hostilities between the British Crown and any other State.(4) But the existence of war between foreign countries will not be judicially noticed.(5) It was held that the Court might, for the purpose of taking judicial notice of hostilities between the British Crown and others, refer to a printed official letter from the Secretary to the Government of the Punjab to the Secretary to the Government of India; though it was observed that the letter was not evidence of the facts mentioned in detail by the writer.(6)

Clause (18)

The custom or rule of the road on land in England, which is followed in this country, is that horses and carriages should respectively keep on the near or left side of the road except in passing from behind when they keep to the right (7) At sea the general rule is that ships and steamboats, on meeting, "end on, or nearly end on in such a manner as to involve risk of collision." should port their helms, so as to pass on the port, or left side of each other next, that steamboats should keep out of the way of sailing ships; and next, that every vessel overtaking another should keep out of its way.(8)

Books or

The penultimate paragraph of the section is in accordance with the documents of reference. English law, so far as it enables the documents of reference upon matters but is in advance of such law, in so books and documents on matters of public history, literature, science or art. For in England.

matters which ar

for any other pur

matters of ..... science or art," it is not meant that the Court is to take judicial notice of all such matters. It has been said that if this be so, the provisions as to expert evidence in section 45, and as to the use of treatises that what perhaps is meant is that laid down in sections 45 and 60, the . ate books without any restriction (11)

These words will also include reference to matters of science or art which are of such notoriety, as to be the subject of judicial notice (12) The

<sup>(1)</sup> Mighell v Sultan of Johore, 1 Q B. (1894). 149, 161, per Kny, L. J. In this case the person cited was the Sultan of Johors and the means which the Judge took of informing himself as to his status (and which was held to be a proper means) was by enquiry at the Colonial Office, v. post, Luchus Aarain v. Raja Pariali, 2 A. 17 11878).

<sup>(2)</sup> Field, Ev., 377.

<sup>(3)</sup> Damedar Gurdhan v. Deoram Kanyi, 1 B . 367. 404 (1876); per Lord Selbourne. See a. 113, post.

<sup>(4)</sup> S. 57, cl. (11).

<sup>(5)</sup> Belder v. Huntingfield, 11 Ven., 292

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v. Amiraddin, 7 B. L. R., 63, 70 (1871)

<sup>(7)</sup> Are Taylor, Fv., $ 5.

<sup>(8)</sup> Ih , and for the regulations for preventure collemnatises, v 16., note (7) Secales Ablott's Merchant Shipping, 13th Ed., p. 832, et seg

<sup>(9)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 21; see as to reference upon such matters, R v. Ameruddan, 7 B. L. R , 63 70 (1871).

<sup>(10)</sup> Collier v. Simpson, 5 C. & P., 74.

<sup>(11)</sup> Markby, Ev. Act, 49

<sup>(12)</sup> The Courts will take notice of the demonstrable conclusions of science as of the movements of the heavenly bodies, the gradations of time by longitude, the magnetic variations from the true meridian, the general characteristics of photography, etc. But conclusions dependent on inductive proof, not yet accepted as necessary, will not be judicially noticed. Thus the Court

Courts have under the present section, or the corresponding provisions of Act II of 1855,(1) referred or permitted reference to Mill's Political Economy, (2) Tod's Rajpootana, (3) Malcolm's Central India, (4) Buchanan's Journey in Mysore, (5) Elphinstone's History of India, (6) Harrington's Analysis (7) Minutes made by Sir John Shore and Lord Cornwallis (8) Malthus, (9) Thomason's Directions for Revenue Officers in the North-Western Provinces (10) Wilson's Glossary (11) The Institutes of the Civil Law. (12) Domat, (13) Tod's Rajasthan, (14) Lord Palmerston's speech in the debate on the relinquishment of the Protectorate of the Ioman Islands :(15) the speech of Lord Thurlo in the debate in the House of Lords on the cessions made at the Peace of Versailles reported in the History of Parliament, (16) British and Foreign State Papers; Hertslet's Commercial Treaties (17) Grant's Observations on the Revenue of Bengal, (18) Colebrooke's Remarks on the Husbandry of Bengal, (19) Maine's Ancient Law, (20) A Memoir on the Land Tenure and Principles of Taxation in Bengal published by a Bengal Civilian in 1832,(21) Taylor's Medical Jurisprudence (22) Wigram on Malabar Law and Custom. Logan's Treatise on Malabar and Glossary (23) Chevers' Medical Jurisprudence (24) Lyon's Medical Jurisprudence, Playfair's Science and Practice of Midwifery, (25) Shakespeare's Dictionary, (26) Morley's Glossary inserted in his Digest, (27) Minutes of Sir Thomas Munro, (28) Clark's Early Roman has refused (Patterson v. McCandand, 3 Bland (Ind ), 69 (Amer.)) to take judicial notice of the alleged conclusion that each concentric layer of a tree notes a year's growth Wharton, Ev., § 335

- (1) S 11 [All Courts and persons afore-said may, on matters of public history, literature, science, or art, rifer, for the purposes of evidence, to such published books, maps, or charts as such Courts or persons shall consider to be of authority on the subject to which they relate), and see s. 6, sb. [In all cases m which the Court is directed to take judicial notice, it may resort for its aid to appropriate books or documents of reference 1
- (2) Thakooraner Dunere & Bishenhur Mookerjer, 3 W R , Act N, 29 at p 40 (1865) . Ishore Ghose v. Hills, W R , Sp No , 48, 51 (1862)
- (3) Thakourance Dossee v. Bisheshur Monkerjee, aupra, at p 56. 'The three greatest and best authorities on the modern Native States. Tod's Rajpootana for the North of India, Malcolm's Central India for the Centre, and Buchanan s Journey in Mysore for the South, ' per Phear, J.
  - (4) it
- (5) 16 (6) Ib , 31, 35. Shelh Sultan v. Shelh Apmedin, 17 B., 448 (1892) , Foreder v Secretary of Male, 18 W R , 354 (1872).
- (7) Thakorance Dossee v Busheshur Monker /rr, supra, 31, 84
- (8) 15 , 33, 84 , Hills v. Inhore Ghose, W. R. Sp. No., 40; Ishore Ghore v. Hills, W. R. Sp.
- No. 48 sc. 1 Hay, 350 (9) Thakorance Dassee v . Bishrobur Mosker-1er, 3 W. R., Act N. R 91, 92, 101 Ishore Ghore v. Hall, W. R., S. P. No., 48, 52.
- (10) Thakerence Dame v. Enkesker Minder-Pr., supra, 102, 114.

- (11) Ib . 103 . Shelh Sultan v. Shekh Aimodin. 17 B., 443, 444 (1892), Cherukunneth v. lengunot, 18 M . 2 (1894) . Juandas Keskarıs v. Framıs Nanabhai, 7 Bom. H. C R . 45, 56 (1870), Ranga. eams Redds v Gurna Sammantha, 22 M., 267 (1839).
- (12) Thakemance Dessee v. Bisheshur Mookerjee, supra, 104, see observations of Sir Barnes Peacock on the Civil Law, 16.
- (13) 1b , Jotendromokun Tagore , Ganendromohun Tagore, 18 W. R., 364 (1872).
- (14) Maharana Shri v. Vodilal Jakhatehand, 20 B , 61, 72 (1894).
- (15) Pamodar Gordhan v Decram Kanys, 1 B . 380 (1876).
- (16) 1b, 386.
- (17) Ib , 387, 494, 395.
- (18) Hills v. Ishore Ghose, W. R., Sp. No. 40.
- (19) Ib
- (20) Ishore Chose v. Hills, W.B., Sp. No., 48, 49.
- (21) Ib
- (22) Hatim v. R., 12 ( L. R., 86 (1882); Herry Churn v R. 10 C. 140, 142 (1893); R v Dada Ana, 15 B , 452, 457 (1889) R. v. Kader Nasyer, 23 ( ., 608 (1896) , Tikam Singh v Dhan
- Annear, 24 A., 449 (1902). (23) Cherulunneth Nilalandhen v Vengunat Padmanalha, 18 M., 8, 11 (1894) .luquetine
- v. Medlycott, 15 M , 247 (1892) , Famasoms Ekaga-Mathar v. Augendrayyan, 19 M., 33 (1895)
- (24) R. v Dada Ana, 15 B., 457 (1889). (25) Tilam Singh v. Ilan Auswor, 24 A.
- 444, 449 (1902). (26) Gajraj Peri v. Achastar Peri, 16 A.,
- 191, 194 (1893). (27) Jorandas Keskarp v. Fromp Nanathes.
- 7 Borr. H. C. R., 45, 56 (1870). (24) Shekk Suban v Shekk Armedia, 17 B .. 447 (1892).

24

Law(1) Aitchison's Treaties,(2) Grant Duff's History of the Mahrattas.(3) a Portuguese work by Fra Antonio de Goneca published at Combra in 1606, the India Orientalis Christiana, by Father Paulinus, Hough's History of Christianity in India.(4) Fergusson's History of Architecture,(5) Hunter's Imperial Gazetteer of India,(6) the Duncan Records, Wynyard's Settlement Report. Robert's Settlement Report. (7) McCulloch's Commercial Dictionary. (8) Smith's Wealth of Nations, (9) Simcox's Primitive Civilization. (10) Wilk's History of Mysore, (11) Buchanan-Hamilton's Eastern India. Rajendra Lal Mitra's Budha-Gya, (12) Prinsep's Tables, (13) Koch and Schaell, Histoire des Traités de Paix, Dumont's Corps Diplomatique, (14) Annual Register. (15) Kattywar Local Calendar and Directory, (16) Borrodaile's Caste Rules (17) Lord Mahon's History of England, (18) Smollett's History, (19) Hallam's Middle Ages. (20) Maudsley's Responsibility in Mental Disease, and Bucknill and Tuke's Psychological Medicine, (21) Srinivasa Ayyangar's Progress in the Madras Presidency and Arbuthnot's Selections from the Minutes of Sir Thomas Munro. (22) Dubois' Hindu Manners, Customs and Ceremonies. (23) Atkinson's Gazetteer and Settlement Reports of Alighur, (24) Balfour's Cyclopædia of India; Thomas' Report on Chank and Pearl Fisheries; Thurston's Notes on Pearl and Chank Fisheries and Marine Fauna of the Gulf of Manaar; Emerson's Tennant's "Ceylon," Cosmos Indico pleustes: Abu Zaid "Voyages Arabes," Nelson's "Manual of the Madura Country, "(25) Hunter's Statistical Account of Bengal, Stirling's Account, Geographical, Statistical and Historical, of Orissa, (26) the Oxford New Dictionary, (27) and the Dictionaries generally, (28) and other similar books and documents of reference When the Lower Court relied on Sangunni Menon's History of Travancore as an authority with regard to certain alleged local usages, the High Court did not consider it regular to have relied on this book, which had not been made an exhibit in the cause, without first having called the attention of the parties to it, and heard what they had to say about the

v. Ganendro-(1) Jolendramohan Tagore mohun Togore, 18 W. R., 366 (1872).

(2) Shelh Sulinn v. Shelh Aymedin, 17 B., 439 Damodhar Gordhan v. Deoram Kanp, 1 B . 388, 389, 395, 397, 430, 431, 432, 433, 454, 456, 458 (1876); Lachmi Narain v. Raja Partab, 2 A., 17 (1878).

- (3) Shekh Sultan v. Shekh Aymodin, 17 B . 439
- (4) Augustine v. Medlycott, 15 M., 241 (1892) (5) Secretary of State v Shunmuqaraya Muda-16er, 20 I. A., 84 (1893)
- (6) 16., 83, arg. his description of the estuary of the River Hughli was referred to by the Court in the salvage action. In the matter of the Ger-
- man Steamship Deachenfels, 27 C., 860 (1900) (7) Bera, Bahadur v. Bhupindar Bahadur, 17
- A , 460 (1895). (8) Hormani Karsetys v. Pedder, 12 Bom. H.
- C. R., 206 (1875). (9) 16., 207.
- (10) Ramasami Bhagarathor v. Nagendrayyan, 19 M., 33 (1895).
- (11) Fakir Muhammad v. Terumola Charine, 1 ML, 213 (1876).
- (12) Jaipal Gir v. Dharmapala, 23 C. 74 (1895).
  - (13) Forester v. The Secretary of State, 18 W.

- R . 354
- (14) Damodhar Gardhan v Deoram Kanss. 1 B., 393 (1876).
- (15) 16 . 436
- (16) Ib , 454, 455,
- (17) Verabhas Ajubhas v Bas Hirabas, 7 C. W N. 716 (1903)
- (18) Lachmi Narain v. Raja Partab, 2 A., 21 (1878): in which also it was held that histories.
- firmans, treating and replies from the Foreign Office could be referred to (19) Ib , 15.

  - (20) Ib., 23, 24
  - (21) R. v. Kader Nasyer, 23 (*, 608 (1896)
- (22) Venkatanarsimha Nasdu • mudi Cottaya, 20 M., 302 (1897)
- (23) Ramasami Asyar's Jengudsiams Ayyar, 22 M., 113, 215 (1898)
- (24) Garuradhwaja Prasad v Superundhunja Prasad, 27 I. A , 248 (1900).
- (25) Anna Kurnam v. Multupayal, 27 M., 557 (1903).
- (26) Shyamanand Das v. Roma Kanta, 32 C. 6, 13 (1904)
- (27) In to Dadabhai v. Jameedo, 24 B . 212
- 299 (1899).
  - (28) Ph., 293.

matter to which the book referred.(1) In the case of Saiid Alı v. Ibad Ali.(2) the Privy Council adversely observed upon a judgment of a Lower Court which appeared to them to have had the unsafe basis of speculative theory derived from medical books, and judicial dicta in other cases, and not to have been founded upon the facts proved in this. In Dorab Ally v. Abdool Azcez, (3) the Privy Council held that the fact "that the Province of Oudh was not, when first annexed to British India, or at the date of the execution, annexed to the Presidency of Fort William, was, if not one of those historical facts of which the Courts in India are bound, under the Indian Evidence Act. 1872, to take judicial notice, at least an issue to be tried in the cause." In the undermentioned criminal trial, the Court took judicial notice of the fact that at the period when the offence of dacoity was alleged to have been committed, the district of Agra was notorious as the scene of frequent and recent dacoities.(4) And in Ishri Prasad v. Lalli Jas.(5) the Court said with reference to a document: "It is common knowledge, of which we are entitled to take notice, that the original records of the Agra Divisions were destroyed during the Mutiny of 1857, and, therefore, under s. 56, cl. (c) of the Indian Evidence Act, the copy is admissible as secondary evidence of the original." There is a real but elusive line between the Judge's personal knowledge as a private man and his knowledge as a Judge. A Judge cannot use from the Bench under the guise of judicial knowledge that which he knows only as an individual observer. Where to draw the line between knowledge of notoriety and knowledge of personal observation may sometimes be difficult, but the principle is plain. (6) The Court may presume that any book to which it refers for information on matters of public or general interest, was written and published by the person, and at the time and place, by whom or at which it purports to have been written or published.(7) The penultimate (in so far as it deals with matters the subject of judicial Refreshing notice) and the last paragraph of section 57 follow the English rule, according Judge to which, where matters ought to be judicially noticed, but the memory of the Judge is at fault, he may resort to such means of reference as may be at hand. Thus if the point be a date, he may refer to an almanac, if it be the meaning of a word, to a dictionary; if it be the construction of a Statute, to the printed copy.(8) But a Judge may refuse to take cognisance of a fact, unless the party calling upon him to do so, produces at the trial some document by which his memory might be refreshed (9) Thus Lord Ellenborough (10) declined to take judicial notice of the King's Proclamation, the counsel not being prepared with a copy of the Gazette in which it was published, and in a case in which it became material to consider how far the prisoner owed obedience to his sergeant, and this depended on the Articles of War, the Judges thought that these ought to have been produced.(11) It has been said that "with regard to rules of law, the Judge stands in a somewhat different position to that in which he stands in regard to what, as opposed to law, are called the 'facts' of the case. The responsibility of ascertaining the law rests wholly with the Judge. It is not necessary for the parties to call his attention to it; and the last paragraph of the section is not applicable to it."(12) In many cases, the Courts have themselves made the necessary enquiries, and that, too, without strictly confining their researches to the

<sup>(1)</sup> Inilabka v. Vadurudana, 12 M., 493 re Dausput Stagl. 20 C. 796. (1583)

<sup>(2) 23</sup> C , I, 14 (1895)

<sup>(3) 5</sup>L A., 116, 124 (1878)

<sup>(4)</sup> R v. Eldr, 23 A . 124, 125 (1940).

<sup>(5) 22</sup> A., 302 (1900).

<sup>(6)</sup> Higmore, Ev., $ 2500 for the case of a Judge giving his own personal experience, see In

<sup>(7)</sup> S. 67, post.

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Er , § 2L

<sup>(10)</sup> In Lan Omeron v. Dorvit, 2 Camp. 44.

<sup>(11)</sup> Cited by Buller, J., in E. v. Hdt, 5 T. P., 446.

<sup>(12)</sup> Marller, Er. Act. 50.

time of the trial. Thus where the question was, whether the federal republic of Central America had been recognised by the British Government as an independent State, the Vice-Chancellor sought for information from the Foreign Office :(1) in another case, the Court of Common Pleas directed enquiry to be made in the Court of Admiralty as to the Maritime law : (2) and the same Court also once made enquiry as to the practice of the enrolment office in the Court of Chancery :(3) while Lord Hardwicke asked an eminent conveyancer respecting the existence of a general rule of practice in the latter's profession (4) So the Lord Chancellor made enquiry at the India House upon which it appeared from the proceedings of the Governor-General of Bengal that a certain person was a Magistrate ;(5) and the Vice-Chancellor made enquiry of the United States Legation whether credit would be given in the Courts of America to a document in a particular shape with a view to its admission in evidence ,(6) and in a recent case enquiry was made at the Colonial Office as to the status of the Sultan of Johore. (7) So a similar practice has been followed in this country where in applications under the Civil Procedure Code, section 380, that the plaintiff be required to furnish security for the costs of a suit, it was necessary to determine whether the cantonments of Wadhwan and Secunderabad were within the limits of British India, the Bombay Court (8) directed its Prothonotary to make enquiries from the Secretariat ;(9) and the Calcutta Court(10) directed the Registrar of the Court to write to the Foreign Office to ascertain the circumstances under which the place came into existence as a British cantonment and the real character of its connection with the British Government.(11) It being suggested in the Insolvency Court of Bombay that it was desirable to enquire what had been the practice of the High Courts at Calcutta and Madras, the Bombay High Court directed letters to be written by the Prothonotary to the officers of both these Courts, requesting them to give the required information.(12)

Facts admitted need not be proved

58. No fact need be proved in any proceeding which the parties thereto or their agents agree to admit at the hearing, or which, before the hearing, they agree to admit by any writing under their hands, or which by any rule of pleading in force at the time, they are deemed to have admitted by their pleadings:

Provided(13) that the Court may, in its discretion, require facts admitted to be proved otherwise than by such admissions.

- Taylor v. Bartlay, 2 Sun. 221. See also The Charkith, 42 L. J., Adm., 17. Cited in Inchms Narasa v. Raja Pariah, 2 A., 17 (1878).
  - schmi Narain v. Raja Partah, 2 A., 17 (1818). (2) Chandler v. Greaver, 2 H. Bl., 606, n. (a).
  - (3) Doe v Lloyd, 1 M. & Gr., 685.
- (4) Willoughby v. Willoughby, 1 T R., 772.
- see Taylor, Ev., § 21.

  (5) Hutcheson v. Mannington, 6 Ves., 823,
  - (3) (6) In to Incia's Trusts, L. H., 8 Eq., 99, 99.
- (7) Mighell v. Sultan of Johors, 1 Q. B. (1894), 149, 161. In reply a letter was sent, written by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, It was contended that the letter was not sufficient, but Kay. L. J., placetyel, "I confess I cannot

- conceive a more satisfactory mode of obtaining information on the subject than such a letter,"
- and the statement was held to be conclusive.
  (8) Bayley, J.
- (9) Triceam Panachand v. Bombay, Baroda, Ac., Railway, 9 B., 244, 247 (1885).
- (10) Sale, J. (11) Hassain Als v. Abid Als, 21 C. 177, 178
- (1893) See also Lochmi Narain v. Raja Partab, 2 A., 7 (1878).
- (12) In to Bhogwandas Hurjinson, 8 B., 511, 516 (1884).
- (13) See, as to the proxime and application of the section, Oriental, etc., Assurance Co. v. Nara-simha Chari. 25 M. 207 (1901).

Principle.—Proof of such facts would ordinarily be futile. The Court has to try the questions on which the parties are at issue, not those on which they are agreed.(1) See Notes, post, and Introduction, ante.

s 3 (" Fact.")

s. 3 (" Proved.")

. 3 (" Court.")

Steph. Dig., Art. 60; Taylor, Ev., §§ 724A. et seq. 783; Annual Practice, O.32, rr. 1—5; Civ. Pr. Code, O. XI, and O. XII, pp. 751—779, O. XVIII, r. 5, p. 708; Gresley, Ev., 47—51; (Admissions by agreement and waiver of proof) 455, et seq.; (Effect of the Admissions), 9—6; (Admissions in the Pleading); Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 12th Ed., 120, 121; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 72-75; Powell, Ev., 303—309; Phipson, Ev., 37d Ed. 14.

COMMENTARY.

The section deals with the subject of admissions made for the purpose of Admissions dispensing with proof at the trial, which admissions must be distinguished from for purpose evidentiary admissions or those which are receivable as evidence on the trial.(2) A Court, in general, has to try the questions on which the parties are at issue, not those on which they are agreed (3) Thus the admission of a defendant's vakil in Court was held to be evidence of the receipt of a certain sum of money, and to do away with the necessity for other proof.(4) So also the admission of a fact upon the pleadings will dispense with proof of that fact. (5) Although a plaintiff, when the defendant denies his claim, is bound to prove his case by the document on which he relies, still if the defendant admits any sum to be due, that admission, irrespective of proof offered by the plaintiff, is sufficient to warrant a decree in the plaintiff's favour for the amount covered by the admission.(6) It appears to be doubtful upon the English cases whether admissions for the purpose of trial amount to more than a mere waiver of proof, and whether if a party seeks to have any inference drawn from facts so admitted. he must not prove them to the jury. (7) But the terms of the present section seem to show that proof of such facts is dispensed with for all purposes, and that inference may be drawn from them in all respects as if they had been proved by the party who seeks to draw from them such inferences.

Admissions for the purpose of a trial in civil cases may be divided into (a) admissions on the record, which are either actual, i.e., either on the pleadings of in answer to interrogatories or implied from the pleadings, and (b) admissions between the parties, which may either be by agreement or notice. (8) (b) by Such admissions may thus be made either (a) pursuant to notice. (9) (b) by

<sup>(1)</sup> Burjorjs Curselys v. Muncherys Kuverys.

<sup>5</sup> B., 143, 152 (1880).

<sup>(2)</sup> See as to these latter, so 17, 18, et eeq . aste, and pp. 128-129, aste

<sup>(3)</sup> Burjory Cureely v. Munchery Kurery,

<sup>5</sup> B., 143, 152 (1840)

<sup>(4)</sup> Kaleekanund Ehuttacharpee v. Gereebala Debra, 10 W. R., 322 (1868).

<sup>(5)</sup> Bargers Curedy, v. Muschey, Kareys Siples, ees at the case, post, but as to damis stora not made in the pleadings, but in a deposition, see Shith Beahin v. Farrets. Hars, S. Bon B. C. D., A. C. J. 123 (1871). As to settoped by pleading, see Damonoy Balon v. Durops Perilad, I. B. L. E., 27, 270 (1873). Aschoon Cluster's Kali Clara, 19 W. R., 272, 297 (1873). As to estopped generally, see a, 113, p. 126.

<sup>(6)</sup> Issur Chunder v. Anleidery Chunder, 6

W. F., 132 (1866).

<sup>(7)</sup> See Edmunde, v. Groves, 2 M. & W., 642, 645, per Alderson, B.

per Alderson, B
 Annual Practice, 1905, p 432.

<sup>(9)</sup> Annual Practice, 1985, p. 422.
(9) As in the case of a notice to admit genumeness of documents under 0 XII, r. 2, p. 776, of the Civ. P. Code, no. 0 327, r. 2, and generally as to admissions pursuant to notice, 0. 32, r. 1–55. Taylor, Ev. p. 2724, r. dep and as to discovery generally see *tp-ends and Civ. Pr. Code, 0 XI, pp. 301–174. In their the results proceedings of the code of the agreement at(1) or before(2) the trial ,(c) by the pleadings.(3) In the case of admissions made before the hearing, the section requires that the admissions be in the handwriting of the party or of his agent. The admissions mentioned in this section take the place of witnesses called to prove the facts admitted. but in any case the Courts may in its discretion require the facts howsoever admitted to be proved otherwise than by such admission. When an admission. as frequently happens, is made at the hearing, the Judge's note is sufficient record of the fact. Generally as to what takes place before a Judge at a trial, civil or criminal, the statement of the presiding Judge or his notes are conclusive. Neither the affidavits of bystanders, nor of jurors, nor the notes of counsel nor of shorthand-writers are admissible to controvert the notes or statement of the Judge.(4) It has been held that an admission in a civil case is conclusive if made for the purpose of dispensing with the proof at the trial.(5) But an admission made by a party to a suit or his attorney that a certain fact exists and need not be proved, does not dispense with proof of the existence of that fact subsequent to the date of the admission.(6) The function of admissions made on the pleadings is to limit the issues and therewith the scope of the evidence admissible. (7) Where in a suit for specific performance of an agreement the defendant admitted in his written statement the terms of the agreement and its execution, the Court held that the plaintiff was not called upon to prove the execution of the agreement. or to put it in evidence, and citing the case of McGowan v. Smith(8) and Gresley on Evidence, (9) remarked as follows - " A Court, in general, has to try the questions on which the parties are at issue, not those on which they are agreed, and 'admissions,' which have been deliberately made for the purposes of the suit whether in the pleadings or by agreement, will act as an estoppel to the admission of any evidence contradicting them. This includes any document that is by reference incorporated in the bill or answer,"(10) The point is not in issue, and as to the counter-statements of the parties, 'a plea or a special replication' admits every point that it does not directly put in issue. The same rule applies to an answer when it assumes the form of a demurrer or plea by submitting a point of law or by introducing new facts. Thus a submission 'that the defendants would not be in any way affected by the notice set forth in the bill, precluded them from

(1) S. 58, see Ch Al of the Civ. Pr Code, O XIV. pp 786-795 on the settlement of assues. A party is bound by an admission of fact made by his pleader at the trial, see Kaleelanund Bhuttacharree v. Greeebala Debra. 10 W. R. 322 (1868): Rayunder Narain v. Bijas Gorind, 2 Moo. L. A., 253 (1839), Khajah Aldool v. Gour Monee, 9 W. R., 375 (1808), Sreemulty Dossee v. Pstambur Pundah, 21 W. R., 332 (1874); Kower Narais v. Sreenath Mutter, D W. R., 485 (1868); Berkely v. Mussamut Chittur, 5 N.-W. P., 2 (1873) But where a valid upon a mutaken view of the law goes beyond and contravence his instructions, his erroneous consent cannot hind his client; Bam Kant v. Brindabun Chunder, 16 W. R., 246 (1871). A party is not, however, bound by an admission of a point of law nor precluded from asserting the contrary in order to obtain the relief to which upon a true construction of the law he may be entitled , Tayere v. Toyere, I A., Sup Vol. 71 (1872), Surendra Keshae v. Doorga Sundam, 19 [. A., 115 (1892) . Gopre Lall v. Chundravec Bull-ryce, 11 B L. E., 395 (1872). An erroneous admission by connect or pleader on a

Donnt of law does not bind the party; Maharan Bens v Dudh Nath, 4 C W. N., 274 (1899); Krishnap Norayan v. Rajmol Manicl, 24 B, 360

(2) S 58, and see (1v. Pr. Code, O. XII, Pp. 775-779, supra

(3) S 58, see p. 331, post

[4] R. A. Pealony, Diaston, 10 Born H. C. It., 75, 81 [1873], where the case are collected. Norton, Ex., 238 In an earlier case in the Calcutta High Court it was stated that a judgment dichlerately recording the admission of a pleader must be taken as correct, unless it as contradictly an affidiati, or the Judge's own admission that the record the major was wrong; Her Dyd. V. Hersoldi, 15 W. P., 107 (1871)

(5) Urquhari v. Butterfield, 37 Ch. D., 337: Hartry v. Croydon Union, 26 Ch. D., 240, Greek y. Ev., 4598; Taylor, Ev., 783

(6) Lawson's Presumptive Er., 189, eiting McLeid v. Woldey, 3 C. & P. 311.

(7) Wills, Ev., 101 (8) 26 L. J., (h. 8

(9) Law of Evidence, 457, 22

(10) 16 . 457.

disputing the validity of this notice.'(1) Such rules are to be applied with discretion in this country, where a strict system of pleading is not followed ;(2) but here, as I suppose everywhere, the language of Lord Cairns holds true, ' that the first object of pleading is to inform the persons against whom the suit is directed, what the charge is that is laid against them.'(3) The principle is equally valid as applied to either party in the cause. The Court is to frame the issues according to allegations made in the plaint or in the written statements tendered in the suit. . . . But the issues, as they stand, were suggested by the defendant's counsel. They waive controversy as to the actual execution of the document, assume it to have been executed, and raise questions only that depend for their pertinence on that assumption. Under such circumstances the plaintiff is not, I think, called on to prove the execution of the document or to put it in evidence If the document being pronounced absolutely invalid for some purpose on considerations of public policy it were sought to defeat the law through the effect usually given to an admission in pleading, such an attempt could not be allowed to succeed, but for its proposed purpose in this case it is not invalid "(4) An admission may be implied. Thus where a suit is so conducted as to lead to the inference that a certain fact is admitted, the Court may treat it as proved, and a party in appeal cannot afterwards question it and recede from the tacit admission.(5) And this is so not only for the particular issue, but for all purposes, and for the whole case.(6) So, where counsel, in his opening. states, though he does not subsequently prove, his client to be in possession of a certain document, this will, after notice to produce, admit secondary evidence thereof from his adversory. (7) Where in an action of salvage the defendants admitted in their defence all the facts alleged in the various statements of claim, but not the inferences sought to be drawn from them, it was held that further evidence as to the salvage services was inadmissible, the Court being only concerned with the admitted facts.(8)

A vakil's general powers in the conduct of a suit include the power to abandon an issue which in his discretion he thinks it inadvisable to press (9)

The effect given in the English Courts to admissions on the pleadings was Pleadings formerly greater than that given to admission in the less technical pleadings in the Courts in India.(10) But now under the Code of Civil Procedure O. 8, r. 5, "Every allegation of fact in the plaint if not denied specifically or by necessary implication or stated to be not admitted in the pleading of the defendant shall be taken to be admitted except as against a person under disability: Provided that the Court may in its discretion require any fact so admitted to be proved otherwise than by such admission."

This rule is taken from the English O. XIX, r. 13; but that rule has been modified in accordance with this section (11)

<sup>(1)</sup> Grealey, Ev., 457, 22.

<sup>(2)</sup> See next paragraph

<sup>(3)</sup> Browne v McClintocl, 6 E. & I, App at

<sup>(4)</sup> Burjorji Curselji v. Muncherji Kuterji, 5 B., 143, 152, 153 (1880); see Sambayya v. Gangayya, 13 M., 312 (1880); but as to admissions with respect to unstamped or unregutered documents, see s. 65, post, cl. (b)

 <sup>(5)</sup> Mohima Chunder v. Ram Kishore, 22 W. R.,
 174 (1875); s.e., 15 B. L. R., 142, 155; following Stracy v. Elale, 1 M. & W., 188; Doe v. Roe, 1 E. & B., 279.

<sup>(6)</sup> Bolton v. Sherman, 2 M. & W., 403. (7) Duncombe v. Daniell, 8 C. & P., 222, approved in Haller v. Worman, 2 F. & F., 165, 3 L. T. N. S., 741; contra Machell v. Essell, 1 C. &

K, 682, in which Pollock, C. B., declined to take the facts from the opening of counse! (8) The Buteshire (1909), P., 170.

Venkata Narasımha v. Bhashyakarlu Aaudu,
 M., 367 (1902).
 Ameridal Bose v. Rajoneekant Metter, 15

B L. R. (P.C.), 10, 23 (1875), 28 W. R., 214; L. R., 2 I. A., 113, per Sir B. Pescock: Burjorj Curstif: v. Muncherji Kurery, 5 B., 143, 152 (1880), per West, J. (Rules with regard to admission by pleading must be applied with discretion in this country]; Norton, Er., 115.

<sup>(11)</sup> O. VIII, r. 5, p. 708.

The section only deals with the authority of agents to make admissions of particular facts in the suit. There is a considerable difference between the case where a pleader by way of compromise purports to give up a right claimed by the chent, or to saddle him with a liability that is not admitted, and the case where a pleader makes admissions as to relevant facts in the usual course of hitigation, however much those admissions affect the chent's interest. The obviously necessary for the due conduct of litigation would so embarrass and thwart a pleader as in a great measure to destroy his usefulness. But no such undesirable results would follow from holding that in the absence of specific authority a pleader cannot bind by compromises strictly such (1) time relieve his adversary from the necessity of proof; and the generality of

In a civil case there is no doubt that the party of his pleader may at any Criminal cases.

> the language used in this section might lead to the inference that this was so in a criminal trial also. But as to admissions before the hearing it is certain that in a criminal case they can only be used as evidence, and for this purpose it does not signify whether they are in writing or not; and it is generally supposed that in a criminal charge admissions made after a plea of not guilty can also only be made use of as evidence.(2) In England the rule has been stated to be that in a trial for felony the prisoner (and therefore also his counsel, attorney or vakil) can make no admissions so as to dispense with proof, though a confession may be proved as against him and and to the admissibility of conf ractice of the Judges at the nv admission (4) In a case also of indictment for a misdemeanour (perjury) where it appeared that the attorneys on both sides had agreed that the formal proof should be dispensed with and part of the prosecutor's case admitted, Lord Abinger, C. B., said "I cannot allow any admission to be made on the part of the defendant unless it is made at the trial by the defendant or his counsel, and the defendant's counsel declining to make any admission the defendant was acquitted.(5) Prior to this Act the reported decisions are not uniform (6) It has been suggested that the section applies to civil suits only.(7) Though it is not in terms so strictly limited, the suggestion receives warrant from the phraseology employed which is more suitable to civil than to criminal proceedings. Whether this section applies to criminal cases or not, the Court may, by the express terms of the section, in its discretion require the facts admitted to be proved otherwise than by such admissions It is not the practice of counsel or vakils to make admissions in criminal cases, and even if they have the power, they will seldom, if ever, assume the responsibility of making such admissions. Were such an admission made, the Court would doubtless in most criminal cases require the facts admitted to be proved otherwise than by such admissions under the provisions of the last paragraph of the section.(8) As to a plea of guilty see s. 43, pp. 386-87, ante.

of each party."

<sup>(1)</sup> In the previous editions this subject which does not belong to the Law of Evidence will be found treated

und treated (2) Markby, Ev., Art. 51

<sup>(3)</sup> Steph. Dig , Art. 60.

<sup>(4)</sup> Phill., Ev., 10th Ed., 391, n. 6, Wills, Ev., 119, see Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 120, 121.

<sup>(5)</sup> R. v. Thornaul, 8 C. & P., 575; it will be observed that the was a case of admission before trial, the Judge assuming that an admission could be made at the trial by the defendant or his counse?

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v Kazim Mundle, 17 W. R., Cr., 40

<sup>(1872),</sup> it was held that admissions made by a primoner's valid ramen be used against the personer. But in R. v. Goudon, 12 W. F., Cr., 26 (1899), proof of a fact was dispensed with on the admission of the prisoner's commely in the case of R. v. harmon Chandra, 12 W. H., Cr., 76 (1890), it was said, with reference to a particular arrangement, "so far as prisoners can assent to any thing, that arrangement was assented to by the valid

<sup>(7)</sup> Norton, Ev., 239. (8) r also notes to s 5, ante.

CHAPTER IV.

OF ORAL EVIDENCE.

ORAL evidence has been defined by the Act to be all statements which the Court permits or requires to be made before it by witnesses in relation to matters of fact under enquiry (1). This Chapter declares (a) that all facts except the contents of documents may be proved by oral evidence, a proposition of law which, though obvious, was lost sight of in several cases anterior to the passing of the Act. So it was held that oral evidence, if worthy of credit, is sufficient without documentary evidence, to prove a fact or title (2) such as boundaries (3) the existence of an agreement, e.g., a farming lease (4) the quantity of defendant's land and the amount of its rent (5) the fact of possersion; (6) a pre-eriptive title (7) a pedigree; (8) an adjustment of accounts, (9) the discharge of an obligation created by writing; (10) in short (as the section now declares), all facts except the contents of documents.

It is an error to suppose that oral evidence not supported by documentary evidence, so in o importance whatever for the determination of the true merits of a case (11) There is no presumption of perjury against oral testimony, but before acting upon such testimony its credibility should be tested both intrinsically and extrinsically [12] And in the contradiction of oral testimony, which occurs in almost every Indian case, the Court must look to the documentary evidence, in order to see on which side the truth less [13]. Much greater credence also is to be given to men's acts than to their alleged words, which are so easily mistaken or misrepresented. [14]

The contents of documents may not (except when secondary evidence is admissible)(15) be proved by oral evidence because it is a cardinal rule, not one of technicality but of substance, which it is dangerous to depart from, that where written documents exist, they shall be produced as being the best evi-

- (1) S. 3, ante, as to testimony by signs, see note to s. 59, post
- (2) Bam Soundur v (Lima Bibre, 8 W R., 366 (1867)
- (3) Ranse Surut v Rapender Kishore, 9 W R, 125 (1858) but see Goluck Chunder v Rajah Sesamurd, W R (1864), 135.
- (4) Goluck Kishore v. Aund Mohun, 2 W R., 394 (1869)
- (5) Dence Singh v Doorga Pershad, 12 W R
- 348 (1872)
  (6) Sheo Suhaye v Goodur Roy, 8 W R, 328
  (1867). Thakoor Deen v Novab Syud, 8 W R
  341 (1867). Maharajah Golind v. Rajah Anund,
- W. R., Cr., 79 (1866)
   Meharban Khan v. Muhbud Khan, 7 W.
   R., 482 (1867)
- (8) Mohidin Ahmed v. Sayyid Muhammad,
- 1 Mad. H. C. R., 92 (1862)
  (9) Kampililariravirappa 1 Somarumuda

- ram, I Mad. H C. R., 183 (1853), Purnima Choudhrain v. Nutanand Shah, B L R., Sup. Vol., F B., 3 (1863).
- (10) Ramanadamisratyor v. Rama Ehatter 2 Mad H. C. R., 412 (1865). Guman Gullublai v. Soroby Baryory, I. Bom. H. C. R., II. (1863), Dalip Singh v. Durga Pravad, I. A., 442 (1877) (even though three be a written receipt not produced), see, 91, 101 (e), post.
  - (11) Girdharee Lall v Medho Roy, 18 W R
- 323 (1872).
  (12) In the matter of Geometrie, 17 W. R., (r.,
- 60 (1872).
   31 Mussumat Imam v Hurgers ad Ghose, 4
   Moo I. A. 403, 407 (1848), s. c., 7 W. P., P. C., Elours Singh v. Hiralal Seel, 2 B. L. R.,
- P. C., 4 (1868), s. c., 11 W. R., P. C., 24 (14) Meer Usdoullah v. Beeby Imaman, 1 Meo. I. A., 19, 42, 43 (1836)
- (15) Are a, 65, prof.

The section only deals with the authority of agents to make admissions of particular facts in the suit. There is a considerable difference between the case where a pleader by way of compromise purports to give up a right claimed by the client, or to saddle him with a hability that is not admitted, and the case where a pleader makes admissions as to relevant facts in the usual course of litigation, however much those admissions affect the chent's interest. The

Criminal

obviously necessary for the due conduct of htigation would so embarrass and thwart a pleader as in a great measure to destroy his usefulness. But no such undesirable results would follow from holding that in the absence of specific authority a pleader cannot bind by compromises strictly such.(1)

In a civil case there is no doubt that the party of his pleader may at any time reheve his adversary from the necessity of proof; and the generality of the language used in this section might lead to the inference that this was so in a criminal trial also. But as to admissions before the hearing it is certain that in a criminal case they can only be used as evidence, and for this purpose it does not signi posed that in a also only be mad to be that ma '

attorney or vakil) can make no admissions so as to dispense with proof, though a confession may be proved as against him, subject to the rules relating to the admissibility of confessions (3) In cases of felony it is the constant practice of the Judges at the Assizes to refuse to allow even counsel to make any admission.(4) In a case also of indictment for a misdemeanour (perjury) where it appeared that the attorneys on both sides had agreed that the formal proof should be dispensed with and part of the prosecutor's case admitted, Lord Abinger, C. B , said . "I cannot allow any admission to be made on the part of To Annies of to made of the small mat J.r. 1- 4 - 13 counsel; "

1e defendant

uniform.(6) mı - ıgh the AIT-> bv to be proved otherwise than by such admissions It is not the practice of counsel or vakils to make admissions in criminal cases, and even if they have the power, they will seldom, if ever, assume the responsibility of making such admissions. Were such an admission made, the Court would doubtless in most criminal cases require the facts admitted to be proved otherwise than by such admissions under the provisions of the last paragraph of the section.(8) As to a plea of guilty see s. 13, pp. 386-87, ante.

(1) In the previous editions this subject which does not belong to the Law of Pyalence will be found treated

(2) Markby, Et., Art. 51

(3) Steph. Dig , Art. (0).

(4) Phill., Ev., 10th Ed., 391, n. 6; Wills, Ev.,

110 , see Roscoc, Cr. Ev , 120, 121. (5) R. v. Thornhill, SC. & P., 575; it will be observed that this was a case of admission before trialthe Judge assuming that an admission could be made at the trial by the defendant or his counsel.

(6) R. v. Karim Mundle, 17 W. R., Cr., 49

prisoner's vakil cannot be used against the prisoner. But in R v. Gogalao, 12 W. R , Cr , 80 (1869), proof of a fact was dispensed with on the admission of the prisoner's counsel; in the case of R . Surroop Chunder, 12 W. R., Cr., 76 (1869). it was east, with reference to a particular arrangement, " so far as prisoners can assent to anything. that arrangement was assented to by the vakils

(1872), it was held that admissions made by a

(7) Norton, Ev., 23%. (N) r, also notes to a 5, ante.

of each party."

CHAPTER IV.

OF ORAL EVIDENCE.

ORAL evidence has been defined by the Act to be all statements which the Court permits or requires to be made hefore it by witnesses in relation to matters of fact under enquiry. (1) This Chapter declares (a) that all facts except the contents of documents may be proved by oral evidence, a proposition of law which, though obvious, was lost sight of in several cases anterior to the passing of the Act. So it was held that oral evidence, if worthy of credit, is sufficient without documentary evidence, to prove a fact or title .(2) such as boundaries .(3) the existence of an agreement, e.g., a farming lease .(4) the quantity of defendant's land and the amount of its rent .(5) the fact of possession .(6) a prescriptive title .(7) a pedigree .(8) an adjustment of accounts .(9) the discharge of an obligation created by writing .(10) in short (as the section now declares), all facts except the contents of documents

It is an error to suppose that oral evidence not supported by documentary evidence, is of no importance whatever for the determination of the true ments of a casa.(11) There is no presumption of perjury against oral testimony, but before acting upon such testimony its credibility should be tested both intrinsically and extrinsically (12) And in the contradiction of oral testimony, which occurs in almost every Indian case, the Court must look to the documentary evidence, in order to see on which side the truth hes.(13) Much greater credence also is to be given to men's acts than to their alleged words, which are so easily mistaken or misrepresented.(14)

The contents of documents may not (except when secondary evidence is admissible)(15) he proved by oral evidence because it is a cardinal rule, not one of technicality but of substance, which it is dangerous to depart from, that where written documents exist, they shall be produced as being the best evi-

- (1) S 3, ante, as to testimony by signs, see note to a 69, nost
- (2) Ram Soundur v Akima Bibee, 8 W R., 368 (1867)
- (3) Ranee Surut v. Rajender Kichore, 9 W. R. 125 (1868) but see Goluck Chunder v. Rajah Sreemurd, W. R. (1864), 135.
- (4) Goluck Kishore v Nund Mohun, 2 W R, 394 (1869)
- (5) Denoo Singh v Doorga Pershad, 12 W R 348 (1872).
- (6) Sheo Suhaye v Gordur Ray, 8 W. R., 328 (1867). Thakoor Deen v Novab Syud, 8 W. R., 341 (1867). Maharayah Gibind v Rajah Anund,
- [7] Meharban Khan v. Vuhlood Khan, 7 W. R., 482 (1867)

5 W. R., Cr., 79 (1866).

(8) Mohdin Ahmed v. Sayyid Muhammad, 1 Mad. H. C. R., 92 (1862). (9) Kampillariranarappa v. Simasumuddi.

- ram, 1 Mad H C R, 183 (1863), Purnima Chowdhrain v Nitianand Shah, B L, R, Sup. Vol., F B, 3 (1863)
- (10) Ramanadamisaraiyar v. Rama Bhatlar, 2 Mad. H. C. R., 412 (1865) Guman Gullubhai v. Sorabji Barjorji, 1 Bom. H. C. R., 11 (1863), Dalip Singh v. Durga Pravad, 1 A., 442 (1877)
- [even though there be a written receipt not produced], see s. 91, ill. (e), post
- (11) Girdhares Lall v. Medha Roy, 18 W. R., 323 (1872)
- (12) In the matter of Goomanee, 17 W. R., Cr., 59, 60 (1872)
- (13) Mussumat Imam v. Hurgovand Chone, 4 Moo I A. 403, 407 (1848); 8 c. 7 W. R., P. C., 67. Eloure Singh v. Hiralal Scal, 2 B. I. R., P. C., 4 (1868), 8 c., 11 W. R., P. C., 24.
- (14) Meer Undodlah v. Beeby Imaman, 1 Meo. I. A., 19, 42, 43 (1836)
- (15) See a. 65, post.

dence of their own contents (1) But the rule is confined to documents. — d for observations, goes to the weight, goes to the weight, of a written instrument, the instrument itself is primary evidence of its contents, and until it is produced, or the non-production is excused, no secondary evidence can be received. But there is no case whatever deciding that when the issue is as to the state of a chattel, e.g., the soundness of a horse, or the quality of the bulk of goods sold by sample, the production of the chattel is primary evidence, and no other evidence can be given till the chattel is produced in Court for its inspection.(2)

(b) Secondly, this Chapter declares that oral evidence must in all cases be direct. That is, it must consist of a declaration by the witness that he perceived by his own senses the fact to which he testifies. Thus if A is charged with the murder of B, and the facts alleged by mine witnesses in support of the Part L, are as follows. (a) A came run-o'clock. (b) Some one screamed out at e murdering me.' (c) A left his house

at 114, vowing that he would be revenged on B for pressing so hard for his debt. (d) There was blood at the scene of the murder and on A's hands and clothes. (c) There were tracks of footsteps from the scene of the murder to A's house, which correspond with A's shoes (f) The wound which B received was, in my opinion, of a character to cause death, and could not have been inflicted by himself. (g) The deceased said "The sword-blow inflicted by A has killed me." (h) The prisoner said to me, "I killed B because I was desperate." (i) The prisoner told me that he was deeply indebted to B. The prisoner was a man of excellent character.

All these various circumstances, statements and opinions could be relevant facts under Part I, and the rule now under consideration provides that, in each instance, they must be proved by direct evidence; that is, the fact that A came running from theseene of the murder, as alleged, must be proved by a witness, who tells the Court that he himself saw A so running, the fact of the screams heard by the second witness must be proved by the second witness telling the Court that he did hear such screams; the fact of A, having vowed, shortly before the murder, to be revenged on B must be proved by the third witness, who heard the vow is on the blood by the person who saw it, the footsteps, by the person who tracked and compared them; the doctor's opinion as to the wound, by the doctor testifying that that is his opinion, the dying man's statements, and the prisoner's confession by a person who heard them. They must not be proved by the evidence of persons to whom any of the witnesses abovementioned may have told what they heard or saw, or thought.

On the other hand, the evidence of the following seven witnesses would be indirect: (!) We child came in and said "I have seen A running in such a direction" (!) The police told me that screams had been heard at a such time. (m) Father said, "I am sure there will be murder, for A has just left the house, vowing to be revenged on B" (n) The police said that they had compared the foot-tept and found that they exactly fitted. (e) The doctor said that the man could never cut himself like that. (p) Everybody said that there was no more doubt, for the deceased man had identified the prisoner. (q) B's wife told me the day before that I was heavily indubted to him.

Dinomoyi Dels v. Roy Luchmopul, 7 L. A., 8 (1879).

<sup>(2)</sup> R. v. Francis, 12 Cov C. C., 612, 616, per Lord Coleralge, C. J., and as to notice to produce things other than documents, see Editor's Note to Line v. Taylor, 3 F. & F., 731 at p. 737; as to parol evidence of inscriptions on lanners, etc., see The King v. Hunt, 3 B. & Akl., 560, 574.

All the evidence of witnesses. (A) to (2), would be inadmissible, not because the facts to which it refers are irrelevant, but because it is not 'direct,' that is, not given by the persons who with their own senses perceived the facts described, or in their own minds formed the opinions expressed. The only use that could be made of it would be for the purpose of corroborating some other witness by proving a former consistent statement made by him at the time :(1) or of discrediting him by proving a former inconsistent statement. (2) Except for these purposes it would be inadmissible. (3) The section, however, provides by way of exception that if the fact to be proved is the opinion of an expert who cannot be called (which is the case in he majority of instances in this country), and if such opinion has been expressed in any published treatise, it may be proved by the production of the treatise. (4)

Upon the respective values of oral and documentary testimony, see the Introduction to Chapter V. post. The prevalence of false testimony in this country agms v.

instrume by a vast number of witnesses. There appears to us to be no objection to this testimony, beyond the observation which may be made on all Hindu testimony that perjury and forgery are so extensively prevalent in India, that little reliance can be placed on it." But all native evidence must not be doubted. "It is quite true that such is the lamentable disregard of truth prevailing amongst the native inhabitants of Hindustan that all oral evidence is necessarily received with great suspicion, and when opposed by the strong improbability of the transaction to which they depose, or weakened by the mode in which they speak, it may be of little avail. But we must be careful not to carry this caution to an extreme length, nor utterly to discard oral evidence merely because it is oral, nor unless the impeaching or discrediting circumstances are clearly found to exist. It would be very dangerous to exercise the judicial function as if no credit could necessarily be given to witnesses deposing tria toce how necessary soever it may be always to sift such evidence with great minuteness and care "(6) "It would indeed be most dangerous to say that, where the probabilities are in favour of the transaction, we should ' . general fallibility of native evidence which can never be maintained in this establish a rule that all oral evidence must be discarded, and it is most manifest that, however fallible such evidence undage and for which some districts are notarious. The upper and more district classes are as free from them as the same classes in other countries of equal extication and they repeat their existence among their less enlightimed countrymen,  $b_1$ ,  $p_2$ . So I must also be remembered that in the word of Jackson, J.), as withcases "we have to do also homo tuniversally, with the meaner classes, that the respectable matter as only length and the respectable and the meaner classes, as we should shun the small-pox, and that witnesses, as we should shun the small-pox, and that witnesses, where  $a_1$  is are scarced; a fair sample of the population,"  $R \times Elsh Bux, B \perp R, F, B, 482 (1866), See also Marchall R, 176, 182$

(6) Moodhoo Sondun v Soorup Chunder, 4 Moo I A, 441 (1849), and see observations in Wise v Sundulomina Chondrance, 11 Moo. I A., 187, 188 (1867), Niltristo Deb v. Bir Chandra, 3 B. L. E., P. C., 24 (1869).

<sup>(1)</sup> Ser # 157, post.

<sup>(2)</sup> Sec # 155, (3) post

<sup>(3)</sup> Cunningham, Ev., 38-40

<sup>(4)</sup> S 60, Prostso (1)

<sup>(5) 4</sup> Moo I A , 106 (1846) see also Mudhoo Soodun v Suroop Chunder, 4 Moo I A. 441 (1849) , cited in R v. Tiluk, 6 Bom L R , 330 (1904), in which the High Court commented on the profitless generalization as to the unreliability of native testimony , Bunuares Lal v Maharajah Helnarain, 7 Mon. I A., 167 (1858), Rama mani Ammal . Kulanthas Natchear, 14 Moo I. A., 354 (1871), R . Elah Bux, B L R . F B , 482 (1886) , Serrays Layaya v Chinna Nayana, 10 Moo I A, 162 (1884), Vuesamul Edun v Mutsamul Bechun, 11 W R , 345 (1869), and Field, Er , pp. 47-50, 57-67, where the subject is discussed. "It would, however, he a great mistake to suppose that all natives of India are addicted to these twee in which some natives may be, however carefully to be watched, justice never can be administered in the most important causes without recourse to it."(1) "The ordinary legal and reasonable presumptions of fact must not be lost sight of in the trial of Indian cases, however untrustworthy much of the evidence submitted to these Courts may commonly be; that is, due weight must be given to evidence there as elsewhere; and that evidence in a particular case must not be rejected from a general distrust of native testimony, nor perjury widely imputed without some grave grounds to support the imputation. Such a rejection, if sanctioned, would virtually submit the decision of the rights of others to the suspicion.(2) and not to the deliberate judgment of their appointed Judges. nor must an entire history be thrown aside, because the evidence of some of the witnesses is increditable or untrustworthy."(3) Evidence of witnesses though not independent, but not shaken in cross-examination and accepted by the Judge who heard them and saw their demeanour, should not be rejected on mere suspicion where the story itself as told by them is not improbable (4) The whole evidence is not to be rejected because part is false. The maxim "Falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" must be applied in this country with great discretion:(5) for it not uncommonly happens in this country that falsehood and fabrication are employed to support a just cause. (6) In the words of the Calcutta High Court "The Court will bear in mind that the use of fabricated written evidence by a party, however clearly established, does not the criminal law; but the Court should not, in a civil suit, inflict a punishment under the name of a presumption. Forgery or fraud in some material part of the evidence, if it is shown to be the contrivance of a party to the proceedings, may afford a fair presumption against the whole of the evidence adduced by that pirty, or at least against such portion of that evidence as tends to the same conclusion with the fabricated evidence. It may, perhaps, also have the further effect of gaining a more ready admission for the evidence of his Sundulcom va Chondraner, 11 Moo I A, 183 (1867), 7 W. R , P. C., 13 ["In a native case it is not uncommon to find a true case placed on a false foundation and supported in part by false and it is not always a safe conclusion that a case is false and dishonest in which such falsities are found] , Serrajs Isjaya v. Chinna Nayana, 10 Moo I A , 161-163 (1864): [If a party put in evidence in support of his title, documents proved to be forged, but the other cyclence adduced by him is not impeached, the Court, in rejecting the forgod documents, will take the unimpeached evidence into consideration, and if satisfied, adjudicate thereon "], Pattabliramier v. Venlatarow Nauclen, 7 B L R , 142, 143 (1871); Gorsbodla Gazee v. Goorsedus Roy. 2 W. R., Act X, 99 (1865), Bengal Indigo Co. v. Tarineepershad Ghose, 3 W. R., Act X, 149 (1865). Aulton Muhamed v. Hurdeb Doss, 19 W. R., 107 (1873). See also Keonjo Behares v. Ray Mothiceanath, 1 W. R., 155 (1864), in which case it was held that the Judges should not have dismissed the whole claim on the ground that great part of plaintiff's claim I emg shown to be untrue, none of it could be reliable

The ies of

Bunwaree Lal v. Maharajah Heinarain, 7
 Moo, I. A., 167 (1858), 4 W. R., P. C., 128

<sup>(2)</sup> Suspicion is not to be substituted for verificate, see Serema Chanders, v. Oppel Chanders, 11 Moo. 1. A, 28 (1869); Fore Bay v. Faitraddies, Mahomet, 9. B. L. R., 488 (1871); Sol. Chanders, v. Shitchandra Bhodleri, 6. B. L. R., 501 (1879). Objects v. Mahomet, 10. 10. I. A, 20 (1879). R. v. Ran Saran, 8. A., 315 (1885), and cases cited nutl note.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ramaman: Annual v. Kalantha: Natchear, 14 Moo. J. A., 354, 355 (1871), etted in Hammanrao v. Secretary of State, 25 B., 298 (1900): and or Nilkristo Int. v. Ber Chandan, 3 B. L. R. P. C., 13 (1869). s.c., 12 W. R., P. C., 21.

<sup>(4)</sup> Mophilan v. Ahmed Husin, S.C. W. N., 241 (1970); s.c., 26 A., 108, 116. In this case it was also keld that the description of a witness in the healing of deposition taken down in Court is no part of the exchance given by the witness on selema aftirmation: s.c., 6 Bon, L. R., 233

<sup>(5)</sup> See observations in Norton, Ev., cited in Field, Fv., at p. 61. Hammanison v. Secretary of State, 25 B., 297 (1980).

<sup>(6)</sup> Rance Surnompose v. Maharajah Sutterschunder, 10 May 1. A., 149, 150 (1864); Illus v.

opponents. But the presumption should not be pressed too far, especially in this country, where it happens, not uncommonly, that falsehood and fabrication are employed to support a just cause."(1) If a part of the evidence of a vitness is disbelieved, other evidence coming from the same quarter must be viewed warily; but that does not exonerate the Court from weighing whatever evidence has actually been tendered and the mode in which it has been met.(2) In Mccr Usdoolah v. Beeby Imamam(3) Baron Parke said :- " There are some other facts which are established beyond all possibility of doubt . and there is no better criterion of the truth, no safer rule for investigating cases of conflicting evidence, where perjury and fraud must exist on the one side or the other, than to consider what facts are beyond dispute, and to examine which of the two cases best accords with these facts, according to the ordinary course of human affairs and the usual habits of life; " and in another case the Privy Council said: "In examining evidence, with a view to test whether several witnesses who bear testimony to the same facts are worthy of credit, it is important to see whether they give their evidence in the same words, or whether they substantially agree, not indeed concurring in all the minute particulars of what passed, but with that agreement in substance and that variation in unimportant details which are usually found in witnesses intending to speak the truth and not tutored to tell a particular story."(4) In the undermentioned case(5) the Court observed with regard to discrepancies in evidence as follows :- " No doubt it may be contended that if these witnesses were tutored ones, care would have been taken to see that they should tell the same story. But care is not always taken or effectually taken, in such cases, and discrepancies are not less infirmative of testimony because a greater sagacity on the part of the witnesses would have avoided them."

In short, oral evidence must be considered in conjunction with the doen mentary proofs on the record, and the probabilities arising from all the surrounding circumstances of the case; and the only satisfactory mode of dealing with a disputed point of fact is to consider the full force and joint result of all the evidence, direct or presumptive, bearing upon the point, a precaution which is nowhere more necessary than in this country where oral evidence per se is looked upon with so much distinct.(6)

"The consideration of a case," observed their Lordships in the Privy Council in the case of Maharajah Rajendro v. Shoopursun Misser,(f) "no evi dence can seldom be satisfactory, unless all the presumptions for and against a claim arising on all the evidence offered or on proofs withheld, on the course of pleading, and tardy production of important portions of claim or defence be viewed in connection with the oral or documentary proof which per se might suffice to establish it." "The observance of this rule is nowhere more necessary than in the Courts of Justice in this country. We cannot shut our eyes to the melancholy fact that the average value of oral evidence in this country.

Gorbodia Kazee v. Gooroodass Roy, 2 W. R., Act λ., 99 (1865)

<sup>(2)</sup> Romeswar Koer v Bharal Pershaud, 4 C W. N., 18 (1899), P. C. as to disbelled of one statement and setting up alternative case, see Corpers v Kedarnath Sarbadhikori, 5 C. W. N., 853 (1901).

<sup>(3) 1</sup> Moo I. A., 19, 44 (1836) * c 5 W. R., P. C., 26.

<sup>(4)</sup> Nana Naram v. Herer Punts, Marshall s Rep., 436 (1862) [analysis of conflicting evidence in a suit setting up a will]. In Haranund Roy v.

Ram tiopal, 4 C. W. N., 430 (1899), the Pray Council speak of "small differences quite consistent with the truthfulness of the witnesses who, it will be remembered, were speaking of conversations some 12 or 14 years after they took place" and see remarks at p. 431, 26.

<sup>(5)</sup> R v. Kalu Patel, 11 Dom H C R, 146
1874)
(6) Rajah Leelanund v. Mussamut Easkeeroonisso, 16 W R., 102 (1871), for Drashanath Mitter, J.

<sup>(7) 10</sup> Moo, L. A. 432

is exceedingly low; and although in dealing with such evidence we are not to start with any presumption of perjury, we cannot possibly take too much care to guard against undue credulity. There is hardly a case involving a disputed question of fact, in which there is not a conflict of testimony; one set of witnesses swearing point blank to a particular state of facts, the other swearing with equal distinctness to a state of facts diametrically opposed to it.(1) If therefore we were to form our conclusions upon the bare depositions of the witnesses, without reference to the conduct of the parties and the presumptions and probabilities legitimately arising from the record, all hope of success in discovering the truth must be at an end,(2)

In the case last mentioned the same learned Judge observed as follows:(3)-

'It is a truth confirmed by all experience, that in the great majority of cases fraud is not capable of being established by positive and express proofs.

duty it is to

1 every case, We do not mean to say that haud can be established by any less proof or by any different kind of proof from that which is required to establish any other disputed question of fact, or that circumstances of mere suspicion which lead to no certain result should be taken as sufficient proof of fraud, or that fraud should be presumed against anybody in any case; but what we mean to say is that in the generality of the proof of the presumption c a reasonable mind of the existence of fraud by raising a counter-presumption, there is no reason whatever why we should not act upon it

It a Judge in dealing with a question of fact forms his conclusion upon a portion of the evidence before him, excluding the other portion under an erroneous impression that it is not legal evidence but conjecture, there can be no doubt that the investigation is erroneous in law, and that the error thus committed is likely to have produced an error in the decision of the case upon the merits, inasmuch as it is impossible to say whether the Judge would have arrived at the same conclusion if he had looked into all the evidence upon the record without excluding any part of it from a mistaken idea that it was not admissible in 1.—.

the question of fre

decision on the merits."

Proof of facts by oral evidence

 All facts, except the contents of documents, may be proved by oral evidence.

Principle.—See Introduction, ante

3 (" Fact.")
 3 (" Document.")

ss. 61-66 (Proof of content of documents.)

<sup>(1)</sup> In some cases effect can be given to testimony without discrediting witnesses who have tiven opposing testimony. See Methor Mohan v. Bonk of Benyd., 1 C. L. It., 514 (in which case it was argued that it was impossible to find favour of plaintiff without impeaching the honesty and versuity of two Furogean gentleren of position, the secretary and manager of the Bengal Bank respectively].

(2) Mathura Fundey v Ram Rucha, 3 B L.

R., A. C. J., 112 (1869), per Mitter, J. (3) 16 , p. 110

COMMENTARY.

The distinction between primary and secondary evidence in the Act Proof of applies to documents only. All other facts may be proved by oral evidence. See facts by oral Introduction, ante, where this section is discussed. It is not very happily worded. Contents of documents may be proved by oral evidence under certain circumstances; that is to say, when such evidence of their contents is admissible as secondary evidence.(1) Where a fact may be proved by oral evidence it is not necessary that the statement of the witness should be oral. Any method of communicating thought which the circumstances of the case or the physical condition of the witness demand may, in the discretion of the Court, be employed. Thus a deaf mute may testify by signs, by writing, or through an interpreter. So where a dying woman, conscious, but without power of articulation, on being asked whether the defendant was her assailant, and if so, to squeeze the hand of the questioner, the question and the fact of her affirmative pressure were held admissible in evidence.(2)

60. Oral evidence must, in all cases whatever, be direct; oral evithat is to say-if it refers to a fact which could be seen, it must be the evidence of a witness who says he saw it:

if it refers to a fact which could be heard, it must be the evidence of a witness who says he heard it :

if it refers to a fact which could be perceived by any other sense or in any other manner, it must be the evidence of a witness who says he perceived it by that sense or in that manner;

if it refers to an opinion or to the grounds on which that opinion is held, it must be the evidence of the person who hold that opinion on those grounds :(3)

Provided that the opinions of experts expressed in any treatise commonly offered for sale, and the grounds on which such opinions are held may be proved by the production of such treatises if the author is dead or cannot be found, or has become incapable of giving evidence, or cannot be called as a witness without an amount of delay or expense which the Court regards as unreasonable:

Provided also that, if oral evidence refers to the existence or condition of any material thing other than a document, the Court may, if it thinks fit, require the production of such material things for its inspection.

Principle -This is the best evidence. Derivative or second-hand evidence is excluded owing to its infirmity as compared with its original source. (4) See Introduction, ante, and Notes, post.

(3) Oriental Government de Company v et seq. Powell, Ev., 157, and see Notes, post.

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Ev , 239 , see a 63, cl. (5), post Narasımha Chars, 25 M., 208, 209 (1901). (2) Best, Ev., p. 109, see R. v. Abdullah, 7 A. (4) Best, Ev , $ 402, et seg , Taylor, Ev. $ 567. 385 (F. B.), (1885), cited at p. 200, note 4, ante.

- . 3 (" Oral evidence.")
- s. 3 (" Fact.")

464

- s. 3 (" Evidence." s. 3 (" Court.")
- s. 3 (" Document.")

- ss. 45-51 (Oninion when relevant.)
- s. 51 (Grounds of opinion.)
- s. 45 (Opinions of experts.)
- 165 (Judge's power to put questions or order production.)

Steph. Introd., 161—163, 170, and passim; Steph. Dig., Art. 14, pp. 165—167; Taylor, Ev., §§ 567—606; Field, Ev., 380, 381, 169, 170; Best, Ev., § 402, et seq., and pp. 444—158; Powell, Ev., 157—169; Wills, Ev., Index, sub voc. 'Hearay'; Norton, Ev., 28, 174, 237, 238; Markby, Ev., 52, 53, 19; Wigmore, Ev., §§ 1361—1363, Index sub toc. 'Hearasy.'

COMMENTARY.

Rule against hearsay This section enacts the general rule against the admission of hearsay. "Hearsay evidence has been defined to be, and in its legal sense denotes, 'all the evidence which does not derive its value solely from the credit given to the witness himself, but which rests also m part on the veracity and competence of some other person '(1) Another definition is. 'the evidence not of what the witness knows himself but of what he has heard from others.' It has also been defined as 'A statement made by a witness of what has been said and declared out of Court by a person not a party to the suit.' Bentham's definition is: 'The supposed oral testimony transmitted through oral, supposed in the supposed oral testimony transmitted through oral, supposed the supposed oral testimony transmitted through oral.

tness.' It must be born the reference to what is done or written, but also to what is spoken. The general rule, with regard to hearsay evidence is, that it is not admissible, and within the scope of this rule is included all statements, oral or written, the probative force of which depends either wholly or in part on the credit of an unexamined person, notwithstanding that such statements may possess an independent evidentiary value derived from the circumstances under which they were made, and also where no better evidence of the facts stated is to be obtained. The fact, therefore, that a statement was made by a person not called as a witners, and the fact that a statement was made by a person of called as a corrected whatever, proof of what is not admissible on other grounds, are respectively deemed to be irrelevant to the truth of the matter stated. (20)

33, ante. The late Mr Justice Stephen is no evidence' had many meanings: its common and most important meaning, he said, might be expressed by saying that the connection between events and reports that they have happened is generally so remote that it is expedient to regard the existence of the reports as irrelevant to the concurrence of the events except in certain cases. Another meaning is, that it expresses the same thing from a different point of view, and is subject to no exceptions whatever. It asserts that, whatever may be the relation of a fact to be proved to the fact in issue, it must, if proved by oral evidence, be proved by direct evidence; e.g., if it were to be proved.

It is father, B, wh that D, C's elder by some one who, w

(i) Taylor, Er., § 570. As to the history of ments were constantly received, the Rule, see Wigmore, Fr., § 1364. Down to (2) Law Times, p. 4, May 2nd, 1806, the middle of the 17th century, herary stateslander) the speaking of the words was the very point in issue, they must be proved in exactly the same way; i.e., the fact of their utterance by the defendant must be deposed to by some person hearing them used. Evidence given as

The same of home of home of home on oath

on oath mination;
(c) it supposes some better testimony and its reception encourages the substitution of weaker for stronger proofs; (d) its tendency to protract legal investigations to an embarrassing and dangerous length; (c) its intrinsic weakness; (f) its incompetency to satisfy the mind as to the existence of the fact. for truth depreciates in the process of repetition. 'It is matter of common experience that statements in common conversation are made so lightly and are so hable to be misunderstood or misrepresented that they cannot be depended upon for any important purpose unless they are made under special circumstances: '(1) and (a) the opportunities for fraud its admission would open."(2) A statement which "if made by a witness" would be perfectly relevant is, when so made, excluded because it is wanting in the sanction and the tests which apply to sworn testimony and admitted only when in respect of the persons making it, or of the circumstances under which it was made, there is some security for its accuracy, which countervails the absence of those safeguards (3) The exceptional cases in which such statements are admitted are dealt with in ss. 17-39, ante.(4) Oral or written statements made by persons not called as witnesses, are generally speaking, and subject to the exceptions ment.oned, not receivable to prove the truth of the matters stated that is, such a statement is inadmissible as hearsay when it is offered as proof of its own truth. But statements by non-witnesses may be original evidence, and as such admissible, that is, where the making of the statement and not its accuracy is the material point.(5) The test whether a statement belongs to one class or the other is the purpose for which it is tendered.

(1) Steph. Introd , 161.

(2) Law Times, p 4, May 2nd, 1896 See Steph. Dig., pp. 165—167, Powell, Ev., 167, Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 187—191, Best, Ev., § 494, p. 444, et see, where the principle of the hearsay rule is discussed. Gresley, Ev., 204, Philips, Ev., 142.

(3) Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 189; Wharton, Ev., 170-176; Best, Ev., §§ 492-495, Steph. Dig., Art. 14 & Note vin, Taylor, Ev., §§ 567-666, Powell, Ev., 161-163; 1 Philips, Ev., 143., Doe d Wright v Tatham, 7 A & E., 313, 408.

(4) See notes to these sections: as: 17-31 (statements by persons who cannot be called as witnesses), 34-38 (statements made under special circumstances). To these may be added statements made un the presence of a party. See

(5) eg, statements which are part of the resource, whether as actually constituting a fact in issue (eg, a bibel) or accompanying one (m. 5, 8), statements amounting to acts of ownership, as leases, herenes and grants (a. 13), statements which corroborate or contradict the testimony of wincasse (m. 155, 167, 138). Enquiries make of, and answer received from, parties (themselves not called) tendered to the Judge to show reasonable search for a lost document or an absent person are admissible . (R. v. Braintree, 1 E. & E., 51 : Wyatt v. Bateman, 7 C & P., 586 . see notes to s 33. In some cases what is called a verbal fact ("There is a category of cases in which a man's words are his acts, sometimes indeed the most important acts of his life." ner Erle, J , Shilling v Accidental Death Co., post), may be admissible as original evidence, although the particulars of it may be excluded as hearsay, e.g., the fact that a person made a communication to another, in consequence of which an act was done (R. v. Williams, 4 Cox, 92; R. v. Bainuright, 13 Cox. 171), or consulted him on a civen subject (Shilling v. Accidental Death Co , 4 Jur. N. S , 244), see s. 8, and Cunningham, Ev. 94, or complamed of an injury (see s. 8, illusts. (j), (l) in this case however, according to Indian law, the particulars are receivable), or had a dispute, prior to the publication of a libel (s. 9, illust. b), see Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 183. 'Hearray,' m sta legal sense, is confined to that kind of evidence (whether spoken or written), which does not against

Rule hearsay.

The intention of this section is to take care that whatever is offered as evidence shall itself sustain the character of evidence. It must be immediate. It may not be mediate or delivered through a medium, second-hand, or to use the technical expression hearsay.(1) A who saw, heard, &c., must be produced. The fact cannot be proved through the medium of B who did not himself see. hear, &c., but is prepared to swear that A told him he had seen, heard, &c. So with respect to the fourth case, opinion evidence; when such is admissible; this section necessitates the production of the witness who holds the opinion : it excludes the evidence of any witness who can merely say that he has heard another express such as opinion. It is admissible evidence for a living witness to state his opinion on the existence of a family custom, and to state as the grounds of that opinion, information derived from deceased persons, and the weight of the evidence would depend on the position and character of the witness and of the persons on whose statement he has formed his opinion. But it must be the expression of independent opinion based on hearsay and not mere repetition of hearsay.(2) The same rule of excluding hearsay, second-hand, or mediate-evidence prevails with regard to circumstantial evidence, as to direct evidence Circumstantial evidence must be established by 'direct' evidence within the meaning of this section, namely, by witnesses who themselves saw, &c. the facts to which they depose, and which are the material for inference respecting the existence of the fact in issue (3) This "section provides that when it (i.e., the oral evidence) refers to a fact which could be seen, it (i.e., the oral evidence) must be the evidence of a witness who says he saw it. This last 'it' is somewhat indefinite; but I think that this 'it' has reference to the fact previously spoken of; and I think the fact previously spoken of is the fact deposed to, and therefore not always the fact which it is ultimately intended to prove. In other words, I do not think it was intended by this section to exclude circumstantial evidence of things which could be seen, heard, and felt, though the wording of the section is undoubtedly ambiguous, and at first sight might appear to have that meaning." (4) In the undermentioned case (5) the Privy Council held that the evidence of certain witnesses was hearsay and, to use the language of the Evidence Act, not relevant, and should be disregarded. Where evidence, such as hearsay, is improperly admitted the question for the Judicial Committee is whether, rejecting that evidence, enough remains to support the finding. (6) derive its credibility solely from the credit due to the witness himself, but rests also m part on the veracity and competency of some other person from whom the witness may have received his information Phillips, Ev., 143.

(1) In his notes on this Act, Markby, J. says that the first four paragraphs of this section have been supposed to have been intended to exclude that kind of evidence which is called hearsay, but that for the reason he states it is difficult to beheve this, and moreover hearsay would not be excluded by the language here used. For statements are facts and are so treated in se. 17, 29, passim. If therefore, A, a witness, had been told something by B and A were asked what B had told him, the evidence of A would refer to & fact which would be heard, and A is a notness who says he heard it; this section would therefore not exclude it. He states that the following universally recognised rule has been in fact omitted from the Act, etc. .- " No statement as to the existence or non-existence of a fact which is being enquired into made otherwise than by a witness whilst under examination in Court can be used as evidence " Markby, Ev , 52, 53, 19 (2) Garuradhuaja Prosad v. Superundhuaja Prosad, 23 A., 37, 51, 52 (1900).

(3) Norton, Ev., 240 The proof of the circumstances themselves must be direct. That is the circumstances cannot be proved by hearsay. Thus, if the circumstance offered in evidence is the correspondence of the prisoner's shoes with certain marks in mud or snow, the party who has made comparison and measurement must himself be called; not a third party, who heard from the measurer of the correspondence. Ib.

(4) Neel Kanto v. Jungobandho Ghose, 12 B. L. R., App. 18, 19 (1874), per Markby, J. (5) Lola Norain v. Lala Ramanuj, 2 C. W. N.,

(6) Mohur Singh v. Ghumba, 6 B. L. R., 495 (1870)

193 (1897).

The admissions of a person whose position in relation to property in suit it is necessary for one party to prove against another are in the nature of original evider.

Person is alive and has not been cited as a excluding hearsay evidence does not apply the party is prive or to admissions.

cited as a i excluding hearsay evidence does not apply t party is privy, or to admissions which he himself has made. V ral repute is admissible for t of the Criminal Procedure Cor the Judge may, in order to discover or to obtain proper proof or relevant facts, ask any question he pleases, in any form, at any time, of any witness, or of parties about any facts relevant or irrelevant.

The evidence offered in a Court of Justice is of two kinds. (a) substantive Hearing transport evidence, or evidence of facts necessary and relevant to the determination of nation. the issue; and (b) evidence of facts affecting the trustworthiness of the media by which the former evidence is presented to the Court, namely, evidence touch-by which the former evidence is presented to the Court, namely, evidence touching the credibility of the witnesses examined. This credibility is the subject of cross-examination. Hearsay is always inadmissible as substantive evidence whether that evidence be elicited in examination or cross-examination. hearsay may be admissible in cross-examination in so far as it touches the question of the credibility of the witness examined.(3) "The rule against hearsay applies in strictness to the proof of the relevant facts in the course of crossexamination just as much as to their proof by examination-in-chief, that is to say, a party is not entitled to prove his case merely by eliciting from his opponent's witness in cross-examination not his own knowledge on the subject, but what he has heard others say about it, but not verified for himself. The apphcation of the rule is, however, obscured by the fact that the opponent is entitled to test the witness's own conduct and consistency, and for that purpose to interrogate him as to statements made to him by other persons, so that the party by whom the witness was called is not entitled to exclude the question but only to comment to the jury on the effect and value of the witness's answer Similar considerations apply with even greater force to the witness's admissions in cross-examination of his own previous statements about the relevant facts "(4)

The first proviso, which makes an exception to the general rule analogous provisos to the exceptions made in section 32, should be read with section 45, ante, and is an alteration of the rule of English law, which does not admit this evidence. (5) The treatise in order to be admissible, must be one commonly offered for sale, and the author of it must be not producible within the meaning of the section. Strictly the burden of proving these facts will be upon the person who desires to give such treatise in evidence, (6) Section 45, ante, refers to the evidence of living witnesses given in Court. This section makes scientific treatises and the like, commonly offered for sale, evidence, if the author be dead, or under any of the erroumstances specified in section 32, which render his production impossible or impracticable. The Court has thus referred to Taylor's Medical Jurisprudence. (7)

In regard to foreign law, section 38, ante, makes certain books admissible which would not be probably regarded as treatises under this section. And it

<sup>(1)</sup> All Moders v. Eloyochandothil, 5 M., (4) Wills, Er. 99, 99, see Notes to a 137, poor, 239 (1852) (3) R. v. Easy, Fodehand, 6 Bom L. R., 34 up to English Law, generatives at not (1903).

<sup>(3)</sup> See Gamma Lall v R, 16 C., 210, 211, 215 (1889). "This case is, however, no authority for the contention that such evalence (hear-

<sup>18 107</sup> the contention that such evidence (hear-18ay) is admissible in cross-examination, except under the provisions of s 146, post," Field, Ev. 331.

ing to English Law, scientific treatises are not evidence, whether the author be producible or not. Collier v. Simpson, 5 C. & P., 74 (6) S. 104, post would be difficult to say that under the words of section 57 any books on science or art could not be consulted by the Judge without any restriction as to whether any person could be called or not (1) In respect of the second proviso it has already been observed(2) that the production of a chattel is not primary evidence of it A witness may, therefore, without infringing the rule relating to direct evidence, give evidence with reference to the existence or condition of any material thing, other than a document, without that material thing being produced in Court. This proviso, however, permits the Court, if it thinks fit, to require the production of such material thing for its inspection. Under section 165 also the Judge may, in order to discover or to obtain proper proof of relevant facts, direct the production of any document or thing.

<sup>(7)</sup> Hatam v. R., 12 C L. R., 86, 87, 88 (1882); followed in Harry Chara v. R., 10 C., 140, 142 (1883).

(1) Markby, Ev., 53.

(2) v. ante, p. 458.

4,516

157

CHAPTER V.

OF DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE.

DOCUMENTARY evidence means all documents produced for the inspection of the Court ;(1) and the definition given of a 'document' is very wide, covering many things which would not be considered documents in the popular acceptation of the word.(2) Aside from real evidence of which the Court or jury are the original percepient witnesses (3) and evidence of matters of which judicial cognisance is taken, (4) all evidence comes to the tribunal either (a) as the statement of a witness, or (b) as the statement of a document.(5) As the last Chapter dealt with the mode of proof in the case of the statements of witnesses, so the present deals with the mode of proof of statements which are contained in documents. But documents, being manimate things, necessarily come to the cognisance of tribunals through the medium of human testimony: for which reason they have been denominated dead proof (probatio mortua) in contradistinction to witnesses who are said to be living proofs (probatio viva).(6) The superiority in permanence and in many respects in trustworthiness, of written over verbal proofs has been noticed from the earliest times. Vox audita perit; litera scripta manet. The false relations of what never took place; and, even in the case of real transactions, the decayed memories, the imperfect recollections, and wilful misrepresentations of witnesses, added to the certainty of the extinction, sooner or later, of the primary source of evidence by their death—all show the wisdom of providing some better or at least more lasting, mode of proof for matters which are susceptible of it, and are in themselves of sufficient consequence to over-balance the trouble and expense of its attainment. (7) There is, moreover, often a great difficulty in getting at the truth by means of parol testimony.(8) But in the case of documents their genuineness may be shown by many facts and circumstances very different from mere oral evidence, and, moreover, the witnesses who are to prove a written document cannot resort to that latitude of statement which affords such opportunity of fabrication to purely oral evidence. There are more means of trying the genuineness of a written instrument than there can be of disproving purely oral evidence. For the truth of the transaction may be investigated by reference to the handw: ' alleged

he paper, the a comparison of the ich are proved to have actually existed at the date of its execution. Documentary evidence is especially valuable where there is a conflict of oral testimony as a guide to show on which side the truth lies.(3) Obviously the value of such evidence might be destroyed if the rule which required that the best evidence shall be given did not necessitate the production of the document itself, or an accounting for its absence to the satisfaction of the Judge (4) "One single principle runs through all the propositions relating to documentary evidence. It is that the very object for which writing is used is to perpetuate the memory of what is written down and so to furnish permanent proof of it In order that full effect may be given to this, two things are necessary. namely, that the document itself should, whenever, it is possible, be put before the Judge for his inspection, (5) and that if it purports to be a final settlement of a previous negotiation, as in the case of a written contract, it shall be treated as final, and shall not be varied by word of mouth. (6) If the first of these rules were not observed the benefit of writing would be lost. There is no use in writing a thing down unless the writing is read. If the second rule were not observed people would never know when a question was settled, as they would be able to play fast and loose with their writings."(7) The Act therefore requires that documents must be proved by primary evidence (that is, the document itself produced for the inspectionof the Court)(8) except in certain cases specifically mentioned by the Act.(9) Further, the general rule is that even oral admissions as to the contents of a document are not relevant unless secondary evidence is admissible.(10) In ters V. R. and the Crown , but the minute device on the arms and the difference of the motte wholly emajed him. The author has also more than once detected forgers as by the presence or absence of the distinguishing mark impressed on stamps issued before the mutmy, see Act XIX of 1858 It would be very easy to mark all stamppaper with the date of issue by means of an instrument, such as is used to mark radway takets. and the author is convinced that this simple contravance would do much to stop forgers by facthtating detection. In a large number of forgeries it is necessary to antedate, and the difficulty of presuring a stamp with a suitable date could be increased if stamp vendors were made to account more strictly for their sales than is at present the practice. The check of having the

<sup>(1)</sup> Bunuaree Lal v. Maharaja Helnarain, 7 Moo I A , 156 (1858) . In Field, Ev , p 65, note. the author says " Some years ago, the author discovered a forgery, in a case which came before him in appeal, by examining the stamp. A conveyance purporting to have been executed in 1855 was engrossed on a stamp-paper bearing the Royal Arms of England with V R. and a crown above. This paper was not manufactured till 1859, when Her Wajesty assumed the Covernment of India. The raper in use previously here the arms of the Fast India Company with the letters 1 The forger had partly erased the letpurchaser's name endorsed on the stamp is useless, as fictitious names are used. The author has detected more than one stamp vendor having stamp-paper ready endorsed with such fictitious names " Too great rehance should not be placed upon an apparently ancient document by reason of the genumeness of the stamp, for, as abovestated, it is well known that blank stamped papers, may be obtained which extend for very many years past. (2) Bunwaree Lat . Maharajuh Helnarass, supra, 156, 157

<sup>(3)</sup> v. ante, Introd. to ch. 1v

<sup>(4)</sup> See s. 64, post This rule as applied to documents is as old as any part of the Common Law of England , Taylor, In , $ 396, and cases there ented Bast, Et., p 15 "The best evidence of which the subject is capable ought to be produced. or its absence reasonably accounted for, or explained, before secondary or inferior evidence is received." Ramulalshmi Ammal & Strangathe Perumal, 14 Moo. I. A , 388 (1872); "if the bestevalunce he kept back, it raises a suspanon that, if produced, it would falsify the secondary evidence on which the party has rested his case," Steether v. Borr, 5 Bing , 151

<sup>(5)</sup> Sec a. 64, post.

<sup>(6)</sup> See as 91, 92, post

<sup>(7)</sup> Steph. Introd , 171, 172, (8) S. 62, jost.

<sup>(9)</sup> Sa. 64-66, post.

<sup>(10)</sup> See notes to a , aute . but this rule will not

dealing, therefore, with documentary evidence, the substantial principles, on which the authenticity and value of evidence rest should be observed :(1): thus secondary evidence should not be accepted without a sufficient reason being given for the non-production of the original (2) nor should documents be considered as proved because they have not been denied by the opposite side.(3) And notwithstanding the general value of documentary evidence. regard must be had to the habits and customs of the people of this country, and their well-known propensity to forge any instrument which they might deem necessary for their interest and the extreme facility with which false evidence can be procured from witnesses. Under such circumstances the probability or improbability.(4) of the transaction forms a most important consideration in ascertaining the truth of any transaction relied upon (5) The use of fabricated written evidence by a party, however clearly established, does not relieve the Court from the duty of examining the whole of the evidence adduced on both sides, and of deciding according to the truth of the matters in issue. (6) The presumption against the party using such evidence must not be pressed too far, especially in this country, where it happens, not uncommonly, that falsehood and fabrication are employed to support a just cause. (7) In addition to guarding against fraud care must be taken that the documentary evidence is in itself admissible, lest documents which are not strictly evidence at all should be used to prop up oral evidence too weak to be relied on.(8)

Documents are of two kinds, public and private. Under the former come Acts of the Legislature, judgments and acts of Courts, Proclamations, public books, and the like. They are also divided into 'judicial'; and 'not judicial'; and also into 'writings of record' and "writings not of record.' [9] Public documents other than those mentioned in the section are private [10] The Civil and Criminal Procedure Codes regulate the production of documents, [11] and the former, the discovery, admission and inspection of documents, [11] and the former, the discovery, admission and inspection of documents.

apply to admissions made under a. 55, onte, see Stekh Broksin v. Forenta, 8 Bom. H. C. R., 163 [A party's admission as to the contents of a document not made in the pleadings, but in a deposition, is secondary evidence, and cannot supply the place of the document itself.]

(1) Ranalakshin . Inmal v. Struanshin Petrimal, 1 Mon I. A. 588 (1872), see the polacial criticasms on the laxty of documentary videore, produced to the passing of this Act, in Business Left v. Molorija H. Hatarita, 7 Mon. I. A. 185, 188 (1855), e. c., 4 W. R. P. C. 129. Unade. Rapsho v. Penmanany I rehisterly, 7 Mon. I. A., 137 (1855), see p. 30, aste. The provisions of the Act must now, however, be strictly observed Ram Petrad v. Rapharadran Petrad, 7 A, 743 (1888), v. p. 720, post.

(2) Ramalakshm: Ammal v. Stvanantha, 14 Moo. I A., 588 (1872), Ram Gopel v Gordon Stuart, 14 Moo. I A., 461 (1872), z 64, post. Syud Abbas v Fødeem Ramy, 3 Moo I A., 186 (1813).

(3) Kirteebash Mayetee v. Ramdhun Ahoira, B. L. R., P. B., 638 (1867), Reasonasea v. Dooboo Choodhana, 12 W. R., 207, 208 (1869) [Every document must first be started by some proof or other before the person who disputes that document amount may be sound by it.]

note, p. 115, note (3), R. · Hebye, 124, Feld, E. S., 68, 69 · An Roylamodha v Ser Dreco,
 I. A., 175, 176 (176), Bawaret Lei v Jieharoph Historium, 7 Moo I. A., 155, 166, 157 (1853), Muldon Scoden v. Surcey Chander, 4 Moo I. A., 441 (1849), Choley Naran v. Massamul Rolon, 22 I. A., 23, 24 (1849), Herrichum Bote v. Monindra Nath, 19 I. A. 4 (1859); Wie v. Sandikonsan Chonditrate, II Moo. I. A., 187, 188 (1867), Messamut Edan v. Museumut Erchan, 11 W. I., 345 (1869)

(5) Bunwaree Lal v Maharajah Helnarain, 7 Moo I. A., 155 (1858).

(6) Gorshoella Gazee v Gooroodas Roy, 2 N R. Act X, 99 (1865), Servay Vipaya v. Chinn's Noyana, 10 Mos. I A. 151 (1864), v ante, p 357

(7) See cases cited at p 4% (8) Echourne Sing v Heeralal Seal, 11 W R.

P C, 2 (1868), ante, p 127, note (9) (9) Best, Ev., § 218, see 4 74, post.

(10) S. 75, post

(11) Cer. Pr. Code, O. VII., rr. 14-18, pp. 688-670, O. XI., rr. 14-23, pp. 767-774; O. XIII., pp. 780-788. The Court may send for papers from its own records or from other courts. is., O. XIII., r. 10, p. 785; the provisions as the documents are applicable to all other material.

ments in civil cases.(1) In criminal cases it is the duty of the Judge to decide upon the meaning and construction of all documents given in evidence at the trial (2)

There are three distinct questions which are dealt with in the Act in regard to documentary evidence—(a) firstly, there is the question how the contents of a document is to be proved; (b) secondly, there is the question how the document is to be proved to be genuine; (c) thirdly, there is the question how far and in what cases oral evidence is excluded by documentary evidence.

(a) The first question is dealt with in ss. 61-66 and is also affected by ss. 59 and 22. Taking s. 59 with ss. 61 and 64, the result may be stated as follows :- The contents of a document must in general be proved by a special kind of evidence called primary evidence; but there are exceptional cases in which such contents may be proved otherwise. Evidence used to prove the contents of a document which is not primary is called secondary. Primary evidence is said (s. 62) to be the document itself produced for the inspection of the Court. Later on in the section this is called the original document. The contents of public documents being provable in a particular manner, this matter is dealt with separately in ss. 74-78. The question how far witnesses may be cross-examined as to written statements made by them without producing the writings is dealt with by s. 145, post. (b) Besides the question which arises as to the contents of a document, there is always the question, when it is used as evidence—is it what it purports to be? In other words is it genuine? The signature or writing, sealing or mark and attestation where the latter is a necessary formality of execution must be proved. This matter is dealt with in ss. 67-73. Lastly, the Chapter deals 83. 79-90, with the presumptions which the Courts are enabled or directed to make in respect of certain documents or specified classes of documents tendered in evidence before them (c) The exclusion of oral by documentary evidence is the subject-matter of the next Chapter to the Introduction, to which the reader is referred. (3)

As to the stamping and registration of documents, see Appendix.

Proof of contents of documents Primary evidence

The contents of documents may be proved either by primary or by secondary evidence.

62. Primary evidence means the document itself produced for the inspection of the Court.

Explanation 1.—Where a document is executed in several parts, each part is primary evidence of the document.

Where a document is executed in counterpart, each counterpart being executed by one or some of the parties only, each counterpart is primary evidence as against the parties executing it.

Explanation 2.—Where a number of documents are all made by one uniform process, as in the case of printing, lithography or photography, each is primary evidence of the contents objects, 45. O. Mill, r 11, p. 786., See Feell, kv., 442. As to the prediction of documents and other morable property in criminal cases, see Cr. Fr Code, Chap. VII. As to applications in respect of endorsements made on exhibits, see of the rest; but where they are all copies of a common original, they are not primary evidence of the contents of the original.

Ralan Koer v. Cheley Narain, 21 C., 476 (1894) (1) Civ. Pr. Code, Orders XI, MI, MII, pp. 750-786.

<sup>(2)</sup> Cr Pr. Code, s. 298 (3) Markby, Et , 56, 57, 80

Illustration.

A person is shown to have been in possession of a number of placards, all printed at one time from one original. Any one of the placards is primary evidence of the contents of any other, but no one of them is primary evidence of the contents of the original.

63. Secondary evidence means and includes-

Secondary syldence.

- (1) Certified copies given under the provisions hereinafter contained;
- (2) Copies made from the original by mechanical processes which in themselves insure the accuracy of the copy, and copies compared with such copies;
- (3) Copies made from or compared with the original;
- (4) Counterparts of documents as against the parties who did not execute them;
- (5) Oral accounts of the contents of a document given by some person who has himself seen it.

Illustrations.

- (a) A photograph of an original is secondary evidence of its contents, though the two have not been compared, if it is proved, that the thing photographed was the original.
- (b) A copy compared with a copy of a letter made by a copying machine is secondary evidence of the contents of the letter, if it is shown that the copy made by the copying machine was made from the original.
- (c) A copy transcribed from a copy, but afterwards compared with the original is secondary evidence: but the copy not so compared is not secondary evidence of the original, although the copy from which it was transcribed was compared with the original.
- (d) Neither an oral account of a copy compared with the original, nor an oral account of a photograph or machine-copy of the original, is secondary evidence of the original.
- s. 3 (" Document.") s. 3 (" Proved.")
- s. 3 (" Evidence.") s. 3 (" Court.")
- s. 76.78 ("Certified copies.")

Steph. Drg , Arts. 63, 64, 70; Taylor, Ev., §§ 15-45, 394, 426, 550-553, cited and $\display$. Index $sub toc. ('Primary Evidence' and 'Secondary Evidence'), Norton, Ev., 241.

COMMENTARY.

Reference should be made to the definition given in the third section. Document. Exchequer tailies and wooden scores used by milkmen and bakers have been included in the term (1) So also an inscription on a ring i(2) or coffin plate ;(1) and perhaps a direction on a parcel.(2) On the other hand, it has been held in England that inscriptions on flags and placards exhibited to public view and of which the effect depends upon such exhibition bear the character rather of speeches than of writings and are not subject to the rules relating to documents.(3)

But in a recent case it has been held there that a sealed packet is a document and therefore liable to production upon a subpanad duces tecum, even when it had been confided to a banker upon the terms that he should not part with it without the depositor's consent.(4)

Meaning "primary and "se-condary" evidence (s. 61)

The contents of documents may be proved either by primary or secondary evidence. "Primary" and "secondary" evidence means this; primary evidence is evidence which the law requires to be given first: secondary evidence is evidence which may be given in the absence of the better evidence which the law requires to be given first, when a proper explanation is given of the absence of that better evidence.(5) Primary evidence of a document is defined by the Act to mean the document itself produced for the inspection of the Court (6) Secondary evidence is defined by section 63. Section 61 lays down that "the contents of documents may be proved either by primary or secondary evidence" within the meaning given to those terms in the Act; and this rule means that there is no other method allowed by law for proving the contents of documents. Whatever the law may have been upon the subject before the passing of this Act, the rules contained in this enactment must now be strictly observed.(7)

Primary vidence

Primary evidence means the document itself produced for the inspection of the Court. As the law requires that the particulars of a claim should be embodied in the decree, recitals of the contents of the plaint made in a decree are not secondary evidence of the contents of the plaint but are admissible as primary evidence of the statement of facts made to the judge as the basis of the plaintiff's claim.(8) Written receipts for payments are important, but by no means necessary as proof; nor are they of the nature of primary evidence the loss of which must be shown in order to let in secondary. (9)

If accounts be merely memoranda and rough books from which regular accounts are prepared, the former, it has been said, can hardly be treated as the original account (10) Though different classes of books of account may, and in fact in the larger number of instances must, deal with the same matter, it does not follow that one only of such classes constitute the original document. So where entries in a ledger were tendered and it was objected that the ledger was secondary evidence, being merely a copy of the cashbook, the Court admitted the ledger entries.(11)

The first portion of the first Explanation of section 62 refers to what are known as duplicate, triplicate or the like, originals. The expressions "execut-

738, 743 (1885)

(4) Mahommel Ismail v Bhuqqobutti Barmanya Appeal from original decree, Cal. H. C., No. 303 of 1897 (25th June 1900); as to the statement of a witness deposing that another person gave evidence being primary evidence, see Horanund Roy v. Ram Gopal, cited in notes to a 65, post. (9) Rameston Koer v. Bharat Pershad, 4 C. W.

N., 18 (1899) (10) Rajo Peary v. Narendra Nath, 9 C. W. N.

421, 431 (1905), see a. 34, ante.

<sup>(1)</sup> R v. Adge, Walls, Circ. Ev., 4th Ed., 212, per Maule, J. (the plate being removable). (2) R. v. Fenton, cited 3 B. & C. 760, per

Parke, B.; R. R. Co. v. Maples, 63 Ala., 801 (Amer ); contra Burrell v North, 2 C. & K , 680; Com. v. Morrell, 99 Mau., 542 (Amer.)

<sup>(3)</sup> R. v. Hunt, 3 B. & All , 566; Phipson, Ev.,

<sup>(4)</sup> R. v. Days (Div. Court), 1908, 2 K. B , 333. (5) Per Lord Esher, M. R., in Lucas v. Bilbane d Sms, L. R. 2 Q. B. (1892), 113, 116 . and see Taylor, Ev., § 374.

<sup>(6)</sup> S. 61. (7) Ram Presal v. Rightmonton Presad, 7 A.

<sup>(11)</sup> Megen, v Shungrain, 5 (' W. N., celestin

mon.

ed in parts" and "in counter-part" refer to the mode in which documents are sometimes executed. It is convenient sometimes that each party to a transaction should have a complete document in his own possession. To effect this the document is written out as many times over as there are parties and each document is executed-that is, signed or scaled as the case may be-by all the parties. No one of these is more the original than the other, and any one of them may be produced as primary evidence of the contents of the document. When an instrument is executed by all the parties in duplicate or triplicate. and each party primary eviden by one party or counterparts.

and these in privity with the executing party, and secondary evidence(1) as against the other parties.(2) Execution in counterpart is a method of execution adopted when there are two parties to the transaction. Thus if the transaction is a contract between A and B the document is copied out twice, and A alone signs one document, whilst B alone signs the other. A then hands to B the document signed by himself and B hands to .1 the document signed by himself. Then as against A the document signed by .1 is primary evidence; whilst as against B the document signed by B is primary evidence.(3)

Second Explanation. "A printed paper does not differ from a written Secondary one, in respect of both being copies; they can alike, therefore, only be received as secondary evidence of the original under such circumstances as render secondary evidence admissible; for instance, if the original is shown to be lost or destroyed, or to be in the possession of the opposite party, notice having been given to produce it. There is no more guarantee for a printed copy being a true copy than a written one; indeed being a copy at all. But there is a far better guarantee for a number of printed papers struck off from the same machine at the same time being correct fac-similes of each other than of a number of written papers ; for here the draftsman or draftsmen may introduce differences impossible with the machine. In this case, each machine-made copy is accepted as primary evidence of all the others. inter se, and not of the original from which they were copied, for instance, if it is desired to prove the publication of a libel in a newspaper, any copy of the issue in which the libel appeared would be primary evidence of publication in all the other copies of that issue. But if it were necessary to prove the original libel from which the article was set up, the printed paper would not be primary, but only secondary evidence of the manuscript and admissible only under the conditions which render the reception of secondary evidence admissible."(4)

First Clause .- Section 76 enables certified copies of public documents to be given; and such document may be proved by the production of a certified copy (5) Certain other official documents especially designated may be also proved by certified copies (6) Section 79 deals with the presumption as to the genumeness of certain certified copies, and section 86 as to certified copies of foreign judicial records. And the Civil Procedure Code(7) now gives the Court power to order product on of verified copies of entries in business books instead of the originals when inspection of the latter has been demanded.

<sup>(1)</sup> S. 63, cl. (4).

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 426, Norton, Ev., 241, 242 a. 62, post (3) Markby, Ev., 57, Physon, Fv , 3rd Fd ,

<sup>(4)</sup> Norton, Ev. 242, and see R v Batsus,

<sup>12</sup> How St Tr. 82. (5) S 77, post

<sup>(8)</sup> S. 78, pad as to certified copies of decrees or orders made by the Queen in Council, see Cir. Pr. Code, O. XXXXV, r. 15, p. 1302

<sup>(7)</sup> O. M. r. 19, p. 171.

and third Clauses and Second Clause,-The copies must be made from the original by such mechanical processes as in themselves insure the accuracy of the copy : such for example as the processes mentioned in the second Explanation, section 62.(1) Illustration (a) must be read with the first portion of this clause, and means that provided it can be shown that the original which is sought to be proved was really photographed, such photograph will be receivable as secondary evidence. Illustration (b) must be read with the second portion of this clause and means that a copy of such copy (compared) is receivable as secondary evidence of the original and cannot be rejected as being a copy of a copy.(2) The reason of this rule is that the accuracy of the first copy being insured by the mechanical process, it is not necessary to compare it with the original which it will be taken to correctly reproduce; but there is ordinarily no such guarantee or at least not an effective one in the case of copies taken from such first copy, and they must therefore be proved to have been compared with it before they will be receivable as secondary evidence of the original. An oral account of a photograph or a machine-copy of the original is not secondary evidence of the original [Illustration (d)].

Third Clause, see Illustration (c) In the first case here put, the party who made the copy can swear to its being a true copy. If he is not produced, then a witness must be called who can swear to his own comparison, or, as sometimes two witnesse other read the copy or the revise. ie comparison made by

Illustrations (b) and (c), it will appear that a come of a come cribed and compared with a copy is it was compared was a copy made

one and the insures the accuracy of such copy. (5) But copies of copies kept in a registration-office when signed and sealed by the registering officer are admissible for the purpose of proving the contents of the originals.(6) The correctness of certified copies will be presumed, (7) but that of other copies will have to be proved, v. post. This proof may be afforded by calling a witness who can swear that he has made the copy or a witness who can swear that he has compared the copy tendered in evidence with the original or with what some other person read as the contents of the original, and that such copy is correct. It is not necessary for the persons examining to exchange papers and read them alternately both ways. If the document be in an ancient or foreign character, with it must have been able to read and ndermentioned case(9) a copy of a deed as still on the records of the Court was let in as secondary evidence. That deed was endorsed "copy in accordance with the original," and was signed by the Judge presiding in the

(6) Act AVI of 1968, a. 57,

<sup>(1)</sup> Field, Lv., 382. cf. a. 35, Act 11 of 1855 "An impression of a document made by a copymg machine shall be taken without further proof to be a correct copy."

<sup>(2)</sup> Norton, Er., 243.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ib. See Rolls v. Gau Kem. 9 C., 043, 944 (1883)

<sup>(4)</sup> Ram Praced v. Raghunandan Praced, 7 A., 738, 743 (1885); Secretary of State v. Manghesh. war Arishnayyar, 28 M. 257; see Taylor, Ev., § 553; the following cases are no longer law so far as they relate to copies: Unide Hajaka v Pemmasany Fentatodry, 7 Moo. I. A., 128 (1858) [dictum followed in Apolhya Prasad v Umron Sing. 6 B I. R . 509 (1870); Janubunnian Reli

v. Kuwar Shan, 7 B L R . 627 (1871); Makbul Ale v. Srimati Masnad, 3 B. L. R., 54 (1869); Ram Gopal v. Gordon Stuart, 14 Moo. I. A , 453 (1872) , Norton, Ev., 243 , Field, Ev., 383. Even before the Act a copy of a copy was rejected: Raja Neelanund v. Nusseeb Sangh, 6 W. R., 80 (1866).

<sup>(5)</sup> S. 63, cl. (2), v. ante, but a copy transeribed from a copy and afterwards compared with the original is secondary evidence, Illust (c).

<sup>(7)</sup> S. 79, post.

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev., 11 15-45, Fall, Fv., 383. (9) Luchman Singh v. Puna, 16 C., 753 (1889) ; 16 L. A., 125.

Court. The Privy Council accepted and concurred in the opinion of the Judicial Commissioner upon the value of that copy. His words were :- "There me, guarantee the genuineness of the copy. (i)

It is scarcely necessary to observe that proof of a copy being a correct copy is no proof of the execution and genuineness, etc., of the original (2) And secondary evidence cannot be given by means of a copy until it be shown that such copy is accurate.(3) The correctness of certified copies is directed to be n to be p

Act,(5) of provi to be tr

correctness.(6)

Fourth Clause .- A counterpart is primary evidence only as against the parties executing it.(7) The most usual case of counterparts is that of pattah and Labultat (8)

Fifth Clause. - The person must have seen the original. It will not be sufficient that he heard it being read. Moreover, it must have been the original. It will not be sufficient for the person to have seen a copy. Thus, a written statement of the contents of a copy of a document, the original of which the person making the statement has not seen, cannot be accepted as an equivalent of that which this clause renders admissible, namely, an oral account of the contents of a document given by some person who has himself seen it (9) It is moreover, plain that even if parol evidence be admissible as secondary evidence of a document, it may, owing to its character or the circumstances of thent, it may, some actions for libel should give the

The general rule is that there are no degrees in secondary evidence and No degrees that a party is at liberty to adduce any description of secondary evidence he ary evimay choose. So a party may give oral evidence of the contents of a document, dence. of secondary at the spower to produce a written copy. For, if one species of a document evidence that has existed. He m other side at the means of ascertaining. Fifty copies might be in existence unknown to him, and he would be bound to account for them all. Further, there is the incon-

which he had no

(1) 16, at p 756.

trial might defe

<sup>(2)</sup> See Field, Ev., 383, Rampadoo Gangoely v. Lucilier Narain, 5 R. C. and Cr. Reporter, Act X, Rule 23 (1867); Shookram Sookul v. Ram Lal, 9 W R , 248, 250 (1808), Museumat Ameerooniem v. Mussumat Abeloonnism, 23 W R , 208 (1875), Appathura Patter v Gopala Panikkar

<sup>25</sup> M., 674, 676 (1901). (3) Taylor, Ev. | 553 . Soulram Social v. Ram Lat, 9 W. R., 248, 250 (1868); Krishna Kishori v. Kishors Lall, 14 C., 487, 488 (1887)

<sup>(4)</sup> S. 79, post

<sup>(5)</sup> Act XVI of 1908, a 57. (6) Hursch Chunder v Prosunno Coomar, 23 W. R , 303 (1874)

<sup>(7)</sup> S. 62, Explanation (1), ante (8) T. ante.

<sup>(9)</sup> Kanayalal v Pyarabat, 7 B , 139 (1882); see Illust (d).

<sup>(10)</sup> Krishna Kishori v. Kishori Lall, 14 C., 487, 488 (1887)

<sup>(11)</sup> Easny v Eram, L. R., 4 P. C., 287.

venience of requiring evidence to be strictly marshalled according to its weight. But if more satisfactory proof is withheld, that will go to the weight of the evidence. If, for instance, the party giving such oral evidence appears to have better secondary evidence in his power, which he does not produce. that is a fact from which the Court may presume that the evidence kept back would be adverse to the party withholding it.(1) There are, however, exceptions to the general rule. For the Act declares that when the existence, conadmitted in writing, the written original is a public document, (3)

s permitted by this Act or by any other law in force in India to be given in evidence,(4) a certified copy of the document, but no other kind of secondary evidence, is admissible. (5)

64. Documents must be proved by primary evidence ex-Proof of do cuments by primary cept in the cases hereinafter mentioned.

Principle.—This rule is one of the most forcible illustrations of the maxim that the best evidence that the case admits of must always be produced (6) It is said to be based on the "best evidence" principle; but the rule is, however, probably older than its reasons, being a survival of the doctrine of profert which required the actual production of the document pleaded.(7)

```
s. 8 (" Document')
                                          s. 62 (Meaning of " primary evidence.") 5. 3 (" Proved.")
                                          s. 65 (" Excepted cases.")
```

Steph. Dig., Art. 65; Taylor, Ev., §§ 396, 409; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 41, 478; Thaver's Cases on Evidence, 726.

COMMENTARY. What is in

Lord Tenterden said : "I have always acted most strictly on the rule that what is in writing shall only be proved by the writing itself. My experience has taught me the extreme danger of relying on the recollection be proved by the writ-ing itself of witnesses, however honest, as to the contents of written instruments; they may be so easily mistaken, that I think the purposes of justice require the strict enforcement of the rule."(8) An additional but important reason for the application of the rule is that the Court may acquire a knowledge of the whole contents of the instrument, which may have a very different effect from the statement of a part. (9) This section deals , with the class of cases falling within the rule that a written document can only be proved by the instrument itself, (10) and embraces every writing. Thus newspapers and account books are the best evidence of their own contents, and, therefore, a witness cannot be asked whether certain resolutions were published in the newspapers; neither can he be questioned as to the contents of his writing

<sup>(1)</sup> Dor v. Ross, 7 M. & W., 402, Brown v. Roodman, 6 C. & P., 206; Hall v. Hall, 3 M & G , 242; Taylor, Ev., 11 550-553; Best, Ev., § 493; Wills, Er , 285 The rule applies whether the prismal evalence be itself oral or documentary : Taylor, Ev . 1 550; see e g . Notes to a 47, <sup>(2)</sup> S. 65, post, see cl. (5). (3) Within the meaning of s. 74, post, see s 65, cl (e).

<sup>(4)</sup> B. 65, cl. (/).

<sup>(5)</sup> S. 65, post; see Notes to that section.

<sup>(6)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 396, and v. post and Intro duction, ante

<sup>(7)</sup> Thayer's cases on Evidence, 726. Fee also 6 Law Quart. Rev , 75 "The superiority of written evidence" Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 41, 478

<sup>(8)</sup> Vincent v. Code, 3 C. & P., 491, and see observations of Best, C. J., in Strother v. Barr, account-books; nor can a plaintiff be asked in cross-examination whether his name is written in a certain book described by the questioner, unless a satisfactory reason be first given for the non-production of the book itself.(1) And it is very doubtful whether the contents of hand bills written or dictated at a meeting of conspirators can be proved by oral testimony.(2) The provisions of this section must be distinguished from those of section 91. The latter deals with matters which the parties have put in writing or which the law requires to be in writing. In such cases, except where secondary evidence may be given, the document is the exclusive record of that which it embodies. The parties are not at liberty to resort to other evidence. All that the present section says is that if it is desired to prove the contents of a document, the document itself must, save in certain exceptional cases, be produced. But if a writing does not fall within either of the classes already described, no reason exists why it should exclude oral evidence. For instance, if a written communication be accompanied by a verbal one to the same effect, the latter may be received as independent evidence, though not to prove the contents of the writing nor as a substitute for it; the payment of money may be proved by oral testimony, though a receipt be taken; a verbal demand of goods may be shown, though a demand in writing was made at the same time; the admission of a debt is provable by oral testimony, though a written promise to pay was simultaneously given; and the like.(3) With regard to objections as to the improper reception of secondary evidence, see pp. 110-113, ante.

<sup>(9)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 336. (10) Taylor, Er., 5 409.

Oral admissions as to the contents of a document are not relevant, unless Admissions. and until the party proposing to prove them shows that he is entitled to give secondary evidence of the contents of such document, or unless the genuineness of a document produced is in question.(4) But secondary evidence may be given when the existence, condition, or contents of the original have been proved to be admitted in writing by the person against whom it is proved or by his representative in interest (5) The rule laid down by this section does not of course apply to documents which are admitted and the contents of which are not in dispute. For a fact which is admitted need not be proved at all (6) So where a party admits by his pleading the terms of an agreement and its execution, the other party is not called upon to prove the execution of the document or put it in evidence (7) It is further common practice to allow copies of documents to be tendered in evidence by the consent of all parties concerned.

documents may be

65. Secondary evidence may be given of the existence, cases in the following cases:— which seems in the following cases:— which seems in the following cases in the following cases:— which seems in the following cases:

- The

condition or contents of a document in the following cases :-When the original is shown or appears to be in the evidence re possession or powerof the person against whom the document is sought to be proved, or of any person out of reach of, or not subject to. the process of the Court, or

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev. 1 409

<sup>(2)</sup> R. v. Thustlewood (1820), 33, How. St Tr.

<sup>691;</sup> Taylor, § 409. (3) Taylor, Ev. § 415. see s. 59, anie See the passage in Best, Ev., p. 282, 2nd Ed., cited and approved in Balthadar Prasad v Maharajah of Bdia, 9 A , 358 (1887). (4) See notes to = 22, ante.

<sup>(5)</sup> S. 65, cl. (b), post. (6) S 58, ante.

<sup>(7)</sup> Bury ry: Cursely: v Munchen: Kurerji, 5 B., 143 (1880), but a party's admission as to the contents of a document not made in the pleadings but in a deposition is secondary evalence only. Shekk Ibrahim v. Parrata, 8 Born. H. C. R., A. C. J., 163 (1871).

of any person legally bound to produce it, and when, after the notice mentioned in section 66,(1) such person does not produce it;

- (b) when the existence, condition or contents of the original have been proved to be admitted in writing by the person against whom it is proved or by his representative in interest;
- (c) when the original has been destroyed or lost, or when the party offering evidence of its contents cannot, for any other reason not arising from his own default or neglect, produce it in reasonable time;
- (d) when the original is of such a nature as not to be easily movable;
- (e) when the original is a public document within the meaning of section 74;
- (f) when the original is a document of which a certified copy is permitted by this Act, or by any other law in force in British India, to be given in evidence;
- (g) when the originals consist of numerous accounts or other documents which cannot conveniently be examined in Court, and the fact to be proved is the general result of the whole collection.

In cases (a), (c) and (d), any secondary evidence of the contents of the document is admissible.

In case (b), the written admission is admissible.

In case (e) or (f), a certified copy of the document, but no other kind of secondary evidence, is admissible.

In case (g), evidence may be given as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them, and who is skilled in the examination of such documents.

Principle.—The general rule having been stated in the preceding section, the present one states the exceptional cases in which secondary evidence is admissible. Some of these exceptions rest upon considerations which are obvious. This is the case with exceptions (c) and (d). The exceptions (c) and (f) are based on considerations of convenience. In the case of exception (p) it not, properly speaking, secondary evidence which is admitted in substitution immediately approximately approximately approximately evidence is out of the party's power; see Commentary, post.

<sup>(1)</sup> Kamethrar Pershad v. Amanutulla, 26 C. (2) Markby, Fr., 57; Phipson, Er., 3rd Ed., 53 (1898).

- 63 (Meaning of " secondary evidence.") s. 74 (" Public documents.")
- 3 (" Document.")
- 3 (" Court.")
- s. 68 ("Rules as to notice to produce.")
- 22 1" Oral admissions as to contents of documents,")

84. 76-79. 89 ("Certified copies,")

s. 89 (" Presumption as to documents called for and not produced after notice to produce.")

Taylor, Ev., 429, 437, 439-460, 918, 919; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 7-14, 154-156; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 486-491; Powell, 591-599; Steph. Dig., Arts. 72, 118, 119; Wharton, Ev., Ch III; Greenleaf, Ev., §§ 91-97; Burr Jones, Ev., 197-232.

COMMENTARY.

The last section having declared the general rule as to the proof of docu-when se ments, the present deals with the exceptions to that rule, namely, the cases in condary which secondary evidence may be given. Secondary evidence of the contents may be of a document cannot be admitted without the non-production of the original given being first accounted for in such a manner as to bring it within one or other of the cases provided for in section 65 of this Act.(1) By the law of evidence administered in England, which has been in a great measure, with respect to deeds, made the law of India, the first condition of the right to give secondary evidence may ' must be laid fo secondary evic

producible, as in the case of clauses (e) and (f), (±) and (b) and (g) of section bb, but ordinarily it must be shown that the document is not producible in the natural sense of the word, for this is the general ground upon which secondary evidence is admitted. When one of the questions on appeal to the Privy Council was whether secondary evidence had been properly admitted on a case that had arisen for its admission, such question was decided in the affirmative on the ground that whether the evidence offered would itself prove the making of the document or not, it formed good ground for holding that there was a document capable of being proved by secondary evidence admissible with reference to sections 65 and 66 of this Act.(5) This section is applicable to both civil and criminal cases.(6)

The last four paragraphs provide what kind of secondary evidence is to be given in the particular cases mentioned in the section ; and in cases (b), (e), (f), (9) establish exceptions to the general rule that there are no degrees of second-

(1) Krishna Kishori v. Kishori Lal, 14 C., 486 (1887), 14 I A . 71 (2) Bhubanesu are Debe v Harsearan Surma, 6 C , 720 (1880), see also Mussumul Americanauso v. Mussamut 4bedoonnissa, 23 W. R., 208, 209,

P. C. (1875) . 2 I A . 87 . Sciemulty Gour v. Hurre histore, 10 W R. 338 (1868). Roopmonyoone Choudharance v. Ram Lal, 1 W R , 145 (1864) . Shookram Sookul v Ram Lal, 9 W R, 248 (1868). Muleepoodeen Kazee v. Meher Ali, 1 W R., 213 (1864), Ishen Chunder v. Ehyrub Chunder, 5 W. R., 21 (1866), Mussamut Ustoorun v. Baboo [Moles, 21 W. R., 333 (1874), Mulammed Abdel (v. Ibrahim, 3 Born. H. C. R. A. C. J., 160 (1866); B arrer Als v. Kales Koomar, 11 W. R., 228 (1869), Krishna Kishori v Kishori Lal, 14 C., 486 (1887) . Rakhal Das v Indra Monee, 1 C. L. R , 155 (1877). (3) This is a matter to be judicially determined by the Court which trees the case, its conclusions on this head will not generally be disturbed in Special Appeal, Shookram Sookul v Ram Lal. 9 W R , 249 (1868), see also Harripria Dels v. Ruthmini Debt, 19 C , 438 (1892). (4) Arashna Kushors v. Kuthori Lal, 14 C., 491

(1897)

(5) Luchman Singh v Puna, 16 C., 753 (1889); s. c., L. R., 16 I. A., 125.

(6) r Frkl, Ev. 386.

of any person legally bound to produce it, and when, after the notice mentioned in section 66,(1) such person does not produce it;

(b) when the existence, condition or contents of the original have been proved to be admitted in writing by the person against whom it is proved or by his

- representative in interest;

  (c) when the original has been destroyed or lost, or when the party offering evidence of its contents cannot, for any other reason not arising from his own default or neglect, produce it in reasonable time;
- (d) when the original is of such a nature as not to be easily movable;
- (e) when the original is a public document within the meaning of section 74;
- (f) when the original is a document of which a certified copy is permitted by this Act, or by any other law in force in British India, to be given in evidence;
- (g) when the originals consist of numerous accounts or other documents which cannot conveniently be examined in Court, and the fact to be proved is the general result of the whole collection.

In cases (a), (c) and (d), any secondary evidence of the contents of the document is admissible.

In case (b), the written admission is admissible.

In case (e) or (f), a certified copy of the document, but no other kind of secondary evidence, is admissible.

In case (g), evidence may be given as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them, and who is skilled in the examination of such documents.

Principle.—The general rule having been stated in the preceding section, the present one states the exceptional cases in which secondary evidence is admissible. Some of these exceptions rest upon considerations which are obvious. This is the case with exceptions (c) and (d). The exceptions (e) and (f) are based on considerations of convenience. In the case of exception (f) it is a best fution which is admitted in substitution in the consideration of the consideration evidence is out of the party's power; see Commentary, post, truth.

<sup>(1)</sup> Kamtshwar Pershad v. Amanutulla, 26 C., (2) Markby. Fr., 57; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 53 (1898).

- s. 63 (Meaning of " secondary evidence.") s. 74 (" Public documents.")
- 3 (" Document.")
- 3 (" Court.")
- e. 68 ("Rules as to notice to produce.") documents.")

- 22 ("Oral admissions as to contents of
- 89. 76-79, 89 ("Certified copies.")
- 5. 89 ("Presumption as to documents called for and not produced after notice to produce.")

Taylor, Ev., 429, 437, 439-460, 918, 919; Roscoc, N. P. Ev., 7-14, 154-156; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 486-491; Powell, 591-599; Steph. Dig., Arts. 72, 118, 119; Wharton, Ev., Ch. III; Greenleaf, Ev., §§ 91-97; Burr Jones, Ev., 197-232.

COMMENTARY.

The last section having declared the general rule as to the proof of docu- when sements, the present deals with the exceptions to that rule, namely, the cases in condary which secondary evidence may be given. Secondary evidence of the contents may be of a document cannot be admitted without the non-production of the original given being first accounted for in such a manner as to bring it within one or other of the cases provided for in section 65 of this Act.(1) By the law of evidence administered in England, which has been in a great measure, with respect to deeds, made the law of India, the first condition of the right to give secondary evidence may be given, or, to use the technical expression, a proper foundation must be laid for the reception of such evidence. (3) There are cases in which secondary evidence is admissible even though the original is in existence and producible, as in the case of clauses (e) and (f), (4) and (b) and (g) of section 65, but ordinarily it must be shown that the document is not producible in the natural sense of the word, for this is the general ground upon which secondary evidence is admitted. When one of the questions on appeal to the Privy Council was whether secondary evidence had been properly admitted on a case that had arisen for its admission, such question was decided in the affirmative on the ground that whether the evidence offered would itself prove the making of the document or not, it formed good ground for holding that there was a document capable of being proved by secondary evidence admissible with reference to sections 65 and 66 of this Act.(5) This section is applicable to both civil and criminal cases.(6)

137 7 27

<sup>(1)</sup> Krishna Lishors v. Kishors Lat, 14 C., 486 (1897), 14 I A., 71

<sup>(2)</sup> Bhubaneswars Debry Hartsavan Surma, 6 C., 720 (1880), see also Mussamut Ameeroonnussa v. Museumut 4bedoonnessa, 23 W. R., 208, 209, P. C. (1875) . 2 1. A , 87 , Sceemutty Gour v. Huree Atshore, 10 W R. 338 (1868), Roopmonyoorse Chordharance . Ram Lal. 1 W. R., 145 (1864) . Ahookram Sunkul v. Ram Lal, 9 W R , 248 (1868). Mufeezenteen hazee . Meher Ale, I W R , 213 (1864) , Ishen Chunder v. Bhurub Chunder, 5 W R., 21 (1866), Musenmut Ustoorun v. Eabno Mohun, 21 W. R., 333 (1874); Muhammad Abdul (v. Ibrahim, 3 Born H. C. R , A. C J., 160 (1866); . H ureer Als . Kales Koomar, 11 W. R., 228

<sup>(1869),</sup> Krishna Kishors v Atshors Lal, 14 C. 486 (1897) , Rakhal Das v Indra Monre, 1 ( L. R , 155 (1877)

<sup>(3)</sup> This is a matter to be judicially determined by the Court which tries the case; its conclusions on this head will not generally be disturbed in Special Appeal, Shoolram Sookul v Ram Lal. 9 W R , 249 (1868), see also Harrigeia Debi v. Rulhmint Debt, 19 C , 438 (1892)

<sup>(4)</sup> Krishna Kuhori v Kishori Lal, 14 C., 491

<sup>(5)</sup> Luchman Singh v. Puna, 16 C., 753 (1889): s. c., L. R., 16 I. A., 125. (6) r. Frill, Ev., 386.

ary evidence.(1) With reference to these paragraphs it will be observed that there is no provision for cases in which two causes for non-production of the original are combined as for instance, when the original is a record of a Court of Justice, which has also been lost or destroyed; a case which has occurred more than once in India.(2) But it has been held that the rule laid down in this section that a certified copy is the only secondary evidence admissible when the original is a document of which a certified copy is permitted by law to be given in evidence does not apply where the original has been lost or destroyed. In such a case any secondary evidence is admissible (3) So where one B B, an official in the Sikhur Court in the Native State of Jeypore, gave evidence of litting the original state of the country of th one of the Court Amlas, enthe handwriting and bear-

the High Court excluded these proceedings in the Sikhur Court on the ground that they were not proved according to the mode mentioned in section 86 of this Act The Privy Council. however, held that that section does not exclude other proof and observed as follows :- "The assertion of BB that RB sucd C and that she gave evidence before Moonshi M M in his presence is primary evidence of these matters. His proof of the Sikhur records is secondary evidence; and by sections 65 and 66 of the Evidence Act, secondary evidence may be given of public documents. (which these are under section 74) without notice to the adverse party, when the person in possession of the document is out of the reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court, which is the case here 'If the Privy Council held that the effect of B B's evidence was to supply proof that the copy produced was a certified copy (there being no presumption under either section 79 or 86) and the document was admitted as a certified copy, then it was so admitted in accordance with the last paragraph but one of the section. This. however, appears for several reasons not to be the case, for amongst others, the Privy Council say that no notice was necessary as the person in possession of the document was not subject to process But the provisions as to notice apply to cl. (a) only and not to cl. (c). It would appear, therefore, that it was held that the case fell under both clauses, and that as it also fell under cl. (a), any secondary evidence was admissible (4)

The question whether secondary evidence was m any given case rightly admitted, is one which is proper to be decided by the Judge of first instance and is treated as depending very much on his discretion. This conclusion should not be overruled except in a very clear case of miscarriage. (5) With regard to objections on appeal to the admission of secondary evidence, see note below. (6) And as to the madmissibility of secondary evidence in the case of unstamped or unregistered documents, see the Apnendix.

Although the nineteenth section of the Limitation Act provides that "when the writing containing the acknowledgment is undated, oral evidence may be

<sup>(1) 1.</sup> ante.

<sup>[2]</sup> Full, E., 385; we Halve Garea v. Inventor Lett, 7 W. R. 18 (1807) [record lect in transit]; reconstary evalence ordered to be given, Bassicity Lett. v. Januar Parlong, 8 W. R. 38 (1877), record lact direction to take further evidence, Rance Emanuar v. Hardyal Singh, W. R. 1814, 1916 [Jost derect].

<sup>(3)</sup> Kunneth Olangal v. Layek Palligal, 6 M., 80 (1882). In the matter of a ciliana between the "Am" and the "Renkfila," 5 C., 568

<sup>(1879)</sup>

<sup>(4)</sup> Harannad Roy v. Ram Gopal, 4 C. W. N., 429 (1899)

<sup>(5)</sup> Ningawa v. Kamappa, 5 Bom. L. R. 708

<sup>(6)</sup> See cases cited ante, pp. 129-132 and notes, and Gour Suran v. Kanya Singh, 2 W. R., 277 (1865). Aushies Nath v. Mokeh Chunder, 25 W. R., 168 (1876); James Feyrdo v. Mahomed Meddesur, 10 W. R., 207 (1868).

given of the time when it was signed, but no oral evidence of the contents shall be received;" still this was not meant to exclude secondary evidence of the contents of the acknowledgment, under section 65 of the Evidence Act, when a proper case for the reception of such evidence is made out.(1)

CLAUSE (A).

The first case in which secondary evidence of a written document is admissible is when a document in the possession or power of the adversary, or other persons mentioned in this clause, who withhold it at the trial, and a no-A'ca to made and the fair al hand an inle served, where such notice is requiivil and criminal cases. In either e notice available, it must be first shown that the document is in the hands or power of the party required to produce it.(4) The reason of this rule is self-evident, for otherwise the party calling for the document might forst upon the Court an alleged copy of an original which never had any existence (5) Slight evidence, however, will suffice to raise a presumption of this where the document exclusively belongs to, or in the regular course of business ought to be, in the custody of a party served. (6) What is sufficient evidence is in the discretion of the Court. If papers were last seen in the hands of a defendant, it lies upon him to trace them out of his possession.(7) When a party has notice to produce a particular document which has been traced to his possession, he cannot, it seems, object to parol evidence of its contents being given, on the ground that, previously to the notice, he had ceased to have any control over it, unless he has stated this fact to the opposite party, and has pointed out to him the person to whom he delivered it.(8) Neither can be escape the effect of the notice, by afterwards voluntarily parting with the instrument, which it directs him to produce.(9) The documents must be traced to the possession of the party on whom notice is served or some one in privity with him, such as his banker, agent, servant, deputy, or the like. Such persons need not be served with a subpana duces tecum, or even be called as a will suffice.(10) Possession may be last seen in the adversary's possess

10 may be compelled to testify to its possession (11) or by the admission of his counsel (12) or presumptively, by showing

. in the ordinary course of business, other hand, interpose evider on the .rv evidence tendered to prove the contents of an instrument which is retained by the

(1) Shumbu Nath v Rom (hundra, 12 C., 267 (1885); Wajibun v. Kadir Buksh, 13 C , 292 (1886), Chathu v | terayan, 15 M . 491 (1892) The contrary appears to have been held in Zini. nessa Ladle v. Moledev Ratandew, 12 B , 268 (1887), but the report does not show that the earlier decisions were cited. When the date has been altered, see Sayad Gulamals v Mayabhas, 26 B., 128 (1901), and a 100, post

- (2) See # 66
- (3) See Taylor, Et , § 440, and Luchman Singh · Puna, 16 C , 753 (1899)
- (4) Sharpe v Lamb, 11 A & E., 805
- (5) Norton, Ev., 246
- (6) Heary v Leigh, 3 Camp , 502 , see also Roll 1. Starley, 2 C & K , 143 , see Bhubanesware Debi . Harisaran Surma, 6 C., 724 (1881) Presumptively the document is in the possession of the one to whom it belongs. Burr Jones, $ 218.

- (7) R v. Thistlewood, 33 How, St. Tr., 757. 758 . R \ Ing. 1d , 989
- (8) Sinclair v. Stevenson, 1 ( & P , 595, 586; Anight v. Martin, Gow R , 103
- (9) Knight v Martin, Gow R , 104
- (10) Taylor, Ev . § 441 Partridge v Coales, Ry & M. 156, Burton v Payne, 2 C & P. 520. Sinclair & Stevenson, 1 ( & P. 584 Bhula. neswari Ibli v Harvaran Surma, 6 C., 724 (1881).
- (11) Berns v. Buters, M & M., 235 Duyer v. Collins, 7 Exch , 639 , see Notes to se 126-129,
- (12) Duncombe v Danull, 8 ( & P., 222, per 4 58, ante.
  - (13) v. unte, Burr Jones, Ev . 1 218.
- (14) Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 356, 357, Taylor, Ev., §§ 440, 441.

opposite party after notice to produce it, can only be admitted in the absence of evidence to show that it was unstamped when last seen (I) A copy of a docuever had the document is not sufficient to justify the omission of the processes the law provides for his testimony, and his being called on to produce the original. If a Judge is satisfied of a plamtiff's inability to produce an original pottah on which he relies, he ought to allow secondary evidence to be given of the contents of the document, but he should be satisfied, on reasonable grounds, that the evidence gives a true version of its contents, and he should require sufficient evidence of the execution of the pottah.(2)

Any secondary evidence is admissible in a case falling within clause (a).(3)

Secondary evidence may also be given when the original is in the possession or power of any person who is out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court (4) No notice is required when the person in possession of the document is out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court (5) If a document be deposited in a foreign country and the laws or established usage of that country will not permit its removal, secondary evidence of the contents will be admitted, because in that case it is not in the power of the party to produce the original. (6) But ordinarily, being filed in another Court, is not sufficient reason for non-production. (7) Any secondary evidence will be admissible. (8)

The third case in which secondary evidence is admissible under this clause is when the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power of any person legally bound to produce it. The construction of these, as of other words in this section, raises difficulties which it is not easy to satisfactorily solve. It is therefore necessary in the first place to state the English law upon the subject of the admissibility of secondary evidence where the party served with notice to produce a document is not compellable to produce it in evidence.

The general rule which requires primary evidence assumes that it can be given; when it cannot, secondary evidence may be adduced. So where a party calls for a document in the possession of another, which document the latter is entitled to refuse to produce on the ground of privilege (e.g., as beinghis titledecil) (9) secondary evidence may be given of the document as everything has been done to obtain it.(10) The English rule on the point has been thus summarised. Secondary evidence may be given of the contents of a document "when the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power of a stranger not legally bound to produce it, and who refuses to produce it after being served with a subpana duces tecum, or after having been sworn as a witness and asked for the document and having admitted that it is in Court.(11)

<sup>(1)</sup> Sennandan v. Kollaleran, 2 M., 208 (1880).

<sup>(2)</sup> Shinkram Soulid v. Ram Lal, D W R., 248 (1868).

<sup>(3)</sup> See Ealls v. Gan Aim, 9 C., 939 (1887);

Richop Milins v Lear Apostolic, 2 M., 205 (1879) In s. 36 of Art II of 1855, it was the document that must be out of the process of the fourt, here it is the person in whose possession it is.

<sup>(5)</sup> S. 66, cl. ft. From s. 65 (which is not happily worled in this respect) it might be gathered that notice was necessary; see last para of cl. (a), and Rilli v. Gas Kim. 9 C., 939 (1883)

<sup>(6)</sup> Burnoble v. Boillie, 42 Ch. D., 282, 291.
Cerspin v. Deploin, 32 L. J., P. & M., 109; Alicon v. Furnod, I. C. M. & R., 277, 291, 292; Engle v. Fireman, 10 Ev. R., 647. Quilter v. Jores, 14 C. B. N. S., 747. See 14 & 15 Vio., c. 99.

<sup>(7)</sup> Seemulty Gour v. Hurre Kashore, 10 W. R., 338 (1868).

<sup>(8)</sup> S. 65.

<sup>(9)</sup> See as 130, 131, post,

<sup>(10)</sup> Hibbert v. Knight, 2 Ex. 11, 12, per Parke, B.; Sayer v. Glossop, M., 409, 410, 411, per Pollock, C. B.; Dor v. Ross, 7 M. & W., 122, per Parke, B.; Phelps v. Press, 3 E. & B., 438, 442, 443.

<sup>(11)</sup> Steph. Diz . Art. 71, see Taylor, Pv., $457.

Further, according to English law, the disobedience of a person served with a subpara duces tecum will not render admissible secondary evidence of the contents of the document which he is called upon to produce.(1) To do this the witness must be justified in refusing the production, for otherwise the party will leave the production of the production of the substitute of the party will leave the production of the production of the party will be a production of the production of the party will be production.

> idary evidence may as claiming a lien

upon it.(3) secondary evidence of its contents cannot be received provided the party tendering such evidence be the person hable to pay the solicitor's charges.(4) But a witness will not be allowed to resist a subpana duces terum on the ground of any lien he may have on the document called for as evidence, unless the party requiring the production be himself the person against whom the claim of lien is made.(5)

A solicitor who has not acted for either of the parties to an action may be summoned as a witness on a subparae duces tecum and compelled to produce documents on which he claims a lien (6). He will also be ordered to produce to the trustee of a bankrupt documents over which he has a lien, but which are the property of the content of a third person, if his client would have been bound to do so (9)

The question then arises how far such rules or any of them are applicable under this Act. As already observed no construction of this clause is free from difficulty. (10) In the first place it must be noted that every person summoned to produce a document must, if it is in his possession or power, bring it to Court, notwithstanding any objection which there may be to its production or to its admissibility. The validity of such objection is a matter to be decided on by the Court. (11) Assuming the present clause to have reference to that class of documents only which a person is not justified in refusing, on the ground of privilege, to produce; in other words, documents which a person is a document)

<sup>(1)</sup> Jerus Coll v. Gibbs, I Y. & C., Ev. R., 156 (2) R. v. Llanjorthly, 2 E. & B., 940. Taylor, Ev., § 457, by an action for damages See Acts XIX of 1853, 8. 26, X of 1855, s. 10 (hability for damages on failure to give evidence or produce

(3) See Contract Act, s 171, Bas Karserbar

v. Narranji Walji, 4 B , 353 (1880) (4) Attorney-General v Ashe, 10 Ir Eq , P.

N. S , 309. (5) Taylor, Et , § 458, and cases there cite

<sup>(6)</sup> Re Hawke (1898), 2 Ch , 16

<sup>(7)</sup> Re Toleman (1880), 13 Ch D, 885 (8) Re Foster (1904), 116 L T. J., 388

<sup>(8)</sup> Re Foeter (1904), 116 L. T. J., 32 (9) Re Laurence (1894), 1 Ch., 556

<sup>(9)</sup> M. Lawrence (1889), 1 Ch., 556 (10) In Norton, Er., 244, 246, 248, it appears to be considered that the clause ought, and was meant, to run: if any person and fegally bound to produce it," the word "not" having been omitted by acceleral. Mr. Mathly also thinks it probable that the word "not "has been omitted by mathet, though he expected that no quertion of there being any mapping in the Act seems to have been reased in the country Er. Act, p.

<sup>58.</sup> v. post If this be correct, the claus would then be in agreement with the rule of English law as above stated, and there would be no difficulties of construction on the points hereafter dealt with. One point of variance from English law is, however, suggested, by Mr Norton as arising out of a later portion of the section, 152, that whereas under that law, where a person refuses to produce a document which he is legally compellable to produce, the party calling for the document cannot give secondary evidence and has no remedy except as against him, on the other hand, under the Act such a case may have been provided for in the second portion of cl. (e) dealing with inability to produce in reasonable time. The learned author says Perhaps under this, too [cl (c), portion referred to, sware], a party might give secondary evidence of a document which a person having no legal right to refuse the production of, nevertheless refuses on notice to produce." 16 . 248.

<sup>(11)</sup> S. 162, post, R. v. Daye (1908), 2 K. B., 333, R. v. Lord John Luncell (1839), 7 Don., 693.

legally bound to person does not document if it be ment, he being r concesss legally bound to produce it, and its non-production being therefore unjustifiable, secondary evidence will be admissible forthwith upon such non-production, under the terms of this clause. It will appear, therefore, that the English rule abovementioned according to which secondary evidence is not admissible of a document which is, without justification, withheld, is not law under this section.(1) Much, however, may be said in favour of a departure from the English rule upon this point. It may be argued that it is not reasonable that a party's right to give evidence, should be taken away by the willful, negligent, and possibly fraudulent refusal of another to produce a document which the law requires him to produce It may be that the person refusing to produce the original does so at his own peril and is liable to an action for damages in which he may be required to make good to the party calling for a document the loss which he has sustained by its non-production. A ty of

straw. On the other hand, the danger of collusion must not be overlooked.

The question, however, next arises whether the act has made any, and is so what, provision for the giving of secondary evidence of documents which the person in possession 19 yustifed in refusing to produce. If, for example, a one,(4) may secondary evidence in such a con-1 for the original as he would be lish rule abovementioned? A stands, the person so summoned would not be a 'person legally bound to produce.' It has been suggested that in such case he is not qua such granted for that purpose If. however, we are to take the words 'of any person legally bound to produce it ' as they stand, there is no necessity to take any steps to procure the production of the document, as secondary evidence of it at once becomes admissible. I can hardly believe that this is what was intended. I think it probable that the word 'not' has been omitted here by mistake, and that the case intended to be dealt with here is the case of a person who, though within reach of the Court, is not legally bound to produce the document Several such cases are mentioned in sa, 122-171. This would be quite intelligible and in accordance with English Iss. It must, however, be admitted that no question of there being any misprint in the Act seems to have been raised in India; if there is no ampoint then, if in the case above put, C, having been summoned to produce the document, omits to obey it, secondary evidence is at once admissible "

<sup>(1)</sup> Mr. Markby says (Dr. Act. p. 58) "We have now to consulty s. 65 (a), and to understand this we must refer to the Code of Civil Procedure. That Code only speaks of a notice to produce documents in connection with their production before the trial so that they may be inspected and preparation made to meet them " 10 XI, r. 15, p. 769.) "Still it can hardly be doubted that if A and B were in higgstion and A were to give B notice to produce a document in the possession of B at the trial, and B dal not do so, the Court would consider this to be reasonable notice within the meaning of a 68 and would admit secondary evulence under the first clause, s. 65 (a) So again if the document were not in the possession of A or B but of C. a third person, and C were out of reach, secondary evalence could be produced without any notice of any kind [e, 65 (a), cl. 6, s. 66] But suppose C is within reach and subject to the process of the Court. By the Cole of Civil Procedure, O. XVI, r. 1, p. 798, a summone to preduce the document must be issued, and if it is not obeyed, then proceedings may be taken to compel C to produce the document, and special powers are

<sup>(2)</sup> S. 162, post

<sup>(3)</sup> See as. 130, 131, 9-me.

<sup>(4) 5 102,</sup>

production, 'subject to the process of the Court,' (1) for he cannot be compelled by the Judge to produce the document.(2) But this is open to the objection that by section 66, clause (b), no notice to produce is necessary where a person is 'not subject to the process of the Court.' And not only is it difficult to suppose that notice would be excused in such a case, but such notice would clearly be necessary in order that the document be produced for adjudication by the Court on the question of privilege, and moreover the last paragraph of this clause expressly and plannly requires such notice to be given. Another construction is that which reads the words 'legally bound 'as meaning legally bound by crittee of the subpena to produce in Court. The clause would in such case include all persons in possession of documents which they are summoned to produce, whether those documents be privileged or not (section 162). But this construction is also open to objection. 'Produce' in this clause seems to mean to produce in cridence, for section 162 makes a distinction between 'bringing to Court' and 'production.' Further, a person is only legally bound by virtue of a process of Court, e.g., a subpor from a party such as a 'notice to produce'

'notice by a party or the attorney of such attorney strictly speaking creates no legal obligation. The only penalty, if it be one, attached to refusal to produce on such a notice, is that secondary evidence may be given. If then 'legally bound' means legally bound by virtue of the subpenca, it is plainly unnecessary to give a person already affected with notice to produce by virtue of the subpenca any further notice to produce But the section would then read 'or of any person subpencad to produce it and when after the notice mentioned, etc.' On the other hand, this argument is weakened by the fact that there has, in respect of another matter, been a clear error of draughtsmanship in the last paragraph of this clause

Mr. Markby says that if the word 'not' has been omitted in the fourth paragraph of cl. (a) then by the express provisions of that section secondary evidence is admissible, and this is also the English law (3). By implication, therefore, he would consider secondary evidence inadmissible under the clause as it now stands. And this also appears to be the view taken by Mr. Field, who says that 'as section 65, clause (a), para. 4, admits secondary evidence of the existence, condition or contents of a document only when a person legally bound to owner no

documen
If this be

secondary evidence of a document in the hands of a stranger, who is not compellable by law to produce it, and who refuses to do so."(4)

If the case is not covered by the words of the section according to those constructions already given favouring the admissibility of secondary evidence, there has been either an intentional or accidental omission to provide for the admission of secondary evidence under the circumstances mentioned. It is difficult to assign any reason for its intentional omission. For the effect of such omission should be to establish a rule contrary to English law, and to the general principles controlling the reception of secondary evidence, which might in many cases cause serious and unreasonable injury to a litigant. If, therefore, it be held that this section does not make provision for the case mentioned, it may perhaps nevertheless be held upon the English cases and the general principles and considerations adverted to, that where a person is justified in refusing to produce a document on the ground of privilege, tecondary evidence may be given by the party calling for the document, for Whitley Stokes, Anglo-Indian Codes in 802.

 S. 165, pwl

<sup>(3)</sup> Markly, Ev. Act. 94 (4) Field, Ev., 672, legally bound to person does not document of it be ment, he being ex concessis legally bound to produce it, and its non-production being therefore unjustifiable, secondary evidence will be admissible forthwith upon such non-production, under the terms of this clause. It will appear. therefore, that the English rule abovementioned according to which secondary evidence is not admissible of a document which is, without justification, withheld, is not law under this section. (1) Much, however, may be said in favour of a departure from the English rule upon this point. It may be argued that it is not reasonable that a party's right to give evidence, should be taken away by the wilful, negligent, and possibly fraudulent refusal of another to produce a document which the law requires him to produce. It may be that the person refusing to produce the original does so at his own periland is hable to an action for damages in which he may be required to make good to the party calling for a document the loss which he has sustained by its non-production. remedy of this kind would, however, in many cases be illusory. Thus a suit for several lakhe of rupees might be dismissed or decreed owing to the inability of the parties to give secondary evidence of a document, while the person in possession of the original against whom an action would be might be a man of On the other hand, the danger of collusion must not be overlooked.

The question, however, next arises whether the act has made any, and it so what, provision for the giving of secondary evidence of documents which the person in possession is justified in refusing to produce. If, for example, a property of the property o one,(4) may secondary evidence, in such a ---- to the original as he would be undoubtedly lish rule abovementioned? According to by stands, the person so summoned would not be a person legally bound to produce. It has been suggested that in such case he is not qua such granted for that purpose. If, however, we are to take the words of any person legally bound to produce it ' as they stand, there is no necessity to take any steps to procure the production of the document, as accordary evidence of it at once becomes admissible. I can hardly believe that this is what was intended. I think it probable that the word 'not' has been omitted here by mistake, and that the case intended to be dealt with here is the case of a person who, though within reach of the Court, is not legally bound to produce the document. Several such cases are mintioned in as 122-131. This would be quite intelligible and in accordance with English law. It must, however, be admitted that no question of there bring any misprint in the Act seems to have been raised in India; if there is no mispent then, if in the case above put, C, having been summened to produce the document, omits to obey it, secondary evidence 14 at once admissible "

<sup>(1)</sup> Mr. Markby says (Ev. Act, p. 58) ' II e have now to consuler s. 65 (a), and to understand this we must refer to the Code of Civil Proce dure. That Code only speaks of a notice to produce documents in connection with their production before the trial so that they may be inspected and preparation made to meet them " (0) XI, r. 15, p. 769 ) "Still it can hardly be doubted that if A and B were in higation and if were to give B notice to produce a document in the possession of B at the trial, and B did not do so. the Court would consider this to be reasonable potice within the meaning of a 66 and would admit secondary explence under the first clause, s. 65 14). So again if the document were not in the possession of A or B but of C, a third person. and C were out of trach, secondary evidence could be produced without any notice of any Lind [s. 65 (a), cl. 6, s. 66] But suppose C to within reach and subject to the process of the Court By the Cole of Civil Procedure, O. XVI, r. 1. p. 79%, a summons to produce the document must be issued, and if it is not obeyed, then proceedings may be taken to compel C to produce the document, and special powers are

<sup>(2)</sup> S. 162, post.

<sup>(3)</sup> See ss. 130, 131, June (4) S. 162.

production, 'subject to the process of the Court,' (1) for he cannot be compelled by the Judge to produce the document.(2) But this is open to the objection that by section 66, clause (b), no notice to produce is necessary where a person is 'not subject to the process of the Court.' And not only is it difficult to suppose that notice would be excused in such a case, but such notice would clearly be necessary in order that the document be produced for adjudication by the Court on the question of privilege, and moreover the last paragraph of this clause expressly and plainly requires such notice to be given. Another construction is that which reads the words 'legally bound' as meaning legally bound by virtue of the subpains to produce in Court. The clause would in such case include all persons in possession of documents which they are summoned to produce, whether those documents be privileged or not (section 162). this construction is also open to objection. 'Produce' in this clause seems to mean to produce in evidence, for section 162 makes a distinction between bringing to Court' and 'production.' Further, a person is only legally bound by virtue of a process of Court ; e.g., a subpoena duces tecum. Process emanating from a party such as a 'notice to produce' in its technical and English sense of a 'notice by a party or the attorney of such party' to the other party or to his attorney strictly speaking creates no legal obligation. The only penalty, if it be one, attached to refusal to produce on such a notice, is that secondary evidence may be given. If then 'legally bound' means legally bound by virtue of the subporna, it is plainly unnecessary to give a person already affected with notice to produce by virtue of the subporta any further notice to produce But the section would then read "or of any person subprenaed to produce it and when after the notice mentioned, etc." On the other hand, this argument is weakened by the fact that there has, in respect of another matter, been a clear error of draughtsmanship in the last paragraph of this clause

Mr. Markby says that if the word "not" has been omitted in the fourth paragraph of cl. (a) then by the express provisions of that section secondary evidence is admissible, and this is also the English law. (3) By implication, therefore, he would consider secondary evidence madmissible under the clause as it now stands. And this also appears to be the view taken by Mr. Field, who says that "as section 65, clause (a), para. 4, admits secondary evidence of the existence, condition or contents of a document only when a person legally bound to produce owner nor any (

document which

If this be so, it is contrary to the rule of English law, which admits secondary evidence of a document in the hands of a stranger, who is not compellable by law to produce it, and who refuses to do so "(4)

If the case is not covered by the words of the section according to those constructions already given favouring the admissibility of secondary evidence. there has been either an intentional or accidental omission to provide for the admission of secondary evidence under the circumstances mentioned. It is difficult to assign any reason for its intentional omission. For the effect of such omission should be to establish a rule contrary to English law, and to the general principles controlling the reception of secondary evidence, which might in many cases cause serious and unreasonable injury to a litigant If, therefore, it be held that this section does not make provision for the case mentioned, it may perhaps nevertheless be held upon the English cases and the general principles and considerations adverted to, that where a serson is justified in refusing to produce a document on the ground of privilege, secondary evidence may be given by the party calling for the document, for

(f) Whitley Stokes, Anglo Indian Codes 4, 892 (7) Markler, Fr. Act, 94 (2) S. 165, prat (4) Fall, Fy. ort.

he has, in the words of Parke, B.,(1) done everything in his power to obtain it.(2) It is also apprehended that the rule with regard to documents, the subject of lien is the same under this Act as it is in England.(3)

Where oral evidence was given to prove the contents of a letter, which was neither produced nor called for, but no objection was raised to the giving of the evidence, held that this was secondary evidence of the contents of a document and could not be given without satisfying the conditions of this section. Section 66 rendered it legally inadmissible, although no objection was raised to the giving of it.(4) This decision is unsustainable, and has been dissented from.(5) It fails to draw the distinction between evidence which is irrelevant and relevant evidence proved in a particular manner without objection. An objection to the irregularity of proof should not be entertained in the Appellate Court where no objection on this head has been taken in the Court of first instance (6)

CLAUSE (B).

Oral admissions of the contents of documents are ordinarily inadmissible, unless and until the party proposing to prove them shows that he is entitled to give secondary evidence. (7) The present clause, however, provides that a written admission is receivable as proof of the existence, condition, or contents not in t

ìó

secondary evidence thereof could not be given, the Court observing as follows:—"Reference is made by the Sessions Judge to section 65 of the Evidence Act, the words appearing in clause (b) of that section being quoted: but for the reasons above stated, I am of opinion that it was not open to the Magistrate to procure an admission in writing—if the affixing of his whole statement by the accused can be held to constitute an admission in mark to the writing for this purpose—in respect of the contents of the previous statements."

This clause must be read with section 22 The result seems to be this:— The written admission may always be proved. The oral admission can only be proved in the cases stated in section 65, (a), (c) and (d) Of course, admissions as to the contents of documents are frequently made by the parties or their pleaders at the hearing. The reference now under consideration has no application to such admissions (13) which are governed by section 58. The admissions spoken of in sections 22 and 65 are evidentiary admissions Admissions under section 58 dispense with proof.

<sup>(1)</sup> See Holderd v. Karpli, 2 Fs., 12 anic, p. 494, note (10).

<sup>(2)</sup> But see also Field, Er , 601, Cunningham, Er., 213.

<sup>(3)</sup> v. aute, p. 455.

<sup>(4)</sup> Kamesherr Pershaf v. Amanutalla, 25 C. 53 (1989); s. c., 2 C. W. N., 649. Rampni, J., observing that "there is no law in this country that the absence of objection to evidence, which is legally insulmently, makes it admissible."

<sup>(5)</sup> Audien Let v. Rulled Dec, 21 C., 155 (1903)
(6) See Notes to a 3, sate "Objections by patting." and Shahard, Recom v. Secretary of State for India, P. C., 1907, 34 C., 1059, L. R., 34 I. A., 194.

<sup>(7)</sup> S. 22, nate.

<sup>(8)</sup> Cunningham, Ev., 214. Phillips and Arn., Ev., 325, 320. Govern Quinton, 7 M. & G., 285

<sup>(9)</sup> See last para, but two of a 65.
(10) Damedar Jagannath , itmaram Calap,

R., 445, 446 (1888)
 Direthi Varada v. Ketshnasami Ayyangar.
 M., 117 (1882); Sambayya v. Gangayya, 3. M.

Taris (1890)
(12) R. v. Larras, D M., 224, 240 (1886).

<sup>(13)</sup> Markly, Lv Act, 69.

CLAUSE (C).

When the original has been destroyed(1) or lost(2) or when the party offering evidence of its contents for any other research not arising from his any default or neglect, produce it in

of the contents of the documer

troved or lost, the party seeking to give secondary evidence of its contents must give some evidence that the original once existed(5) and must then either prove its destruction positively(6) or at least presumptively, as by showing that it has been thrown aude as uscless, (7) or he must establish its loss, by proof that a search has been unsuccessfully made for it, in the place or places where it was most likely to be found. What degree of diligence is necessary in the search cannot easily be defined as each case must depend much on its own peculiar circumstances(8) but the properties of the proper has, in good faith, exhausted in a ally tion and means of discovery, whi suggest and which were accessible to him (9) As the object of the proof is merely to establish a reasonable presumption of the loss of the instrument, and as this is a preliminary inquiry addressed to the discretion of the Judge, (10) the party offering secondary evidence need not on ordinary occasions have made a search for the original document, as for stolen goods, nor be in a position to negative every possibility of its having been kept back. (11) If the document be important, and such as the owner may have an interest in keeping, or if any reason exist for suspecting that it has been fraudulently withheld, a very strict examination will properly be required , but if the paper be supposed to be of little or no value a very slight degree of diligence will be demanded, as it will be aided by the presumption of destruction or loss, which that circumstance affords." (12) It is not necessary that the search should be recent or made for the purpose of the trial, (13) though it will be more satisfactory if the search be made shortly before the trial. Hearsay evidence of the answers given by persons likely to have had the document in their custody is admissible.(14) Where there is one person chiefly interested in a document, enquiry should be made of him, where two persons have an equal title to its custody as a lessor and lessee, enquiry should be made of both, though perhaps such strictness is not legally necessary (15) If the party entitled to the custody of

(1) See Syud Abbas v I adeem Ramy, 3 Moo. I A, 158 (1843), Luchmedhur Patitack v Raphoo bury Snapk, 24 W R, 284, 285 (1853) [derturction of record during the mutiny], Kunneth Odange v. layeth Palliyd, 6 M, 80 (1852), Jishahmmed ibdal v. Ibrahim, 7 Bom. H C R, A C J, 160, 102, 161 (1869), Krishan Kishori v Kishori Lat, 14 C, 493, 499 (1857).

(2) See Ilurrish Chander v Provunno Commar, 22 W. R., 303 (1874), in the matter of a Cellivino between the 'Ara' and the 'Irribilia', 5 C., 585 (1879). Abulur Chander v Antiter Paul, 5 C., 886, Reopmonyoner Chondrave v. Rom Lall, 1 W R., 145 (1884). Lerhman Singh v. Puna, 16 C., 755, 759 (1889).

7 C, 98, 100 (1881), and post
(4) r p 490, post,
(5) Doe r. Huttcomb, 6 Ex. R., 601, 605, 60

(5) Doe v. Wittcomb, 6 Ex. R., 601, 605, 606 (6) See Mufeezooddeen Kazee v Meher Ali, 1

W. R., 212, 213 (1864)
(7) R. t. Johnson, 7 East, 56, 29 How. St.

Tr. 437-440, S (

(8) Brewster v Newdl, 3 B & A, 303 Gally v Bp of Exeter, 4 Bung, 298 See Pardoe v Price, 13 M & W, 267, R v Gordon, 25 L J, M

C, 19
(9) R v Safron Hell, 22 L. J., M. C, 22, and E. & B, 93 (S. C.) See Mortarty v. Gray, 12 h

Law R , N S , 129. (10) Taylor, Ev , § 23(a)

(11) M. Gahay v. Alston, 2 M. & W., 214, Harr. Mart, 1 Harr, 9

(12) Taylor, Ev. § 429, Gathercolev. Mvall, 15 M & W., 319, 322, 329, 330, 335, 336. Brewster v. Sewell, 3 B. & A., 299, 300, 313. Kensington

Inglis, 8 East., 278, R v East Fairley, 6 D
 R. 153, Freeman v Artill, 2 B & C., 494
 Fitz v Rabbits, 2 M & Rob., 60, Taylor,

(13) Fitz v. Rabbits, 2 M. E. Rob., 60. Taylor Ev., § 435 (14) R. v. Braintree, 28 L. J. M. C., 1, R. v.

(14) R. v. Ermintree, 28 L. J. M. C. 1. R. Kendisorth, 7 Q. B., 642, Taylor, Ev., § 429.
(15) Taylor, Ev. § 432.

the document be dead, enquiries should generally be made of his heirs and representatives, though such steps will not be necessary should it appear that another party is in possession of the papers of the deceased.(1) It has been already observed that before copies of other secondary evidence will be admissible there must be evidence of a search for the originals.(2) Whether or not sufficient proof of search for, or loss of, an original document, to lay a ground for the admission of secondary evidence, has been given, as a point proper to be decided by the Judge of first instance and is treated as depending very much on his discretion. His conclusion should not be overruled, except in a clear case of miscarriace.(3)

Where the plaintiff stated the accidental destruction of a document and prayed leave to put in evidence a register.

at the same time ordered the fragments which was done, and the Court admitted Judicial Committee reversed this finding copy, in the absence of satisfactory evidence of the destruction of the original bond, was improperly admitted as secondary evidence. There was nothing to show that the fragments produced were fragments of the original.(4) In a suit by the purchaser of a debt, the plaintiff stated that in 1873, A executed a bond in favour of B to secure the repayment of Rs. 1.000, and that he had purchased the interest of E, at a sale in execution of a decree against him. plaintiff now sued A upon the bond, making B a party. At the trial, A denied the execution of the bond, and it was not produced by the plaintiff who, having served B with notice to produce, tendered secondary evidence of its contents, B was not examined as a witness, and no evidence was given of the loss or destruction of the bond. It was held by Pontifex and Morris, JJ. (Prinsep, J., dissenting), that secondary evidence was not admissible.(5) Secondary evidence of the contents of a document requiring execution, which can be shown to have been last in proper custody, and to have been lost, and which is more than 30 years old, may be admitted under this clause and section 90, post, without proof of the execution of the original. (6) In the Court of Probate where a will itself has, after the death of the testator, been pretrievably lost or destroyed, if its substance can be distinctly ascertained (either by the original instructions, by a copy of the will, or even by the recollection of witnesses who have heard it read), probate may be granted of a copy embodying such substance.(7)

It was held prior to the Act that when a party himself fraudulently destroys a document he is not entitled to give secondary evidence of it.(8) But a party in possession of a document cannot refuse to produce at and give secondary evidence because the document has been in the possession of the opposite party who might have, or had, tampered with it (9)

The second portion in this clause is that of a person, by no fault of his own, being unable to produce the production of the original. It has been said that perhaps under this portion of the clause [if the word 'not' has been omitting the production of the clause in the word 'not' has been omitting the production of the clause in the word 'not' has been omitting the production of the pro

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Fe , § 434

<sup>(2)</sup> Herr Undellick v. Massimat Berley, I Mon. L., 41 (1889); Bislanskiner I Beli v. Horrisons Aurine, 6 C., 723, 724 (1884); Artishia Krisov, v. Kakor, Ld., 14 C., 490 (1887); Brisons Beli v. Ralmin Beli, 19 C., 473 (1882); (1) Harryens Beli v. Ralmin Beli, 19 C., 473 (1892); (1) Harryens Beli v. Ralmin Beli, 19 C., ART (1892); es also Shorleon Social v. Eva Lell, 9 U. L., 290 (1883), astr., p. 431, ser 2

<sup>(4)</sup> Synd Albert v. Ladren Remy, 3 Mon. I. A., 156 (1817).

<sup>(5)</sup> Boneck Chunder v. Shama Sundari, 7 C., 198 (1981).

<sup>(6)</sup> Abetter Chunder . Abettur Pont, 5 (', 886 (1880), 6 (' L It, 190

(F) Taylor, E., § 435, and cause there circle, and are Harrier, Knight, L. R., 15 P. D., 1700; Hierdrand & Gouldone, L. R., 11 Ap., Cas., 460; Sugles v. N. Lemante, I. P. D., 154; see Act. X of 1955; thinken Sucression), as 208, 200; Bhipson, Ev., 7d LL, 284. See notes to as 101—104, poor selve or "Willis."

<sup>(8)</sup> Shel Abdulla v. Shel Muhammad, 1 Botto H. C. R. A. C. J., 177 (1864).

<sup>(9)</sup> Hera Lell v. Ganesh Praised, 4 A., 4(4), 43 (1882)

ted from the penultimate paragraph of clause (a)],(1) a party might give secondary evidence of a document which a person having no legal right to refuse the production of, nevertheless refuses on notice to produce.(2) If the party of a document which ought to have been registered, to show that he cannot prots non-registration was he must shew that the ch fraud in the matter on that ground to the production of the secondary evidence.(4) In the undermentioned case(5) it became necessary to prove that in July 1877 certain immovable property vested in one KS as a purchaser at an auction-sale. A certified copy under section 57 of the Registration Act was tendered and objected to. was remanded by the Appellate Court in order that a subparna duces tecum might be served on KS, the Court observing that if the party seeking the production of the document could not compel K S to produce it and could show that the non-product

dary evidence could 57 of the Registratio was admissible.

Any secondary evidence may be given in this case. (6) So where a registered deed of sale had been lost, it was held, that oral evidence of the transaction might be received, and that it was not necessary to maist upon the production of a certified copy. (7) And in the undermentioned recent case it was held that oral evidence was admissible to prove the contents of a written acknowledgment which had been lost. In this case it was said by Channell, J , that a Judge should carefully scrutinize such evidence, following the analogy of claims against the estate of a deceased person which are often disallowed unless corroborated.(8) Where a deed has been executed and lost or destroyed it is not necessary that the witnesses called to give oral testimony of its contents should be attesting witnesses, if they have seen and know the contents of the deed it will be sufficient, provided the Court gives credit to them and is satisfied of the due execution (9)

CLAUSE (D).

Secondary evidence may be given when the production of the original is either physically impossible or highly inconvenient. Thus inscriptions on walls(10) and fixed tables, mural monuments, gravestones(11) surveyor's marks on boundary trees, notices fixed on boards to warn trespassers, and the like. may be proved by secondary evidence, since they cannot conveniently, if at all. be produced in Court. For instance, on one occasion, a man was convicted of writing a libel on the wall of the Liverpool gaol, on mere proof of his handwriting. In order, however, to let in this description of secondary evidence, it must clearly appear that the document or writing is affixed to the freehold. and cannot be easily removed; and, therefore, where a notice was merely sus-

(6) S 63

W P., 303 (1874)

(17(0)

(7) Hurish Chunder . Primunno Cormar, 22

(I) v ante, p 414, note (I) (2) Norton, Ev., 247, 248

<sup>(3)</sup> Wuseer Alt v. Kales Coomar, 11 W. R. 228 (4) Kumeezooddeen Holdar v. Rujjub Ali, 9 W

<sup>1: , 528 (1868).</sup> (5) I asanji v. Haribhai, 2 Bom I. R . 533

<sup>(8)</sup> Read v. Price (1909), 1 K. B., 577. (9) Synd Lordfoellah v. Mussamat Nuserhun. to W R , 24 (1868)

<sup>(10)</sup> See s. 3 (definition of "document")

<sup>(11)</sup> See s 32, cl. (6), ante.

the document be dead, enquiries should generally be made of his heirs and representatives, though such steps will not be necessary should it appear that another party is in possession of the papers of the deceased.(1) It has been already observed that before copies of other secondary evidence will be admissible there must be evidence of a search for the originals (2) Whether or not sufficient proof of search for, or loss of, an original document, to lay a ground for the admission of secondary evidence, has been given, is a point proper to he decided by the Judge of first instance and is treated as depending very much on his discretion. His conclusion should not be overruled, except in a clear case of miscarriage. (3)

Where the plaintiff stated the accidental destruction of a document and prayed leave to put in evidence a registered copy which the Court allowed, and at the same time ordered the fragments of the original bond to be produced, which was done, and the Court admitted the registered copy as evidence, the Judicial Committee reversed this finding, on the ground that the registered copy, in the absence of satisfactory evidence of the destruction of the original bond, was improperly admitted as secondary evidence There was nothing to show that the fragments produced were fragments of the original.(4) In a suit by the purchaser of a debt, the plaintiff stated that in 1873, A executed a hond in favour of B to secure the repayment of Rs. 1,000, and that he had purchased the interest of E. at a sale in execution of a decree against him. plaintiff now sued A upon the bond, making B a party. At the trial, A denied the execution of the bond, and it was not produced by the plaintiff who, having served B with notice to produce, tendered secondary evidence of its contents, B was not examined as a witness, and no evidence was given of the loss or destruction of the bond. It was held by Pontifey and Morris, JJ. (Prinsep, J., dissenting), that secondary evidence was not admissible.(5) Secondary evidence of the contents of a document requiring execution, which can be shown to have been last in proper custody, and to have been lost, and which is more than 30 years old, may be admitted under this clause and section 90, post, without proof of the execution of the original (6) In the Court of Probate where a will itself hing, after the cloath of the togetator ! -- - ! ' ' lost or destroyed, if its anbstance c original instructions, by a copy of lesses who have heard it read), probate may be granted of a copy embodying such substance (7)

It was held prior to the Act that when a party lumself fraudulently destroys a document he is not entitled to give secondary evidence of it. (8) But a party in possession of a document cannot refuse to produce it and give secondary evidence because the document has been in the possession of the opposite party who might have, or had, tampered with it (9) The second portion in this clause is that of a person, by no fault of his own, being unable to procure the production of the original. It has been said that perhaps under this portion of the clause [if the word 'not' has been omit-

(1) Taylor, Pr . 3 434.

(2) Meer Unicellah v. Museumat lierby, 1 Moo 1 1. 41 (1636); Bhubaneshwars Dels v. Hartment hurma, 6 (t., 727, 724 (1841). Aprilina Kishers v. Kushers Lal, 14 C., 490 (1887), Hartituta Inda v. Rubmini Indi, 19 C., 439 (1892). (1) Haropas Deli v. Rubmini Debi, 19 C. 847 (18'12); see also Shooten Scotal v. Rom Loll, p 11. 11., 217 (1864), aste, p. 441, see 3

(5) Wentel Chunder v. Shama Sundari, T.C. 114 (1441).

(6) Abetter Chunder . Abettur Paul, 5 C., 886

(1880) 6 ( L Jt , 199 (7) Taylor, Et , $ 436, and rases there cirel, and see Harris v Anight, L. R., 15 P. D., 170. Hundicard v. Gentletone, L. R. H. Ap. Can, 4694 Sugden v St Leonards, 1 P D , 154; see Act X of 1865 (Indian Succession), ss. 208, 200;

Phipmon, Er, 3rd Ed. 244 See notes to se 101-104, pod mb me "Willia" (8) Shel Aidulla . Shel Muhammud, I Botto. H C. R. A. C J. 177 (1884)

(9) Hera Lell v. Ganesh Prasad, 4 A., 406, 41 (1842).

<sup>(4)</sup> Sand Albas v. Indeem Ramy, 3 Mon 1. A . 156 (1943)

ted from the penultimate paragraph of clause (a)],(1) a party might give secondary evidence of a document which a person having no legal right to refuse the production of, nevertheless refuses on notice to produce.(2) If the party florts to have

ime.(3) It is the contents of a document which ought to have been registered, to show that he cannot produce it because it is not registered he must show that its non-registration was not due to any fault or want of diligence on his part, or he must shew that the party against whom he desires to use it was guilty of such fraud in the matter of non-registration that he cannot be allowed to object on that ground to the production of the secondary evidence.(4) In the undermentioned case(5) it became necessary to prove that in July 1877 certain immovable property vested in one K S as a purchaser at an auction-sale. A certified copy under section 57 of the Registration Act was tendered and objected to. The case was remanded by the Appellate Court in order that a subpana duces tecum might be served on KS, the Court observing that if the party seeking the production of the document could not compel KS to produce it and could show that the non-production was not due to his own default or neglect, then secondary evidence could be given under this clause; and in such a case by section 57 of the Registration Act a copy of the entry made in the registration-record was admissible.

Any secondary evidence may be given in this case. (6) So where a registered deed of sale had been lost, it was held, that oral evidence of the transaction might be received, and that it was not necessary to insist upon the production of a certified copy. (7) And in the undermentioned recent case it was held that oral evidence was admissible to prove the contents of a written acknowledgment which had been lost. In this case it was said by Channell, J., that a Judge should carefully scrutimize such evidence, following the analogy of elaims against the estate of a deceased person which are often disallowed unless corroborated. (8) Where a deed has been executed and lost or destroyed it is not necessary that the witnesses called to give oral testimony of its contents should be attesting witnesses, if they have seen and know the contents of the deed it will be sufficient, provided the Court gives credit to them and is satisfied of the due execution. (9)

CLAUSE(D).

Secondary evidence may be given when the production of the original is either physically impossible or highly inconvenient. Thus inscriptions on wall on b

may be p

(L'NK)

writing a med on the wan of the Lacerpoor taos, on meter proof of manufacturing. In order, however, to let in this description of secondary evidence, it must clearly appear that the document or writing is affixed to the freehold, and cannot be easily removed, and, therefore, where a notice was merely sus-

<sup>(1)</sup> v. ante, p 414, note (1)

<sup>(2)</sup> Norton, Ev . 247, 248

<sup>(3)</sup> Water 41. v. Kalee Coomar, 11 W. R. 228

 <sup>(4)</sup> Kumerzooddeen Heldar v. Rujjuh Ali, 9 W.
 R., 529 (1868)
 (5) Lasanji v. Harilkai, 2 Bom. L. P., 533

<sup>(6) 8 65</sup>

<sup>(7)</sup> Hurish (hunder v. Privanno Commer. 22) W. R. 303 (1874)

<sup>(8)</sup> Read v Price (1949), 1 K B , 577.
(9) Synd Lucifuellah v Museamat Nuscehun,

<sup>10</sup> W R . 24 (1868) (10) See a. 3 (definition of "document")

<sup>(11)</sup> ber a 30, el (6), ante

to produce

evidence of the mural inscriptions, it is not in the power of the party to produce the original.(1) Any secondary evidence of the contents of the original is here admissible.(2)

CLAUSE (E).

Secondary evidence may be given when the original is a public document.

This provision is intended to protect the iger to which they would be exposed by

In this case a certified copy(5) of the secondary evidence of the contents has this provision applies only when the public document is still in existence on the public records, and does not interfere with the general rule in clause (c) that any secondary evidence may be given when the original has been destroyed or lost (7) A certificate of sale granted under the Civil Procedure Code, Act VIII of 1859, and before section 107 of Act XVII of 1870 was enacted, is a document of title, but is not a public document so as to allow secondary evidence of it to be given under this clause, (8) See further p. 482, ant., as to cases in which two causes for non-production of the original are combined, and notes to s. 86, post.

CL.1USE (F).

When the original is a document of which a certified copy is permitted by this Act, (9) or by any other law in force in India, (10) to be given in evidence, a certified copy is the only evidence admissible (but v. post). The words "to be given in evidence" mean to be given in evidence in the first instance without having been introduced by other evidence (11). A registered deed of sale is not a document of which a certified copy is permitted by law to be given in evidence in the first instance without having been introduced by other evidence. Section 57 of the Registration Act only shows that when secondary evidence has in any way been introduced, as by proof of the loss of the original evidence of the contents will be admitted, because in that case, as in case of inural inscriptions, it is not in the power of the party to produce the original (1) Any secondary evidence of the contents of the original is here admissible.(2)

CLAUSE (E).

Secondary evidence may be given when the original is a public document within the meaning of section 74.(3). This provision is intended to protect the originals of public records from the danger to which they would be exposed by constant production in evidence (4). In this case a certified copy(5) of the document is admissible; but other secondary evidence of the contents has been admitted under cl. (9).(9). But this provision applies only when the public document is still in existence on the public records, and does not interfere with the general rule in clause (c) that any secondary evidence may be given when the original has been destroyed or lost (7). A certificate of sale granted under the Civil Procedure Code, Act VIII of 1859, and before section 107 of Act XII of 1879 was enacted, is a document of trile, but is not a public document so as to allow secondary evidence of it to be given under this clause.(8) See further p. 482, ante, as to cases in which two causes for non-production of the original are combined, and notes to s. 86, post.

CLAUSE (F).

When the original is a document of which a ceitified copy is permitted by this Act, (3) or by any other law in force in India, (10) to be given in evidence, a ceitified copy is the only evidence admissible (but v. post). The words "to be given in evidence" mean to be given in evidence in the first instance without having been introduced by other evidence (11). A registered deed of sale is not a document of which a certified copy is permitted by law to be given in evidence in the first instance without having been introduced by other evidence. Section 57 of the Registration Act only shows that when secondary evidence has in any way been introduced, as by proof of the loss of theoriginal document, a copy certified by the registrar shall be admissible for the pur-

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 438, and authorities there cited. The case last cited in the text would not strictly come within the wording of a. 63, clause (d), which refers to originals not raisly movable in the instance given, the originals are not movable at all. In Whitley Stokes, Anglo Indian Codes ii, 812, it is suggested that such a cuse is not provided for unless perhaps by the latter part of cl. (e). But it can bardly be said that the otiginal cannot be produced in renwaulde time when it cannot be produced at any time. It is apprehended that the case would come within the puryear of the third paragraph of cl. (a), because the document would under the cocumstances given Le in the possession or power of a person or persome out of reach or not subject to the process of the Court. See aute, p. 136

<sup>(2)</sup> S. 65.
(3) See Notes to s. 74, post so an examined copy of a quantumnial register was hild to be evaluate without the production of the original vectoring Ooley v. Instrument Datt, 7 W. R., 14

<sup>(1867)</sup> See us to this Plause, Krishna Kishors Lal, 14 C., 491 (1877)

<sup>(4)</sup> Kunneth Odangal v Vayoth Palliyil, 6 M., 80, 81 (1882), Doe v Ross, 7 M. & W., 106.

<sup>(5)</sup> See 8s 70, 77, post.
(b) Sandar Kuar V Chandreshwar Prasad

Varia Singh (1997), 34 C, 293,
(7) Kunneth V Invelh, note (8) sujea, see also in the matter of a collision between the Iral and the Brenkilda, 5 C., 508 (1879); Brokendyal Sing v. Mussl. Khadrema, Marshall's Reps. 213 (18d2)

<sup>(8)</sup> Fasanji v. Hardhai, 2. Bom. L. B., 533 (1980), per Caudy, J.

<sup>(9)</sup> See s. 78. And so to this clause, Krishna Arshori v. Arshori Loll, 14 C., 491 (1887).

<sup>(10)</sup> e.g., Act XVIII of 1819 (The Bankers' Books Evidence Act), v. post, see also Cir. Pr. Cole, O. XLV, r. 15, p. 1502. (11) Heriol Chender v. Prausino Coomar, 22

<sup>(11)</sup> Herick Chender v. Prosunno Coomar, 2: W. R., 343 (1874).

may be given as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them and who is skilled in the examination of such documents. The competence of the witness must, therefore, be proved to the satisfaction of the Court before such evidence is tendered. In the undermentioned case it was held that the general result of the examination of many documents may be given under this clause, even though they may be "public documents" within the meaning of clause (e) and section 74; since the evidence was admitted not because the documents were public, but because they were such as could not be conveniently examined in Court, and because the fact to be proved was the general result of the examination.(1)

Upon the analogy of the rule contained in this clause, if bills of exchange or the like have been drawn between particular parties in one invariable mode, this may be proved by the testimony of a witness conversant with their habits of business, who speaks generally of the fact, without production of all the bills.(2) But if the mode of dealing has not been uniform, the cave does fall within this exception, but is governed by the rule requiring the production of the writings.(3)

Rules as to notice to produce

66. Secondary evidence of the contents of the documents referred to in section 65, clause (a) shall not be given, (4) unless the party proposing to give such secondary evidence has previously given to the party in whose possession or power the document is, (5) or to his attorney or pleader, such notice to produce it as is prescribed by law, and if no notice is prescribed by law then such notice as the Court considers reasonable under the circumstances of the case:

Provided that such notice shall not be required in order to render secondary evidence admissible in any of the following cases, or in any other case in which the Court thinks fit to disposse with it:—

- (1) when the document to be proved is itself a notice;
- (2) when, from the nature of the case, the adverse party must know that he will be required to produce it;
- when it appears or is proved that the adverse party has obtained possession of the original by fraud or force;
- (4) when the adverse party or his agent has the original in Court;
- (5) when the adverse party or his agent has admitted the loss of the document;
- (6) when the person in possession of the document is out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court.

(S: These

A111 4

<sup>(9 ) - - - 1</sup> Mey , 3 Can p. 130

<sup>(1) 7- 1 . 3 4 . 4 402</sup> (3) 5 p 4 . . daar Perilat s. . 4

Principle.—Notice is required in order to give the opposite party a sufficient opportunity to produce the document, and thereby to secure if he pleases, the best evidence of its contents. Notice to produce also excludes the argument that the opposent has not taken all reasonable means, to secure the original.(1) See further, Notes, post, as to the ground of the rule and of the provisos.

63 (Meaning of secondary evidence.)
 65, Cl. (a) (Proof by secondary evidence.)
 5 3 ("Court.")

Steph. Dig., Art. 72, Taylor. Ev., §§ 442—456; Civ. Pi. Code, O. V, r. 7, p. 617; O. XIII, pp. 780—786; O. XI, rt. 15—18; pp. 768—770; Cr. Pr. Code, ss. 94—98, 485; Ch. VI, Br., Penal Code, s. 175.

COMMENTARY.

A proper notice to produce is, in the cases mentioned in section 65, clause Notice to (a), necessary before secondary evidence(2) becomes admissible. The true produce principle on which a notice to produce a document on the trial of a cause is required is not to give the opposite party notice that such a document will be used by a party to the cause in order to enable him to prepare evidence to explain or confirm the document, but is merely to give him a sufficient opportunity to produce it, and thereby secure if he pleases, the best evidence of the contents: and, therefore, when a document is shown to be in Court, a request to produce it immediately is sufficient.(3)

Section 65, clause (a), refers to documents in the possession of both parties and strangers According to English practice a notice to produce is used for an adversary in the cause, while a stranger legally compellable to produce a document is served with a summons to produce a subpana duces tecum. A notice to produce is a notice by a party or his solicitor to another party or his solicitor, calling upon the latter to produce at the trial a particular document or particular documents specified in the notice. A subject a duces tecum is a process used not by the party but by the Court. It would appear from clause (a) of section 65 that the notice to produce referred to in sections 65 and 66 is a notice served either on an adversary or on a stranger, (4) and is a notice issued by process of Court under the Civil(5) or Criminal(6) Procedure Code In the Molusul all notices are served through the Court, but on the Original Side of the High Court, the party himself or his solicitor serves r notice to produce on the opposing party or his solicitor. Where, however, the person in possession of the document is a stranger to the suit, a subpana duces tecum will be necessary in the High Court as in the English Courts, whose practice in this respect is

The notice to produce must be such as is prescribed by law, and if no notice is prescribed by law, then such notice as the Court considers reasonable under the circumstances of the case. It must be shown that

<sup>(1)</sup> Dwyer v Collins, 7 Ex., 639-647

<sup>(2)</sup> In a 65, existence, condition, or concints " ar spoken of In a 60 secondary evidence of the contents" is alone mentioned Vsarr, whether secondary evidence of existcondition" can be given in any case without notice, Field, Ev., 388 Apparently <sup>(3)</sup> Deger v. ( elliss, 7 Ex. 639; further notice to produce excludes the argument that the opponent has not taken all reasonable means to procure the original, tb., 647, v. post, Procuso (4), p. (497). But see also Bute v. Armey, I f.

M & R, 38

(4) Field, Ev., 389. Whitley Stokes in 883.

(5) See Civ. Pr. Code, O. V, r. 7, p. 617, O.

XI. rr. 15-18, pp. 768-770.

(6) See Cr. Pr. Code, as. 94-99, (h. VI., sb., s. 485, ib., and ss. 162, 165, post, persons omitting to produce documents after service of notice may be proceeded arainst under s. 175 of the Pepal Code.

may be given as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them and who is skilled in the examination of such documents. The competence of the witness must, therefore, be proved to the satisfaction of the Court before such evidence is tendered. In the undermentioned case it was held that the general result of the examination of many documents may be given under this clause, even though they may be "public documents" within the meaning of clause (e) and section 74; since the evidence was admitted not because the documents were public, but because they were such as could not be conveniently examined in Court, and because they are such as could not be conveniently examined in Court, and because the fact to be proved was the general result of the examination.(1)

Upon the analogy of the rule contained in this clause, if bills of exchange or the like have been drawn between particular parties in one invariable mode, this may be proved by the testimony of a witness conversant with their habits of business, who speaks generally of the fact, without production of all the bills (2) But if the mode of dealing has not been uniform, the case does fall within this exception, but is governed by the rule requiring the production of the writings (3)

Rules as to notice to produce

66. Secondary evidence of the contents of the documents referred to in section 65, clause (a) shall not be given, (4) unless the party proposing to give such secondary evidence has previously given to the party in whose possession or power the document is, (5) or to his attorney or pleader, such notice to produce it as is prescribed by law, and if no notice is prescribed by law then such notice as the Court considers reasonable under the circumstances of the case:

Provided that such notice shall not be required in order to render secondary evidence admissible in any of the following cases, or in any other case in which the Court thinks fit to dispense with it:—

- (1) when the document to be proved is itself a notice;
- (2) when, from the nature of the case, the adverse party must know that he will be required to produce it;
- (3) when it appears or is proved that the adverse party has obtained possession of the original by fraud or force;
- (4) when the adverse party or his agent has the original in Court;
- (5) when the adverse party or his agent has admitted the loss of the document:
- (6) when the person in possession of the document is out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the

Court.

Nareta Stayl (1967), 31 C., 203. (2) Spearer v. Belliag, 3 Camp. (310.

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 482.
(4) See Kameshear Pershad v. Amanutulla, 20

p. 48% and the observations on this case.
(5) These words in a, 86 were inserted by Act AVIII of 1872, a, 6.

Principle.—Notice is required in order to give the opposite party a sufficient opportunity to produce the document, and thereby to secure if he pleases, the best evidence of its contents. Notice to produce also excludes the argument that the opposent has not taken all reasonable means, to secure the original.(1) See further, Notes, post, as to the ground of the rule and of the provisors.

63 (Meaning of eccondary evidence.)
 65, Cl. (a) (Proof by secondary evidence.)
 83 ("Document.")
 95, Cl. (a) (Proof by secondary evidence.)
 95, Cl. (a) (Proof by secondary evidence.)

Steph. Dir., Art. 72; Taylor, Ev., §§ 442—456; Civ. Pr. Code, O. V., r. 7, p. 617; O. XIII, pp. 780—786, O. XI, rr. 15—18; pp. 768—770; Cr. Pr. Code, ss. 94—98, 485; Ch. VI, h. Penal Code, s. 175

COMMENTARY.

A proper notice to produce is, in the cases mentioned in section 65, clause Notice to (n), necessary before secondary evidence(2) becomes admissible. The true produce principle on which a notice to produce a document on the trial of a cause is required is not to give the apposite party notice that such a document will be used by a party to the cause in order to enable him to prepare evidence to explain or confirm the document, but is merely to give him a sufficient opportunity to produce it, and thereby secure if he pleases, the best evidence of the contents; and, therefore, when a document is shown to be in Court, a request to produce it immediately is sufficient (5).

Section 65, clause (a), refers to documents in the possession of both parties and strangers. According to English practice a notice to produce is used for an adversary in the cause, while a stranger legally compellable to produce a document is served with a summons to produce a subpana duces tecum. A notice to produce is a notice by a party or his solicitor to another party or his solicitor, calling upon the latter to produce at the trial a particular document or particular documents specified in the notice. A subjecta duces tecum is a process used not by the party but by the Court. It would appear from clause (a) of section 65 that the notice to produce referred to in sections 65 and 66 is a notice served either on an adversary or on a stranger, (4) and is a notice issued by process of Court under the Civil(5) or Criminal(6) Procedure Code. In the Mofusul all notices are served through the Court, but on the Original Side of the High Court. the party himself or his solicitor serves a notice to produce on the opposing party or his solicitor. Where, however, the person in possession of the document is a stranger to the suit, a subpana duces tecum will be necessary in the High Court as in the English Courts, whose practice in this respect is followed.

The notice to produce must be such as is prescribed by law; and if no notice is prescribed by law, then such notice as the Court considers reasonable under the circumstances of the case. It must be shown that

<sup>(1)</sup> Dayer v. Collins, 7 Ex , 639-647.

<sup>(2)</sup> In s 65, existence, condition, or contents" are spoken of In s 65 secondary evidence of the contents" is alone mentioned Quare, whether secondary evidence of exist cur." or condition" can be given in any case without notice, Field, Ev., 383. Apparently

<sup>(3)</sup> Dieger v. Cellins, 7 Ev., 639; further notice to produce excludes the argument that the opponent has not taken all reasonable means to procure the original, ib., 647, v. post, Procuso (4), p. (497). But see also Bale v. Kineey, 1 (

M & R , 38 (4) Field, Ev , 389, Whithy Stokes 11, 823

<sup>(5)</sup> See Cir. Pr Code, O V. r. 7, p 617, O. VI. rr 15-18, pp. 768-770

<sup>(6)</sup> See Cr. Pr. Code, ss. 94—98, Ch. 11., 16., s. 483, i5., and ss. 162, 163, post, persons onutting to produce documents after service of notice may be proceeded against under s. 175 of the Penal Code.

by any person who has f such documents. The to the satisfaction of the ermentioned case it was held that the general result of the examination of many documents may be given under this clause, even though they may be "public documents" within the meaning of clause (e) and section 74, since the evidence was admitted not because the documents were public, but because they were such as could not be conveniently examined in Court, and because the fact to be proved was the general result of the examination.(1)

Upon the analogy of the rule contained in this clause, if bills of exchange or the like have been drawn between particular parties in one invariable mode, this may be proved by the testimony of a witness conversant with their habits of business, who speaks generally of the fact, without production of all the bills (2) But if the mode of dealing has not been uniform, the case does fall within this exception, but is governed by the rule requiring the production of the writings (3)

Rules as to notice to produce

66. Secondary evidence of the contents of the documents referred to in section 65, clause (a) shall not be given, (4) unless the party proposing to give such secondary evidence has previously given to the party in whose possession or power the document is (5) or to his attorney or pleader, such notice to produce it as is prescribed by law, and if no notice is prescribed by law then such notice as the Court considers reasonable under the circumstances of the case :

Provided that such notice shall not be required in order to render secondary evidence admissible in any of the following cases, or in any other case in which the Court thinks fit to dispense with it :-

- when the document to be proved is itself a notice:
- when, from the nature of the case, the adverse party must know that he will be required to produce it;
- when it appears or is proved that the adverse party has obtained possession of the original by fraud or force:
- when the adverse party or his agent has the original
- when the adverse party or his agent has admitted (5) the loss of the document:
- (6) when the person in possession of the document is out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court.

Acres Suga (1967), 34 t., 247

C. 53 (1898) s. c., 2 (. W. N., 649, cited astr. p. 484, and the observations on this case. (5) Three words in a, let were meeted by 1ct XVIII of 1872, s. 6.

(I) sandar Knar s. Chanles-knar I tourd (2) Speacer v. Dillers, 3 Camp (310) (1) Tayler, Er . 1 482. (4) he Asseshede Ferstal v. . Imanulatie, 24

Principle.—Notice is required in order to give the opposite party a sufficient opportunity to produce the document, and thereby to secure if he pleases, the best evidence of its contents. Notice to produce also excludes the argument that the opponent has not taken all reasonable means, to secure the original.(1) See further, Notes, post, as to the ground of the rule and of the provisors.

63 (Meaning of secondary evidence.)
 8 3 ("Document.")

s. 65, Cl. (a) (Proof by secondary evidence.) s. 3 ("Court.")

Steph. Drg., Art. 72; Taylor. Ev., §§ 442—456; Civ. Pr. Code, O. V. r. 7, p. 617; O. XIII, pp. 780—786; O. Xr. r., 16—18; pp. 768—770; Cr. Pr. Code, ss. 94—98, 485; Ch. VI. h., Penal Code, s. 175.

COMMENTARY.

A proper notice to produce is, in the cases mentioned in section 65, clause Notice to (a), necessary before secondary evidence(2) becomes admissible. The true principle on which a notice to produce a document on the trial of a cause is required is not to give the opposite party notice that such a document will be used by a party to the cause in order to enable him to prepare evidence to explain or confirm the document, but is merely to give him a sufficient opportunity to produce it, and thereby secure if he pleases, the best evidence of the contents; and, therefore, when a document is shown to be in Court, a request to produce it immediately is sufficient.(3)

Section 65, clause (a), refers to documents in the possession of both parties and strangers. According to English practice a notice to produce is used for an adversary in the cause, while a stranger legally compellable to produce a document is served with a summons to produce a subpara duces tecum. A notice to produce is a notice by a party or his solicitor to another party or his solicitor, calling upon the latter to produce at the trial a particular document or particular documents specified in the notice. A subjecta duces tecum is a process used not by the party but by the Court. It would appear from clause (a) of section 65 that the notice to produce referred to in sections 65 and 66 is a notice served either on an adversary or on a stranger, (4) and is a notice issued by process of Court under the Civil(5) or Criminal(6) Procedure Code In the Mofussil all notices are served through the Court, but on the Original Side of the High Court, the party himself or his solicitor serves a notice to produce on the opposing party or his solicitor. Where, however, the person in possession of the document is a stranger to the suit, a subpana duces tecum will be necessary in the High Court as in the English Courts, whose practice in this respect is iollowed.

The notice to produce must be such as is prescribed by law, and if notice is prescribed by law, their such notice as at the Court considers reasonable under the circumstances of the case. It must be shown that

<sup>(1)</sup> Buyer v. Callan, 7. Ex., 839-847.
(2) In s. 65., existence, condition, or contains "are spoken of. In s. 66 secondary criterion of the contents" is alone mentioned Quarr, whether secondary reduced of existence of or condition." can be given any case without notice, field, Ey., 2838. Appearably.

<sup>(3)</sup> Dayer v. Cellins, 7 Ev., 639, further notice to produce excludes the argument that the oplement has not taken all reasonable means to procure the original, 15., 647, 1 pm, Procuo (4), p 1497; But see also Bate 1 Ainsey, 1 ( M & R. 38

Field, Ev., 389. Whithy Stokes in, 833.
 See Cir. Pr. Code, O. V. r. 7, p. 617. O.

<sup>(5)</sup> See Cir. Pr. Code, O. V. r. 7, p. 617, O. V. I., rr. 15-18, pp. 768-770.
(6) See Cr. Pr. Code, sa. 94-98, Ch. VI., 15.

s 485, 10 , and ss. 162, 165, post; persons omitting to produce documents after service of notice may be proceeded against under s. 175 of the Penal Code.

the party to whom the notice has been given has the document in his possession or power. Possession is the very foundation of notice; reasonable evidence of possession must be given, and then on proof of service of notice and non-production, secondary evidence may be offered.(1) If the document is in the possession or power of the person who desires to use it as evidence. he must produce it.(2) "It is difficult to lay down any general rule as to what a notice to produce ought to contain, since much must depend on the particular circumstances of each case No mis-statement or maccuracy in the notice will, however, be deemed material if not really calculated to mislead the opponent. Neither is it necessary by condescending minutely to dates, contents, parties, etc., to specify the precise documents intended. Indeed to do so may be dangerous, since if any material error were madvertently made, the party sought to be affected by the notice might urge, with possible success, that he had been misled thereby. If enough is stated on the notice to induce the party to believe that a particular instrument will be called for, this will be sufficient "(3) The form of notice may be general, e.g., to produce "all accounts relating to the matter in question in this cause;"(4) or "all letters written by the plaintiff to the defendant relating to the matters in dispute in the action "(5) But a notice to produce "letters and copies of letters and all books relating to the cause" has been held to be too vague to admit secondary evidence of a letter.(6) Inaccuracies will not vitiate a notice unless the recipient has been misled thereby (7) As to the time and place of the service, when not fixed by law, no more precise rule can be laid down than that it must be such as to enable the party, under the known circumstances of the case, to comply with the call (8) The sufficiency of the service is a question for the Judge, who must be satisfied that it was such that the recipient might, by using reasonable diligence, have complied with the notice.(9) If the notice has not been properly served, or if served in insufficient time, (10) or if the party calling for a document does not take all the means in his power to compel its production, (11) secondary evidence will not be permitted to be given

When a party calls for a document which he has given the other party notice to produce, and such document is produced and inspected by the party calling for its production, he is bound to give it as evidence if the party producing it requires him to do so.(12). And when a party refuses to produce a document which he has had notice to produce, he cannot afterwards use the document as evidence without the consent of the other party or the order of the Court (13). The rules with regard to the admission of secondary evidence are the same in criminal as in civil trials, and the necessity for notice the same; though it will comparatively seldom happen that documents are

(9) Hoyd v. Mostyn, 10 M. & W., 487, 484

<sup>(1)</sup> See Similar v. Streamon, 1 C & P., 585 as to the only in which the evidence may be sized, as a 136, post,

<sup>(2)</sup> Hira Lal v. Ganeck Pracked, 4 A , 408, 410

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Fr . 5 443.

<sup>(4)</sup> Espere v. Custance, 2 M. & Rob., 181.

<sup>(5)</sup> Jacob v. Lee, 2 M. & Rob., 33 , Morres Mauser, M., 392

<sup>(6)</sup> Joace v. Edwards, M. Cl. & Y., 139, Recent decisions justify a greater facility of practice than personal formerly, but it is believed that many Lurgish Judges, attill act upon the old principles. Taylor, I.v., 443.

<sup>(7)</sup> Laurence v. Clarie, 14 M. & W., 251. (5) Taylor, Fr., § 445; see is , § 446, when the papers are in a foreign country

<sup>(10)</sup> Nong v. Leng, 54 I. J. Ch., 132; Taylor, Ev., 1445. Lut if a party, on bring served with a notice to produce a document, states that it is not in existence, pand proof of its contents will be received, and no object ion can be taken to the lateness of the service. Finter v. Pointer, 9 C. & P., 720.

<sup>(11)</sup> Shambati Kieri v Jago Biber, 29 C., 749 (1902)

<sup>(12)</sup> S. 163, post, see Notes to that section (13) S. 164, post, see Actes to that section, and see Civil Procedure, Code, O. M., r. 15, p. 768, O. VII, r. 18, p. 761.

required to be produced at a criminal trial and notice will consequently have but seldom to be usued.(1) The Court shall presume that every document called for and not profited after notice to produce was attested, stamped and executed in the manner required by Law.(2)

Notice is not required in order to render secondary evidence admissible Provisos. in any of the following cases -

- (a) When the document to be proved is itself a notice. This exception appears to have been ominally adopted in regard to notices to produce, for the obvious reason, that if a notice to produce such a document were necessary, the series of notices would become infinite. The exception has subsequently been extended to other notices and now lets in proof by copies of a notice to quit, of a notice of dishonour provided the action be brought upon the bill, but not otherwise, and of all such notices of action, or written demands as are necessary to entitle the plaintiff to recover.(3)
- (b) When from the nature of the case, the adverse party must know that he will be required to produce it. The second of the cases is where from the nature of the action or indictment, or from the form of the pleadings, the defendant must know that he will be charged with the possession of an instrument, and be called upon to produce it. Thus in an action of trover for converting a bond, a bill of exchange or other writing or in a prosecution for stealing any document, the counsel for the plaintiff or the Crown may at once produce secondary evidence of its contents, even though the defendant should offer to produce the document itself.(4) A like rule prevails in an action on contract against a carrier for the non-delivery of written instruments, as also in indictments for conducting a traitorous correspondence. It has, however, been held inapplicable in a charge of forging a deed, and no doubt can be entertained in that an indictment for arson, with intent to defraud an insurance office, does not convey such a notice that the policy will be required, as to dispense with a formal notice to produce. Similarly it is the necessary (though reverse) consequence of this rule that if the maker of a note or cheque, or the acceptor of a bill, does not, as defendant in an action, deny by the plea his making or acceptance. the plaintiff who is not bound to produce the instrument as part of his case, since it is admitted on the record, may object to the defendant's giving secondary evidence of its contents for the purpose even of identification, unless a notice to produce has been duly served or unless the instrument is shown to be in Court. (5)

(c) When it appears or is proved that the adverse party has obtained possession of the original by fraud or force, as where after action brought. he has received it from a witness, in fraud of a subpara duces from (6) In such cases in odium spoliatoris a notice to produce is not required to be given to him before admitting secondary evidence of the contents of the document of which he has improperly obtained possession.(7)

(d) When the adverse party or his agent has the original in Court. For the object of the notice is not, as was formerly thought, to give the opposite party an opportunity of providing the proper testimony to support or impeach the document, but merely to enable him to produce it, if he likes, at the trial, and thus to secure the best evidence of its contents.(8)

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Ev., 251.

<sup>(2)</sup> S. 89, post

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Ev., §§ 450, 451, and cases there cited, Quare, whether the 'notices' referred to in cl. (1) is a notice to produce only or includes also the other notices which the doctrine has been extended by the English cases.

<sup>(4)</sup> See Haithauf v. Scott, I M. & Rob., 2. (5) Taylor, Er . 4 412, and cases there exted.

<sup>(6)</sup> Louis v Couts, 4 Esp. 256; the v. Riss. Bing., 724

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Er., 1 453.

<sup>(8)</sup> Doyer v. Cillian, 7 Ex., 639, ante, p., 495, ore Taylor, Pr., $ 456.

- (e) When the adverse party or 1 .- --- 1 -- 2 ' the document: for in such case the notice loss must be admitted. Under this exception, witnesses to prove the destruction of a document that has been traced into the hands of his opponent and then show its contents by secondary proof, unless he has first served a notice to produce, since (notwithstanding the evidence to the contrary), the document may still be in existence, or at any rate the opponent may dispute the facts of its having been destroyed.(2)
- When the person in possession of the document is out of reach of. or not subject to, the process of the Court.(3) On this point, sections 65 and 66 are not happily drafted. Section 65 appears to require a notice to be given in this case, for the last paragraph of Clause(a) applies to everything that has gone before; while the present Clause expressly enacts that notice is not necessary.(4) Where a commission to take evidence is issued to any place beyond the jurisdiction of the Court issuing the commission, it is not necessary, in order to admit secondary evidence of the contents of a document, that the party tendering it should have given notice to produce the original, nor is it necessary for him to prove a refusal to produce the original.(5)

The Court may disnotice

It will be observed that under this section, besides the specified cases in which notice is not required, the Court has the power of dispensing with the notice "in any case in which it thinks fit" This is a relaxation of the procedure in force in the English Courts.(6)

Proof of signature and handwriting of person al-leged to

67. If a document is alleged to be signed or to have been written wholly or in part by any person, the signature or the handwriting of so much of the document as is alleged to be in have signed that person's handwriting must be proved to be in his hand-production writing.

> Principle.—The person who makes an allegation must prove it Notes post.

s. 3 (" Document.")

- e. 3 (" Proved.")
- s. 45 (" Expert evidence in handwriting.") s. 47 (Non-expert evidence as to handwrit-
- s. 73 (" Comparison of handwriting.")

COMMENTARY.

Proof of signature and handwriting

In addition to the question which arises as to the contents of a document dealt with in sections 61-66, the further question arises when a document is used as evidence, namely, whether it is that which it purports to be; whether, in other words, it is a genuine document. The latter question is dealt with in sections 67-73. The nature of the evidence will greatly depend upon the nature of the document. Proof of handwriting, signature and execution must be given. Formalities attend or form part of such execution of either an universal or special nature. Signature is almost universal; for which sometimes, but more rarely, sealing is substituted. Sometimes both are used. If a person cannot write and has no seal he generally makes a mark, and some other person writes his name.

(4) See the argument in Polls v. Gan Kim.

cited, ante.

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 455

<sup>(2)</sup> Dra v. Morris, 3 A. & F., 45.

<sup>(3)</sup> See Dishop Mellus v. Vicer Apostolic, 2 M . 295, 301 (1879), Horaward Roy v. Ram Gopol, 4 C. W. N., 429 (1899); e. c., 27 C., 637

<sup>9</sup> C., 939 (1893). (3) Ralls v. Cau Kim, supra.

<sup>(6)</sup> Cunningham, Pv., 218.

Attestation, as to which see sections 68-72, is sometimes an imperative formality. Whatever the document may be, it cannot be used in evidence until its genuineness has been either admitted or established by proof, which should be given before the document is accepted by the Court.(1) The word "signing" means the writing of the name of a person, so that it may convey a distinct idea to somebody else that what the writing indicates is a particular individual whose signature or sign it purports to be. A mark is a mere symbol, and does not convey any idea to the person who notices it-very often probably even to the person who made it.(2) This section has not provided for the case of marks and seals, as to the proof of which, however, see ante, notes to section 47, and section 73 which assumes that seals are capable of proof. This section merely states with reference to documents what is the universal rule in all cases that the person who makes an allegation must prove it. It lays down no new rule whatever as to the kind of proof, (3) which must be given. In that respect the rule is precisely the same as it stood before. It leaves it, as before, entirely to the discretion of the presiding Judge of fact to determine what satisfies him that the document is a genuine one.(4) So in the undermentioned case, (5) it appeared that the evidence which was given in support of the document upon which the defendant's case depended was that of a Cazi before whom the vendor came and admitted the deed to be his, and caused it to be registered, bringing witnesses to his execution thereof. Upon that evidence the lower Court came to the conclusion that the deed was proved; but it was contended in appeal that the present section rendered it necessary that direct evidence of the handwriting of the person who was alleged to have executed the deed should have been given by some person who saw the signature affixed. But the Court. making the observations cited above, held, that it was not so expressly stated in this section, and that that was not the intention of the Legislature.(6) So also this Act does not require the writer of a document to be examined as a witness; nor does the present section require the subscribing witnesses to a document to be produced.(7)

It has been stated(8) to be commonly the practice with Subordinate Judical Officers, when taking the evidence required by this section, to record merely that the witness verified ('tasik kiya' or some similar expression) the document without stating the exact nature of the evidence offired, or the statement made by the witness. In Ganga Persad v. Inderit Singh(9) the Judicial Committee said — "The Documentary evidence on which the defendant's case principally rested consisted of two amandamans and the endorsements of payment thereon, which purported to have been signed by the plaintiffs; because these, if really signed by them, were proof of settled accounts comprehending most of the disputed payments. In this country, or in any country where

<sup>(1)</sup> Markby, Ev., Act 60

<sup>(2)</sup> Nirmal Chunder v. Srimati Saratmani, 2 C. W. N., 642, 648 (1898), as to "signature" including a mark, see ante, notes to s. 47, pp. 414, 415.

<sup>(3)</sup> The proof required by the section may, of course, be by any of the recognized modes of Proof, and amongst others by statements admissible under a. 32, anie; Abdulla Pars v. Gazandai, 11 B, 690, 691 (188) as to the method of Proofs

see s. 47, ante

<sup>(4)</sup> Neel Kanto v. Jugebundhoo Ghose, 12 B., L. R. App. 18 (1874), per Markby, J.

<sup>(5)</sup> Ib.

<sup>(6)</sup> IL

<sup>(7)</sup> Abdoct Ali v. Abdoor Fuhman, 21 W. R., 429 (1874), as to attesting witnesses, ere 2, 68, (8) Field, Ev., 389.

<sup>(9) 23</sup> W. R., 399 (1875).

to be given by the defendants would have been far more specific than a mere statement that they were identified and verified, as the Judge says, by the witnesses; the witnesses would have been called upon to state whether they saw BS sign the first or BS and J sign the second, or, if not, whether they could speak to the handwriting, and generally what took place on the two occasions on which the accounts are vaguely said by one of the witnesses to have been adjusted."(1) As to the presumptions which exist in the case of documents thirty years old, see section 90. post.

"Executed' means completed. "Execution' is, when applied to a document, the last act or series of acts which completes it. It might be defined as formal completion. Thus execution of deeds is the signing, sealing, and delivering of them in the presence of witnesses. Execution of a will includes attestation. In each class of instruments we have to consider when the instrument is formally complete." (2) Thus the contract on a negotiable instrument is, until delivery, incomplete and revocable.(3) The execution of documents to the validity of which attestation is not necessary may be proved by the admissions of the party against whom the document is tendered, whether such admissions are of an evidentiary nature or made for the purposes of the trial only. In the case of attested documents the admission of a party to such document of its execution by himself is sufficient proof of its execution as against him (section 70, post), whether such admission be evidentiary or made at the trial for the purpose of dispensing with proof. When there has been no admission as to the execution of a document which has been produced, it becomes necessary to prove the handwriting, signature, or execution thereof (4) As to the various methods of proving handwriting, see section 47, ante, and the Notes to that section. The English cases with regard to deeds and their sealing are not of much importance in this country where writings under scal, or, as they are technically called, "deeds" are not generally required, and contracts under seal have no special privilege attached to them, being treated on the same footing as simple contracts. According to English law, where the signature of a deed has been proved and the attestation-clause is in the usual form, sealing(5) and delivery may be presumed; so if signature and scaling are proved, delivery will be presumed (6) Where the seal of a corporation is not judicially noticed(7) it may be proved by anyone who knows it, no witnesses are required to the affixing of such seal, and attestation is not necessary unless the Articles of Association otherwise provide. The presumption is that the seal has been properly affixed.(8)

Proof of execution.

If the writing which is tendered in evidence is one which receives its character from being passed from one hand to another, the delivery, if necessary, must be proved. So until delivery a hundi is not clothed with the essential characteristics of a negotiable instrument (9) No particular form of delivery is necessary (10) Lastly, certain special rules exist as to the proof of execution of documents which are required by law to be attested.(11) An attested document not required by law to be attested may be proved as if

(5) See last Note.

(11) Se. 68-71, rost.

<sup>(1) 23</sup> W. R., 390 (1875) (2) Blauanje Her? kum v. Decp Punja, 19 B.

<sup>635, 634 (1894),</sup> per Farran, J. (3) 14.

<sup>(4)</sup> See Physion, Ev., 3rd Ed , 459, 460, Taylor, Ev., $ 972, et erg. $ 149.

<sup>(6)</sup> Taylor, Er., § 149; Poscoe, N. P.S.Fr. 135.

<sup>(7)</sup> v. o 27, aute. (8) Moins v. Threin, ST. E., 317, at at to this case Taylor, Fr., $ 1852 , as to the presumption of genuineness of certain scale, see s. 82, post. and as to comparison of scale, s. 73, post

<sup>(9)</sup> Bhowanji Harbhum v. Herji Punja, 19 B., 638 (1894). (10) Phipson, Ev , 3rd Ed., 462, and cases there cited; see as to the presumption in farour of the due execution of instruments, Taylor, Ev., $1 148, 149; and as to Presumption of delivery, it was unattested.(1) In respect of the proof of plans, it is not a sufficient reason for admitting a plan in evidence, that a witness says it was prepared in his presence, unless the witness also says that to his own knowledge the plan is correct.(2)

- 68. If a document is required by law to be attested, it Proof of execution shall not be used as evidence until one attestation witness at decument least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, required to if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence.
- 69. If no such attesting witness can be found, or if the Proof whe document purports to have been executed in the United King witness dom, it must be proved that the attestation of one attesting winds. witness at least is in his handwriting, and that the signature of the person executing the document is in the handwriting of that person.
- 70. The admission of a party to an attested document of Admission its execution by himself shall be sufficient proof of its execution by party tion as against him, though it be a document required by law document. to be attested.

71. If the attesting witness denies or does not recollect Proof whe

- the execution of the document, its execution may be proved witness by other evidence.
- 72. An attested document not required by law to be at-Proof of document tested may be proved as if it was unattested.

Principle.-Attestation of documents is a common formality, and in The object with which it is made or required is to

8. 3 (" Document.") 8. 3 (" Evidence.") of proof, See Notes, post.

ss. 45, 47, 67, 73 (Proof of handwriting.)

s. 17 (" Admission.")

8. 3 (" Court.")

віо rec the ho. ple

88. 89, 90 (Presumption of attestation.)

8. 8 (" Proof.")

Steph. Dig., Arts. 66-69; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1839-1861; Act X of 1865, ss. 50, 331; Act XXI of 1870, a. 2; Act IV of 1882, ss. 59, 123; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 462-467; Harris Law of Identification in §§ 327-381.

<sup>(1)</sup> S. 72, pref. (2) R. v. Jord Hasje, 11 Born. H. C. R., 242, 246 (1874).

COMMENTARY.

Documents required by law to be attested.

There are but few documents which are required by law to be attested in India. Wells made after the first day of January 1866, by persons other than Hindus, Muhammadans, or Buddhists ;(1) and Wills made by Hindus, Jainas, Sikhs and Buddhists, on or after the first day of September 1870 in the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and in the towns of Madras and Bombay, or relating to immovable property situate within those limits, must be attested.(2) In the case of wills attestation either of the execution or of the admission of execution by the testator is expressly made sufficient for the purpose.(3) So the signature of the Registrar at the foot of the registration endorsement embodying the admission of the executant has been held to be sufficient attestation within the meaning of section 50 of the Indian Succession Act.(4) But this does not, however, hold good in the case of mortgages.(5) A mortgage, the principal money secured by which is 100 rupees or upwards, can be effected only by a registered instrument signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses. Where the principal money is less than 100 rupees, a mortgage may be effected either by an instrument signed and attested as aforesaid, or (except in the case of a simple mortgage) by delivery of the property.(6) It has been held by the Calcutta High Court that the attestation here contemplated, is attestation of the act of signing by the executant and cannot, in the absence of any express provision to that effect, be taken to include the attestation of the executant's admission of having signed the document. And that, therefore, the requirements of section 59 of the Transfer of Property Act are not satisfied when a mortgage-bond is signed by the mortgagor attested by one witness and contains the Sub-Registrar's signature to the endorsement, recording the admission of the execution by the executant. (7) But the Bombay High Court(8) and the Allahabad High Court(9) have decided that the attestation required under section 59 of the Transfer of Property Act includes attestation after execution . " " by the executant of his signature while agreed with the Calcutta High Court.(10) that a mortgage for more than 100 rupees which has been prepared and accepted, but which is not attested, is invalid, and that it cannot be used in proof of a personal covenant to pay.(11) But this view has not been accepted by the Calcutts High Court, which has held that an unattested mortgage so far as it creates a mere money or personal liability, does not require to be attested, and if so, section 68 of this Act does not apply. Therefore, it was held that though a document purporting to hypothecate immovable property was not registered and attested, a personal decree could be passed on it, inasmuch as it was evidence of a money-debt.(12) And it has

Act X of 1865 (Indian Succession), ss 50, 331.

(2) Act XXI of 1870 (Hindra Wills), s. 2. As to whether strict affirmative proof of due attestation is absolutely necessary, see Srio Sundari Debi v. Hemangini Ind., 4 C. W. N., 294 (1899).

(3) Act X of 1865, s. 60; Girindra Nath v. Brig Goral, 26 C., 246, 249, 249 (1898).

(4) Nitra Gopal v. Nopradra Nath, 11 C., 429 (1855); Horndra Namin v. Chandra Kanta, 16 C., 19 (1883); Girindra Nath v. Bejry Gopal, supra; Tofiladdi Penda v. Mahar Ali, 20, 78, 80 (1878).

(5) See last two cases cited and post.

(8) Act IV of 1992 (Transfer of Property).

(1) Tofaludá: Peada v. Mahar Ali, 26 C., 78 (1888); Girindra Nath v. Bryng Gypal, 26 C. 216 (1898); Aldul Karim v. Salman, 27 C., 100 (1809); Sad Bhuma Pol v. Chandra Puhlar, 23 C., 801, and Dinamoyre Debi v. Ron Bihari Kapur, 7 C. W. N., 160.

(8) Ramji v. Bai Parrati, 27 R., 91.

- (9) Ganga Dei v. Skiam Sundar, 26 A., 60 (10) Skamu Patter v. Abdul Kadir Rasuthan (1909), 31 M., 216.
- (11) Madras Depont Seriety v Connamelai Ammol., 18 M., 29 (1894).
- (12) Sonatun Shaha v. Dino Nath, 26 C., 222 (1809); s. e., 2 C. W. N., cerzar, 2 C. W. N., 228; Tojaluddi Proda v. Mahar Ali, 26 C., 78 (1808).

recently been held by the Madras High Court that an instrument which is invalid as a mortgage for want of attestation under section 59 of the Transfer of Property Act cannot operate to create a charge under section 100 of that Act.(I) A gift of immovable property can only be effected by a registered instrument signed by or on behalf of the donor, and attested by at least two witnesses (2)

" 'To attest' is to bear witness to a fact. Take a common example; a Attestation notary public attests a protest; he bears witness not to the statements in that protest, but to the fact of the making of those statements; so I conceive, the witnesses in a will bear witness to all that the Statute requires attesting witnesses to attest, namely, that the signature was made or acknowledged in their presence."(3) To 'attest' an instrument is not merely to subscribe one's name to it as having been present at its execution, but includes also, essentially, the being in fact present at its execution.(4) The ordinary sense of the expression "attestation by witnesses" is attestation by witnesses of the execution of the document not of the admission of execution. (5) When a document is produced and tendered as evidence, the first point for consideration is whether it is one which the law requires to be attested. There are many such documents in England. In India they are comparatively few. The above sections contain the rules relative to the admission in evidence of attested documents. Sections 68-71 apply only to documents required by law to be attested. Their general object is to give effect to the law relating to the attestation of documents which is itself enacted for the purpose of ensuring the genuineness of certain documents in respect of which claims are made. An attested document not required by law to be attested may be proved as if it was unattested.(6) For a long time it was held that when a document was attested, even though the law did not require attestaes should be produced. But as this amon Law Procedure Act of 1854(7) of 1855(8) whose provisions on this ntroduced the present more reasonable practice. In respect of the persons who may be attesting witnesses, it has been held that a party to a deed is not a competent witness to attest it.(9) and in the case of a Will, it will not be considered as insufficiently attested by reason of any benefit thereby given, either by way of a bequest or by way of husband

will be void so far as concerns the Person s and of such person, or any person claiming under either of them. A legatee, however, under a Will does not lose his legacy by attesting a codicil which confirms the Will.(10) A deed may be legally proved by the evidence of the scribe thereof who has signed

<sup>(1)</sup> Samoo Patter v. Abdul Sammad Sahib (1908), 31 M , 337, following Roysuddi Sheilh V. Kale Nath Moolertee, 33 C., 985, and Norayan v. Lakshmandas, 7 B., 931.

<sup>(2)</sup> Act IV of 1882 (Transfer of Property), s 123. As to the special rules relating to proof of attested documents under the Merchant Shipping Act, see 17 & 18 Vic., c. 104, s. 526. (3) Hudson v. Parler, 1 Robert, 26.

<sup>(4)</sup> Stroud's Judicial Dictionary, 63: Roberts Y. Phillips, 4 E. & B. 450; Bryon v. White, 2 Robert, 315; Sharp v. Birch, 8 Q B. D, 111 letted in Girindra Nath v. Beyoy Gopal, 28 C., 248, 248 (1899), past , Doe d. Spilsbury v. Burdett, 4 A. & E., 1; 9 A. & E., 836; 1 P. & D., 670; Freshfield v. Read, 9 M & W., 404; Rann v. Lazmanrao (1908), 33 B , 44.

<sup>(5)</sup> Girindra Nath v. Bejoy Gopal, 26 C., 246, 248 (1898), followed in Abdul Karim v. Salimun. 27 C., 190 (1899).

<sup>(6)</sup> S. 72, ante ; see Daitary Makanto v. Jugo-bundhoo, 23 W. R., 293, 295 (1875).

<sup>(7) 17 &</sup>amp; 18 Vic., c. 125, s. 26; and see 28 & 29 Vic , c. 18, as. 1, 7 (criminal cases). (8) 5, 37,

<sup>(9)</sup> Seal v. Claridge, 7 Q. B. D , 517, referred to in Penwarden v. Roberts, 9 Ch. D., 137

<sup>(10)</sup> Act X of 1865 (Indian Succession), s. 54, and see further, Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 463, as to the signatures of the directors and secretary of a company.

hus name, but not explicitly as an attesting witness on the margin, and has been present when the deed was executed.(1) The Madras High Court has held that a document which is required by law to be attested but which is unattested, is inadmissible in evidence for any purpose.(2) But the Calcutta High Court has dissented from this view, holding that though a document may be invalid and madmissible in so far as it purports to operate for a purpose for which attestation is required, it may be admissible for other purposes.(3)

The rules documents may be thus summar-ised

- (a) An attested document not required by law to be attested may be proved as to the attest if it was unattested. (4) The words "required by law" apply to documents tation of which attestation is of which attestation is required by some Act. (5)
  - (b) The Court shall presume that every document called for and not produced was attested in the manner required by law.(6) The Court in such a case shall presume, that is, it shall regard attestation as proved unless and until it is disproved. And the person so refusing to produce, if he be a party to the suit. cannot rebut this presumption by subsequent production of the document. (7)
  - There is a presumption of due attestation in the case of documents thirty years old. The Court may in such case dispense with proof of attestation (8)
  - Where a document is required by law, to be attested and there is an attesting witness available, at least one attesting witness must be called.(9) When the original document is in the possession of another and not forthcoming after notice to produce, and secondary evidence is given of its contents, the Court shall, as has been already observed, (10) presume that the document was duly 44 4.3 Ta ... a 1.4 .

but secondary evidence is offered of its contents under section 95, ante.(11) The English rule requiring the production of the attesting witnesses, provided their names be known, holds although the document is lost or destroyed.(12) And the same rule would seem to apply under this Act, since a document is "used as evidence" -1 11 11 is brought before the Court is primary ntnesses who have attested a mortgage bond cannot under section 68 be prov uch witness, even when the to physically impossible. Thus it all the witnesses be proved to be out of the jurisdiction of the Court or dead, or incapable of giving evidence, as if they be insane.(14) the next following rule will be applicable.

3SS.

(8) S. 90, post.

(9) S. 68, ante.

(10) S 89, post

unknown, r. post.

(11) Field, Ev., 393.

(12) Gillien v. Smithere, 2 Stark., R., 528.

Keeling v. Ball, Peake, Add, Cas , 88 , Taylor,

<sup>(1)</sup> Radha Aishen v. Fateh Ali, 20 A., 532 (1899),

<sup>(2)</sup> Madras Depost Society v. Consumalar

Annal, 18 M., 29 (1894). (3) Sonatan Shaka v. Din Noth, 26 C., 222 (1808); s. c., 3 C. W. N., 228

<sup>(4)</sup> S. 72, ante, corresponding with a 37 of the Repealed Act II of 1855 and with a 26 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (5) Field, Ev., 393; as to the document of which attestation is necessary, v. onte.

<sup>(6)</sup> S. 89, past; the rule is, therefore, not limited to the ease of possession by the adverse party , ers Taylor, Fv., § 1847.

<sup>(2)</sup> H 104, post.

Er., $ 1843; or the case in which the names are (13) Lecrappo Karundan v. Ramasams Kocundas (1907), 30 M., 251. (14) Taylor, Ev . $ 1851; with respect to caps-bility of giving evidence, it has been held in England that the attesting witness must be calledthough subsequently to the execution of the deed be has become blind, and that the Court will not

(e) If there be no attesting witness available, or if the document purports to be executed in the United Kingdom, the attestation of at least one attesting witness and the signature of the person executing the deed must be proved by other evidence to be in their handwriting.(1)

This rule will apply when the document purports to have been executed in the United Kingdom, or the witnesses are dead, insane or out of the jurisdiction, or when they cannot be found after diligent enquiry, or have absented themselves by collusion with the opposite party.(2) The degree of diligence required in seeking for the attesting witnesses to a document, the attestation of which is required to be proved by an attesting witness, is the same as in the search for a lost paper. The principle is in both cases identical.(3) If an instrument be necessarily attested by more than one witness, the absence of them all must be duly accounted for in order to let in secondary evidence of the execution.(4) As to proof of handwriting, see sections 45, 47, 67, ante, and section 73, post. Section 69 might seem to imply that the attestation of the attesting witness must be in his own handwriting, which implication assumes that the witness knows how to write. As a matter of fact, however, the greater number of attesting witnesses in India are marksmen.(5) The Act further contains no definition of the term "signature." But having regard to the definition of the word given in the General Clauses Acts of 1887 and 1897,(6) Registration Act. (7) and the Civil Procedure Code. (8) and the general policy of our law, (9) the term includes the affixing of a' mark. In the case last cited it was argued that as the only attesting witness examined was a marksman, the bond in suit was not legally established as required by section 59 of the Transfer of Property Act and by section 68 of this Act which, read with section 69, shows that an attesting witness must be one who can sign his name. It was, however, held that this contention was not correct; that there was no good reason for holdwitness within the meaning of sec-

witness within the meaning of secsection 68 of this Act; that accordure includes a mark and that there was no reason why the case of a mortgage-deed should form an exception. It was further argued that marksmen in this country often only touch the pen, and even the mark, generally a cross, is not made by them, but is made by the writer of the deed. But it was held that in this case no question arose as to whether a mark made by a person other than the writness can be sufficient, the mark being shown to have been made by the witness can be sufficient, the mark being shown to have been made by the witness can be sufficient, the

(f) The admission of a party to the document will, so far as such party is . one one checourse .

dispense with his presence on account of illness, however severe; ib., § 1843.8., but both of these decisions have been doubted or relocatibly followed, and it is submitted that under this Act in both of these cases the witness would be meanable of groung evidence under the terms of the sec-

- (1) S. 69, ante; see Taylor, Et., § 1851.
- (2) Taylor, Ev., $ 1851.
- (3) Ib., § 1855 and cases there cited; v. aste,
- 4. 85. (4) Ib , § 1856; Canlife v. Sefton, 2 East , 183;
- Bright v. Doe d. Talkam, A. and E. 22: Halfelock v. Musprove, I C. and M., 511. (5) Field. Ev., 392; the attesting witnesses to a will must affir their aggratures and not merely

- their marks. Naye Gopal v. Nagendra Aath, 11 C., 229 (1885). Fernandes v. Alees, 3 B., 322 (1879); and see Bissinath Einda v. Dayanam Jana, 5 C., 738 (1890); but see Anayee v.) olsy-
- malai, 15 M, 261, 663 (1891). (6) Act I of 1887, s. 3, cl. 12; Act N of 1897,
- a. 3, cl. 52, (7) Act XVI of 1908, a. 3.
- (8) Act V of 1908, s. 2, p. 35, and see Act λ of 1865 (Indian Succession), s. 50.
- (9) Pren Krishne v. Jodn Nath, 2 C. W. N., 603, 605 (1898).
  - (10) Ib , as to proof of marks, r. Index.
- (11) S. 70, auto, which is the same as a, 25, 3ct 11 of 1855.
- (12) Taylor, Ev., § 1843.

sion here spoken of, which relates to the execution, must be distinguished from the admission mentioned in section 22, ante, and from that mentioned in section 65, clause (b), ante, which relate to the contents or to the existence, condition. or contents of a document. Section 70 relates only to the admission of a party in the course of the trial of a suit. It does not include evidential admissions made before, and sought to be proved by witnesses in a suit (1)

The view here taken that the admission of a party (at any rate during the course of the trial) will dispense with the necessity of calling the attesting witnesses appears to be at variance with the undermentioned case. (2) in which it was held that the only effect of section 70 is to make the admission of the executant sufficient proof of execution and that the section is not sufficient to dispense with the necessity of proof of attestation to make a mortgage valid under section 59 of the Transfer of Property Act. It seems to have been assumed in Abdul Karım v. Salımun(3) which was not referred to in the last case. that provided the admission was made during the course of the trial it would have the effect here submitted Section 70 is a special provision dealing with attested documents. If the admission of the executant has not the effect of

 for the section at all, act relating to admisie sense of an admission of signing only. Attestation is only a form of solemn proof required in certain contested cases by special Legislative Enactment, and it is difficult to and and other meta-seach and he all 14. gainst a party

t 14, therefore. attributed to he case it was found that there was proof of attestation independent of the admission.

(g) If the attesting witness denies or does not recollect the execution of the . 7. ..... case it is the ' be proved by ting witnesses being called, denies or does not recollect the execution of the document, it is not clear whether other evidence can be given to prove it, if there be another attesting witness alive, subject to the process of the Court and capable of received as sufficient proof of the execution.(6) As to the presumptions which may exist relative to this section, see section 114, post,

In order to ascertain whether a signature, writing Comparison of signaring or seal is that of the person by whom it purports to have been with others written or made, any signature, writing or seal admitted or proved.

(1) Abdul Karim v. Salimun, 27 C., 190 (1899); this case, though in some respects dutinguishable, appears in substance to be at variance with the decision in Pryanath Chatterjee v. Bissessur Dass, 1 C. W. N., cexxii, in which it was held that the admission of execution of a mortgage in the recitals of subsequent further charges rendered the calling of an attesting witness to the mortgage unnecessary, the further charges having been proved in the usual way by the evidence of at.

testing witnesses. (2) Jogendra Nath v. Netai Churn, 7 C. W. N., 384 (1903). (3) 27 C., 190. (4) See Talbot v. Hodson, 7 Taunt., 251; Rowman v. Hodgson, L. R., I P. and M , 362; Wight

v. Rogers, id., 678; the same rule applies where the instrument is lost and the names of the witnesses are unknown; Keding v. Ball, Peake, Add. Cas., 83.

151 Field, Ev., 392, (6) Roscor, N. P. Et., 134; and cases there cited.

proved to the satisfaction of the Court to have been written or made by that person may be compared(1) with the one which is to be proved, although that signature, writing or seal, has not been produced or proved for any other purpose.

The Court may direct any person present in Court to write any words or figures for the purpose of enabling the Court to compare the words or figures so written with any words or figures alleged to have been written by such person.

[This section applies also, with any necessary modifications to finger-impressions. (2)

Principle. - Facts which are not otherwise relevant to the issue are admissible when they can be shown to be for the purticular purpose in hand identical with some relevant fact.(3) otherwise relevant to the issue a οf handwritings when proved to be يnature is in question. (4) And see Note, post.

3 (" Proved.")

89. 45, 47, 67 (Proof of handwriting.) 8. 3 (" Court,")

Steph. Dig., Art. 52; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1869-1874; Wharton, Ev., §§ 711-719; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 138-140; Rogers' Expert Testimony, §§ 130-144; Lawson's Expert and Opinion Evidence, 323-416; Harris, Law of Identification, 266-339.

COMMENTARY.

In addition to the modes of proving handwriting which have already been compariso dealt with by sections 47 and 45, ante, there remains direct comparison of the or hands disputed document with one proved or admitted to be genuine under this section,(5) which is in general accordance with the present English law(6) upon the subject as amended by Acts of the years 1854 and 1865. Although all proof of handwriting, except when the witness of the wests the decument bi-self, or saw it written, is in its nature a witness entertains upon comparing tl formed in his mind from some previou the first of the abovementioned dates, did not allow the witness or even the jury except under certain special circumstances, actually to compare two writings with each other, in order to ascertain whether both were written by the same

(I) "By comparison of handwriting is meant the examination of writings brought at the time into juxtaposition." Lawson's Expert and Opinion Evidence, 323; in order by such companson to ascertain whether both were written by the same person; Starkie, Ev., Part IV, 654. (2) The words in brackets were added, by s.

<sup>3,</sup> Act V of 1899; see s. 45, axis.

<sup>(3)</sup> Wills, Ev., 47, thus where the Issue was as to the line of boundary of a particular estate evidence having been given that the estate was conterminous with a certain hamlet, evidence was admitted to prove the boundary of the bamlet ; Thomas v. Jentins, 6 A. and E., 525.

<sup>(5)</sup> The section differs in its terms from the corresponding section (48) of the repealed Act II or 1855 which was as follows :- "On an inquiry whether a signature, writing or seal is genuine, any undisputed signature, writing or seal of the party, whose signature, writing or seal is under dupute, may be compared with the duputed one. though such signature, writing or seal be on an mstrument which is not evidence in the cause." As to s. 48 of Act II of 1855, see R. v. Amanocilak Mallak, & W. R., Cr., 5 (1866).

<sup>(6)</sup> Fee 28 & 29 Vic., c. 18, st. 1, 8; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1869-1874.

<sup>(7)</sup> See p. 414, ante.

<sup>(4)</sup> Walls, Ev., 48.

But the English rule is now otherwise.(1) By the terms of the section, any writing, the genuineness of which is admitted or proved(2) to the satisfaction of the Court, may be used for the purposes of comparison, although it may not be relevant or admissible in evidence for any other purpose in the cause.(3) The comparison can be made either by witnesses acquainted with the handwriting (4) or

COMPARISON OF HANDS.

without the interv in the event of th of ancient documents, v.e., more than 30 years old, may be proved by comparison with other ancient documents which have been shown to have come from proper custody and to have been uniformly treated as genuine.(8) The witness should generally have before him in Court the writings compared. It has, however, been held in America that where the loss of the original writing has been clearly proved, the opinion of an expert is receivable as to the genuineness of the signature to the lost instrument, he having examined the signature prior to its loss and compared his recollection of such signature with the admitted genuine signature of the same person on papers already in the case. (9) The original and not the copy is what the Court must act upon. Copies of any kind, whether photographic or otherwise, are merely secondary evidence and cannot be used as equivalent to primary evidence. But when the use of photographic copies is not objectionable, as being an attempt improperly to use secondary

The party whose writing is in dispute may also be required to write, for purpose of comparison, in the judge's presence, and such writing will then itself be admissible (11) Though this provision is useful, yet the comparison will often be less satisfactory as a person may feign or alter the ordinary character of his

(1) Taylor, Ev., § 1869 . Lawson op. est., 324 (2) See Sreemutty Phooder v Goland Chunder, 22 W. R., 272 (1874), R v. Kartick Chunder, 5 R C & C. R., Crim. Rul., 58, 62 (1868), R v. Amanordah Mollah, 6 W. R. Cr., 5 (1866), Puras Chunder v Grish Chunder, 9 W. R., Civ. R., 450 (1868) In Tara Prasad v Luihee Narain, 21 W. R , 6 (1873), certain ryots swore that they got their pottahs from the hands of the persons who purported to sign them : this was held to be sufficient proof under this section that the signatures were those of the lessor

(3) See Birch v. Ridgeay, 1 Fost. & Fin., 270 Crescuell v. Jackson, 2 Fost. & Fin , 24; Brookes Tubborne, 5 Ex., 929; it makes no difference what the writing is which is proved for purposes of comparison : it may be a love letter or it may be a testament, Wharton, Ev., § 711.

(4) S. 47, ante, the witness need not be a lirefessional expert or a person whose shill in the comparison of handwritings has been gained in the way of his profession or husiness, such a ancetion is one of weight only. R. v. Silverlack (1894) 2 Q B , 765 As to the opinions of nating Judges on pative writing, see Rajendra Nath v. Jugen fra Nath, 7 B L. R., 216, 233 (1871).

sensitive plate, the possible fraud of the operator,

<sup>(5)</sup> S. 45, ante.

<sup>(6)</sup> See Cobbett v. Kilminder, 4 Fort & Fin , 400); and observations as to comparison by a jury in R v. Harrey, 11 Cox, 546, 548

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Ev. § 1870

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev. § 1873-1874. (9) Rogers' Expert Testimony, § 139

<sup>(10)</sup> Ib., § 140 In Haynes v. McDermott, 82 N Y, 41, the New York Court said. "We may recognise that the photographic process is ruled by general laws that are uniform in their operation and that almost without exception a likeness 19 brought forth of the object set before the camera. Still somewhat for exact likeness will depend upon the adjustment of the machinery. upon the atmospheric conditions and the skill of the manipulator, etc." Other circumstances were mentioned in a preceding case (Taylor Will . case, 10 Abr. Pr., N. S., 300), such as the correctness of the lens, the state of the weather, the shill of the operator, the colour of the impression, the purity of the chemicals, accuracy of forming the angle at which the original was inclined to the handwriting with the very view of defeating a comparison.(1) It is, moreover, to be observed with regard to documents not written in Court that many men are capable of writing in several different hands : and consequently, where the object they have in view is to relieve themselves from hability nothing can be easier than to produce to the Court genuine documents which have been written for the express purpose of proving that no similarde exists between them and the writing in dispute (2) A comparison of writings, therefore, for these and other reasons is a mode of ascertaining the truth which ought to be used with very great cantama(3) especially if no skilled witness has been called to make the comparison (1) So with regard to seals it has been judicially observed that "at the best, the test of comparison between the impression of one native seal with another is but a fallible one and must always be received with extreme caution." (5) Writings which it is sought to use against accused persons for purposes of comparison should be clearly proved before being so used. (6) Comparison of writings is one of those tests which. ordinarily. Appelate Courts are quite as competent to apply as Courts of first instance.(7) In all cases of comparison of handwriting, the witnesses, the jury, and the Court may respectively exercise their judgment on the resemblance or difference of the writings produced'. In doing so, they will sometimes derive much aid from the evidence of experts with respect to the general character of the handwriting,-the forms of the letters, and the relative number of diversified forms of each letter,-the use of capitals, abbreviations, stops and paragraphs,—the mode of effecting erasures or of inserting interlineations or corrections,-the adoption of peculiar expressions,-the orthography of the words,-the grammatical construction of the sentences, and the style of the composition, and also on the act o.

<sup>(11)</sup> See second clause of section, and Colbett v. Kilmanster, supra; Dor d. Denne v. Hilson. 10 Moo. P. C. R , 502, 530; Rogers, op. cet., § 142. In Arreges at has been held that a party cannot he compelled in cross-examination to write his name; ib., and the section says " the Court may direct."

Harrison bars ( )

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Ev., 256, er observations of the Privy Council in Januari Singh v Sheo Narain, 16 A., 157, 161 (1893); s. c., 21 I. A., 5, 8

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 1872, the method of proof dealt with by this section, commonly called "by comparison of hands," has met with strong opposition both in England and America from its doubtful value and supposed dangers. Best, Er., p. 230.

<sup>(3)</sup> Secunuty Phoodes v. Golind Chunder, 22 W. R., 372 (1874), per Markby and Romesh Chunder Mitter, J., see Nobla Krishav A. Ressel Lall, 10 C, 1047, 1031 (1884) [cridence by comparinos held not to be aufficient]. Kursil: Prand A. Anasterom Hajra, 8 B. J. R., 450, 502 (1871);

<sup>16</sup> W. R., P. C., 16 [finding of lorgery on com-

<sup>(4)</sup> R. v. Silverlock (1894), 2 Q. B., 766, R. v. Harrey, 11 Cox, 546

<sup>(3)</sup> R 1. Amanocilah Midlah, 8 W. R., Cr., 5 (1898), per Kemp and Seton-Karr, JJ.

<sup>(1898),</sup> per Kemp and Seton-Karr, JJ.
(6) R. v. Kartick Chunder, 5 P. C. & C. P., Crim. Rul., 58, 62 (1888); R. v. Amandlah

Mollah, 6 W. R., Cr., 5 (1886). [7] E. v. Amanoellah, sapra, 8; and see Sreemutty Phoedec v. Gobind Chunder, 22 W. R., 272

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 1871.

<sup>(9)</sup> Arlon v. Fussell 3 F. & Fr., 152; v. ante-

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

DOCUMENTS are of two kinds, public and private. Section 74 accordingly supplies a definition of the term "public document." and section 75 declares all documents other than those particularly specified to be private documents. The following sections (74—78) deal with (a) the nature of the former class of documents, and with (b) the proof which is to be given of them. Section 74 defines their nature; and sections (76—78) deal with the exceptional mode of proof appheable in their case, the proof of private documents, as defined by section 75, being subject to the general provisions of the Act relating to the proof of documentary evidence contained in sections (61—73).

An inquiry as to public documents may be directed (a) to the means of obtaining an inspection or copy of them, (b) to the method of proving them; (c) to their admissibility and effect. (1)

With respect to (a) the means of obtaining an inspection or copy of a public document, the matter is one which is not dealt with by this Act. Section 76 provides for the giving of certified copies of public documents which the public have a right to inspect; but there is no general provision as to the right of meantment in force in British spect public documents, subhe is individually interested a copy is expressly conferred a true construction of the Sta-interest. The common law right is limited by this principle. (2) It may be inferred that the Legislature intended to recognise the right generally, that is the right to inspect public documents, for all persons who can show that they have an interest for the protection of which it is necessary that liberty to inspect such documents should be given. In such cases in the absence of a statutory there is a common law right. (3) There are some special provisions applicable to particular cases. Thou any particular remedy to refused; yet an order in t concerned to do his duty i under the provisions of Chapter viti or the opcome mener Acter,

(b) The method proving public documents is, as already observed, the subject of sections 76-78, post, (5) and (c) the admissibility and effect of non-

(1) Taylor, Fv , § 1479

(2) R. v. Armogom, 20 M., 180, 191, 192, 1931; per Subramana Ayyar and Davus, M., Callan, C. J. Add that the accused was a person interested in the decuments in quertion, and that if they were public documents be would be entitled to inspect and have copies of them: at p., 104, Shephand, J., was of the same spinion as the referring Judges as to the right of imperium, lat Add that two of the documents in.

- question wire not public documents: at p 196, (3) Chondi Charan v. Bostub Charan, 31 C., 284, 293 (1903). R. v. Arumugam, 20 M., 189, 196 (1897)
- (4) Act I of 1877; Field, Ev., 396, 398; as to the means of obtaining an inspection or copy in England, see Taylor, Ev., §§ 1479—1822; and see Greenleaf, Ev., § 471.
- (5) See post and as to the English law, Taylor, Er., §§ 1523-1659, 1747 A, et seq.

judicial public documents' is dealt with by sections 35-38, and of judicial public documents by sections 40-44, ante.(1) The question of the admissibility and proof of a public document involves four points of consideration : (a) The contents must relate to a fact in issue or a fact relevant under the earlier sections of the Act. (b) If the contents are a statement of such facts and are not acts forming such facts, the statement must be relevant under sections 35-38, chiefly section 35. (c) The contents of the original document must be proved subject to, and with the benefit of, section 65, clause (c). and sections 76-78.(4) The accuracy of the preparation of the original may be proved or presumed as provided by sections 80-87, and the correctness of certified copies may be presumed under section 79. In this connection section 57 relating to judicial notice should also be considered.(2)

Firstly, as to the nature of public writings. They have been defined to consist of "the acts of public functionaries, in the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments of Government, including under this general head the transactions which official persons are required to enter in books or registers in the course of their public duties and which occur within the circle of their 1 -1 - ----- m - 11 own · -

the Jude tible Und - · and

perty, if the entries are of a public nature, the books of the post-office and custom-house and registers of other public offices; prison-registers; registers of of statements in public documents. It will, however, be observed that under section 74 of the Act the question whether a document is or is not a public document, within the meaning of that section, is distinct from the question whether or not the public have a right to inspect it. It is only of public documents which the public have a right to inspect that certified copies may be given in evidence, but it may well be that a document may be "public" within the meaning of this Act, and also one which is not open to the inspection of the public and of which, therefore, no proof by certified copy may be given.

Secondly, with regard to the proof of public documents. As has been already observed, (7) the contents of documents must be proved either by the

<sup>(1)</sup> See pp. 369-396, ante, and as to the English law, Taylor, Ev., $5 1660-1747, 1747A, et mq;

and see Greenleaf, Ev., § 500, et seq. (2) The Evidence Act by Kishori Lal Sarkar, 2nd Ed., p. 174.

<sup>(3)</sup> Greenleaf, Ev., § 470. (4) 15.,. 11 479-484; Taylor Ev. 1 160) n;

Powell, Ev., 370-395; Physon, Ev., 3rd Ed. 361-365; Roscor, N. P. Ev., 124.

<sup>(5)</sup> See Powell, Er., 349-369, Phippon, Ev., 3rd Ed., 366-370. (6) L. R., 5 App. Ca., 637, 642, 643, per Lord

Blackburn. (7) See Introl., Ch. V.

production of the document, which is called primary evidence, or by copies or oral accounts of the contents, which are called secondary evidence. Primary evidence is required as a rule, but this is subject to seven exceptions(1) in which secondary evidence may be given. The most important of these are (a) cases in which the document is in the possession of the adverse party :(2) and (b) cases in which certified copies of public documents(3) are admissible in place of the documents themselves (4) The grounds upon which the last mentioned exception rests are grounds of public convenience. Public documents are, "comparatively speaking" little hable to corruption, alteration or misrepresentation-the whole community being interested in their preservation and in most instances entitled to inspect them; while private writings, on the contrary, are the objects of interest but to few, whose property they are, and the inspection of them can only be obtained if at all by application to a Court of Justice. The number of persons interested in public documents also renders them much more frequently required for evidentiary purposes; and if the production of the originals were insisted on, not only would great inconvenience result from the same documents being wanted in different places at the same of place would expose them to be lost, and the ould soon insure their destruction. For these ms it better to allow their contents to be proved by derivative evidence, and to run the chance, whatever that may be, of errors is oral evidence(7) receivable to prove the contents of a record or public book which is in existence." (8) With regard to the proof of documents of a public character in England, and the legislation relating thereto, see the notes to section 82, post. Proof of public documents under this Act may be given either by means of certified copies under the provisions of sections 75 and 77 or in the case of certain public documents particularly mentioned in section 78, in the particular modes referred to and allowed by that section. When such proof has been offered, certain presumptions arise in respect of the documents which form the subject of the third division of this Chapter of the Act. (9)

Public docu-

The following documents are public documents:—
 documents forming the acts or records of the acts—of the sovereign authority.

(1) S. 65, ante (2) Ibi, el. (a). (3) Ib., el (e).

(4) Steph. Introl., 170. It will be noticed, therefore, that the so-called "best-evidence rule" has in structures in application to the case of public writings, a properly authenticated copy bing. a recognized equivalent for the original intellect, Ev., Art., Notes, 432; Greenleaf, Ev., 432.

(5) By several molern Acts of Parlament, appearal moles of proof are provided for many kinds of records and public documents: see 31 and 32 Ven., c. 37, 14 and 15 Ven., c. 130, 42 Ven., c. 110, 42 Ven., c. 100, a large number of similar enactments are to be found in Er, the recent statute-books; see Taylor, Ev.

55 1073-1290

(6) In England the principal sorts of copies used for the proof of documents are (1) Exemplifications under the great real. (2) Exemplifications under the seal of the Court where the record is. (3) Obsec copies, i.e. copies made by an officer appointed by law for the purpose. (4) Examined copies as to which, see, 8.2, post. (5) Copies signed and certified as true by the officer to whose cuttody the original is entrusted. This Act refers to certified copies (s. 76) and certain other copies particularly specified (g. 78).

(8) Best, Ev., § 485, and see §§ 218, 219, ib.,

Starkie, Er., 315.
(9) See Introduction to ss. 79-90, post.

- (ii) of official bodies and tribunals, and
- (iii) of public officers, legislative, judicial and executive, whether of British India, or of any other part of Her Majesty's dominions, or of a foreign country:
- (2) public records kept in British India of private do-

75. All other documents are private.

Private documents

3 (" Document,")

53. 76-78 (Presumptions as to documents.)

. 79-90 (Proof of public documents.)

COMMENTARY.

See Introduction, ante. It has been held that in construing section 74 it Public and may fairly be supposed that the word "acts" in the phrase "documents form-private documents ing the acts or records of the act" is used in one and the same sense : that the act of which the record made is a public document must be similar in kind to the act which takes shape and form in a public document; that the kind of acts which section 74 has in view is indicated by section 78 in which section the acts are all final completed acts as distinguished from acts of a preparatory or tentative character. Thus, the enquiries which a public officer may make, whether un or may not result in action. a substantial distinction bet they result, and it is to the latter only that section 74 was intended to refer.(1) Consult the d-finition wisen in the count costion of the Civil Procedure Code of a " public eferences to documents which well as the following decisions A certificate of sale granted under the Civil Frocedure Code (Act VIII of 1859) and before section 107 of Act XII of 1879 was enacted is a document of title but is not a public document.(3) The Loan Register of the Public Debt Office in the Bank of Bengal is a public document, and under section 76 any person having an interest therein is entitled to inspect the same and obtain certified copies thereof (4) A jamabandi prepared by a Deputy Collector while engaged in the settlement of land under Regulation VII of 1822 has been held to be a public document within the mean-

(1878).

<sup>(1)</sup> R. v. Arawayon, 20 M. 189, 197 (1897), pr Shephard, J. So also Berson, J., at p. 201 said. "It may, I think, will be doubted whether the word 'acts' in a. 74 is used in its ordinary and popular mea and not rather in the restricted and technical sense in which it is used in a. 78." but see also remarks of S. Ayyar, J., at p. 200 and not on this case, past.

<sup>(2)</sup> A poleciman is a public officer; R. v. Armapum, 20 M., 189, 194 (1897); as to the Secretary of a Municipal Board, see reference to Full Peach, 19 A., 203, 203 (1897). The Gorant of a village is a public servant; R. v. Kuddu, 1 All. L. J., 253 (1893); the following are public officers:

—The Official Traitee: Stabilizates Stabilizasaba v. Fergusson, 7 C., 490 (1881): Official augmes; Joseph Haji v. Krup, 26 B., 800 (1992). The Administrator-General since the passing of the Art of 1902: Elebaron Chordry v. Admisistrator-General, 8 C. W. N., 913 (1904), and under Art V of 1908, every member of the Indian Crill Service.

<sup>(3)</sup> Vernyi v. Rerākai, 2 Bom. L. P., 533 (1900), per Caudy, J.

<sup>(4)</sup> Chendi Choran v. Bidab Choran, 31 C., 284 (1903); 8 C. W. N., 125. (5) Tern Poter v. Abinah Chunder, 4 C., 72

<sup>33</sup>

production of the document, which is called primary evidence, or by copies or oral accounts of the contents, which are called secondary evidence. Primary evidence is required as a rule, but this is subject to seven exceptions(1) in which secondary evidence may be given. The most important of these are (a) cases in which the document is in the possession of the adverse party :(2) and (b) cases in which certified copies of public documents(3) are admissible in place of the documents themselves (4) The grounds upon which the last mentioned exception rests are grounds of public convenience. Public documents are. "comparatively speaking" little hable to corruption, alteration or misrepresentation-the whole community being interested in their preservation and in most instances entitled to inspect them , while private writings, on the contrary, are the objects of interest but to few, whose property they are, and the inspection of them can only be obtained if at all by application to a Court of Justice. The number of persons interested in public documents also renders them much more frequently required for evidentiary purposes; and if the production of the originals were insisted on, not only would great inconvenience result from the same documents being wanted in different places at the same time, but the continual change of place would expose them to be lost, and the handling from frequent use would soon insure their destruction. For these and other reasons, the law deems it better to allow their contents to be proved by derivative evidence, and to run the chance, whatever that may be, of errors But true to the matter

kind, and has defined with much precision, the forms of it which may be resorted to in proof of the different sorts of public writings. (5) Thus, it must, at least in general, be in a written form, i.e., in the shape of a copy; (6) and as already mentioned, must not be a copy of a copy. In very lew, if in any, instances, is oral evidence?(7) receivable to prove the contents of a record or public book which is in existence. (8) With regard to the proof of documents of a public character in England, and the legislation relating thereto, see the notes to section 82, post. Proof of public documents under this Act may be given either by means of certified copies under the provisions of sections 76 and 77 or in the case of certain public documents particularly mentioned in section 78, in the particular modes referred to and allowed by that section. When such proof has been offered, certain presumptions arise in respect of the documents which form the subject of the third division of this Chapter of the Act. (9)

Public documents 74. The following documents are public documents:—
(1) documents forming the acts or records of the acts—

(i) of the sovereign authority,

(1) S. 65, ante. (2) Ibr. cl (a).

(3) 1b, cl. (e).

(4) Steph. Introd., 170. It will be noticed, therefore, that the ancalled "best evidence rule" has in strictness no application to the case of public writings, a properly authenticated copy long a recognized equivalent for the original steelf. Best, Ers., Amer. Notes, 412. Greenleaf, Ers., 482.

(5) By several modern Acts of Parliament special modes of proof are provided for many kinds of records and public documents: set 31 and 32 k··, c. 37; 14 and 15 k··, c. 90; 8 and 9 k··, c. 113; 42 k··, c. 11; 63 k··, c. 50; a large number of similar enactments are to be found in Fr., the receipt statute-books; set Taylor, Ev.,

55 1073-1200

(6) In England the principal sorts of copues used for the proof of documents are (1) Exemplifications under the great seal. (2) Exemplifications under the seal of the Court where the record us. (3) Office copues, i.e., copies made by an office appointed by law for the purpose. (4) Examined copies as to which, see s. 8.2, port. (5) Copies signed and certified as true by the office to whose custody the original is extrusted. Thus Act refers to excluded capacity. (7) and certified.

other copies particularly specified (s. 78).
(7) See Best, Ev., Amer. Notes, p. 433.
(8) Best, Ev., § 495, and see §§ 218, 219, 55,

Starkie, Ev., 315.
(9) See Introduction to se. 79-90, post.

- (ii) of official bodies and tribunals, and
- (iii) of public officers, legislative, judicial and executive, whether of British India, or of any other part of Her Majesty's dominions, or of a foreign country;
- (2) public records kept in British India of private documents.

75. All other documents are private.

Private

. 3 (" Document.")

ss. 76-78 (Presumptions as to documents.)

79-90 (Proof of public documents.)

COMMENTARY.

See Introduction, ante. It has been held that in construing section 74 it Public and may fairly be supposed that the word "acts" in the phrase "documents form- private documents ing the acts or records of the act " is used in one and the same sense; that the act of which the record made is a public document must be similar in kind to the act which takes shape and form in a public document; that the kind of acts which section 74 has in view is indicated by section 78 in which section the acts are all final completed acts as distinguished from acts of a preparatory or tentative character. Thus, the enquiries which a public officer may make. whether under the Criminal Procedure Code or otherwise, may or may not result in action. There may be no publicity about them. There is a substantial disfinction between such measures and the specific act in which they result, and it is to the latter only that section 74 was intended to refer.(1) Consult the definition --- the target sand santian of the Civil Procedure Code of a " public officer." ices to documents which as the following decisions are of a ' certificate of sale granted which he before section 107 of Act under th

XII of 1879 was enacted is a document of title but is not a public document. (3) The Loan Register of the Public Debt Office in the Bank of Bengal is a public document, and under section 76 any person baving an interest therein is entitled to inspect the same and obtain certified copies thereof. (4) A jamaband in prepared by a Deputy Collector while engaged in the settlement of land under

(1878)

(1) R. v. Arnawgen, 20 M., 189, 197 (1897), pr Shephani, J. So also Benson, J. at p 201 sail: "It may, I hink, will be doubted whether the worl." acts 'm n. 73 is used in its refulsery and popular seme and not rather in the restructed and technical sense in which it is used in a 78." but res also remarks of S. Ayar, J., at p. 201 and note on this case, proc.

(2) A poleoman as puble officer; R. v. Aramana, 70 M., 189, 194 (1897) as to the Secretary of a Municipal Board, see reference to Full Beach, 19 A., 293, 295 (1897). The Gorant of a village is a public servant; R. v. Sudda, I All. Ld., 213 (1801): the following are public officers:

—The Official Trustee: Stabelander Stables, about N. Frysumon, 7 C., 499 (1881); official sugments Joseph High v. Kemp. 25 B, 860 (1992). The Administrator-General since the passing of the Act of 1902: Eledaron Chording v. Administrator-General Chording v. Administrator-General 8 C. W. N., 913 (1994), with substituted to the Act V of 1908, every member of the Indian Cril Service.

(3) Faranji v. Harillai, 2 Bom. L. P., 52. (1989), per Candy, J.

(4) Chandi Charan v. Bintol. Charan, 21 ( 284 (1903); S.C. W. N., 125. (5) Torn Pater v. Abbank Charlet, 4 ( , 7)

this decision has been since said to be open to some degree of doubt.(1) In any case, however, it is evident that the questions whether a document is admissible in evidence as a public document, and the question whether that which is in it is binding upon tenants without reference to the question of concent or notice, are entirely separate matters. (2) An anumativatra or instrument giving permission to adopt is clearly not a public document; (3) nor is a ters lhana register (so called from the number of columns in the statement or register), prepared by a patuari under rules framed by the Board of Revenue under the 16th section of Reg. XII of 1817, nor is the patwart preparing the same a public servant (4) It has been held that the record of a confession of an accused person recorded by the Magistrate of Bhind in Gwalior is probably a public document.(5) Where a suit was compromised and a petition presented in the usual way, and the Court made an order confirming the agreement which with the order, as well as the power of attorney, were all entered upon record, it was held that these papers became as much a part of the record in the suit as if the case had been tried and judgment given between the parties in the ordinary way, and that that record was a public document and might be proved by an office-copy. (6) In the case cited below, (7) which was a suit arising out of an alleged trespass, certified copies of the judgment of the Munsiff in a previous suit between the parties as well as the decree, were admitted in evidence as public documents, certified copies of the plaint and written statement were also tendered in evidence on the ground of their being public documents and objected to. The plaint was admitted, but the written statement was rejected. The correctness, however, of this decision so far as it held the plaint to be admissible has been for a long time doubted/01 and 1 .... 1. 1. f. 11 ... 1 ...

acts of private parties and not of a public tribunal or its officers.

That class of documents which consist of plaints, written statements, affidavits and petitions filed in Court, cannot be said to form such acts or records of acts as are mentioned in the section, and are, therefore, not public documents. But depositions of witnesses taken by an officer of the Court are public documents (9) and so of course are judgments, decrees and other orders of the Court itself. In a suit for ejectment the defendant pleaded a comprosive, As evidence of it he tendered a certified copy of a petition which bore an order of the Court on it. This document was rejected by the lower Court as not proved, but it was held by the High Court that the document did not require to be proved and was admissible in evidence under section 77 of this Act.(10) A quinquennial register is a document of a public

<sup>(1)</sup> Akshaya Kumar v. Shama Charan, 16 C., 586, 590 (1889); Ram Chunder v. Banwedhur

Natk, 9 C., 741, 743 (1883). (2) Akshaya Kumar v. Shama Charan, supra

at p. 590
(3) Krishna history v Austori Lal, 14 C., 486.

<sup>401 (1887);</sup> s. c., L. R., 14 L. A., 71; nor of course are Libalas, conveyances and the like; Hurechur Mozomiar v. Churn Mahre, 22 W.R., 355 (1874). Hurish Chunder v. Promuno Coemor, 22 W. R., 300 (1874).

<sup>(4)</sup> Baif Nath v. Natha Makion, 18 C., 534 (1891), Namer Boadh v. Jappel histore, 23 C., 356 (1893), in the judgment in which once s. 35, ante, is fully considered.

 <sup>(5)</sup> R. v. Sunder Singh, 12 A., 595 (1890).
 (6) Bhogia Mega v. George Pershad, 25 W. R., <sup>68 (1876).</sup>

 <sup>(7)</sup> Shazada Mahamed v Daniel Bedyeberry, 10
 B. L. R., App., 31 (1873).
 (8) Field. Fy., 400, see as to the admissibility.

<sup>(8)</sup> Field, Ev., 400, see as to the admissibility of quasi records; Taylor, Ev., § 1534.

<sup>(9)</sup> Hornaused Roy v. Rom Gopal, 4 C. M. N., 429 (1890) [Foreign dilusial Recorded. A viingle and the state of the records of the acts of an official tribunal vatures the meaning of x-74, Hrs. App. No 110 of 1900 - 19 June 1907, Cal. H. C. (19) Mangal Sen v. Hern Nagh, 1 All. L. J., (19) Mangal Sen v. Hern Nagh, 1 All. L. J.,

Part I., p. 101 (1904). I All. I., J., 396 (1904); (Certified copy of application for compromise with an order of the Court on it is admissible in evidence under s. 77 and need not be proved.]

nature.(1) Letters which have passed between district authorities are public documents forming a record of the acts of public officers (2) But an abstract or copy of a Government measurement chitta which has been produced from the Collectorate, but as to which there is nothing to show that it is the record of measurements made by a public other is not admissible as a public document (3) nor it would seem is a chitta prepared by a public officer with a view to resumption proceedings being taken a public document, for it is made by Government as a ordinary landlord for a private purpose (4) A Master's certificate granted by the Board of Trade is not a public document (5) As to quality accounts prepared for administrative purposes by village officers, see case below (6) Entries in a register made under (B. C.) Act VII of 1876 by the Collector are entries made in an offi cial register kept by a public servant under the provisions of a Statute, and certified copies of such entries are admissible mey dence for what they are worth (7) It has been held by the Madras High Court that reports made by a police officer in compliance with sections 157 and 168 of the Criminal Procedure Code are not public documents, and that consequently an accused person is not entitled before trial to have copies of such reports (8) There is, however, a difference of opinion in that Court whether the same rule applies to reports made in compliance with section 173 of the Criminal Procedure Code,(9) or whether reports under that section are public documents of which an accused person is entitled under section 76 to have copies before trial (10) The fifth Clause of section 78 brings the records of the proceedings of a municipal body in British India within the second clause of the first sub-section of section 74 as the record of the acts of an official body. The records of the proceedings of a Municipal Board is a public document, and the officer who is authorized by the ordinary course of his official duties to give copies of public documents is for these purposes a public officer.(11) In support of a claim instituted in a Court in British India for a share in her deceased father's estate, plaintiff tendered in evidence a document which purported to be a certified copy of the will executed by her late father at Colombo where he was said to have been at the date of the execution of the alleged will. The document was filed as an exhibit in the sut, but the Subordinate Judge held that it was not admissible in evidence. It bore an endorsement purporting to be signed by the Assistant Registrar-General for Ceylon to the effect that it was a true copy of a last will and testament made from the Protocol of record filed in his office. No evidence was tendered before the Subordinate Judge that the copy had been made from and compared with the original. On the question of the admissibility in evidence of the said document: held that it was inadmissible, that it was not a public document

<sup>11)</sup> Setematty Oodoy v. Bishonath Datt, 7 W. R., 14 (1867). See Kashee Chunder v. None ( hander

<sup>8.</sup> D. A., 1849, pp. 112, 116 12) Piether Singh v. Court of Borde, 23 W.

R., 272 (1875).
(3) Ningenund Roy v. Aldur Bahrem, 7 C., 76 (1881).

<sup>(4)</sup> Run Chundre v. Bunnether Nml. 9 C.,

<sup>741, 741 (1883);</sup> see fivorla Noth v. Farin Moyl. 14 C., 120 (1886). (3) In the matter of a Collision between The Arn and The Brenhilds, 5 C., 568 (1879).

(6) Stransbromeson v. Servitory et State, 9

M., 284, 294 (1884). (7) Should Edouar v. Girid Chander, 20 C.,

<sup>840 ($873).</sup> (8) R. r. drumupan, 20 M., $29 ($537), F. B.; Sulvamania Airat, J., Manaricate, Wasterer

may be said upon the matter from the point of view of concentrate and public policy, which do not strictly tooch the pure question of constriction, there is, it is submitted, given force in the argument of Subminiana Ayan, J. i. to, 103, that even if who a document be not a record, of at least some of the mirecipating officer's sets, it is stelly a discount forming one of lay, he kings repoint to set in a particular war, that is, to submit such a negati-

<sup>(9)</sup> E. v. Arumygen, 20 M., 189 (1897), F. B., Subramania Alyar, J., discenticula, per Collins, C. J., and Benson, J.

<sup>(10)</sup> the, per Shephard, J., and Subramanus

<sup>(18)</sup> Reference to bull fench under s. 46 al. Act T of 1879, 19 Au. 203, 205 (1897).

within the meaning of clauses 1 (in) or 2 of this section, and that in the absence of evidence that it had been made from and compared with the original, the provisions of that Act relating to secondary evidence of public documents were namplicable.(1) Census Registers are not public documents.(2)

Public records kept in British India of private documents are also under the second Clause public documents within the meaning of the section. Thus certain register-books are directed to be kept in all registration-offices (3) of private documents in Books Nos. 1, 3; public records kept of private documents.

certified copies may be offered in proof of those entries, but neither those entries, nor certified copies; that is centries, nor certified copies of these entries, are admissible in proof of the contents of the original documents so recorded unless secondary evidence is allowable under the provisions of this Act.(4) Section 91, second exception, provides that Wills admitted to probate in British India may be proved by the probate. Public documents are provable in the exceptional modes provided for in sections 76—78.

All documents other than those specially mentioned in section 74 are private documents(5) and are provable under the general provisions of the Act relating to the proof of documents.

Certified copies of public documents. 76. Every public officer having the custody of a public document, which any person has a right to inspect,(6) shall give that person on demand a copy of it on payment of the legal fees therefor, together with a certificate written at the foot of such copy that it is a true copy of such document or part thereof, as the case may be, and such certificate shall be dated and subscribed by such officer with his name and his official title, and shall be sealed, whenever such officer is authorized by law to make use of a seal, and such copies so certified shall be called certified copies.

Explanation.—Any officer who, by the ordinary course of official duty, is authorised to deliver such copies, shall be deemed to have the custody of such documents within the meaning of this section. (7)

Proof of documents by production of certified copies

77. Such certified copies may be produced in proof of the contents of the public documents or parts of the public documents of which they purport to be copies.(8)

Ponnommal v. Sundaram Pillai, 23 M., 499 (1900).

<sup>(2)</sup> R. v. Bharanno Vithalrae, 6 Bom. L. R., 535 (1904).

<sup>(3)</sup> See Act XVI of 1908, as, 51, 57. (4 v. ante, s. 65, cl. (/).

<sup>(5)</sup> S. 75. (6) v. cair, litral, to se. 74-78, ere with reference to this and following section, Ali Kien

Indar Parshad, 23 C., 950 (1896) where certified copies of income-tax returns were held to be insimi-sible.

<sup>(7)</sup> It is doubtful whether this section is applicable to copies given before the passing of the Act: Jakir Ali v. Raj Chundr, 10 C. L. It., 476.
(8) As to the practice anterior to the Act. see Naragunty Lutchmeedaramah v. Vengama Nardon. 9 M. I. A., 65, 80 (1861).

follows:---

78. The following public documents may be proved as proof of other minimals.

ments

(1) Acts, orders or notifications of the Executive Government of British India in any of its departments, or of any Local Government, or any department of any Local Government,- by the records of the departments, certified by the heads of those departments respectively. or by any documents purporting to be printed by order of any such Government.

(2) The proceedings of the legislatures,- by the journals of those bodies respectively, or by published Acts or abstracts, or by copies purporting to be printed by order of Government.

(3) Proclamations, orders or regulations issued by Hei Majesty or by the Privy Council, or by any department of Her Majesty's Government,- by copies or extracts contained in the London Gazette or purporting to be printed by the Queen's Printer (1)

(4) The Acts of the Executive or the proceedings of the legislature of a foreign country,- by journals published by their authority, or commonly received in that country as such, or by a copy certified under the seal of the country or sovereign, or by a recognition thereof in some public Act of the Governor-General of India in Council:

(5) The proceedings of a municipal body in British India.by a copy of such proceedings, certified by the legal keeper thereof, or by printed book purporting to be published by the authority of such body ;(2)

(6) Public documents of any other class in a foreign country,- by the original or by a copy certified by the legal keeper thereof, with a certificate under the seal of a Notary Public, or of a British Consul or diplomatic agent, that the copy is duly certified by the officer having the legal custody of the original, and upon proof of the character of the document according to the law of the foreign country.

<sup>(1)</sup> See The Dawamentary Evalence Act, 1868; 31 & 32 Ve , c. 37, which is in force is every Birtish Colony or Posersion religent to any law that may be from time to time made by the Legislature of any such Culony and Possessin. 121 See Reference under a. 40, Act I c/ 1872.

Certified copies or public documents Principle.—As one of the exceptions to the rule requiring primary evidence to be given rests on grounds of physical impossibility or inconvenience, (1) so the objection to the production of public documents rests on the ground of moral inconvenience. They are, comparatively speaking, little liable to corruption, alteration or misrepresentation—the whole community being interested in their preservation, and, in most instances, entitled to inspect them. The number of persons interested in public documents also renders them much more frequently required for evidentiary purposes; and if the production of the originals were insisted on, not only would great inconvenience result from the same documents being wanted in different places at the same time, but the continual change of place would expose them to be lost, and the handling from frequent use would soon insure their destruction.(2) For these and other reasons their contents are allowed to be proved by derivative evidence at the risk, whatever that may be, of errors arising from inaccurate transcription either intentional or casual.(3)

```
s. 3 (" Document ")
```

- s. 74 (" Public document") ss 63, CL (1), & 65, CL. (c) (Secondary
- endence by certified copies.)
- s. 3 (" Proof.")
- 79 (Presumption as to certified copies.)
  ss. 80-90 (Presumptions as to other

Taylor, Ev., Ch. IV, Part V (Matters evidenced by Public Documents); Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 478; Wills, Ev., 288—310, Best, Ev., 424—430; Roscoc, N. P. Ev., 96—130.

COMMENTARY.

to inspect. This limitation

Government has a right to retuse to show on the ground of state routey, a person will be entitled to a copy of a public document will depend upon the question whether or not he has a right to inspect it. In England the right to inspect public documents varies with respect to their nature. There is a common law right to inspect some. As to others the right rests upon particular Acts.(6) This Act is silent as to the right of inspection, and there is no general provision on the subject in any other enactment in force in British India, though there are certain special provisions applicable to particular circumstances only. Thus, Registers prepared under the provisions of Chapter IV of the Oudh Land Revenue Act, are declared to be public documents and the property of Government, and are declared to be open to public inspection.(6) I la person is personally interested in a public document

<sup>(1)</sup> As where characters are traced on a rock or engraven on a tembatone or the like, see a. 65, cl. (4).

<sup>(2)</sup> See Lady Intersocity, Roberts, 16 East, 311. "A proceeding in a Court of Justice is provable by an examined copy. This rule has assen from the reservatione of the thing, that the originals may not be required to be removed from place to place," ye. Rayley, J.; and see How., Eug., 7 M. & W. 106, ye. Lond Adinger.

<sup>(3)</sup> Best. Ev., § 485 and as to proof of general result of examination of public documents, see Sundar Kuar v. Chandrshuar Pravad Kuroin Singh (1907), 34 C., 201.

<sup>(4)</sup> Norton, Ev., 257.
(5) See Taylor, Ev., §§ 1480-1522; v. onte, Introd. to st. 74-78, as to the right of inspec-

<sup>(6)</sup> Act XVII of 1878, s. 67; so also the books of a count of the Administrate referent are open

it would seem that in the absence of a right conferred by Statute, he has a common law right to inspect it. It may be inferred that the Legislature intended to recognise the right to inspect public documents generally for all persons who can show that they have an interest for the protection of which it is necessary that liberty to inspect such documents should be given. When the right to inspect and take a copy is expressly conferred by Statute, the limit of the right depends on the true construction of the Statute. When the right to inspect and take a copy is not expressly conferred, the extent of such right depends on the interest which the applicant has in what he wants to vopy and on what is reasonably necessary for the protection of such interest. If therefore a person has a right to inspect, it becomes necessary to see what is the extent of his right to inspection. Every officer appointed by law to keep records ought to deem himself for the production of documents a trustee.(1) An Act may both give a right of inspection and provide a penalty and remedy in case of its refusal. Thus by Act VI of 1882, section 55, (Indian Companies Act), if inspection or copy of the Register of members is refused, the Company incur by such refusal a specific penalty and

Act. / If there exists no such special provision, and the disclosure of the contents of any of the general records of the realm, or of any other documents of a public nature, would, in the opinion of the Gourt or of the Chief executive Makristrate, or of the head of the department under whose control they may be kept, be injurious to the public interests, an inspection would certainly not be granted [2].

The Civil Procedure Code provides that certified copies of judgments(3) at their expense on application to the Court.(4) There is no express provision of the Legislature entitling parties or others to copies of any other portions of the records of the Civil Courts; but, as a matter of practice, copies are usually given to any of the parties who may apply for them.(5) The Calcutta High Court has, however, made the following rules on the subject:—(a) A plaintiff or a defendant, who has appear to obtain copies of the records put in and finally accepted by to public inspection : Act II of 1874. s. 44 (for present Act, see Act V of 1902) and as to the right to respection and to certified copies in the case of other public Registers, see ante notes to s. 35 Act XVI of 1908 (Registration), ss. 18, 51, 55, 57 : Act XX of 1874, # 3 : 5 & 6 Vic., c. 45. *. 11 : 25 & 26 Vic., c. 68, a 5 (Copyright) : 46 & 47 Vic., o. 57, ss 23, 55, 87-89; Act V of 1888, ss. 13, 14. 61 (Patenta, Designs and Trade-marks) Act NNV of 1867, s. 18 (Printing Presses); Acts of 1865; XV of 1872, s. 79 (Christian Marriage); XV of 1865 (Parsi Marriage) ]; III of 1872, s. 14 (Marriage); Act VI of 1885, m. 7-9. 35 (Registration, Births, Deaths and Varriages) . Art I (B.C.) of 1876 (Mohamedan Marriage) - Art XXI of 1860, s. 19 (Societies); Act VI of 1882, ss. A5, 60, 255, 220, 68 (Companies); 57 & 58 Vic., e. 60, as. 64, 239, 695 (2) (Merchant Phypping) : Act VII of 1885, a. 4 (Powers-of Attorney); Calcutta High Court Rules, R. 54 (Winding-up of Company); as to the records of Courts, v. post.

(1) Claudi Charan v Bouldb Charan, 31 C., 284, 297 (1903): Bank of Bombay v. Suleman Somji, P. C. (1908), 32 Born., 460

(2) Taylor, Er., § 1483; Field, Er., 396, 397. In the case first mentioned in the preceding note an application was made to Court in the soit calling upon the Bank of Bengal to comply with an order of Court.

(3) In matters before the Calcutta Small Cause Court, for "judgment," read "proceedings." Nonforting of the 18th Feb. 1889.

(4) O. XX, r. 20, p. 561; O. XLI, r. 26, p. 1291, as to certified copes of decrees and orders in execution of Proy Council decrees and orders r. 45, O. XLV, r. 15, p. 1375.
(5) Field, Fr., 208

of the character of the document according to the law of the foreign country.

Certified copies of public documents Principle.—As one of the exceptions to the rule requiring primary evidence to be given rests on grounds of physical impossibility or inconvenience.(J) so the objection to the production of public documents rests on the ground of moral inconvenience. They are, comparatively speaking, little liable to corruption, alteration or misrepresentation—the whole community being interested in their preservation, and, in most instances, entitled to inspect them. The number of persons interested in public documents also renders them much more frequently required for evidentiary purposes; and if the production of the originals were insisted on, not only would great inconvenience result from the same documents being wanted in different places at the same time, but the continual change of place would expose them to be lost, and the handling from frequent use would soon insure their destruction.(2) For these and other reasons their contents are allowed to be proved by derivative evidence at the risk, whatever that may be, of errors arising from inaccurate transcription either intentional or cavual.(3)

- s. 3 (" Document.")
- s. 74 (" Public document ")
- ss 63, CL. (1), & 65, CL. (e) (Secondary evidence by certified conies)
- . 3 (" Proof.")
- s 79 (Presumption as to certified copies.) ss. 80-90 (Presumptions as to other documents.)

Taylor, Ev., Ch. IV, Part V (Matters evidenced by Public Documents); Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 478; Wills, Ev., 288—310; Best, Ev., 424—430; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 96—130.

COMMENTARY.

The Explanation to section 76 declares who is to be considered the legal custodian under this section document from such custodis to inspect. This limitation

Government has a right to refuse to show on the ground of State Policy, privileged communication, and the lke, (4) Whether or not, therefore, a person will be entitled to a copy of a public document will depend upon the question whether or not he has a right to inspect it. In England the right to inspect public documents varies with respect to their nature. There is a common law right to inspect some. As to others the right rest upon particular Acts (5) This Act is silent as to the right of inspection, and there is no general provision on the subject in any other enactment in force in British India, though there are certain special provision applicable to particular circumstances only. Thus, Registers prepared under the provisions of Chapter IV of the Outh Land Revenue Act, are declared to be public documents and the property of Government, and are declared to be open to public inspection. (6) I he person is personally interested in a public document

<sup>(1)</sup> As where characters are traced on a rock or engraven on a tembstone or the like; see s. 65, cl. (d)

<sup>(2)</sup> See Lady Dathworth v. Roberts, 16 East, 341. "A proceeding in a Court of Justice is provable by an examined copy. This rule has arisen from the convenience of the thing, that the originals may not be required to be removed from place to place," yer Baylev, J.; and see How v. Pont. 7 U. A. W. 105, per Land Ablinger.

<sup>(3)</sup> Best, Ev., § 485 and as to proof of general result of examination of public documents, see Sundar Kuar v. Chandeshuar Praced Narain Singh (1997), 34 C., 299.

 <sup>(4)</sup> Norton, Ev., 257.
 (5) See Taylor, Ev., §§ 1480—1522; v. ante.
 Introl. to st. 74-78. sa to the right of jaylee-

<sup>(6)</sup> Act AVII of 1876, s. 67; so also the books of secount of the Administrator-General are open

The word 'may' in section 77 is used only as denoting another mode of linary one, namely, the production of public document within the meaning iment, but no other kind of secondary evidence, is admissible.(1) So, accordingly, the Privy Council rejected a document upon the record of a previous judicial proceeding which purported to be an authenticated copy of the original document, but was not certified to be a true copy as required by section 76, and was not shown to have been examined by any witness with the original.(2) This last provision, however, must be read subject to the provisions of sections 78 and 82, post, and the last paragraph of the second section ante. Thus by virtue of the provisions contained in section 82, post, a foreign and colonial document may be proved by an authenticated copy within the meaning of 14 and 15 Vic, c. 99 s. 7; such authenticated copies being declared by the Statute to be admissible in evidence without proof of seal, signature or judicial character of the person making such signature. Secondary evidence, therefore, other than a certified copy. is admissible both in the cases expressly mentioned by this Act and in those where an unrepealed or other Act has especially enacted that such other evidence shall be admissible.(3) Section 79 raises a presumption of genumeness in the case of certified copies. Proof of a special character may be offered as to the official documents which are the subjects of individual mention in section 78. In connection with the third clause of that section may be read the provisions of the Documentary Evidence Act, 1868.(4) as amended by the Documentary Evidence Act. 1882 (5) which, subject to any law that may be from time to time made by the Legislature of any British Colony or Possession (including therein India), 19 declared to be in force in every such Colony and Possession (6) As to the fifth clause v. ante, p. 517, n. 1. Fourth and sixth Clauses deal with foreign public documents. (7) The words "of any other class," in the sixth clause mean "other than the documents mentioned in the fourth clause." Where a record; but such presumption may be displaced by proving the want of jurisdiction.(8) As to the presumption declared by the Act with regard to certified copies of foreign judicial records, see section 86, post; and for the presumption as to documents admissible in England without proof of seal or signature, see section 82, post. See also Note to sections 74, 75, ante.

<sup>31,</sup> ante; notes to ss. 74, 75.
(1) S. 65, ante; the provisions of which ap-

(I) S. 65, ante; the provisions of which appear to have been overlooked in Norton, Ev.,

<sup>(2)</sup> Krishna Kishorev. Keshore Lal, 14 C., 486,

<sup>491 (1887);</sup> s. c., L. R., 14 I. A. 71.

(3) So in case governed by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (67 & 58 Vin., c. 60, s. 693), examined copies are admissible equally with certified copies. The difference between a certified and an exemisate copy, is that the former is much by an official whose duty it is to furnish such copies to parties who have an interest in the subject water, and a right to apply for them, on pay.

ment or otherwise; the latter are those which any private individual makes from the original with which having himself compared it by examination, he is enabled to swear that it is a true corv.

Norton, Ev., 259. (4) 31 & 32 Vic., c. 37.

<sup>(5) 45</sup> Vic., c. 9.

<sup>(6)</sup> See Taylor, Ev., § 1527; Field, Fv., 401-404

<sup>(7)</sup> As to the proof of foreign judicial records v. a. 66, post, and s. 65, ante; Haranand Roy v. Ram Gopal, 4 C. W. N., 429 (1899).

<sup>(8)</sup> Civ. I'r. Code, s. 14, p. 99.

ordered to file a written statement is not entitle d to inspect or take a copy of a written statement filed by another party unt 1 he has filed his own; (b) A stranger to the suit may after decree obtain, as of course, copies of the plaint, the suit, and may, for suffiwritten statements, affidavits and petitions filed i obtain copies of any such elent reason shown to the satisfaction of the Con-- also obtain, as of course, document before decree ,(c) A stranger to the suit ma copies of judgments, decrees or orders at any time afte " they have been passed copies of exhibits put or made :(4) A stranger to the suit has no right to obtain in evidence except with the consent of the person by whom they were produced (1)

In criminal cases, an accused person, committed under the 1.c Code of Criminal Procedure to the High Court or the Court of Session, is enti-n'ed to a copy of the charge, free of all expense, and, if he apply within a reaso unable time, to copies of the deposition; these latter copies to be made at his ex t rense unless the Magistrate see fit to give them free of cost (2) He is entitled fre o e of cost to a copy of the evidence of any witness examined by a Magistrate (of inter than a Presidency Magistrate) after commitment (3) Under the provision cous of the v of the undermentioned section.(4) "on the application of the accused a co macticindement, or when he so desires, a translation in his own language, if delay. able, or, in the language of the Court, shall be given to him without es' cost

Such copy shall, in any case other than a summons-case, be given free o he o the In trials by jury in a Court of Session a copy of the heads of the charge and jury shall, on the application of the accused, be given to him without delay free of cost And "if any person affected by a judgment or order passed 752 195 Criminal Court desires to have a copy of the Judge's charge to the jury or of 1ch order or deposition or other part of the record, he shall, on applying for si copy, be furnished therewith, provided that he pay for the same, unless t Court for some special reason, thinks fit to furnish it free of cost." (5) A pr vious conviction or acquittal may be proved in addition to any other mode or vided by any law for the time being in force (a) by an extract certified unde the hand of the officer having the custody of the records of the Court in which such conviction or acquittal was had to be a copy of the sentence or order; or (b) in case of a conviction, either by a certificate signed by the officer in charge of the jail in which the punishment or any part thereof was inflicted, or by production of the warrant commitment under which the punishment was sufferedtogether with, in each of such cases, evidence as to the identity of the accused person with the person so convicted or acquitted.(6)

Proof of public documents.

Private documents must generally be proved by the production of the originals coupled with evidence of their handwriting, signature, or execution, as the case may be.(7) An exception to this rule exists under the Act in the case of Wills admitted to probate in British India which may be proved by the probate (8) The contents of public documents may be proved either by the production of certified copies(9) under section 77, or if they be documents of the kind mentioned in section 78, by the various modes described in that sec-The contents of private documents such as Lobolus, conveyances, leases, and the like, though filed in a Court or public office for purposes of evidence in a suit, are not provable in another suit by means of certified copies. (10)

<sup>(1)</sup> General Rules and Curcular Orders, Part in Indian Albed States, v. 16., v 16% IV, Ch. XV, r. 1-4 (1891).

<sup>(2)</sup> Cr. Pr. Code, sa. 210, 548.

<sup>(3) 25 . 4. 219</sup>

<sup>(4) $5.,</sup> a. 371.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ib., a. 518, (6) Cr. Pr. Cole, s. 511 ; [See also as to certified enties of convictions, Reg. III of 1872]; as to offeners committed by European British subjects

<sup>(7)</sup> See sa 59, 61 ... 73, aupea

<sup>(8)</sup> S. St. Exception 2, post.

<sup>(8)</sup> It is doubtful whether so. 76 and 79 ander to copies given before the passing of the Act, John Ali v. Ray Chunder, 10 C. In R., 476.

<sup>(10)</sup> Hurschur Majonmain v. Churn Mathee. 22 W. R., 355 (1874); As to the decision in Shusada Mahamed v. Hedyeberry, 10 H. In H., App.

The word 'may' in section 77 is used only as denoting another mode of proof (optional to the party) than the ordinary one, namely, the production of true copy as required by section 76, and was not shown to have been examined by any witness with the original. (2) This last provision, however, must be read subject to the provisions of sections 78 and 82, post, and the last paragraph of the second section ante. Thus by virtue of the provisions contained in section 82, post, a foreign and colonial document may be proved by an authenticated copy within the meaning of 14 and 15 Vic, c. 99, s. 7, such authenticated copies being declared by the Statute to be admissible in evidence without proof of seal, signature or judicial character of the person making such signature. Secondary evidence, therefore, other than a certified copy, is admissible both in the cases expressly mentioned by this Act and in those where an unrepealed or other Act has especially enacted that such other evidence shall be admissible.(3) Section 79 raises a presumption of genumeness in the case of certified copies Proof of a special character may be offered as to the official documents which are the subjects of individual mention in section 78. In connection with the third clause of that section may be read the provisions of the Decimentary Fridance Act 1868 (1) or amended by the Decimentary to the fifth clause v. ante, p. 517, n. 1. Fourth and sixth Clauses deal with foreign public documents. (7) The words "of any other class," in the sixth clause mean "other than the documents mentioned in the fourth clause". Where a foreign judgment is relied on, the production of any document purporting to be a certified copy of such foreign judgment is presumptive evidence that the Court which made it had competent jurisdiction, unless the contrary appear on the record; but such presumption may be displaced by proving the want of jurisdiction. (8) As to the presumption may be displaced by proving the want of jurisdiction, (8) As to the presumption declared by the Act with regard to certified copies of foreign judicial records, see section 86, post; and for the presumption as to documents admissible in England without proof of seal or signature, see section 82, post. See also Note to sections 74, 75, ante.

<sup>31;</sup> ante, notes to as 74, 75.

 <sup>8 65,</sup> ante, the provisions of which appear to have been overlooked in Norton, Ev., 258.

<sup>(2)</sup> Krishna Kishori v. Kishori Lal, 14 C., 488, 491 (1887); s. c., L. R., 14 I. A., 71.

<sup>(3)</sup> So in case governed by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (67 & 58 Vic. c. 90, s. 695), earmund copies are admissible equally with certified copies. The difference between a critified and an extension copy, is that the formers is made by an official whose duty at its formula such copies to justice who have an interest in the subject wattr, and a right to apply for them, on paymattr, and a right to apply for them, on payment or otherwise, the latter are those which any private individual makes from the original with which having himself compared it by examination, he is enabled to swear that it is a true copy. Norton, Ev., 258.

<sup>(4) 31 &</sup>amp; 32 Vac , c. 37.

<sup>(5) 45</sup> Vic., c. 9.

<sup>(6)</sup> See Taylor, Ev., § 1527, Field, Lv., 401-404.

<sup>(7)</sup> As to the proof of foreign judicial records v. s. 86, post, and s. 65, ante, Haranuad Roy v. Ram Gopal, 4 C. W. N., 429 (1899).

<sup>(8)</sup> Civ. Pr. Code, s. 14, p. 99.

PRESUMPTION AS TO DOCUMENTS.

WHEN a document, whether private or public, has been offered in evidence, certain presumptions may arise in respect of it which are enumerated in the following sections (79-90). Those presumptions, however, are not conclusive. An inference is drawn from certain facts in supersession of any other mode of proof. That inference may be one which the Court is bound to accept as proved until it is disproved, in this case it is said that the Court "shall presume," or the inference may be one as to which the Court is at liberty either to accept it as proved until it is disproved, or to call for proof of it in the first instance, in this case it is said that the Court "may presume." All that the law does for this last class of inferences is to allow the Court to dispense with evidence should it think fit to do so. The two latter class of inferences play an important part in the proof of documents. Sections 79-85, and section 89 provide for cases in which the Court shall presume certain facts about documents; sections 86-88, 90, provide for cases in which the Court may presume certain things about them. In the one case the Court is bound to consider the presumption as proved until the contrary is shown; in the other, the Court may, if it pleases, regard the presumption as proved until the contrary is shown, or may call for independent proof in the first instance.(1) Many classes of documents, which are defined in the Act, are presumed to be what they purport to be, but this presumption is hable to be rebutted. Two sets of presumptions will sometimes apply to the same document. For instance, what purports to be a certified copy of a record of evidence is produced It must by section 76 be presumed to be an accurate copy of the record of evidence. By section 80 the facts stated in the record itself as to the circumstances under which it was taken, e g., that it was read over to the witness in a language which he understood, must be presumed to be true. (2) All the following sections down to section principle, omnia præsun directed to be raised by viating the effects of the lapse of time as to the proof of documents. As your go on, the witnesses who can personally speak to the attestation or execution of a document, or to the handwriting of those who executed or attested it, gradually dierout. If strict proof of execution or handwriting were necessary, it would, after a generation, become impossible to prove any document. On the word of the proof of the proventy of the proof of the proo nt proved or purporting to be thirty years old, and produced from proper custody, that is the place in which, the care of the person with whom, it would naturally be, the Court may presume that the signature and every other part of such a document is in the handwriting of the person by whom it purports to be written, and that it was duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be a few of the person by the person by whom it purports to be a few of the person by the person by whom it purports to be executed and attested. (4) This section concludes the express provision contained in the Act as to presumptions in the case of documents, but other presump-

<sup>(1)</sup> Cunningham, Fv., 45, 46; see unit, notes (3) Norton, Ev., 260 to s. 4. (4 Cunningham, Fv., 48, 49

<sup>(2)</sup> Me.b. Introl . 170, 175.

tions may, of course, be raised under the provisions of section 114, as is indeed indicated by Illustration (i) to that section, according to which the Court may presume that when a document creating an obligation is in the hands of the obligor, the obligation has been discharged, though, in considering whether such a maxim does or does not apply to the particular case before it, the Court will also have regard to such facts as the following, e.e., that though the bond is in the possession of the obligor, the circumstances of the case are such that he may have stolen it.(1) There are many other presumptions as to documents, known to English law, for which no express provision is made in the Act, and which, therefore can be raised only under the general provision contained in section 114, post, (2) under which section the more important of those presumptions will be found considered

79. The Court shall presume every document purporting resumpto be a certificate, certified copy or other document, which is genuine-by law declared to be admissible as evidence of any particular fact, and which purports to be duly certified by any officer in cepter British India, or by any officer in any Native State in alliance with Her Majesty, who is duly authorized thereto by the Governor-General in Council, to be genuine:

Provided that such document is substantially in the form and purports to be executed in the manner directed by law in that behalf.

The Court shall also presume that any officer by whom any such document purports to be signed or certified, held, when he signed it, the official character which he claims in such paper. (3)

Principle.—Omnia prosumuntur rite esse acta—a maxim of peculiar force when applied to official acts and documents. The last clause of the section of the sec

· ty of officers and illustrated by many cases. For it cannot be supposed that any man would venture to intrude himself into the public station which he was not authorized to fill. See Introduction, ante, and note, post.

s. 3 (" Court.")

** * 68, Cr. (1), 65, Crs. (e), (i) 76, 77 (t'ertified copies.)

*. 4 (" Shall presume.")

b. 3 (" Document.")

s. 3 (" Evidence.")

Norton, Ev., 260, 261; Field, Ev., 404, 405; Taylor, Ev., § 171.

COMMENTARY.

As is indicated by its terms, this section applies only to certificates,(4) genuins-certified copies, or other documents certified by officers in British India, or by press of earduly authorized officers in allied Valitics Vides. Section 82, post, provides for intibal copies, similar presumptions in the case of documents of a like character certified by

<sup>(1)</sup> S. 114, ill. (i), post.

<sup>(2)</sup> Cunningham, Fr. 222.

<sup>(3)</sup> It is doubtful whether the section is applicalle to copies given before the passing of the officers other than those specially designated in this section: The presumption that the document itself is genuine of course includes the presumption that the signature and the seal,(1) where a seal is used, are genuine.(2) The presumption to be raised by the section is, however, made subject to the proviso that the document is substantially in the form, and purports to be executed in the manner, directed by law in that behalf.

Act; Jalir Ali v. Eas Chander, 10 C. L. P., 47r., (4) c. g., a certificate given by a registering officer under a. Gr. Act III of 1877, and one Cs. Pr. Core, m. 467, 473, 511.

This section, as indeed all the following sections down to section 90 inclusive, is an illustration of, and is founded upon, the principle omnia rite esse acta. But though the Courts are directed to draw a presumption in favour of official certificates, it is not a conclusive but a rebuttable presumption. It is but a prima facic presumption, and if the certificate or certified copy be not correct, such incorrectness may be shown.(3) The presumption raised by the last clause also is a presumption which shall only stand donec probatur in contrarium—until the contrary be proved.(4) And when a public officer is required by law to be appointed in writing, and it is shown that any particular person has acted as such officer, the writing by which he is appointed need not be proved.(5) So also as to documents admissible in England without proof of seal or signature, the Court shall presume that the person signing it held, at the time when he signed it, the judicial or official character which he claims (6)

resumpvidence

Whenever any document is produced before any Court, documents purporting to be a record or memorandum of the evidence, or of any part of the evidence, given by a witness in a judicial proceeding or before any officer authorised by law to take such evidence, or to be a statement or confession by any prisoner or accused nerson, taken in accordance with law, and purporting to be signed by any Judge or Magistrate, or by any such officer as aforesaid, the Court shall presume --- > that the document is genuine; that any statements as to the circumstances under which it was taken, purporting to be made by the person signing it, are true, and that such evidence, statement or confession was duly taken.

> Principle.-This section also gives legal sanction to the maxim "Omnia prosumuntur rite esse acta," With regard to documents taken in the course of a judicial proceeding (7) When a deposition or confession is taken by a public officer, there is a degree of publicity and solemnity which affords a sufficient guarantee for the presumption that everything was formally, correctly, and honestly done.(8) See Introduction, ante, and Notes, post.

```
4. 3 ("1)ocument.")
4. 3 (" Courl.")
s. 3 (" Evidence.")
```

89. 24-30 (Confessions.)

F. 33 (Relevancy of depositions.) 4 (" Shall presume.")

COMMENTARY.

Scope of the section

The presumptions to be raised under this section(9) which deals with the subject of depositions of witnesses and confessions of prisoners and accused ·----

```
(1) See 2, 76, ante.
(2) Field, Ev., 404.
```

(4) Taylor, Ey., § 171 , Norton, Pv., 260, 261. (5) S. 91, Fxorp. (1), post.

(6° S. 82, post. (7) R. v. 1 fran, 9 M . 224, 227 (1896) (8) Norton, Pv., 261, 262.

(9) Nee the following cases as to the law prior to the A-t : R. v. Fatil Biswas, I B. L. R., A. Cr.

<sup>(3)</sup> Norton, Ev., 260; see s. 4, ante.

persons, are considerably wider than those under section 79. They embrace not only the genuineness of the document, but that it was duly taken and given under the circumstances recorded therein. This section, occurring as it does in that part of the Act which deals not with relevancy but with proof, does not render admissible any particular kind of evidence, but only dispenses with the necessity for formal proof in the case of certain documents taken in accordance with law, raising with regard to documents taken in the course of a judicial proceeding, the presumption that all acts done in respect thereof have been rightly and legally done (1) The law allows certain presumptions as to certain is produced. It must by section 79 be presumed to be an accurate copy of the record of evidence. By the present section the facts stated in the record itself as to the circumstances under which it was taken, e.g., that it was read over to the witness m a language which he understood must be presumed to be true. As to the relevancy of depositions, see section 33, anic, and notes thereto.

The first portion of the section only refers to documents produced as a Record of record of evidence. It is only a document which purports to be a record or evidence memorandum of the evidence, (4) or any part of the evidence given by a witness in a judicial proceeding or before any officer authorized by law to take such evidence, with regard to which the presumptions prescribed by this section are to be made. Statements, therefore, made by persons to police-officers during the course of a police-inquiry do not come within the purview of this section. Chapter XIV of the Criminal Procedure Code deals with the powers of investigation of the police. A police-officer making an investigation under this Chapter may examine witnesses and reduce their statements into writing (5) But no statements, other than a dying declaration, made by any person to a police-officer in the course of an investigation under this Chapter shall be used as evidence against the accused.(6) Such statements, therefore, are not and cannot have the effect of depositions, do not prove themselves, and cannot be treated as evidence. (7) The heading of a deposition descriptive only of the witness forms no part of the evidence given by him on solemn affirmation.(8)

The document, if it purports to be a statement or confession by any prisoner " Confes or accused person, must have been taken in accordance with law. As to the sion provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code relating to the recording of confessions, v. ante, s. 24, and the cases cited in the notes to that section.

The section only raises a presumption in the case of documents taken in "Judicial the course of a judicial proceeding. Therefore statements by way of a confession recorded by a Magistrate in his character of an executive officer, there being no law authorizing the taking of such statements, are not receivable under this section(9) v. post. As to statements made to the police, v. ante. The statements as to which this section says that certain presumptions Taken in are to be drawn are statements or confessions taken in accordance with law, with law

This section does not render admissible any particular kind of evidence, but 13 (1868); R. v. Join Poly, II W. R. Cr. 36 (5) fr. P. Code, s. 161.

<sup>(1809);</sup> R. v. Miner Shall, 14 W. P., Cr. 0 (1570). (1) R. v. Viran, 9 M., 224, 227 (1888).

<sup>(2)</sup> R. v. Sliege, 1 B., 219, 222 (1876): ser, for example, Budree Lall v. El more Elon, 25 W. R.

<sup>(3)</sup> date, Introduction to as. 79-96; Steph.

Introd., 170, 171. (4) See s. 3, mie.

<sup>(6)</sup> It., s. 162.

<sup>(7)</sup> Replant Single v. R., 9 C., 455, 458 (1:82). a. c., 11 C. L. R., 569; R. v. Silorem 1 f Sal, 11 B., 657 (1887). They may, however, he used for the purpose of refreshing memory, see s. 159. post.

<sup>(8)</sup> Hayalan v. Almad Hussia, 26 A., 166

<sup>(9)</sup> R. v. Firem, 9 M. 256, 227, 225 (1657).

only dispenses with the necessity for formal proof in the case of certain documents taken in accordance with law. If a document has not been taken in accordance with law, section 80 does not operate to render it admissible. The section merely gives legal sanction to the maxim "Omnia præsumuntur rule esse acta." with regard to documents taken in the course of a judicial proceeding.(1) So in the case last cited it was contended that when the confessions there in question were taken by the Deputy Magistrate, he was acting not under the Criminal Procedure Code but under the provisions of the Mapilla Act (XX of 1859); it was, however, held that there was nothing in that Act authorizing the examination of a suspected person or the taking from him of any statement or confession, and that though such a course might not be improper but even advisable, this section did not. therefore, apply. The Deputy Magistrate might have been acting in an Executive capacity under the orders of the District Magistrate, but the statements if recorded by him as an Executive officer were not receivable under this section.(2) See also ante, Note to s. 24 and post. be taken and recorded in Civil and

O XVIII.(3); Criminal Procedure s. see sections 24-30, ante: and the Criminal Procedure Code, sections, 164, 364, 533.

resumpions

With respect to these presumptions, firstly, if the provisions of the first clause of the section are fulfilled, the Court must in all cases presume that the document is genuine; viz., that it is, as it purports to be, a record of evidence given or of a confession made, and that the signature appended is that of the Judge, Magistrate, or other officer by whom it purports to be signed. This presumption is, however, independent of the others. Thus, it may well be that the document is genuine in the sense above-mentioned, and yet it may not have been duly taken under the general provision of the law regulating the recording of depositions and confessions If there be no obligation to do an act, and it is not stated upon the document that such act has been done, there may be a presumption of genuineness and due taking, but there will be none as to that act having been done. Thus, before the deposition of a medical witness taken by a committing Magistrate, can, under section 509 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, be given in evidence at the trial before the Court of Session, it must either appear from the Magistrate's record, or be proved by the evidence of witnesses presence of the accused not so proved, presum .

that the deposition we

Code which makes the attestation of the deposition by the Magistrate in the presence of t' ---- 1 allimators Illustration and obligatory the concluding words of document me

and if there bave been dul

of assistance

there are no " statements as to the ci was taken purporting to be made by records a statement at the foot of deposition was taken in the presence of the accused and was attested by him, the Magistrate, in the presence of the accused, and signs such statement, the Court would be bound to presume that such statement was true and to admit the deposition under section 509 of the Criminal Procedure Code.(6) If there

<sup>(1)</sup> R. v. Liram, 9 M , 224, 127, 228 (1886).

<sup>(2)</sup> Il.

<sup>(3) 15. 815-822.</sup>

<sup>(4)</sup> Kackale Hart v. R., 18 C., 129 (1890); R

v. Riding, 9 A., 720 (1887); R v. Pokp Singh, 10 A., 174, 177, 178 (1897).

<sup>(5)</sup> R. v. Pohp South, supra, 187.

<sup>(6)</sup> Kachali Harl v. R., supra, 173.

be no such statement, it must be proved in such a case aliunde that the requirements of the Code have been fulfilled.

Secondly.—The Court must presume that any statements as to the circumstances under which the document was taken purporting to be made by the person signing it are true. The memorandum endorsed upon or appended to the record of evidence on confession is to be taken as evidence of the facts stated in the memorandum itself.(1) Thus, if the evidence has been recorded in a different language from that in which the witness spoke, the Court will presume that the records contain the equivalent of the words spoken by him, if from the memorandum attached to the deposition it appears to have been read over to the witness in his own language and to have been atknowledged by him to be correct.(2) There may be a presumption that the statements as to the circumstances under which the document was taken are true and none as to the document n as true to make a record of them.(4)

Thirdly.—The document must be presumed to have been duly taken. In certain cases the document will not be presumed to have been "duly taken" unless it purports to give all the facts as to which such presumption is to be raised.(5) In the case last cited it was said that the law allows certain presumptions as to certain documents and on the strength of these presumptions dispenses with the necessity of proving by direct evidence what it would otherwise be necessary to prove. One of these presumptions relates to confessions. This section says that, such confession is to be presumed to be duly taken. But as a necessary basis for this presumption the document must purport to show all the facts of which it would otherwise be necessary for the Court to be satisfied by direct evidence before the confession could be used against the accused. Those facts are, firstly, that the confession was accurately taken down or repeated; secondly, that the confession was taken in the immediate presence of a Magistrate: thirdly, that no inducement had been held out to the accused. If these three facts, viz., the accuracy of the record, the presence of a Magistrate, and the voluntary nature of the confession, would otherwise have to be proved by direct evidence, they must all be stated on the face of the document before the Court can draw a presumption of their having occurred, and these are the very three facts which are stated in the memorandum and certificate mentioned in sections 164 and 364 of the Criminal Procedure Code. If therefore, such a memorandum and certificate in the terms required by the Code be not attached to the confession, no presumption will be raised, and it will not be admissible in evidence.(6)

In other cases, however, the presumption of due taking may be raised independently of the question whether facts are expressly stated on the record which may form the basis of the presumption (7)

R. v. Gonorri, 22 W. R., 2 (1874), R. v. Nuoruuddin, 21 W. R. Cr., 5 (1873), Kackali Hars v. R., 18 C., 129 (1891)

<sup>(2)</sup> R. s. Gomers, 22 W. E., 2 (1874), R. s. Massel Jass, 23 W. B., 28 (1875). In the former case the deposition of the princarchal term taken in Englah. The only residence offer of for the purpose of astisfying the Court that this deposition represented a tree translation of the work which the occurred princa actually spice in Hindestant has an endomensure or normanization to be found at the foot of the deposition squeed by the Magustrian in these works: "The above."

was read to the witness in Hindustain, who he understood, and by him acknowledged to be correct." It was held that the memorandum was evaluate of the facts stated in the memorandum steelf which facts thempires afforded some evalence that the translation was correct. (3) R. v. Namesredón, 21 W. E., Cr., 5

<sup>(1874).</sup> (4) Aarkals Hars v. E., 15 ( ., 129 (1897).

<sup>(5)</sup> E v. Shirps, 1 E , 219, 222 (1876).

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v. Marya, supra, 222.

<sup>(7) (</sup>Y Ludre Lall v. Ideans Aban, 25 W. L., 134 (1876); R. v. Asmespya, 15 M., 63 (1891).

The distinction between these cases is that no presumption that a document is duly taken can arise when, on the face of the document, it appears that it has not been duly taken. (1) Therefore (a) if the law expressly requires a statement of the circumstances under which a document was taken to be

and that an express statutory provision has not been carried out. (b) Where the law casts no obligation upon the Magistrate or Judge to record the circumstances under which a statement was made and taken, it will be presumed that the statement was "duly taken," that is, that all the conditions required by law have been fulfilled, notwithstanding that the document does not purport to give the facts as to which such presumption is to be raised; for when the law creates an obligation to take a statement in a particular manner it will be presumed upon the maxim omnia rite acta that it has been duly taken. 11 11 11 11 (c) Unless an act with le obligatory, the concluding words of t en "duly taken" cannot apply to raise lone : for, if the act be not obligatory have been duly taken and yet that that particular act has not been done.(4)

One of the presumptions arising under this section is that the witness did actually say what is recorded. The section provides inter alia that the Court shall presume that the evidence was duly taken, and it cannot be considered to have been duly taken if it does not contain what the witness actually stated.(5)

The presumptions raised by this section are applicable in the case of confessions recorded by Magistrates of Native States.(6) All the presumptions are rebuttable;(7) thus a person who questions the accuracy of the record

R. v. Pohp Singh, 10 A. 174 (1887) . R v. Viran, 9 M., 224 (1886) The case, however, of R v Nussuruddin, 21 W. R., Cr. 5 (1874), does not appear to be in conformity with the text or the words of the section, but the grounds of the decision in this case are not at all clear. A statement of a witness in the shape of a former deposition can only be used as evidence against an accused person if it was duly taken in his presence before the Committing Magistrate (Cr. Pr Code, a 284) In this case, a document purporting to be the deposition of a witness made before a Magistrate appeared on the record, but there was no evidence to prove that the document exhibited evidence of this witness duly taken by the committing Magnerate in the presence of any of the persons who were tried in the Sessions Court and against whom it was used. The Court observed that a certificate was, no doubt, anpended to it, mittalled by some person, and on the supposition that this person was a Magistrate that certificate would under this section afford seind facia evidence of the circumstances mentioned in it relative to the taking of the statement, But this certificate was merely in these words-" Real to deponent and admitted correct," and del not give any of the facts necessary to render a deposition admissible under s. 285 of the Criminal Procedure Code. It was held, therefore, that the presumption of due taking could not be raised under this section. But s. 357 of the Code requires all evidence (except when otherwise provided) to be taken in the presence of the accused. And though there was no evidence in the case to show that the deposition his been to taken, this section should, it would seem, have dispensed with the necessity of such proof. The statement; in the Magustrate's certificate was a complete statement required by low for the purpose of affecting the witness thanks of the deposition downth any possible future use of the deposition of with any possible future use of the deposition of with any possible future use of the deposition.

against the prisoner
(1) Sec R. v. Firan, supra. 240.

<sup>(2)</sup> As in cases under ss. lot, 364 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

<sup>(3)</sup> R. v. Shieya, 1 B , 222 (1876).

<sup>(4)</sup> R v. Pohp Singh, 10 A., 174, 177, 178 (1887), v. ante.

<sup>(5)</sup> R. v. Komianya, 15 M., 63, 65 (1801). The case of R. v. Faith Biroux, I. B. L. R. A. Cr., 13 (1898), is now of no authority, the decision having been given before this Act and based upon the ground of the non-existence of any general provision of the law such as is enacted by the present section.

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v. Sunder Singh, 12 A., 505 (1890). (7) See a 4, definition of "shall presume."

will be at liberty to give evidence to show that the statements made and language used have not been accurately recorded. Witnesses confronted by their former depositions often swear that they were never explained to them before signature, or that what they said has not been correctly taken down.(1) Where a witness when examined before the Sessions Court and asked about his deposition taken before the Committing Magistrate denied that it was the deposition made by him, it was said that the presumption allowed by this section could not be made.(2) It is conceived, however, that in such cases the presumption may still be operative notwithstanding the statement of the witness: for though such a statement is given on oath, and affords some evidence against the presumption, still the Court may consider the fact to which the presumption relates not "disproved," and that the deposition was in fact duly taken.(3)

Evidence must be given of the identity of the person making the deposition, Identity of for there is, of course, no presumption as to such raised by the section. A depo-making a subse- statement.

who was n accused e pardon long with the other accused. At the trial the deposition given by him before the Magistrate was put in and used in evidence against him(4) without any proof being given that he was the person who was examined as a witness before the Magistrate. It was held that the deposition was madmissible without proof being given as to the identity of the accused with the person who was examined as a witness before the Magistrate.(5)

81. The Court shall presume the genuineness of every presumpdocument purporting to be the London Gazette or the Gazette Gazettes, of India, or the Government Gazette of any local Government, papers, or of any colony, dependency or possession of the British Crown, or Farlie. or to be a newspaper or journal, or to be a copy of a private ment and Act of Parliament printed by the Queen's Printer, and of every ments document purporting to be a document directed by any law to be kept by any person, if such document is kept substantially in the form required by law and is produced from proper custody.

Principle.—Omnia præsumuntur rite esse acta, the documents mentioned are official documents or in the nature of such See Introduction ante.

>. 3 (" Court.")

- s. 57, Ct. (2) (Judicial notice of Acts.) s. 35 (Entries in public records)
- 4 (" Shall presume. )

- 3 (" Document ") (1) Norton, Ev., 262

- s. 90 (Definition of " proper custody.")
- 37 (Relevancy of statements in Gazettes.)

The ground of this ruling and the exact nature of the denial made by the witness do not appear in the report; possibly there may have been a question as to the klentity of the deponent, in which ever, of course, no presumption would arme until that was proved v. you.

(2) R. v. Aussuraddin, 21 W. R., Cr., 5 (1873)

<sup>(3)</sup> Fee u. 3, aufe, definition ef "duprored."

<sup>(4)</sup> See Cr. Pr. Code, a. 239.

<sup>(5)</sup> R. v. Darge Scaor, 11 C., 250 (1885).

The distinction between these cases is that no presumption that a document is duly taken can arise when, on the face of the document, it appears that it has not been duly taken.(1) Therefore (a) if the law expressly requires a statement of the circumstances under which a document was taken to be 1 71 11 1 1 ace of such

> In such luly taken and that an express statutory provision has not been carried out. (b) Where the law casts no obligation upon the Magistrate or Judge to record the circumstances under which a statement was made and taken, it will be presumed that the statement was "duly taken," that is, that all the conditions required by law have been fulfilled, notwithstanding that the document does not purport to give the facts as to which such presumption is to be raised; for when the law creates an obligation to take a statement in a particular manner it will be presumed upon the maxim omnia rite acta that it has been duly taken. (c) Unless an concluding :

cannot appl

act be not obligatory, it may well be that the statement may have been duly taken and yet that that particular act has not been done. (4)

One of the presumptions arising under this section is that the witness did actually say what is recorded. The section provides inter alia that the Court shall presume that the evidence was duly taken, and it cannot be considered to have been duly taken if it does not contain what the witness actually stated.(5)

The presumptions raised by this section are applicable in the case of confessions recorded by Magistrates of Native States (6) All the presumptions are rebuttable; (7) thus a person who questions the accuracy of the record

R. v. Pohp Singh, 10 A 174 (1887) R v liran, 9 M., 224 (1898). The case, however, of R v Numeraridan, 21 W. R., Cr., 5 (1874), does not appear to be in conformity with the fext or the words of the section, but the grounds of the deci sion in this case are not at all clear. A statement of a witness in the shape of a former deposition can only be used as evidence against an accused person if it was duly taken in his presence before the Committing Magistrate (Cr. Pr. Code, s. 284). In this case, a document purporting to be the deposition of a witness made before a Magistrate appeared on the record, but there was no evidence to prove that the document exhibited evalence of this witness duly taken by the committing Maguerate in the presence of any of the persons who were tried in the Sessions Court and against whom it was used. The Court plactical that a certificate was, no doubt, appended to it, installed by some person, and on the supposition that this person was a Magistrate that certificate would under this section afford prima faces explence of the circumstances mentioned in it relative to the taking of the statement. But this certificate was merely in these words-" Read to deponent and admitted correct," and dal not give any of the facts necessary to render a deposition admissible under s. 248 of the Criminal Procedure Cule. It was held, therefore, that the presumption of due taking could not be raped under this section. But a 353 of the Code requites all evidence (except when otherwise provided) to be taken in the presence of the accused And though there was no evidence in the case to show that the deposition had been so taken, this section should, it would seem, have dispensed with the necessity of such proof. The statement in the Magistrate's certificate was a complete statement required by law for the purpose of affecting the wateres himself and had nothing to do with any possible future use of the deposition against the prisoner.

- (1) See R. v. Firan, supra, 240,
- (2) As in cases under as lot, 364 of the Criminal Procedure Code.
- (3) R. v. Shirya, I B., 222 (1876)
- (4) R v. Pohp Singh, 10 A , 174, 177, 178 (1887), v. ante.
- (5) R. v. Sameanpa, 15 M., 63, 65 (1891). The case of R. v. Fatit Biness, I B. L. R. A. Cr., 13 (1868), is now of no authority, the decision having been given before this Act and based upon the ground of the non-existence of any general provision of the law such as is enacted by the present section.
- (6) R. v. Sunder Singh, 12 A , 595 (1800).
- (7) See s. 4, definition of "shall presume."

will be at liberty to give evidence to show that the statements made and language used have not been accurately recorded. Witnesses confronted by their former depositions often swear that they were never explained to them before signature, or that what they said has not been correctly taken down.(1) Where a witness when examined before the Sessions Court and asked about his deposition taken before the Committing Magistrate denied that it was the deposition made by him, it was said that the presumption allowed by this section could not be made.(2) It is conceived, however, that in such cases the presumption may still be operative notwithstanding the statement of the witness; for though such a statement is given on oath, and affords some evidence against the presumption, still the Court may consider the fact to which the presumption relates not "disproved," and that the deposition was in fact duly taken (3) Evidence must be given of the identity of the person making the deposition, Identity of for there is, of course, no presumption as to such raised by the section. A depo- party making eitian given he a nargan is not admissible in avidance against him in a subse- statement who was

1 accused and his evidence was recothed by the Magistrate. Subsequently, the pardon was revoked and he was put on his trial before the Sessions Judge along with the other accused. At the trial the deposition given by him before the Magistrate was put in and used in evidence against him(4) without any proof being given that he was the person who was examined as a witness before the Magistrate. It was held that the deposition was inadmissible without proof being given as to the identity of the accused with the person who was examined as a witness before the Magistrate (5)

81. The Court shall presume the genuineness of every recument of the deciment of India, or the Government Gazette of any local Government, Results of India, or the Government Gazette of any local Government, Results or of any colony, dependency or possession of the British Crown, private act or to be a newspaper or journal, or to be a copy of a private ment and Act of Parliament printed by the Queen's Printer, and of every ments document purporting to be a document directed by any law to be kept by any person, if such document is kept substantially in the form required by law and is produced from proper custody.

Principle.—Omnia prasumenter rite esse acta, the documents mentioned are official documents or in the nature of such. See Introduction ante.

- 3 (" Court.")
- 4 (" Shall presume, ')
- r. 3 (" Document.")
- 37 (Relevancy of statements on Gazettes.)
- 57, Ct. (2) (Judicial notice of Acts.)
  - 35 (Entries in public records.)
- s. 90 (Definition of " proper custody.")

(l) Norton, Ev., 262, (2) R. v. Ansereddin 21 W R., Cr. 5 (1873)

which case, of course, no presumption would arise until that was proved v. post. (3) Fee a 3, sale, defeation of "daywored."

The ground of the rules- and the exact nature of the denial made by the artness do not appear in the report; possibly there may have been a question as to the alentity of the desences, to

<sup>(4)</sup> See Cr. Pr. Code, a. 239. (5) E. v. Darge Scate, 11 C., 250 (1855).

W. LF

DOCUMENTS ADMISSIBLE IN ENGLAND. COMMENTARY.

Gazettes. newspapers, private Acts and Actsand documents directed by law to be kept.

The presumption effects a prima lacie inference of genumeness which may be rebutted.(1) See as to the relevancy of statements made in notifications appearing in the Gazette, section 37, ante, and as to notifications in the Gazettes of the appointment of public officers, section 57, seventh clause, ante.(2) All public Acts are the subject of judicial notice, as are also all local and personal Acts directed by Parliament to be judicially noticed.(3) The last part of the section refers to and includes the documents mentioned in section 35, ante, and most of which are declared to be public documents by section 74. As to the meaning of "proper custody" reference should be made to the Explanation to section 90, post, which is declared by that section to apply also to this According to that Explanation, documents are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which, and under the care of the person with whom, they would naturally be, but no custody is improper, if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or if the circumstances of the case are such as to render such an origin probable.

Presumpdocument in England ture.

When any document is produced before any Court, purporting to be a document which, by the law in force for the time being in England or Ireland, would be admissible in proof proof of seal of any particular in any Court of Justice in England or Ireland. without proof of the seal or stamp or signature authenticating it, or of the judicial or official character claimed by the person by whom it purports to be signed, the Court shall presume that such seal, stamp or signature is genuine, and that the person signing it held, at the time when he signed it, the judicial or official character which he claims, and the document shall be admissible for the same purpose for which it would be admissible in England or Ireland.(4)

Principle.-See Introduction, ante, and notes, post

s. 3 (" Document.")

s. 3 (" Court.") s. 3 ("Shall presume,")

8 & 9 Vic., Cap. 113, s. 1; 14 & 15 Vic., Cap. 99, ss. 9—11, 14; Steph. Dig., Arts. 79, 80; Wills, Ev., 288-310; Taylor, Ev., § 7, 8, 1596, 1597, 1599A, 1600, 1601, pp. 1055-1061, 1064-1070; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 478; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 96-102,

COMMENTARY.

Documents admissible in England or Ireland without proof of seal, stamp, sig-nature or official char acter.

This section which reproduces the provisions of the 9th and 10th sections of 14 & 15 Vic., Cap. 99, a Statute making certain documents admissible throughout the Queen's Dominions(5) lays down a rule both of presumption and admissibility with regard to the documents therein mentioned. The Court must presume (a) that the seal or stamp or signature is genuine, and (b) that the person signing the document held at the time when he signed it, the judicial or official character which he claims. But over and beyond such presumptions which are the proper subject-matter of this portion of the Act, the section further enacts that the document shall be admissible in India for the same purpose for which it would be admissible in England or Ireland. As the documents

<sup>(1)</sup> S. 4. sate, " shall presume,"

<sup>(2)</sup> See p. 447, ante, as to preelametions, orders, and regulations contained in the London Garette, see s. 78, cl. 3; and as to the hing's Printer, 43 \6. c. 9, 11 2, 4.

<sup>(3)</sup> S. 57, cl (2); and ere ante, notes on that clause.

<sup>(4)</sup> See 14 & 15 1 k., Cap. 80, se. 9-11, and post, notes to this section.

<sup>(5)</sup> Steph. Dig , Art. No.

which are the subject-matter of the section are documents admissible in England without proof of seal.(1) stamp or signature, it is necessary shortly to consider the provisions of the abovementioned Statute and the English law anterior thereto in respect of the proof of documents of a public character,

At common law when a document was of such character that its preservation and settled custody was of concern to the public at large, or to a considerable section of the public, the production of the original was generally either excused or disapproved of by the Court, and the document was admitted to proof by means of a copy. The ordinary mode of proof of such documents taken on behalf of the party, ho produced it in the witness-n such would be taken of the existence, authenticity and custody of those of wide public importance, such as the journals of the Houses of Parliament, some evidence would be necessary on these points with regard to documents of less notoriety, such as the roll of a manor Court. In cases of the latter description the witness who rilly give some e courant. In order to put the admissibility of clearer and more settled footing Lord Brougham's Act 14 and 15 Vic., Cap. 99, by section 14, enacted that .--

Whenever any book or other document is of such a public nature as to be admissible in evidence on its mere production from the proper custody, and no Statute exists which renders its contents provable by means of a copy, any copy thereof or extract therefrom shall be admissible in evidence in any Court of Justice or before any person now or hereafter having by law or by consent of parties authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, provided it be proved to be an examined copy or extract, or provided it purports to be signed and certified as a true copy or extract by the officer to whose custody the original is entrusted, and which officer is hereby required to furnish such certified copy or extract to any person applying at a reasonable time for the same, upon payment of a reasonable sum for the same, not exceeding four pence for every follo of ninety words

It will be observed that this section does not define what is intended by the word "of such a public nature as to be admissible in evidence, on its mere production from the proper custody," and it is doubtful whether this description would be held to comprise the rolls of manor Courts or any others which ordinarily require some verification as abovementioned.(2) This section of Lord Brougham's Act refers only to such documents as are not provable by means of copies under any other satulable procession. But there are many registers and documents, certified copies of which are receivable in evidence by virtue of the procession is the procession of the pr to the proof of par-

documents were made by them receivable in evidence of certain particulars, provided they were authenticated in the manner prescribed by such Statutes, but in consequence of the omission of any provisions dispensing with the proof of the genuineness of such copies, the benefinal effect of the enactments was much diminished. In order to remove this inconvenience, the Statute 8 and 9 Vic. (Ap. 113 by section 1, enacted that (4)—

<sup>(1)</sup> As to the scale of which English Courts take judicial notice, see east, s. 27, cl. 6, and notes on that clause.

<sup>(2)</sup> Wills, Er., 200-200

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, h.v., § 1601-n, where some of the principal of these regulers are enumerated.
(4) The Act which is known as "The Bornaritary Evidence Act 1945," does not extrad

COMMENTARY.

Gazettes. papers private Acts and Acts and documents directed by law to be kept.

The presumption effects a prima facie inference of genuineness which ma be rebutted.(1) See as to the relevancy of statements made in notification appearing in the Gazette, section 37, ante, and as to notifications in the Gazette of the appointment of public officers, section 57, seventh clause, ante.(2) A public Acts are the subject of judicial notice, as are also all local and persons Acts directed by Parliament to be judicially noticed.(3) The last part of th section refers to and includes the documents mentioned in section 35, ante, an most of which are declared to be public documents by section 74. As to th meaning of "proper custody" reference should be made to the Explanatio to section 90, post, which is declared by that section to apply also to this According to that Explanation, documents are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which, and under the care of the person with whom, the would naturally be , but no custody is improper, if it is proved to have had legitimate origin, or if the circumstances of the case are such as to render such Presumption as to ocumen n England or signa. ture

When any document is produced before any Court purporting to be a document which, by the law in force for the time being in England or Ireland, would be admissible in proo without proof of seal of any particular in any Court of Justice in England or Ireland without proof of the seal or stamp or signature authenticating it or of the judicial or official character claimed by the person by whom it purports to be signed, the Court shall presume that such seal, stamp or signature is genuine, and that the person signing it held, at the time when he signed it, the judicial or official char

> and the document shall be admissible for the same purpose for which it would be admissible in England or Ireland. (4)

Principle.—See Introduction, ante, and notes, post

s. 3 (" Document.")

acter which he claims.

an origin probable

s. 3 (" Court,") 3 (" Shall presume,"

8 & 9 Vic , Cap. 113, s 1; 14 & 15 Vic., Cap. 99, ss. 9-11, 14; Steph. Dig., Arts 79, 80, Wills, Ev., 288-310; Taylor, Ev., §§ 7, 8, 1596, 1597, 1599A, 1600, 1601 pp. 1055-1061, 1064-1070; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 478, Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 96-102

COMMENTARY.

Documents admissible in England or Ireland tamp, sig nature or official char

This section which reproduces the provisions of the 9th and 10th sections of 14 & 15 Vic., Cap. 99, a Statute making certain documents admissible throughout the Queen's Dominions(5) lays down a rule both of presumption and admissibility with regard to the documents therein mentioned. The Court must presume (a) that the seal or stamp or signature is genuine; and (b) that the person signing the document held at the time when he signed it, the judicial or official character which he claims. But over and beyond such presumptions which are the proper subject-matter of this portion of the Act, the section further enacts that the document shall be admissible in India for the same purpose for which it would be admissible in England or Ireland. As the documents

(I) S. 4, aute, "shall presume,"

<sup>(3)</sup> S. 57, cl. (2); and are ante, notes on that

<sup>(2)</sup> See p. 447, ante, as to preclamations, enlers, and regulations contained in the London Ga-rile, ere s. 78, cl. 3; and as to the King's Printer, 45 Vic , c. 9, 11 2, 4.

<sup>(4)</sup> See 14 & 15 Vic., Cap. 99, as, 9-11, and pow, notes to this section. (5) Steph. Dig , Art. RO.

which are the subject-matter of the section are documents admissible in England without proof of seal (1) stamp or consider the provisions of the abovemen law anterior thereto in respect of the proof of

At common law when a document was of such character that its preservation and settled custody was of concern to the public at large, or to a considerable section of the public, the production of the original was generally either excused or disapproved of by the Court, and the document was admitted to proof by means of a copy. The ordinary mode of proof of such documents was by means of an examined copy, that is, a copy taken on behalf of the party, generally by some clerk or other private person who produced it in the witnessbox an rect. :

would public importance, such as the journals of the Houses of Parliament, some evidence would be necessary on these points with regard to documents of less notoriety, such as the roll of a manor Court. In cases of the latter description the witness who proved the examined copy or some other person would ordinarily give some evidence to verify the original document. In order to put the admissibility of copies of public documents on a clearer and more settled footing Lord Brougham's Act 14 and 15 Vic., Cap. 99, by section 14, enacted that;—

Whenever any book or other document is of such a public nature as to be admissible in evidence on its mere production from the proper custody, and no Statute exists which renders its contents provable by means of a copy, any copy thereof or extract therefrom shall be admissible in evidence in any Court of Justice or before any person now or hereafter having by law or by consent of parties authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, provided it be proved to be an examined copy or extract, or provided it purports to be signed and certified as a true copy or extract by the officer to whose custody the original is entrusted, and which officer is hereby required to furnish such certified copy or extract to any person applying at a reasonable time for the same, upon payment of a reasonable sum for the same, not exceeding four pence for every follo of ninety words

It will be observed that this section does not define what is intended by the word " of such a public nature as to be admissible in evidence, on its mere production from the proper custody," and it is doubtful whether this description would be held to comprise the rolls of manor Courts or any others which ordinarily require some verification as abovementioned (2). This section of Lord Brougham's Act refers only to such documents as are not provable by means of copies under any other statutable procession But there are many registers and documents, certified copies of which are receivable in evidence by virtue of some special enactment having special reference to them (3) Before this general Act several Statutes had enacted provisions with regard to the proof of particular public documents by means of certified and other copies, and various documents were made by them receivable in evidence of certain particulars, provided they were authenticated in the manner prescribed by such Statutes, but in consequence of the omission of any provisions dispensing with the proof of the genumeness of such copies, the beneficial effect of the enactments was much diminished. In order to remove this inconvenience, the Statute 8 and 9 Vic., Cap. 113 by section I, enacted that(4) -

(i) As to the seals of which English Courts take julicial notice, see ante, s. 57, cl. 6, and notes on that clause.

<sup>(2)</sup> Wills, Er., 200-294

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, by , § 1691-n, where some of the principal of these registers are enumerated. (4) This Act which is known as "The Horusentary Evidence Act 1845," dws art extend

Whenever by any Act now in force or hereafter to be in force any certificate, official or public document, or document or proceedings of any corporation of joint stock or other company, or any certified copy of any document, bye-law, entry in any register or other book or of any other proceeding, shall be receivable in evidence of any particular in any Court of Justice, or before any legal tribunal, or either House of Parlament, or any committee of either house or in any judicial proceeding, the same shall respectively be admitted in evidence, provided they respectively purport to be sealed or impressed with a stamp, or sealed and signed, on signed alone, as required, or impressed with a stamp and signed, as directed by the respective Acts made, or to be hereafter made, without any proof of the seal or stamp, where a seal or stamp is necessary, or of the signature or of the official character of the person appearing to have signed the same, and without any further proof thereof in every case in which the original record could have been received in evidence.

The general result of these two Statutes therefore seems to be this, that save where some special statutory provision exists as to the mode of proof of a public document, the proof of an examined copy, or the mere production in Court person purporting to have the due må facie proof of a public document, original was necessary by the common law before an exam ned copy could be given in evidence. (1) Where therefore either under the provisions of some special enactment, a certificate, certified copy or other document, or under the general provisions of 14 and 15 Vic.. Cap. 99, section 14, a certified copy is admissible in proof of any particular, provided they are respectively authenticated in the manner prescribed, they will be so admissible, if they purport to be so authenticated, without proof of the seal, stamp, signature and official character of the person appearing to have signed the same. Where in short a particular is provable by an authenticated document, the Act dispenses with proof of authentication.

Besides the section referred to, Lord Brougham's Act of 1851 (14 and 15 Vic. Cap. 99) contains several clauses which greatly facilitate the proof of English documents in Ireland, of Irish documents in England and of English and Irish documents in the colonies. Thus it enacts(2) that:—

Every document, which, by any law now in force or hierafter to be in force, is, or shall be, admissible in evidence of any particular in any Court of justice in England or Wales, without proof of the seal, or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the judical or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same, shall be admitted in evidence to the same extent, and for the same purposes, in any Court of justice in Ireland, or before any person having in Ireland, by law or by consent of parties, authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, without proof of the seal, or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the judical or official character of the person appearing to laws signed the same.

It also enacts (3) that :--

Every document, which, by any law now in force or hereafter to be in force, is, or shall be, admissible in evidence of any particular in any Court of justice in Ireland, without proof of the scal, or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the

to Scotland; see Taylor, Ev., § 1001.11. The effect of this Statute has been thus counsely stated.—It is provided by many Statutes that various cettfield copies and other documents are reviewable in evidence of certain particulars, provided they are authorized in the manner provided by such Statutes. Whence by virtue of any such provinced any such cettified copy or other document as a doreastal to hereivable, it is admissible of it jumposts to be authorized in the manner presented by less without proof of any stamp, seal or signature required for its authentication or of the official character of the person who appears to have signed it. Steph Dig., Art. 79.

(1) Wills, Ev., 200, 201, in the Appendix A, to which is given a tabular list of some of the public documents in most frequent use and their mode of proof

(2) F. 9 (3) Fr. 9, 10 judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same, shall be admitted in evidence to the same extent and for the same purpose in any Court of justice in England or Wales, or before any person having in England and Wales by law, or by consent of parties, authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, without proof of the seal, or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same.

It further enacts (1) that :-

. Every document, which, by any law now in force or hereafter to be in force, is, or shall be, admissible in evidence of any particular in any Court of justice in England or Wales or Ireland, without proof of the seal, or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same, shall be admitted in evidence to the same extent and for the same purposes in any Court of justice of any of the British colonies, or before any person having in any of such colonies by Jaw or consent of parties, authority to hear, receive and evanine evidence, without proof of the seal or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same.

As already observed, the present section produces the provisions of the 9th and 10th sections of this Statute. The eleventh section already cited which contains similar provisions rendering admissible to the same extent and for the same purpose in the British colonies (including thereby in India)(2) without proof of seal, etc., such documents as are so admissible in England, Ireland, or Wales, as also so much of the 19th sections as relates to British India are repealed by the second section and the Schedule of this Act, as also by the Statute Law Revision Act of 1875, and in lieu thereof the provisions of the present section are substituted.

Even if practicable it would unduly lengthen the Note to this section, which is itself not of frequent applicability to enumerate the particular documents which are in England admissible without proof of authentication. It will be necessary, as the occasion arises, to refer either to the English text-books on evidence (3) which mention a large number of these documents, or if the document in question be not there found, to the Statutes dealing with the subject or, if none, to the general Statutes 14 & 15 Vic. Cap. 99, section 14, above-mentioned. The following are some of the documents which in England can be proved by certified copies and which are of like occurrence in Indian Courts:

(6 & 7 Will. IV., Cap. 86, as amended by and other similar Registers mentioned in documents relating to Companies (8 & 9 p. 89, §§ 61, 174, rr. 4, 5, 8, 40 & 41 Vic., Cap. 26, § 6), Copyright Registers (5 & 6 Vic., Cap. 15, § 11, 7 & 8 Vic., Cap. 12, § 8, 25 & 26 Vic., Cap. 08, § 4, 5); Orders in Lunacy (53 Vic., Cap. 5, § 114, 162, Lunacy Orders, 1834, Order CIX); Newspapers Proprietors' Register (44 & 45 Vic., Cap. 60, § 15). Patent Office Registers (46 & 47 Vic., Cap. 57, § 88, 100). Registers and other Documents under the Merchant Shipping Act. 1894 (57 & 58 Vic., Cap. 60; see Taylor, Ev., pp. 1060, 1061). Official books and registers may be proved either by production of the oriemals or copies. In practice they are now always proved by means of examiners or certified copies unless the circumstances render it necessary that the Court should examine the original entry.(4). Ofter documents are provable

<sup>(1)</sup> S. 11 repealed by this Act. see s. 2 and schedule, and prof. (2) S. 19. (3) See Philipson, Ev., 3rd. Let., 478. Willson, Ev., 3rd. Let., 478.

(a) over improve, F. , 3m. 141, 446, While Fr., 250–310, Steph, D., Arts. 530–84. For a last of the various Statutes referred to be 8.8.9. Vs., Cap. 113, in aking certified copies of decuments of a public nature evalence, over Taylor,

Ev., foot-site to § 1601 and pp. 1153-1158, Roscov, N. P. Ev., 96, 102. For a lat of some of the principal public documents what may be proved under a 14 of 14 & 15 Ve., Cap. 99; see Taylor, Ev., 41, 1599A, 1600. Roscov, N. P. Ev.,

<sup>101, 120.
(4)</sup> Taylor, 3 v. § 1505; and we notes to those paragraphs as to the principal metaness in which

Whenever by any Act now in force or hereafter to be in force any certificate, official or public document, or document or proceedings of any corporation of joint stock or other company, or any certified copy of any document, bye-law, entry in any register or other book or of any other proceeding, shall be receivable in evidence of any

or impressed with a stamp, or sealed and signed, or signed alone, as required, or impressed, or impressed with a stamp and signed, as directed by the respective Acts made, or to be hereafter made, without any proof of the seal or stamp, where a seal or stamp is necessary, or of the signature or of the official character of the person appearing to have signed the same, and without any further proof thereof in every case in which the original record could have been received in evidence

The general result of these two Statutes therefore seems to be this, that save where some special statutory provision exists as to the mode of proof of a public document, the proof of an examined copy, or the mere production in Court of a copy purporting to be certified by a person purporting to have the due enstody of the original, will be sufficient primal face proof of a public document, except in the cases where verification of the original was necessary by the common law before an examined copy could be given in evidence. (1) Where therefore either under the provisions of some special enactment, a certificate, certified copy or other document, or under the general provisions of 14 and 15 Vic. (Ap. 99, section 14, a certified copy is admissible in proof of any particular, provided they are respectively authenticated in the manner prescribed, they will be so admissible, if they purport to be so authenticated, without proof of the scal, stamp, signature and official character of the person appearing to have signed the same. Where in short a particular is provable by an authenticated document, the Act dispenses with proof of authentication.

Besides the section referred to, Lord Brougham's Act of 1851 (14 and 15 Vic., Cap. 99) contains several clauses which greatly facilitate the proof of English documents in Ireland, of Irish documents in England and of English and Irish documents in the colonies. Thus it enacts (2) that:—

Every document, which, by any law now in force or hereafter to be in force, is, or shall be, admissible in evidence of any particular in any Court of justice in England or Wales, without proof of the seal, or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same, shall be admitted in evidence to the same settent, and for the same purposes, in any Court of justice in Ireland, or before any person having in Ireland, by law or by consent of parties, authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, without proof of the seaf, or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same.

It also enacts (3) that :-

Every document, which, by any law now in force or hereafter to be in force, is, or shall be, admissible in evidence of any particular in any Court of justice in Ireland, without proof of the seal, or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the

to Sectiond; see Tayle, Ev., § 1601a. The effect of this Statule has been thus conceptly stated:—It is provided by many Statutes that various certified copic and other documents are recreable in extense of certain particular, provided they are authoritized in the majorir provided by such bratters. Whorever by vittere of any such provision any such certified copy or other document as aforward is recreately, it is almostiale if it purports to be authoritized in the manner presented to less without provided.

any stamp, seal or signature required for its authoritestum or of the official character of the person who appears to have signed it. Steph-Dig, Art. 79.

(1) Wills, Et., 200, 201, in the Appendix A. to which is given a tabular list of some of the public documents in most frequent use and their mode of proof.

(2) S. D. (1) Sz. P. 10. judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same, shall be admitted in evidence to the same extent and for the same purpose in any Court of justice in England or Wales, or before any person having in England and Wales by law or by consent of parties, authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, without proof of the seal, or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same.

It further enacts (1) that :-

. Every document, which, by any law now in force or hereafter to be in force, is, or shall be, admissible in evidence of any particular in any Court of justice in England or Wales or Ireland, without proof of the seal, or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same, shall be admitted in evidence to the same extent and for the same purposes in any Court of justice of any of the British colonies, or before any person having in any of such colonies by Jaw or consent of parties, authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, without proof of the seal or stamp, or signature, authenticating the same, or of the judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed the same.

As already observed, the present section produces the provisions of the 9th and 10th sections of this Statute. The eleventh section already cited which contains similar provisions rendering admissible to the same extent and for the same purpose in the British colonies (including thereby in India)(2) without proof of seal, etc., such documents as are so admissible in England, Ireland, or Wales, as also so much of the 19th sections as relates to British India are repealed by the second section and the Schedule of this Act, as also by the Statute Law Revision Act of 1875, and in lieu thereof the provisions of the present section are substituted

Even if practicable it would unduly lengthen the Note to this section, which is itself not of frequent applicability to enumerate the particular documents which are in England admissible without proof of authentication. It will be necessary, as the occasion arises, to refer either to the English text-books on evidence (3) which mention a large number of these documents, or if the document in question be not there found, to the Statutes dealing with the subject or, if none, to the general Statutes 14 & 15 Vic., Cap 99, section 14, abovementioned. The following are some of the documents which in England can be proved by certified comes and which are of like occurrence in Indian Courts: -Birth, Marriage or Death Registers (6 & 7 Will, IV., Cap. 86, as amended by 37 & 38 Vic., Cap. 88, §§ 32, 38, 35), and other similar Registers mentioned in Taylor, Ev., pp. 1056, 1057; certain documents relating to Companies (8 & 9 Vic., Cap 16, § 60, 25 & 26 Vic., Cap 89, §§ 61, 174, rr. 4, 5, 8, 40 & 41 Vic., Cap. 26, § 6), Copyright Registers (5 & 6 Vic., Cap. 45, § 11, 7 & 8 Vic., Cap. 12, § 8, 25 & 26 Vic., Cap. 68, §§ 4, 5), Orders in Lunacy (53 Vic., Cap. 5, §§ 144, 152, Lunacy Orders, 1883, Order CIX); Newspapers Proprietors' Regis ter (44 & 45 Vic., Cap. 60, § 15) . Patent Office Registers (46 & 47 Vic., Cap. 57, §§ 89, 100) . Registers and other Documents under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vic., Cap. 60 , see Taylor, Ev., pp. 1060, 1061) Official books and registers may be proved either by production of the originals or comes. In practice they are now always proved by means of examiners or certified comes unless the circumstances render it necessary that the Court should examine the original entry (4) Other documents are provable

<sup>(1)</sup> S. 11 repealed by this Act. or a 2 and orbidule, and post.
(2) S. 19

<sup>(3)</sup> See Hilpson, Fr., 3rd 1st, 478, Walk-Fr., 285-310, Steph, Dg., 4rts 73, 84. For a lot of the various Statutes riferred to be 8 & 8 Vs., Cap. 113, making certain depres of dors-

Ev. fort-wife to § 1601 and pp. 1153-1155. Rosen, N. P. Fr. 90-102. For a lat of some of the principal public documents who he may be proved unders. 14 of 14 & 15 Ve., Cap. 59; see Taylor, Er., § 1509A, 1603. Rosers, N. P. Ev.,

<sup>101, 120.

(4)</sup> Taylor, br., § 1505, and see notes to those

by examined or certified copies under the general provisions of 14 & 15 Vic., Cap. 99; section 14 (v. ante),(1) or by certified copies under the provisions of particular Statutes.

In the case of a document tendered in evidence under this section, the question for determination will be whether, assuming that the fact to be proved thereby is a relevant fact, the document is or is not one which is admissible in England in proof of that fact without proof of its authentication. If it is so, then the document is admissible in India to prove that fact; and if so admissible, the Court must raise the presumptions relating to its authenticity which are declared by this section. Again, the question whether the evidence is admissible in England must be determined by reference to the particular Statute governing the case, or if there be none to the general provisions of 14 & 15 Vic., Cap. 99, section 14, abovementioned. If under either Statute proof by means of an authenticated document is admissible, then under 8 & 9 Vic., Cap. 113, no proof of the authentication is necessary, and the document document in England is the subject of the provisions of sections 9, 10, and 11 of 14 & 15 Vic., Cap. 99, and in India the present section.

Thus the Cluef Magistrate of the City of Glasgow being a person lawfully authorised to administer oaths, a declaration as to the execution of a power-of-attorney taken before him and authenticated by his certificate and the common seal of the City of Glasgow, and by a Notarial certificate was held to be sufficient proof of the execution of the power (38) Both declarations in this case were inade under section 16 of the Statutory Declarations Act, 1835 (4). It was held that since a declaration as to the execution of a power taken under this Act or the Probate and Letters of Administration Amendment Act, 1858 (5) at any place to which the Act extends before a person "lawfully authorised to administer oaths" would be admissible in England or Ireland as evidence of the execution of the power, it should for that purpose, if both conditions be fulfilled, be also admissible in this country under the provisions of the present section. (6)

In the following cases(7) dended on the Original Side of the High Court at Calcutta, similar evidence was held to be admissible. A power-of-attorney executed in England in the presence of the Mayor of Lyme Regis and the Mayor of Godalming, each of whom made a declaration under the Statutory Declarations Act, 1835, before a Commissioner to administer oaths in the Supreme Court of the Court of the of the Borough of Guildford, who was also a Justice of the Peace, and who authenticated the declaration by his certificate and official seal was accepted as proved.(9) A power-of-attorney executed in Scotland in the presence of a writer to the signet and a

- (1) See Taylor, Pv., 1 1000.
- (2) Ib., § 1601.
- (3) In the goods of Henderson, deceased, 22 C., 491 (1895).
- (4) 5 & 6 Will. IV. Cap. 62.
- (5) 21 A 22 Vic., Cap. 95.
- (6) It is not clear why in this case it should have been considered necessary, in the matter the seals appended to the certificates, to have recourse to the provisions of a, 57, cf. (8) (pulsual notice of scale, since if the document in question was now which was admissible in Pupland without it is necessary to produce the original document steelf Quore, whether this is so in regard to such documents in India.

proof of seal or agranture (and only in such cases as the evaluence offered within the except of this section), the Court was lound to presume the genume area of the seal and such consists of the pressions of the present section, wholly published to the proof of the question whether the seal was one which rame within the purries of $67, ct [65].

<sup>(7)</sup> The authors are indel ted for the notes of these cases to Mr. Belchamlers, the late Registrar of the High Court, Original Sale.

<sup>(8)</sup> In the prods of John Flut, deceased, December 15th, 1886, per Trevelyan, J.

<sup>(9)</sup> In the goods of Bulliam Ablast, deceased, November 19th, 1887, per Trevelyin, J.

law clerk, and certified by a declaration of the writer to the signet, and which declaration was authenticated by a certificate of the Lord Provost of Edinburgh under the seal of the Corporation of the City of Edinburgh, was rejected as not having been executed before and authenticated by any of the persons mentioned in section 85 of this Act.(1) The present section does not appear to have been considered. It is submitted, however, with reference to the observations in that case to section 85, post, that this latter section is an enabling section. its object being to add to the facilities of proof and not to exclude any other mode of proof than that allowed by that section. It has been since so held, it being pointed out that in arriving at this decision, Norris, J., seems to have assumed, contrary to the fact, that the provision contained in section 85 is of an exhaustive character, and that no other mode of proving the execution of a power is admissible. So on an application for letters of administration with the will annexed, made by the attorney of the executors therein named, it appeared that the applicant's power-of-attorney was not executed in the presence of a notary public; but with regard to the execution by each of the executors, one of the attesting witnesses had made a declaration before a notary public to the effect that he witnessed the execution of the power-of-attorney by one of the executors, and that the signature of the other attesting witness was the proper signature of the person bearing that name, and such declaration was signed, sealed and certified by a notary public; it was held that the power-ofattorney was sufficiently proved.(2) In another case an application for Letters of Administration was made under a power-of-attorney executed in England in the presence of unofficial witnesses, one of whom made a declaration as to the execution of the power before the "Lord Provost and Chief Magistrate of Aberdeen." The declaration was authenticated by the certificate of the Lord Provost under his signature and seal of office and the Lord Provost's certificate was authenticated by the certificate of a Notary Public under his hand and official seal. The declaration was accepted (3) An application for Letters of Administration was made under a power-of-attorney executed in England in the presence of unofficial witnesses, one of whom under the Statutory Declarations Act, 1835, made a declaration as to the execution of the power before a Notary Public who authentic ted the declaration by a certificate under his signature and official seal. The declaration was accepted.(4) An original will executed in England was sent to Calcutta with a power-of-attorney authorizing the person named therein to apply to this Court for Letters of Administration with a copy of the will annexed. The power was executed in England before two solicitors. One of the attesting witnesses, who was also an attesting witness to the will, made a declaration as to the execution of the power under the Statutory Declarations Act, 1835, before a Notary Public who authenticated the declaration by a certificate under his signature and official seal. The only evidence of the execution of the will was a declaration made under the Statutory Declarations Act, 1835 before a Commissioner to administer oaths in the Supreme Court of Judicature in England. The will and the power were both (as they would have been in England or Ireland) deemed to have been sufficiently proved.(5) An application for Letters of Administration with a copy of the will annexed was made under a power-of-attorney executed in England before two persons described as solicitor's clerks. One of these persons made a declaration as to the execution of the power under the Act above mentioned before the Lord Mayor of London The declaration authenticated by a certi-

ttb Inm per Hill J

tugt 31st, 1872, per H.J. J.

<sup>(1)</sup> In the posts of Primeise deceased, 16 ( 776, July 13th, 1881, per North, J. mr v. 85 post.

<sup>(2)</sup> In re Saden, 21 M , 492 (1808) (3) In the poods of Hendern s, decreased, April

<sup>(4</sup> In the goods of Henry Parker, deceased, June 20th, 1872, per Hell, J. (5) In the goods of H. W. Apr., deceased.

by examined or certified copies under the general provisions of 14 & 15 Vic., Cap. 99; section 14 (v. ante),(1) or by certified copies under the provisions of particular Statutes.

In the case of a document tendered in evidence under this section, the question for determination will be whether, assuming that the fact to be proved thereby is a relevant fact, the document is or is not one which is admissible in England in proof of that fact without proof of its authentication. If it is so, then the document is admissible in India to prove that fact; and if so admissible, the Court must raise the presumptions relating to its authenticity which are declared by this section. Again, the question whether the evidence is admissible in England must be determined by reference to the particular Statute governing the case, or if there be none to the general provisions of 14 & 15 Vic., Cap. 99, section 14, abovementioned. If under either Statute proof by means of an authenticated document is admissible, then under 8 & 9 Vic., Cap. 113, no proof of the authentication is necessary, and the document is one which in England is the subject of the provisions of sections 9, 10, and 11 of 14 & 15 Vic , Cap 99, and in India the present section.

Thus the Chief Magistrate of the City of Glasgow being a person lawfully authorised to administer oaths, a declaration as to the execution of a power-ofattorney taken before him and authenticated by his certificate and the common seal of the City of Glasgow, and by a Notarial certificate was held to be sufficient proof of the execution of the power (3) Both declarations in this case were made under section 16 of the Statutory Declarations Act, 1835 (4) It was held that since a declaration as to the execution of a power taken under this Act or the Probate and Letters of Administration Amendment Act, 1858,(5) at any place to which the Act extends before a person "lawfully authorised to administer oaths" would be admissible in England or Ireland as evidence of the execution of the power, it should for that purpose, if both conditions be fulfilled, be also admissible in this country under the provisions of the present section.(6)

In the following cases (7) decided on the Original Side of the High Court at Calcutta, similar evidence was held to be admissible. A power-of-attorney executed in England in the presence of the Mayor of Lyme Regis and the Mayor of Godalming, each of whom made a declaration under the Statutory Declarations Act, 1835, before a Commissioner to administer oaths in the Supreme Cour' '

ney the

Guildford, who was also a Justice of the Peace, and who authenticated the declaration by his certificate and official seal was accepted as proved.(9) A powerof attorney executed in Scotland in the presence of a writer to the signet and a

- (1) See Taylor, Lv , § 1600.
- (2) 14 , § 1604. (3) In the goods of Henderson, deceased, 22 C., 491 (1835).
  - (4) 5 & 6 Will. IV, Cap. 62.
  - (5) 21 & 22 Vir., Cap. 93.
- (6) It is not clear why in this case it should have been considered necessary, in the matter of the scale appended to the certificates, to have recourse to the provisions of a. 57, cl. (6) (pick is) notice of scale), since if the document in question was one which was admissible in Fuglant without proof of seal or signature (and only in such case was the evidence offered within the scope of this section), the Court was bound to presume the genumeness of the seal and signature under the provisions of the present section, wholly independent of the question whether the seal was one which came within the purview of a 67. d. (6),

(7) The authors are indebted for the notes of these cases to Mr. Belchambers, the late Registrar of the High Court, Original Sale,

(8) In the goods of John Host, deceased, December 15th, 1886, per Trevelvan, J. (9) In the gords of Billion Ablast, decrawd. November 19th, 1887, per Trevelyan, J.

it is necessary to produce the original document itself. Quare, whether this is so in regard to such documents in India.

law clerk, and certified by a declaration of the writer to the signet and which declaration was authen under the scal of the C

having been executed

ed in section 85 of this Act (1) The present section does not appear to have been considered. It is submitted, however, with reference to the observations in that case to section 85, post, that this latter section is an enabling section, its object being to add to the facilities of proof and not to exclude any other mode of proof than that allowed by that section. It has been since so held, it being pointed out that in arriving at this decision, Norris, J., seems to have assumed, contrary to the fact, that the provision contained in section 85 is of an exhaustive character, and that no other mode of proving the execution of a power is admissible. So on an application for letters of administration with the will annexed, made by the attorney of the executors therein named, it ap-was not executed in the presence ecution by each of the executors, eclaration before a notary public of the power-of-attorney by one of the executors, and that the signature of the other attesting witness was the proper signature of the person bearing that name, and such declaration was signed, sealed and certified by a notary public; it was held that the power-of-attorner was sufficiently pro of Administration was mad in the presence of unofficial execution of the power before the "Lord Provost and Chief Magistrate of Aberdeen.' The declaration was authenticated by the certificate of the Lord Provost under his signature and seal of office and the Lord Provost's certificate was authenticated by the certificate of a Notary Public under his hand and official seal. The declaration was accepted (3) An application for Letters of Administration was made under a power-of-attorney executed in England in the presence of unofficial witnesses, one of whom under the Statutory Declarations Act. 1835, made a declaration as to the execution of the power before a Notary Public who authentic ted the declaration by a certificate under his signature and official seal The declaration was accepted.(4) An original will executed in England was sent to Calcutta with a power-of-attorney authorizing the person named therein to apply to this Court for Letters of Administration with a copy of the will annexed. The power was executed in England before two solicitors. One of the attesting witnesses, who was also an attesting witness to the will, made a declaration as to the execution of the power under the Statutory Declarations Act, 1835, before a Notary Public who authenticated the declaration by a certificate under his signature and official seal. The only evidence of the execution of the will was a declaration made under the Statutory Declarations Act, 1835, before a Commissioner to administer oaths in the Supreme Court of Judicature in England. The will and the power were both (as they would have been in England or Ireland) deemed to have been sufficiently proved.(5) An application for Letters of Administration with a copy of the will annexed was made under a power-of-attorney executed in England before two persons described as solicitor's clerks. One of these persons made a declaration as to the execution of the power under the Act above mentioned before the Lord Mayor of London The declaration authenticated by a certi-

<sup>(4)</sup> In the puels of Primmer, deceased, 16 C. 776, July 13th, 1889, per North, J. sec. 85.

<sup>(2)</sup> In re Nades, 21 M , 402 (18 M. (5) In the pools of Headers a document, April

June 20th, 1972, per Hill, J.

(5) In the goads of H. B. Apar, chical high 31st, 1872, per Hill, J.

ficate of the Lord Mayor under his signature and seal of office was accepted.(1) An application for Letters of Administration with a copy of the will annexed was made under a power-of-attorney executed in England before a solicitor, who made a declaration as to the execution of the power under Statutory Declarations Act, 1835, before the Lord Mayor of London. This declaration authenticated by a certificate of the Lord Mayor under his signature and seal of office was accepted.(2) An application for Letters of Administration with the will annexed was made under a power-of-attorney executed in England. In order to furnish proof of the execution of the power, one of the attesting witnesses

 the facts before a Notary cate under his signature

a Notary Public in the Queen's Dominions authenticating a declaration made before him as to the execution of the power would be admissible in England or Ireland in proof of the execution of the power, such a declaration was also admissible for the same purpose under the present section. (3)

It is to be noted that the provisions of this section are, as are also those of section 85, post, cumulative (v. ante). Thus in addition to the mode of proof here admitted other methods are, in particular cases, provided for by section 78, aute.

Presumption as to maps or plans made by authority of Government 83. The Court shall presume that maps or plans purporting to be made by the authority of Government were so made, and are accurate; but maps or plans made for the purposes of any cause must be proved to be accurate.

Principle.—The presumption in this as in other sections, is based on the maxim omna rite esse acts, for it will be presumed that Government in the preparation of maps and plans for public purposes will appoint competent officers to execute the work entrusted to them, and that such officers will do their duty. But maps and plans made for the purposes of any cause are not the subject of such a presumption being made pool them modum.

See Note, post

s. 3 (" Court.")
s. 4 (" Shall presume,")

plans made under the authority of GovernmentA

4. 36 (Relevancy of statements in maps or

Field, Ev., 224-230, 408, 409, Norton, Ev., 200, 201.

COMMENTARY.

Govern ment maps and plans

The map must purport to have been unde by the authority of Government, that is, by the Government, as such, for public purposes. Therefore a map prepared by an officer of Government, while in charge of a Khas mehal, Government being at the time in possession of the mehal increly as a pricate proprietor, is not a map purporting to have been made under the authority of Government within the meaning of this section, the accuracy of which is to be presumed, but such a map may be evidence under the 13th section of this ket (1)

In the goods of Hilliam Cornell, deceased, Sept. 16th, 1892, per Pigot, J.
 In the goods of Heavy Francis, decrared.

May 2nd, 1893, per Sale, J.
(3) In the goods of Anna Hande, deceased, January 11th, 1895, per Amer Ali, J.
(4) January Wellet v. Doerla Nath, 5 C.

<sup>287 (1879),</sup> ser. 4 C. i. E., 574; Rean Chander, Benerolder, Nad., 0 C., 741, 747 (1882); Kashn. Pranal v. Apat Charden, 21 C., 743, 378 (1983). Resonant Chardensis v. Brojn Wahner, 20 C., 791, 497 (1984); In which in unpay was pick to tamba mily provedly, but see Towarkant. Monthly provedly, but see Towarkant. Monthly provedly, but see Towarkant. Monthly provedly.

The maps and plaus mentioned in the section are maps and plans made by the Government for public purposes, as for instance a Government survey-map (1) and a map or plan made by the Government for private purposes or where the Government is acting otherwise than in a public capacity, is not the subject of this section.(2) In the case which is undermentioned a map was tendered in evidence purporting to be a map of the silted bed of the river Sankho. It was held that, as the map upon the face of it was neither a thak map nor a survey-map, such as is made by, or under the authority of, Government for public purposes, and as it appeared to have been made by Government for a particular purpose, which was not a public purpose, namely, the settlement of the silted bed of a certain river, the provisions of section 36 and of the present section were not applicable to this map. (3) But though in the case of a map not coming within this section no presumption of accuracy can be made; the mode in which the case has been dealt with and the absence of objection may lead to the inference that any objection to want of proof of its accuracy has been waived.(4)

The word "accurate" in this section means accuracy of the drawing and correctness of the measurement. It may be assumed that the map was correctly drawn according to the scale on which it is said to have been prepared, but that is all (5) Thus the accuracy of a thalbust Ameen's map which may be assumed under this section does not refer to the laying down of boundaries according to the rights of the parties. If it were so, a Deputy Collector would be usurping the functions of the Civil Court. To be binding on the parties to a suit such a map must be supported by evidence that it was drawn in their presence or in that of their agents.(6) Nor can a thalbust map be regarded as raising a presumption of correctness as to the amount of debutter land in one of the villages shown in the map, as the ameen who made it had no authority to determine what lands were debutter but only to lay down, and to map, boundaries. (7) The presumption in regard to the accuracy of a map is in no way affected by the fact that such map has been superseded by a later survey-map made under the same authority, and by an order of the Board of Revenue. It does not disprove the presumption to show that the general survey has been set aside, because it is quite consistent with that order that the actual hearing of the land in suit should be correct.(8) Where a Civil Ameen makes a local inquiry as to the situation of certain disputed lands with reference to the Collectorate map put in by the plaintiffs, and not objected to by the defendants who are present and recognise the boundary as that whereon the inquiry is to be based, the map must be taken to be one which the parties recognise as correct and trustworthy, prespective of the question whether it was prepared with the authority of Government.(9)

Maps or plans made for the purposes of any cause must be proved to be accurate. They must be proved by the persons who made them. They are post liten motum and lack the necessary trustworthiness. Where maps are

<sup>(1)</sup> Jogenser Naph v. Byrast Nath, 5 C., 822 (1880). Denote Life v. Kaler Perahad, 25 W. B. 179 (1876). Nomenacitat Kaler v. Homes in, 22 W. B., 519, 850 (1876); surrey-maps and survy proceedings temp paths demonstrate are provable by certified copies (as a. 74-77); sometimes, however, those copies and occasionally the majs made. by pulls offers are prepared with hitle skill. No observations in Pid. Pr., 412, 807, 804 in Proceedings of the Conference of th

Anner Surmoneyer, 19 W. R., 361-364 (1973).
(2) Kam Chander v. Lauredlar Anth, supra.
9 C., 743.

<sup>(3)</sup> Kanto Frand v. Joyd Chandra, 23 (., 335,

<sup>334 (1895).
(4)</sup> Madiali Sundari v. Gogunenda Nath. 9 C.

W. N., 111, 113 (1904).

 <sup>(5)</sup> Oursto Lat' v. Kales Pershad, 25 11. P., 179 (1876).
 (6) Ib.

<sup>(7)</sup> Jaren Anners 1. Labornovi, 18 C., 274 (1890), e.c., 17 L. A., 145.

<sup>(6)</sup> Jospiesur Singh v. Egrunt Nach, 5 C., 822 (1841); no., 6 C. L. R., 519.

<sup>(9)</sup> Ganya Asseis v. Padisla Mukan, 21 W., In, 115 (1873).

ficate of the Lord Mayor under his signature and seal of office was accepted.(1) An application for Letters of Administration with a copy of the will annexed was made under a power-of-attorney executed in England before a solicitor, who made a declaration as to the execution of the power under Statutory Declarations Act. 1835, before the Lord Mayor of London. This declaration authenticated by a certificate of the Lord Mayor under his signature and scal of office was accepted.(2) An application for Letters of Administration with the will annexed was made under a power-of-attorney executed in England. In order to furnish proof of the execution of the power, one of the attesting witnesses made a declaration under the above-mentioned Acts of the facts before a Notary Public who authenticated the declaration by a certificate under his signature and the official seal. It was held that as a certificate of a Notary Public in the Queen's Dominions authenticating a declaration made before him as to the execution of the power would be admissible in England or Ireland in proof of the execution of the power, such a declaration was also admissible for the same purpose under the present section.(3)

fs. 83.1

It is to be noted that the provisions of this section are, as are also those of section 85, post, cumulative (v. ante). Thus in addition to the mode of proof here admitted other methods are, in particular cases, provided for by section 78 ante.

Presumption as to maps or plans made by authority of Gov-

83. The Court shall presume that maps or plans purporting to be made by the authority of Government were so made, and are accurate; but maps or plans made for the purposes of any cause must be proved to be accurate.

Principle.—The presumption in this as in other sections, is based on the maxim omnia rile esse acta; for it will be presumed that Government in the preparation of maps and plans for public purposes will appoint competent officers to execute the work entrusted to them, and that such officers will do their duty. But maps and plans made for the purposes of any cause are not the subject of such a presumption being made post litem motam.

Ser Note, post

```
s. 3 ("Court.") plans made under the authority
s. 4 ("Shall pressure.") of (increment)
```

36 (Relevancy of statements in maps or

Field, Dr., 224-230, 408, 409; Norton, Dr., 200, 201,

COMMENTARY.

Govern ment maps and plans

The map must purport to have been made by the authority of Government, that is, by the Government, as such, for public purposes. Therefore a map prepared by an officer of Government, while in charge of a Khas mehal, Government heing at the time in possession of the mehal merely as a private proprietor, is not a map purporting to have been made under the authority of Government within the meaning of this section, the accuracy of which is to be presumed, but such a map may be evidence under the 15th section of this Act.[4] th tunners Hallick v. threele Vall 5 C.

January 11th, 1895, per houser Alt, J.

287 (1870) ac., 4 C. i. R., 574; Rum Chanler V. Bancedher Nack, 9 C., 731, 731 (1882). Kank P. Panad v. Japot (Banéra, 23 C., 335, 338 (1885). Diamond Chandleria v. Hospo Mohari, 20 C. 191, 199 (1991) in which the map was left to be sufficiently provided by the Computation of the Computation of

In the goods of Hilliam Coraell, declared, Sept. 16th, 1802, per Digot, J.
 In the goods of Hinty Francis, declared,
 May 2nd, 1802, per Sale, J.
 In the goods of Jana Hinds, declared made for the purposes of a suit, there is, even apart from fraud, which may exist, a tendency to colour, exaggerate, and favour which can only be counteracted by swearing the maker to the truth of his plan.(1) The rights of property as between two parties cannot be affected by a map drawn for a totally different purpose, and a purpose totally irrelevant to the subject of the dispute between them.(2)

Presump-tion as to collections of laws and reports of decisions

The Court shall presume the genuineness of every book purporting to be printed or published under the authority of the Government of any country, and to contain any of the laws of that country.

and of every book purporting to contain reports of decisions of the Courts of such country.

Principle.-See Introduction ante, and notes to section 38, ante.

3. 3 (" Court ' )

38 (Relevancy of statements as to any law contained in law-books)

s. 4 (" Shall presume.")

COMMENTARY.

When the Court has to form an opinion as to a law of any country, any Law-books When the Court has to form an opinion as to a law of any country, any and reports statement of such law contained in a book purporting to be printed or published under the authority of the Government of such country and to contain any such law, and any report of a ruling of the Courts of such country contained

> · down a rule uttable, and dispenses with proof of the genuineness of the books of any country contaming laws and rulings. Section 57, first and second clauses, ante, requires Courts to take judicial notice of the existence of all laws and Statutes in British India and in the United Kingdom. Section 74, ante, declares statutory records to be public documents, and section 78, ante, enacts a method of proof in the case of Acts and Statutes.

Presump powers-of

The Court shall presume that every document purporting to be a power-of-attorney, and to have been executed before, and authenticated by, a Notary Public, or any Court, Judge, Magistrate, British Consul or Vice-Consul, or representative of Her Majesty, or of the Government of India, was so executed and authenticated.(4)

Principle.-See Introduction, ante. The fact of execution before, and authentication by, persons of the position and office of those in the section mentioned affords a guarantee and prima facie proof of such execution and authentication respectively.

. 3 (" Court.") s. 4 (" Shall presume.")

s. 57. Cts. (6), (7), (Judicial notice.)

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Fr., 200, 201. (2) John Acer v. Suzzer Mahamed, 2 H. It.

(P. C.), 29 (1964) (3) S. 34, aute ; see aute, notes to that section and Art XVIII of 1875 (Indian Law Reports)

tained a restriction which is not in the propert section, rit, that the power should have been executed at a place distant more than I(0) miles, from the place of production, in order that its evecution and authenticity could be presumed 1882 (Powers-of-attorney); Act XVI of 1908; ps. 32, 33 (Registrac., Cap. 10, s. 6.

COMMENTARY.

attorney is a writing given and made by one person authoriz- powersor. ), in such case, is called the attorney of the person for donee of attorney inting him to do any lawful act in the stead of that person, as debts, to make appearance and applications in Court(1) before ...... or repistration(2) and the like.(3) It may be either general or special to do all acts, or to do some particular act. The nature of this instrument is to give the attorney the full power and authority of the maker to accomplish the acts intended to be performed. Provision is made for these instruments by Act VII of 1882 (Powers-of-attorney), which among other things, enacts that where an instrument creating a power-of-attorney has been duly deposited in a High Court or the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, a certified copy of such instrument shall, without further proof, be sufficient evidence of the contents of the instrument and of the deposit thereof in the High Court. This section enacts a presumption of due execution and authentication in favour of powersof attorney executed before, and authenticated by, the persons therein mentioned. The Court may be required to take judicial notice of the seals, signatures and office of the persons so authenticating the power.(4) A Notary Pub-Bus by the law of nations credit everywhere. (5) There is in India no general law relating to Notaries Public.(6) It has been said that, according to English law, the seal of a foreign or Colonial Notary Public will not generally be judicially noticed, although such a person is an officer recognised by the whole commercial world. (7) Sixth clause of section 57, of this Act, does not, however, draw any such distinction. In order to comply with the provisions of this section, the power-of-attorney must be executed before, and authenticated by

(1) See O. III, r 2, p. 606, Civ Pr. Code.

(2) See as to powers-of attorney executed in favour of persons authorized hereby to present documents for registration, Act XVI of 1903, ss. 32, 33. By the terms of the latter section any power-of-attorney mentioned therein may be proved by the production of it without further proof, when it purports on the face of it to have been executed before, and authenticated by, the person or Court therein before mentioned Except for registration purposes there is no presumption as to the genuineness or otherwise of a registered power-of-attorney, Field, Ev., 400 . and mere registration is not stælf sufficient exidence of its execution: Salimatul-Fatima v. Koylashpoti, 17 C., 903 (1890), dissenting from the report in Kristo Nath v. Brown, 14 C., 176, 180 (1886).

(3) Wharton, Law Lexicon, sub soce See also Belchambers' Practice of the Civil Courts, p. 405. (4) See s. 57, cls. (6) and (7), onte.

(5) Hutcheson v. Mannington, 6 Ves., 823.

(6) But under Act XXVI of 1881 (Negotiable Instruments, s 138), the Governor-General is empowered to appoint any person to be a Notary Public under this Act and to make rules for such Notares Public. See also as. 399, 100-102, 63; under the first of these sections a "Notary Public" is defined to also include any person one of the persons mentioned therein.(8) So on an application for letters of appointed by the Governor-General in Council to perform the functions of a Notary Public under this Act. As to Notarial acts by persons abroad and judicial notice of the seal and signature of such person, see 52 & 53 Vic., Cap. 10, s. 6. Taylor, Ev., 55 1567, 1568.

(7) Taylor, Ev., § 6 and cases there cited which are not uniform But see Armstrong v. Storkham, 24 L. J., Ch., 176, in which a power-ofattorney executed in British Honduras and in the presence of a Notary Public was proved in England under the Chancery Procedure Act, by the production of the Notary's certificate under his hand and official scal. See also Hayward v. Stephene, 36 L. J., Ch., 135. A distinction has, . however, been drawn between foreign Notanes Public in countries not under the King's Donnnions and Notaries Pullic within the King's Dominions. In the former case proof is required in verification of the signature of the Notary Public . Lord Kinnaird v. Lady Solioun, 1 Maddock, 227; Garrey v Hobberd, 1 J & W., 180; 5 D. M. & G., 910 : In re End's Trusts, 4 K. & J . 200 . In r. Dane' Trust, L. R., 8 Eq , 98; Cool r. Biller, L. R., 25 (h. D., 769. In the other case no proof is required See also Nye v. Macdonald, 1., 12., 3 P. C., 231.

(8) In the goods of A. J. Primmer, deceased. 16 C , 776, 779, the judgment in that case says administration to the estate of a deceased who was domiciled in Scotland, and to whose estate one P had been appointed executor dative qua Father, the application being made by one K under a power-of-attorney granted by P, such power not baving been executed and authenticated in the manner prescribed by this section, it was held that the application must be refused.(1) Though the power-of-attorney was not admissible under this section it seems to have been assumed that the provision herein contained is of an exhaustive character and that no other mode of proving the execution of a power is admissible. That assumption is not warranted by the language of the section nor can it have been intended to exclude other legal modes of proving the execution.(2) When a document purporting to be a power-of-attorney and to have been executed before and authenticated by a Notary Public is produced before the Court an affidavit of identification as to the person purporting to make the power being the person named therein is unnecessary.(3) A power-of-attorney executed in England before a Justice of the Peace and authenticated by his signature alone without his official seal was, in the undermentioned case, accepted.(4) The presumption raised by the section is rebuttable.(5)

Presump tion 88 to certified copies of foreign judicial records 86. The Court may presume that any document purporting to be a certified copy of any judicial record of any country not forming part of Her Majesty's dominions is genuine and accurate, it the document purports to be certified in any manner which is certified by any representative of Her Majesty or of the Government of India in or for such country to be the manner commonly in use in that country for the certification of copies of judicial records.

[An officer who, with respect to any territory or place not forming part of Her Majesty's dominions, is a Political Agent therefor, as defined in section 3, clause (40) of the General Clauses Act, 1897 (7), shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed

'executed before or he authenticated by;" the section, however, says "executed before and authenticated by "

(i) B. r. ferming to Jaconymous cove in Vallour, 22 (1837); in the pends of Maponess, Meetin, 370 (1841); i.e., however, observations on this case in note to a. 82, and, the notes of case referred to under a 82, and In in Notes, 21 M, 492 (1888), in which case the powered attempt was not executed in the presence of any of the parons obequated in this section. Then is a clear distinction between the two modes of proof. There-declarations of averation, having taken place were made before. Notation Public in the case of the pseed section that the power must be recentled from and arthentic attell by the Notary Public to be samiselille.

(2) In re Maden, 21 M., 492, 494 (1898), a ante, s. 82

(1) In the guests of Myles, 9 C. W. N., 586 (1985).
 (4) In the guests of Briefin, Nov. 19th, 1887, per Wilson, J. In another case (in the poets of Hometer, June 27th, 1891, per Wilson, J.), a power-of-attorny executed in England in the persone of unofficial withiests, and accompanied to an original letter from the person who executed the power, which letter was proved by the adidiaxi of the applicant, was accepted. But this was appearably under the prosisions of a 82, arte,

(5) See s. 4, ante, "shall presume"

(6) These words in s. 86 were substituted for the original words by Act 111 of 1891, s. 8.

(7) The words in learlest was substituted by
s. 4, Act to 11899, for the words "of the Forego Jurush teim and Extradution Act, 1899, and sextion 180 of the Code of Cruninal Pro-clum, 1882."
According to the General Clause Act, 1897, diterm "Delitral Agent" includes "(a) the principal other representing the Gooremmer in gasterritory or place beyond the limits of British India, and (b) any offer of the Gooremmer in [and, india or of any Leasl Gooremmer appointed by the Gooremmer in India of the Leasl Gooremmer India or the Leasl Gooremmer in India
Folicial Agent to India of the Jean Gooremmer
India or of any Leasl Gooremmer in Comment of Policial Comment of India or for graph of the Folicial Agent of any plet the powers of a Folicial Agent for any place not forming part of the profits of the profits of princip part of graphics for forming part of the profits of the profits of the principal comments of the profits of the principal comments of the profits of the principal comments of the princ

British India under the law for the time being in to be a representative of the Government of India in and for the country comprising that territory or place. \(\mathbb{I}(1)\)

Principle—See Introduction, ante. In addition to the presumption of accuracy, which exists in the case of the certified copy itself, there is an additional guarantee afforded by authenticating certificate.

s. 3 (" Court.")
s. 4 (" May presume.")

*. 78. Ct. (6) (Proof of foreign public documents)

COMMENTARY.

This section says that if a copy of a foreign judicial record purports to Foreign be certified in a given way the Court may presume it to be genuine and Judicial accurate. But it has been recently pointed out by the Fruye Council that though records this be so, the section does not exclude other proof. So to prove that a particular suit was brought in a certain foreign Court between R and C, one B was examined who deposed that in his presence the evidence of C was taken by the Judge and the suit was adjudicated and the order passed. He also put in a document which he swore was a copy of C's deposition and was in the handwriting of one of the officers of the foreign Court. In the same manner he proved the deposition of R in that suit. The High Court rejected this evidence on the ground that it did not comply with the provisions of the present section. But it was held that this section does not exclude other proof than that provided by it. That the statement of B. that R sued C, and that C gave evidence in his presence was primary evidence of those matters. That the depositions of C and R were public documents under section 74, and the proof of those records by B was secondary evidence and as such admissible under sections 65 and 66.(2) Foreign judicial records are provable in this country under the provisions of section 78, clause sixth, ante. The present section enacts a presumption in the case of certified copies of such records when authenticated in the manner mentioned therein. Having regard to the definition of "may presume,"(3) the Court may either regard the genomeness and accuracy of such copies as proved, unless and until it is disproved, or it may call for proof of it. This section is an instance of documents to which section 65. clause (1), refers. (4) And now section 14 of the Civil Procedure Code enacts that "the Court shall presume upon the production of any document purporting to be a certified copy of a foreign judgment, that such judgment was pronounced by a Court of competent jurisdiction unless the contrary appears on the record, but such presumption may be displaced by proving want of jurisdiction.(5)

The substitution in the first clause of this section of the words 'in' and 'for' in place of 'vesident in' 's also the addition of the second clause, (6) were occasioned by the ruling in the case under-mentioned, (7) in which it was held that there was no representative of Her Majesty or of the Government of India testiding in the State of Kuch Behar, and that consequently certified copies of judicial records of that State could not be received in evidence in the Courts of British lindia under the provisions of this section as then framed. In the case cited below(8) a copy was admitted of a judgment of the Court of a French Colony, at which neither Her Majesty nor the Indian Government had a repre-

force relating to foreign jurisdiction and extra dition." As to the position of Political Agents, see Sir William Harcourt's argument in Pamodar

Gordan v Decrem Kanp. I B, 443 (1876)
(1) This para, other than the words added to s. 4. Act V of 1899, was added to s. 86 ty Act III of 189], s 8

(2) Haranund Roy v. Chellangia Eam, 4 C. W.
No. 429 (1899), no. 27 Co. 639; sec u. 65, ante.

<sup>(3) 8 4,</sup> ante

<sup>(4)</sup> Hurish Chunder v. Prosunno Cormar, 22 W. R. 303 (1874)

<sup>(5)</sup> Civil Procedure Code, a 14, p. 99

<sup>(6)</sup> By s. 8 of Act III of 1891.

<sup>(7)</sup> Gance Mahomed v. Tarins Charan, 14 C., 546 (1487).

<sup>(8)</sup> Monemokiney Dossee v. Greenkehunder Bose, 8 Mart. L. J., 14 (1873).

administration to the estate of a deceased who was domiciled in Scotland, and to whose estate one P had been appointed executor dative qua Father, the application being made by one K under a power-of-attorney granted by P, such power not having been executed and authenticated in the manner prescribed by this section, it was held that the application must be refused.(1) Though the power-of-attorney was not admissible under this section it seems to have been assumed that the provision herein contained is of an exhaustive character and that no other mode of proving the execution of a power is admissible. That assumption is not warranted by the language of the section nor can it have been intended to exclude other legal modes of proving the execution.(2) When a document purporting to be a power-of-attorney and to have been executed before and authenticated by a Notary Public is produced before the Court an affidavit of identification as to the person purporting to make the power being the person named therein is unnecessary.(3) A power-of-attorney executed in England before a Justice of the Peace and authenticated by his signature alone without his official seal was, in the undermentioned case, accepted.(4) The presumption raised by the section is rebuttable (5)

Presump tion as to certified copies of foreign judicial records 86. The Court may presume that any document purporting to be a certified copy of any judicial record of any country not forming part of Her Majesty's dominions is genuine and aç , curate, if the document purports to be certified in any manner which is certified by any representative of Her Majesty or of the Government of India in or for such country to be the manner commonly in use in that country for the certification of copies of indicial records.

[An officer who, with respect to any territory or place not forming part of Her Majesty's dominions, is a Political Agent therefor, as defined in section 3, clause (40) of the General Clauses Act, 1897 (7), shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed

&quot;executed before or be authenticated by;" the section, however, says "executed before and authenticated by."

<sup>(1)</sup> B., referring to Anonymous core in Fallow, 22 (1872); in the goods of Margemen, Merton, 570 (1811); i.e., however, observations on this seas in motes to 8.8, after, the moter of case instructed to under a, 8.2, and fur is Yadon, 21 4, 402 (1884), in which, less the power-of attoring was not assented in the presence of any of the parameter observated in the section. Then is a clear distinction between the two modes of proof. There-observed in the section of their is a present action between the distinction of their interest and arbitration of a version having their place were made before Natura Public; in the case of the present section the power most be extended from an arbitration and the present action between the extended force and arbitration and the present section between the extended force and arbitration and the section of the section of the extended force and arbitration and the section of the extended force and arbitration and the section of the extended force and arbitration of the section of the extended force and arbitration of the section of the sec

<sup>(2)</sup> In re Males, 21 M., 492, 494 (1898), v. aute, v. 82.

In the resolated Mylas, 9 C. W. N., 986 (1985).
 In the proofs of Britin, Nov. 10th, 1889, per Wilson, J. In another case (in the roots of Romfers, June 17th, 1891, per Wilson, J., a power-of-attorney executed in England in the piece need outside with sees, and accompanied by an original letter from the person who executed the power, which letter was proved by the andate of the applicant, was accepted. But this was apparently under the provisions of s. 82, ante-(5) New A. ant., "Mall pressure,"

<sup>(6)</sup> These words in a 86 were substituted for the original words by Act III of 1891, a, 8, (f) The words in brackets was substituted in s. 4, Act Vol 19%, for the words, "of the Foreign Jurasheton and Patrathion Act, 1879, and section 190 of the Code of Cuimmal Procedure, 1887. According to the General Clause, Act, 1977, the term "Dalities Agent" includes "vi) the periodic officer representing the Government in any territory or plane beyond the funits of Partial Index, and (f) any officer of the Government of Indias or it any Level Government asymmetry the the Government of Indias or the Local Government to extreme all or any of the powers of a Dalitical Agent for any place not forming part of Partial India most the active and the the law for the time being in

to be a representative of the Government of India in and for the country comprising that territory or place.](1)

Principle.—See Introduction, ante. In addition to the presumption of accuracy, which exists in the case of the certified copy itself, there is an additional guarantee afforded by authenticating certificate.

- s. 3 (" Court.")
  - s. 78, Ci. (6) (Proof of foreign public docu-4 (" May presume,") ments.)

COMMENTARY.

This section says that if a copy of a foreign judicial record purports to Foreign be certified in a given way the Court may presume it to be genuine and production accurate. But it has been recently pointed out by the Privy Council that though records this be so, the section does not exclude other proof. So to prove that a particular suit was brought in a certain foreign Court between R and C, one B was examined who deposed that in his presence the evidence of C was taken by the Judge and the suit was adjudicated and the order passed. He also put in a document which he swore was a copy of C's deposition and was in the handwriting of one of the officers of the foreign Court. In the same manner he proved the deposition of R in that suit. The High Court rejected this evidence on the ground that it did not comply with the provisions of the present section. But it was held that this section does not exclude other proof than that provided by it. That the statement of B, that R sued C, and that C gave evidence in his presence was primary evidence of those matters. That the depositions of C and R were public documents under section 74, and the proof of those recordby B was secondary evidence and as such admissible under sections 65 and 66 (2) Foreign judicial records are provable in this country under the provisions of section 78, clause sixth, ante. The present section enacts a presumption in the case of certified copies of such records when authenticated in the manner mentioned therein. Having regard to the definition of "may presume,"(3) the Court may either regard the genomeness and accuracy of such copies as proved, unless and until it is disproved, or it may call for proof of it. This section is an instance of documents to which section 65, clause (f), refers (4) And now section 14 of the Civil Procedure Code exacts that "the Court shall presume upon the production of any document purporting to be a certified copy of a foreign judgment, that such judgment was pronounced by a Court of competent jurisdiction unless the contrary appears on the record. but such presumption may be displaced by proving want of jurisdiction.(5)

'for' in place of "resident in," occasioned by the ruling in the that there was no representative . residing in the State of Kuch Behar, and that consequently certified copies of judicial records of that State could not be received in evidence in the Courts of British India under the provisions of this section as then framed. In the case cited below(8) a copy was admitted of a judgment of the Court of a French Colony, at which neither Her Majesty nor the Indian Government had a repre-

The substitution in the first clause of this section of the words 'in' and force relating to forcing puradiction and extra dition." As to the position of Political Agents, are Sir William Harcourt's argument in Damodor

Gordhan v. Inoram Kunji, 1 B , 443 (1876). (1) This para, other than the words added by s. 4, Act V of 1899, was added to s. 86 by Act III

<sup>(2)</sup> Horazund Rry v. Chellangia Eam, 4 C. W. No. 429 (1899), a.c., 27 Co., 639; sec 8, 65, ante.

<sup>(3) 8 4,</sup> ante.

<sup>(4)</sup> Hurish Chunder . Procunno Cormer, 22

W R., 303 (1874) (5) Civil Procedure Code, # 14, p. 99

<sup>(6)</sup> By s. 8 of Act III of 1891.

<sup>(7)</sup> Gance Mahomed v. Tarini Charan, 14 C., 546 (1487)-

<sup>(8)</sup> Monemokiney Dossee v. Greenkehunder Bose, 8 Mail. 1. J., 14 (1873).

sentative, on the testimony of a witness who was acquainted with the handwriting of the Registrar of such Court, and who swore that such Registrar was the keeper of the Court's records and had duly signed and sealed the document.

Presump-

· 87. The Court may presume that any book to which it books, maps may refer for information on matters of public or general interest, and that any published map or chart, the statements of which are relevant facts, and which is produced for its inspection, was written and published by the person, and at the time and place, by whom or at which it purports to have been written or published.

Principle -See Introduction and Notes to sections, 36, 57, unte.

s. 3 (" Court.")

s. 4 (" Man presume.")

s. 3 (" Relevant.") 57 (Documents of reference.)

4. 3 (" Fact.")

s. 36 (Relevancy of statements in maps, charts and plans.)

83 (Maps or plans made by the authority of Government.)

90 (Maps or plans 30 years old.)

COMMENTARY.

In all the cases when the Court is called upon to take judicial notice of a fact and also in all matters of public history, science or art, the Court may resort for its aid to appropriate books or documents of reference.(1) The Court under this section may presume(2) that such books were written and published by the person, and at the time and place by whom, or at which, they purport to have been written or published. Further, statements of facts in issue or relevant facts made in published maps or charts generally offered for public sale, or in maps or plans, made under the authority of Government, as to matters usually represented or stated in such maps, charts, or plans are themselves relevant facts (3) Under this section the Court may presume(4) that any published map or chart was written and published by the person and at the time and place by whom, or at which, it purports to have been written or published. The section raises no presumption of accuracy. but this might, if the case were a proper one, be presumed under the general provisions contained in section 114, post. In the case, however, of maps and plans purporting to be made by the authority of Government, the Court must presume that they were so made and that they are accurate; but maps of plans made for the purposes of any cause, that is, maps specially prepared for that purpose and with a view of their use in evidence must be proved to be accurate (5) In the case of any map 30 years old the Court may presume that the signature and every other part of it which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person is in that person's bandwriting (6)

Presump-tion as to telegraphic messages.

The Court may presume that a message, forwarded from a telegraph office to the person to whom such message purports to be addressed, corresponds with a message delivered for transmission at the office from which the message purports to be

(4) Arr s. 4, autr.

<sup>.11</sup> for a. 57, penultunate clause, and unit. notes on that clause.

<sup>(2)</sup> See a. 4, ante.

<sup>(1)</sup> E. 36, aufe , see notes on that section, aufe-

<sup>(5)</sup> S. 83, ante.

<sup>(6) 5. (0);</sup> see s. 3, ante, ilbut. A, map or plan is a "decument."

sent; but the Court shall not make any presumption as to the person by whom such message was delivered for transmission.

Principle.—Sec Introduction, and Notes, post.

s. 3 (" Court.")

s. 15 (Course of Business.)

4 (May presume.")

s. 114 ILLUST. (f) (General presumptions.)

Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 43; Wharton, Ev., §§ 76, 1323, 1329; Wood's Practice, Ev., 2. A treatise on communication by Telegraph by Morris Gray (Boston), 1885. Chapters X-XII.

COMMENTARY.

If a telegraphic message is forwarded, that is, delivered by the office to the Telegraph person to whom such message purports to be addressed, the Court may make the presumption mentioned. The section itself therefore does not, in the first message was sent over the wires addressed to a particular person at a particular place, he being shown to be at the time resident at such a place, may present a prima facie case of the reception of such telegram by the sender. (3) Such a presumption may be raised under section 114, post [see Illustration (f)], and where there is a question whether a particular act was done, the existence of any course of business, according to which it would naturally have been done. is a relevant fact and may be proved.(4) But the sending of a telegram addressed to a person at a given place and the receipt of an answer purpoiting to be from him in due course are not admissible to prove that he was in the place at the time in question.(5) Though, if it were shown that he was in the place at the time in question, the receipt of an answer would be evidence of the delivery of the message. (6) The presumptions raised by this section are of a twofold character; firstly, a presumption of conduct that the due course of business has been followed (omnia rile esse acta), viz., that the officials of the telegraph office have forwarded a message which is in the same terms as that which they bave received for transmission, secondly, a presumption based upon an experience of a physical law, viz., that the message as sent by wire from the office of transmission corresponds with that which has been received at the office of despatch. The Court shall not, however, make any presumption as to the person by whom such message was delivered for transmission. (7) Presumably this refers to the entries on telegrams indicating the persons by whom they are sent. It is obvious that there is no guarantee that the person named in the telegram as the sender thereof was in fact the actual sender. As to the proof of the contents of telegrams, see section 91, post.

89. The Court shall presume that every document, Presump-called for and not produced after notice to produce was supersecu-

43; Wherton, Ev., § 1323

<sup>(1)</sup> See Brussk and American Telegraph Co. 1 (5) Wharton, Ev . § 76. The rule with regard not produc-Colson, L. R., 6 Ex , 122 per Bramwell, B , Stocles to replies by telegram appears to stand on a v. Collin, 7 M. & W. 515, Roscor, N. P. E. different footing from that relating to kitters, are Wood's Practice, Ev., 2, Ev., 2, note (3).

<sup>(2)</sup> Roscoe, N. P Ev., 43 (6) Se st. § 1328. (3) Wharton, Et., § 76, and see $5, §§ 1323.

<sup>(7)</sup> S 88, See, as to mode of proof of telegrams, Burr. Jones, Ev., § 209.

<sup>1329.</sup> (4) S. 16, see notes to that section.

sentative, on the testimony of a witness who was acquainted with the handwriting of the Registrar of such Court, and who swore that such Registrar was the keeper of the Court's records and had duly signed and sealed the document

Presump. 187. The Court may presume that any book to which it tion as to books, maps may refer for information on matters of public or general inand charts torest, and that any published map or chart, the statements of which are relevant facts, and which is produced for its inspection, was written and published by the person, and at the time and place, by whom or at which it purports to have been written or published.

Principle -See Introduction and Notes to sections, 36, 57, ante.

- s. 3 (" Court.")
- s. 4 (" May presume.")
- s. 3 (" Relevant.")
- s. 3 (" Fact.")
- n. 57 (Documents of reference.)
- s. 36 (Relevancy of statements in maps, charts and plans.)
  - 83 (Maps or plans made by the authority of Government.)
- s. 90 (Maps or plans 30 years old.)

COMMENTARY.

Books; Maps; Charts

In all the cases when the Court is called upon to take judicial notice of a fact and also in all matters of public history, science or art, the Court may resort for its aid to appropriate books or documents of reference.(1) The Court under this section may presume(2) that such books were written and published by the person, and at the time and place by whom, or at which, they purport to have been written or published. Further, statements of facts in issue or relevant facts made in published maps or charts generally offered for public sale, or in maps or plans, made under the authority of Government, as to matters usually represented or stated in such maps, charts, or plans are themselves relevant facts (3) Under this section the Court may presume(4) that any published map or chart was written and published by the person and at the time and place by whom, or at which, it purports to have been written or published. The section raises no presumption of accuracy, but this might, if the case were a proper one, be presumed under the general provisions contained in section 114, post. In the case, however, of maps and plans purporting to be made by the authority of Government, the Court must presume that they were so made and that they are accurate: but maps or plans made for the purposes of any cause, that is, maps specially prepared for that purpose and with a view of their use in evidence must be proved to be accurate. (5) In the case of any map 30 years old the Court may presume that the signature and every other part of it which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person is in that person's handwriting (6)

Presumption as to telegraphic messages 88. The Court may presume that a message, forwarded from a telegraph office to the person to whom such message purports to be addressed, corresponds with a message delivered for transmission at the office from which the message purports to be notes on that clause. (5) % 83, ante. (5) % 84, ante. (6) % 90; see a.

<sup>(1)</sup> See 8. 57, penultunate clause, and unic,

<sup>(2)</sup> See a. 4, ante. (6) 1, (3) 5. 36, ante, see notes on that section, ante. is a "

<sup>(6)</sup> b. 90; ore u. 3, ante, ilhist. A, map or plan

<sup>(4)</sup> Are s 4, unie.
(5) > 83, unie.
(6) h. 90; are s. 2
10 a "document."

sent; but the Court shall not make any presumption as to the person by whom such message was delivered for transmission.

Principle.—See Introduction, and Notes, post.

s. 3 (" Court.")

- 15 (Course of Business )
- «. 4 (May presume.")

- s. 114 Illust. (f) (General presumptions.)
- Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 43; Wharton, Ev., §§ 76, 1323, 1329; Wood's Practice, Ev., 2. A treatise on communication by Telegraph by Morris Gray (Boston), 1885, Chapters X-XII.

COMMENTARY.

If a telegraphic message is forwarded, that is, delivered by the office to the Telegraphic messages. person to whom such message purports to be addressed, the Court may make the presumption mentioned. The section itself therefore does not, in the first message was sent over the wires addressed to a particular person at a particular place, he being shown to be at the time resident at such a place, may present a prima facie case of the reception of such telegram by the sender.(3) Such a presumption may be raised under section 114, post [see Illustration (f)], and where there is a question whether a particular act was done, the existence of any course of business, according to which it would naturally have been done, is a relevant fact and may be proved.(4) But the sending of a telegram addressed to a person at a given place and the receipt of an answer purposting to be from him in due course are not admissible to prove that he was in the place at the time in question.(5) Though, if it were shown that he was in the place at the time in question, the receipt of an answer would be evidence of the delivery of the message. (6) The presumptions raised by this section are of a twofold character, firstly, a presumption of conduct that the due course of business has been followed (omnia rite esse acta), viz., that the officials of the telegraph office have forwarded a message which is in the same terms as that which they have received for transmission; secondly, a presumption based upon an experience of a physical law, viz., that the message as sent by wire from the office of transmission corresponds with that which has been received at the office of despatch. The Court shall not, however, make any presumption as to the person by whom such message was delivered for transmission.(7) Presumably this refers to the entries on telegrams indicating the persons by whom they are sent. It is obvious that there is no guarantee that the person named in the telegram as the sender thereof was in fact the actual sender. As to the proof of the contents of telegrams, see section 91, post.

89. The Court shall presume that every document, Presump called for and not produced after notice to produce was due execu tion, &c . of ...

<sup>(1)</sup> See British and American Telegraph Co. v Colson, L. R , 6 Ex , 122 per Bramwell, B , Stocles v. Cellin, 7 M. & W. 515; Roscov, N. P Ev. 43; Wharton, Ev., § 1323

<sup>(2)</sup> Roscoe, N. P Ev., 43

<sup>(3)</sup> Wharton, Ev., § 76, and see st., §§ 1323. 1329. (4) S. 16, ore notes to that section.

<sup>(5)</sup> Wharton, Ev , § 76 The rule with regard not producto replies by telegram appears to stand on a different footing from that relating to kitters, see Wood a Practice, Ev., 2, Ev., 2, note (3). (6) See 15 . § 1328.

<sup>(7)</sup> S 88, See, as to mode of proof of telegrams, Burr. Jones, Ev., § 209.

attested, stamped and executed in the manner required by law.

Principle.-See Notes, post.

<. 3 (" Court ")

sc. 68-72 (Attestation.)

s. 4 ("Shall presume")

 164 (Using documents, production of which was refused on notice.)

Steph. Dig , Art. 86; Norton, Ev., 265; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1171, 1847, 148.

COMMENTARY.

Presump tion as to due execution, &c., of documents not produced

There is here not only a presumption in favour of innocence, whence it may be assumed that everything has been done which the law required, but a presumption which is, or is in the nature of, that which is raised contra spoliatorem from the non-production of the document.(1) As against the party refusing or neglecting to produce it on notice, there is a presumption that it has been properly stamped,(2) attested,(3) and executed Evidence to the contrary that the document was not properly stamped, attested or executed may be given. So it was held that if secondary evidence be tendered to prove the contents of an instrument either lost or detained by the opposite party after notice to produce,(4) it will be presumed that the original was duly stamped, unless some evidence to the contrary, as for example that it was unstamped when last seen,(5) can be given (6) But this power of giving rebutting evidence is subject to the rule enacted by section 161, post, namely, that, when a party refuses to produce a document which he has had notice to produce, he cannot afterwards use the document as evidence without the consent of the other party or the order of the Court. Thus A sues B on an agreement, and gives B notice to produce it. At the trial A calls for the document, and B refuses to produce - , , ... 's to produce the docu-

s to produce the docu-A, or in order to show As already observed.

stamped unless and until evidence to the contrary is given (e) Under this Act also in the case of documents not coming within the terms of this section, either by reason of notice not being necessary, or the document having been lost or the like, the Court has power in a proper case to make a similar presumption under the provisions of section 114, post.(9)

Presump tion as to documents thirty years old

90. Where any document, purporting(10) or proved to be thirty years old, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the signature and every other part of such document, which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Lv., 265.

<sup>(2)</sup> Hart v. Hart, I Hare, I ; Taylor, Ev., § 117. (3) Taylor, Fv., § 1847 : in this case a party who is driven to give secondary evidence of the contents of the document need not call an attesting witness.

<sup>(4)</sup> See m. 65, cl. (a), 66, ante.

<sup>(5)</sup> Marine Incodment Co. v. Harlode, L. R., 3 H L., 621.

<sup>3</sup> H L., 621.
(n) Tarlor, Fr., 1 148, and cases there cited:

Steph. Dig , Art. 80.

<sup>(7)</sup> S 164, post, Illust. (8) Taylor, Er., § 146.

<sup>(9)</sup> In Markby, Er., 67, 68, the quanton is experienced that the section is restricted to cause where a notice to produce is delivered to the adverse party, and that it does not extend to cause where a summons to produce is delivered to a stranger to the suit.

<sup>(10)</sup> That is "status itself to be," it., 68,

person, is in that person's handwriting, and, in the case of a document executed or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested.

Explanation.—Documents are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which and under the care of the person with whom, they would naturally be; but no custody is improper if it is proved to have a legitimate origin, (1) or if the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable.

This explanation applies also to section 81.

Illustrations.

- (a) A has been in possession of landed property for a long time. He produces from his custody deeds relating to the land, showing his titles to it. The custody is proper-
- (b) A produces deeds relating to landed property of which he is the mortgagee. The mortgagor is in possession. The custody is proper.

(c) A, a connection of B, produces deeds relating to lands in B's possession which were deposited with him by B for safe custody. The custody is proper.

Principle —The ground of the rule is the great difficulty, indeed in many cases the impossibility of proving the handwriting, execution and attestation of documents in the ordinary way after the lapse of many years, as also the presumption that the attesting witnesses, if any, are dead (2) Proof of custody is required as a condition of admissibility to afford the Court reasonable assurance of the genumeness of the document as being what it purports to be.(3) See also Note, post.

s. 3 ("Document.")

ss. 67, 45, 47, 73 (Proof of signature and handwriting.)

s. 3 (" Proved.")
s. 3 (" Court.")

ss. 68-72 (Attestation of documents.)

s. 4 (" May presume.")

Steph. Dig., Art. 88; Taylor, Ev., §§ 87, 88, 658—667, Stark., Ev., 291—293, 521—524; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 102, 103; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 467—469; Powell, Ev., 186—192; Will, Ev., 268—271.

COMMENTARY.

attestation (5) This presumption is not affected by proof that the witnesses

This section in no way touches the question of the relevancy of a docu-Ancient men, but deals only with the amount of credit which is to be attached to cer-documents tain documents whose age and custody raises a presumption of genumeness. It does away ordinarily with the necessity of proving those documents.(4) For documents thirty years old are said to prove themselves, that is, no witnesses need, unless the Court so requires, be called to prove their execution or

(1) See Sharfudin v. Gorand, 27 B., 452, 462 (1902), a c., subroc Tajudin v Gorand, 5 Bom. L. R., 144.

Wyzne v. Tyruchitt, 4 B. & Ad., 376. Taylor, Ev., §§ 88, 1874. Andrews v. Mottey, 32 L. J.,
 C. P., 128, 131; Dec v. Wolley, 8 B. & C., Doe v. Phillips, 8 Q. B., 158; Bidder v.

(3) Doe v. Phillips, S Q. B. Bredges, 34 W. R. (Eng.), 514. (4) Farrar Micholas v. Aspher, Suit 775 of 1894 (Calcutta High Court), per Ameer Ah, J. (5) Norton, Ev., 266; see McMannel Fedys v. Oceocoddees, 10 W. R., 340 (1868). [When a document is 30 years old it is not necessary to produce the subscribing witnesses to it]; Taylor, Ev., § 1845 A. See, however, as to firmans of the Kings of Delhi, or sunnuds, are living, and, it seems, even actually in Court; nor in the case of wills, by showing that the testator died within the thirty years.(1) The presumption applies in the case of any document, deeds, wills, letters, entries, receipts and the like (2) The presumption enacted by this section is often treated as a part of the subject of ancient possession as to which, see notes to the seventh clause of section 32, ante. But the presumption is applicable whether the document be tendered in support of ancient possession or of any other fact. With regard to the exception to the hearsay rule in favour of ancient documents(3) when tendered in support of ancient possession it has been said; are often the only attainable evidence of ancient possession, and, therefore, the law yielding to necessity allows them to be used on behalf of persons claiming under them, and against persons in no way privy to them, provided that they are not mere narratives of past events, but purport to have formed a part of the act of ownership, exercise of right, or other transaction to which they relate. This species of proof demands careful scrutiny, for, first, its effect is to benefit those from whose custody they have been produced, and who are connected in interest with the original parties to the documents, and next the documents are not proved, but are only presumed to have constituted part of the res gester.

of rare occurre

ger of admitting these documents is, consequently, less than might be supposed. It is more expedient to run some risk of occasional deception than to permit injustice to be done by strict exclusion of what, in many cases, would turn out to be highly material evidence."(4) But this rule of presumption which, it has been said, should even in England be carefully exercised, must be applied with exceeding caution in this country where forgery and fraud cannot be said to be of rare occurrence, and where, therefore, this reason for the rule has not the sed to have in England. Here, theredocuments which are unsupported by he suspicion of being fabricated, since supported is of very little weight. (3)

Should the genumeness of the document be for any reason doubtful, it is perfectly open to the Court or Jury to reject it, however ancient it may be. Even if proper custody be also shown, the Court has still power to reject the document if it is of opinion that it is a fabrication (6). The section only says that the Court may raise the presumptions mentioned in it, not that it must do so, and experience shows that "may presume" in such instances ought generally to be constructed in the more rigorous of the senses allowed by the fourth section.

pursannaha or other grants of any vursa or of any potentiates or persons formerly exercising authority in territory now under the Leutenant-Governor of Bengal, Rev. 11 of 1819, s. 2. A. ot to the behalad Datricts, see Reg. 111 of 1872; Reg. 111 of 1860, s. 2; Gautte p. 11alo, Part I, Lith March 1881, p. 74, and 22nd Ordore 1881, pp. 307-301; Culcula Gautte, Part I, A. yeth March 1881, p. 74; 2nd November 1881, pp. 102, 194, 195.

- (1) Taylor, Ev., § 87.
- (2) 16 , 1 88, see a. 3, aute, definition of docu-
- (3) Though ancent documents are usually speken of as hearsay evidence of ancent possession, yet they seem rather to be parts of the ere grats, and therefore admissible as original evidence.

- (4) Taylor, Ev., § 658; Best, Ev., § 499
- (6) Trailerlyn Nath 1, Naura Changoni, 11 C., 529, 541, 542 (1875), ner Gath, C. J. Alexamut Phod v. Imar Saran, 18 W. R. 483, 493 (1872), per Comb, C. J. I. Arconlingly it was allowed to prevail in the case in which there was nother evidence inconsistent with the tuthe documents professed to create, Field, Er., 412, 1842 (Nath Nath 1, Leikh Majal, 9 C. L. 10, 142, 420; per Field, J. Shath Hawata 1, Gourandandar Paramandanda, 20 B. J. 5, 6 (1893); I' We are fully aware of the danger of treating old documents a created handow branchands.

(6) Gereco Pershad v. Bykunto Chunder, 8 W. R., 82 (1866); Upprahant Choudkey v. Hurra Chunder, 6 C., 200 (1880).

of this Act.(1) And in the undermentioned case it was held that when a document which is over thirty years old has been tendered under this section, it is for the Court to determine (which is a matter for judicial discretion) whether it will make the presumption mentioned in this section, or call upon the party to offer proof of the document, stating its reason in the latter event, and in the former whether the presumption has been rebutted or not.(2) Where a document more than 30 years old purporting to come from proper custody, is required by the Court before which it is produced to be proved and is left unproved : and there are circumstances, both external and internal, which throw great doubts upon the genuineness of the document, the Court can, in the exercise of the discretion vested in it under s. 90, decline to admit it in evidence without formal proof, and their Lordships of the Frivy Council will be always slow to overrule the discretion exercised by a Judge under s 90 (3) The rule of law which requires the party tendering in evidence an altered instrument to explain its appearance does not apply to letters and ancient documents coming from the right custody merely because they are in a mutilated or imperfect state.(4)

The presumptions raised by the section are confined to handwriting, execution and attestation; so where a document more than thirty years old purports to be signed by an agent on behalf of a principal, no presumption arises as to the agent's authority which must be proved (5) Where an old deed purported to be an appointment under a special power and to be executed by the attorney of the donee of the power, the Court presumed only the execution of the deed, but not in the absence of the power or evidence thereof, the authority of the solicitor to execute it (6)

The use by the Legislature of the words " when any document is produced" Secondary does not limit the operation of the section to cases in which the document is evidence. actually produced in Court, and, consequently, secondary evidence of an ancient document is admissible without proof of execution of the original when the document is shown to have been lost and to have been heard of last in proper custody.(7)

The Madras High Court, observed with reference to a document of which secondary evidence had been permitted to be given, (8) but in respect of which there was no evidence of execution :- "It is not necessary to consider whether we should be prepared to follow the decision in Khetter Chunder Mookerjee v. Khetter Paul Śreefeerutno,(9) if it had been shown, as it was in that case, that i' eason of its having been the original document, lost.

which f the Zamorin, could not have been produced if proper steps to procure its production had been taken, and it, therefore, refused to raise the presumption mentioned in this section, though the original document of which a copy was admitted purported to be more than thirty years old

It is to be noted with respect to this case that though the grounds of admissibility are not stated, secondary evidence was permitted to be given, and

- (1) Timangarda v. Rangangarda, 11 B , 94, 98 (1878) cf. s 4, antr. (2) Sernath Patra v. Auloda Prosad Banerjee,
- 2 C. L. J , 592. (3) Museumat Shafiq-un-noses v Shaban Ali, 6 Bom. L. R , 750 (1904), s c , 26 A , 581 , 9 C.
- W. N., 103. (4) Taylor, Ev. § 1838. As to the effect of the alteration of a document in a material particular, see Mangal Sen v Shantar Shahas, 25 4, 590 (1903).

- (5) Utilack Ras v Dallsal Ras, 3 C , 557 (1878) Thabor Pershad . Mussammut Eush.
- mutty, 24 W. R. 428 (1875), Eggrakant Chowdhry v. Hurro Chunder, 6 C., 209 (1880)
- (6) Re Asrey, 1 (h , 164 (1897)
- (7) Ahetter Chunder v Ahetter Paul, 5 C., 886 (1981), followed in Islet Pracad v Lalli Jas.
- (8) Appathers Pather v Gopela Pantiber, 25 M., 674 (1901).
  - (9) 5 C., 686 (1880).

22 A., 204 (1900)

that though the original document in the Calcutta case was in fact lost, there is nothing in that decision which limits the applicability of this section to one only of the cases in which secondary evidence is allowed, viz, loss of the original.

"Thirty

The period of thirty years is to be reckoned not from the date on which the document is filed in Court, but from the date on which, it having been tendered in evidence, its genuineness or otherwise becomes the subject of proof.(1) It is not until the case comes on for hearing and the party producing the document is called upon to prove it, that the Court, after being satisfied that it comes from proper custody, can be asked to make the presumptions allowed by this section (2) orroboration.

Ancient documents are admissible under this section without proof of any acts, transactions or state of affairs necessarily, properly, or naturally referrible to them. Inconsiderable (if any), reeight, however, will be attached to documents, which, though ancient, are not corroborated by evidence of ancient or modern enjoyment or by other equivalent or explanatory proof.(3)

The value of ancient documents as evidence when admitted must depend in each case upon the corroboration derivable from external circumstances. In order to form an estimate of their value the following considerations have usually been regarded as important: have they been produced on those previous occasions on which they would have been naturally produced, if in existence at the time :(4) have any acts been done under them; has there been ancient or modern corresponding enjoyment.(5)

It is not sufficient that a document on the face of it purports to be more than thirty years old. In order to prove its authenticity a party must adduce evidence of the custody of the document, and ought (in order to give weight to it) to adduce such evidence of possession or other evidence of a like corroborative nature as he is able.(6) The degree of credit to be given to an ancient document depends chiefly on the proof of transactions or state of affairs necessarily. or at least properly, or naturally referrible to it.(7) In the undermentioned case, the Court observed that documents relating to land produced by a person out of possession, without proof of any act done in connection with them, with the object of reducing the possession actually enjoyed by another to a limited or temporary interest, may be admissible as being produced from proper custody, but would generally have almost no weight in this country as a ground of inference.(8)

Custody.

This condition of admissibility must generally be proved by some other Where a party offers documents of such an age as to be incapable nce he is bound to prove their custody.(9)

Marquis of Winchester.(10) The observations of Tindal, C. J., in that case the Court to decide what is " proper custody, ie Explanation given of the section which itself follows the rule of English law laid down in the case of the Bishop of Meath v.

(1) Mone Sirlar v Rheley Nath, 5 C. L. R., 135 (1879).

(2) Field, Ev., 415. (3) Taylor, Er., [1 665, 646, Fiell, Et , 413. Markby, Ev., 64, 69; Bestuat Noth v. Lulhun Markf. 9 C. L. R., 425, 429 (1881); Anuad Chunder v. Martis Keelee, 21 W. R., 130 (1874); Grant v. Evinath Tescarer, 21 W. B., 279 (1874). Seerbant Ekuttacharpee v. Raj Aarann, 10 W. R. 1 (1868): Eicheskur Ekuttacharges v. Lamb, 21 W. R., 22 (1873); Temangards v. Eungangards, 11 P., 94, 98, 102 (1877); Hart Chintaman v. Moro Intelment, 11 B . 89 (1846)

(4) Nowe evidence may be required to be given of the early existence and publicity of the document : Allurka v. Lashee Chunder, 1 W. R., 131 (1864).

(5) Bealunt Nath v Lukhun Majki, supra. (6) Grant v Barjanth Tennere, 21 W. B. 27,

(1874); Sreekant fibuttachargee v. Ray Narain, 10 W. R., 1 (1808). (7) Hars Chintoman v. Moro Lakshman, 11 B.,

89 (1896) (8) Timangarda v. Rangunjarda, 11 B. 94,

69, 99 (1877), per West, J. (9) Gour Paroy v. Basma Soundages, 12 W. B., 472 (1869).

(10) 3 Bing, N. C., 183, 200, 10 Bligh, 462.

have been adopted as applicable to cases coming within this section.(1) In that case Tindal, C. J.; in speaking of documents found in a place in which, and under the care of persons with whom such papers might naturally and reasonably be expected to be found, says, "and this is precisely the custody which gives authenticity to documents found within it, for it is not necessary that they should be found in the best and most proper place of deposit (2) If documents continue in such custody there never would be any question as to their authenticity, but it is when documents are found in other than their proper place of deposit, that the investigation commences whether it was reasonable and natural, under the circumstances in the particular case, to expect that they should have been in the place where they are actually found, for it is obvious that, while there can be only one place of deposit strictly and absolutely proper, there may be various and many that are reasonable and probable, though differing in degree, some being more so, some less, and in those cases the proposition to be determined is, whether the actual custody is so reasonably and probably to be accounted for, that it impresses the mind with the conviction that the instrument found in such custody must be genuine. That such is the character and description of the custody, which is held sufficiently genuine to render a document admissible, appears from all cases." Many decisions have been given both in England(3) and in India(4) as to the conditions which constitute proper custody, but each case must depend upon its own particular circumstances, it being impossible to lay down any rule which shall apply to all (5) Thus in a suit to eject a tenant who had been in possession of a small homestead for forty years, the tenant produced a pottah purporting to be sixty years old granted to her father who had held possession under it, for twenty years until his death. It appeared that her father had left an infant grandson who was his sole heir, but who had never either before or after attaining his majority made any claim to the property. The Court held that her custody of the pottah was a natural and proper one within the meaning of this section.(6) property had been in the possession of the plaintiff's father, and documents relating to the property were found among the papers of a deceased gomastah, who had been in the father's employ and had managed the property for the plaintiff during his majority, this was held to be a proper custody.(7) And although a person appointed manager of the property of an insane person by the Court proprietor, not make section (8) The mere fact that an ancient document is produced from the records of a Court does not raise any presumption that it was filed for a proper purpose, and that, consequently, the Court's custody was a proper custody. The document must be shown to have been so filed in order to the adjudication of some question of which that Court had cognizance and which had actually come under its cognizance (9) In the undermentioned case, the Privy Council observed as follows: "With reference to the argument as to the evidence in support of the bond, and particularly with respect to the custody of the bond, it is in their Lordship's opinion sufficient to state that the bond was produced in the usual manner by the persons who claimed title under the provisions of it, Trailotia Nath v. Shurno Chungoni, 11 C., 539, 542 (1885).

<sup>(2)</sup> Followed in Sharfudin v. Gorand, 27 B, 452, 462 (1902); s. c., sub. voc. Tajudin v. Gorand, 5 Bom. L. R., 144.

<sup>(3)</sup> See Taylor, Ev., $$ 600 - 664; Phipson, Ev.

<sup>3</sup>rd Ed., 467-469.

(t) v. pust. (5) Norton, Ev. 267.

<sup>(6)</sup> Trailokia Nath v. Shurno Chungoni, 11 C., 539 (1885)

<sup>(7)</sup> Hari Chintaman v. Moro Lakshman, 11 B., 89 (1886).

<sup>(8)</sup> Shyama Charan Nundy v. Alhiram Goswami, 3 C. L. J., 206, 10 C. W. N., 738, 33 C., 511. (9) Gudfadhur Paul v. Ehyrub Chunder, 5 C., 918 (1889).

<sup>918 (18</sup>

and who therefore were entitled to the possession of it; so that the bond must be held to have come from the proper custody."(1)

No custody is improper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or if the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable. This provision is applicable to those cases in which the custody is not, perhaps, that where it might be most reasonably expected, but is yet sufficiently reasonable to constitute such custody not improper. Thus in the two first Illustrations to the section the documents are produced from their natural place of custody; in the third Illustration the documents ordinarily would be with the owner B: but under the circumstances 4.1's custody is proper.(2)

In the undermentioned case(3) Batty, J., was of opinion that the section read with the explanation seemed to insist only on a satisfactory account of the origin of the custody and not in the history of its continuance: and that possibly the origin of the custody was alone regarded as material because it is intelligible that ancient documents may be overlooked and left undisturbed not-withstanding a transfer of old, or creation of new interests.

R . 144.

<sup>(1)</sup> Prenji Gaya v Goldshin Goldshin, 2 B. L. R., P. C., 85, 80 (1869); s. e, 1 B. R. J. C. 75; see also as to projer custody, Thalson Psychology, Robert V. Backmutty Koore, 24 W. R., 248 (1875); Elouyre Aingly & Koglash Chander, 21 W. R. 45 (1874); Murumut Fuerestoonssen v. Barnonya, 21 W. R., 19 (1875); Chander Kant Berny Nath, 13 W. R., 100 (1876), Gaya Parny, Werman Sonologer, 12 W. R., 472 (1869); Guradas

Jiay v. Sombhu Noth., 3 B. L. R., 258 (1869); Sreekanh Lihuttacharjee v. Ray Naran, 10 W. R. 1 (1868); Mohomed Ajsahdi v. Shoff, Mulla, 8 B. L. R. 26, 29 (1871), 1stal Mahadeb v. Mahummad Husen, 6 Bonn. H. C. R., 80 (1869); (2) Notton, Ev., 207.

<sup>(3)</sup> Sharfudən v. Gorind, 27 B, 452, 462 (1902).
s. c., sub vec., or Tajudin v. Gorind, 5 Bom. L.

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE EXCLUSION OF ORAL BY DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE.

Is so far as the present Chapter deals not only with cases in which oral evidence is excluded by documentary evidence, but also with those in which oral evidence is admissible, notwithstanding the existence of a document, its subject-matter may properly, and in conformity with the English text-books, be described as the "admissibility of extrinsic evidence to affect documents; a branch of the law of evidence which is perhaps of all the most difficult of application

It is necessary, in the first place, to bear in mind in this connection that Admis bitter (as has been already provided by the Act) the contents of all documents, what-trinsic ever be their nature, whether dispositive or non-dispositive (v. post), must be dence affect proved by the production of the document itself, except in those cases in which ments secondary evidence is admissible (sections 61-65). If, however, the question is not primarily as to the contents of a document, but as to the existence of matters of fact of which documents form the record and proof, other considerations come into play which are the peculiar subject-matter of this portion of the Act. The question then arises whether the fact of such record excludes other evidence of the matters which are so recorded, and whether these matters can, and if so, in what manner, be affected by such other evidence. To fully comprehend this distinction it is necessary to distinguish between dispositive (or in the language of Bentham, " pre-determined ") documents, or documents which are uttered dispositively, i.e., for the purpose of disposing of rights; and non-dispositive (or, in the language of Bentham, "casual") documents, or those which are uttered non-dispositively, i.e., not for the purpose of disposing of rights. A casual or non-dispositive document (eq., a letter or memorandum thrown off hurriedly in the ease and carelessness of familiar intercourse, without intending to institute a contract, and which is offered, not to prove a contract but to establish a non-contractual incident) is peculiarly dependent upon extraneous circumstances; is often inexplicable unless such circumstances are put in evidence; and employs language, which, so far from being made up of phrases selected for their conventional business and legal limitations, is marked by the writer's idiosyncrasies, and sometimes comprises words peculiar to himself. But whether such documents are informally or formally constituted, they agree in this, that as far as concerns the parties to the case in which they are offered, they were not prepared for the purpose of disposing of the rights of the party from whom they emanate Dispositive documents, such as contracts, grants of property and the like, on the other hand, are deliberately prepared, and are usually couched in words which are selected for the purpose, because they have a settled legal or business meaning. Such documents are meant to bind the party utte ther actior in case of nation or correction, but according to the legal and business meaning of the (1) Wharton, Ev. 5 920; this distinction is of his Digest of Evylence. The classification 15 recognized by Sir J. Stephen in substance, though not, however, enturity exclusive with reference not in terms in s. 91 of this Act, and in Art, 90, to the subject-matter of a. 91, for matters which

terms.(1)

The Chapter commences by enacting that no evidence in proof of the terms of dispositive documents and of matters required by law to be reduced to the form of a document (whether these matters be dispositions or not) shall be given, except the document itself, or secondary evidence thereof when admissible. The very object for which writing is used is to perpetuate the memory of what is written down, and so to furnish permanent proof of it. In order to give effect to this, the document itself must be produced. Assuming that the document has been produced as required, the next section, with certain provisos, excludes oral evidence for the purpose of contradicting, varying, adding to, or subtracting from its terms. To give full effect to the object with which writing is used, not only is it necessary that the document itself should be put before the Judge for his inspection, but also in cases where the document purports to be a final settlement of a previous negotiation, as in the case of a written contract, it is essential that the document shall be treated as final and not be varied by word of mouth. If the first of these rules were not observed, the benefit of writing would be lost There is no use in writing a thing down unless the writing is read. If the second rule were not observed people would never know when a question was settled, as they would be able to play fast-and-loose with their writings (1) But though extrinsic evidence is thus inadmissible (a) to superscde (section 91). or (b) to control, that is to contradict, vary, add to or subtract from the terms of the document (section 92), it may yet (c) be admissible in aid of, and to explain, the document (section 92, sixth proviso sections 93-100).

It is proposed to shortly observe upon these three rules which form the subject-matter of the Chapter of the Act. The general distinction between the sections just quoted is that sections 91, 92, define the cases in which documents are cxclusive evidence of transactions which they embody, while sections (93—100) deal with the interpretation of documents by oral evidence. The two subjects are so closely connected together that they are not usually treated as distinct, but they are so in fact. Thus 1 and B make a contract of manie insurance on goods and reduce it to writing. They verbally agree that the goods are not to be shipped in a particular ship, though the contract makes no such reservation. They leave unnoticed a condition usually understood in the business of insurance, and they make use of a technical expression, the meaning of which is not commonly known. The law does not permit oral evidence to depends upon different principles. The first depends upon the principle that the object of reducing transactions to a written form is to take security against had apply. The rules contained in this Chapter of the Act are not perhaps difficult to state, to understand, or to remember, but they are by no means ersy to apply, inasmuchas from the nature of the case an enormous number of transactions fall close on one side or the other of most of them. Hence, the exposition of these rules and the abridgment of all the illustrations of them which have occurred in practice occupy a very large space in the different text-writers (20) and hence also the difficulty not infrequently experienced of reconciling apparently conflicting cases, but the facts of which and upon which the decision rested are seldom, if ever, fully reported.

When a transaction has been reduced into writing, either by requirement of Extrinsic law, or agreement of the parties, the writing becomes the exclusive memorial avidence is thereof, and no extrinsic evidence is admissible to independently prove the sible to transaction (section 91) Oral proof cannot be substituted for the written the docuevidence. Some of the grounds of the rule have already been considered Others ment. are that in the case of dispositive documents the written instrument is, in some measure, the ultimate fact to be proved, and it has been tacitly treated by the parties themselves as the only repository and the appropriate evidence of their agreement. The instrument is not collateral, but is of the very essence of the transaction; and consequently in all proceedings, civil or criminal, in which the issue depends in any degree upon the terms of the instrument, the party whose witnesses show that the disposition was reduced to writing must either produce the instrument or give secondary evidence thereof (1) So also in the case of instruments which the law requires to be in writing, the law having required that the evidence of the transaction should be in writing, no other proof can be substituted for that so long as the writing exists and is in the power of the party. Accordingly parol evidence is inadmissible to prove judicial documents, or private formal documents such as wills and other dispositions of property which the law requires should be reduced to the form of a document. admit inferior evidence when the law requires superior would be to repeal the law.(2)

Extrinsic evidence is not only madmissible to supersede the document Extrinsic evidence is

sections of the Act. This Common Law rule may be traced back to a remote antiquity. It is founded on the inconvenience that might result, if matters in writing, made by advice and on consideration, and intended finally to embody the entire agreement between the parties were liable to be controlled by what Lord Coke calls "the uncertain testimony of slippery memory." When parties have deliberately put their mutual engagements into writing in language which imports a legal obligation, it is only reasonable to presume that they have introduced into the written instrument every material term and circumstance, Consequently extrinsic, or as it is often loosely called "parol," evidence, is equally inadmissible in this connection whether it consists of casual conversations, declarations of intention, oral testimony, documents (provided they are of inferior solemnity to the writing in question) or facts and events not in the nature of declarations, and whether such conversations were previous or subsequent to, or contemporaneous with, the date of the principal document. Such evidence while deserving far less credit than the writing itself, would inevitably tend in many instances to substitute a new and different contract for that really agreed upon, and would refit, work infinite mischief and wrong (3) se of dispositions reduced to writing by . which have been so reduced in obedience to the requirements of the law in that respect. The rule, however, only applies as between the parties to any such instruments

The rule is subject further to certain provisos which will be found dealt with in the notes to section 92, nost.

(1) Taylor, Ev., § 401.

(2) 16., $ 399,

(3) Taylor, Er., §§ 1122, $148, Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 512.

The Chapter commences by enacting that no evidence in proof of the terms of dispositive documents and of matters required by law to be reduced to the form of a document (whether these matters be dispositions or not) shall be given, except the document itself, or secondary evidence thereof when admissible.

is to

oral evidence for the purpose of contradicting, varying, adding to, or subtracting from its terms. To give full effect to the object with which writing is used, not only is it necessary that the document itself should be put before the Judge for his inspection, but also in cases where the document purports to be a final settlement of a previous negotiation, as in the case of a written contract, it is essential that the document shall be treated as final and not be varied by word of mouth. If the first of these rules were not observed, the benefit of writing would be lost. There is no use in writing a thing down unless the writing is read if the second rule were not observed people would never know when a question was settled, as they would be able to play fast-and-loose with their writings (1) But though extrinse evidence is thus inadmissible (a) to suptracte from the terms of the document (section 92), it may yet (c) be admissible in aid of, and to repulain, the document (section 92, sixth provise sections 93—100).

It is proposed to shortly observe upon these three rules which form the subject-matter of this Chapter of the Act The general distinction between the sections just quoted is that sections 91, 92, define the cases in which doonments are exclusive evidence of transactions which they embody, while sections (93-100) deal with the interpretation of documents by oral evidence. The two subjects are so closely connected together that they are not usually treated as distinct; but they are so in fact Thus A and B make a contract of manne insurance on goods and reduce it to writing. They verbally agree that the goods are not to be shipped in a particular slup, though the contract makes no such reservation. They leave unnoticed a condition usually understood in the business of insurance, and they make use of a technical expression, the meaning of which is not commonly known. The law does not permit oral evidence to be given of the exception as to the particular ship (section 92). It does permit oral evidence to be given to annex the condition [section 92, fifth proviso] : and thus far it decides that for one purpose the document shall, and that for another it shall not be regarded as exclusive evidence of the terms of the actual agreement between the parties. It also allows the technical term to be explained (section 98), and in so doing it interprets the meaning of the document itself. The two operations are obviously different, and their proper performance depends upon different principles. The first depends upon the principle that the object of reducing transactions to a written form is to take security against had

apply. The rules contained in this Chapter of the Act are not perhaps difficult to state, to understand, or to remember; but they are by no means e.sy to apply, inasmuchas from the nature of the case an enormous number of transactions fall close on one side or the other of most of them. Hence, the exposition of these rules and the abridgment of all the illustrations of them which have occurred in practice occupy a very large space in the different text-writers; (2)

and hence also the difficulty not infrequently experienced of reconciling apparently conflicting cases, but the facts of which and upon which the decision rested are seldom, if ever, fully reported.

by requirement of Extrinsic When a transaction ' taw, or agreement of the extension of the extension (section 91) Oral proof cannot be substituted for the written excellence. Some of the grounds of the rule base absolute that with the document of the extension of the extensio evidence. Some of the grounds of the rule have already been considered. Others ment are that in the case of dispositive documents the written instrument is, in some measure, the ultimate fact to be proved, and it has been tacitly treated by the parties themselves as the only repository and the appropriate evidence of their agreement. The instrument is not collateral, but is of the very essence of the transaction; and consequently in all proceedings, civil or criminal, in which the issue depends in any degree upon the terms of the instrument, the party ments, or private formal documents such as wills and other dispositions of property which the law requires should be reduced to the form of a document. To admit inferior evidence when the law requires superior would be to repeal the whose witnesses show that the disposition was reduced to writing must either produce the instrument or give secondary evidence thereof.(1) So also in the case of instruments which the law requires to be in writing, the law having required that the evidence of the transaction should be in writing, no other proof can be substituted for that so long as the writing exists and is in the power of the party. Accordingly parol evidence is inadmissible to prove judicial docu-

Extrinsic evidence is not only inadmissible to supersede the document Extrinsic evidence is

sections of the Act | This Common Law rule may be traced back to a remote antiquity. It is founded on the inconvenience that might result, if matters in writing, made by advice and on consideration, and intended finally to embody the entire agreement between the parties were liable to be controlled by what Lord Coke calls "the uncertain testimony of slippery memory." When parties have deliberately put their mutual engagements into writing in language which imports a legal obligation, it is only reasonable to presume that they have introduced into the written instrument every material term and circumstance. Consequently extrinsic, or as it is often loosely called "parol," evidence, is equally inadmissible in this connection whether it consists of casual conversations, declarations of intention, oral testimony, documents (provided they are of inferior solemnity to the writing in question) or facts and events not in the nature of declarations, and whether such conversations were previous or subsequent to, or contemporaneous with, the date of the principal document. Such evidence while deserving far less credit than the writing itself, would inevitably tend in many instances to substitute a new and different contract for that really agreed upon, and would at an airland one agreed upon, and would at an airland one are arrest, work infinite mischief and wrong.(3) se of dispositions reduced to writing by which have been so reduced in obedience to the requirements of the law in that respect. The rule, however, only applies as between the parties to any such instruments The rule is subject further to certain provisos which will be found dealt with in the notes to section 92, post.

law.(2)

(2) 16., § 399.

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Lv., $ 401.

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Ev., §§ 1132, 1148, Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 512.

evidence is in aid and

It has been already observed that extrinsic evidence is inadmissible either to supersede or to control the document, that is, the document itself only must be produced in proof of the transaction which it embodies, and when so produced artianation be produced in proof of the embosicion which is the document of the document providence. But of the document providence its terms may not be contradicted, added to, or varied by, other evidence. But on its production it becomes necessary to construe the document Putting a construction upon a document means ascertaining the meaning of the signs or words made upon it and their relation to facts (1) Construction may be effected from an inspection and consideration of the terms of the document itself, or from such an inspection and consideration coupled with a consideration or certain classes of extrinsic evidence admissible in aid, explanation, and interpretation of documents (2)

> The construction of a document before the Court is a question of law to be determined by Grammar and Logic, the primary organs of interpretation aided where necessary by the subsidiary one of usage (section 98), where admissible, to throw light upon the meaning of the words used (3) To construe a document oral evidence of its author as to his intention is not admissible, though accompanying circumstances (section 92 prov 6) may be shown and considered (4) The effect of a document depends on the intention of the parties as gathered from the terms of the instrument and from the surrounding circumstances (5) In construing mercantile instruments it is particularly the duty of a Court of Justice to regard the intention rather than the form, and to give effect to the whole instrument The intention must be collected from the instrument, but resort may be had to mercantile usage (section 98) in certain cases as a key to its exposition (6) In a recent case in the House of Lords it was said by Lord Loreburn, L C, "there is no canon of construction by which the rigour of interpretation in some commercial documents must be proportioned to the importance of the stipulation to be construed. There is only one standard of construction (except where the words have acquired a special conventional meaning), namely, > > trument, evidênce is enable it to identify ertain the nature and prov. 6). Secondly, evidence may be given, when necessary, of the meaning of the words and

......

(1898); Phipson, Ev., 3nl Fd , 561, 562.

<sup>(1)</sup> Steph Dig., Art 91.

<sup>(2)</sup> See Baboo Rombuddun v. Romee Kunwar, W. R., 1864, Act X, 22, 24 (though undoubtedly a document may be explained by oral evalences the latter cannot be admitted to eary the terms of a written perframent, which terms are in themselves clear and undoubted)

<sup>(3)</sup> Mahalachmi Amesal v. Palant Chetts, 6 Mad. H. C. R., 245, 246, 247 (1871)

<sup>(4)</sup> Bets Maharans v. Collector of Elawah, 17 4., 198, 209, P. C. (1894); Balkishen Das v. Legge, 4 C. W. N., 153 (1899); s. c., 22 A., 149 (5) Successon Mororii v. Kalidas Kalian).

<sup>18 11 , 631 (1894);</sup> Ballitaken Iles 4. Legye, (6) Gradd in v. Abbett, Taxlor's Reports, 342. 356 (1848); Supreme Court, Plea Syle, ver Sir

L. Peel, C. J.

<sup>(7)</sup> Nelson Line v Nelson & None, H I. (1907): Com. cases, pp 13, 104; & see also, Sheel Mohamed Ravelher v. British Inlia Mean Nariga-Inn Co., 32 M., 95; & Price d Co. v Unit Lighterage Co. (1903), 1 K. B. 750.

<sup>(8)</sup> Janordon v. Anant, 1908, 32 11, 380 19. Huncoman per-saud Panday v. Mt. Fabors Munraj Koonweree (1856), 6 Moo. 1 A , 411.

<sup>(10)</sup> See cases cites in the notes to 8 92 prov-(6) Succaram Morary v. Kalidas Ka'ianii, 19 B., 631 (1891); Jants v Bhairon, 19 A., 133 (18 6) . R'mi Meun v. Hulas Kamir, 13 B. L. R . 312 (1874); und ser price to 4 92, Proviso (6) post : Halbishen Das v. Legge, 22 A , 149, 156 (1899); Jafar Husen v. Ronjit Singh, 21 A , 4

signs made upon a document; for without such a knowledge it would be impossible to understand and construe a document(1) (section 98). But evidence may not be given to show that common words, the meaning of which is plain and which do not appear from the context to have been used in a peculiar sense, were in fact so used (2). Under this heading will come the testimony both of experts and non-experts as to the meaning, but not as to the construction, of the language and evidence of usage to explain the terms of the document (3). In the undermentioned case it was held that in construing a Hindu deed of compromise the situation of the parties and their rights at the time the deed was executed must be considered.(4) Usage is admissible not only to explain but to annex unexpressed incidents to a document, provided they are not expressed ye excluded by, nor inconsistent with, the terms thereof (section 92, prov. 5) (5)

The abovementioned class of extrasic evidence will have to be resorted to in the case of documents apart from the question of ambiguity properly socialled. Another set of rules come into play where there is an ambiguity, in the document. But as these latter rules depend upon the existence of some ambiguity it is clear that when the words of a document are free from ambiguity and external circumstances do not create any doubt or difficulty as to the proper application of the words, extrusic evidence for the purpose of explaning the words may not be imported into it from any conjectural view of its intention which would have the effect of materially changing those terms. The language used must be given effect to (7). There may, however, be an ambiguity which again may be either patent or latent. In the case of a patent ambiguity which extrinsic evidence in explanation of the instrument will be admissible (section 95, post) (8). If, on the other hand, there be a latent ambiguity, extrinsic evidence will be admissible (sections 95–97, post) (9). When extrinse evidence is thus admissible in explanation of late declarations of intention by the:

So the conduct and acts of be admissible in aid of the inter doubtful (11) In the case of P

(1) See 8 98, post.

(2) Steph. Dig., Art 91, cl. (2). So evalence may not be given to show that the word "boats" in a policy of insurance means "boats not slung on the outside of the ship on the quarter."

Blacket v. Royal Exchange Co. 2 C. & J., 244

(3) Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 541; s. 98, post.
(4) Sambasica Ayyar v. Visham Ayyar, (1907),
30 Mad., 356, & see Dinonath Mukerji v. Gopal
Chura Mukerji S C. J. E. N. & Ganat Roo v.

30 Mad., 356, & see Dinonath Mukerji v. Gopal Churn Mukerji, 8 C. L. R., 57, & Ganjat Rao v. Ram Chandar, 11 All., 296; & Freematty Fabutty Dosere v. Sibchunder Mullick, 6 Moo. I. A., 1.

(5) See notes to s. 92, prov. (5), peal.
 (6) See s. 94, peal. Shore v. Walson, 5 Scott
 N. B., 599, 1037.

(7) Mussumat Ehughutti v. Choudhry Ehdanath, 2 I. A., 256 (1875), Shore v. Bilon, supra (8) See s. 93, pod.

(9) See sa. 95-97, post.

(10) See 15., post.

(11) In ro Purmanandas Jewandas, 7 B., 169.
116 (1882): Mohan fall v. Urnopoorna Possee, 9 W. R., 556, 569 (1818) [evidence as to the mode in which the parties had dealt with the property in dispute} Baboo Rambuddun v. Ranee Kunuar, W. R., 1864, Act X, 22, 24 [evelence of subsequent dealings between the parties] Baboo Dhunput v. Sheikh Joughar, 8 W R., 152, 153 (1867) see s. 8, aute, p 144 and cases cited in note I on that page, and in Phipson, Fv., 3rd Ed , 541, 542 : but see also Ford v. Yoles, 2 M. & Gr. 549, Lorlett v. Niclin, Exch . 20 . Joint Husen v Ranjit Singh, 21 A., 4 (1898) [in constraing a mortgage-deed the terms of which are of a doubtful character, the intention of the parties as deducible from their conduct at the time of exeeution and other contemporaneous documents executed between them is to be looked at]. In a recent case before the Privy Council in which the document was unambiguous the committee held that the legal effect of an unambiguous document such as that in suit could not be controlled or altered by evidence of the subsequent conduct of the parties Enlimates Dos v. Rom Narain, 30 C., 738 (1903), and for construct. tion of a doubtful grant in favour of the grantce see Higgins v. Nobin Chander, 11 C. W. N., see, this form of evidence was observed upon as follows:-" The authorities in 'favour of interpreting the lease by the acts of the parties are summed up in Broom's Legal Maxims (3rd edition 608), under the title "Contemporanea expositio est optima et fortissima in lege" The rule is that ambiguous words may be properly construed by the aid of the acts of the parties. See Doe d. Pearson v. Ries.(1) per Tindal, C. J., and Chapman v. Bluck.(2) per Park. J. The widest effect given to the acts of parties as assisting the interpretation of written instruments is in the case of ancient grants and charters, specially in determining what passed thereunder, a matter naturally hard to discover from the instrument itself after the lapse of many years. The case of Waterpark v. Fennel (3) seems to be the one which goes furthest in this direction, in which case the word "village" was held to include "a mountain" On the other hand, the rule is plain that the acts of parties cannot be allowed to affect the construction of written instruments if that construction be in itself unambiguous; the cases of Moore v Foley (4) and Iggulden v May (5) stready cited on the first point reserved are also authorities on this point (6)

(12) 7 B., 100, 116 (1882).

[s. 91.]

The Indian Specession Act.

The English practice on this point is now much modified. The modern rule allows circumstantial evidence of intent in all cases of ambiguity, patent or latent, provided the former be not inherently incurable; but confines direct declarations of intent strictly to equivocations (7)

The Indian Succession Act in Part XI contains similar provisions to some of those in this Chapter, which it is declared (section 100) is not to be taken to affect any of the provisions of the former Act relating to the construction of Wills.(8)

Evidence of terms of contracts. erants and other dispositions of property reduced to form of document.

When the terms of a contract, or of a grant(9) or of any other disposition of property, have been reduced to the form of a document, and in all cases in which any matter is required by law to be reduced to the form of a document, no evidence(10) shall be given in proof of terms of such contract, grant or other disposition of property, or of such matter, except the document itself, or secondary evidence of its contents in cases in which

(6) In to Parmanandas Jeruandas, 7 B., 109-

<sup>(1) 8</sup> Bing., 178, 181. ["Upon the general and leading principle in such cases, we are to look to the words of the mstrument and to the acts of the parties to ascertain what their intention was if the words of the instrument be smliguous, we may call in aid the acts done under it as a clue to the intention of the parties ] (2) 4 Bing. N. C , 187, 198, [" The intention of the parties must be collected from the language of the instrument and may be elucidated by the conduct they have pursued: Morgon v. Busell 1 T R., 735; Baster v. Leonene, 2 W Et., 973 "1 (3) 7 H. L. Cal, 684.

<sup>(4) 6</sup> Yes. 232

<sup>(5) 9</sup> Ves., 325, and 7 Fast , 237

<sup>116 (1982)</sup> So in Ealtriden Das v. Rum Narain, 7 C. W. N. 578 (1903), the Privy Council held that it would not be right to hold that the legal construction or legal effect of an unambiguous document, like the elyaranea in that care, could he controlled or altered by crisience of the subsequent conduct of the parties, and that the case of Bahoo Doorga v. Mussamet Kundun, 1 I. A., 55 (1873), was no authority for such a proposition.

<sup>(7)</sup> See Phipson, pp 540 & 541, Thayer, p, 424; Hawkins, 2 Jur. Soc. Pap., 298, Colpays v. Celpoys, Jacob, 451; & Theobald on Wills, 7th edztron (1908), p. 123

<sup>(8)</sup> See as 93-104, post.

<sup>(9)</sup> In Somasundara Mudaly v. Duramams Mudoliar, 27 M , 30 (1903), the question was referred to whether the word " crant " in this section meant a grant of property only or whether it refers to other grants also, in which latter case it was doubted whether the authority to adopt set up in that case could be proved secondary evidence is admissible under the provisions hereinbefore contained.

<sup>(10)</sup> Exclence may, however, he taken where a Criminal Court finds that a confession or other statement of an accused person has not been recorded in manner prescribed - See Act V of 1899, s 533, and sad.

Exception 1.—When a public officer is required by law to be appointed in writing, and when it is shown that any particular person has acted as such officer, the writing by which he is appointed need not be proved.

Exception 2.—Wills admitted to probate in British India may be proved by the probate.

Explanation 1.—This section applies equally to cases in which the contracts, grants or dispositions of property referred to are contained in one document, and to cases in which they are contained in more documents than one (2)

Explanation 2.—When there are more originals than one, one original only need be proved.(3)

Explanation 3.—The statement, in any document whatever, of a fact other than the facts referred to in this section, shall not preclude the admission of oral evidence as to the same fact.(4)

Illustrations.

- (a) If a contract be contained in several letters, all the letters in which it is contained must be proved.
- (b) If a contract is contained in a bill-of-exchange, the bill-of-exchange must be proved.(5)
  - (c) If a bill-of-exchange is drawn in a set of three, one only need be proved.
- (d) A contracts, in writing with B, for the delivery of indigo upon certain terms," the contract mentions the fact that B had paid A the price of other indigo contracted for verbally on another occasion.

Oral evidence is offered that no payment was made for the other indigo.

The evidence is admissible.

(e) A gives B a receipt for money paid by B.

Oral evidence is offered of the payment. The evidence is admissible.

Principle.—It is a cardinal rule of evidence, not one of technicality but of or by the compact of parties, to be the repositories and memorials of truth, any

<sup>(1)</sup> These words in brackets m s. 91, Exception (2), were substituted for the original words

by Act XVIII of 1872, a. 7. (2) See Illusts, (a) & (b). (3) See Illust, (c).

<sup>(4)</sup> See Illuste. (d) & (e).

<sup>(5)</sup> This illustration does not prevent a plaintiff from resorting to his original consideration in cases of unstamped documents in a suit on the consideration where there is an independent admission of the loan. Arishnojs v. Eajmol, 24 R., 360, 361 (1809).

<sup>(6)</sup> Dinomoyî Debi v. Roy Luchmiput, 7 I. A., 8, 15 (1879).

other evidence is excluded from being used either as a substitute for such instruments, or to contradict or alter them This is a matter both of principle and policy; of principle, because such instruments are in their nature and origin

Where the terms of an agreement are reduced to writing, the document itself, being constituted by the parties as the expositor of their intentions, is the only instrument of evidence in respect of that agreement which the law will recognize, so long as it exists for the purpose of evidence "(1) The very object for which writing is used is to perpetuate the memory of what is written down and so to furnish permanent proof of it. Unless the rule required the production of the document, the benefit arising from a written record of past transactions would be lost (2) See Introduction, ante, and Notes, post.

- 3 (" Documents,' )
- 3 (" Exidence.")
- 63 (" Secondary evidence.")
- s. 92 (Exclusion of evidence of oral agreess. 92-100 (Admissibility of extrinsic evidence to affect documents.) 65, 66 (Cases in which secondary et a. s. 144 (Objection to oral evidence as to dence is admissible.) matters in writing.)

ment.)

Steph Dig., Art. 90, pp. 184, 185; Taylor, Ev., § 398-427; Best, Ev., § 223; Roscoe, N. P Ev., 1-4.

COMMENTARY.

Extrinsic

The cases under the rule requiring the contents of a document to be proved by the document itself, if its production be possible, may be arranged in three classes :(3) the first class containing all writings, other than those contained in the second and third classes, material to the issue, the existence or contents of which are disputed.(4) This class is provided for by section 64, ante, which enacts that documents must be proved by primary evidence, except in the cases thereinafter mentioned (5) The second and third classes are provided for by the present section. The second class contains those instruments which the parties themselves have put in writing, and the third, those instruments which the law requires to be in writing. As to the cases in which secondary evidence may be given, see sections 65, 66, ante.

When it is stated that oral testimony cannot be substituted for any 1-1 's g'allow of allowed woo allocon alloculation writing must, and of always

him, although they relate to the contents of a deed or other instrument which are directly in issue in the cause (6) On this point the Indian Evidence Act introduces a stricter rule, oral admissions of the contents of documents not being admissible as primary but only as secondary evidence (7) Written admissions of the existence, condition or contents of a document are admissible under cl (b), section 65, ante, without notice, proof of loss or the like; but they are only secondary and not primary evidence (8) A witness may, however, give oral

<sup>(1)</sup> Starkle, Ev., pp. 648, 655, cited in Austrenath Chatterjes v. Chundy Churn, 5 W. R., 68, 60

<sup>(2)</sup> Steph. Introd., 171, 172, Steph. Dig. pp. 184, 185 : Bet, Lv., § 223

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Er , $ 37%.

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor, Ev., $ 398.

<sup>(5)</sup> v. aute, notes to s. 64; and Taylor, Fv., 400.

<sup>(6)</sup> Taylor, Ev., $$ 410, 411.

<sup>(7)</sup> S. 22. ante.

<sup>(4)</sup> S. 65, cl. (6).

evidence of statements made by other persons about the contents of documents if such statements are in themselves relevant facts (1) As to the taking of objection to the giving of evidence excluded by this section, see section 144, post.

In the first place, oral proof cannot be substituted for the written evidence Matters of any contract, grant or other disposition of property, which the parties have the form of put in writing. Here the written instrument in as the ultimate fact to be proved, especially in and in all cases of written contracts, the writing ties themselves as the only repository and the appropriate evidence of their agreement (2) In every country certain negotiations almost invariably take place before a contract is reduced to writing, and it is usual that the terms of the contract should, with more or less accuracy, be agreed on verbally before the written instrument embodying them is prepared. But when a contract has once been put in writing and signed by the parties, the written instrument contains, and is, the only evidence of the contract and the natural it the go-by, and fall back upon the original contract is not collateral, but is of the very consequently in all proceedings, civil or crin

any degree upon the terms of a contract, the party whose witnesses show that it was reduced to writing must either produce the instrument, or give some good reason for not doing so. Thus, for example, if, in an action to recover land an action against a tenant for rent and non-repair and it should appear that the parties had agreed by parol that the tenant should hold the premises on the terms contained in a former lease between the landlord and the stranger, a nonsuit would be directed unless this lease could be produced.(6) When it was alleged that an oral agreement to pay was made when a pro-note was executed, it was held that the latter could alone supply evidence of the agreement, and since it was madmissible through default in stamping no proof could be tendered.(7)

(1) S 144, post.

(2) Taylor, Er , $ 401, cited in Benaras: Das v. Bhilhar, Das, 3 A , 717, 721, 722 (1881). (3) Jivandas Kesharji v. Framji Nanabhai, 7 Bom. H C. R. O. C. J. 45,68 (1870); Polhe Redds v. 1 elayudanran, 10 M., 94, 97 (1886).

(4) See R. v Castle Morion, 3 B. & A., 590, per Abbett, C. J. The principles on which a document is deemed part of the essence of any transaction and consequently, the last or primary proof of it, are thus explained by Domat -" The force of written proof consists in this: men agree to preserve by writing the remembrance of past events, of which they wish to create a memorial, either with a view of laying down a rule for their own guidance, or in order to have, in the instrument, a lasting proof of the truth of what is written. Thus contracts are written, in order to preserve the memorial of what the contracting parties have prescribed for each other to do, and to take for themselves a ' fixed and immutable law as to what has been agreed on. So testaments are written, in order to preserve the remembrance of what the party, who has a right to dispose of his property, has ordamed concerning it, and thereby to lay down a rule for the gustance of his heir and legatees. On the same principle are reduced into writing all sentences, judgments, edicts, ordinances and other matters, which either confer title, or have the force of law. The writing preserves unchanged for the matters entrusted to it, and expresses the intention of the parties by their own testimony. The truth of written acts is established by the acts themselves, that is, by the inspection of the originals "-See Domat's Civ. Law, L. 3, Tit. 6

(5) Taylor, Ev. § 401; Erewer v. Palmer, 3 Esp., 213, per Lord Eldon ; Fenn v. Griffith, 6 Bang , 533 , 4 M. A. P., 299 S. C. , Henry v. M. of Hestmeath, Ir. Cir. R., 809, per Richard, B.: Thunder v. . Earren, 8 Ir. Law R., 191; Rudge v. McCarthy, 4 id., 161.

(6) 15.; Turser v. Power, 7 B. & C., 625; M.

& M . 131, S. C.

(7) Ganga Ram v. Amir Chand, 66 P. R., (1906); and see Asimal Singh v. Kalwant Fingh. 71 P. R., (1906.)

The same strictness in requiring the production of the written instrument has prevailed where the question at issue was simply what amount of rent was reserved by the landlord,(1) or who was the actual party to whom a demise had been made,(2) or under whom the tenant came into possession;(3) and in an action for the price of labour performed, where it appeared that the work was commenced under an agreement in writing but the plaintiff's claim was for extra work, it has been several times held that, in the absence of positive proof that the work in question was entirely separate from that included in that agreement, and was in f.ct done under a distinct order, the plaintiff was bound to produce the original document, since it might furnish evidence not only that the

On like principles where an bound, in an action for use and occupation, to produce this paper duly stamped as a memorandum of an agreement (** three brothers C. N & B. on the It recited that, some years previously with the exception of three houses, these houses among the brothers In a sunt brought by C's window for the recovery of the house which fell to C's share, it was held that, although the deed did not exclude secondary evidence of the partition of the family property previously divided, yet it affected to dispose of the three houses by way of partition made on the day of its execution and, therefore, secondary evidence of its contents was madmissible by the terms of the present section (6)

The fact, that in cases of this kind, the writing is in the possession of the adverse party, does not change its character; it is still the primary evidence of the contract, and its absence must be accounted for by notice to the other party to produce it, or in some other legal mode before secondary evidence of its contents can be received. (7)

It has been held, however, both in England(8) and in this country, (9) that if a plaintiff can establish a prima facte case without betraying the existence of turning out to be unstamped of insummently stamped, he must pay the duty those which are unsigned.

<sup>(1)</sup> Ib., § 402. R. v. Merthyr Tuded, I. B. & Ad. 29. Augusten v. Challes, I. Fx. R., 280, where Allerson, B., observed: "You may prove by parol the relation of landlord and tenant, but without the lease you cannot tell whether any rent was due."

(2) Ib., R. v. Kauden, S.B. & C., 708; 3 M
& R., 426, S. C.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ib., Doe v. Harry, 8 Bing., 239; 1 M. & Sc., 374, S. C.

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor, Ev. § 401; Fiscast v. Cde.
M. & M. (277, per Lord Tenterier; 3 C. & P. 484;
N. C.; Hardon v. Cornish, I Doul, & L., 885; 12
M. & W., 426, S. C.; Jones v. Hosell, & Doul, III; Holler, V. Sylpan, 5 Jan., 71, Baul, C., per Williams, J.; Parton v. Cde, 6 Jar., 370, Bail, C., per Patteren, J.; see Red v. Patte, M. & M., 413; and Edie v. Kuspfond, 14 Cim. B., 730.
[5] R., Bonachoton v. Meridy, 2 M. & 81,

<sup>445</sup> See Rombottom v. Tunbridge, ib., 434. See also Haukus v Borre, 3 B. & C. 697, there Abbott, C J, draws the distinction between paper signed by the parties or their agent, and

<sup>(6)</sup> Kachubashan Gulabchand v Krishnabaikon Endayi, 2 B, 635 (1877). see further as to unregustered documents, and as to unstamped documents, Appendix

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Ev , § 404.

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Er., § 401, Red v. Dere, 7 B. & C., 261, Steres v. Pianty, 8 Tsunt., 327; Felder v. Eny, 6 Bing., 332; R v. The Inhabitions of Paddoer, 4 B. & Adi, 208; Marston v. Dean, 7 C. & P., 13; Magnay v. Kapski, 1 Man. & Gr., 944, followed in the case cited in prat note. (9) Faskcodoloi v. Rambandon Tukwam, 18 and ponalty.(1) In practice what usually happens is that so soon as the plaintiff begins to give parol evidence of an agreement which the defendant knows to be in writing, objection is taken by the defendant, and the plaintiff is forced by the Judge to produce the agreement under penalty of having the parol evidence excluded (2) When the plaintiff's case has been closed, the defendant is not to get rid of it by suggesting the existence of a writing which he is unable legally to produce, and on the subject of which he might have cross-examine the plaintiff's witnesses. In the case last cited, the facts were as follows:—

<sup>[9]</sup> Yeshkadabas v. Ramchandra Tukaram, 18 B. 66, 74 (1893).

ty subject only to payment of the yearly rent. In the event of its being held that they were not perpetual tenants, they prayed that the defendant might be ordered to pay them its. 7,000, the value of the buildings on the land. The plaintiffs made out a prind facie case without showing, or its being shown, that there was any agreement or lease. Before the case had concluded, however, a document was produced which was said to be a counterpart of the agreement of letting made in 1866. It was not registered, and was, therefore, inadmissible nevidence. It was not tendered, but it was shown to the defendant in cross-examination, and he denied that it was a genuine document. In this case it was held that, as the document was not referred to in the plaint, written statement or issues, and was not before the Court, the evidence should be looked as to ascertain the terms of the tenancy by which the plaintiffs and their predecessors in title held the property. (3)

Moreover, where the written communication or agreement between the parties is collateral to the question in issue, it need not be produced during an employment under a written contract, a verbal order is given for separate work, the workman can perhaps recover from his employer the price of this work, without producing the original agreement, provided he can show distinctly that the items for which he seeks remuneration were not included therein; as, for instance, if it clearly appears, that whilst certain work was in progress in the inside of a house under a written agreement, a verbal order was given to execute some alterations or improvements on the outside (4) So also the fact of the existence of a particular relationship may be shown by parol evidence, though the terms which govern such relationship appear to be in writing. The section only excludes other evidence of the terms of the document. the fact of the occupation of land is alone in issue, without respect to the terms of the tenancy, this fact may be proved by any competent parol evidence, such as payment of rent, or the testimony of a witness who has seen the tenant occupy, notwithstanding it appears that the occupancy was under an agreement in writing :(5) and where a tenant holds lands under written rules, but the length of his term is agreed on orally, the landlord need not produce these rules in an action of trespass under a plea denying his possession, because such plea only renders it necessary for the plaintiff to prove the extent of the tenant's

<sup>(1)</sup> And this even though a notice to produce the document has been served on the plaintiff. Taylor, Ev., § 404, and cases there exted.

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 404.

<sup>(3)</sup> I eshwadabai v. Ramchandra Tukaram, 18 B., 66, 74 (1893).

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 405; Reid v. Batte, M. & M., 415, per Lord Tenterden; commented on by Patteson, J., in Parlon v. Cole, 6 Jur., 370, Bail, C. See Fincent v. Cole, M. & M., 257, and cases cited in Taylor, Ev., § 402, n. (1).

<sup>(3)</sup> Keder Nult v. Shappounion Lides, 24 W. B., 425 (1875); R. v. Hady Transp. Hall, 7D. & B., 425 (1875); R. v. Hady Transp. Hall, 7D. & C., 201; 1 M. & R., 444; R. c., Dav v. Horny, 8 Bang, 229, 245; 1 M. & R. c., 745; s. c., 5 pare v. Filloon, 4 Cranch, 203; Densett v. Orneler, 8 Gerend, 239, 244. See, however, the observations of Bert, C. J., on the case of R. v. Hady Trisky, in Strucker v. Earo, 6 Bang, 163, 169; see also Tuynom v. Knowles, 13 Com. B., 222; Tarkor, Ery, 14 Tarkor, Ery, 15 Tarkor, Ery, 14 Tarkor, Ery, 15 Tarkor, Ery, 14 Tarkor, 15 Tarkor, Ery, 14 Tarkor, Ery, 14 Tarkor, 14 Tarko

The same strictness in requiring the production of the written instrument has prevailed where the question at issue was simply what amount of rent was reserved by the landlord,(1) or who was the actual party to whom a demise had been made,(2) or under whom the tenant came into possession;(3) and in an action for the price of labour performed, where it appeared that the work was commenced under an agreement in writing but the plaintiff's claim was for extra work, it has been several times held that, in the absence of positive proof that the work in question was entirely separate from that included in that agreement, and was in f ct done under a distinct order, the plaintiff was bound to ne rate of where an a written paper signed by himself containing the terms of the lease the landlord was held bound, in an action for use and occupation, to produce this paper duly stamped as a memorandum of an agreement (^ $\cdot$ ), there brothers C, N d B, on the 19 recited that, some years previously with the exception of three houses,

these houses among the brothers In a suit brought by C's widow for the recovery of the house which fell to C's share, it was held that, although the deed did not exclude secondary evidence of the partition of the family property previously divided, yet it affected to dispose of the three houses by way of partition made on the day of its execution and, therefore, secondary evidence of its contents was inadmissable by the terms of the present section (6)

The fact, that in cases of this kind, the writing is in the possession of the adverse party, does not change its character; it is still the primary evidence of the contract; and its absence must be accounted for by notice to the other party to produce it, or in some other legal mode before secondary evidence of its contents can be received. (7)

It has been held, however, both in England(8) and in this country, (9) that if a plaintiff can establish a prima facie case without betraying the existence of a written contract relating to the subject-matter of the action, he cannot be pre-

<sup>(1)</sup> Ib., § 402: R v Mathyr Tadid, I B & Ad, 29; Augusten v. Challe, I Fr. R., 280, where Alderson, B., observed: "You may prove by parol the relation of landlord and tenant, but without the lease you cannot tell whether any rent was due."

<sup>(2)</sup> Ib., R. v. Fauden, S. B. & C., 708; 3 M. & R., 426, S. C.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ib., Dor v. Harrey, 8 Bing, 239; 1 M. & Sc., 374, S. C

Taylor, E., § 401. Fincat v. Cele
 M. & M., 257, pr. Lond Tuntrein, 3.C. & P., 481,
 C. C. Hardow v. Cornich, 1 Don. L. L., 885, 12
 M. & W., 425, S. C., Janoa v. Howell, 4 Don. I, Tilly Helbod v. Sephena, 5 Jun., 71, Baal, C., pr.
 Williams, J.; Parlow v. Cele, 6 Jur., 370, Bab, C.
 pr. Pattens, 1; see Red v. Datte, M. & M., and Edie v. Kingdond, 14 C.m. D., 750.
 [5] De, Branderforn v. Merley, 2 M. & S. 1.

<sup>445</sup> See Romsbottom v. Tunbridge, ib., 434. See also Hanking v Borre, 3 B. & C. 697, there Abbott, C. J., draws the distinction between paper signed by the parties or their agent, and those which are unagged.

<sup>(6)</sup> Kachubarhin Gulahrhand v Krishnabaikom Babaji. 2 B, 635 (1877), see further as to unregistered documents, and as to unstamped documents, Appendix.

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 404.

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 404; Ried v. Dere, 7 B. & C., 201; Sieven v. Pinney, 8 Taunt., 327; Fielder v. Loy, 6 Bings, 332; K. v. The Inhabitatis of Puddow, 4 B. & Ad., 208; Moration v. Dem, 7 C. & P., 13; Mogracy v. Knight, 19m. & 66, 944; Gllowed in the case cited in text note. (9) Leakengholds v. Romedandar Tutorom, 18 and penalty.(1) In practice what usually happens is that so soon as the plaintiff begins to give parol evidence of an agreement which the defendant knows to be in writing, objection is taken by the defendant, and the plaintiff is forced by the Judge to produce the agreement under penalty of having the parol evidence excluded.(2) When the plaintiff's case has been closed, the defendant is not to get rid of it by suggesting the existence of a writing which he is unable legally to produce, and on the subject of which he might have cross-examined the plaintiff's witnesses. In the case last cited, the facts were as follows :-The plaintiffs alleged that in 1866 the defendant's father had let land to their predecessor in title in perpetuity on fazendari tenure for building purposes, subject to a certain rent. They complained that the defendant sought to eject them. and they prayed for a declaration that they were entitled to the land in perpetuity subject only to payment of the yearly rent. In the event of its being held that they were not perpetual tenants, they prayed that the defendant might be ordered to pay them Rs. 7,000, the value of the buildings on the land. The plaintiffs made out a prima facie case without showing, or its being shown, that there was any agreement or lease. Before the case had concluded, however, a document was produced which was said to be a counterpart of the agreement of letting made in 1866. It was not registered, and was, therefore, inadmissible It was not tendered, but it was shown to the defendant in crossexamination, and he denied that it was a genuine document. In this case it was held that, as the document was not referred to in the plaint, written statement or issues, and was not before the Court, the evidence should be looked as to ascertain the terms of the tenancy by which the plaintiffs and their predecessors in title held the property.(3)

<sup>(9)</sup> Jenhundson v. Ramchandra Tutoram, 1 B. 66, 74 (1893).

Moreover, where the written communication or agreement between the parties is collateral to the question in issue, it need not be produced. Thus, if during an employment under a written contract, a verbal order is given for separate work, the workman can perhaps recover from his employer the price of this work, without producing the original agreement, provided he can show distinctly that the items for which he seeks remuneration were not included therein, as, for instance, if it clearly appears, that whilst certain work was in progress in the inside of a house under a written agreement, a verbal order was given to execute some alterations or improvements on the outside (4). So also the fact of the existence of a particular relationship may be shown by parol evidence, though the terms which govern such relationship appear to be in writing. The section only excludes other evidence of the terms of the document. Thus, if the fact of the occupation of land is alone in issue, without respect to the terms of the tenancy, this fact may be proved by any competent parol evidence, such as payment of tent, or the testimony of a witness who has seen the tenant in an action of trespass under a plea denying his possession, because such plea only renders it necessary for the plaintiff to prove the extent of the tenant's

Taylor, Ev., § 405.

<sup>(1)</sup> And this even though a notice to produce the document has been served on the plaintiff Taylor, Ev., § 404, and cases there cited

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 404.

<sup>(3)</sup> leshradabas v. Ramchandra Tularam, 18 B., 66, 74 (1893).

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 405; Reid v. Batte, M. & M., 413, per Lord Tenterden; commented on by Patteron J., in Parton v. Cole, 6 Jur., 370, Bail, C. See Fencari v. Cole, M. & M., 257, and cases cited in Taylor, Ev., § 402, R. [1].

Kedar Nolfe, Phaytonsuse Like, 24 W. R., 425 (187); F. v. Haly Tranky, Hall, T. B. C., 611, 1 M. & R., 441, a. c., Dov., Harry, 8
 Bang, 239, 242, 1 M. & a. c., 254, a. c., Spars, v. William, 6 Chanch., 395; Dennit v. Crucke, 8
 Green), 239, 244. See, however, the observation of Best, C. J., on the case of R. v. Haly Tristy, m Excher v. Eur., 5 Bug, 158, 169; 224 also Tryans v. Knorde, 15 Com. E., 257; 224 also Tryans v. Knorde, 15 Com. E., 257;

term, which, having been agreed to by parol, does not depend upon the written rule (1) The fact of partnership may be proved by parol evidence of the actis of the parties without producing the deed.(2) And the fact that a party has agreed to sell goods on commission may be established by oral testimony, though the terms respecting the payment of the commission have been reduced into writing,(3) And in the undermentioned case it was held that there is nothing in this section to depart from the rule of English Law that in an action on a written contract oral evidence is admissible to show that the party liable on the contract contracted for himself and as the agent of his partners and that such partners are liable to be sued on the contract though no allusion is made to them in it (4)

Parol evidence will be admissible when the writing only amounted either to mere unaccepted proposals or to minutes capable of conveying no definite information to the Court, and could not by any sensible rule of interpretation, be construed as memoranda, which the parties themselves intended to operate as fit evidence of their several agreements.(5) Section 91 refers to cases where the contract has, by the intention of the parties, been reduced to writing (6)

So where at the time of letting some premises to the defendant, the plaintift had read the terms, from pencil mnutes, and the defendant had acquiesced in these terms, but had not signed the minutes(7) and where, upon a like occasion a memorandum of agreement was drawn up by the landlord's bahlif, the terms of which were read over, and assented to, by the tenant, who agreed to bring surety and sign the agreement on a future day, but omitted to do so; (8) and where in order to avoid mistakes the terms upon which a house was let, were, at the time of letting, reduced to writing by the lessor's agent, and signed by the wife of the lessee, in order to bind him; but the lesse hamself was not present, and did not appear to have constituted the wife as his agent, or to have recognized her act further than by entering upon and occupying the premises; (9) and where lands were let by auction, and a written paper was delivered to the bidder by the auctioneer concerning the terms of the letting, but this paper was terms of the hiring but neither party signed the paper, nor did it appear to have been read to them; (11) and where the document in question was not a promissory note or bond or acknowledgment of debt but appeared to be nothing more than a mere memorandum or note drawn up between the parties as to a trans-

the evidence of the contract

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 405, Hey v. Moorhouse, 66 Bmg. N C., 652; s. c., 8 Scott, 156 (2) Alderson v. Clay, 1 Stark. R., 405, per Lord Ellenborough.

(3) WAufield v. Bland, 16 M & W., 282-

<sup>(3)</sup> Whifidd v. Eland, 16 M. & W., 28. See Explanation (3), past.

<sup>(4)</sup> Venlatasubbrah Chetty v. Govendarajulu Naidu (1909), 31 M., 45

<sup>(5)</sup> Taylor, Er., $ 406.

<sup>(6)</sup> Bolbhadar Proved v. Maharajah of Betsa, D A., 351, 356 (1887); Jamma Doss v. Frinath Roy, 17 C, 177. See cases cited in note to a 92 post.

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 406; Treuchit v. Lambert, 10 A. & E., 407; a c., 3 P. & D., 670; bec Drant v. Brown, 3 B. & C., 665; a. c., 5 D. & B., 682; and Bahall v. Hencow, 3 M. & Gr., 110, where the Court held that written proposals made pending a negotiation for a tenancy might be admitted without a stamp as proving one step in

<sup>(8)</sup> Ib., Doe v Carturight, 3 B & C., 326. see Hawkins v. Barre, 3 B & C, 690, e.c, 5 D & B. 512.

<sup>(9) 16.;</sup> R. v. St. Martin, Lencester, 2 A. & E.,

<sup>210;</sup> s. c. 4 N. & M., 202 (10) Taylor, Et., § 406. Ramsbottom v. Tunbridge, M. & Sel., 434. See Romsbottom v.

Modey, 2 M. & S.I., 445, orted Taylor, Ev., 402.
(11) R. v. Brnalde, 2 A. & H., 514 See for other instances, Ingram v. Lea, 2 Camp., 521; Dalson v. Stork, 4 Esp., 163; Walson v. Boote, 1 C. & P., 8.

action which had just been settled between them ;(1) in all these instances the Fame tenements of the manual state of the manual fine fame as to the tage.

dence can be given, this section does not prevent extraneous evidence as to consideration and that a landlord may prove the improvements in consideration of which an enhanced rent was agreed on.(2)

On the same principle it has frequently been held that, where the action is not directly upon the agreement or non-performance of its terms, but is in tort for its conversion or evidence descriptive of 1

produce the document i produce it without notice, the plaintiff is not bound to put it in, but may leave his adversary to do so, if he think fit, as part of his case (4) For, as has been observed for the purpose of identification, no distinction can be drawn between written instruments and other articles, between trover for a promissory note and trover for a wagon and horses.(5)

The same rule prevails in criminal cases; and, therefore, if a person be indicted for stealing a bill or other written instrument, its identity may be proved by parol evidence, though notice to produce it has been served on the prisoner or his agent.(6) If, however, the indictment be for forgery, and the forged instrument be in the hands of the prisoner, the prosecutor must serve him or his solicitor with a notice to produce it, before he can offer secondary evidence of its contents (7)

The next class of cases in which oral evidence cannot be substituted for the Matters writing are those in which there exists any instrument which the law requires to be in writing. The law having required that the evidence of the transaction reduced to should be in writing, no other proof can be substituted for that, so long as the a decument writing, which is the best evidence, exists (8) The words in this section "in all cases in which any matter is required by law to be reduced to the form of a document" indicate this class, some of the chief instances of which in India been specially provided for (16) The Code of Criminal Procedure, however, has expressly provided for the taking of oral evidence of statements made by accused persons when the writing is informal. It provides that, if any Court

<sup>(1)</sup> Udit Upadhia v Bhawardin, 1 All L J., 463 (1904). (2) Probat Chanles Gangapadhya Chirag .!!s

<sup>(1906), 33</sup> C . 607 (& Probat Chandra v Chirag Ab, 11 C. W. N. 62). (3) Sout v Jones, 4 Taunt , 865 , How v Hall,

<sup>14</sup> East , 274 Bucher v. Jarret, 3 B & P , 143 , Read v Gamble, 10 A & Et , 597 , Ross v Bruce, 1 Day, 100 The Prople v Holbrook, 13 Johns., 90 , M Lean v. Hertory, 6 Serg. & R , 154 These cases overrule (owns v. Abrahams, 1 Esp., (4) Whitehead v Scott, 1 M & Rob., 2, per

Lord Tenderden (5) Jolly v. Taylor, 1 Camp., 143, per bir J Mansteld.

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v. Aielles, 1 Lean, 294, 297 n. a.

<sup>300,</sup> n a

<sup>(7)</sup> R v Haworth, 4 C & P., 254, per Parke, J , R V Filmmons, 1 R , 4 C I , 1. See Taylor,

Ev., § 408.

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Fv , § 399

<sup>(9)</sup> See Field, Ex , 417, 418 (10) On Pr Code, O XX, rr 4-6, pp 826-

<sup>828,</sup> O ALI, r 31, p 1271

<sup>(11)</sup> Cr. Pr Code, s 367, 424, 511 See Lans v R, 5 C W N, 670 (1901), post, s c, 28 C., (12) (iv l'r (ode, O AVIII, rr 5-14, pp.

<sup>(13)</sup> Cr Pr Code, as 354-362.

<sup>(14)</sup> Ib., a. 164 (15) Ib., a. 364.

<sup>(15)</sup> Field, Ev., 418 , see Taylor, Ev., § 400.

before which a confession or other statement of an accused person recorded. or purporting to be recorded under section 164 or section 364 of the Criminal Procedure Code, is tendered in evidence or has been received in evidence. finds that any of the provisions of either of such sections have not been complied with by the Magistrate recording the statement, it shall take evidence that such person duly made the statement recorded; and notwithstanding anything contained in the section 91 of the Evidence Act, such statement shall be admitted, if the error has not injured the accused as to his defence on the merits.(1) These provisions apply to Courts of Appeal, Reference and Revision. Section 533 of the Criminal Procedure Code modifies, therefore, as regards confessions, section 91 of this Act. It does not, however, apply when no attempt at all has been made to conform to the provisions of sections 164 and 364 of the Code,(2) and though it was doubtful whether. under the Code of 1882, it contemplated or provided for cases in which there had been not merely an omission to comply with the law, but an infraction of it, yet under the present section, as amended by the Code of 1898, it seams that omission to comply with any of the provisions of section 164 or section 364 would be remediable (3) If a document framed under section 164 of the Criminal Procedure Code is inadmissible owing to a non-compliance with the provisions of the law, the Court must proceed under section 533, if the defects are curable by the provisions of that section. If they are not so cured. the document recording the confession is madmissible and no other proof of the confession can be given.(4) When a confession is inadmissible under the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, oral evidence to prove that such a confession was made or what the terms of that confession were, is also inadmissible by virtue of the terms of this section (5) No similar provision is contained in the Codes of Criminal or Civil Procedure for the rectification of informally recorded depositions of witnesses. It is clear that when depositions are required by law to be recorded in writing no evidence may be given of the statements of the witnesses other than their recorded depositions or secondary evidence of the contents of depositions where secondary evidence is admis-It is further submitted that, if depositions are informally recorded they are not admissible in evidence is excluded by the terms of this section Thus a failure to comply with the provisions of sections 182, 183 of Act X of 1877 (Civil Procedure) in a judicial proceeding has been held to be an informality which rendered the deposition of an accused inadmissible in evidence on a charge giving false evidence based on such deposition; and under the present section no other evidence of such deposition was admissible.(6) But where the law either does not require the statements of witnesses to be reduced to writing.(7) or merely requires the substance of the evidence of witnesses, (8) or of witnesses and parties called as witnesses to be recorded; in the first of these

<sup>(1)</sup> Act V of 1898, Cr. Pr Code, s 533. See first paragraph of notes to se. 24, 33, ante; cf. R. v. Reed, 1 M. & M., 403, R. v. Christopher, 2 C. & K., 994.

<sup>(2)</sup> R v. 1 iram, 9 M , 224 (1886); R. v. Raghu, 23 D., 221, 228 (1894).

<sup>(3)</sup> Jai Narayos v. R., 17 C., 802, 871 (1890), doubted in Latchend v. R., 18 C., 549 (1891); disserted from in R. v., 1 seram Balon, 21 B., 405 (1890); R. v. Ropes, 23 B., 221, 225 (1893), in which it was said there was no ground for a mich statenton between omasiens to comply with the law and infractions of R.

<sup>(4)</sup> Jai Narayan v. R., 17 C., 868. (5) R. v. Pai Rainn, 10 Bom. H. C. E., 186

<sup>(1873),</sup> R. v. Shitya, 1 B., 219 (1876), R. v. Viram, 9 M., 224, 229 (1886)

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v. Mayaddo Gossoms, b. C., 722 (1831); and note R. v. Marayad Das, 23 W. n., C., 28 (1875); and Hors Chern Surgh » R (1800), 4 C. W. X. 224), both the failow of the Crut Court, in a case of pryray to make a memorandum of the evidence of the secused when Cammund Lefton at does not withat the deposition, if the evidence itieff was duly recorded in the languages in which it was delivered in such Court. In the matter of Bedrage Left, 9 W. R., Cr., 18 (1868).

<sup>(7)</sup> Cr. Pr. Codr. s. 263. (8) Ib., ss. 264, 355.

cases oral evidence of such statements would be clearly admissible as also upon principle in the second case, of such statements as had not been recorded, such evidence not being in either case excluded by the terms of the present section.(1) Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure does not make it obligatory upon a police-officer to reduce to writing any statements made to him during an investigation. Neither that section nor section 91 of this Act renders oral evidence of such statements inadmissible.(2) Previous conviction should, having regard to the provisions of section 91 of the Evidence Act and section 511 of the Code of Criminal Procedure Code, be proved by copies of judgments or extracts from judgments or by any other documentary evidence of the fact of such previous convictions.(3)

Acknowledgments extending the period of limitation must be made in writing signed by the party against whom the property or right is claimed or by some person through whom he derivestitle or liability.(4) When the writing containing the acknowledgment is undated, oral evidence may be given of the time when it was signed; but oral evidence of its contents will not be received.(5) Although the Limitation Act so provides, still this last provision was not meant to exclude secondary evidence of the contents of the acknowledgment under section 65 of this Act, when a proper case for the reception of such evidence is made out (6)

Agreements made without consideration, (7) contracts for reference to arbitration, (8) mortgages when the principal money secured is Rs. 100 or upwards; (9) leases of immovable property from year to year or for any term exceeding one year or reserving a yearly rent must be in writing (10). The Statute of Frauds (29 Car. II, C. 3) was introduced into India under the Charter of 1726, but was formerly only in force in the Presidency Towns, though it applied perhaps also to British-born subjects in the Moissais; (11) and it seems that within those towns it applied to European British subjects only, (12). But sections 1—14, 17 of that Statute necessitating writing in certain cases has now been repealed by the Indian Contract Act. Gifts of immovable property, (13) wills; (14) and trusts of immovable and (except in cases where the ownership of the property is transferred to the trustee) of movable property must also be in writing (15)

First Exception is in accordance with the English rule on this point. Due Exception appointment may fairly be presumed from acting in an official capacity, it being

<sup>(1)</sup> See ante, first para of notes to s. 33 and see cases cited in Taylor, Ev , § 416.

<sup>(2)</sup> R v Utamchand Kapurchand, 11 Bom H C R, 120 (1874)

<sup>(3)</sup> Yasin v. R., 5 C W N, 670 (1901), s c, 28 C, 689

<sup>28</sup> C, 689

(4) On the subject of such acknowledgments, see Soutskury Mohanta v Lakhitenta Mohanta (1908), 35 C, 813 (when a debtor can write an endorsement merely agreed by him is not coough). Done 128 Sahu v Roban Paleys, 15 C W. N. 107 (effect of past payment appearing in handwriting of mortager). Dearen Due v. Grapo Dere (1907), 29 A, 773 (such part payment must appear in debtor's handwriting). Jupil Atabov. P. Falkwadden (1907), 29 A, 700 (the person making an acknowledgment need neare an interest at that time and Golsad Bav. Serie Das (1908), 30 A, 268 (such acknowledgment coolsan are contained as preview former to contain an express promise to coligament need coolsan and contained accounts.

<sup>(5)</sup> Act XVI of Hos, s. 19 (Limitation).

 <sup>(6)</sup> Shambu Nath v. Ram Chundra, 12 C., 207 (1885), Hajibun v. Katir Bulsh, 13 C., 202 (1889), Chathu v. Virarayan, 15 M., 401 (1802), contra Zulinissa Sahrb v Meider Ratender, 12

B , 268 (1897).

<sup>(7)</sup> Act IX of 1872 (Contract), s. 25.
(8) Ib, s. 28, Exception (2).

<sup>(9)</sup> Act IV of 1882 (Transfer of Property). 59.

<sup>(10)</sup> Ib., s. 107. (11) Muttia Pillas v. Bestern, 1 Mad. H. C. R., 27 (1862).

<sup>(12)</sup> Borrodaile v. Chainsook Buryram, 1 Ind. Jur. O. S. 71 (1862)

<sup>(13)</sup> Act IV of 1882, a 123.

<sup>(14)</sup> Act X of 1865 (Indian Succession), s. 50, extended to Hindus, &c., by Act XXI of 1870 An exception exists in the case of privileged wills, see s. 53, 1). As to charitable bequests, v. 65, s. 105.

<sup>(15)</sup> Act II of 1882 (Truets), s. 5

very unlikely that any one would intrude himself into a public situation, which he was not authorized to fill; or that if he wished, he would be allowed to do so. See p 523. ante.

Exception (2)

Wills admitted to probate in British India may be proved by the probate. Upon proof of the will a copy thereof under the seal of the Court is issued and the original will is retained. This copy, which is called the probate, is secondary evidence, but is made admissible by the terms of this section. The words in italies were substituted for "under the Indian Succession Act" by the amending Act XVIII of 1872. It was held prior to this Act and subsequent to the passing of Act XXI of 1870 (Hindu Wills), that the effect of the Hindu Wills Act, which makes (among others) sections 180 and 242 of the Succession Act (X of 1865) applicable to Hindus is to make the probate of the will of a Hindu evidence of the contents of the will against all persons interested thereunder (I) The decision last cited turned upon the interpretation of the Acts abovementioned, and was contrary to the rule previously followed, according to which probate of the will of a Hindu was evidence only so far as a decree of the Court granting it would be, namely, between the parties and those privy to the suit in which to probate in England or Ireland, may be proved by the probate under the provisions of section 82, ante, or by any other means available in England and Ireland, and in this country by the terms of that section Probate or letters may amongst other modes be proved in England by production of the document itself when the seal will be judicially notized, or by a certified or examined copy of the Act. Book or Register.(4) The original will can under no circumstances be admitted in England to prove title to personal estate (5) though diter when required merely to prove a declaration by the testator or to construct the will. Probate is not only conclusive proof against all persons of the contents of the will, but also of its valudity and of the legal character conferred upon the executor (6).

i to

Explan-

Further in the undermentioned case it has been held that the general rule in this section is subject to the exceptions laid down in sections 95 and 96 post (7)

See Illustrations (a) and (b). A contract or grant or other disposition of formular in any as well be executed by several as by one document, as in the familiar instance of a contract the terms of which are to be gathered from a

<sup>(1)</sup> Brajanath Dey v. Anandamayi Davi, 8 B. L. R., 208, 214, 215, 219, 220 (1871).

<sup>(2)</sup> Sharo Bibes v. Baldeo Das, 1 B. L. R., O. C., 24 (1867); and see Sesmati Jarkali v

Shibaath Chatterjee, 2 B. L. R., O. C. J., 1 (1866).
(3) Field, Ex., 421.

<sup>(4)</sup> See Taylor. Ev. §§ 1588, 1590; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 117, 118; Phipson, Fv., 3rd Ed., 492, 320—392, 14 & 15 Vic., C. 99, s. 14; by 20 & 21 Vic., 77, s. c., all probates, fetters of administration.

he, 77, s. c. all prolates, letters of administration, orders, and other instruments and exemplifications and copies thereof respectively, purporting to be scaled with any scal of the Court of Probate, rhall, in all posts of the United Kingdom, be received in evidence without further proof thereof.

(5) Pinney v. Pinney, S B & C., 335; Pinney

<sup>3.</sup> Hunt, 6 Ch. D., 243

<sup>(6)</sup> S. 41, ant. Wheter Y Hune, T. H. L. C. 120, 124; Creak v. Conde, h. R. 11 App. Cas. 541, D. Mem v. Conde, L. R. (20 Ct., D., 268; est Taylor, Ev., § 1760—176; Physon. 5v. Grid LB, 390—392; Rosco, N. P. Er., 201, 202; Cotés Probate, 16th Ed. 352—355; Wilman on President, 606, 559—677, 1902—1901. As to Platfor While last of detroyel, ex Act X. of 1865, st. 298, 209; the remarks on these accurates in Probate of Wile Last of control of the Park Conder X. Department Last Condens in Park J. Fra. 421; and Pair Chander X. Department Last Condens S. C., 804 (1882), st. c., 11 C. L. R., 125.

<sup>(7)</sup> Koruppa Goundan v. Thoppala Goundan (1907), 30 M., 397; and Santoya v. Sabiteir 4 Born 1. R., 871.

series of letters passing between the parties.(1) This section necessitates the production and proof of all the originals, except when secondary evidence is admissible, in which case secondary evidence of all the originals must be given,

A broker is often spoken of as a middleman or negotiator between two Brokers parties. He frequently acts as the agent is like that of a proxy, a factor or agent, being employed by persons who have or were agent for both the one and the other to negotiate the commerce or affair in which he concerns himself. Thus his agreement is twofold, and consists in being faithful to all the parties in the execution of what every one of them entrusts him with But primarily he is deemed merely the agent of the party by whom he is originally employed. Thus to make the other side liable to pay him brokerage, it must be shown that he has been employed by such party to act for him, or that in the contract such party has agreed to pay the brokerage. (2) A broker, when he closes a negotiation as the common agent of both parties, usually enters it in his business-book and gives to each party a copy of the entry or a note or memorandum of the transaction. The note which he gives to the seller is called the sold note, and that which he gives to the buver is called the bought note.(3)

It has generally been held that bought and sold notes, though not necessarily constituting the contract, do, as a general rule, constitute it (4) But as pointed out by Erle, J , in Sieveeright v Archibald.(5) "The form of the inrere not intended to constitute a contract from the agent to the principal of that

The buyer is informed of his purchase. the seller of his sale, and experience shows that they are varied as mercantile convenience may dictate Both may be sent, or one or neither. They may both be signed by the broker, or one by him and the other by the party The names of both contractors may be mentioned, or one may be named and the other They may be sent at the time of the contract or after, or one at an interval after the other No person acquainted with legal consequences would intend to make a written contract depend on separate instruments, sent at separate times or in various forms, neither party having seen both instruments. Such a process is contrary to the nature of contracting, of which the essence is interchange of consent at a certain time "

According to the law of England by which, under the provisions of the Statute bought tute a sufficient memorandum under nt out the distinction between making a contract and a memorandum showing that a contract has been made. (7) While there, as in this country, evidence is not ordinarily admissible to vary a contract reduced to writing, in the case of a memorandum, on the other hand, evidence is admissible to show that the document does not duly record the contract, or that no contract was in fact concluded (8) Though (as pointed out in Statute such new contract could not be proved by parol evidence. Therefore

<sup>(1)</sup> See Allen v. Bennett, 3 Taunt,, 169, and cases cited in Taylor, Ev., § 1026 (2) Municipal Corporation of Bombay v. Cu-

rerpes Hirpi, 20 B., 124, 129, 130 (1895). (3) Sec Benjamin on Sales, $ 276; where the varieties of these notes are described; Wharton, Ev., § 75,

<sup>(4)</sup> See an article in which the subject is du. cussed in 8 C. W. N., cexxx, cexxxviii. (5) 20 L. J , Q. B., 529.

<sup>(6)</sup> See Clarton v. Flar, 9 B L. R., 245 (1872) (7) Junus Dass v. Srinath Roy, 17 C., 177. (8) Hussey v. Horne Poyne, 4 A. C., 320; and pro Jarris v. Barridye, 8 Ch., 360.

a plaintiff who repudiated the bought and sold notes ran the chance of losing all rights under the contract, unless he had other documentary evidence of the description which would satisfy the Statute. Therefore in cases where material discrepancies have been discovered in the bought and sold notes the plaintiff's action has been disnissed for want of statutory evidence, the memorandum being, owing to the discrepancies, reduced to a nullity. In this country, however, the Statute of Frauds does not apply, and a contract for sale of goods can be proved by parol (1) There may be a complete binding contract if the parties intend it, although bought and sold notes are to be exchanged or a mere formal contract is to be drawn up (2).

When, however, bought and sold notes have been exchanged, it has been a been expressed, whether they conextent, if at all oral, evidence is extent, if at all oral, evidence is he case last mentioned the notes of the contract actually entered into

was allowed to be given. It has also been held that bought and sold notes unobjected to may be evidence of the contract, but they do not necessarily constitute the whole contract.(3) Subsequent decisions.(4) however, treated the bought and sold notes which were tendered in evidence in those cases as constituting the contract between the parties and so precluding oral evidence. Recently the rule, after consideration of the Privy Council decision of Cowie v. Remfry, (5) has been stated by the Calcutta High Court to be that when parties who are merchants enter into a contract which is evidenced by bought and sold notes, the presumption is that they intend to be bound by the contract as expressed in the bought and sold notes, and by that only. This, however, is a presumption which may be rebutted by clear evidence.(6) The Privy Council. however, in disposing of the appeal in the last mentioned case, held that bought and sold notes do not constitute a contract of sale, but are mere evidence which may be looked to for the purpose of ascertaining whether there was a contract and what the terms of the contract were. The right of the parties do not depend either for constitution, or for evidence, on the bought and sold notes The High Court upon the original trial had found that through fraud the notes did not express fully and correctly the arrangement actually made. In this finding of fact the Privy Council agreed. On the assumption, therefore, that the notes constituted the contract, it would have been open to them to have held that oral evidence was admissible under a 92, by reason of the fraud which had been proved. The Judicial Committee, however, in conformity with the opinion expressed that the notes do not constitute but are evidence merely of the contract, held that the case was not touched by section 92 of this Act (7) Oral evidence being admissible as to the terms of the contract and the notes being regarded merely as a piece of evidence like any other, the only question is as to their value. This must depend upon the circumstances of each case. In some instances the notes may be of little value. In other cases, particularly where they have been accepted and signed by the parties, they may be of great weight.

Durga Proceed v. Ehajas Lal, 8 C. W. N., 489 (1904)

 <sup>(2)</sup> Clarion v. Shaw, 9 R. L. R., 245, 252 (1872).
 (3) Junna Dass v. Srinath Roy, 17 C., 177

<sup>(4)</sup> Jadu Rat v. Bhullaron Nundy, 17 C., 173.

Ralli v. Kasamals Fazzal, 14 B., 102 (1890). (5) 3 Moo 1. A., 448 (1846).

<sup>(6)</sup> Durga Provad v. Bhajan Lall, 8 C. W. N.,

<sup>(1)</sup> Durja Prosed v. Bhajan Latt, S.C. W. N., 402, 491, per Sale, J. (7) Durja Prosed v. Bhajan Latt, S.C. W. N.,

<sup>499 (1901)</sup> The earlier Phry Council deciron Course v. Renity, 3 No. J. A. 481 (1816), the correctness of which was questioned in Higgswith V. Kraydi, 33. J. C. P., 298 (1884), sporced in Clerica v. Khay, 6 H. L. R., 245 (1872); AB Clark v. Roski, 32. L. C. P., 298 (1884), sporced in Clerica v. Khay, 6 H. L. R., 245 (1872); AB Clark v. Renity, had in the latest Pry Council decision, though expressly referred to by the High Court, may be said to be no longer law. See Article referred to m. 8 C. W. A., cexxi.

If the notes agree, are delivered and accepted without objection, such acceptance without objection is evidence of mutual assent to the terms of the notes, but the acceptance is to be inferred from the acceptance of the notes without objection, not from the signature to the writing, which would be proof if they constituted the contract in writing.(1)

In the undermentioned case(2) in which it was held that the contract was not concluded until bought and sold notes had been signed, and that these notes were the only evidence of the contract, the buyer added some terms in Chinese as to quality which the seller either did not understand or notice, and the Privy Council held that the terms in Chinese were not to be disregarded. If the seller did not notice the addition made by the buyer, it only showed that the buyer and seller were not ad uden as to the quality, and the contract failed. If the seller did notice or understand the addition and offered a different quality, the contract was voidable.

A contract intended to have been entered into between the plaintiff and the defendant, was entered by a mistake on the part of the broker, in the sold gave judgment in favour of the plaintiff contingent on the opinion of the High Court as to whether the mistake in the sold note was a bar to the plaintiff's suit for damages on the contract. It was held that there was a contract between the parties, for breach of which the plaintiff could sue for damages (3)

In the case of telegrams, ordinarily the original message is the primary Telegrams evidence, and only on proof excusing its production can its contents be shown alumde; but on proof of its destruction or non-producibility (as where it is out

а сору

is evident that the rule cannot have a general application, as there are instances in which the message received must be deemed the original, and the rule relative thereto may be stated as follows: the original message, whatever it may be, must be produced, and in all cases where the company can be considered the agent of the sender, the message as received, in all questions between the sender and the person receiving it, is treated as the original A telegram when duly proved, can, with an acceptance by letter, or even an oral acceptance constitute a contract, and so may a telegraphic answer, duly proved, to a written proposal. In such case the contract rests on the telegram as received by the sendee and his answer as delivered to the company. It is scarcely necessary to add that when the original message is produced against a party it must be duly proved. The message must be shown to have been sent by the party from whom it purports to come, either by proof that it was in his handwriting, or that it was sent by the sidrection or authority.(4)

See Illustration (e), and the first and second Explanations to section 62, Explanation. Instances of the case dealt with by this Explanation are bills-of-exchange atton (2) of which three are usually executed, called the first, second, and third of exchange, and bills-of-lading which are usually in duplicate, and often in triplicate. When a document is executed in several parts, each part is primary evidence of the document.

<sup>(1)</sup> Stereweight v. Archibald, per Erle, L. J., 854, 857 (1903). 20 Q R., 529 (4) Wharton, Ev. & . W.

<sup>(2)</sup> Al There v. Mocthie Chette, 4 C. W. N., pp. 2, 3; Gray on 452 (1899).

<sup>(3)</sup> Nahomed Dloy v. Chatterput Sing, 20 C.,

Explanation (8). When the writing does not fall within either of the three classes already described, no reason exists why it should exclude oral evidence. (1) "When the contents of any document are in question, either as a fact in issue or a subalternate principal fact, the document is the proper evidence of its own contents, and all derivative proof is rejected, until its absence is accounted for. But when a written instrument or document of any description is not the fact in issue, and is merely used as evidence to prove some fact, independent proof alunde is receivable. Thus, although a receipt has been given for the payment of money, proof of the fact of payment may be made by any person who witnessed it. (2) we rebal evidence we have the substitute of the fact of payment may be made by any person who witnessed it. (2) at it "(4) For

though when a contract has been reduced into writing by the parties the id must be produced; yet its not in every be proved has been committed to writing,

If, for instance, the narrative of an extrinsic fact, such as a payment, has been committed to writing, as in a receipt, it may yet be proved by parol evidence So a verbal demand of goods is admissible in trover, though a demand in writing was made at the same time. And, as already observed, the fact of birth, baptism, marriage, death or burial may be proved by parol testimony, though a narrative or memorandum of these events may have been entered in registers which the law requires to be kept; for the existence or contents of these registers form no part of the fact to be proved, and the entry is no more than a collateral subsequent memorial of that fact, which may furnish a satisfactory and convenient mode of proof, but cannot exclude other evidence, though its non-production may afford grounds for scrutinising such evidence with more than ordinary care (5) So also the fact of partnership may be proved by parol evidence of the acts of the parties without producing the deed.(6) So in accordance with these principles and their application in English cases, the third Explanation to this section enacts that "The statement, in any document whatever, of a fact other than the facts referred to in this section, shall not preclude the admission of oral evidence as to the same fact." In connection with this Explanation should be read Illustrations (d) and (e). In the first of these cases the incidental mention of what was done on another occasion had no reference to the terms of the contract embodied in writing. In the second case, the writing was merely a memorandum of the fact of the payment, and oral evidence of the payment is therefore admissible.(7) The facts referred to in this section are the terms (a) of a contract, (b) of a grant, (c) of a disposition of property. If therefore a document relates exclusively to something other than any of these facts, as

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Er , § 415.

<sup>10</sup> Sec a. S. (Black. (d). Sombert v. Cohen, 4. Esp. 218; Jacob v. Lindson, I East, 460; Taylor. Exp. 218; Jacob v. Lindson, I East, 460; Taylor. 4717, 721 (1882). It is a fact stated in a downment, but it an or evidence of the terms of written contact[], Redar Nafl v. Rawfonsian Biber 22 W. R. 435 (1875); Jacobas Kerujt v. Franifi Mannáhar, T. Bom. H. C. R. 45, 61 (1870); Dalp Snafa v. Durga France, 1 A. 442 (1877); Famus R. mchandra v. Dibandha Kristanya, 4 B. 120, 137 (1879); Sepone Commer v. Bluguras Chandre, 24 W. R., 228 (1875); Fas-Lagyer v. Franchalogyon, 3 M. 53, 56 (1881); the trevely strell is not, ing more than a collateral or subsequent memortal of that fact afford.

<sup>(3)</sup> So also in the case of birth, death, hurial; Taylor, Ev. § 416, and cases there eited; and see Jirandas Kesharji v. Framji Nonabhai, 7 Bom. H. C. R. 63 (1870), eited in 3, post.

<sup>(4)</sup> Best, Ev., 2nd Ed., p. 282, cited in Balhhadur Prasad v. Maharajah of Betsa, 8 A., 351, 356, 357 (1887).

<sup>(5)</sup> Jicandos Keshary v Franji Nanabhaj. 7 Bom W. C. R., 45, 62, 63 (1870), etting Taylor, Ev., § 445, 416, as to nature of evidence required in India in proof of date of birth; ve Shah Ara Begam v. Nanhi Begam, P. C. (1908), 29 A., 29; 34 I. A., 1.

<sup>(6)</sup> Alderson v Clay, I Star. R., 405; Venkstasubbith Chetty v. Govindarajalu Noidu (1908), 31 M., 35.

for instance, if it be a simple receipt, or if, though it be a written contract, grant. or disposition, it relates to some other independent fact, as for instance, the payment of the consideration-money, the fact of payment may be proved orally as well by the writing. It is a fact independent of the contract.(1) Written receipts for payments are import they of the nature of primary order to let in secondary.(2)

a bond hypothecating immovable property must have been registered under the provisions of the 17th section of Act VIII of 1871 to render it admissible as evidence under section 49 of the said Act. It was, however, held in the case undermentioned that under Illustration (e) of this section, such payments might nevertheless be proved by parol evidence, which was not excluded owing to the inadmissibility of the documentary evidence.(3) When the contents of a pottah (lease) are in any way in question, it is necessary to prove them by the production of the document; where this is not the case, but the fact of occupation and possession of land be in issue without respect to the terms of the tenancy, this fact may be proved by parol evidence, and notwithstanding such occupation has been under a pottah, such pottah need not be produced (4) The document called a Sodi Razinama (whereby a party relinquishes his right of occupancy of land in his possession to his landlord, and requests the latter to register the land in the name of another party to whom it has been sold), is not a document of the kind mentioned in section 91 of the Evidence Act, and therefore does not exclude the Courts from basing their findings upon other evidence, should any such exist (5)

92. When the terms of any such contract, grant, or other exclusion disposition of property, or any matter required by law to be of oral reduced to the form of a document have been proved according agreement to the last section, no evidence of any oral agreement or statement shall be admitted, as between the parties to any such instrument or their representatives in interest, for the purpose of contradicting, varying, adding to, or subtracting from, its terms :(6)

Proviso 1 .-- Any fact may be proved which would invalidate any document, or which would entitle any person to any decree

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Ev., 269

<sup>(2)</sup> Romesway Koer v Bhorat Pershal, 4 C W. N. 18 (1899)

<sup>(3)</sup> Dalip Singh v. Durga Paread, 1 A. 412 (1877), and see Waman Romehandra v Dhondsha Krishnay, 4 B., 126, 137 (1879) Soortoo Cormar. v. Bhugwan Chunder, 24 W. R., 328 (1875), I enlayyar v. Venkatasubbyyar, 3 M , 53, 56 (1881) Appama Nayumulu v Ramanna, 23 M , 92 (1899) . as to the proof of receipt , see Surps Lant w Bamemor Shaha, 24 C, 251 (1896), as to tenant's receipt as evidence of value, see Grank Chunder v. Souls Shilkerenhwar, 4 C W N., 631 (1900) (4) Kedar Nath v Shurtronissa Bilee, 24 W R. 425 (1875).

<sup>(5)</sup> Venhalesa v Senjoda, 2 M., 117 (1879) (6) See Illustrations (a), (b), (c) As to straig-

ers to the instrument, ere a, 99, post In England the rule also only applies to cases in which some civil right or hability is dependent upon the terms of a document in question Steph. Dig.,

Art. 92. The act makes no allusion to this As to contradiction, see Lano Neale, 2 Starking 105 Abbett v Hendricks, I M & G , 794 Higgi v. Senior 8 M & M., 854.

As to variation, see Mease v Mease, Couper 47 . Rawson v Wolker 1 Starkie, 361 . Houre v Graham, 3 Camp., 57 Vorley v. Harlord, 10 P.

As to addition, see Muller v. Tracers, S Bing . 254 Preston v Merceau 2 Wm Bl 1249, Maybank v Brooks, 1 Brown Ch Ca., 84 Meres v. Annille, 3 Wills, 275 Abetridas Aguricallah V. Shib Narayan, 9 C W N 178, 187 (1904) Krishnamarazu v. Manaju, 29 M., 495 (1915)

As to subtraction, see Kaises v Kaightly, Skinner, 54 Bestin v Emre 1 Taunt , 115 . Norton, Er . 273, 274 Gowlere, Er., 362, 364 no absolute class firation of the cases under those bradings is, however, possible as the evidence tendered frequently has the effect of offending in arreral or all of these p. nt .

or order relating thereto; such as fraud, intimidation, illegality, want of due execution, want of capacity in any contracting party, want or failure of consideration, or mistake in fact or law.(1)

Proviso 2.—The existence of any separate oral agreement as to any matter on which a document is silent, and which is not inconsistent with its terms, may be proved. In considering whether or not this proviso applies, the Court shall have regard to the degree of formality of the document. (2)

Provise 3.—The existence of any separate oral agreement constituting a condition precedent to the attaching of any obligation under any such contract, grant or disposition of property, may be proved.(3)

Proviso 4.—The existence of any distinct subsequent oral agreement to rescind or modify any such contract, grant or disposition of property, may be proved, except in cases in which such contract, grant or disposition of property is by law required to be in writing, or has been registered according to the law in force for the time being as to the registration of documents.

Proviso 5.—Any usage or custom by which incidents not expressly mentioned in any contract are usually annexed to contracts of that description, may be proved:

Provided that the annexing of such incident would not be repugnant to, or inconsistent with, the express terms of the contract.

Proviso 6.—Any fact may be proved which shows in what manner the language of a document is related to existing facts.

Illustrations.

(a) A policy of insurance is effected on goods "in slips from Calcutta to London." The goods are shipped in a particular ship which is lost. The fact that the particular ship was orally excepted from the policy cannot be proved.(1)

(b) A agrees absolutely in writing to pay B Rs. 1,000 on the first March, 1873. The fattat, at the same time, an oral agreement was made that the money should not be paid till the thirty-first March cannot be proved.(5)

(c) An estate called "the Rampur tea estate" is sold by a deed which contains a map of the property sold. The fact that land not included in the map had always been regarded as part of the estate and was meant to pass by the deed cannot be proved.(5)

(i) Nee Illustration (d) (e) Illustration (s) has been cited under this provise (Irkil, x-44), but it is not clear to what, if any, portion of the section it refers. The receipt is not a dispositive document at all feee s, Il II. (e) and it is only to such that the section applies.

<sup>(2)</sup> See Illustrations (f), (g), (k).
(3) See Illustrations (j) which should run ** A d B make contract in writing and orally ogree that it shall take effect, etc.," r note to like (j),

<sup>(4)</sup> Illustrates the section. See Rampiban Serongy v. Oghur Nath, 2 C. W. N., 188 (1897).

<sup>(5)</sup> Illustrates the section. See Ramishan Seroupy v. Oghur Acth, 2 C. W. N., 188 (1897).

- (d) A enters into a written contract with B to work certain mines, the property of B, upon certain terms. A was induced to do so by a misrepresentation of B's as to their value. This fact may be proved (1)
- (e) A institutes a suit against B for the specific performance of a contract, and also prays that the contract may be reformed as to one of its provisions, as that provision was inserted in it by a mistake. . 1 may prove that such a mistake was made as would by law entitie him to have the contract reformed.(1)
- (f) A orders goods of B by a letter in which nothing is said as to the time of payment. and accepts the goods on delivery. B sues A for the price. A may show that the goods were supplied on credit for a term still unexpired (2)
- (a) A sells B a horse and verbally warrants him sound. A gives B a paper in these words: 'Bought of A a horse for Rs. 500.' B may prove the verbal warranty.(2)
- (h) A hires lodgings of B and gives B a card on which is written-" Rooms Rs. 200 a month." A may prove a verbal agreement that these terms were to include partial board.
- A hires lodguigs of B for a year and a regularly stamped agreement drawn up by an attorney is made between them. It is silent on the subject of board. A may not
- prove that board was included in the term verbally (2) (i) A applies to B for a debt due to A by sending a receipt for the money. B keeps the receipt and does not send the money. In a suit for the amount A may prove this.(3)
- (i) A and B make a contract in writing to take effect upon the happening of a certain contingency. The writing is left with P who sues A upon it. A may show the circumstances under which it was delivered (4)

Principle.-When parties have deliberately put their mutual engagements into writing it is only reasonable to presume that they have introduced into the written instrument every material term and circumstance Consequently other and extrinsic evidence will be rejected, because such evidence, while deserving far less credit than the writing itself, would invariably tend in many instances to substitute a new and different contract for the one really agreed upon (5) See Note upon the principle of last section, as also the introduction, ante, and Notes, post. Unless the rule enacted by this section were observed, people would never know when a question was settled as they would be able to play fast and loose with their writings Therefore if a document form of a document, the admission of extrinsic evidence would plainly render such requirement nugatory.

- 3 (" Document.")
  - . 91 (Evidence inadmissible to supersede
    - document.]
- s. 3 (" Fact.")
- s 3 (" Court,")

- 13 (Facts relevant to prove custom.) 3 (" Evidence.")
  - s. 99 (Who may give evidence in variance of a document.)
  - s. 100 (Saving of provisions of Succession Act.)

- (i) Illustrates Proviso, (i)
- (2) Illustrates Proviso (2).
- (3) See p. 572, note (1), ante.
- (4) Illustrates Proviso (3), see p. 572, note (3) ante. Ramjiban Serongy v. Ogiar Nath, 2 C. W. A., 188 (1897)
- (5) Taylor, Ev , §§ 1132, 1158, Greenleaf, Ev., 1 275, Best, Ev., 1 226, Banapa v. Sundardas Jagistandass, 1 B , 333, 338 (1876). [The apparent object of the section is the discouragement
  - of perjury], Starke, Ev., 635. (6) Steph. Introd., 172.

Steph. Dg, Art. 90; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1132—1158; Starkie, Ev., 665—678; Wharton, Ev., §§ 920—101; Best, Ev., §§ 226—228; Wood's Practice Ev., §§ 14—52; Greenleaf, Ev., Ch. XV, Rovcoe, N. P. Ev., 16—27.

COMMENTARY.

The law with regard to the admissibility of oral evidence to vary the terms of a written document is not governed by the English law of evidence but by this Act, and therefore oral evidence to be admissible must come under one or other of the provisions of this section.(1)

Inadmissibility of extrinsic evidence to control document.

Extrassic evidence is inadmissible to control the document, that is, to contradict, vary, add to, or substract from its terms. Illustrations (a), (b) and (c) exemplify this proposition It has been observed that this section which formulates the rule "is not quite free from ambiguity. The words "no evidence of any oral agreement or statement shall be admitted as between the parties to any such instrument, dc, correspond with and have clear reference to the words 'contract, grant or other disposition of property' in the beginning of the section: but their application to 'any matter required by law to be reduced to the form of a document is not so evident "(2) It does not seem, however, that there is really any such ambiguity as is suggested in the above quoted passage. The words "contract, grant or other disposition of the property" in this section refer to the similar words in section 91, ere, "when the terms of a contract or of a grant or of any other disposition of property have been reduced to the form of a document," that is, cases where such reduction is the act of the parties The words " or any matter required by law to be reduced to the form of a document" in this section refer to the similar words in section 91. But a matter so required to be reduced may be either a contract, grant or other disposition of property. or it may be a fact such as the evidence of a witness, the deposition recording which is neither section, in this law requires to grants or other between the parties to any such instrument or their representatives in interest," which are only applicable in the case of documents which are of a dispositive character. The subject-matter of this section, therefore, are contracts, grants and other dispositions of property, whether embodied in documents by consent of parties or by requirements of law, and therefore the words "no evidence of any oral agree instrument" of property"

quired by la

set of facts from those contained in section 91, and proceeds upon a different principle from that section. The reasons which preclude extrinsic evidence in substitution of the document are not the same as those which prohibit evidence earlying the document when produced. Thus if the matter required by law to be reduced to writing be a disposition, oral evidence is admissible for the purpose of contradicting the writing (3). The presumption raised by section 80, ante, is not an irrebuttable one. Those reasons which preclude a person from giving evidence to vary a contract into which he has himself entered do not operate to prohibit evidence in variance of a document made by others as a record of his evidence.

Not only is the section limited in its operation to dispositive documents, but also to the parties thereto or their representatives in interest. Oral evidence to contradict, vary, add to, or subtract, from the terms of the writings is excluded only as between the parties to the instrument or their representatives in interest. Other persons may give evidence of any facts tending to show a contemporaneous agreement varying the terms of the document (section 99, post). A doubt has been expressed(1) whether the word earging must not be understood as restricted to "varying," in contradistinction to "contradicting, adding to or subtracting from "the terms of the document. There is, however, no reason to suppose that any such distinction which is certainly, unknown to English law, was intended. The word "varying" was without doubt employed as embracing (as in fact it does) both contradictions, additions and subtractions (2)

<sup>(1)</sup> Harok Chand v. Bishun Chandra, 8 C. W. (2) Field, Ev., 426. N., 101 (1903). (3) Field, Fv., 426.

Any person other than a party to a document or his representative may, notwithstanding the existence of any document, prove any fact which he is otherwise entitled to prove(3) and any party to any document or any representative in interest of any such party may prove any such fact for any purpose other than that of varying or altering any right or liability depending upon the terms of the document. The rule is, therefore, not infringed by the introduction of parol evidence contradicting or explaining the instrument in some of its recitals of Jacks. So it may be shown that lands described in a deed as being in one parish were in fact situated in another. So also evidence is admissible to contradict the rectal of the date of a deed [6]

It is to be observed that the rule does not restrict the Court to the perusal of a single instrument or paper, for while the controversy is between the original parties or their representatives, all contemporaneous writings, relating to the same subject-matter, are admissible in evidence (6) Nor does thus section affect the proof of an independent agreement collateral to some other agreement reduced into writing. So in the undermentioned case(7) an agreement to pay Rs. 500 a month to a lessor in consideration of receiving from him a permanent lease of portions of his zemindart, which agreement was come to before, but reduced to writing after, the execution of the lease, was held to be not affected by this section, nor to require registration, where it was not inconsistent with the lease; its provisions formed no part of the holding under the lease, the payment bargained for was no charge on the property, and it was not rent or recoverable as rent, but a mere personal obligation collateral to the lease

To the general rule are annexed certain provisos. This rule is, however, not infringed by the admission of evidence in the cases dealt with by the pro-

(1) Field, Ev., 426.

(2) Cunningham, Ev., 280. The sew hire taken has been recently approved in Pathanmad's. Rélaf Ravathar, 22 M., 289, 331 (1983), in which it was held that oral evidence was admissible the question not arising as between the pattree to as instrument or their privices, so as to bring within the purview of s. 92

(3) Bajesher Dayal's Pancho, A. W. N. (1906),
28 A., 473.

(4) Steph. Dig., Art 92, as to the restriction of the rule in England to civil cases, v. sb., R. v Adamson, 2 Moody, 186, and onte, p 571, note (6).

(3) Greenlest, Ev., § 283, and cases there cited. Sak Lei Clearly ** Leidengt, 4 C. W. N. 488. (1990) a. c., ≈ 2. 3., 350. Adalatarosacya v. Salberny, 23 M., 7, 11, 14 (1991); R. v. Szamanode, 3 T. R., 474; Ev. P. Ford, § 3. A. E., 699. Gelt v. Willeamon, 8 M. a. W., Mill, R. v. Firckham, 2 A. E., 517; Idl. V. Gezzrov, 4 Ext., 477, and are Cerculicit, Ev., § 300. In the application of the risk is necessary to be an immunitative than the 8th in necessary to be as in mind rather than the practife in which it originated than its formal chafacter, and this principle is simply to make the instruments the record of the transaction conclusive of its obligations. Accordingly the rule does not reclude contributory evidence of mere formed matter, such as dates, rectals and so forth, not being of the resence of the transaction since while presumable not to have been stated with formal precious, their correction would not trench on the obligatory portion of the instrument Gooders, Fr. Endonce of matters not forming a term of obligations is not excluded. 9.

(6) Greenbeaf, E. J. 203., and cases there eited Leede v Laccashire, 2 (ampl., 203.) Harthy v Bulkinson, 4 (ampl., 127, None v. Metcalfe, 1 Stark, R., 53. Boverlank v Montero, 4 Taunt, 146, per (abbs, J., Heat v. Liversone, 5 D.k., 395.

(7) Subramanian Chritiser v. Aranachalam Chritiser, 25 M., 603 (1912) . s e., 4 Bom. L. R., 839 visos. These cases do not form exceptions to the general rule enacted by the section, but are merely instances to which attention is drawn as not coming within the purview of the rule at all

This section was framed in accordance with the current of English decisions upon the question of how far parol evidence can be admitted to affect a written contract, and care must be taken in placing a construction upon it. not to create a precedent that would open a door to indiscriminate parol proof of transactions where documents have recorded what has passed between the parties.(1) Where, however, an agreement is admitted by both plaintiff and defendant, and it is therefore not necessary to prove it, the section has no application (2)

ts entirety reduced to a document

The rule applies only Therefore evidence may be given—firstly, to show that there was really where a dis-never any disposition at all; and secondly, to show that the document produced position is not the whole disposition. The rule operation Therefore evidence may be given-firstly, to show that there was really is not the whole disposition. The rule operates only when there has been in fact a disposition, the whole of which was meant by the intention of the parties to be embodied in the form of a document.

> Firstly.—Though evidence to vary the terms of an agreement in writing is not admissible. Yet evidence to show that there is not an agreement at all is admissible. Notwithstanding a paper writing which purports to be a contract may be produced, it is still competent to the Court to find upon sufficient evidence that this writing is not really the contract. And the risk of groundless defence does not affect the rule itself, though it suggests caution in acting on it (3) In the case last cited, which was one for money lent with interest, there was an agreement touching the transaction of loan, although the rate of interest was still unsettled and under discussion Before any final agreement and while the transaction was still incomplete, a promissory note was given not as a writing which expressed or was meant to express the final contract, but rather as a voucher, or a temporary and provisional security for the money pending the discussion respecting the rate of interest. It was held that if the note was then given and received, it should not be regarded as the contract between the parties, or as a written contract excluding other evidence of the true contract.

> The Court cited the observations of Erle, J, in Pym v Campbell.(4) who said: " the point made is that this is a written agreement, absolute on the face of it and that evidence was admitted to show it was conditional; and if that had been so, it would have been wrong. But I am of opinion that the evidence shewed that in fact there was never any agreement at all. The production of a paper purporting to be an agreement by a party, with his signature attached, affords a strong presumption that it is his written agreement, and, if in fact he did sign the paper animo contrahends, the terms contained in it are conclusive. and cannot be varied by parol evidence but in the present case the defence begins one step earlier; the parties met and expressly stated to each other that though for convenience they would then sign the memorandum of the terms, yet they were not to sign it as an agreement until A was consulted . I grant the risk that such a defence may be set up without ground, and I agree that a jury should, therefore, always look on such a defence with suspicion; but, if it be proved that in fact the paper was signed with the express intention that it should not be an agreement, the other party cannot fix it as an agreement upon those so signing. The distinction in point of law is that evidence to vary the terms

<sup>(1)</sup> Cohen v. Bank of Bengal, 2 A., 602 (1880). per Straight, J. (2) Satyesh Chunder v. Dhunput Singh, 24 C., <sup>20 (1896).</sup> Ree also Burjorp v Muncheris, 5 B , 143; cited in notes to a 58, ante.

<sup>13)</sup> Guddolur Ruthna v. Kunnattur Arumuga.

<sup>7</sup> Mad. H. C R , 189 (1872), following Pym v. Campbell, 6 E. & B , 370 , Harris v. Rickett, 28 L. J., Exch., 197.

<sup>(4) 6</sup> E. & B , 370; followed in Guddalur Ruth. no v. Kunnattur Arumuga, 7 Mad. H. C. R., 189, 196, 197 (1872).

of an agreement in writing is not admissible, but evidence to show that there is not an agreement at all is admissible." And Lord Campbell said: "I agree. No addition to or variation from, the terms of a written contract can be made by parol; but in this case the defence was that there never was any agreement entered into. Evidence to that effect was admissible; and the evidence given to this case was overwhelming. It was proved in the most satisfactory manner that before the paper was signed it was explained to the plaintiff that the defendants did not intend the paper to be an agreement till A had been consulted, and found to approve of the invention; and that the paper was signed before he was seen only because it was not convenient for the defendants to remain. The plaintiff aswnted to this, and received the writing on those terms. That being proved, there was no agreement." In the undermentioned case, the Privy Council held that the document which the plaintiff relied on as the contract between the parties contemplated only the making of a contract in the future when all the terms were left to be arranged.(1)

Secondly.—The rule land down in section 92 applies only when, upon the face of it, the written instrument appears to contain the whole contract. It is not necessary that the whole agreement should be in writing, and if, upon the face of that part of it which is in writing, it appears that there are other conditions, oral or otherwise, which go to make up the entire contract, there is no reason why these conditions, if made orally, should not be orally proved.(2) So where the plaintiffs sued for specific performance of an agreement in writing, which set forth, inter alid, that the defendants had agreed to sell it under 'certain conditions as agreed upon," and the defendants alleged that the written agreement did not contain the whole of the agreement between the parties, and offered parol evidence in support of their contention; it was held that such evidence was admissible to show what was meant by the clause "certain conditions as agreed upon" (3)

Section 92 applies only to cases where the whole of the terms of the contract have been intended to be reduced into writing. This is shown by the words "adding to" which appear in this section. Were it not for those words

A written agreement cannot be added to, because when a writing takes place, all other matters which were open before, are considered as settled by the written agreement being entered into and executed. It is otherwise when parties agree that a written document shall be executed, not embodying all the terms by which they are to be bound, and when by express arrangement the written document does not embody all the terms, but only a part, parol evidence is admissible to show what was the entire agreement between the parties (3).

In Harris v. Riclati, (6) Pollock, C. B., says: "We are of opinion that the rule should be discharged, on the ground that the writing does not contain and was not intended to contain the entire obligation of the bankrupt. They have not found, nor does it appear to us, that the writing was intended to contain the whole agreement, and we are, therefore, of opinion that the rule relied upon by the plaintiffs only applies where the parties to an agreement reduce it to writing and agree or intend to agree that that terting shall be their agreement?" And Bramwell, B., says. "The principle of the rule is that it must be assumed.

<sup>(1)</sup> Moung Shee v. Moung Tun, 9 (. W. N., 147 (1984), s. c., 32 C., 96.

<sup>(2)</sup> Cutts v. Brown, 6 C., 229, 337 (1880), Greenleaf, Fv. § 284s.

<sup>(3) 1</sup>b. (4) Jumna Dase v. Srenath Roy. 17 C., 178.

 <sup>(5)</sup> Blidanath Khetter v. Kalipravid Ajuru Mi,
 S. E. L. R., 89, 92 (1871).
 (6) 28 L. J., Exch., 167, 162 meet it Golden are that the parties agreed that the written agreement should be the evidence of the contract. The difficulty is that in this case there was evidence that the parties do not agree that the written agreement should be the evidence of the contract."

<sup>(6) 28</sup> L. J., Exch., 167, 162-sect. r. 6.1/2, or Fullman, Amandiur Aramaya, 7 Val. 1. C. 1., 189, 198, 199 (1872).

The rule that verbal evidence is not admissible to vary or alter the terms of a written contract is not applicable when the parties did not intend that the writing should contain the whole agreement between them; and this may appear either by direct evidence or by the informality of the document. The rule is grounded upon this,—that the parties to the instrument must be presumed to have committed to writing all which they deemed necessary to give full expression to their meaning. Where that appears not to have been their intention the rule is not applicable (1) So where a defendant gave a verbal warranty of a , horse which the plaintiff thereupon bought and paid for, and the defendant then gave him the following memorandum :- "Bought of G. P, a horse for the sum of £7-2-6-G. P ;" it was held that parol evidence might be given of the warranty, the Court considering that the paper was meant merely as a memorandum of the transaction or an informal receipt for the money and not as containing the terms of the contract itself.(2) Therefore, as in such cases oral evidence of the contract will not be excluded by section 91, ante,(3) neither will the terms of the present section constitute a bar to its admission. Oral evidence may be given to show that a document does not and was not intended to contain the whole of the contract between the parties. But if that evidence when given shows that the document or documents do contain the whole contract, evidence to contradict, vary, add to, or subtract from its terms will be excluded, and the intention of the parties will be gathered from a construction of the document or documents only (4) In the abovementioned cases oral evidence may be given. But there is also a third case which is distinguishable(5) from the last, viz , that dealt with by the second Proviso where there is a principal contract in writing and a separate collateral oral agreement as to a matter on which the document is silent and which is not inconsistent with its terms, in which case evidence of such agreement may be given under the terms of the Proviso mentioned. The fact that a lease or agreement has been signed will not preclude parol evidence of a collateral warranty that the drains are in perfect condition in a case where the lease or agreement was silent on the question of drainage (6)

Oral evidence is also admissible to show the moment of time at which a document becomes a contract, and to show, not that which was agreed to, but what was the condition of the paper when the parties agreed that it should be an agreement between them (7)

Bviderice of conduct

The section says "no evidence of any orol agreement or statement shall be admitted." There has been very considerable discussion on the question whether its terms, therefore, do or do not exclude evidence of conduct where such conduct is relevant. It does not, it has been held, necessarily follow from this section that subsequent conduct and surrounding circumstances

[Where it is shown that a written agreement does not contain and was not intended to contain, the whole agreement between the parties, the rule that paral evidence is not admissible to add to a written agreement has no application]

<sup>(1)</sup> Behoree Lall v. Kaminee Soondares, 14 W. R., 319 (1870)

<sup>(2)</sup> Allen v. Pini, 4 M. & W., 140, ceted in Beharee Lall v. Kaminee Soondaree, 14 W. R., 319 (1870), see Taylor, Ev., § 1134

<sup>(3)</sup> See ante, s. 91, second para. of notes to section.

<sup>(4)</sup> Cohen v Sutherland, 17 C., 919, 922 (1899), Harris v. Riclett, 4 H. & N., 1, followed in Kasheenath Chatterjee v. Chundy Chung, 5 W. R., 68, 73 (1866); and Guddalur Ruthna v. Kunnattur Arumuya, 7 Macl. H. C. P., 189, 198, 199 (1872) supra

<sup>(5)</sup> See Cuits v. Brown, 6 C at p. 338, where evidence was admitted, though the case was held by Garth, C J., not to come within the terms of Process (2).

<sup>(6)</sup> De Lassale v. Guildford (1901), 2 K. B., 215, Hoyd v. Sturgeon Falls Pulp Co. (1901) 85 L. T. (7) Meuarl v. Eddowes, L. R., 9 C. P., 311.

may not be given in evidence for the purpose of showing in certain circumstances the real nature of the transaction, as for instance that what on the face of it is a conveyance is in reality a mortgage.(1) There have been a large number of decisions in India in which the admissibility of such evidence has come in question with reference to the question whether evidence can be given to show that what purports to be an out-and-out conveyance was in reality a mortgage only. But it is not only in cases of mortgage that the Courts have drawn a distinction between parol evidence of a transaction and evidence of conduct indicating such a transaction, and while compelled by law to reject the one has not felt itself precluded from admitting, and acting upon, the other, though, (2) as already observed, the illustration of this distinction is chiefly to be found in cases relating to mortgages.(3)

The matter was at an early date, the subject of consideration of a Full Bench in the case of Kasheenath Chattergee v Chundy Churn. (4) In that case Peacock, C. J. (in whose opinion the majority of the Full Bench concurred) said :- "I am of opinion that verbal evidence is not admissible to vary or alter the terms of a written contract in cases in which there is no fraud or mistake, and in which the parties intend to express in writing what their words import.

intended that their contract should not be such as their written words express, but that which they expressed by their words to be an absolute sale should be a mortgage. It is said that there is no Statute of Frauds, and therefore parties may enter into verbal contracts for the sale of lands in the Mofussil without .. . But admitting that the law allows sales of land or other contracts relating to land to be made verbally, it does not follow that if the parties choose to reduce their contract into writing, they can bring forward mere verbal evidence to contradict the writing, and to show that they intended something different from that which the writing expresses and was intended to express

.... If mere verbal evidence is admissible in this case to contradict a written contract, it would apply to every other case, and a man who writes ' one thousand 'intending to write 'one thousand' might prove that by a verbal agreement the words 'one thousand' were not intended to mean 'one thousand,' but only one hundred. Nothing could be more dangerous than the admission of such evidence Further, if it be held that such evidence is admissible, the whole effect of the new Registration Act would be frustrated .... ... The plaintiff in the present case alleged that he took possession in 1266, and that in 1270, the defendant forcibly dispossessed him The defendant says that the plaintiff never took possession and that he was never forcibly ousted. If possession did not accompany or follow the absolute bill-of-sale, it would be a strong fact to show that the transaction was a mortgage and not a sale; and it, therefore, becomes material to try whether the plaintiff was ever in possession and forcibly dispossessed as alleged by him, and whether, having reference to the amount of the alleged purchase-money, and to the value of the interest alleged to be sold and the acts and conduct of the parties, they intended to act upon the deed as an absolute sale or to treat the transaction as a mortgage only for I am of opinion that parol evidence is admissible to explain the acts of the parties, as for example to show why the plaintiff did not take possession in pursuance of the bill-of-sale, if it be found that the defendant retained possession and that the plaintiff never had possession as alleged by him, and was never forcibly dispossessed (5) And Behary Ghose, 3rd Et . p. 221 , Shyama Claren care of a lear.

<sup>(1)</sup> Kaski Nath v. Hurribur Mosterjer, 9 C.

<sup>(2)</sup> Balm Latshman v. Goranda Annji, 4 B., 194, 601, per Mclvill, J. (1880), and me theagov. Aslarem, 4 Born. H. C. R., 120 (186). (3) See The Law of Mortgage on India by Rach.

<sup>1</sup> Herus Mellal, 26 C., 160 (1898), which was the (4) 5 W. R., 68 (1866).

<sup>(5)</sup> Kades Nath v. Chande Chura, S W. R. 69, 72 (16GG).

Campbell, J., said that "When these actings of the parties are at variance with when possession of the property has not beer then parol evidence to explain these facts at, although parol evidence may not be mav admitted purely and simply to contradict the terms of a formal and public written instrument duly acted on, it may, as between " be admitted in support of substantial acts and from the effect of the instrument "(1) The c: to the first Court to try the issue whether, having regard to ' the acts and conduct or as a mortgage only.

This decision does not appear to have been always entirely acquiesced in. nor did some of the subsequent cases follow the principles which had been laid down by it.(2) In one case it appears to have been considered that this decision was overridden by section 92 of this Act (3) It has, however, been subsequently held that the law on this point under the Act and in England is the same, the rule contained in this section being that of the common law modified by equitable

A Full Bench of the Calcutta High Court has also recently held that oral evidence of the acts and conduct of the parties, such as oral evidence that possession remained with the vendor notwithstanding the execution of a deed of out-and-out sale is admissible to prove that the deed was intended to operate only as a mortgage. (7) And in a more recent case the Privy Council have held that a transaction which purported to be a sale was really a gift (8)

(1) Kashee Noth v Chundy Churn, 5 W R. 68, 72 (1866)

(2) Madhub Chunder v. Gungadhur Samunt, 11 W. R. 450 (1869), s c., 3 B. L R, 86 ("1 confess that I have some difficulty in compreheadmy the distinction between the admissibility of evidence of a verbal contract to vary a written instrument, and the admissibility of evidence showing the acts of the parties, which, after all, are only indications of such unexpressed unwritten agreement between the parties") Per Jack. son, J. commented upon in Balsu Lakshman v Hovinda Kanji, 4 B , 594, 690 (1880) , Ram Doclat v. Radha Nath, 23 W. R., 167 (1875); Daimcod. dee Past v. Kaim Turidar, 5 C., 300 (1879) , * c , 4 C. L. R , 419 ; Ram Dyal v. Heera Lall, 3 C L R , 386 (1878) , [following Banapa v. Sundardas Jagierandas, 1 B., 333 (1876)] dissented from in Hem Chunder v. Kally Churn, 9 C , 528 (1883)

(3) Dasmoddee Pask v Kaim Toridar, 5 C., 300, 302 (1872). See as to this case Khetridae Agarmilla v. Shib Nurawan, 9 C. W. N. 178, at p 183 (1904) The question has been recently raised again in Datton v. Ramchandra Tolarom, 7 B L. R. 669 (1905).

(4) Baken Lakshman v. Gounda Kanji, 4 B., 594, 606, 607 (1880),

(5) See Hem Chunder v. Kally Churn, 9 C., 529 (1883), s. 92 of the Evidence Act lays down in terms the same rule as Sir Barnes Peacock then stated to be law, following the case in last note and dissenting from Daimouldee Park v. Kaim Taridar, supra, and followed in Kashi Nath v. Hurrihur Mookerjee, 9 C , 898 (1883)

(6) Philos Monee v Greesh Chunder, 8 W. R. 515 (1867) , Sheilh Paralds v. Sheikh Mohamed. 1 B L R , A C , 37 (1868) . Nunda Lall v Prosunno Moyee, 19 W R , 333 (1873), Hasha Khand v Jesha Premays, 4 B , 609 n (1878), s c., 7 B , 73 . Baksu Lakshman . Gounda Kanji, 4 B , 594 (1880) , Hem Chunder v Kally Churn. 9 C , 528 (1883) , s c , 12 C L R., 287, Kashi Nath . Hurrihur Mookergee, 9 C . 898 (1883) . Behary Lall v Tey Narayan, 10 C., 764 (1884) . lenkatrainam v Reddiah, 13 M., 494 (1890); Raklen v Alagappudayan, 16 M., 80 (1892); Kader Moiden v Nepean, 21 C P. C), 882 (1894). s c , 21 I A , 96 [See also Holmes v. Matheus 9 Moo P C , 413 (1855) , Mutty Lall v. Anundo Chunder, 5 Moo I A., 72 (1819)] See Barton v. Bank of New South Wates, L. R., 15 App. Cas.. 379; Balkishen Das v. Legge, 19 A., 434 (1897).

(7) Presnath Shaha v. Madhu Suddan 25 C. 603 (1898); s c., 2 C. W N . 562 followed in Khanlar Abdur v. Als Hafez, 28 C., 256 (1900) . Mahomed Ali v. Nazur Ali, 28 C., 289 (1901) -Ram Sarup v. Allah Bakha, 107 P. L. B. (1905).

(8) Ismail Mussages v. Hafiz Boo, 10 C. W. N., 570.

The principle of this decision was applied to a lease in a subsequent case in which it was held that evidence of conduct, as for instance return of the lease, was admissible to prove that such return was due to an intention to make the lease inoperative.(1)

It is however a question whether these decisions are not affected by the recent decision of the Privy Council in Balkishen v. Leqqe, (2)

It has been held by the Calcutta High Court that the Privy Council decision in Balkishen v. Legge, (3) holding oral evidence of intention to be inadmissible, does not in any way affect the rule laid down in the last mentioned Full Bench case, but rather supports it, there being a distinction between mere oral evidence of intention and evidence as to the acts and conduct of the parties. (4)

A different view has recently been expressed by the Bombay High Court(5) where it was said in answer to a contention that the circumstances required the Court to draw an inference that the document was not what it appeared to be. "We can only understand that as meaning that the document was accompanied by a contemporaneous oral agreement or statement of intention, which must be inferred from these several circumstances." This, it was held, was opposed to the Privy Council decision in cases in which a party was not entitled to rely on any of the provisor to the section.

The High Court of Madras have also taken a different view of the decision, oral agreement or statement between the parties that a deed was to operate in a different manner than it purports to operate; and that no exception is made in any of the provises to this section or elsewhere in the Act in favour of evidence which consists of the acts and conduct of the parties from which an inference might be drawn that there was an oral agreement to vary the terms of the contract or grant (6)

The principle upon which evidence of conduct has been admitted is explained by Melvill, J., in his judgment in the case of Balsu Lakshman v. Gobinda Kanji. (7) in which he held that .--. A party, whether plaintiff or defendant, who sets up a contemporaneous oral agreement as showing that an apparent sale was really a mortgage, should not be permitted to start (8) his case by offering

- Shyama Charan v. Heras Modah, 26 C.
   (1899). but see Mayands Chetts v. Oliver, 2
   V. 281 (1899)
  - (2) 22 A, 149 (1899), s c, 27 1 A, 58 (3) 27 I A, 58 (1899), s c, 22 A, 149
- (4) Khankur Addar N. Ali Heire, 28 C., 250 (1000) (vulunce admissible of repartment of money, return of deed, and acts of possession by vundors), s. c., 5 C. W. N., 231, Islahamed 44, Anner Al., 28 C., 280 (1001), (evalunce admissible of promise by venidee to restore the proventy on replayment in two or three years), s. c., 5 C. W. N. 228 Second Appeal, Calcutta High Court, 699 of 1879.
- (5) Lattoo v. Ramchandra Tidaram, 7. Bom L. R., 669 (1945) (5) Achairamaraja v. Salkaraja, 25 M., 7 (1901)
- (7) 4 B., 594 (1880), referring to this case Carth, C. J., saal. In the latter case there will be found an excellent judgment of Mr. Justice Welvill, in which he very clearly explain. Use principle of equity, and the mode and the circumstances under which it may be applied." Hem Chunder v Kally Churn, 9 C at p. 533 (1888) and see Behary Lall v Tey Narayan, 10 C , 764 (1894), at pp 767, 768 ' If we may say so, we entirely concur in these decisions (Balsu Lalshman v Gorinda Kanja, supra, Hem Chun. der Soor v Kally Churn, supra), indeed the lummous and able judgment of Melvill, J , in the Bombay case cannot but commend steelf to the mind of every lawrer," per Tottenham and Norrus. Jl. Balon Lolahman v Gottada Kanji, has been followed in Hem Chunder v Kally Churn, supra , Behary Lall . Te; Acress, supra . hash Nath . Hurribur Monterpee, 9 C , 898 (1883), Irnlatentnam v. Redduth, 13 M., 494 (1690). Ratten v Hamppudayan, 16 M., 80 (1692).

(8) This rule prohibiting parol evidence in the first instance was applied in Polary Lell v. Tep Norma, 10 C., 764, 768 (1884), but discrited from in Pakira v. Alayappadayas. 16 M., 80, 83 (1882), v. red. direct parol evidence of such oral agreement, but if it appears clearly and unnistakeably from the conduct of the parties, that the transaction has been treated by them as a mortgage, the Court will give effect to it as a mortgage, and not as a sale, and therefore, if it be necessary to ascertain what were the terms of the mortgage, the Court will for that purpose allow parol evidence to be given of the original oral agreement."(1)

Although parol evidence will not be admitted to prove directly that simultaneously with the execution of a bill-of-sale there was an oral agreement by way of defeasance, yet the Court will look to the subsequent conduct of the parties, and, if it clearly appears from such conduct that the apparent vendee treated the transaction as one of mortgage, the Court will give effect to it as a mortgage and nothing more It is a mistake to reject evidence of the conduct of parties to a written contract on the ground that it is only an indication of an unexpressed unwritten contract between them Conduct is, no doubt, evidence of the agreement out of which it arose, but it may be very much more. In many cases it may amount to an estoppel. In such a case it is clear that evidence of conduct would be strictly admissible under section 115 of this Act And even when conduct falls short of a legal estoppel, there is nothing in the Evidence Act which prevents it from being proved, or, when proved, from being taken into consideration Courts of Equity in England will always allow a party (whether plaintiff or defendant) to show that an assignment of an estate, which is, on the face of it, an absolute conveyance, was intended to be nothing more than a security for debt, and they will not only look to the conduct of the parties, but will admit mere parol evidence to show or explain the real intention and purpose of the parties at the time. The exercise of this remedial jurisdiction is justified on two grounds, viz , part-performance and fraud "

"The Courts in India are not precluded by the Indian Evidence Act from The rule of estoppel, as laid down in section exercising a similar jurisdiction 115, covers the whole ground covered by the theory of part-performance section does not say, that in order to constitute an estoppel, the acts which a person has been induced to do, must have been acts prejudicial to his own interest Its terms are sufficiently wide to meet the case of a grantor who has simply been allowed to remain in possession on the understanding and belief that the transaction was one of mortgage, and thus every instance of what the English Courts call 'part-performance' would be brought within the Indian rule of estoppel. But the ground upon which this jurisdiction of the Courts in India may most safely be rested is the obligation which hes upon them to prevent fraud (2) The Courts will not allow a rule or even a Statute, which was passed to suppress fraud, to be the most effectual encouragement to it, and, accordingly, in England the Courts, for the purpose of preventing fraud, have in some cases set aside the common law rules of evidence and the Statute of Frauds The Courts in of the Legislature, which, by enacting the provisions of section 26, clause (c) of the Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), has shown an intention to relay the rules that justice may be done between the parties (v. post.)

<sup>(1)</sup> As was observed by Wigman, A. C., in Duler, Hamblon (5 Hare, 33b), and also by Jessel-Mr. R., in Ungley R. Ungley (L. R., 5 Ch. D., (1897), the conduct of the parties shows that so, contract reconcilable with such conduct musts have taken place lation in brigant parties and the Coart is consequently compelled to admate valence of the terms of the contract. In other materials and the contract in our contract of the contract.

<sup>(2)</sup> St. Biolanath Khetr. v. Kalipravod Agar-vallah, 8. B. L. R., 89 (1871). Hem Chunder v. Kally Churn, 9 C., 5:5, 533 (1883); Knish Neth v. Hurriher Mosterjet, 9 C., 893 (1883), Kallen v. Alapappudappu, 16 M., 89, 81, 83 (1892). See Field, Ev., 429

of the Indian Evidence Act, so as to bring them into conformity with the practice of the English Courts of Chancery.

Melvill, J., further intimated that in his opinion First Proviso to this section was large enough to let in evidence of such subsequent conduct as in the view of the Court of Equity would amount to fraud, and would entitle a grantor to a decree restraining the grantee from proceeding upon his document. If the admission of this evidence can be justified on the grounds that it is within the purview of the first Proviso of the section, there can clearly be no ground for the contention that it in any sense contravenes its terms. As already observed, this was the opinion of Melvill, J, in the case cited who said :(1) " Or they may think, and this is a view which is certainly capable of being supported by argument, that the case may be made to fall within the first Proviso to section 92, which admits parol evidence of fraud to invalidate a document. It is true that it was held in Banapa v. Sundardas(2) that the fraud mentioned in the section must be fraud contemporaneous with, and not subsequent to, the making of the document, and the Court refused to entertain the argument, which is suggested by Mr. Dart in his work on Vendors and Purchasers (p. 954, 4th Ed.), that the refusal to fulfil a promise may be taken to show that the promise was originally fraudulent. But, admitting that such an argument can hardly be maintained I must still say that the words of the first proviso to section 92 are very wide, and declare that any act of fraud may be proved which would entitle any person to any decree relating to a document, and it is not quite clear to me that these words are not large enough to let in evidence of such subsequent conduct as, in the view of a Court of Equity, would amount to fraud, and would entitle a grantor to a decree restraining the grantee from proceeding upon this document.

Similarly in the more recent case of Rakken v. Alagappudayan(3) Muttusami Ayyar, J, said: "I destre, however, to rest my decision on the ground stated by Lord Justice Turner in Lincoln v. Wright (4) His lordship said in that case without reference to the question of part-performance on which I do not think it necessary to give any opinion, I think the parol evidence is admissible and is decisive upon the case. The principle of this Court is that the Statute of Frauds was not made to cover fraud If the real agreement in this case was that as between the plaintiff and W, the transaction should be a mortgage, it is in the eye of this Court a fraud to insist on the conveyance as being absolute, and parol evidence must be admissible to prove the fraud. Assuming the agreement proved, the principle of the old cases as to mortgages seems to me to be directly applicable. Here is an absolute conveyance when it was agreed that there should be a mortgage, and the conveyance is insisted on in fraud of the agreement. The question then, as I view it, is whether there was such an agreement as this bill alleges, and, upon the evidence, I am perfectly satisfied that there was Besides, the agreement for the mortgage was only part of the entire transaction, and the appellant cannot, as I conceive, adopt one part of the transaction and repudiate the other. Thus the ratio decidends was that the conveyance formed only part of the real agreement, and that the oral agreement which gave a claim to equitable rehef formed another part of the same transaction Again, the ground for departing from the ordinary rule of evidence, was subsequent unconscionable conduct in taking advantage of that rule, and thereby endeavouring to muslead the Court into the belief that what was only an apparent sale but a real mortgage was a real sale and not a mortgage. The fraud referred to by the Lord Justice was not fraud practised at the time when the document was executed, but the advancement of a claim in fraud of the true intention or

<sup>(1)</sup> At p. 608.

<sup>(2) 1</sup> B., 233 (1876) See also Catta v. Brown, 6 C., 328, 338 (1880), The Law of Mortgage an

<sup>(5) 16</sup> M , 80, 82, 83 (1892).

<sup>(4) 4</sup> DeG. & J., 16, also referred to in Bolbishes Das v. Legge, 19 A., 434 (1897).

India ty Rash Betary Ghose, 3rd Ed., p. 221.

the real agreement of the parties. ' It seems to me that section 92 of the Evidence Act, as observed in VenLatratnam v. Reddiah(1) does not render evidence of the oral agreement inadmissible, for, if the real agreement were proved, it would invalidate the document as a deed of absolute sale within the meaning of the first Proviso to section 92 of the Evidence Act, and constitute a ground for a Court of Equity and good conscience giving effect to it only as a mortgage" It has, however, been also held that the fraud referred to in this Proviso must be contemporaneous and not subsequent fraud, in which case if the proposition be correct. this Proviso so far as it makes provision for relief against fraud, would scarcely be applicable(2) (v. post). The same learned Judge, however, upon the question whether or not a party should or should not be allowed to start his case with proof of a contemporaneous oral agreement expressed his dissent from the rule laid down in that respect in Baksu Lakshman v Govinda Kanji, saving(3) "Nor do I see my way to adopting the rule that a party should not first start his case with proof of a contemporaneous oral agreement, and then confirm it by evidence of subsequent acts and conduct of the parties, but that he should prove the latter first and then proceed to prove the former The subsequent acts and conduct are only indications of the contemporaneous oral agreement, and it is such agreement that is the real ground of equitable relief. Such rule involves in it the anomaly that, while indirect evidence of the true agreement is admissible, notwithstanding section 92, direct evidence of the same is not admissible. I do not, however, desire to be understood as saving that it would be safe to rely on the uncorroborated oral evidence of the contemporaneous oral agreement at variance with the terms of a document, but I think the absence of corroborative evidence in the shape of subsequent possession and conduct and other circumstances is an objection that ought to go to the credit due to the parol evidence and not to its admissibility In the case before us, there was such corroborative evidence, though the weight due to it was a matter for the Judge to determine "

ance of several things, and then one large sum is stated to be payable in the event of a breach, such sum must be considered a penalty; but when it is agreed that if a party do or refrain from doing any particular thing, a certain sum shall be paid by him, then the sum stated may be treated as liquidated damages. A bond for De 20000 which provided for reverse at the rate of Rs 1-4 "We hereby promise and giv n of Rs 3.000 on account of the interest.......And in case of our failing to pay year by year the anid our of Re 2 MM the same shall be considered as some

But in the absence of fraud or of conduct indicating fraud, parol evidence will be excluded. Thus where a document contains covenants for the perform-penal clause, and that the conditions therein would not be enforced. but it was held that the clause was not penal, but in the nature of an agreement to pay liquidated damages, and that the plaintiff was entitled to a decree for the amount due on the bond with interest as agreed upon, and approving and distinguishing the cases of Balsu Lakshman v Govinda Kanp. (4) and Hem Chunder Soor

<sup>(1) 13 11 . 495.</sup>

<sup>(2)</sup> Banapa v. Sundardas Jarjiwandas, 1 B., 333 (1876); Cutta v. Brown, 6 C., 328, 338, (1880), and see The Law of Morigage in Indea, by Rash Behary Ghose, 3rd Ed., p. 221.

<sup>(3) 16</sup> M at p Bi-

<sup>(4) 4</sup> B, 594 (5) 9 C . 528

<sup>(6)</sup> Bihary Lal v. Tej Narain, 10 C., 764 (1984)

and no parol agreement which purports to modify the terms of the contract of mortgage can be proved.(1)

As this rule turns on the fraud which is involved in the conduct of the person who is really a mortgagee, and who sets himself up as an absolute purchaser, the rule of admitting evidence for the purpose of deteating this fraud would not apply to an innocent purchaser, without notice of the existence of the mortgage, who merely bought from a person who was in possession of title-deeds and was the ostensible owner of the property.(2)

In the decision of the Privy Council, already referred to(3) the Judicial Committee with reference to the admission by the High Court and Subordinate Judge of the evidence of a party to the suit and one of his witnesses for the purpose of proving the real intention of the parties observed as follows:—"Their Lordships do not think that oral evidence of intention was admissible for the purpose of construing the deeds or ascertaining the intention of the parties section 92 of the Indian Evidence Act no evidence of any oral agreement or statement can be admitted as between the parties to any such instrument or their representatives in interest for the purpose of contradicting, varying or adding to or subtracting from its terms, subject to the exceptions contained in the several provisos It was conceded that this case could not be brought within any of them which were referred to by the los e opinion of the Acts of rounding circumstances as may be required to show in what manner the language of the document is related to existing facts "(5). This decision was recently followed in a case where the defendants sought by oral evidence to prove the intention of the plaintiff that what was apparently a sale should operate as a rift, it being admitted that nothing could be elected from the acts and conduct of the parties after the execution of the deed as their acts and conduct would be as consistent with their position as vendors as with that of donces (6)

As already stated(7) it has been held by the Calcutta High Court and though not by the more recent decisions of the Bombay and Madras High Courts that this decision does not in any case exclude evidence of conduct. It does not, it is said, lay down any rule of exclusion of evidence over and above that contained in this section which excludes any oral agreement or statement, but not evidence of the acts and conduct of the parties not being in the nature of an oral agreement or statement The evidence which the Privy Council held in admissible consisted of the statements of one of the parties to the transaction and of a pleader which went to show that at the time when the negotiations were going on, which led to the execution of the deeds under consideration, one of the parties said that he would not execute the deeds unless it was a mortgage and the other answered, and that answer was supported by the pleader that the two deeds which they were going to have would together amount to a mortgage only That was adduced as evidence of the intention of the parties, and that evidence was considered inadmissible

<sup>(1)</sup> Maharaj Singh v Raia Bulwant Singh (1908), 29 A., 508 (2) Kashi Valh v Hurrihur Mockerjer, 9 C.,

<sup>698 (1683).</sup> Fakter v. Alagoppudayan, 16 M., 80 81, 82 (1892) (3) Ballishen Das. v. Legge, 22 A., 149, 159

<sup>159 (1879).</sup> s. c. 4 C. W. N. 153. The decision of the High Court is upheld in 19 A. 434 (1877) (4) Alderson v. White, D.G. & J., 105. Lin.

oda's Wright, 4 DeG & J., 16, were referred to by the High Court, See as to this class of cases, Rockefoucauld v. Eoustend, L. R., 1897, I Ch., 196.

<sup>(5)</sup> Baltisken Inc. v. Legge, 22 A., 158, 159 (1899).

<sup>(6)</sup> Fatt-ra-rised v. Harri-ra-rised, 2 All. L. J., 369, 363 (1905). s. c., 27 A., 612.

<sup>(7)</sup> Y. ea'c, p. 580.

That evidence consisted only of oral statements of the parties, and therefore came directly within the scope of this section. There was no other evidence of the acts and conduct of the parties adduced in that case which was considered by the Privy Council.(1) Such evidence of intention is obviously inadmissible So evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement at the time of sale of immovable property that the property was to be reconveyed on repayment of the consideration-money has been held inadmissible.(2) There are, however, decisions both earlier and later than that of the Privy Council in which the Courts have in order to judge of the nature of a transaction had recourse to the acts and conduct of the parties and to the circumstances, as for example, where it was sought to show that an apparent sale was really a mortgage, to the circumstance that the property which was worth Rs 250 was apparently sold for Rs. 35.(3) Whilst, however, these cases decide that evidence of conduct is admissible, they leave untouched the question whether, when evidence of conduct has been admitted to show that a transaction is not what on its face it appears to be, oral evidence mow than he given to show what were the terms of the real transaction It has b (4) There are. however, two decision or approximate to the views of the Mauras and Dombay High Courts, as expressed in the most recent decisions (5)

As already stated the position adopted by these High Courts following the decision of the Privy Council is this:—

The English Chancery cases are inapplicable The question must be determined by the provisions of this section, which precludes evidence of any oral agreement or statement. Admittedly direct evidence of any statement of intention is excluded. But evidence of conduct is only relevant as leading to the inference of a contemporaneous oral agreement (6) Subsequent acts and conduct are only indications of the contemporaneous oral agreement which agreement is the ground for relief. The admission of evidence of conduct involves the anomaly that while indirect evidence of the true agreement is admissible. (7) If evidence of conduct does not establish an agreement other than that appearing on the face of the document, it is irrelevant. If it does, then it is excluded by this section which probibits evidence whether direct or indirect subject to the terms of its Provisos.

The true rule would therefore appear to be that any evidence whether of conduct or otherwise tendered for the purpose of contradicting, varying, adding to, etc., a document is excluded by the terms of this section unless it can be shown to be admissible under the Provisos(8) as on the ground of fraud.(9) If

- Khankar Abdur v. Ali Hafez, 2 C., 256, 258, Gl900), Mohamed Ali v. Novar Ali, 28 C.
   Gl901; 2nd Appeal, Cal. H. C., 696 of 1899 Lune, 1901). Contra see Achularamaraju
   v. Subbaraju, 25 M., 7 (1991).
- (2) S. A., 32 of 1904, Mad. H. C., 6th Sept. 1905, 15 Mad. L. J., 8 n., 9
- (3) Second Appeal, Cal. H. C., 696 of 1899 (11th June, 1901), cor. Amer. Ah and Pratt, JJ.
- (4) v. ante, p. 582, Balen Latchman v. Gorinda Knapi, 4 B. 594 (1889) In Rolline v. Alapappudayan, 10 M. 50, 52, 53 (1892), the Court des accred with the huntation imposed in the former case pre-enting a party from advantag his case by direct parol evaluace of the alleged oral agree-
- (5) Radhu Raman v. Bhowani Prasad, 5 C. W. N., cexesi (1991), Rahiman v. Elahi Bulsh, 28

- C , 70 (1900), v post
- (6) Achularamaraju v Subharaju, 25 M., 7 (1901) Dattoo v. Ramchandra. 7 Born L. R., 669, (1905), Radha Raman v Bhowant Prasad, 5 C.
- W. N., cercvi (1901) (7) Raklen v. Alagappudayan, 16 M., 80 at p. 83 (1892).
- (6) Battoo v Romehander 7 Born L. R. (89) 70 (1993). This of course does not preclude a person from relying on the provision of the section, but there is no case noside here which would conside us to say that any of these province are applicable to the circumstances of the care applicable to the circumstances of the care applicable to the circumstances of the care Tray One of the provision o
- could not be brought within any of the provisor.

  (9) Kahiman v. Elahi Balih, 28 C, 70 (1800)

  Maung Bin v. Ma Illaing (F. B.), 3 L. B. R., 100;

a case comes within the Provisos, then any evidence of conduct or otherwise may be given. In short the same principles apply to the admission of evidence of conduct as indirect evidence of the existence of a contemporaneous oral agreement as to the admission of direct evidence. Neither are admissible unless the case can be shown to come within the Provisos to the section.

Persons who are not parties to a document or their representatives in in- "As be terest may give evidence of any facts tending to -----.....

ment varying the terms of the document.(1) " between the parties to any such instrument, one side and the other came together to make the contract of anyposition of pro tives in in perty, and would not apply to questions raised between parties on the one side terest only of a deed regarding their relations to each other under the contract. The words do not preclude one of two persons in whose favour a deed of sale purported to be executed, from proving by oral evidence in a suit by the one against the other, that the defendant was not a real but a nominal party only to the purchase, and that the plaintiff was solely entitled to the property to Thus M conveyed certain houses and premises to plaintiff and defendant jointly by a sale-deed Plaintiff sued defendant for ejectment from the premises, alleging that he alone was the real purchaser, and that defendant was only nominally associated with him in the deed. Held that section 92 of the Evidence Act did not preclude that he alone was the real purchaser.

cribed in the sale-deed as one of the tv case said: "In the case before us, the 'parties' in this sense would be the vendor on the one part and the two vendees on the other part 'As between' the vendor and themselves, neither of the vendees would be heard to plead, or would be allowed to offer oral evidence to show that both were not parties to the buying of his house Neither vendees could resist the vendor's claim for the price, or for any other relief properly arising to him out of the contract, on a plea intended to show that one of the two was a nominal party only to the contract. Similarly one of the several obligors of a bond or bill-of-exchange would not be allowed in answer to the obligee's action on the joint instrument to maintain a plea that he was a surety only; except of course in a case where a money-lender made advances on the security of a joint and separate note, being well aware at the time that one of its makers was a surety only. In such a case, notwithstanding the form of the note, the surety has been allowed to plead, as an equitable defence, and prove, that he was known by the lender to be surety when the note was made, and that without his consent, the principal had time given to him by the lender Such a case as this would fall probably under the first Proviso to section 92 But, on the other hand, we think that this section would not apply to questions, like that of the present case, raised by the parties on one side, inter se and not affecting the other party to the contract, touching their relations to each other in the The evidence in this respect would be offered not to vary, contradict, add to, or subtract from, the terms of the vendees' joint hability under the contract of purchase and sale from their vendor, but only to show as between themselves, the two vendees, to wit, which was the real purchaser, or rather whether M was not the trustee only of his brother G P Analogously. in the case of the promisors of a joint note, it is competent to one of them, who has had to pay the entire debt. to show in variation of the terms of the note, as against a co-promisor, that the payer was a surety only, and proving this to get a decree for indemnification against his co-promisor (3)

Ablaji Annaji v Turman Tubaram 8 Bom L. r . 533

(1) S. P3, part we not to that section. Sec. l'athenmal v. Synt Lates, 27 M., 329, 331 (1913), dissenting in this respect from Palimen v. Flaki Bat-4, 28 C , 70 (1900). (2) Mulchand v. Madhe Pam, 10 A, 421

(3) Mulchesd v. Modlo Pam, sujes, at pj-423, 424.

'For the purpose of contradicting, varying, adding to, or subtracting from, its terms."

See Illustrations (a), (b), (c). The following cases may also be taken together with those cited, and, and, post, in the Note to the second Prouso as illustrations of the me, uning of these words. In a suit for ejectment in which the defendant pleaded that there was an oral agreement between him and his lessors that he should be entitled to a renewal of the lease for three years, it was held that evidence of this oral agreement was madmissible as it was inconsistent with the terms of the second clause of his lease, which provided for the defendant giving up possession of the premises on receiving a month's notice to quit, and which was as follows: "If you mean me to vacate at the completion of the term, you must give one month's notice. In accordance therewith I will vacate and give up possession to you."(1)

In the case next cited R. N., prior to his death, was a partner with defendants in the firm of N C. and Co. He died on the 8th November 1884. On the 9th November 1885, his executors passed a release to the defendants, which recited that R's share in the firm and future business had ceased on his death; that the surviving partners had requested the executors to settle the account of their testator with the firm, and that after examining the books and taking accounts, etc., a balance of Rs. 8,395-11-0 was found due, on payment whereof the executors released the defendants from all claims in respect of the share and interest of R, &c. On the 7th April 1887, the executors assigned over to the plaintiff a one-anna share in the said firm, and the plaintiff, as assignee brought this suit for a declaration of his right to the share and for an account. He alleged that there had been no accurate examination of the books at the time of the release, that the amount really due to the testator's estate by the firm had not been ascertained; and that it had been agreed on by the partners at the time of the release, that, in addition to the sum therein mentioned, the executors as representing the testator's estate should receive a one-anna share in the partnership The defendants denied the right of the plaintiff, and contended that the interest of R and his estate in the partnership ceased at his death. They relied on the release, and denied any agreement to give the executors a share; and contended that, under section 92 of the Evidence Act (I of 1872) no evidence could be given of the alleged agreement For the plaintiff, it was contended, that the agreement as to the one anna share was quite independent of the release It was held, that evidence of the agreement that the executors should continue to have a one-anna share in the partnership was inadmissible as being inconsistent with the written release By the release the executors of R released the partners from all claims whatever in respect of R's share, and the consideration for that release was stated in the document to be a lump sum, on payment of which under the writing, all claims arising out of the old partnership ceased and determined The oral agreement added another term to the consideration for the release in respect of the past accounts, viz., the continuance of a one-anna share in the partnership Such an agreement was an addition to the

was inconsistent with

And where in a suit on a promissory note payable on demand the defendant admitted execution and consideration, but pleaded that it was agreed between the plaintifi and the defendant at the execution of the note that the plaintiff should not bring any suit to enforce payment of the instrument, until a certain event, and that as such event had not happened the suit was permature, it was held that such a defence as that raised could not be admitted under this section

<sup>(1)</sup> Ebrahim Pir v. Cursetyi Sorabjee, 11 E., 644 (1887). See as to terms in contravention and defeasance of those of the instrument. Moran v. Mitts Biber, 2 C., 58 (1878); Cohen v. Bank of Bengal, 2 A., 598, 602 (1880), Jadu Ra, v. Bhubolaran Nundy, 17 C., 173, 186 (1889) and the sunt was accordingly decreed against the defendant (1) Had this evidence been admitted it would have had the effect of contradicting the terms of the document. As the third Proviso under which the evidence was tendered, is a Proviso only, and not an Exception to the section, it leaves the general rule enacted thereby in its integrity. The condition precedent to which that proviso refers is a condition the subject-matter of which is dehors the contents of the instrument, and, therefore, if effect be given to this condition it cannot effect the terms of the document itself.

<sup>(2)</sup> Concasti Rultongi v Harporti Hustornji, 21 B. 335 (1888).

But in defence to a suit upon a hypothecation bond payable by instalments it was pleaded that, at the time of the execution of the bond, it was orally agreed that the obligee should, in heu of instalments, have possession of part of the hypothecated property, until the amount due on the bond should have been liquidated from the rents, that, in accordance with this agreement the plaintiff obtained possession of the land; and that he had thus realized the whole of the amount due. It was held that the oral agreement was not one which detracted from, added to, or varied the original contract, but only provided for the means by which the instalments were to be paid, and that it was, therefore, admissible in evidence.(2) Where there was a registered partition-deed allotting the several joint properties among the different sharers, and the partition-deed whilst it made special provisions for giving access to other portions was silent as to the right of access of a particular house fallen to the share of a particular sharer, the latter, it was held, could not set up an oral agreement to give him the right as the same was not admissible under this section (3) In the undermentioned case(4) it was held that an alleged agreement to pay interest was either a part of the agreement embodied in the Lhata or it was a separate agreement. If the former, then under this section evidence of it was inadmis-' te the agreement now omitted.

Procedure Code,

In the absence of a contract to that effect an agent cannot personally enforce or be bound by contracts (5) The agent is hable if, by the terms of the contract, he makes himself the contracting party Evidence is not admissible to show '' le face of a written contract to he per-to snow the race of a written contract to be personally contracting party, and, therefore, not liable as hen it appears upon a written contract that the agent is liable, he is not, unless he can show that there was a mistake and that the writing did not properly express the intention of the parties, (7) entitled to discharge himself by reason of his agency for the effect of the written instrument cannot be varied by oral evidence (8). The Contract Act, moreover, provides that such a contract (that is a contract by the agent personally) shall be presumed to exist in three specified caves, unless the contrary appears, one of which cases is where the agent does not disclose the name of his principal. This probably means in the case of a written contract where the name of the principal is not disclosed on the face of the contract. The Contract Act should

<sup>(1)</sup> Rampibun Serouspee v Oghur Nath, 1 C. W. N., evin , 2 C. W. N., 189 (1897).

<sup>(2)</sup> Ram Balsh v Durjan, 9 A . 392 (1887)

<sup>(3)</sup> Arteinameau v. Morracu, 15 Mad. L. J. 255 (1985) (4) Roschand Vedechand v. Naran Birkha, 28

B., 310 (1984) (5) Contract Act (1X of 1872), a 230, in which

<sup>(5)</sup> Contract Act (IX of 1872), a 250, in which the converse rule to that which obtains in England is laxl down, see S. C., 77, as to Negotiable Instruments, see s. 75, Act XXVI of 1881, as to evalence of usage v. post. In Calcutta, where a render of goods deals with the banism of an Furopian firm, que banian, he can only look to the latter for the price. Skis Fassalls v. Eamstonad Mater. 2 B. L. P., O. C. J., 7, 8, 9 (1857).

Jamal Heller, Z.B. L. R., O. C. J., T. B. 9 (1857).
(6) Bepinbelars. v. Famelandra, S. B. L. R., 234, 242, 243 (1870).

<sup>(7)</sup> Wate v. Harrop, 6 H & N., 769.

<sup>(8)</sup> See Cunningham and Shephard, Contract Act, note to a. 200; Taylor, Ev., § 1153.

be read subject to the provisions of this section, and if on the face of a written contract an agent appears to be personally lable, he cannot probably escape liability by the evidence of any disclosure of his principal's name apart from the document.(1) On the other hand it has been held that there is nothing to prevent the production of evidence to show that the person who is not liable upon the face of the contract is in fact chargeable under it.(2)

In the undermentioned case, (3) Jackson, J., speaking of beaum transactions observed: "In this very large class of cases it seems to me that the rule in regard to the admission of parol evidence to vary written contracts will not apply, and I conceive that the decisions, refusing to allow an agent, who enters into a written contract, in which he appears as principal, to offer parol evidence for the purpose of exonerating himself are wholly wide of the case before us "(4) In the case of principal and surety the rule is that the liability of two persons prinarily liable is not affected by a private arrangement between them as to surety-slup (5) Oral evidence is not admissible to show that one of the executions of a note of hand signed it only as surety and that his liability was only to the extent of standing as a surety for one month (6)

In the undermentioned case the plaintiff sued to recover money which he had been compelled to pay in virtue of a mortgage executed by his two half-sisters and himself. His claim was based on the plea that, though appearing in the bond as a co-obligor, he was in reality merely a surety. Held that evidence was admissible to show that the plaintiff executed the mortgage-bond as a surety only.(7)

Where the contention was as to whether evidence could be given to show that a will was really intended for the benefit of a person, other than the one mentioned therein, the Court stating that there was no authority in India upon the subject, held that in the absence of any such authority, it doubted whether it was open to adduce such evidence unless the Courts here acted upon the principle which, in cases of this class, is acted upon in the English Courts, namely, that a party setting up a secret trust must adduce evidence to prove that it was communicated by the testator to the universal legatee, and that the legatee agreed to accept the property bequeathed in the terms of trust (8). And in a recent case it has been held that where the testator at the time of the disposition or after it informs a legatee of a secret trust which the latter accepts expressly or by implication the legatee becomes a trustee as in English law and that trusts may be proved by oral evidence (9)

Proviso (i)

to point to the apparent recittude of the document and to claim protection from enquiry under a rule which exists against the contradiction and variance of the terms only of those instruments the validity of which is not in question In such case the Court is not bound by the mere "paper expressions" of the Soopromonian Selly v. Reilgers, 5 C., 71, 79 (1879).

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 1153, 1154. Etpia Rehari v. Ram Chundra, 5 B. L. R., 443 (1870). [It is quite another matter whether evadence may be admitted to charge another presen as the prin-

<sup>(3)</sup> Bepin Behae, v. Ram Chandra, 5 B. L. R., 234, 248, 249; s.c., 14 W. R., 12 (1870).

<sup>(4)</sup> And see Donnelle v. Kedaraath Churkerbutty, 7 B. L. R., 730, 727 (1871); the be named as is not an agent for either party but a stranger to the whole business, whose name only is used.

<sup>(5)</sup> S 132 of Contract Act, and see Progres v. Bank of Eragol, 3 C, 174 (1877) distinguished in Harel (Thand v. Bishna Chundra, S C W. N., 161 (1903), Taylor, Ev., § 1153

<sup>(6)</sup> Harel Chand v Bushun Chandra, S.C. W. N., 101 (1903) (7) Shamsh-ul-Jahan Begum v Ahmad Wols,

<sup>25</sup> A., 337 (1903). (8) Kali Charan v. Rom Chandra, 30 C., 783

<sup>(9)</sup> Manuel Louis Kunha v Jaqua Coello (1907), 31 M., 187.

parties and is not precluded from enquiry into the real nature of the transaction between them. Hence the declaration in this Proviso (1) In order that an agreement may constitute a perfect contract it must have been made by the free consent of parties (i.e., without coercion, undue influence, fraud, misrepresentation or mistake), competent to contract, for a lawful consideration and with a lawful object, and it must not be one which is expressly declared by the Contract Act to be coid.(2) And in order to dispose of property by will a person must be of sound mind and not a minor. And a will or any part of a will, the making of which has been caused by fraud or coercion or by such importunity as takes away the free agency of the testator, is void.(3) Such being the conditions imposed by law as necessary to the existence of a perfect contract, grant, or other disposition of property, the want of such conditions as invalidate the document or entitle any person to any decree or order relating thereto may clearly be proved without infringing the general rule enacted by the section. The rule proved without intringing the general and selected by this section is simply a canon of evidence. The instrument must be to the contradiction and is not in question. Oral fact which would invalidate a document Thus agreements by way of wager are void.(4) So, though the burden of proof that an agreement is a wager, that is, that it is not in sub-relating thereto. Thus A institutes a suit against B for the specific performance of a contract, and also prays that the contract may be reformed as to one of its provisions as that provision was inserted in it by mistake A may prove that such a mistake was made as would by law entitle him to have the contract reformed.(6) Where neither party is in error as to the matters in respect of which they are contracting, but there is a mutual error in the reduction of the contract into writing, then the Court interferes for the purpose of reforming the contract and not of rescinding it (7) This Proviso is not exhaustive, that is merely confined to cases of fraud, intimidation, etc. As appears from the use of the word "such as" these are set out by way of illustration only. Any fact may be proved which would invalidate any document (8)

A party will be allowed to give parol evidence when the execution of such document was obtained from him by fraud (9) Thus in a suit by a purda lady (1) Fraud to set aside a bill-of-sale, execution of which by her had been obtained by collusion and fraud, the Court admitted parol evidence to show that the bill-of-sale

- (1) Bens Madhab v. Sadasook Kotary, 9 C W N., 305, 308 (1905), s c, 1 C L. J, 155, 32 C, 437, per Woodroffe, J.
- (2) Act IX of 1872 (Contract), s. 10, as to competency to transfer property, see Act IV of 1882 (Transfer of Property), s. 7, the Chapters and sections of which Act relating to contracts are to be taken as part of the Indian Contract Act. (3) Act X of 1865 (Indian Succession), sa. 46, 48, extended to the wills of Hindus, &c., by Act
- XXI of 1870, a. 2 (4) Act IX of 1872 (Contract), s. 30
- (5) Falor Post v Tentatarebbe Rau, 17 M. 490 (1894), Anuprhand Hemchand v. Champs Ugorchand, 12 B., 583 (18%), both came desentmg from Juppernath See v Ram Dysl, 9 C., 791 (1953), which last decision is incorrect and has
- since been overruled [Bens Modhab v. Sadason). Kotary, 9 C W. N . 305, F B (1905)] sc, 1 C. L. J. 155 32 (', 437, and in which as was pointed out in the sufsequent cases above cited the effect of Process (1) to s 92 does not appear to have been considered. See also as to contracts forbilden by statute or common law Adobresath Chatterjee's Chundy Churn, 5 W. R., 68, 71 (1666)
- (6) 8 92, Illust (e) Frkl, Er , 432, Makendra Nath v Jogendra Nath, 2 (. W. N., 26) (1897), cited post.
  - (7) Fry on Specific Performance, 1 787.

1 W. R., 76 (1884).

(8) Bens Madhab v Nodamok Kotury, 9 (. 11. N., 345 (1945), a c., 32 ( , 437, per 11 codreft, J. (9) As to fraud, see Act IV of 1872, as, 17, 14. 19, Assim Mundle v. Presmutty Acce Line.

was intended by her to operate only as a mortgage (1) So a plaintiff sued to recover rent under a kabuliat. The defendant admitted execution of the kabuliat, but asserted that he executed it in order to enable the plaintiff to sell the land at a high price, the plaintiff agreeing to make over to him Rs 282 out of the purchase-money and to obtain for him from the purchaser a mourasi poilah of the land, it never having been intended that any rent should be payable under the kabuliat. It was held that under this provise evidence of the oral agreement was admissible for the purpose of proving the fraudulent character of the transaction between the parties (2)

There is a conflict of opinion on the point whether the fraud referred to in tract is void, or voidable, or subject to reformation, upon the ground of fraud. duress, illegality, &c , in its inception ; and not to cases where the agreement being in itself perfectly valid and free from any taint of that kind, one of the parties attempts to make a fraudulent use of it as against the other. It will be found that the rule laid down in section 92 of the Evidence Act is taken almost verbatim from Taylor on Evidence (1st Edition), section 813, and the exceptions which follow in the several provisos are discussed in sections 816 to 841 of the same work That being so, I think it is quite legitimate to refer to those sections, as one means of ascertaming the true meaning of the provisos The substance of the proviso, and the examples showing the meaning of that proviso, are contained and explained in sections 816 to 819, and it will he found that they all relate to the reception of evidence for the purpose of invalidating contracts by reason either of fraud, illegality, &c., in their inception, or of some subsequent failure of consideration. For this reason, as well as from the language of the proviso itself, I think that it is not intended to apply to a case where the contract itself being valid, one of the parties wishes to make an improper use of it (7)" On the other hand, it has been observed that the jurisdiction of the Courts to admit parol evidence of conduct of the parties to show that an apparent sale was really a mortgage rested on the basis of fraud, and that the words of the first proviso to section 92 were very wide and declared that any act of fraud might be proved which would entitle any person to any words were no in the view o

335, per Pontifex, J.

grantor to a decree restraining the grantee from proceeding upon his document
A person cannot both approbate and reprobate the same transaction. A party cannot show the true nature of a transaction by proof of fraud for his own relief and insist on its apparent character to prejudice his adversary. Their Lordships of the Privy Council in Shah Makhanlal v. Srikrishna Singh, (8) (1) Manchar Dav., Bhagabat Dasi, 1 B. L. R. (6) Benaja v., Sundrales Jagyisandas, 1991s.

and see remarks in The Lan of Morigage in India,

(7) Balsu Lalshman v. Gotinda Kanji, 4 B., 594, 608 (1880); and see to same effect, Ballen

Bhagwant v. Ray Pandu, 8 Born. L. R., 287

by Rash Behary Ghose, 3rd Ed., p 221.

(6) 6 C., 328 (1880) at p. 338, and see Keshararan

<sup>(1)</sup> Manonar Das V. Bangaban Dasi, I B. E. P. O. C., 28 (1807).

<sup>(2)</sup> Kashi Nath v. Brindahan Chuckerbutty, 10 C., 649 (1884). (3) Banapa v. Sundardas Jagjicandas, 1 B.

 <sup>333, 338 (1878),</sup> Cutte v. Brown, 6 C., 328, 318, s., 7 C., L. R., 171 (1880), per Garth, C. J.; Prevanth Shaba v. Madha Sudan, 25 C., 606 (1898)
 (4) Bolen Latchman v. Govinda Kanji, 4 B., 504, 608 (1889); Ballen v. Alapappuduyan, B., 80, 83 (1802); Cutte v. Brown, upra, at p.

Alagappudayon, 16 M., 80, 83 (1892), Cutts
 Brown, 6 C, 228, 335 (1890), per Pontifex, J.
 2 B. L. R., P. C, 44, 48, 49 (1809); the rule was followed and applied m Lola Himmat Leuhellen, 11 C., 480, 400 (1885), v. 704.

observed upon this principle as follows: " The rules of evidence, and the law of estoppel, forbid any addition to, or variation from, deeds or written contracts The law, however, furnishes exceptions to its own salutary protection; one of which is, when one party for the advancement of justice is permitted to remove the blind which ludes the real transaction, as for instance, in cases of fraud, illegality, and redemption, in such cases the maxim applies, that a man cannot both affirm and disaffirm the same transaction, show its true nature for his own relief, and insist on its apparent character to prejudice his adversary. This principle, so just and reasonable in itself, and often expressed in the terms, that you cannot both approbate, and reprobate the same transaction, has been applied by their Lordships in this Committee to the consideration of Indian appeals, as one applicable also in the Courts of that country, which are to administer justice according to equity and good conscience. The maxim is founded not so much on any positive law, as on the broad and universally applicable principles of jus nishes one instance of judgment of their Lo obligations of the lease, and claim the benefit of it."

When consent to an agreement is caused by coercion (and similarly by un- (b) Intimidadue influence), the agreement is a contract voidable at the option of the party tion whose consent was so caused.(2) "Coercion" and "Undue influence" are defined by sections 15 and 16 of the Indian Contract Act. A will or any part of a will, the making of which has been caused by fraud or coercion or by such importunity as takes away the free agency of the testator, is void.(3) Parol evidence may be given to prove such coercion or undue influence, as for instance, that the writing sued upon was obtained by improper means such as duress (4)

The consideration or object of an agreement is unlawful if it is forbidden (c) Illegality by law; or is of such a nature that, if permitted, it would defeat the provision of any law; or is fraudulent; or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another; or the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to public policy. Every agreement of which the object or consideration is unlawful is void (5) So also a bequest upon a condition the fulfilment of which would be contrary to law or to morality is void.(6) Under this Proviso parol evidence may be given of illegality, namely, the unlawful character of the object or consideration of the agreement or condition in question, as for example to show that a contract not disclosing these was really made, for objects forbidden either by Statute or by common law.(7) ue execution of a document being necessary to make operative the dis-(d) Want of position therein contained, want of such execution may be proved for the pur-duc execu-pose of invalidating the document. In some cases as in the matter of wills, (8) tion or the law has enacted that their execution shall be governed by certain rules. may be shown that those rules have not been followed and that thus the disposition has thereby become defective (9) So also it may be shown that the party was incapable of contracting, by reason of some legal impediment such as minority, idiocy, insanity or intoxication (10) An agreement is not a con-

<sup>(1) 10</sup> Moo. I. A , 356.

<sup>(2)</sup> Act IX of 1872 (Contract), s. 19.

<sup>(3)</sup> Act X of 1865 (Indian Succession), s. 43.

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor, Ev., a. 1137.

<sup>(5)</sup> Act IX of 1872 (Contract), s. 23; as to consideration and object unlawful in part, see as 24, 57, 58, sb. Cf. definition of "illegal" in Penal Code, s 43,

<sup>(6)</sup> Act X of 1865, s. 114.

<sup>(7)</sup> See Cullins v. Dlantern, 2 Wills, 347; s. c., 1 Smith, L. C., Benyon v. Netlefeld, 3 Mac. & G.,

<sup>94.</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 1137. 1 Smith, L. C. (Note to Collins v. Blantern), and cases there cited. Hill v. Clarke, I All, L. J , 632 (1904), s c., 27 A., 266 [the Court will take notice of illegality even though not pleaded). (8) Act X of 1865 (Indian Succession), Part VIII, extended to Hindus by Act XXI of 1870.

s. 2. Part IX. (9) See Taylor, Ev., § 1135

<sup>(10)</sup> See ib., § 1137.

tract, if made by a party who is not competent to contract.(1) Contractual competency is defined by the 11th and 12th sections of the Indian Contract Act.

(c) Want or failure of consideration.

An agreement made without consideration is void, unless it is made on account of natural love and affection in writing and registered, or is a promise to compensate for something done, or is a promise to pay a debt barred by the nt in the compensate for something done, or is a promise to pay a debt barred by the nt in the contract of the contract o ıt (3) So also this section prevents the admission of oral evidence for the purpose of contradicting or varying the terms of a contract, but does not prevent a party to a contract from showing that there was no consideration, or that the consideration was different from that described in the contract. Where, however, a deed of sale described the consideration to be Rs 100 in ready cash received, but the evidence showed that the consideration was an old bond for Rs. 63-12-0 and Rs. 36-4-0 in cash, it was held that there was no real variance between the statement in the deed and the evidence as to consideration, having regard to the fact that it is customary in India, when a bond is given wholly or partially in consideration of an existing debt to describe the consideration as being "ready money received."(4) So also a deed of putowa contained a recital of the payment of the sum of Rs. 2,000 as bonus to the plaintiff by the defendant, the mode of payment being stated to be in cash in one lump sum. The plaintiff sued to recover the sum of Rs 1,850, alleging that only Rs 150 had been paid and not Rs. 2,000 as recited in the putowa. The defendant admitted that Rs 850 was due, and as to the remaining Rs. 1,000 alleged that, at the time of the transaction, it was agreed that the sum of Rs 1,000 was to be retained by him on account of a debt due by one of the plaintiff's relations to him The plaintiff objected that the evidence of the agreement set up by the defendant was inadmissible. But it was held, that, masmuch as it was open to the plaintiff under the first Proviso of section 92 of the Evidence Act to prove by oral evidence that the whole of the consideration-money had not been paid, it was equally competent to the defendant, in answer to such case, to adduce evidence to prove the true nature of the contract, and that the consideration was different from that stated in the contract. It was held, also, that the plea of the defendant substantially was that, although the consideration was fixed at Rs 2,000, there was a separate oral agreement to the effect that out of that sum the plaintiff was to refund Rs, 1,000 on account of the debt due from his relative and that on this ground the oral evidence tendered was admissible under the second Proviso of section 92 of that Act (v. post), the stipulation as to the refund of Rs. 1,000 not being inconsistent with the recital as to the consideration in the contract (5) Under this proviso it may be shown that an acceptor of a bill never had any consideration for it and that he accepted it for the accommodation of the drawer or some other party.(6) Section 92 will not debar a party to a contract in writing from showing, notwithstanding the recitals in the deed, that the consideration specified in the deed was not in fact paid as therein recited, but was agreed to be paid in a different manner (7) The Privy Council have in a recent decision held that it is a settled law that notwithstanding an admission in sale-deed, that

<sup>(1)</sup> Act IX of 1872, s 10.

<sup>(2)</sup> Act IX of 1872 (Contract), s 25

<sup>(3)</sup> Chowdhry Deby v. Chowdhry Deulad, 3 Moo I. A., 347 (1944), and see Shatik Wider v. Shatik Kumur, 7 W. R., 428 (1851); Doobha Thacov v. Fem Leal, 7 W. R. 408 (1857); the Cases, of Mussemmut Rander v. Skib Dusyd, 7 W. B., 324 (1857), and Mussemut Ram v. Elden Dyd, 8 W. R., 339 (1867) are no longer law. See s. 115, post.

<sup>(4)</sup> Hukum Chand v. Hindal, 3 B., 159 (1876);

see also Yeuvista Bhellu v Nersamma, 5 M., 6, 8 (1882) [the provisions of a 92 do not prohibit the disproof of a vectal in a contract as to the consideration that has passed by showing that the actual consideration as something different to that alleged] Kumera v Sriniasa, 11 M., 212, 215 (1882).

<sup>(5)</sup> Lala Himmat v Lleuhellen, 11 C, 486.
(6) Pogose v. Bank of Bengal, 3 C, 174, 184
(1877).

<sup>(7)</sup> Indayet v Lal Chand, 18 A., 168 (1895).

the consideration has been received, it is open to the vendor to prove that no consideration has been actually paid. The Evidence Act does not say that no statement of fact in a written instrument may be contradicted, but the terms of the contract may not be varied, etc. So where the contract was to sell for Rs 30,000, which was stated in the deed to have been received, it was held competent for the vendor without infringing any provision of the Act, to prove a collateral agreement that the purchase-money should remain in the hands of the vendee for the purposes and subject to the conditions alleged by him (1) Where one of the parties to a deed is under any of the provisions of this section permitted to go into oral evidence, it is open to the other party also to rebut that evidence by oral evidence So where a deed recited the payment of a certain consideration, and the plaintiff denied the passing of any consideration and adduced evidence in support of his contention, it was held open to the defendant to go into oral evidence to show that there was some consideration for the deed, though not the same as recited in the deed.(2) And it has been held that the "want or failure of consideration" contemplated by this proviso is a complete want or failure of consideration, since no consequence invalidating the document could otherwise follow.(3)

Mistake may exist either in the intention or purpose of the parties or be a O Mistake mistake in rendering their intention into words. As regards the first an agree- in fact or ment is void when both parties are under a mistake as to a matter of fact(4) and for this purpose a mustake as to a law not in force in British India has the same effect as a mistake of fact.(5) In such cases there is no contract at all. Further where a contracting party who cannot read has a written contract falsely read over to him and the contract written differs from that pretended but misappreciates its legal effect, he cannot deny its execution.(6) But a contract is not voidable merely because of the mistake of one party as to a matter of fact(7), nor because it was caused by a mistake as to any law in force in British India (8) Oral evidence is admissible of such mistake which, if established, shows that there was no agreement at all.

But the mistake may be one in rendering the intention into words, an agreement being not void if the mistake be one for which a remedy may be obtained by the reformation of a document. In such cases there is an agreement, but the words in which it is expressed do not rightly represent the meaning of the the it as a set of a state a contact or other instrument > · institute a suit to admissible to correct the mistake What in such case is rectified is not the agreement but the mistaken expression of it.(10)

If some plain and palpable error has crept into the written instrument equity formerly, and the Courts of common law now, sanction the admission of vidence to expose the error (11) In such cases, especially where recourse is

1) Sak Lalchand v. Indrajit, 4 C. W. N., 485 (1900); s c., 22 A , 370; m which it was held that evalence was a imissible to show that consideration had not been received notwithstanding the recital of that fact in the deed ; followed in Fair-un-nism v. Hanif-un-nism. 2 All. L. J. 160, 364 (1995).

(2) Kallant Chandra v. Hursch Chunder, 5 C. V. N., 158 (1900)

(3) Keshararao Bhaganni v. Ray Pandu, 8 Bom L. R., 287.

- (4) Act 1N of 1872 (Contract), s. 20
- (5) Ib., s 21. See Taylor, Ex , §§ 1134, 1140 (6) Dagla v. Bhanc, 28 B , 420 427 (1984). (7) Act IX of 1872, s. 22.
- (8) 15 , s 21. & Taylor, Et , supra.
- (9) Act I of 1877 (Specific Relat), # 31 (10) Dayle v. Blana, 28 B , 430, 425 (1904).
- where the subject of matake as discussed. (11) Guardhouse v. Blackburn, L. P., 1 P. & D. 109, 115, cding Wale v. Harrop, 6 H & N., 768 Rom Sarup v. Allah Palla, 107 P. L. B. 1 had to equity for relief, the extrinsic evidence is not offered to contradict a valid existing agreement: but to show that from accident or negligence the instrument in question has never been constituted the actual depository of the intention and meaning of the parties. Cases of this nature are nearly of kin to those of fraud; it is in point of conscience and equity an actual fraud to claim an undue benefit and advantage from a mere mistake contrary to the real intention of the contracting parties. Such evidence, however, ought not, for obvious reasons, to be allowed to prevail, unless it amount to the strongest possible proof. The most satisfactory evidence for this purpose consists of the written materials and instructions which were intended by the parties to be the basis and ground plan for the construction of the intended instrument (1) Thus where parties covenanted to convey an estate in trust, to raise £30,000 to pay off debts and encumbrances, with remainder over, parol evidence was admitted to show that it was the concurrent intention of all the parties to raise that sum in addition to the sum of £24,000, with which the estate was encumbered (2) So also in cases of marriage-settlement, where mistakes have been committed, and in consequence, the deeds have varied from the instructions of the parties, they have been rectified by the Court The same has also been done in instances of mercantile and other contracts (3) The first Proviso does not limit the admissibility of oral evidence to a suit to obtain a decree on the ground of mistake. Where the plaintiffs brought a suit to recover possession of some land on the allegation that it was covered by the conveyance executed in their favour by the defendant, and the defence was to the effect that what was intended to be sold and purchased was the revenue-paying estate of the defendant, but that the land in suit which was the homestead of the defendant, though found included in the estate, was not expressly excepted, because both the parties were under the mistaken impression that it was not so included, but was lakki-727, and it was contended that it was not open to the defendant to raise such a defence in this suit; it was held that it was open to the Court to allow oral evidence to prove the mutual mistake, and that where there is a mutual mistake of fact in a case, as here, a Court administering equity will interfere to have the deed rectified so that the real intention of both parties may be carried into effect and will not drive the defendant to a separate suit to rectify the instrument (4)

Proviso(2)

The rule excluding parol evidence to vary or contradict a written document is not infrigned by proof of any colluteral parol agreement which does not interfere with the terms of the written contract, though it may relate to the same subject-matter; (i) it does not prevent parties to a written contract from proving that, either contemporaneously or as a preliminary measure, they en-the evidence moreover, will in no case be admissible, if the oral agreement is inconsistent(8) with the terms of the written instrument. If, however, the

<sup>(1)</sup> Starke, Ev. 675.—677, and cases there circle. See as to the rectification of instruments on the grounds of metake. Act 1 of 1877, ch. III.; Nelson's Special Relad Act, pp. 81.—62, 223, 228, Story, Eq. Jur., Ch. V.; Taylor, Ev., By 1130, 1140; Plollock's Law of Fraud in Britchia India, 122; Anaron Mandle v. Neor Beolog. 1 W. R. 76 (1891); Bablu Bumpti, V. Skelth Bumch, 2 Nar., 8 W. R., 152 (1897); Dopdu v. Bhann, 28 B., 429 (1994).

<sup>(2)</sup> Shillourne v. Inchipun, 1 Bro. C. C., 338.
(3) Starkie, Ev., 576, and cases there exted.
In Durya Prosed v. Bhojan Lall, 31 C., 614, 626 (1004), the P. C. held that no rectification was needed and that the case was not touched by this section

<sup>(4)</sup> Mohendra Nath v. Jogendra Nath, 2 C. W. N., 260 (1897)

<sup>(5)</sup> Kasheenath Chatterjee v Chunds Churn (F-B), 5 W R., 69, 69, esting Taylor, Ev., § 1147 (6) Taylor, Ev. 2 1128

<sup>(6)</sup> Taylor, Ev. $ 1135. (7) See Illustration (h), Mayer v Alston, 16

M., 233, 254, 255 [1802], and pair (8) See Merakim Firv. Curseifi Serabji, 11 B 644 (1887), Concay: Rethony v. Burjerji Rustonyi, 12 B., 335 (1889), Cutta v. Brown, 6 C 328, 338 (1880), Sabayathy Mudali v. Kupupusmi Mudali, 15 M. L. J., 225.

document is silent on the matter and the agreement is consistent(1) with its terms, it may be proved.

So when a promissory note is silent as to interest, a verbal agreement made subsequent to the execution of the note to pay interest may be proved under this clause.(2) And in a suit upon a hathchitta the Court, having regard to the informal nature of the document sued upon, allowed evidence to be given of a verbal agreement to repay the amount acknowledged with interest, no mention having been made as to interest in the hathchitta itself (3) See for a further application of this Proviso Hummat Sahai Sungh v. Lleuhellen.(4)

When an instrument is not formal, it may, as already observed, often be shown that some additional and supplementary agreement was made contemporaneously with the principal one. When an instrument is a formal one, it is often extremely difficult to say what is really "collateral" to it. Obviously, unless some restriction be imposed, the general rule may be rendered nugatory. It has been suggested in America that a matter ought not to be considered " collateral" except where it is evident from the writing itself that such writing contains part only and not the whole of the agreement. And so the section makes the degree of formality the condition upon which, if the other terms of the section are fulfilled, the admissibility of the evidence depends.

The case provided for by this Proviso and that in which evidence is admitted because the document does not and was not intended to contain the whole agreement between the parties(5) agree in this, that in neither case does the document in fact contain the whole agreement between the parties; but differ in that in the latter case the document was not intended to contain the whole agreement, the document being subject to, or merely a memorandum of, a transaction which was in fact entered into orally, and therefore oral and inconsistent evidence may be given; while in the former case the document was intended to and does contain the principal contract, which has, however, been orally supplemented by other terms upon matters on which it is silent. In so far as in the latter case, the document does, with the exception of such terms, constitute the contract, these terms must be consistent with those embodied in the instrument itself.

This Provise with which should be read Illustration (i) is intended to intro- Provisers. duce the well-established rule in England ;(6) that when at the time of a written contract being entered into, it is orally(7) agreed between the parties that the written agreement shall not be of any force or validity, until some condition precedent has been made and and and parol evidence that an instrument apparently executed as a deed, had really been delivered simply as an escrow; (9) that is a writing deposited with a third person(10) to be by him delivered to the person, whom it purports to benefit, upon the performance of some condition, upon which only the writing is to have

<sup>(1)</sup> See Lala Himmat v. Llewhellen, 11 C., 486 (1885), cited supra ; Mayen v. Alston, 19 M., 238, 254, 255, 261 (1892), and cases cited in the next two notes,

<sup>(2)</sup> Soudamonee Debug v. Spalding, 12 C. L. ft., 163 (1892).

<sup>(3)</sup> Umest Chunder v. Modini Modun, 9 C. I., R . 301 (1881).

<sup>(4) 11</sup> C., 486, 490 (1885),

<sup>(5)</sup> See unte, para, 2 to notes of section. (6) See Taylor, Ly., & 1135.

<sup>(7)</sup> See Illustration (j) which should run: "A d. B make a contract in writing and orally agree that it shall take effect, &c."

<sup>(8)</sup> Jugianund Messer v. Nerghan Singh, 6 C., 433, 435 (1880).

<sup>(9)</sup> Murray v. Lord Stair, 2 B. & C., 82.

<sup>(10)</sup> In Shah Morum v. Balamo Koer, Hay's Itep. 576 (1863), it was Add that, where a deed of sale of a portion of an estate was delivered to the party in whose favour it had been executed, explence could not be admitted to show that it effect. Also it may be shown that a document was really meant to be conditional on the happening of an event which had never occurred.(1) The admission of such evidence shows that the contract was never to come into operation as a contract at all unless the condition precedent were complied with: it neither varies nor contradicts the writing, but suspends the commencement of the obligation.(2)

An oral stipulation that an instrument is not to become binding, unless and . until some stipulation be first fulfilled, may always be shown. Thus evidence has been admitted to show that an agreement in writing was not intended to operate as an agreement between the parties, until a third party had approved of it.(3) and that a written instrument by way of lease containing no date was to operate only when the date was filled in, and which was not to be filled in, until certain repairs had been done,(4) So where the plaintiff declared upon an agreement by the defendant to transfer to him a farm which he, the defendant, held under X, and the defendant pleaded that the agreement declared on was made subject to the condition that it should be null and void, if X should not within a reasonable time after the making of the agreement consent and agree to the transfer of the farm to the plaintiff; it was held that it was competent to the defendant to prove by ment, as it operated only defeasance of it (5) And loan binding upon the defendant immediately upon its execution an instrument which he verbally agreed at the time should not so operate and for which the defendant received no consideration, the latter was allowed to give evidence of the verbal agreement.(6) So also evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement to suspend the operation of a written contract of sale, until an agreement for a re-sale was executed, is admissible (7) The same doctrine applies to wills, though it must be used with very great caution. So a duly executed paper, testamentary on the face of it, is not entitled to probate, if it is clearly proved by parol evidence that it was executed by the deceased without any intention that it should affect the disposition of his property after death.(8) The first Proviso does not permit the terms of a written contract to be varied by a contemporaneous oral agreement, but having regard to Illustrations (b) and (i) its proper meaning is that a contemporaneous oral agreement to the effect that a written contract was to be of no force or effect at all, and that it was to was intended to operate as an eserou only, as mucht have been the case had it been delivered to a third party. Technically, it is true, that the document was not in such case an escrow. But in principle it was the same thing. For it was alleged that, until the condition was performedno interest was to pass to the transferce (Bell v. Ingestre, 12 Q B , 317, 319, 320). The report of this decision, which may perhaps have been institled on other grounds, is not full or clear and does not appear to be in accordance with the terms of this provise or of the cases upon which the latter is founded See Field, Er., 435.

(1) Taylor, Ev , $ 1135, and cases there and heremafter cited

(2) See Ramillan Serveyy v. Onhur Nath, 2 C. W. N., 188 (1897), cited post.

(1) Pum v. Complett, S E. & B., 370, followed in Gellaler Ruthea v. Auneattur frumuga, T Mal H C. R., 189, 196, 197 (1872), Dada Honayi v. Balan, Jajushe', 2 Bont. H. C. I: , 28, 41 (1965); Justanuad Mower v. Verglan Sangle, supra

(4) Daris v. Jones, 25 L. J., C. P., 91; followed in Jugianund Misser v. Nerghan Singh, supra. (5) Walls v Lattell, 11 Scott. Rep., N. S., 389. followed in Dada Honnji v. Babaji Jaqushel, 2 Bom H C R., 38, 41 (1865); see also Bell v. Ingestre, 12 A & E , 317 , Gudgen 1 , Bessett, 6 E & B , 986; Lindley , Lucey, 17 Scott. Rep , N. S . 578: Taylor, Ev , § 1135.

(6) Annagurubala Chetts v. Krishnasummi Nayallan, 1 Mad. H C R , 457 (1863), cited and approved in Jugianund Misser v Nerghan Singh. 6 C. 433, 435 (1880). See also Terurengada Ayyangar v. Rangasam: Nayal, 7 M., 19 (1883) -Dada Honaji . Babaji Jaguehet, 2 Bom, H. C. R., 38 (1865); in which evidence was also admitted under this provise, and Cohen v Rant of Bengal, 2 1., 594 (1850), in which the admissifality of the explenes in question was held to be doubtful (7) Dala Honays v Babajs Jagushet, 2 Bom H. C. R., 38 (1865)

[8] Lader v. Smith, 3 S. & T. 282.

impose no obligation at all until the happening of a certain event may be proved.

So the terms of a promissory note purporting to be an absolute engagement to pay on demand cannot be varied by a contemporaneous oral agreement constituting an undertaking on the part of the plaintiff not to enforce the note by a suit till the happening of a certain event, or implying that the legal obligation of payment was to be postponed to, or made conditional upon, the happening of a certain event.(1)

A distinction must be drawn between the cases where the matter sought to be introduced by extraneous evidence is a condition precedent or a defeasance. It may be shown that the instrument was not meant to operate, until the happening of a given condition; but it cannot be shown by parel that the agreement is to be defeated on the happening of a given event.(2)

Upon the question whether the words "condition precedent to the attaching of any obligation under any such contract" mean a "condition precedent to the contract being of any force or validity," or a "condition precedent to some particular obligation contained in the contract being of force or validity," it has been held that the rule contained in this proviso does not apply to a case where the written agreement had not only become binding, but had actually been performed as to a large portion of its obligations, and that the words " any obligation" in this proviso mean any obligation whatever under the contract, and not some particular obligation which the contract may contain (3) The condition precedent to which this provise refers is a condition the subject-matter of which is dehors the contents of the instrument, and, therefore, if effect be given to this condition, it cannot affect the terms of the document itself.(4) In a case where the defence was that one of the executants of the note signed it only as surety and that his hability was only to the extent of standing as a surety for one month, it was held that this proviso was inapplicable, as the liability attached from the date of the note of hand and ceased upon the expiry of one month, and the defence was not that no liability attached to the note of hand until some event happened or something was done.(5)

The male marely hinds to a given relation of the transaction itself. Accord- Proviso (4)

shown. This provise incorporates Lord Nugent, (6) who said: "After an agreement has been reduced into writing, it is competent to the parties at any time before breach of it by a new contract not in writing either altogether to waive, dissolve, or annul the former agreement, or in any manner to add to, or subtract from, or vary or qualify the terms of it, and thus to make a new contract which is to be proved partly by the written agreement, and partly by the subsequent verbal terms engratted upon what will be thus left of the written agreement; but modifies that rule, in that it declares that the new contract cannot be a verbal one in cases in which the old contract (a) is by law required to be in writing, or (b) has been registered (7). For the rule is, nith law corrected starturali equality iguan unam quodque dissolvic est legamine, quo higu-be unbound e word "or"

the document, though registered in fact, is not compulsorily registerable. But

<sup>(1)</sup> Rampiban Serowyy v. Oghur Nath, 2 C W. N., 188 (1897).

<sup>(2)</sup> See Wallis v. Littell, 11 Scott. Rep. N S., 369, 374.

<sup>(3)</sup> Jugianund Misser v. Nerghan Singh, 6 C., 433 (1880) See Teruvengada Ayyangor v Ranquerms Nayak, 7 M., 19, 22 (1883). (4) v. ante, pp. 388, 589.

<sup>(6)</sup> Harel Chand v. Bishim Chandri, v. U. N., 401 (1903).
(6) Gloss v. Lord Nugent, 5-1; & \lambda 1 od folia I = \(\frac{1}{2}\) cited, and applied in God folia I = \(\frac{1}{2}\) in antiur Aramaga, 7 Mad. If C. I', 15 (1872); see Taylor, Ev. 15 1141 (11)

<sup>(7)</sup> See Umedwal Meter i V diba, 2 B. 647 (1870 white

the contention was overruled.(1) See as to the registration of documents, Appendix C. Where it is alleged that a new contract which the law requires to be in writing has been substituted for a prior contract, such substituted contract must be complete in itself and embody distinctly the terms of the new contract. If it is not complete, then extraneous evidence is inadmissible to prove the substituted contract with the result that the first contract is not varied and remains in force.(2) The exception at the end of this Proviso applies to executory as well as to executed agreements (3) It has been held by the Madras High Court that the word 'oral' is used in this proviso in the sense of being not committed to writing, and that the words 'oral agreement' include all unwritten agreements whether arrived at by word of mouth or otherwise. So where the lessor of certain land held by the lessee under a registered deed of lease agreed to a reduction in the rent, and the agreement was not reduced to writing but rent was thereafter paid and accepted at the reduced rate, on a suit being brought to recover arrears of rent at the rate reserved in the registered deed, it was held that under this proviso an agreement to accept a reduced rent cannot be implied or inferred from the acts and conduct of the parties; and an unwritten agreement, if so implied, amounts to an oral agreement within the meaning of the Proviso (4) The Calcutta High Court in the case cited has taken a different view, holding that whilst the section excludes in particular cases any oral agreement or statement, evidence of conduct, as for instance, return of a lease, is admissible to prove that such return was due to an intention to make the lease inoperative (5) In, however, a subsequent case in the same Court a different view of the admissibility of evidence of conduct was taken. It was held that acts and conduct of parties could only be proof (a) either of a contemporaneous oral agreement varying the terms of the registered contract, or (b) of a subsequent oral agreement having the same effect. In the former case the evidence was excluded by the section itself and in the latter by this Proviso (6) If a discharge valid under s 63 of the Contract Act has been given, it is immaterial in pursuance of an alleged oral agreement, in evidence, was not illegal (7) Evidence will the original transaction, but is an entirely new transaction (8) Oral evidence is of course admissible to prove the discharge and satisfaction of a mortgage-bond and is not excluded by this provise (9) Only those agreements come within the section which affect the terms of the previous transaction, not indirectly, as a consequence of an independent and valid contract between some only of the parties, but directly by virtue of the consensus of those who alone are competent to rescind or modify the original contract, cr.z., all the parties concerned or all their representatives (10) conveyance having been registered, no oral agreement to resend could be proved under this provise, and Dunka Nath v. Ishopshan Panda, 7 C. L. R., 577 (1880). Bunku Bihari v. Shama Chura, 2 C. W. N., cslxv.

- Noccor Chundre v. Ashutosh Mukerjee, 9
   W. N., eexiv (1908).
- (2) Januardro Mohan v. Gopd Das, S.C. W. N., 923 (1994). [The consent in writing by the landlord to the division of a tenure or hoking has the effect of substituting a new contract for the old.]
- (3) Goods Salburose v. Varsyonda Narasimham, 27 M. 368 (1903), s. c. 14 Mad. L. J. 218, (4) Mayands Chelli v. Chiere, 22 M. 261 (1898), followed in Karampoli v. Thellu, 26 M., 195

- (1902)
- (5) Shyama Charan v. Heras Mollah, 26 C., 160, 163 (1898), v. aste, p. 581.
- (6) Radha Raman v. Bhowani Prasad, 5 C. W. N. cevevi (1901), Maung Rin v. Ma Illang (F.
- B), 3 L. B R, 100, see Notes ante, on "Evidence of conduct"

  (7) Karampell, v. Thellu, 26 M., 195 (1902).
- (8) Rakhmabas v. Tukaram, 11 B., 47 (1886); Hereindihev Dharnsdhardev v. Kashinali Eharlar, 14 B., 472 (1890); Autu Singh v. Ajudhia Sahu, 9 A., 240 (1897).
- (2) Randal Chundra v. Gobinda Kormolar, 4 C. W. N., 304 (1900); Ketika Bapanamma v.
- Kettika Kristanamma (1906), 30 M., 231-(10) Gords Sublarow v. Varsgonda Aaranmham

In 1875 certain lands were mortgaged for Rs. 675. The mortgage-bond provided that the mortgage was to enjoy the rent and profits in heu of interest on Rs. 475 and that the remaining Rs. 200 were to carry interest at 6 per cent. per annum. In 1880 a receipt was passed by the mortgage to the mortgage, reciting that on taking accounts Rs. 525 were due on account of the mortgage, that Rs. 100 were paid on the day of the receipt, that a further sum of Rs. 100 we's to be paid in a month and a half, and that the rents and profits of the property were in future to be taken for the interest on the balance of Rs. 323 only. In 1896 the mortgage sued for "demption and relied on the receipt in support of his case. **Held** that the receipt did not require registration. It purported to be a mere settlement of accounts and was not intended to modify or supersede the original mortgage-contract. This clause had therefore no application to the case (1)

In the undermentioned case(2) the plaintiff mortgaged certain property to the first defendant on the 28th December 1895. By the mortgage-deed the mortgage-debt was made repayable on 28th December 1896. On the 12th May 1897 the first defendant sold it by auction under the power of sale contained in the mortgage-deed and the second defendant was the purchaser. The plaintiff now sued to set aside the sale and to be allowed to redeem, alleging that on the day before the sale the first defendant had orally promised and agreed to postpone the sale for four days, and that the second defendant had notice of this fact before he purchased the property. Held that evidence of such oral agreement was admissible. It was not an agreement to modify any of the terms of the mortgage, it was merely an agreement to forbear, for a period of four days, from the exercise of the power of sale given by the mortgage. It therefore did not fall within this proviso. As to the proof required when a substituted verbal agreement is set up, the following observations of Lord Cranworth may be referred to :- "When parties who have bound themselves by a written agreement depart from what has been so agreed upon in writing, and adopt some other line of conduct, it is incumbent on the party insisting on, and endeavouring to enforce, a substituted verbal agreement, to show not merely what he understood to be the new terms on which the parties were proceeding but also that the other party had the same understanding-that both parties were proceeding on a new agreement, the terms of which they both understood."(3)

In the case of contracts the evidence is not confined to the explanation Provise under s 98, post, of the written terms. Provided they are not repugnant to, or terms pression

was itself framed with reference to the usage; and so as to incorporate the usage in, and as part of, itself. Indeed, it is in part also upon this principle, that even as respects the actual terms of the contract, it is by the usage they are expounded.(4) which case particular instances of its occurrence or non-occurrence will be admissible in corroborating or rebuttl, or (2) by a series of particular instances in which it has Leen acted upon, or (3) by proof of similar customs in the same or analogous trades in other localities, etc., ib. "In mercantile contracts the intention must be collected from the instrument, but resort may be had to increantile suspe in certain cases as a key to its exposition." Draddon v. Abbott, Tayl, Pep., 326. Supreme Court, Ples Side (1845).

<sup>27</sup> M., 368, s. c., 14 Mad. L. J., 218 (1903) [Oral evidence held not to be excluded]

Lukshman v. Damodor, 24 B., 609 (1900)
 Trimlak Gangadhar v. Bhaquandas Mullichand, 23 B., 348 (1898).

 <sup>(3)</sup> Earl of Darnley v. L. C. and D. Radway, 2
 E. & I., App., 60.
 (4) Goodeve, Ev., 378; Greenlest, Ev., §§ 292.

<sup>294;</sup> Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 22-27. As to proof of usage, see Physon, 3rd Ed., 84. Such proof may be given (1) by direct evidence of witnesses, in

Accordingly, where a ship was to depart with convoy, but without any definition of the spot at which the convoy was to start, evidence was allowed to fix this as from the place of renderous [1] So a sale of tobacco was allowed to be explained as a sale by sample, though the bought and sold notes were salent on the point.[2] And in England, prior to the statutory enactment with regard thereto, a bill-of-exchange was by custom allowed three days' grace for payment beyond the day specified on the face of the bill itself

These incidents are sometimes the creatures of mere usage. But usage may com merchant quently, worthings

annexed to any ordinary contract of such insurance (3)

In the case of that which is strictly usage or custom the Courts are at liberty to import into the contract medients not excluded by the terms of such contract, even though a party to the contract was not actually cognizant of the usage. But this is not so in the case of a mere particular practice. Thus in order that the practice on a particular estate may be imported as a term of the contract into a contract in respect of land in that estate, it must be shown that the practice was known to the person whem it is sought to bind by it and that lie assented to its being a term of the contract, and when the person sought to be bound by the practice is an assignee for value of rights under that contract, it must also be shown that he and all prior assignees, if any, for value, knew that the practice was a term of the original contract (4)

In the undermentioned case, (5) where there had been a contract for purchase by brokers, not disclosing their principal, and evidence was admitted to show a usage of trade holding the brokers liable. Lord Campbell, C J., laid down the law in extense on this subject as follows:—

"Now, neither collateral evidence, nor the evidence of a usage of a trade, is receivable to prove anything which contradicts the tenor of a written contract; but subject to this condition both may be received for certain purposes.

ransactions of commerce of defining what would otherwise be intenuite, of to the piet a peculial term, or to explain what was obscure, or to accretion what was equivocal, or to annex portuealar rundents, which, although not mentioned in the contracts, were connected with them or with relations growing out of them; and the evidence in such cases is admitted with the view of giving effect, as far as can be done, to the present intentions of the parties. Now, here the plaintiff did not seek by the evidence of usage to contradict what the tener of the note primarily imports, namely, that this was a contract with the defendants made as brokers. The evidence is based on this the usage can have no operation, except on the assumption of their having acted as brokers, and of their having sheen a contract made with their principal. But the plantiff by the evidence seeks to show that, according to the usages of the trade, and as those concerned in the trade understand the words used, they unported something more, namely, that if the buying broker did niclose the

&quot;A condition not expressly made between the parties to a contract may meerflickes be attached to such contract by custom;" Koonj Behare V. Shira Balul, Agra Rep., F. B., 119 (1867) [1] Lathilas's case, 2 Salk., 447

<sup>(2)</sup> Syers v. Jones, 2 Exch. R., 111

<sup>(3)</sup> Goodere, Er., 378.

<sup>(4)</sup> Mana Librama 3. Roma Patter, 20 M., 275

<sup>(1897).</sup>

<sup>(5)</sup> Humfrey v Inde, W. 1t (Eng.), 1866-7, 9 457. See also judgment of Parls, B., in Hutton v. Harres, 1 M. & W., 474, cited in Smith v. Ludha Gholla, 17 B. 147 (1892); and nee Jupgemechan Ghose v. Katareckund, 9 Moo. I. A., 260, 261 (1892), funtom as to interest !

name of his principal, it might become a contract with the broker as principal, if the seller pleased "Whether this evidence be treated as explaining the language used or adding a tacilly implied incident to the contract beyond those which are expressed, is not material. In either point of view it will be admissible, unless it labours under the objection of introducing something rejugnant to, or inconsistent with, the tenor of the written instrument, and upon consideration of the sense in which that objection must be understood with reference to this question, we think it does not. In a certain sense every material incident which is added to a written contract varies it, makes it different from what it appeared to be, and so far is inconsistent with it. If by the side of the written contract without you write the same contract with, the added incident, the two would seem to import different obligations and be different contracts. Take a familiar instance by way of illustration. On the face of a bill-of exchange, at three months after date, the acceptor will be taken to bind himself to the payment precisely at the end of the three months; but by the custom he is only bound to do so at the end of the days of grace; which vary according to the country in which the same is made payable, from three up to fifteen truth is, that the principle on which the evidence is admissible is, that the parties have not set down on paper the whole of their contract in all its terms but those only which were necessary to be determined in the particular case by specific agreement, and which of course might vary infinitely, leaving to implication and tacit understanding all those general and unvarying incidents which a uniform usage scould annex and according to which they must in reason be understood to contract, unless they expressly exclude them. To fall within the exception, therefore, of repugnancy, the incident must be such as, if expressed on the teritten contract, would make it insensible or inconsistent. Thus, to warrant bacon to be prime singed, addir v. Pym (1) or to insure all the · to say, all not slung on the quarter,' as nge Assurance Company,(2) and other cases of the same sort scattered through the books, effect given to them, if written down. Therefore, when one part only is expressed would be instances of contracts in which both the two parts could not have full. it would be unreasonable to suppose that the parties intended to exclude the other also Without repeating ourselves, it will be found that the same reasoning applies, where the evidence is used to explain a latent ambiguity of language.

"Merchants and traders with a multiplicity of transactions pressing on them, and moving in a narrow circle, and meeting each other daily, desire to write little and leave unwritten what they take for granted in every contract. In spite of the lamentations of Judges, they still continue to do so; and, in a vast majority of cases of which Courts of law hear nothing, they do so without loss or inconvenience; and upon the whole they find this mode of dealing advan> as to make them suitable to the to exclude the actual facts of the termine on the controversies which grow out of them. It cannot be doubted, in the present case, that in fact this contract was made with the usage understood to be a term in it; to exclude the usage is to exclude a material term of the contract, and must lead to an unjust decision. The case was affirmed on appeal. As has been well observed in reference to these cases of mercantile contracts :- "The witnesses for this purpose may be considered to be the sworn interpreters of the mercantile language in which the contract is written." Indeed the observation applies to all usage evidence.(3)

<sup>(1) 6</sup> Taune., 446. (2) 2 C. & J., 244.

Depeyster, Starkie, 210 , Bowes v. Shand, 2 App. Cas , 468, cited in Smith v. Lutha Ghella, 17 B.,

<sup>(3)</sup> Goodeve, Ev., 378-381. Sec Burch v.

<sup>144 (1892).</sup>

When there is a usage or custom of trade, the intention of the parties to exclude a contract from its operation must be shown by the contract itself and cannot be proved by other evidence. Thus, where there was a sale of rum. no mention being made of warehouse rent, evidence was admitted that, by custom of trade, an allowance for warehouse rept was incorporated in such contracts: but evidence that the parties had orally agreed to make an allowance different from the customary one, was rejected (1) Usage and custom cannot be restored to to control or vary positive stipulations in a written contract, and a tortion not in order to contradict them. An express contract of the parties is always admissible to supersede, or vary, or control a usage or custom; for the latter may always be waived at the will of the parties. But a written and express contract cannot be controlled, or varied, or contradicted by usage or custom; for that would not be not only to admit parol evidence to control. vary or contradict written contracts, but it would be to allow mere presumptions and implications, properly arising in the absence of any positive expressions of intention, to control, vary, or contradict the most formal and deliberate declarations of the parties (2) Therefore, where an usage conflicts with the expressed intention of the document, the latter must be followed. So where in an agreement between an African merchant and an African captain, the latter was to have a commission of " an after deducting the usual that, according to the cour the captain was entitled to a commission on the whole amounts for which the cargo had bore sold, and not merely the net profits (3). If the usage is inconsistent with the express terms of the contract, evidence thereof is inadmissible, and the inconsistency may be evinced (a) by the express terms of the instrument, or (b) by implication therefrom (4). When the Court of first instance had permitted plaintiffs to put in evidence to show the terms on which the parties must be presumed to have contracted, as to which the document was silent, according to the provisions of this proviso, it was held on appeal that what the plaintiff sought to make use of, was not any custom of the port of usage or trade but the terms on which the plaintiff and defendant had dealt with each other on prior occasions: and that evidence of previous dealings was admissible, only for the purpose of explaining the terms used in a contract and not to impose on a party an obligation as to which the contract was silent, (5)

Proviso (6)

This Proviso relates to the admissibility of evidence necessary to point the operation of the document. It relates to the admissibility of evidence necessary to make the words which are used fit the external things to which the words are appropriate (6) Thus if an undescribed dispute is referred to arbitration, evidence is admissible to show what the actual dispute was at the time of the submission (7). Up to a certain stage and apart from any question of ambiguity extrinsic evidence is necessary to point the operation of the simplest instrument. Thus, were it the case of a deed conveying all the lands at A in the grantor's occupation, tuthe operation of the deed could not be known. So, were it a case of a will, and a bequest to the children of a party, or even the testator's som children: to give

<sup>(1)</sup> Fawles v. Lamb, 31 L. J. Q B. 98

<sup>(1)</sup> Story, cutof field, Er., 47; Indux Chander, v. Luchan Birt, H. B. L. B. (28; (1871), [cutom cannot affect the express terms of a written contract]; Marginalese, Care, B. L. R. 450 (1872); [cutom at variance with contract], Sanda v. Lucha Galdin, T. B. 129 (1892), [cutom region at the contract of the contract] and mecomentral with, confract] Herry Moders, Kritches 19(des, p. B. L. R.; Appl. 1(1872), cuilence, was admitted, bed quere, however, whether the cutom was consistent with the terms of the instrument. See also Morris v Panchnada Pillay, 5 Mad. H. C. R., 135

<sup>(3)</sup> Caine v. Horsefall, 2 C. & K., 349. (4) Smith v. Ludha Ghella, 17 B , 129, 144

<sup>(1892)
(5)</sup> Ghellathai v. Nandubhai, 12 B , 344 (1896).
(6) Forz-un-nessa v. Hansf-un-nessa, 2 All. L.

J., 360, 365 (1905).
(7) Hafi Mahomed v. Spiener, 24 B., 510, 515, 525 (1990).

effect to the bequest it would be necessary to define who the children were.(1) "Some evidence," says Wood, V. C, in the case undermentioned, " is necessary in any case of a will, that is to say, exidence to show the subject and objects of the gift,"(2) And again, " in interpreting any instrument which purports to deal with property, some extrinsic information is necessary in order to make the words, which are but signs, fit the external things to which these signs are appropriate. In reality, external information is requisite in construing every instrument; but when any subject is thus discovered, which not only is within the words of the instrument, according to their natural construction, but exhausts the whole of those words, then the investigation must stop, you are bound to take the interpretation which entirely exhausts the wiole of the series of expressions used by the author of the instrument, and are not permitted to go any further. Thus to that extent the Court is always at liberty to go in interpreting a will; in other words, the Court is to place itself in the position of the testator with the knowledge of all the facts with which he was acquainted, but it is not in the course of interpretation to introduce any evidence whatever of what were the intentions of the testator as contrasted with, or extending or contracting the language which he has used "(3) So also Sir James Wigram says: "The most accurate description possible must require some development of extrinsic circumstances to enable a Court to decide upon its sufficiency, and the least accurate description which is sufficient to satisfy the mind of a Judge or Jury as to a testator's meaning, must be within the same principle. The principle cannot be affected by the consideration that a more ample development of circumstances is necessary in one case than in another "(1)

These observations are cited only as illustrative of the principle—Practically, it is upon some imperfection of the instrument, as applied to the facts, that the difficulty as to determining its meaning usually arises; and nothing is more settled than that evidence is receivable of all the circumstances surrounding the instrument, for the purpose of throwing their light on its interpretation. Indeed, it is by these, as by a lamp, the Court reads the document (5)

The question has more often arisen upon wills than upon other documents, and it is from cases on these, accordingly, that the law has mainly to be taken. The principles, however, which they enunciate are alike applicable to other instruments generally (6)

In Doc d. Hiscocks v Hiscocks, (7) a very leading authority on the subject, Lord Abinger, Chief Baron, thus propounds the admissibility of this species of evidence, and the purport of its admission:

subject of purchase, was not otherwise defined than by the expression "your wool" and evidence was admitted to show its meening. Lord Campiell, C. J., said . " I am clearly of opinion that when a specific thing is the subject of a contract and it is doubtful upon the contract, what that specific thing is, then any fact may be given in exidence, in order to identify it, which is within the knowledge of both parties-meaning by that expression, the knowledge upon the strength of which both parties dealt " And Larle, J , said, "the defendant says, 'I will buy your weel "" non it is the universal practue to admit parol evidence to identify the subject matter of a contract as no Judge can have judicial knowledge of what it is. It is not contended that this contract is, on the face of it, vold for uncertainty, parol evidence must, therefore, be admissible to explain <sup>(1)</sup> Goodere, Ex., 585. Goodere's Evolume Act, p. 67. Greenland, Ev. f. 286. — Indoon Diase put v. Actst Jouwslan, 8 W. En., 152 (1887). [Existence of every material fact which will enable the Court to ascertism the nature and extent of the subject-matter of the matrument, or un other words, to blently the things to which that in strument refer, is admissible. The acts of the parties may also be explained by paralet saleng.

In the matter of Feltham, 1 Kay & J., 528.
 Webb v Byng, 1 K & J., 580, 585, 586, per Wood, V. C.

<sup>(4)</sup> Wigram on Extrinsic Evidence, p. 35 (5) Goodeve, Ev., 386

<sup>(6)</sup> The principle is one of general application. See Maddonald v. Loughottom, 7 W. R. (Eng.), 507; Musford v. Gathang, 8 W. R. (Eng.), 187, where it was applied to cases of mercantile contract. In the former case, which was a contract for the purchase of wool, the quantity, the to what it refers."

(7) 5 M. & W., 303. And for recent English

"It must be admitted that it is not possible altogether to reconcile the different cases that have been decided on this subject; which makes it the more expedient to investigate the principles upon which any evidence to explain the will of a testator ought to be received. The object, in all cases, is to discover the intention of the testator. The first and most obvious mode of doing this, is to read his will as he has written it and collect his intention from his words. But as his words refer to facts and circumstances, respecting his property and his family, and others whom he names or describes in his will, it is evident that the meaning and application of his words cannot be ascertained, without evidence of all those facts and circumstances. To understand the meaning of any writer we must first be apprised of the persons and circumstances that are the subjects of his allusions or statements, and if these are not fully disclosed in his work, we must look for illustrations to the history of the times in which he wrote, and to the works of contemporaneous authors. All the facts and circumstances. therefore, respecting persons or property to which the will relates, are undoubtedly legitimate, and often necessary, to enable us to understand the meaning and applicoron of his words." Again .- "The testator may have habitually called certain persons or things by peculiar names by which they were not commonly known. If these names should occur in his will, they could only be explained and construed by the aid of evidence, to show the sense in which he used them. in like manner as if his will were written in cypher, or in a foreign language. The habits of the testator in these particulars must be receivable as evidence to explain the meaning of his will "

In this case the testator, after the gift of a life-estate to his own son, John Hiscocks, devised the property in question to "John, the eldest son of the said John Hiscocks". The son had been twice married; and his actual eldest son was Smon, the child of his first marriage; but John was the eldest son by the second marriage, and the question was, which of the two sons was intended to take.

Cases indeed abound illustrative of the same principle; and from their general result the doctrine is thus stated by V. C. Wigram(1):- "In considering questions of this nature it must always be remembered that the words of a testator, like those of every other person, taculy refer to the circumstances by which, at the time of expressing himself, he is surrounded. If, therefore, when the circumstances under which the testator made his will are known, the words of the will do sufficiently express the intention ascribed to hun, the strict limits of exposition cannot be transgressed, because the Court, in aid of the construction of the will, refers to those extrinsic collateral circumstances, to which it is certain the language of the will refers. It may be true that, without such evidence, the precise meaning of the words could not be determined, but it is still the will which expresses and ascertains the intention ascribed to the testator. A page of history (to use a familiar illustration) may not be intelligible until some . collateral extrinsic circumstances are known to the reader. No one, however, would imagine that he was acquiring a knowledge of the writer's meaning from any other source than the page he was reading, because in order to make that page intelligible, he required to be informed to what country the writer belonged, or to be furnished with a map of the country about which he was reading. The extrinsic evidence in the cases now adverted to, does not per se approach the question of intention. It is wholly collateral to it. It explains the words only by removing the cause of their apparent ambiguity, where, in truth, there is no real ambiguity. It places the Court which expounds the will in the situation of the testator who made it and the words of the will are then left to their natural operation."

coses, see In re Sharp; Maddison v. Gill, C. A. (1908), 2 Ch., 190; In re Jameson, King v. Winn (1908), 2 Ch., 111; In re Ofner, Samuel v. Ofser, C. A. (1909), 1 Ch., 61, 78, L. J., Cli., 50.

(1) Wigram on Extrinsic Evidence, proposi-

So too in Bernacconi v. Alkinson(1) it was said by Woods, V. C.. "the Courts have a right to ascertain all the facts which were known to the testator at the time he made his will, or to place themselves in his position, in order to ascertain whether there exists any person or thing to which the description can be reasonably and with sufficient certainty applied; the presumption being that the testator intended some existing matter or person." And in another case(2) it has been said that to construe the will of a testator "you may place yourself so to speak in his arm-chair and consider the circumstances by which he was surrounded when he made his will, to assist you in arriving at his intention."

The principles here propounded have been recognized by the Privy Council as applicable to India. In the undermentioned cave (3) Turner, L. J., in delivering the judgment of the Court, thus expresses himself:—

"This, therefore, is the question which we are called upon to decide. It is a question between the estate of S C and the parties claiming under the gift over; and as it seems to us, it must depend wholly on the construction. What we must look to, is the intention of the testator. The Hindu law, no less than the English law, points to the intention as the element by which we are to be guided in determining the effect of a testamentary disposition; nor, so far as we are aware, is there any difference between the one law and the other, as to the materials from which the intention is to be collected. Primarily, the words of the will are to be considered. They convey the expression of the testator's wishes; but the meaning to be attached to them may be affected by surrounding circumstances, and where this is the case, those circumstances, no doubt, must be regarded. Amongst the circumstances thus to be regarded is the law of the country under which the will is made, and its dispositions are to be carried out. If that law has attached to particular words a particular meaning, or to a particular disposition a particular effect, it must be assumed that the testator, in the dispositions which he has made, had regard to that meaning or to that effect, unless the language of the will or the surrounding circumstances displace that assumption. These are, as we think, the principles by which we ought to be guided in determining the case before us, and we must first, therefore, consider what was the intention of this testator to be collected from the words of his will " And again :- " If, therefore, we are to impute to this testator any intention different from that which is to be collected from the words of his will, it must be upon the ground that there are extrinsic circumstances which disprove the expressed intention, and prove the different intention. The expressed intention ought, as we conceive, to prevail, unless the different intention be clearly demonstrated. We may doubt whether the testator really intended what his words import, but a Court of Construction must found its conclusions upon just reasoning and not upon mere speculative doubts" Further it has been held as regards the construction of Hindu Wills that it is not improper to take into consideration what are known to be the ordinary notions and wishes of Hindus with respect to the devolution of property and from these infer the testator's intention (4)

When a letter had been addressed by the defendant to a Mrs~W, containing an acknowledgment of a debt, it was held that evidence was admissible to show that Mrs.~S, the defendant, was known as Mrs~W, and also for the pur-

<sup>(1)</sup> Bernasoni v. Atkinson (1853), 10 Hare, 345 (2) Boyes v. Cool, 14 Ch. D., 53, in re-Gibbs, Martin v. Harding (1907), 1 Ch., 465

<sup>(3)</sup> Sreemuly Soorjeemony v. Denobundoo Melick, 6 Moo 1 A, 526 [cited in Mathura Das v. Bhikhan, 19 A, 19 (1896) See also Bets Maharans v. Collector of Etowah, 7 A, 198, 209 (1894), Succaram Morarys v. Kaledas Kaluan, 18 B, 631 (1894); cited ante, in Jurod to Ch.

VI Mussimut Bhoghu'ti v Chondry Bhelanuth, 2 I. A., 256, 260 (1875) Act N of 1865, s. 62 As to evidence of surrounding circumstances, see ante, cases cited in Introd to Ch. VI.

<sup>(4)</sup> Mahamed Shamsort Hooda v Shewakram, P. C. (1874), 2.1. A., 7, 14. B. I. R., 226 and Radha Prasad Williel v. Rones Mani Insert, P. C. (1908), 35. C., 896, Powendon Anth Sen v. Hemangian Dess (1908), 36. C., 1.

pose of identifying the debt to which the acknowledgment referred (1) Where a deed stated that the property was sold "subject to the payment of all taxes, rates, charges, assessments leviable or chargeable," leaving the question open to what the taxes, etc., were which were "leviable and chargeable," it was held that extrinsic evidence of that was admissible, for it neither contradicted nor varied the terms of the deed, but explained the sense in which the parties understood the words of the deed, which, taken by themselves, were capable of explanation (2) In cases where the question is whether a lease to a person named in it is perpetual, ie., whether it is to him and his heirs, evidence as to the surrounding circumstances is admissible because it explains what, standing alone. is capable of explanation, whether a grant to a person is a grant to how alone, or to him and his hears The mere facts that words of inheritance do not occur in a lease does not make it the less a permanent lease, if from the language of the document, taken as a whole, the object of the lease, and other surrounding circumstances, such as the conduct of the parties, it appears that their intention was that it should operate as a lease in perpetuity.(3) recent case evidence was held admissible under this proviso because its howed him the plaint document was related to existing facts and because the nature of the landed tenures was a special matter which could not be stated off-hand but required to be elucidated by a reference to the particular facts (4)

The short exposition of the whole matter is, that the knowledge of the external circumstances of which their proof puts the Court in possession, places rty to the instrument; he exercises the office shares in railway and other companies, Vaughan Williams, L J., allowed in-that the word " securiients" and stock and dependent evidence to be given, and observed as follows:—"I think that evidence is admissible to show that the expressions used in the will had acquired an appropriate meaning, either generally, or by local usage, or amongst particular classes, and that, where any doubt arises upon the true sense and meaning of the words themselves or surrounding circumstances the sen y be investigated and ascertained by eviboth reason and common sense agree that by no other means can the language of the instrument be made to speak the real mind of the party."(6)

Exclusion of evidence to explain or amend ambiguous

93. When the language used in a document is, on its face, ambiguous or defective, (7) evidence may not be given (8) of facts which would show its meaning or supply its defects.

Umesh Chandra v. Sogeman, 5 B L R., (1869); sec I alampuducherri Padmanabhan v. Chouclaren, 5 Mad H C R., 320 (1870).
 Pudobu v. C. Lietor of Bombay, 25 B., 714,

<sup>751 (1901).</sup>

Babu 1, Sutoram, 3 Bom. L. R, 768 (1901).
 Raja Gour Chandra v. Raja Makunda Deb.

<sup>9</sup> C. W. N., 710. (5) Goodere, Et., 309

<sup>(6)</sup> Rayner v. Rayner, 1 Ch , 178 (1904), and see a 98, post,

<sup>(7)</sup> With reference to the term "defective" in this section, Norton, Ev., 278, refers to the ease of Benolhee Loll v. Dulloo Sircar, Marsh. 620

<sup>(1853),</sup> in which it was hald that parol evidence is a role of memsible to supply weeds in an old deed lost in consequence of the parts on which they were written having been esten by marcis. But in this case the parol evidence was not admitted to explain the document, but merely to show what the document, extract expressed, the same rule which allows accordary evidence of a document entirely destroyed, admits evidence to supply parts wanting by reason of partial detructions.

<sup>(8)</sup> In Markby, Ev , 74, it is said: "This section can only apply where a writing is required by law. If no writing is required by law, and

Illustrations.

- (a) A acrees in writing to sell a horse to B for Rs. 1,000 or Rs. 1,500.
- Evidence cannot be given to show which price was to be given.
- (b) A deed contains blanks.

Evidence cannot be given of facts which would show how they were meant to be filled.

Principle—The main principle on which the rule is founded is that the intentiin of parties should be construed, not by wague evidence of their intentions, independently of the expressions which they have thought fit to use but by the expressions themselves. If extrincic evidence were admissible in the case of patent ambiguities, it would be tantamount to permitting wills to be made verbally and would also be a violation of the principles, that, where a contract, or other substantial matter of issue, has been reduced to writing, that writing is the only admissible proof of such contract or transactions (1) In the cases governed by this section the instrument fulls for want of adequate expression. It is the province of the Court to interpret and not to make instruments for parties. It will constitute the expressions the parties have themselves furnished, but will not supply others. And though evidence may be given to explain, it is inadmissible for the purpose of adding to the document. And see Notes, post

B. 3 (" Eudence.")

ss. 95-97 (" Latent ambiquities.")

Steph, D.; Art. 91; Wieram on Extraste Evidence, Taylor, Fv., §§ 1212, 1213; Wharton, Ev., §§ 936, 957, Physion, Ev., 3rd Ed. 539, Roscoc, N. P. Ev., 29—23; Norton, Ev., 278—231; Powell, Ev., 473, 474. Wood's Practice Evidence, 37—43; Starke, Ev., 673; Greeley, Ev., 279, et eq., Goodeve, Ev., 291, et seq., Brown on Parol Evidence, 161—124. Thuser's Cases on Evidence, 162.

COMMENTARY.

This section embodies the rule with regard to "patent ambiguities," as Patents sections 95-97 relate to "latent ambiguities" Ambiguities in documents not bee are said to be either patent or latent, the former arising where the instrument ed up by on its face is unintelligible, as where in a will the name of a legatee is left wholly evidence blank, the latter arising where the words of the instrument are clear, but their application to the circumstances is doubtful, as where a legacy is given to " my niece Jane," the testator having two meses of that name The admission of extrinsic evidence to explain ambiguities is confined to such as are latent patent ambiguity, or one in which the imperfection of the writing is so obvious that the idea that it was intended cannot be absolutely excluded, cannot be explained by parol. A patent ambiguity may exist either in the want of adequate artificiality in the composition or in the omission of something requisite to give operation to the document The section thus applies to cases (a) in which either no meaning at all has been expressed, the sentence having been left unfinished [see Illustration (b)], or (b) where, though the language is intelligible, it is such as to give rise to an obvious uncertainty of meaning [see Illustration (a)] (2) A patent ambiguity arises from the writer's own incapacity either

W, LE

if the writing is so incomplete that its meaning cannot be aircrtained (which is, I suppose the case contemplated), it may be theregarded or used as an admission, and oral evidence given (1) Starkie, Ev. p. 633, Powell, Ev., p. 473, Goodeve, Ev., 391, 392, though this section dos not affect the provisions of the Succession Act (s 100, post), the rule thereunder (see a 68) is the same as that enacted by this section. As to agreements void for uncertainty, see Contract Act, a 29 ce of the writing. His the writing shows the y, an ambiguity in the bjective, that is to say, und may be ambiguous c on which he writes;

<sup>(2)</sup> Goodeve, Ev., 391 , Cunningham, Ev., 262.

if so, it is inadmissible to prove that he had an idea which would be to contradict the writing itself, and which would make him say what he did not intend to say. Or a writing may be ambiguous because the writer intends it to be so, as where a testator left his estate to his 'herr-at-law.' In such case extrinsic evidence of his intention is inadmissible, as it would frustrate his real intention which was to have the question of heirship determined not by himself but by the Court (1) Or a document may be ambiguous for want of adequate artificialty in the composition. So where certain persons describing themselves defendants, and the language of the deed being ambiguous, no evidence could be given to make it certain (2) On the other hand, a latent or objective ambiguity, not in the writer's mind, which it is not the business of the Court to clear, but in the thing described, which it is the business of the Court to discover and distinguish so as to carry out the writer's intent Hence parol evidence is admissible to solve such an ambiguity. A latent ambiguity, as it is solely raised by extrinsic evidence, is allowed to be removed by the same means. (3)

A good test of the differer the instrument into the hands on perusal he sees no ambiguit its application, the ambiguity reading the instrument, it is 1

the blanks would be patent ambiguities, and they could not be filled in by parol testimony as to the intention of the parties or the like In the Illustration to section 95, no one could detect any ambiguity from merely reading the instrument. The ambiguity does not consist in the language, but is introduced by extrinsic circumstances, and the maxim is quod ex facto ordur ambiguum verificatione facti tollitur.(4) The distinction has prevailed since the time of Lord Bacon, who says: "There be two sorts of ambiguities of words, the one is ambiquitas patens, and the other latens. Patens is that which appears to be ambiguous upon the deed or instrument : latens is that which seemeth certain and without ambiguity, for anything that appeareth upon the deed or instrument; but there is some collateral matter out of the deed that breedeth the ambiguity. Ambiguitas patens never holpen by averment, and the reason is, because the law will not couple, and mingle matter of speciality, which is of the higher account, with matter of averment, which is of inferior account of law; for that that were to deed. to pass Therefor . limit

<sup>(1)</sup> See authories cited in note, post

<sup>(2)</sup> Doylt v. Pilamber, I. A., 275 (1876).
(3) Whatton, Ev. §§ 963, O7. See also Taylor, Ev. §§ 1212, 1213, Physen, Ev., 3rd Ed., 540; Roscoc, N. P. Ev., 23—37, in which a large number of patent and latent ambiguities will be found collected; Wugram on Extranse Evidence, Steph. Dig. Act. 91; Posch, Ev., 473, 474;

Wood's Irrettee Euklence; 37-43; Gresley, Ev. 270, et sey, Goodeve, Ev., 391, et sey, The Fulwas the same pure to this Act: Rem Lockin, V. Danoporona, Dossec, T.W. R., 144 (1876) [shere there is a latent ambiguity in the wording, part explorer is a dammable to explain it! Umota-Ackinder v. Segmans, 5 B L. R., 693, 634 (1850). 44) Norton, Ev., 270.

to whether of their heirs, it shall not be supplied by averment to whether of them the intention was (that) the inheritance should be limited." "But if it be ambiguitas latens, then otherwise it is; as if I grant my manor of S to J F and his heirs, here appeareth no ambiguity at all. But if the truth be. that I have the manors both of South S and North S, this ambiguity is matter in fact and, therefore, it shall be holpen by averment, whether of them it was, that the party intended should pass

The above distinction which, as already observed, was originally taken by Lord Bacon, was so taken with reference to pleading upon instruments under seal, and cannot, it has been said. (1) be relied on as a test of the admissibility of evidence in the present connection, for there have been cases of patent ambiguity in the sense abovementioned, in which evidence has been admitted in explanation thereof. " It is true that a complete blank cannot be filled up by parol testimony, however strong. Thus a legacy to Mr .- cannot have any effect given to it; (2) nor a legacy to Lady-(3) But of there are any words to which a reasonable meaning may be attached, parol evidence may be resorted to, to show schut that meaning is. Thus a legacy to a person described by an initial, as to 'Mrs. C.,' admits explanation as by shewing that the testator was accustomed to speak of a particular person by the initial of her name (1) And when a blank was left for the Christian name, parol evidence has been admitted, (5) to show who was intended."(6) And so also when the deceased, by his will, appointed certain executors, and amongst others " Perceival-of Brighton, the father," the Court admitted evidence of the circumstances under which the deceased made his will, and of the persons about him, in order to satisfy itself who was meant by the imperfect description of the executor contained therein (7) The cases in which evidence will be admitted is clearly denoted in the case of In the Goods of De Rosaz (cited supra), and in the statement of this rule by Sir J. Stephen in his Digest. (8) viz., " if the words of a document are so defective or ambiguous as to be unmeaning, no evidence can be given to show what the author of the document intended to say In the last solution Lord Bacon's famous and much vexed maxim has been said to amount to no more than this, that an incurable ambiguity (which is very rare) is fatal (9)

The principles upon which evidence is in this connection both admitted and rejected is explained in Starkie on Evidence (p. 653), as follows :-- " By patent ambiguity must be understood an ambiguity inherent in the words, and incanable of being disnelled, either by any legal rules of construction applied to the

<sup>(1)</sup> Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 540 and criticisms collected in Browne on Parol Evidence, p. 117,

<sup>(2)</sup> Baylis v Attorney-General, 2 Atk., 239 See Re Macduff, 2 Ch., 451, C A. (1897)

<sup>(3)</sup> Hunt v. Hort, 3 Bro C. C., 311. The province of the Court is to interpret, not to make It is to construe the expressions the parties have themselves furnished, not to supply others Were the Court by the process of construction to resert in the blank the person, property or thing omitted as if it were to say who was the lady-this would be to supply, not to interpret, and though the law admits evidence to explain, it excludes that which would only be to add to a document Goodeve, Ev., 302. As the language expresses no definite meaning, if evidence were allowed to be given as to what the intention of the person using it was, the effect would be, not to interpret words, but to conjecture as to intention, and that this section forbids. Cunningham, Ev., 270. (4) Abbott v. Marne, 3 Ves., 148; Clayton v.

Lord Nugent, 13 M. & W , 207. Rosaz, L R , 2 P D , 66, 69

<sup>(5)</sup> Price v Page, 4 Ves . 680 (6) Per Sir J Hannen In the Goods of De

<sup>(7)</sup> In the Goods of De Rosaz, supra. So also evidence was admitted when the legatee was merely referred to by a term of endearment (Sullivan v Sullivan, I R , 4 Eq., 457), cited in Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 540 And where a document which began "I. A & B," was signed "C D," the ambiguity apparent on the face of the writing was allowed to be explained by parol; Summers v Moorkouse, 13 Q. R. D., 388 and interpretation by the rules of art, are either so because they are in themselves unintelligible or because being intelligible they exhibit a plain and obvious uncertainty. In the first instance, the case admits of two varieties; the terms, though at first sight unintelligible, may yet be capable of having a meaning annexed to them by extringic evidence, just as if they were written in a foreign language, as when mercantile terms are used which amongst mercantile men bear a distinct and definite meaning, although others do not comprehend them; the terms used, may, on the other hand, be capable of no distinct and definite interpretation. Now it is evident that to give effect to an instrument, the terms of which, though apparently ambiguous, are capable of having a distinct and definite meaning annexed to them, is no violation of the general principle; for in such a case effect is given, not to any loose conjecture as to the intent and meaning of the party, but to the expressed meaning, and that, on the other hand, where either the terms used are incapable of any certain and definite meaning. or, being in themselves intelligible, exhibit plain and obvious uncertainty, and are equally capable of different applications, to give an effect to them by extrinsic evidence as to the intention of the party, would be to make the supposed intention operate independently of any definite expression of such intention. By patent ambiguity, therefore, must be understood an inherent ambiguity, which cannot be removed either by the ordinary rules of legal construction or by the application of extrinsic and explanatory evidence, showing that expressions, prima facic unintelligible, are yet capable of conveying a certain and definite meaning"

<sup>(8)</sup> Art. 91, cited with approval in Wharton's Ev., § 956.

<sup>(9)</sup> Browne, op cit, 123, and see Thayer's cases on Evidence, 1021.

And Sir W. Grant in Colpoys v. Colpoys,(1) says :-- " In the case of a patent ambiguity,-that is, one appearing on the face of the instrument,-as a general rule, a reference to matter dehors the instrument is forbidden. It must, if possible, be removed by construction, and not by averment. But in many cases this is impracticable : where terms used are wholly indefinite and equirocal, and carry on the face of them no certain or explicit meaning, and the instrument furnishes no materials by which the ambiguity thus arising can be removed. if in such cases the Court were to reject the only mode by which the meaning could be ascertained, siz, the resort to extrinsic circumstances, the instrument must become inoperative and void. As a minor evil, therefore, common sense and the law of England (which are seldom at variance) warrant the departure from the general rule, and call in the light of extrinsic evidence. The books are full of instances sanctioned by the highest authorities both in law and equity. When the person or the thing is designated, on the face of the instrument by terms imperfect and equivocal, admitting either of no meaning at all by themselves, or of a variety of different meanings, referring tacitly, or expressly, for the ascertainment and completion of the meaning to extrinsic circumstances, it has never been considered an objection to the reception of the evidence of those circumstances that the ambiguity was patent, manifested on the face of the instrument. When a legacy is given to a man by his surname and the jeweller, it would not pass those that he had in his shop. Thus, the same expressions may vary in meaning according to the circumstances of the testator."

A document is not patently ambiguous because it is unintelligible to an un- "Ambiguinstructed person, as to one uninstructed in technical terms of art or science, tive. local peculiarity, obsolete meaning and the like. In such cases parol evidence is always admissible to ascertain the meaning of the terms used (see section 98, post). A document is ambiguous only, if found to be of uncertain meaning when persons of competent skill and information are unable to interpret it (1) Santana Patient'an mings to bear of paranti, name of personal and at 12 of Dale, the son of T," and there were two persons to whom the entire description accurately applied, this description, though accurate, would be ambiguous. It is obvious therefore that the whole of that class of cases in which an inaccurate description is found to be sufficient merely by the rejection of words of surplusage are cases in which no ambiguity really exists. The meaning is certain, notwithstanding the maccuracy of the testator's language.(2)

Nothing in this Chapter is to affect the provisions of the Indian Succession Act as to the construction of wills (3) The rule, however, under that Act is the same as that enacted by this section, for where there is an ambiguity or deficiency on the face of the will, no extransic evidence as to the intentions of the testator will be admitted.(1) Where, however, any word material to the full expression of the meaning has been omitted, it may be supplied by the context. So if a testator gives a legacy of "five hundred" to his daughter A, and a legacy of "five hundred rupees" to his daughter B. A will take a legacy of five hundred rupees (5)

94. When language used in a document is plain in itself, Exclusion and when it applies accurately to existing facts, evidence may spatiation not be given to show that it not was meant to apply to such facts.

Illustration

A sells to B, by deed, 'my estate at Rampur containing 100 bighas'. A has an estate at Rampur containing 100 bighas. Evidence may not be given of the fact that the estate meant to be sold was one situated at a different place and of a different size.

Principle.—See Notes, post

s. 3 (" Document.") s. 3 (" Fact ') 5. 3 (" Eridence.")

Norton, Ev., 281; Field, Ev., 438, Cunningham, Ev., 256,

COMMENTARY.

Not only must a document be produced to prove its own contents or the Plain landisposition or other fact, which is its subject-matter but when so produced the guage document must be allowed to speak for itself.

English law that where the words of a documer external circumstances do not create any doubt or difficulty as to the proper application of the words, the document is to be construed according to the plain common meaning of the words, and that in such case, extrinsic evidence for

Norton, Ev., 281

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Ev., 280, Wigram on Extrinsic Evidence, 105

<sup>(2)</sup> Wigram on Extrinsic Evidence cited in

<sup>(4)</sup> Act X of 1865 (Indian Succession), s. 68. (5) Ib., s. 64.

" to the supposed intention of the . the of a document are plain and should be collected from the unar language of the document itself without the aid of surrounding circumstances.(2) The true construction of an agreement depends upon the ordinary meaning of the words used, and, if those words are plain and unambiguous, it is clear that they cannot be explained away by extrinsic evidence and still less by mere reasoning from probabilities.(3) Extrinsic evidence is admissible only to explain a document, but not to contradict it. In the case, the subject of the section. no explanation is necessary. There is here evidently no patent ambiguity; for by the terms of the section the language used in the document is plain in itself;" and there is as evidently no latent ambiguity, for the language used in the document "applies accurately to existing facts." It follows, therefore, that there is no ground for the admission of explanatory extrinsic evidence. On the other hand, the admission of evidence to show that the language was not meant to apply to existing facts would be in effect to contradict the express provision of the document (4) The same rule applies with regard to construction simply. A deed must be construed according to the plain ordinary meaning of its terms; and words may not be imported into it, from any conjectural view of its intention which would have the effect of materially changing the nature of the estate thereby created.(5) This section is a qualification of the rule contained in section 92, sixth Proviso.(6)

Evidence as

 When language is used in a document is plain in itself unmeaning but is unmeaning in reference to existing facts, evidence may be to existing given to show that it was used in a peculiar sense.

Illustration.

A sells to B, by deed, 'my house in Calcutta.'

A had no house in Calcutta, but it appears that he had a house at Howrah, of which R had been in possession since the execution of the deed.

These facts may be proved to show that the deed related to the house at Howrah.

Evidence as guage which can apply to one several persons

96. When the facts are such that the language used might have been meant to apply to any one, and could not have been meant to apply more than one of several persons or things,

(1) Shore v. Wilson, 5 Scott, N. R., 658, 1037; Cunningham, Ev., 265; Ram Lorhun v. Unnopoorna Dosee, 7 W. R., 144 (1867), [Extrinsic evidence is not admissible to alter a written contract, or where the wording of the document as perfectly clear, to show that its meaning is different from what its words import; the same rule is laid down by Wood, V. C., as to wills-" When any subject is discovered which not only is within the words of the instrument, according to their natural construction, but exhausts the whole of these words, then the investigation must stop. You are bound to take the interpretation which entirely exhausts the whole of the series of expressions used by the testator and are not permitted to go any further." If elb v. Byng, 1 K. & J. 580. The rule which is enacted by this section has been more recently affirmed by the House of Lords in North Eastern Rollway v. Hastings (1900), L. R., A. C., 260.

(2) Babu v. Sitaram, 3 Bom. L. R., 768 (1901); see Lowever notes to 4, 92, Prov 6, ante

(3) Alaganya Toruchettambala v Saminoda Pillos, 1 Mad. H. C. R., 264 (1863); Baboo Rambuddun v. Rance Koonwar, W. R. 1884, Act X Rullings 22, 24.

(4) Norton, Ev., 281; Field, Ev., 438

(5) Museamat Bhagbutts v. Choudry Bholanath, 2 I. A , 256 (1875) (6) Ghellabhai v Nandubhai, 21 B., 335, 334

(1896), in which case it was held that the language of the document was not so plain in itself nor did it apply so accurately to existing facts as to present evplence being given.

evidence may be given of facts which show which of those persons or things it was intended to apply to.

Illustrations.

- (a) 'A agrees to sell to B, for Rs. 1,000, 'my white horse.' A has two white horses. Evidence may be given of facts which show which of them was meant.
- (b) A agrees to company B to Haidarabad.

Evidence may be given of facts showing whether Haidarabad in the Dekkhan or Haidarabad in Sindh was meant.

97. When the language used applies partly to one set of Evidence a existing facts, and partly to another set of existing facts, but the tien of the whole of it does not apply correctly to either, evidence may be of two sets of facts. given to show to which of the two it was meant to apply.

Illustration.

A agrees to sell to B, 'my land at X in the occupation of Y.' . I has land at X, but not in the occupation of Y, and he has land in the occupation of Y, but it is not at X. Evidence may be given of facts showing which he meant to sell.

Principle. - See Notes, post.

s. 3 (" Document ")

s. 3 (" Fact ")

s. 3 (" Eridence.")

Steph. Dig., Art. 91, Cls. (5-8), pp. 170-174; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1202, 1206, 1209, 1215, 1218--1226, 1131; Goodeve, Ev., 396, 398; Wigram's Extrinsic Evidence, loc. cit., Thayer's Cases on Evidence, 1014, et seq.

COMMENTARY.

Latent ambiguity in the more ordinary application arises from the exist- Latent amence of facts external to the instrument; and the creation by these facts of a ques- biguity. tion not solved by the document itself. A latent ambiguity arises when the words of the instrument are clear, but their application to the circumstances is doubtful; here the ambiguity, being raised solely by extrinsic evidence, is allowed to be removed by the same means (1) In strictness of definition such cases as those in which peculiar usage may afford a construction to a term different from its natural one (see section 98, post), would be instances of latent ambiguity, since the double use of the term would leave it open to the doubt in which of its two senses it were to be taken. It is not, however, to this class of cases that reference is now made; but to those in which the ambiguity is rather that of description, either equivocal itself from the existence of two subject-matters, or two persons both falling within its terms (section 96), or imperfect when brought to bear on any given person or thing(2) (sections 94, 97).

Section 94, ante, provides that whe " and applies accurately to existing facts, it was not meant to apply to such facts.

the rule as to provide that when language correctly describes two sets of circumstances and cannot have been intended to apply to both, evidence may be given to show to which set it was intended to apply (3) Where a description applies equally to several different subjects, an "equivocation" (which is

Equivoca-

<sup>(1)</sup> Umesh Chandra v. Sazeman, 5 B L. R., (2) Goodeve, Ev., 393, 633 634 (1869); s. c., 12 W. R., O. J. 2. (3) Cunningham, Ev., 276.

pro 12404 ---- --

This proposition has been held to apply to the case of two persons bearing the same name as that mentioned in the document, although one has also additional names not mentioned therein (3) In the Illustrations appended to the section the language is certain. The doubt as to which of two similar persons or things the language applies has been introduced by, and may therefore be removed by, extrinsic evidence The section says evidence may be given of "facts," a term which will include statements (4) And as already observed, even according to English law, declarations of intention on the part of the author of the instrument are admissible To use the words of Lord Abinger. (5) this evidence of intention can properly be admitted "where the meaning of the testator's words is neither ambiguous nor obscure, and where the devise is on the face of it perfect and intelligible, but, from some of the circumstances admitted in proof, an ambiguity arres, as to which of the two or more things, or which of the two or more persons (each answering the words in the will) the testator intended to express. Thus, if a testator devise his manor of S to A B, and has two manors of North S and South S, it being clear he means to devise one only, whereas both are equally denoted by the words he has used, in that case there is, what Lord Bacon calls, 'an equivocation,' ie., the words equally apply to either manor, and evidence of previous intention may be received to solve this latent ambiguity, for the intention shows what he meant to do; and when you know that, you immediately perceive that he has done it by the general words he has used, which, in their ordinary sense, may properly bear that construction "

The Indian Succession Act embodies the same rule as that contained in section 96 of this Act; enacting that when the words of a will are unambiguous, but it is found by extrinsic evidence that they admit of applications, one only of which can have been intended by the testator, extrinsic evidence may be taken to show which of these applications was intended. (6) Thus, a man having two cousins of the name of Mary, bequeaths a sum of money to "his cousin Mary," It appears that there are two persons each answering the description in the will. That description, therefore, admits of two applications, only one of which can have been intended by the testator. Evidence is admissible to show which of the two applications was intended (7).

mperfect description

As section 96 deals with equivocal descriptions, so sections 95, 97, may be said to deal with imperfect descriptions. Both of the latter sections refer to latent ambiguities. Section 97 is only an extension and application of the rule laid down in section 95 (8). The latter section formulates the general rule with regard to imperfect descriptions embodied in the maxim jakes demonstration non necet (a false description does not vitiate the document), while the former deals with a particular form of imperfect description, namely, when such description applies to a double and not to a single set of facts. There may be enough of description in the instrument to have indicated some specific thing as the object of its operation, or some given individual as the object of its provisions; but it might turn out, on seeking to apply the instrument to its supposed subject-matter or object, that, from an imperfection of description there was neither subject

Doe v. Hisrocks, 5 M. & W., 363, Charter
 Charter, L. R., 7 H. L., 364; Taykor, Ev., §§ 1207, 1208; Doe v. Needr, 2 M. & W., 129, Umesh Chandra v. Sageman, 5 B. L. R., 633, 634 (1869).

<sup>(2)</sup> Doe v. Westlake, 4 B & Ald , 57, Webber v. Corbett, L R., 16 Eq , 515.

<sup>(3)</sup> Bennett v. Marshall, 2 K. & J., 740, Bebber v. Corbett, L. R., 16 Fq., 515; Doe v. Allen,

A & E , 451 , In tr Weltertan, 7 Ch D , 197 S 3, ante
 In Doe v. Hiscools, 5 M. & W., at pp. 368,

<sup>369</sup>

<sup>(6)</sup> Act X of 1865, s. 67, extended to Hindu Wills, by Act XXI of 1870, s 2.

<sup>(7)</sup> Ib., Illust,

<sup>(8)</sup> Conningham, Ev.

nor object in exact correspondence with it; so that it would be uncertain on what, or in whose favour, the instrument was designed to operate. Thus where in the case of a devise of Trogue's farm "in the occupation of M" the testator had a farm called Trogue's, but a portion of it only was in M's occupation, the farm was allowed to pass (1) In such a case the extrinsic circumstances create the uncertainty, and the question which extrinsic circumstances create, extrinsic evidence is admitted to clear up. The distinction is clear between clearing up an ambiguity and creating a subject (2) The cases under this heading are (a) schere a description is partly correct and partly incorrect (section 95); and (b) where part of a description applies to one subject-matter and part to another (section 97). If the document applies in part but not with accuracy to the circumstances of the case, the Court may draw inferences from those circumstances as to the meaning of the document, whether there is more than one,

.... eription may n the part of above mentioned. But the propriety of a rule which excludes such evidence in the cases dealt with by sections 95 and 97, but admits it in the case dealt with by section 96 has been doubted; it being said that the evidence should be admitted or excluded in all cases alike (5) No such distinction between declarations of intention and other evidence is observed by this Act(6) and therefore in all cases where extrinsic evidence is admissible, whether under sections 95 and 97 or section 96, declarations of intention will be admissible (7) When declarations of intention are receivable in evidence, their admissibility does not depend upon the time when they were made. Certainly contemporaneous declarations will, cateris paribus, be entitled to greater weight than those made before or after the execution, but in point of law no distinction can be drawn between them, unless the subsequent declarations, instead of relating to what the declarant had done, or had intended to do, by an instrument, were simply to refer to what he intended to do, or wished to be done, at the time of the speaking (8)

When a description is partly correct and partly incorrect (section 95), and Description the former part is sufficient to identify the subject-matter intended, while the partity con-lect, partial latter does not apply to any subject, the erroneous part will be rejected on the incorrect maxim falsa demonstratio non noret cum de corpore constat(9) (a false description (8 95) will not hurt when it can co-exist with the subject itself) (v supra), unless it is introduced by way of exception or limitation (10). The principle is that so much of the description as has no application being laid aside as mere surplusage, what remains is sufficient to identify the thing really meant. The words "in Calcutta" in the illustration have no application The words "my house" have application when it is shown that A had a house at Howrah (11) The description may not accurately specify even one person or thing, that is the description of the subject intended may be true in part but not true in every But the instrument will not in consequence of the inaccuracy be regarded as inoperative. If after rejecting so much of the description as is false, the remainder will enable the Court to ascertain with legal certainty the subject-matter to which the instrument really applies, it will be allowed

<sup>(1)</sup> Good title v Southern, I M & S . 209 (2) Goodeve, Et , 395, 396

<sup>(3)</sup> Steph Dig , Art. 91, cl (7)

<sup>(4)</sup> Ib., Taylor, Ev., §§ 1202, 1206, 1218,

<sup>(5)</sup> Steph Dig , pp 170-174 (6) It is to be noted, however, that while a 96

says "evidence may be given of facts" (which would include in statements under s 3), ss. 95, 97 say "evidence may be given to show." It is conceived, however, that this verbal variation does not indicate any real difference.

<sup>(7)</sup> Field, Ev., 441, Cunningham, Ev., 275-

<sup>(9)</sup> Taylor, Ev , $ 1209, and cases there cited.

<sup>(9)</sup> Taylor, Ev . $5 1218-1223 (For an application of this maxim, see Courn v. Truefitt, Ld., 1898, 2 Ch., 551)

<sup>(10)</sup> Il., § 1224. (11) Field, Ev., 439

to take effect upon the principle of the maxim above cited. But the rule which rejects erroneous descriptions which are not substantially important, can, however, only be applied where enough remains to show the intent plainly.(1)

Thus by a devise of "all that my farm called Trogue's farm, now in the occupation of C," the whole farm passed, though it was not all in C's occupation (2) So also it was held that a devise of all the testator's treehold houses in Aldersgate Street, when in fact he had only leasehold houses there, was, in substance and effect, a devise of his houses in that street, the word "freehold" being rejected as surplusage.(3) And when a sale-certificate described as a notedara interest what was really a shikmi taluk, this misdescription was held not to prejudice to the purchaser's title.(4) A mortgage-deed of certain bhandars lands stated that "all the properties appertaining to the entire bhaq," were thereby mortgaged to the plaintiff The bhag comprised (inter alia) four gabhans (building-sites). But the clause which set forth the particulars of the property mortgaged thereby, specified only two qabhans, one only of which belonged to the bhag and the other did not. The deed then proceeded .-- "According to these particulars, lands, houses and gabhans, barn yards, wells, tanks, padars and pasture land also, together with whatsoever may appertain to the bhagall the properties appertaining to the whole bhaq have been mortgaged and delivered into your possession...... There is no other property appertaining to the said bhag of which mention is not made here." It was held that the particulars were "the leading description," and the supplementary description of them as constituting the entire bhag should be regarded as " falsa demonstratio "(5) A further illustration is afforded by a class of cases, of not infrequent occurrence in India, where there is a description of land in a conveyance, lease, or other document, such a description setting forth the boundaries and then specifying the quantity, as so many acres, bighas or the like. Here the maxim falsa demonstratio non nocet applies; it is considered to be a mere false description, if there is an error in the quantity; and the land within the boundaries passes by the conveyance or lease, whether it be less or more than the quantity specified (6) Where a testator made a bequest to "A B . my avurasa son '' knowing that A B was not his avurasa son, it was held, that the misdescription was immaterial and that A B took the bequest (7) And where a sale-deed described the land sold by wrong survey numbers, extrinsic evidence was admitted to show that the lands intended to be sold and actually sold and delivered were lands bearing different survey numbers (8)

Though false statements introduced into an instrument by way of offirmation only, may, as has been seen, be rejected, provided the remaining description be sufficient to identify the person or thing intended; yet they cannot be disregarded if they have been used by way of exception or limitation; because in this latter case, it is obvious that they were intended to have a material

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Er., 88 1218-1220

<sup>(2)</sup> Gool title v Southern, 1 M. & S., 290, cited in Umesh Chundra v Sogiman, 5 B. L. R., 633, 634 (1869), and we West v. Lawday, H. H. L. C., 284: Trainer v Blandell, 6 Ch. D., 436, cited and followed in Tryhbolandas Jeknandas v Krishnoran Kuberram, 18 E., 283, 288 (1853)

<sup>(3)</sup> Day v. Trig, 1 P Wins , 286; and see other cases cited in Taylor, Dr , § 1221

<sup>(4)</sup> Shash Kaleemoodden v. Ashruf Ali, 19 W. R. 276 (1873), Taraknath Chuckerbuity v. Jog Sunduree, 21 W. R., 93 (1874).

<sup>(5)</sup> Tribhoobandas Jekseendas v. Krishnaram Kuberam, 18 B., 283 (1893)

<sup>(6)</sup> Field, Ev. 440, Pahalwan Singh v Maha-

rayah Mukseur, 9 B. L. R., 150, 159 (1871); 15 W. R. P. C., S. Sheb Chunder, Proposah Adityo, 14 W. R., 20, 1 (1870), Modes Huddun v. Suddet, 12 W. R., 439 (1889), Kazes Addod' v. Burodo Kent, 15 W. R., 384 (1871), Zenni Ali v.
Zenn Doyd, 18 W. R., 25 (1872), Zenni Chunder
v. Pretag Chunder, 20 W. R., 222 (1873), ivyrunada Madhaldar v. Matonned Ali, 5 B., 236 (1889), see Taylor, Er., §§ 120, 1221.

<sup>(7)</sup> Court of Wards v. Venlata Surya, 20 M, 167, 185-188 (1896), a Trined, 22 M., 383 (1898)

<sup>(8)</sup> Karuppa Goundan v. Thoppala Goundan (1907), 30 Mad, 307; and Sanlya v. Sauvri, 4 Bom. L. R., 871

operation. Moreover, if there he one subject-matter as to which all the demonstrations in a written instrument are true, and another as to which part are true and part false, the instrument will be intended to contain words to pass only that subject-matter as to which all the circumstances are true.(1)

When part of a description applies to a subject-matter and part to another Part of description (section 97), extrinsic evidence is admissible to ascertain to which the language applying applies, and so to resolve the latent ambiguity: Thus a legatee may be so one subject described in a will that while part of the description answers to one claimant, to mother the remainder may apply to another. So where a testator devised an estate (8.97) to his nephew for life with remainder over to "Elizabeth Albett, a natural daughter of E .1 of G, single woman who had formerly been in his service," and it appeared that at the date of the will, E .1, the mother, was the wife of J C. and had had only two children, namely, a natural son-named John, born before his mother's marriage, shortly after she had left the testator's service and of whom the testator's nephew was the putative father, the other named Mar-· garet, who was born four years subsequently to her leaving the service, and was a legitimate daughter by C, and it further appeared that the testator had wished his nephew to marry his servant, that he was aware she had had a natural child, and that he had treated her kindly since its birth and up to date of the will; but no proof was given that he knew whether the natural child was a boy or a girl; it was held that the testator meant to provide for his nephew's natural child by his servant, Elizabeth Abbott, and that the mistake of the name and sex was not sufficient to defeat the device (2)

Formerly the law attached somewhat greater weight to the name than to the description of the legate, a doctrine which is embodied in the maxim teritas nominis tollut errorem demonstrations. But it is doubtful whether this rule that the name in such cases is to prevail over the description, would be strictly followed now; the modern inclination of the Courts being to free themselves when necessary from artificial rules and to decide the point purely by preponderance of probability (3)

The following has been stated to be a summary of the English law upon Summary these points:(4)—"Fr

First, where in a intended is applicable evidence, including proof of declarations of intention, is admissible, to establish which of such subjects was intended by the author (5)

Secondly, if the description of the person or thing be partly applicable and partly anapplicable to each of several subjects, though extrinsic evidence of the surrounding circumstances may be received for the purpose of ascertaining to which of such subjects the language applies, yet evidence of the author's declarations of intention will be madmussible (6)

Thirdly, if the description be partly correct and partly incorrect, and the correct part be sufficient of itself to enable the Court to identify the subject intended, while the incorrect part is inapplicable to any subject, parol evidence will be admissible to the same extent as in the last case, and the instrument will be rendered operature by rejecting the erroneous statements (7)

Fourthly, if the description be wholly trapplicable to the subject intended, or said to be intended by it, evidence cannot be received to prove whom or what the author really intended to describe (8)

(8) Id., 133.

Taylor, Ev., § 1224, and cases there cited Ryall v Hanson, 10 Bea., 536. Taylor.
 Ev., § 1216
 Taylor, Ev., § 1215, and cases there cited.
 Thipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 550 and Cloul v. Hammond, 34 Ch. D., 255; and see Act X of 1865

(Indian Succession), s 639 (4) Faylor, Ev., § 1226. (5) Wigt., Wills, 160.

<sup>(6)</sup> Doe v. Historis, supra.(7) Wigr., Wills, 67—70.

Filthly, if the language of a written instrument, when interpreted according to its primary meaning, be insensible with reference to extrinsic circumstance, collateral facts may be resorted to, in order to show that in some secondary sense of the words, and in one in which the author meant to use them, the instrument may have a full effect (1).

First rule here given corresponds with section 96; second rule with section 97; third and fifth rules correspond with section 95; and fourth rule corresponds with section 94; while no distinction is made in any case between declarations of intention and other evidence (2)

The Indian Succession Act The Indian Succession Act provides a similar rule enacting that, if the thing which the testator intended to bequeath can be sufficiently identified from the description of it given in the will, but some parts of the description do not apply, such parts of the description shall be rejected as erroneous and the bequest shall take effect (3) So also where the words used in the will to designate or describe a legatee or a class of legatees, sufficiently show what is meant, an error in the name or description will not prevent the legacy from taking effect A mistake in the name of a legatee may be corrected by a description of him, and a mistake in the description of a legatee may be corrected by the name."(4)

Evidence as to meaning of illegible characters. &c

98. Evidence may be given to show the meaning of illegible or not commonly intellgible characters, of foreign, obsolete, technical, local and provincial expressions, of abbreviations and of words used in a peculiar sense.

Illustration.

A, a sculptor, agrees to sell to B 'all my models.' A has both models and modeling tools. Evidence may be given to show which he meant to sell Principle —This description of evidence is admissible in order to enable the Court to understand the meaning of the words contained in the instrument itself by themselves and without reference to the extrinsic facts on which the instrument is intended to operate [5] See Note, post.

s. 3 (" Evidence.")

s. 49 (Opinion as to meaning of words or terms)

Steph. Dig , Art 01, cl. 2; Taylor, Ev., § 1162; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 538-554, Rogers' Expert Testimony, § 118.

COMMENTARY.

Meaning of characters expressions, abbreviations and words

The principle upon which words are to be construed in instruments is very plain—where there is a popular and common word in an instrument, that word must be construed prima facie in its popular and common sense. If it is a word of a technic or legal mea

then it mus namely its

(2) Field, Ev., 440, 441.

of the secondary meaning of a word, the Court must be satisfied from the instrument itself, or from the circumstances of the case, that the word ought to be

(3) Act X of 1865, s 65, and see s 66, tb, both applying to Wills of Hindus, Act XXI of 1870. (5) Goodeve, Ev., 374, enting Shore v. Wilson, ssf.

post.

<sup>(1)</sup> Doe v Hiscocks, supra, Wigt, Wills, 11 cited, Taylor, Ev., § 1131

<sup>(4)</sup> Ib, s 63, applicable to Hindu Wills Act {XXI of 1870), s. 2.

621

construed, not in its popular or primary signification, but according to its secondary intention (1) And in England it has been held that that evidence that expressions were used in a technical sense ought not to be admitted without a distinct averment as to the particular words to which evidence is proposed to be directed and as to the technical or trade meaning which it is sought to attribute to them (2)

In a recent case it was held that in construing wills the test to be applied is what did the testator mean having regard to the words used and that technical words, or words of known legal import, must have their legal effect even though the testator uses inconsistent words, unless those inconsistent words are of such a nature as to make it perfectly clear that the testator did not mean to use the terms in their proper sense (3)

Evidence may not be given to show that common words, the meaning of which is plain and which do not appear from the context to have been used in a peculiar sense, where in fact so used. The general rule is that the meaning of an English word, not a technical term, cannot be made known by an examination of witnesses It has, therefore, been held error in an action for iibel to allow a physician to testify as to the meaning of the word "malpractice,"(1) It may happen, however, that from some peculiarity of the character in which it is written, the instrument is itself illegible to the Court called upon to expound it, without the aid of persons skilled in decipherment, its language may be foreign to the Court; or it may contain terms as being either of an obsolete character, or those of abbreviation, art, local or mercantile usage-which may not be understood by the Judges, or which having assigned to them by peculiar usage an interpretation different from their ordinary and popular one. may be themselves equivocal. Accordingly, until before the Court in a form deciphered, translated, or, as to the meaning of particular characters or expressions, explained, it would have no means of adjudication. Until brought before it by interpretation in a living shape, it would be a dead letter only the Court would be called on to expound, and it is obvious, accordingly, that to this extent at all events parol evidence must, from the very necessity of the case, be admitted It is not because the language is ambiguous, however, but because it is unknown, that for this purpose evidence is received, --received not as proof of any particular intention in its use, but simply to affix an interpretation to characters or expressions used (5) The question whether language is ambiguous depends upon the question whether it is ambiguous when addressed to a person competent to interpret language. Words cannot be ambiguous because they are unintelligible to a man who cannot read, and within the same reason words cannot be ambiguous merely because the Court which is called upon to explain them may be ignorant of a particular fact, art, or science which was familiar to the person who used the words, and a knowledge of which is therefore necessary to a right understanding of the words he has used.(6)

The principle is thus stated by Tindal, C. J., in the case of Shore v. Wilson :(7) "Where any doubt arises upon the true sense and meaning of the words themselves, or any difficulty as to their application under the surrounding circumstances, the sense and meaning of the language may be investigated and ascertained by evidence dehors the instrument itself, for reason and common sense agree, that by no other means can the language of the instrument be made

<sup>(1)</sup> Holt & Co v. Collyer, 18 Ch. D , 718, 720, per Fry. J see Rayner v Rayner (1904), Ch 176, cited in notes to a 92, Prov. 6, ante (2) Sutton v. Creer, (1890), 15 A C., 144

Taylor, § 1131.

<sup>(3)</sup> Wilson v. Oakes (1909), 31 M. 283; following Lolis Mohan Singh v. Chukkun Lal Roy,

P C, 24 C, 834

<sup>(4)</sup> Steph Dig , Art 91, cl 2 , Rogers op, cst ,

<sup>(5)</sup> Goodeve, Et , 371, 372

<sup>(6)</sup> Wigram, Extensic Ev., p. 105.

<sup>(7) 9</sup> C. & F., 533.

to speak the real mind of the party. Such investigation does of necessity take place in the interpretation of instruments written in a foreign language,—in the case of ancient instruments, where, by the lapse of time and change of manners, the words have acquired in the present age a different meaning from that which they bore when originally employed,—in cases where terms of art or science occur,—in mercantile contracts which, in many instances, use a peculiar language, employed by those only who are conversant in trade or commerce, and in other instances in which the words, besides their general common meaning, have acquired, by custom or otherwise, a well-known peculiar idiomatic meaning in the particular country in which the party using them was dwelling, or in the particular society of which he formed a member, and in which he passed his life. In all these cases, evidence is admitted to expound the real meaning of the language used in the instrument, in order to enable the Court or Judge to construe the instrument, and to carry such real meaning in effect

In the same case, the law is thus stated by Lord Wensleydale in a judgment which marks the distinction which exists between the interpretation of instruments and their application to facts "I apprehend that there are two descriptions of evidence (the only two which bear upon the subject of the present enquiry), and which are clearly admissible in every case for the purpose of enabling a Court to construe any written instrument, and to apply it practically. In the first place, there is no doubt that not only where the language of the instrument is such as the Court does not understand, it is competent to receive evidence of the proper meaning of that language, as when it is written in a foreign tongue; but it is also competent where technical words or peculiar terms, or indeed any expressions are used, which, at the time the instrument was written. had acquired an appropriate meaning, either generally or by local usage, or amongst particular classes This description of evidence is admissible, in order to enable the Court to understand the meaning of the words contained in the instrument itself, by themselves, and without reference to the extrinsic facts on which the instruments are intended to operate. For the purpose of applying the instrument to the facts, a thing mentioned in the instrument, and to place the Court, whose province it is to declare the meaning of the words of the instrument, as near as may be in the situation of the parties to it?

who take an interest under it, a second viz, every material fact that will enab

To the above citations may be added the short and terse statement by Gibbs, C. J., in a case on a charterparty involving the meaning of the term 'privilege' (a sum in lieu of privilege having been reserved to the captain) where he says: "Evidence may be received to show the sense in which the mercantile part of the nation use the term 'privilege'—just as you swould look into a dictionary to ascertain the meaning of a word, and it must be taken to have been used by the parties in its mercantile and established sense." (2)

Illegible or not commonly intelligible characters

This might arise either from the use of cypher, or shorthand or other peculiarity of character as the medium of expression; or it might be merely bad writing (3) Referring to a case of cypher, Alderson, B, observed: "Words on apper are but the means by which a person expresses his meaning, and shorthand is, in this respect, like longland, and equally admits of interpretation." (4) Experts have been allowed to be called to decipher abbreviated and elliptical entries in the book of a deceased notary (5)

<sup>(1)</sup> See 9, 92, cl. (6), onfe-

<sup>(2)</sup> Birch v. Deypester, Starkie, 210; Smith v. Ludha Ghella, 17 B. 144 (1892). See further as to Wills, ss. 77, 86, 87, Act X of 1855.

<sup>(3)</sup> Goodeve, Ev., 376.

<sup>(4)</sup> Clayton v. Nugent, 13 M. & W., 206

<sup>(5)</sup> Sheldon 7. Benham, 4 Hill, 129 (Amer)

cited in Rogers on cit., p. 276.

A word may be both descriptive and distinctive. If a word is prima facie the name or description of an article, evidence will be admitted that it is also generally associated with the name of a particular manufacturer. But such evidence will not be conclusive that the word has become a distinctive one which cannot be used of the same article when made by others without risk of deception.(1)

The translation in the High Courts, of documents in the languages of this Foreign. country, affords familiar illustration on the point of language foreign to the technical Court (2) Making a translation is not a mere question of trying to find out in local and a dictionary the words which are given as the equivalent of the words of the expression document; a true translation is the putting into English that which is the used in a exact effect of the language used under the circumstances Not only is a com-peculiar petent translator required, but if the words in the foreign country had in business a particular meaning different from their ordinary meaning, an expert will be admitted to say what that meaning is (3) But it is not competent for a witness called to translate writing in a foreign language to give any opinion as to its construction, that being a question for the Court (4) The opinion of experts is not binding on the jury, for it is with the jury and not with these witnesses that the determination of the case rests. The weight due to the testimony of these witnesses is a matter to be determined by the jury, and that weight will be proportioned to the soundness of the reasons adduced in its support.(5) A question has been raised as to whether official or Court translations are conclusive, or whether it is open to the parties to question their correctness and give evidence of the true translation (6) Such evidence has, however, on other occasions been admitted. So in the cases undermentioned(7) the accuracy of one of the Court translations was impugned, and in another(8) a translation of the defamatory matter prepared by the Court interpreter was put in by the prosecution The Court interpreter was examined at the instance of the Court, and was cross-examined by the accused He was also corroborated by another witness. A translation of the poem was also but in by the defence, who, as well as the prosecution, examined experts as to the meaning of the words used. Again, in the civil suit of Mahatala Bibee v. Haleemoozooman(9) the official translation of the words " mukadarat mahalum" in a Persian document being impugned, both the Court interpreter and non-official expert witnesses were permitted to testify as to the It is submitted that the true rule to be correct translation of these terms. applied is that in the absence of any specific issue being raised as to the accu-

(1) Burberry's v Cording d Co (1909), Times, L. R. 576.

(2) Goodeve, Ev., 376.

(3) Chatenay v. Brazilian Submarine Telegraph Co., 1891, 1 O B. 79, 92 See observa. tion in R. v Tilal, 22 B , 143 (1897)

(4) So in Stearsne v. Hentzman, 17 C B., N S. 56, a Belgian Consul was called to translate the following - "Les informations sur Gustave Sichel sont telles que nous ne pouvons lui livrer les 2,500 causes que contre connaissement Sivous voulez, nous vous enverrons les connaissements, et vous ne les lus delivrerez que contre payement" He was asked to what the article " les " referred, and said it was applicable to the " connamements." This was held to be error See also Di Sora v Phillips, 10 H. L. Ca , 624 (5) R. v. Kals Prassanna, 1 C. W. N., 465.

479 (1897)-(6) Nastarini Dassi v. Nundo Lall, Cal. H. Ct . 16th May, 1900, Sunt No 311 of 1898 The decision on the preliminary argument in this case is reported in 26 C . 891 No cases were last before the Court, which was informed that the practice was against the admission of this testimony. But as will appear from the text this is meorrect See further as to this case, post

(7) R v Tilal, 22 B , 112, at pp 142, 143 (1897). Harris v Brown, 28 C , 621 at p 634 (1901).

(8) R v Kals Prasanna, 1 C W N , 465, 479

(9) 10 C. L. R., 293, 300, 301, 322, in appeal (1891) Ion behalf of the defendant Mahatala were examined Mr Owen, the Chief Translator on the Original Side of the High Court, as also Major Jarrett, Moulvie Kabeeroodin Ahmed and Abdul Kazı, and on the other side, Boodin Ahmed and Mahomed Yusuff.

racy of a Court translation, such translation is binding, not because it is the act of a Court official, but because evidence is not generally admissible on points not specifically put in issue by the parties. But it is open to the latter to raise such an issue If it were otherwise, the recovery of an estate worth a crore of rupees, or the innocence of a party charged with a crime, might be made to depend upon the decision of an official who, though in most instances both competent and honest, might in a particular case be wanting in either of these respects.

As regards obsolete expressions, the case of Shore v. Wilson(1) may be taken as an example Here it being necessary in modern times to put a construction upon an ancient charitable foundation, and as to who were designed to take under the terms "Godly preachers of Christ's Holy Gospel," evidence was allowed to be given from history, contemporaneous with the deed, of the existence of a particular sect assuming to themselves that denomination and of the founder's connection with them.

Local and provincial usage is admissible to explain local and provincial expressions. So in the case(2) of a lease of a rabbit-warren where the lessee covenanted to leave on the warren at the expiration of the term 10,000 rabbits. the lessor paying for them £60 per thousand; evidence was received to show that, according to the local usage of that part of the country, 1,000 as applied to rabbits meant 1,200 So also evidence has been allowed to show that "18 pockets of Kent hops at 100s "meant at 100s per cut.(3) Evidence has been admitted to show that the word "year" in a theatrical contract meant those parts of the year during which the theatre was open (4) In mercantile contracts in which, as has been already seen (5) usage is admissible to annex unexpressed incidents thereto, evidence of usage has frequently been also admitted to explain the meaning of words, as for instance, whether "months" mean "calendar or lunar months" (6) to explain the word "days" in a billof-lading; (7) and that "October" in a certain contract of Marine Insurance meant from the 25th to the 31st of that month ,(8) to show the meaning of the word "bale," (9) and of the terms "within soundings," (10) "F O B" "Free Bombay Harbour;" "Free Bombay Harbour and interest; "(11) "regular turns of loading;" "arrived in docks;" "in turn to deliver," and other similar expressions (12) Evidence has been admitted to prove that the word "securities" was used by a testator in the sense of investments and stocks and shares in Railway and other Companies.(13)

Abbrevia-

Thus a wager to run one greyhound against another concluded with the initials "P P." Evidence was received to show that it meant-" Play or pay" that it is to say, win the match or forfeit the stakes (14) Alderson, B,

```
(I) 9 C & F, 355
```

<sup>(2)</sup> Smith v. Wilson, 3 B & Ad , 728

<sup>(3)</sup> Spicer v. Cooper, 1 O & B , 424

<sup>(4)</sup> Grant v Moddox, 15 M & W , 737 (5) S 92, Prov. 5, ante

<sup>(6)</sup> Jolly v Young, 1 Esp., 186. Simpson v Margitton, 11 Q B , 32

<sup>(7)</sup> Cochran v Retberg, 3 Esp., 121; see Nielsen v. Walt, 16 Q B D, 67; Norden Steamship Co v. Dempsey, 1 C P. D . 654. (8) Chaurand v. Angerstein, Peake, R , 43

<sup>(9)</sup> Gorrana v. Perria, 2 C. B , N. S , 681; ' If the term 'bale ' as applied to gambier has acquired in the particular trade of a signification differing from its ordinary signification, evidence must be received on the subject, otherwise effect is not given to the contract " Per Cockburn. C J.: So a bale of cotton may mean a bog in the Alexandrian trade and a compressed bale in the Levant trade, according to the usage of either trade Taylor v Briggs, 2 C & P . 525.

<sup>(10) 4</sup>ga Syud v Hajee Jaclereah, 2 Ind. Jur, 311 (1867)

<sup>(11)</sup> Hajee Mahamed v Spianer, 24 B., 510 519 (1900)

<sup>(12)</sup> See Taylor, Ev , § 1162, note (2), and Phipson, Ev . 3rd Ed , 554 et seq., where a large number of cases will be found collected. So also the words "to ship" and "shipment" may acquire a particular meaning Smith v. Ludha Ghella, 17 B , 140, 144, 145 (1892) , in Jadu Ras v Bhuholaran Nundy, 17 C. 193, 194 (1882), evidence of a special meaning of the word "goods" was rejected.

<sup>(13)</sup> Rayner v. Rayner (1904), 1 Ch., 176.

<sup>(14)</sup> Daintres v. Hutchinson, 10 M. & W., 85.

observed in the case now cited :- "Standing by themselves these letters are insensible; but the evidence confers a real meaning upon them, by showing what the parties intended by them, and that they were inserted with the view of expressing a given thing." So Parke, B :- "There can be no doubt the evidence was receivable. It is like the case of a word written in a foreign language." The Illustration to the section, which is taken from the case of Goblet v. Beechey,(1) affords another example of an abbreviation of a term of art. The will of the celebrated sculptor, Nolckens, contained a bequest of his "modtools for carving." The word "mod" was there contended on the one hand to mean modelling tools, and on the other models, which latter were of great value; and evidence of sculptors and others in interpretation of the word "mod" was admitted. So also where by a will a legacy was given to a Mrs. G., evidence was admitted to show that the testator was in the habit of calling a Mrs. Gregg, "Mrs. G.," and the latter was allowed accordingly to take under the initial (2) As to abbreviated and elliptical entries in books v. ante, p. 621.

99. Persons who are not parties to a document, or their Who may representatives in interest, may give evidence of any facts tend- dence of ing to show a contemporaneous agreement varying the terms varying of the document.

Illustration.

A and B make a contract in writing that B shall sell A certain cotton, to be paul for on delivery. At the same time they make an oral agreement that three months' credit shall be given to A. This could not be shown as between A and B, but it might be shown by C. if it affected his interests.

Principle.-The rule excluding parol evidence to vary or contradict written instruments is applicable only in suits between the parties to the instruments and their representatives These latter are to blame if the writing contains what was not intended, or omits what it should have contained third persons are not to be prejudiced by things recited in writing contrary to the truth through the ignorance, carelessness, or fraud of the parties, or thereby precluded from proving the truth, however contradictory it may be to the written statement.(3) See Note , post

s. 3 (" Document.") s. 3 (" Evidence.")

s. 3 (" Fact.")

s. 92 (Exclusion of evidence of oral agreement.)

Steph. Dig., Art. 92, Taylor, Ev., § 1149: Greenleaf, Ev., § 279, Wharton, Ev., § 923.

COMMENTARY.

In a dispositive document, so far as concerns the parties to it, the settled who may terms cannot, as has already been seen, be varied by parol because those terms give eviwere mutually accepted for the purpose of disposing of rights in certain rela-ing docu tions. A document may, however, be dispositive as to the parties and non-ments.

<sup>(2)</sup> Abhott v. Marrie, 3 Ves , 148, see also as to evidence of the habits of a testator, Kell v Charner, 23 Beav., 195, Blundell v. Gladdone, 11 Sin., 497; Lee v. Pain, 4 Hare, 251; Benumont v. Fell, 2 P. Wmv, 141 Where the writer has been in the habit of nicknaming or misnaming persons or things and these names appear m a document, evidence of such habitual use of language may be given to explain the dornment in the same way as if it was written in cypher or a foreign language. Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 541.

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 1149

dispositive as to all others. The party who utters a deed, prepares it deliberately in respect to all persons, who through it may enter into business relations with him; but other persons are not contemplated by him, nor is the writing meant to bind him as to such persons who would in no way be bound to him. In respect to strangers, documents have usually no binding force, and hence a stranger against whom a document is brought to bear on trial may show, by parol, mistakes in such writing. The rule forbidding the variation of writings by parol, applies only to parties and privies, and nothing in the rule protects them from attack by strangers (1) This section enables strangers to an instrument to prove the oral nature of the transaction by oral evidence. When therefore A purported to make a gift of land to his daughter B, it was open to a creditor of X the husband of B to prove by oral evidence that it was in reality a sale to X and was therefore hable to be attached and sold in execution of a

It has been held in America, that even a party prove by parol its mistake, when the issue is where the question was, whether A, a paper, was settled in the Parish of Cheadle, and a deed of conveyance to which A was a party was produced, purporting to convey land to A for a valuable consideration; the parish, appealing against the order, was allowed to call A as a witness, to prove that no consideration passed (4)

Doubts have been expressed(5) whether under this section, the right conferred on persons, other than the parties to a document or their representatives, of giving evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement "varying" the document, must not be understood as restricted to "varying," in contradistinction to "contradicting, adding to, or subtracting from," its-terms There is no reason, however, to suppose that any such distinction, which is certainly unknown to English law, was intended. The word "varying" was no doubt employed as embracing (as in fact it does) both contradictions, additions, and subtractions (6)

Saving of provisions of Indian Succession Act relating to wills

100. Nothing in this Chapter contained shall be taken to affect any of the provisions of the Indian Succession Act (X of 1865) as to the construction of wills.

Indian Suc-

The provisions referred to in this section are contained in Part XI of the Indian Succession Act (X of 1865), sections 61—77, 82, 83, 85, 88—103, of which part have been extended by Act XXI of 1870 (Hindu Wills Act) to the Wills of Hindus, Jains, Siths, and Buddhists in the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and the towns of Madras and Bombay. It is therefore only to Wills other than those the subject of these Acts, and to instruments other than Wills, that the provisions of the present Chapter absolutely and unreservedly apply. The section does not, however, declare that the present Chapter shall not apply at all in other cases, but only that nothing therein shall be taken to affect(7) any of the provisions in the Acts above-mentioned.

<sup>(1)</sup> Wharton, Ev., § 923 (2) Jagat Mohins v. Rakhal Das, 2 C. L. J. 7

<sup>(1905)</sup>

Wharton, Ev., § 923.
 R. v. Cheadle, 8 B. & Ad., 338; Steph.
 Art 92, ill. (a); ib., p. 190.

<sup>(5)</sup> Frid, Ev., 441.

<sup>(6)</sup> Cunningham, Ev, Notes to s 99. See ante, p 575, and Pathammal v. Syed Kalas, 27 M, 329 (1903).

<sup>(7)</sup> As to the meaning of the word "affect," rec Administrator-General, Bengal v. Prem Ld. 21 C., 774 (1894).

PART III.

PRODUCTION & EFFECT OF EVIDENCE.

IN PART I, the Act dealt with the material of belief or the facts which may be proved; and in Part II with the mode in which that material must be brought before the Court, viz, by oral or documentary evidence, according to the circumstances of the cace.

From the question of the proof of facts, the Act passes to the question of the nanner in which the proof is to be produced, and thus is treated under the following heads: (i) burden of proof; (ii) estoppel; (iii) witnesses and their re-examination; (iv) improper admission and rejection of evidence.

In the first place, the Act deals with the question as to which of the parties before the Court is bound to supply the evidence which is to form the material of behef on the question at issue, or in other words on which of the parties the burden of proof lies With regard to the burden of proof the Act lays down the broad rules well established in English law that the general burden of proof is on the party who, if no evidence at all were given, would fail, and that the burden of proving any particular fact is on the party who affirms it After laying down the general principles which regulate the burden of proof (sections 101-106), the Act proceeds to enumerate the cases in which the burden of proof is determined in particular cases, not by the relation of the parties to the cause but by presumptions (sections 107-111) It notices two cases of conclusive presumptions (sections 112, 113), and finally declares in section 114, that the Court may, in all cases whatever, draw from the facts before it whatever inferences it thinks just. In respect of presumptions, the framers of the Act have not followed the precedent of the New York Code in laying down a long list of presumptions, being of opinion that it is better in this matter not to fetter the discretion of the Judges. A few of such presumptions have been admitted to a place in the might feel embarrassed.

ance of life, partnership, a timacy and cession of territory Dut the terms of section 114 are such as to reduce to the position of mere maxims which are to be applied to facts by the Courts in their discretion a large number of presumptions to which English law gives, to a greater or less extent, an artificial value Nine of the most important of them are given by way of illustration (1)

Of the two topics, of the production and effect of evidence, each legitimately embraces matters other than those dealt with in this portion of the Act. Thus the rules enforcing the attendance of witnesses and production of documents fall under the head of the first topic, and are dealt with by the Civil Procedure Code And the subject of the effect of evidence would strictly include considerations as to the weight to be given to evidence were it possible, as it is not, that the weight of evidence could be regulated by precise rules as the admissibility of evidence may be (2)

Evidence Act, 3, 24, 218.

<sup>(1)</sup> Draft Report of the Select Commuttee — Gazette of India, July 1st, 1871, Part V, p. 273; Steph. Introd., 174, 175; Cunningham, Ev, 52.

As to presumptions v. ante, notes to s. 4.

(2) v. ante, Introduction, Kishori Lal Sircar's

This portion of the Act merely deals with the effect of evidence arising from the existence of presumptions as shifting the burden of proof, or as conclusive of facts, and from estoppels as precluding the admission of evidence upon the particular matter in respect of which the estoppels operate. Lastly, the Act deals with the effect of the improper admission or exclusion of evidence. The subject of the effect of evidence as produced by estoppels is dealt with by Chapter VIII. The subject of estoppels differs from that of presumptions in the circumstances that an estoppel is a personal disqualification laid upon a person peculiarly circumstanced from proving peculiar facts, whereas a presumption is a rule that particular inferences shall be drawn from particular facts, whoever proves them. Much of the English learning connected with estoppels is extremely intricate and technical, but this arises principally from two causes, the peculiarnies of English special pleading, and the fact that the effect of prior judgments is usually treated by the English text-writers as a branch of the law of Civil Procedure.(1)

Chapters IX and X of the Act convist of a reduction to express propositions of rules as to the examination of witnesses, which are well established and understood. In these rules as to the examination of witnesses the Act has not materially varied the law or the practice of the Courts existing at the date of its introduction and has merely put into propositions the rules of English law upon this subject (2) One provision, however, in Chapter X requires special notice, namely, the power given to the Judge by section 165 to put questions or to order the production of documents. The framers of the Act considered it necessary, having regard to the peculiar circumstances of this country, to put into the hands of Judges an amount of discretion as to the admission of evidence which, if it exists by law, is at all events rugely or never exercised in England. Judges in this country are expressly empowered to ask any questions upon any facts relevant or irrelevant at any period of the trial, subject to the provisos in the section abovementioned (3)

Lastly, the Act, in Chapter XI, deals with the subject of the effect of the improper admission and rejection of evidence, declaring that no new trial or reversal of any decision shall be held or made, it it shall appear that independently of the evidence objected to and admitted there was sufficient evidence to justify the decision, or that, if the rejected evidence had been received, it ought not to have varied the decision. This Chapter is in accordance with the spirit of the present rules of the Supreme Court in England, which, with the view of avoiding new trials one purely technical grounds, refused a new trial except when a substantial wrong or miscarriage has been occasioned by the improper admission or rejection of evidence (4).

Witnesses

The rules relating to the examination of witnesses are contained in Chapter X of this Act (sections 133—166), and will be found considered in detail in the notes to the sections of that Chapter The order in which witnesses are produced and examined is regulated by the Civil and Criminal Procedure Codes, or, in the absence of any specific provision, by the dissertion of the Court.(5) Witnesses are examined upon oath or affirmation upon the maxim is judicion on creditur intsi juratis and the provisions of the Indian Oaths Act,(6) which was an Act to consolidate the law relating to judicial oaths and for other purposes, are given in the Appendix to which the reader is referred.

Oaths.

<sup>(1)</sup> Steph, Introd , 175.

<sup>(2)</sup> Steph. Introd., 176; Draft Report of the Select Committee — Gozette of India, July 1st, 1871, Part V, p. 273

<sup>(3)</sup> Draft Report of the Select Committe — Gazetic of Indea, July 1st, 1871, Part V, p. 273 (4) (), 39, r. 6 Taylor, Ev., §§ 1881—1885; Best, Er., § 82.

<sup>(5)</sup> S 135, post (6) Act X of 1873 (received the assent of the Governor-General on the 8th April, 1873) For a full discussion of the nature of judicial oaths and affirmations and the history of Indian legislation on the subject, see R. v. Moru, 10 A., 207 (1883).

CHAPTER VII.

OF THE BURDEN OF PROOF.

CERTAIN facts require no proof.(1) All other relevant facts, however, must be proved by evidence, that is, by the statements of witnesses, admissions or confessions of parties and the production of documents. The present Chapter deals with the rules regulating the question upon which of the parties to the cause rests the obligation of adducing that evidence, or as it is technically called the "burden of proof." The term "burden of proof" fails to convey a precise idea, because the term is often interchangeably employed in two entirely distinct senses That in many cases this is done unconsciously in no way lessens the confusion, which arises, from transferring reasoning entirely applicable to the phrase in one sense to its use in another. As commonly used "burden of proof" means (a) the burden of establishing a case, whether by a preponderance of evidence or beyond a reasonable doubt, and (b) the duty or necessity of introducing evidence either to establish such a case, or to meet an adverse amount to evidence sufficient to constitute a prima facie case. Burden of proof in the sense of "the burden of introducing evidence" is analogous to the phrase in its (a) sense, but analogous only It rests, not as before, on the one party designated by the pleadings, but on the party, whether plaintiff or defendant, against whom the tribunal at the time when the question is to be determined would give its judgment, no further evidence being introduced. Before evidence is gone into, it rests on the party, who has the affirmative of the issue, after evidence is gone into, as the tribunal will only give its judgment in favour of a prima facie case, the burden of introducing evidence is always on the party who has to meet such a prima facie case (2) The answer to the question on whom the burden of proof rests includes the answer to another, which frequently causes great controversy in the preliminary stages of a case 112, which party has the privilege or incurs the duty of beginning. Practically no point in the law of evidence involves more subtle principles of law, and none involves more important advantages and disadvantages, according to the circumstances, to the contending parties. It is, however, needless to insist on the importance which necessarily attaches to the order in which parties are allowed to state their cases to the Court.(3)

The general rule as to the onu.
beginning is, that the proof of any it, not on him who denies it, et a .1ctors incumbit probatio The issue

Actors incumbit probatio The issue must be proved by the party who states an affirmative, not by a party who states a negative (4) The plaintiff is bound in the first instance to show at least a prima facte case, and, if he leaves it imperfect, the Court will not assist him Hence the maxim: Potor est condition defendents (5) When, however, the defendant, or either litigant party, matter which,

I he in his turn imperfect, the

<sup>(1)</sup> See Introduction to Ch. III, ante.

<sup>(2)</sup> Best, Ev , Amer Notes, pp 268, 269

 <sup>(3)</sup> Powell, Ev. 322, Taylor, Ev. § 378.
 (4) Powell, Ev., 322, Wills, Ev. 21, Best.

Ev., § 267; Taylor, Ev., § 364; for a critic of the rule, see Wharton, Ev., §§ 353, 357. (5) Best. Ev., § 267.

Court will not assist him. Reus excipiendo fit actor.(1) The principle, that the party who asserts the affirmative in any controversy ought to prove his assertion, and that he who only denies an allegation may rest on his denial, until, at least, the probable truth of the matter asserted has been established, is one which has received the widest recognition. The reason is obvious : to all propositions, which are neither the subject of intuitive or sensitive knowledge, nor probabilized by experience, the mind suspends its assent until proof of them is adduced, or as it has been said :(2) "Words are but the expression of facts; and therefore, when nothing is said to be done, nothing can be said to be proved;" which is probably what is meant by the expression "per rerum naturam, factum negantis probatio nulla est."(3) But in order to determine the burden of proof it is necessary to look for the affirmative in substance of the issue and not the affirmative in form. Thus a legal affirmative is by no means necessarily a grammatical affirmative, nor is a legal negative always a grammatical negative. Allegations essential to the support of a party's case, although negative in form, may be affirmative in reality, and the nature of language is such that the same proposition may in general be expressed at pleasure in an affirmative or negative shape. The rule may therefore more correctly be laid down that the usue must be proved by the party who states the affirmative in substance and not merely the affirmative in form (4) This general rule may be affected both by presumptions (v. post), or by legislative enactment casting upon a particular party the burden of proving some particular fact (5) There are two tests for ascertaining on which side the burden of proof lies; first, it lies upon the party who would be unsuccessful, if no evidence were given on either side :(6) secondly, it lies upon the party who would fail, if the particular allegation in question were struck out of the pleading (7)

The party on whom the cous probands lies as developed by the record must begin. When the party on whom lies the obligation of beginning is prepared with adequate evidence, to begin is generally an advantage, since it enables him to impress his case first on the mind of the Court, and, if evidence be given on the other side, to have also the last word. From this point of view it is called the right to begin. In other cases, however, as where the party is unprepared with evidence, the obligation to begin may prove a burden to him, upon whom it rests.(8) "Whenever either party claims the right to begin, the threeby undertakes to offer evidence on that issue in respect of which he has claimed it.(9) he cannot claim the right to begin in the sense of merely addressing the jury on the issue. Where there are several issues, some of which are upon the plaintiff, and some upon the defendant, the plaintiff may begin by proving those only which are upon thin, leaving it to the defendant

<sup>(1)</sup> Best, Ev. § 267

<sup>(2)</sup> Best, Pres Ev., 39, citing Gilbert, Ev., 145.

<sup>(3)</sup> Best on Presumptions, 30, 40; and so in Co. Lett., it is and down broadly. "It as a marm in law that witnesses cannot testify a negetive, but an affirmative". From these and similar expressions it has been rashly interred that "a negative is meapable of proof,"—a position wholly indefensable, if understood in an unquishful sense. See Best, Ev., § 270, Wharton, Ev. 250.

<sup>(4)</sup> Powell, Ev., 323, Best, on Presumptions 30, 40; Best, Ev., 45 271, 272.

<sup>(5)</sup> See a 103 ("unless it is provided by any law that the proof of that fact shall be on any particular person") and se. 104, 112, post, Best,

Ev . $ 268

<sup>(6)</sup> S. 102, part, Amor, Hughe, 1 M. & Rob., edst, and see the cases retted in Berf. Fr. § 269 S. Kripmogo Dehie v. Durpa Goeraf, 15 C. 89, 91 (1887) ["The test which may well be applied in a cave like this, who would not no ordered were given on either side, and it seems to us that upon the facts admitted, the plantiffs must win if the defendant does not prove the case set up by hum," per Mitter & Ghose, 21

<sup>(7)</sup> Miller & Barber, 1 M & W., 427.

<sup>(8)</sup> Powell, Ev., 333, Wills, Ev., 24 Sec 2 Hyde, 182

<sup>(9)</sup> R. v. Tooke, 25 St. Tr., 446, 447; Smarl v. Bayner, 6 C & P. 721, Oakely v. Coddeen, 2 F. & F., 656

to give evidence in support of those issues upon which he intends to rely; and the plaintiff may then give evidence in reply to rebut the facts which the defendant has adduced in support of his defence.(1) If, however, the plaintiff in such a case gives in the first instance any evidence on the issues, which lies on the defendant, he is bound to complete his whole case, and will not be entitled to call a portion of his evidence in reply."(2)

The burden of establishing a care remains throughout the entire case, where the pleadings originally place it. If never shifts. The party, whether plaintiff or defendant, who substantially asserts the affirmative of the issue has this burden of proof. It is on him at the beginning of the case; it continues on him throughout the case; and when the evidence, by whomsoever introduced, is all in, if he has not, by the preponderance of evidence required by law, established his position or claim, the decision of the tribunal must be adverse to such pleader. On the other hand, the burden of proof, in the sense of burden of evidence, may shift constantly as evidence is introduced by one side or the other,—as one scale or the other preponderates over its fellow. To carry out the same metaphor; so often and so long as the scale containing an adverse amount of evidence preponderates to a certain extent by reason of evidence adduced in that behalf, the duty or necessity rests on a party to introduce opposing evidence which shall restore the equipoise, or, if possible, strike a new balance.

This necessity or duty may and usually does, alternate constantly between the parties. This is "the burden of evidence"—burden of proof in the second of the senses abovementioned.

But when the entire evidence is in, affirmative action by the tribunal, at a certain one of the scales should to a definite extent This necessity has not any time shifted, but has remained constantly throughout the trial, on one of the parties alone, to wit on him who had the affirmative of the issue. This is the "burden of establishing"—burden of proof in the first of the senses abovementioned (3)

As already observed, the burden of proof may be affected by presumptions (4) The burden of proof is slutted by those presumptions of law which are rebuttable; by presumptions of fact of the stronger kind, and by every arty, only sary:

it is when a presumption is in favour of the party who asserts the affirmative, that its effect becomes visible, as the opposite side is then bound to prove his negative (5). So sections 107—111, post, enumerate instances in which the burden of proof is determined in particular cases not by the relation of the parties to the cause (as is the case in sections 101—105), but by presumptions (6). It is in fact in this connection, perhaps, more strongly than in any other, that the force of a so-called "presumption of law" becomes evident. Such a presumption shifts the burden of proof in the sense of the "burden of evidence" —the burden of going forward with new evidentiary matter. The establishment by one party, in discharge of the onus of a legal presumption, casts on the other the burden of disproving it; in other words, it shifts the burden of evidence. When conflicting evidence on the point covered by the presumption

<sup>(1)</sup> Shaw v. Becl. 8 Ex., 392

<sup>(2)</sup> Browne v. Murray, Ry & M., 254, Wills, Ev., 26, 27, Taylor, Ev., §§ 384, 386 See Civ Pr. Code, s. 180.

<sup>(3)</sup> Best, Ev., Amer. Notes, 269, 270

<sup>(4)</sup> As to presumptions, v ante, notes to s. 4.

<sup>(5)</sup> Best, Ev. § 273. The party who asserts the negative must begin whenever there is a deputable presumption of law in favour of an affirmative allegation. Taylor, Ev. § 307.

<sup>(6)</sup> Steph. Introl., 174.

of law is actually gone into, the presumption of law is functus officio as a presumption of law. The presumption of fact upon which such legal presumption was founded is to be weighed by the tribunal with the other evidence in the case (1)

In conclusion, the general principle with regard to the burden of proof may be stated to be that a party, who desires to move the Court, must prove all facts necessary for that purpose (sections 101—105) This general rule is, however, subject to two exceptions: (a) He will not be required to prove such facts as are especially within the knowledge of the other party (section 106); nor (b) so much of his allegations in respect of which there is any presumption of law (sections 107—113), or, in some cases, of fact (section 114) in his favour.(2)

Burden of proof. 101. Wheever desires any Court to give judgment as to any legal right or liability dependent on the existence of facts which he asserts must prove that those facts exist.

When a person is bound to prove the existence of any fact it is said that the burden of proof lies on that person.

Illustrations.

- (a) A desires a Court to give judgment that B shall be punished for a crime which A savs B has committed
  - A must prove that B has committed the crime.
- (b) A desires a Court to give judgment that he is entitled to certain land in the possession of B. by reason of facts which he asserts, and which B denies, to be true.
  - A must prove the existence of those facts.

On whom burden of proof lies 102. The burden of proof in a suit or proceeding lies on that person who would fail if no evidence at all were given on either side.

Illustrations.

- (a) A sues B for land of which B is in possession, and which, as A asserts, was left to A by the will of C, B's father.
  - If no evidence were given on either side, B would be entitled to retain his posses-
  - Therefore the hurden of proof is on A.
  - (b) A suce B for money due on a bond.
    - The execution of the bond is admitted, but B says that it was obtained by fraud, which .1 denies.
    - If no evidence were given on either side, A would succeed, as the bond is not disputed and the fraud is not proved.

      Therefore the burden of proof is on B
- Burden of proof as to ŧί

103. The burden of proof as to any particular fact lies on that person who wishes the Court to believe in its existence unless it is provided by any law that the proof of that fact shall lie on any particular person.

Illustration.

(a) A prosecutes B for their, and wishes the Court to believe that B admitted the theit to C. A must prove the admission.

B wishes the Court to believe that, at the time in question, he was elsewhere, He must prove it.(1)

104. The burden of proving any fact necessary to be proved proving in order to enable any person to give evidence of any other fact to proved is on the person who wishes to give such evidence.

missibl

Illustrations.

- (a) A wishes to prove a dying declaration by B. . . 1 must prove B's death.
- (b) A wishes to prove, by secondary evidence, the contents of a lost document. A must prove that the document has been lost.

Principle -See Introduction to Chapter VII, ante. The following notes give reported cases applying the rules laid down in these sections and referred to in the preceding introduction :-

- s. 3 (" Court,")
- s. 3 (" Fact.")
- s. 3 (" Proved.")
- 8. 101 (Definition of "burden of
  - proof.")
- E. 3 (" Evidence.")

... 101-106 (Burden of proof determinable by relation of parties.)

- ss. 107-111 (Burden of percol determinable bu presumptions.)
- 48. 112-113 (Conclusive presumptions.)
- 4. 114 (Presumptions of fact)

Steph. Dig., Art. 93-97 A; Steph. Introd., 174, Taylor, Ev. 8 364-390; Best, Ev., § 265-277. Amer. Notes to same, pp. 268-270; Powell, Ev., 322-333; Starkie, Ev., 584 et seg.; Best on Presumptions; Wharton, Ev., §§ 353-372; Greanleaf, Ev., 74. 81; Roscoe, N.-P. Fv., and Cr. Ev. (references to be sought for under the title dealing with the particular matter in question). Lawson on Presumptive Evidence, passin, Burr, Jones, Ev. $$ 174-196; Wigmore, Ev., $$ 24, 83, et seq., and the authorities, text-books and case-law, cited in the following sections.

COMMENTARY.

See, as to the general principles regulating the burden of proof, the Intro-Burden duction to the present Chapter. The reported cases in which those principles proof. have been applied are cited hereafter, their subject-matter being arranged in alphabetical order. It is incumbent on each party to discharge the burden of proofs which rests upon him (2) Where the burden of proof lies on a party and is not discharged, the suit must be dismissed.(3) When the issue raised by the Court is in substance whether the plaintiff's or defendant's story is true, it is possible that neither of the stories may be true, and the question then arises which of the two alternatives of the issue is the really material one. Usually the really material one is the first part of the issue, riz, is the plaintiff's story true? If the defendant's defence is a plea in confession and avoidance, viz., a plea which admits that the plaintiff's story is true but avoids it, then if the defendant fails to prove his case, the plaintiff may recover. But if the defence is substantially an argumentative traverse of the truth of the plaintiff's story, not admitting that one word of it is true and setting up certain things perfectly inconsistent with it, the second alternative of the issue ought to be rejected and the truth of the plaintiff's story becomes the real question. If the plaintiff then does not prove the affirmative of his issue, the consequence is that he must fail, and the defendant may say, "it is wholly immaterial whether I prove my case or not; you have not proved yours "(1) The burden of proof in the sense of the burden of introducing evidence may and constantly does shift during the trial (2) There are many cases in which the party on whom the burden of proof in the first instance lies, may shift the burden to the other side by proving facts giving rise to a presumption in his favour(3) or by showing an admission (4) The amount of evidence required to shift upon a party the burden of displacing a fact may depend on the circumstances of each case. (5) When the case of a plaintiff is scanty in point of evidence, it is a sufficient answer that from the situation of the plaintiff the evidence of that which is in contest between the parties is not so fully within his reach as it is within the reach of the other party, and that there is on the part of the plaintiff evidence enough prima facre, as it is said in England, to go to a jury. It is then for the other side to consider how he shall meet that evidence. He may leave the plaintiff to prevail by the force of his own case, contending that he is not called upon to answer it, unless it is such as, if unanswered, disposes of the case. But if, instead of relying upon the weakness of the plaintiff's case, he meets it and undertakes to rebut it by counter evidence, the Court will look to the sort of evidence produced, and if it is not such as might have been expected, the Court will draw conclusions adverse to him from this fact appeal it being incumbent on the appellant to show that the judgment of the Court below is wrong, the Court must consider what was the nature of the whole of the evidence before that Court.(6) The Court will generally, as respects the quantum of evidence required, consider the opportunities which in particular cases each party may naturally be supposed to have of giving evidence. (7)

<sup>(1)</sup> For a criminal case in which this section was held to have been musapplied, see Sadhu Sheikh v. R , 4 C. W. N., 576 (1900).

<sup>(2)</sup> Baijnath Sukay . Rughonath Pershad, 12 C L. R., 186, 193 (1892).

<sup>(3)</sup> Appa Rau v. Subbunna, 13 M., 60 (1889).

The general rule of evidence is that if, in order to make out a title, it is necessary to prove a negative, the party who avers a title must prove it. (8) "A proviso is properly the statement of something extrinsic of the subject-matter of a covenant which shall go in discharge of that covenant by way of defeasance: an exception is a taking out of the covenant some part of the subject-matter of it. If these be right definitions, the plaintiff need never state a proviso, but must always state an exception and whether particular words form a proviso or an exception, will not in any way depend on the precise form in which they are introduced, or the part of a deed in which they are proof So, if a clause xception, the plaintiff must not only state it, but show that it is not applicable; if it be a provision

<sup>(1)</sup> Roja Chandranath v Ramjal Mazumdar, 6 B L. R., 303, '08 (1870), Arumugam Chetty v. Perriyannan Serial, 25 W. R., 81, 82 (1876). See Hali Khan v. Balžeo Das, 24 A, 90 (1901).

<sup>(2)</sup> v. asts, pp. 630 631; Darleis v. Ganeh Schert, 4 B. 255 (1899), Nideriu v. Kallipri, shad Des. 23 W. It., 431 (1875), Sladds v Bildiesens, 9, 309 (1897), Govinda v Jodes Premiji, 7 B., 73 (1878); Mano Mohon v. Mothern Mohan, 7 C. 225 (1881); Remethere Kee v. Bharel Periodd, 4 C. W. N., 18 (1899); Sulamas Kader v. Mohad, Mynz. C C. W. N., 185 (1897), Hen. Charden v. Kali Provana, 30 C, 1033, 1022 (1903).

<sup>(3)</sup> Mano Mohun v. Mathura Mohun, 7 C., 225 (1891).

<sup>(4)</sup> Bala v Shira, 27 B., 271, 278 (1902)

<sup>(5)</sup> Cassumbhoy Ahmedbhoy v. Ahmedbhoy Hubsbhoy, 12 B, 280 (1887)

 <sup>(6)</sup> Sooriah Row v. Cotaghery Bacchia, 2 Moo
 I A., 113, 124 (1838)
 (7) Rajah Kissen v Narendra Singh, I. R.

<sup>3</sup> I A, 85, 88 (1875), see Ram Prasad v. Raghu nandan Prasad, 7 A, 738 (1885)

<sup>(8)</sup> Podin Behary v. Watson & Co., 9 W. P., 190, 192 (168)

<sup>(9)</sup> Thursby v. Plant, 1 Wms Saund., p 2335 followed in Aga Synd v Hajes Jacksrich, 2 Ind. Jur., N. S., 308, 310 (1867), as to pleading exceptions. see Rash Behari v. Haraman Dobys, 15 C., 505-557 (1888).

the defendant must state it, and show that it applies.(1) Owing to particular circumstances, in some cases where the burden of proof is on the plaintiff very slight evidence may be sufficient to discharge the onus and shift it to the other side. In such cases slight evidence means evidence which does not go the whole length of proving a particular fact, but which suggests it. But slight evidence must not be confounded with suspicious evidence or evidence which is open to question.(2)

When a claim is founded upon a distinct statement of account signed by Accou the defendant, in which he acknowledges a particular sum to be due to the plaintiff, it is for the defendant to produce evidence to robut the prima lacie saction to be a mortof the defendant conden of proof is shifted to produce evidence to neutralize or explain away the effect of these entries.(4) Where there is an obligation to render an account, it includes a duty to show primā facte that the account rendered is correct and complete, and that duty extends to both sides of the account (3) When the accounts of a mortgagee who has been in possession are being taken, his income-tax papers are inadmissible as evidence in his favour, though they may be used against him. It is the mortgagee's duty to keep regular accounts, and the onus lies in the first instance upon him. If he has not keep tropper accounts, the presumption will be against him; but this does not mean that all statements of the mortgagor against him must therefore be taken as true.(6) As to the burden of proof on taking of partnership accounts, see below.(7) In an agency account the plaintiff has only to show that the defendant is an accounting party and then it is for the latter to prove the amount of his receipts (8)

The burden of proof as to the relationship in the case of principal and agent Agenc is dealt with by section 100, post, to the notes of which section reference should be made. See as to agency account last paragraph.

When a claim has been made by a third party to property attached, it is Attact for the claimant to begin, and he must prove that the property belonged to ment him or was in his possession (9). But if he starts his case sufficiently, as by showing that a deed of sale had been executed in his favour by the judgment-debtors, that possession had been given to him and that the consideration of the sale had passed, this is sufficient to shift the only on to the defendant (10). When a judgment-redebtor has obtained a with of attachment against the property of his judgment-debtor, but such debtor has no property against which the writ can be enforced, the judgment-redebtor is entitled to an order for execution of his decree by attachment of the person of the debtor, and the burden of proof is on the latter to show that he has no means of satisfying the debt, and that he has no the ends of the debtor, and the burden of proof is on the latter to show that he has no means of satisfying the debt, and that he has no the creditor to show that by sending the debtor to prison some satisfaction of the debt will be obtained (11). See the undermentioned case(12) as to the burden of proof in the Agn Saduck v Hajte Jarkariah, 2 Ind Jur...

 S. S., 308, 310 (1867)

<sup>(2)</sup> Hur Dyal v. Roy Kristo, 24 W. R., 107 (1875).

<sup>(3)</sup> Simon Elias v. Jorawar Mull, 24 W. R.,

<sup>202 (1875)
(4)</sup> Govinda v Jesha Premaji, 7 B, 73

<sup>(1878).</sup> (5) Mayen v. Aleton, 16 M , 245 (1892).

<sup>(6)</sup> Shah Ohdam v. Museumat Emanum, 9 W. R. 275 (1867).

<sup>(7)</sup> Thirukumaresan Chetti v. Subaraya Chetti.

<sup>20</sup> M , 313 (1895)

 <sup>(8)</sup> Ram Dass v. Bhaqual Dass, 1 All L. J.
 347 (1904), Ragunath v. Ganpathi, 27 All., 374.
 (9) Nga Tha v. Burn, 2 B L. R. F. B., 91

<sup>(9)</sup> Nga Tha v. Burn, 2 B L. R. F. B., 91 (1869), s c, 11 W R. F B, 8, Gorind Almaram v. Santai, 12 B, 270 (1887)

<sup>(10)</sup> Dijumburee Dassee v Banee Madhab, 15 W. R., 155 (1871)

<sup>(11)</sup> Seton v Bijohn, 8 B L. R., 255 (1872). s c, 17 W. R., 165

<sup>(12)</sup> Ramkrushna v. Surfunnissa Begum L. R., 7 L. A., 157 (1890): s. c., 6 C., 129.

case of allegation of the non-observance of the formalities necessary to attachment. Where the decree-holder attached certain property in the hands of the judgment-debtor's sons, it was held to be for the latter to prove that the property sought to be sold in execution was the joint ancestral property of themselves and their father and could not be attached in execution after the father's death (1)

Auction purchaser.

Where an auction-purchaser brought a suit to obtain possession of certain rulkurs, which he alleged formed part of his zemindary of S, the defendant being in possession thereof, and his possession having been confirmed in an Act IV case, it was held that the burden of proof rested on the plaintiff to show that the julkurs in dispute formed part of the assets of the zemindary at the time of the perpetual settlement (2)

Avoidance of encumbrance Settlement : Sal Thakbust giver of B the

VII of 1868, or by section 66 icic evidence to show that es within the purview of the section (3) In a sunt to set aside a settlement where the defendant pleaded that

15 of avoiding an encumbrance

the tenure was dur modurari, it was held that the onus was on the defendant to prove the validity and propriety of the settlement (4) Where a collector in exercise of his lawful function, assumed the jurisdiction to sell a patni taluk, the onus was on the plaintiff alleging it to show that he had no jurisdiction (5) Where a suit was brought under the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act. section 149, cl (3), and the plaintiff made out a very strong case in support of hus title to the rents in deposit, it is held that the onus was then shifted on the defendant (6) The onus of proving that thalbust proceedings are wrong hes on the person alleging it (7)

Benami . transactions

It is very much the habit in India to make purchases in the names of others. and these transactions are known as benami transactions. An important cuterion in these cases is to consider from what source the money comes with which the purchase-money is paid. In a great number of cases they are made in the names of persons ignorant at the time of their being so made (8) Though the source of purchase-money is an important fact in most of the cases raising the question of benami, or not benami, it is not the only test of ownership, (9) and accordingly the Privy Council in the case last mentioned held the source of money was consistent with the claimants having, as the defence alleged, intended to make a gift of the property to the holder of it; and the right inference from the facts was that it was not held bename for the claimant but belonged to the defendant.(10) But, however, inveterate the holding of land benami may be in India, that does not justify the Courts in making every presumption

<sup>(1)</sup> Hemnath Rai v. Saule Rai, 2 Ml. L. J. 272 (1905)

<sup>(2)</sup> Forbee , Meer Mahomed, 20 W R. 44 (1873), referred to m Naturanand Rou v Banshi Chandra, 3 C. W. N., 341 (1899), m which case it was said that no hard and 'ast rule could be last Jown as to shere the burden of proof legan or ended

<sup>(3)</sup> Koylashbashiney Dussee v. Gorodmans Dauer, S C. 230 (1891), Goland Nath v Reilly, 13 C . 1 (1896), decided under a, 66 of Ben Act VIII of 1869, but see also Rash Behars v. Hara Moss, 15 C. 557 (1889).

<sup>(4)</sup> Nativer Chand v Chunder Sikhur, 15 C., 765 (1884)

<sup>(5)</sup> Kales Komar v. Maharajih of Rurduan ,

<sup>5</sup> W. R., 39 (1866)

<sup>(6)</sup> Trailothya Mohini Dasi v. Kali Prosanna Chose, (1907), 11 C W. N., 380.

<sup>(7)</sup> Leclanund Singh v Luckmunar Singh, 10 C L E., 172 (1880)

<sup>(8)</sup> Guperkrida Garain . Gungapersand Gomin, 6 Moo L A , 53, 72, 74 (1854) For a case in which the Priry Council held that the benami transaction "had been elaborated with a perfiction that is uncommon even in India," see Rutto Singh v. Bayrang Singh, 13 C. L. R , 290

<sup>(9)</sup> Ram Narasa v. Mahomed Hadi, 26 C., 227 (1898)

<sup>(10) 14.</sup>

against apparent ownership (1) In cases of alleged benami sales effect should be given to the evidence of possession and enjoyment since the purchase, as showing who is the substantial owner. The burden of proof hes on the person who maintains that the apparent state of things is not the real state of things, and the apparent purchaser must be regarded as the real purchaser, until the contrary be proved (2) So the burden of proof is upon him who alleges that the certified purchaser and registered owner is a benamidar.(3) When a person sues for possession of land, and the defendant alleges that the plaintiff purchased the land benami for him, the onus is on the plaintiff to establish a prima face case, and the allegation of the defendant does not shift the burden of proof (4) The presumption of the Hindu law, in a joint undivided family, is, that the whole property of the family is joint estate, and the onus lies upon a party claiming any part of such property as his separate estate to establish that fact. Where a purchase of real estate is made by a Hindu in the name of one of his sons, the presumption of the Hindu law is in favour of its being a benami purchase, and the burden of proof lies on the party in whose name it was purchased, to prove that he was solely entitled to the legal and beneficial interest in such purchased estate. The same rule applies to Mahomedans.(5) The law as to bename conveyances taken by a father in the name of a son, whether in Hindu or Mahomedan families, should be considered in all Courts in India as conclusively settled by the rule laid down by the Privy Council decision cited in note(7), p. 636.(6) But proof that the father's object was to effect the ordinary rule of succession as from him to the property in question will take the case without this rule (7) This rule is equally applicable to an account opened in a man's books in the name of his son as to a purchase by him in his son's name. The frequency of bename transactions in this country forbids any presumption being raised in either case contrary to that which arises in favour of the person who provides the funds (8) When a purchase is made by a Hindu or Mahomedan in the name of his son, and when the rights of creditors are in issue, very strict proof of the nature of the transaction should be required from the objector to such rights, and the burden of proof lies with more than ordinary weight on the person alleging that the purchase was intended for the benefit of the son (9) In a suit to declare certain sales bename in a case where the property of a husband was sold to realize a fine of court and passed from hand to hand until it was sold to the wife, who moreover was in possession of the property when the sale of the husband's right and interests took place, it was held that the plaintiff was entitled to a clear finding as to whether the wife held the property in her own right or in trust for her husband; and that the onus of showing the source whence the money came was on the An uninquiring purchaser from a Hindu wife whose husband is living at the time is in no sense a bona fide purchaser without notice (10) But it has

<sup>(1)</sup> Monshee Buzloor v. Shumsoonissa Begum, 11 Moo I A. 551, 602 (1867), s c. 8 W. R. P. C. 3

<sup>(2)</sup> Dea Nath v Peer Khan, 3 Agra Rep. 16 (1868), Suleimin Kadur v. Mehudi Aleur, 2 C W N, 186 (1897), Ramabai v Ramchandra Shieram, 7 Bom L R, 293 (1905)

<sup>(3)</sup> Baijnath Sahay v Rughonath Pershad, 12 C L R, 186 (1882), and see Satya Mon. v Ekaggobulty Churn, 1 C L R, 466 (1878).

<sup>(4)</sup> Huri Ram v Raj Coomar, 8 C., 759 (1882), wee Mookto Kashee v Anundo Chundra, 2 C L. R., 48 (1878).

<sup>(5)</sup> Huri Ram v. Raj Coomar, 8 C , 759 (1882) Naginbhai v. Abdulla, 6 B , 717 (1882) But the evidence may destroy the presumption of benami;

Syed Ashgar v Syed Mehds, L. R., 20 I. A., 38 (1892)

<sup>(6)</sup> Ruknadowla v Hurdwars Mull, 5 B L R 578, 583 (1870), e c, 14 W R, P C, 14 13 Moo I A, 395.

<sup>(7)</sup> Ib., and see Raja Chandranath v Ramjai Mazumdar, 6 B. L. R., 303 (1871)

<sup>(8)</sup> Ashabas v Haji Rahsmiulla, 9 B , 115, 122 (1885)

<sup>(9)</sup> Kaginbha, Abdulla, 6 B, 717 (1882). Ruknadoula A Hurdwars Mull, 5 B L. R, 578 (1870)

<sup>(10)</sup> Bindo Bushinee v Pearee Mohun, 6 W. R., 312 (1866) and as to the onest probandi, to prove the source of the purchase-money, see Sreeman Chunder v. Gopol Chunder, 11 Mon. I. A., 29

been stated that the general principle laid down in this case has been overruled by the Privy Council.(1) Quære, whether in the absence of any evidence to show the source from which the purchase-money was derived, there is a presumption that property purchased in the name of a Hindu wife is the property of her husband and has been purchased with his money. Semble-There is no presumption one way or the other, but the burden of proof in each particular case must depend upon the pleadings and the position of the parties as plaintiffs or defendants (2) In Hindu law there is no presumption that transactions which stand in the name of the wife are the husband's transactions (3) When a plaintiff claims land as purchaser in good faith from a benamidar who has been registered as owner and who by the act of the true owners had been allowed to become the apparent owner, the burden of proof lies upon the plaintiff (4) The onus of proving a particular transaction to be 12m farzi lies on the person alleging it.(5)

Ronds.

In a suit on a bond it is for the plaintiff to prove the amount of the debt. and this will be done sufficiently in the first instance by proof of the execution of the bond. It is for the defendant to prove in answer, if he can that such amount is less than the sum sued for (6) Where the plaintiff in a suit on a bond accounted for not producing it by alleging that the defendant had stolen it, and the defendant admitted execution but alleged that he had satisfied it, it was held that the defendant was bound to 1 ----

by evidence to the fact or by the production undermentioned case(8) the plaintiff sued on of absolute sale. It was admitted that an ekrar had been executed in favour of the mortgagor restoring to him the equity of redemption. But the plaintiff produced this ekrar and said it had been made over to him by the mortgagor. who had relinquished the equity of redemption The defendant alleged that the ekrar had been lost and had somehow found its way to the plaintiff. It was held that the presumption of law was in favour of the plaintiff, and that it lay on the defendant to prove its loss. Where the plaintiff sued on a bond. and the defendant attempted to reduce the claim on the ground that the money had not been received in full, and endeavoured to substantiate this defence by calling for the books of the plaintiff, it was held that the burden of proof was entirely on the defendant.(9)

When the plaintiff sued on two bonds, and the defendant in his written statement as well as in his deposition admitted execution of the bonds, but

(1866): a c. 7 W R. P C. 10, explained in Roop Ram v Sasteram, 23 W R , 141 (1875), Faez Buksh v Fukeerooddeen Mahomed, 14 Moo I. A. 234 (1871)

(1) Chordrans v. Tarini Kanth, 8 C , 545, 548,

553, 554 (1882) (2) Ib , reversed on the facts, 13 C , 182, distunguished in Nobin Chunder . Dokhobala Dasi, 10 C., 636 (1884); where it was pointed out that the question considered was whether as between a husband or a purchaser at a sale in execution against the husband, there is any presumption that property standing in the name of the wife is held by her bename for her husband; which question is entirely different from that whether a wife, a member of a joint family, is, as regards property held in her name, in the same position as her husband with respect to property acquired in his name and subject to the same presumption in favour of the joint family; see also post sub. ree. "Handu Lau," "Joint-property."

According to the law as prevailing in the Bombay Presidency a purchase by a husband in the name of his wife does not raise any presumption of a gi't to the wife or of an advancement for her benefit, Motivahu v Purshotam Doyal, 6 Bon. L. R., 975 (1904); see also Burkatunnissa v Fail Hay, 23 A , 272, 288 (1904), in which it was held that there was no presumption of sdeancement.

(3) Manada Sundari v. Mahananda Sarnakar,

2 C W. N., 367 (1897).

(4) Rutto Singh v. Bayrang Singh, 13 C L R., 280 (1883) (5) Gumani Singh v. Chakhar Singh, 8 O. C.,

310 (6) Secaram Asyar v. Samu Afyar, 1 Mad. H

C, 447 (1863) (7) Chuni Kuar v Udas Ram, 6 A., 73 (1883).

(8) Ray Coomar v. Ram Suhaye, 11 W. R., 151 (1869)

(9) Rajeswari Kuar v Bal Krishan, 9 A., 712 (1887); a c., L. R., 14 I. A., 142, pleaded non-receipt of consideration, it was held that the question of execution could not be gone into, and that the only question which could be tried was non-receipt of consideration (1) Where the plaintiff was, as regards the promisor, the only person prima facie entitled to payment, it was held to be on the promisor to show that a payment to a third party was binding on the plaintiff.(2) See further, "Consideration," and "Recitals," post.

In a question of disputed boundaries the onus probandi lies upon the plain-Boundar. tiff to prove by independent evidence his right to recover.(3) In a question of boundary the Judicial Committee, the Court of last resort, is extremely reluctant to reverse the judgment of an Indian Court, and will not do so, unless they are, upon the facts and evidence, satisfied that the decision of the Courts below was clearly wrong. There is a strong presumption against a plaintiff who seeks to set aside an award made by Government officers, on a revenuesurvey, after full local inquiry, for the purpose of obtaining a rectification of the boundaries between two estates, and the onus of proof that the award was wrong lies on the party impeaching it (4) But when a disputed line of division runs between waste lands which have not been the subject of definite possession, the ordinary rule regarding the onus upon a plaintiff seeking demarcation does not apply. The duty is on the defendant as on the plaintiff to aid the Courts in ascertaining the true boundary (5) In a question of the boundary between a lakhira; tenure and a zemindar's mal land, there is no presumption in favour of one or the other, but the onus is on the plaintiff to prove his case. (6) . Lands admittedly situate within the boundaries of zemindary are prima facie to be considered as part of the zemindary; and it is for those who allege that they have been separated from the general lands of the zemindary and that they have been settled as a shikmi taluk to establish this allegation. (7) When land is within the ambit of the plaintiff's zemindary and the defendants set up an adverse title by reason of an undertenure, the burden of proof is on the defendant. But where the plaintiff admits that there is a houla within his zemindary and that the defendant has lands in that howla, but alleges that he has exceeded the boundaries of that horda and has encroached upon his lands, the onus is on the plaintiff to show that the defendant has encroached (8) When a dispute arises regarding the direction of a boundary which one of the parties to a suit has demolished and the other party proves its general direction. the onus of proof, that the direction is wrongly stated, if it be so, lies on the former who removed the boundary (9)

Where the defendant objects that the plaintiff omitted in a former suit to givil proc its defendant objects that the plaintiff omitted in a former suit to givil proc cause of action, the objection being one of fact, the burden of proof lies on the objector. (10) In a dispute as to the valuation of a suit, where the defendant asserts that it is overvalued, the onus of proving the truth of the assertion is on him. (11) When a party complains in appeal that certain evidence has been

<sup>(1)</sup> Gorakh Babajı v. Vithal Narayan, 11 B,

<sup>(2)</sup> Adarkhalam Chetty v. Marimuthu, 22 M.,

<sup>(3)</sup> Rays Ledanund v. Maharaja Moheshurs 10 Moo. I A., 81 (1864), s. c., 3 W. R., P. C., 19, Ledanund Singh v Luchmunur Singh, 10 C. L. R., 169 (1880) Rajah Ledanund v. Raja Mohendernarain, 13 Moo. I. A., 57 (1869)

<sup>(4)</sup> Rajah Leelanund v. Raja Mohendernarain, 13 Moo I. A , 57 (1869).

<sup>(5)</sup> Lukhi Narain v. Maharaja Jodu, 21 I A., 39 (1893); s. c., 21 C., 504.

<sup>(6)</sup> Ber Chunder v. Ram Gutty, 8 W. R., 209

<sup>(1867),</sup> and see Gungamala Choudhrain v Madhub Chunder, 10 W R., 413 (1868).

<sup>(7)</sup> Wise v. Bhoobun Moyee, 10 Moo I A., 165, 171 (1863), a c., 3 W R. P C., 5

<sup>(8)</sup> Rhedoy Kristo v. Nobin Chunder, 12 C. L. R., 457 (1880), see Nustarines v Kalipershad

Dars, 23 W R., 431 (1875)

(9) Judoonath Mullick v. Kalee Kristo, 25 W.

R., 524 (1875)
(10) Skinner & Co v. Rance Shame, 19 W. R.,

<sup>429 (1873).</sup> (11) Uma Sankar v. Maneur Ali, 5 B. L. R., App. 6 (1970).

rejected by a lower Court, he must be able to show that the evidence was tendered and rejected.(1) As to the onus in criminal and civil appeals respectively. r. ante, p. 118. If a person other than the defendant alleges that he has been dispossessed, in the execution of a decree, from land or other immoveable property which was bond fide in his possession on his own account or on account of some person other than the defendant, and that it was not included in the decree. or if included in the decree, that he was no party to the suit in which such decree was passed; it was held under section 230, Act VIII of 1859, that it lay on him to prove his possession: that he might, if he wished, give evidence of title beyond possession, but it was not absolutely necessary for him to do so in the first instance (2) The burden of proving that a summons was not served under the 19th section of Act VIII of 1859, now O IX, r. 13, of the Civil Procedure Code, hes upon the person claiming the benefit of the section (3) A defendant who pleads the minority of the plaintiff as a bar to the suit is bound to substantiate his plea (4) When a defendant impeaches the correctness of an Ameen's report, that onus is on him and not on the plaintiff, who should not in the first instance be called upon to support its correctness.(5) In a suit for confirmation of a sale held in execution of a decree the onus lies on the defendant to prove that there was a material irregularity in publishing and conducting it (6) In suits for mesne profits when the defendants have been in possession of the property as wrong-doers, the onus is on them to shew what were the , sums realized as rent during the time of their possession. (7) Where a person purchased at an execution-sale a tora yaras huk or the right to a certain annual payment made by Government, and sued the Collector to have his name inscribed on the books as the payee, it was held that the onus lay on the Government to show that the right was malienable.(8) In a claim by judgmentdebtors to properties seized in execution of a decree against them as representatives of the original debtor the burden of proof was held to be on the decreeholder who asserted that the property seized in execution of his decree was the property of the deceased debtor and as such in the possession of the judgmentdebtors (9) The plaintiff in a suit under section 283 of the Civil Procedure Code is neither in a better nor in a worse position than he was as a claimant in the summary proceeding. It is sufficient for him to produce evidence of possession or title. If he shows that he is in possession, section 110 of this Act throws the onus on the defendant (10) If a defendant insists that an executor is a necessary party, it is for him to show that he, the executor, lives within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is brought (11) It lies on him who asserts it to prove that the law of a foreign State differs from ours, and in the absence of such proof it must be held that no difference exists, except possibly so far as the law here rests on the Specific Acts of the Legislature (12) See "Attachment," "Auction-purchaser," "Avoidance," ante : "Notices," post.

<sup>(1)</sup> Modes Knikhonserow v. Cooverbhass, 6 Moo I A. 448 (1856)

<sup>(2)</sup> Radha Payri v. Nabin Chandra, 5 B L. R., 708 (1870); Brindabin Chandra v. Tarachond Bundoputhya, 11 B L. R., 237 (1873); Yusun Khataa v. Ramanth Sen, 7 B L. R., App. 20 (18711); Sharda Migore v. Nebur Chundra, 110, R., 235 (1869); Mahomrd Auser v. Prokash Chandra, 8 W. R., 8 (1897).

<sup>(3)</sup> Torah Ali v Chooramun Singh, 24 W. R., 262 (1875)

<sup>(4)</sup> Chyet Narain v. Bunicaree Singh, 23 W. R. 395 (1875): NR Monee v. Zuhrerunnissa Khanum, 8 W. R., 371 (1867)

<sup>(5)</sup> Gource Narain v. Madhooso sinn Dutt, 2 W. R. (Act N), 1 (1855).

<sup>(6)</sup> Bands Bibs v. Kalla, 9 A, 602 (1887); see also Shib Singh v. Muket Singh, 18 A, 437

<sup>(7)</sup> Brajendra Coomar v. Madhub Chunder, 8 C. 343 (1882)

C , 343 (1882)
(8) Shambhoo Lall v. Cellector of Surat, 8 Moo.

I A. 1 (1859), 4 W. R. P. C. 55 (9) Abdul Bahman v. Mahomed Azim, 4 C. W.

N., xxviii (1899) (10) Palaneappa Chetts v., Maung Pro Song, U.

B. R., (1905) See Narayan Ganesh v. Bhirrag. 2 N. L. R., 87. (11) Kumar Saradind n. v. Dhirendra Kant. Eoy.

<sup>2</sup> C. L. J., 484. (12) Raphunathii Mulchand v. Jauandos Ma-

<sup>(12)</sup> Rayhunathyi Mulchand v. Janandos Madanjer, 8 Bom. L. R., 525, and as to proof that

It is the established practice of the Courts in India, in cases of contract, Considerato require satisfactory proof that consideration has been actually received; according to the terms of the contract, and a contract under seal does not, of itself, in India, import that there was a sufficient consideration for the agreement. A plaintiff, however, suing to set aside a security admittedly executed by himself must make out a good prima facte case before the defendants can be called on to prove consideration (1) As to recitals of receipt of consideration in documents, see post, " Recitals." In a suit on an instrument the plaintiff is entitled to recover upon showing that it was executed by the defendant. The onus lies upon the defendant of showing the want of consideration.(2) In a suit to set aside a deed perfected by possession on the ground of failure of consideration, it hes upon the plaintiff to make out the case alleged by him, and to establish at least a good prima facie title to the relief prayed for, so as to cast on the defendants the burden of proving the consideration. A party who comes into Court to enforce a bond is in a very different position from him who is suing to set aside a contract under which there has been possession and enjoyment, and of which so far as it has yet been capable of being performed there has been performance.(3) A recital of the receipt of consideration in a deed may be sufficient proof of the receipt of such consideration for such deed : and an admission by recital in a document of further charge of the receipt of consideration upon a previous mortgage may be sufficient evidence of the receipt of consideration upon that mortgage (4) Where the defendant had admitted the receipt of consideration before the registering officer, the onus was held to be upon him to disprove such receipt.(5) And where a mortgagor whose bond contained an admission of receipt of consideration denied receipt of consideration before the Registrar, it was held that the onus of proving nonreceipt of consideration lay upon the mortgagor (6) In the undermentioned case the plaintiff rested his case entirely upon the bond and the defendant's acknowledgment thereon that Rs. 8,000 was received in cash. At the trial the defendants proved that acknowledgment to be fictitious and that only part of the money had been advanced; held that the onus was upon the plaintiff to prove in some other way the advance which he alleged (7) When the execution of a mortgage or other conveyance is proved it is not necessary to prove as against a third person that the consideration passed (8) If in a suit on a hunds the execution is admitted by the executant, the burden of proving special circumstances exonerating him from hability to the amount of the hundi lies on the executant (9) In a suit to impeach a deed to which he has been a party the onus lies on the plaintiff to make out a case for setting aside on equitable grounds a deed duly executed for valuable consideration. (10) See further unte, " Bonds," and post, " Recitals." settler of a settlement was a foreigner with foreign domocile, see Bonnaud v Charrell, 32 C , 631

<sup>(1)</sup> Rara Sahib v Budhu Singh, 2 B L R, 111-P C. (1869), see Baboo Ghansum v. Chukoure.

Singh, W. R (1864), 197. (2) Juggut Chunder v. Bhuguan Chunder, 1 Marsh Rep. 27 (1862)

<sup>(3)</sup> Kaleepershad Tewares 1. Prahlad Sen, 12 Moo I, A , 282 (1869) , b c , 2 B L R , P C.,

<sup>(4)</sup> Priyanath Chatterjee v. Bissessur Dass, 1 C. W. N., cexxu (1897); as to however admission depensing with proof of attestation, see Abdul Karim v. Solimum, 27 C, 190 (1899)

<sup>(5)</sup> Ale Khan v. Indar Parehad, 32 C, 950 (1896).

<sup>(6)</sup> Mahabir Prasad v. Biehan Dual, 1 All, 1_ J (Diary), 186 (1904), s c . 27 A . 71.

<sup>(7)</sup> Lala Lakm: v Sayed Hardar, 4 C. W. N.,

<sup>(8)</sup> Chinnan v Ramachandra, 15 M . 54 (1891

at p 55, and see Lal Achal v Raya Kazım, 9 C. W. N., 477, 8 c., 32 I. A., 113, 121 (1905), Rup-Chand v Sarbessur Chandra, 10 C W. N. 747 (1906) at p 751.

<sup>(9)</sup> Wharton, Ev , § 357 , as to payment, see Chun: Kuar v. Uda: Ram, 6 A., 73 (1883), and post, "Payment," and so to illegality, see notes to s 111, post, See "Fraud," post, and "Con erderation," ante

<sup>(10)</sup> Ram Das v. Muthra Das, 6 P. L. R. (1905).

Contract:

Where a party alleges a contract and breach thereof, with resulting dam ages, it will, of course, be upon him, in the first instance, to prove the contract, the facts of its violation, and injury suffered thereby. But if a defendant answers to a contract made by him, that he acted exclusively as agent for another, the burden is on him to prove such agency; and so, if he set up infancy, accord and satisfaction, confession and avoidance, illegality, fraud, payment, or (to a note) failure of consideration.(1) In the case of a contract to sow indigo, not sowing would be prima facte evidence of dishonesty, and in order to claim the benefit of the fourth clause of the fifth section of Regulation XI. 1823, the onus is on the person claiming the benefit to shew that the negligence to sow had been accidental (2) The question of the burden of proof in cases of accidental injury to goods bailed depends upon the particular circumstances of each case: and, if the bailee gives an explanation of the nature of the accident, which is not uncontradicted nor prima facie improbable, the onus is shifted (3) Where a razinamah is alleged to have been obtained by fraud or duress, the onus lies on the person alleging it to prove the fraud . it is not sufficient to say that it is a case of doubt; that there are suspicious circumstances, &c., &c (4) In a suit by zur-1-peshqu mortgagees for possession and to set aside a mukurruree lease, which it was alleged by the defendant was granted to him by the mortgagor before the mortgage, it was held that, as the mulururidars were in possession under a Magistrate's order, the onus was on the plaintiffs, in the first instance, to give some evidence to impeach the validity of the lease: but this having been done and a strong case made out, the onus was shifted. and it was incumbent on the mukururidars to shew that the mukurruree was executed before the zur-i-peshqi mortgage and was granted bona fide for a real consideration and was intended to be operative.(5) Where a claimant against the estate of a deceased Hindu relied upon a document which purported to be executed by his widow, it was held that the onus of proving the execution was upon the claimant.(6) Prima facie when the execution of a mortgage or other conveyance is proved, further evidence is not required to show that the purchaser has taken the interest which the document purports to convey.(7) The onus is on the grantor of a maintenance grant (which is prima face resumable on the death of the grantee) to show that he has a right to take minerals from the grantee's property during the subsistence of the grant (8)

When the law makes the validity of a document depend on certain formalties, then they must be duly proved by the plaintiff. If an act, for instance, makes a document inoperative unless duly registered or stamped, then the document cannot be put in evidence without proof of such registry, or stamp But a prima facie compliance with the law in this respect is sufficient for the plaintiff's case. If the document is, on its face, duly executed, then it will be presumed that the execution was regular, and the burden of contesting the execution falls on the party assailing the document.(9) If one of the contracting parties alleges that an agreement is opposed to public policy it is for him to set out and prove those special circumstances which will invalidate the contract.(10) In order to make a broker liable on the ground of want of

<sup>(1)</sup> Ashellai v. Abdulla Hani Makomed (1906), 31 B., 271; following Melbourne Banking Corporation v. Brougham (1882); 7 App Ca.

<sup>(2)</sup> Lall Mahomed v. Watson & Co , 1 Ind. Jut., 3 (1866).

<sup>(3)</sup> Shields v. Wilkinson, 9 A. 398 (1887); Rampel Singh v. Murray & Co , 22 A , 184 (1899);

e/. Wharton, Ev., §§ 363-365. (4) Motes Lall v. Juggurnath Gurg, 1 Moo. I-A. 1 (1836)

<sup>(5)</sup> Shamnarann v. Administrator-General of Bengal, 23 W. R., 111 (1875).

<sup>(6)</sup> Ram Ratan v. Nandu, 19 C., 249 (1891). (7) Chinnan v. Ramachandra, 15 M., 54 (1891)

at p 55. (8) Prince Mahamed v. Rans Dhojamans,

Cal L J, 20 (1905) (9) Wharton, Ev., § 369.

<sup>(10)</sup> Bakehs Das v Nadu Das, I Cal. L. J., 26 (1305)

authority, the onus is on the plaintiff to prove such want of authority. [1] See "Accounts?" "Agency," "Boods," "Consideration," ante; "Fraud," "Good and Bad Faith," "Insurance," "Landlord and Tenant," "Partnership," "Payment," "Rectals," post.

he charge oriminal regarded Law.

be presumed (2)

So the burden of proving guilty intention lies upon the prosecution where the intent is expressly stated as part of the definition of the crime.(3) But, if there are several different intentions specified in a section of the Penal Code. it is not necessary to prove specifically which of the several guilty intentions the accused had, it will be enough if it is shown that the intention must have been one or other of those specified in the section in question, though it may not be certain which it was (4) And though the prosecution must prove the existence of some one or more of the intentions in the Code, the proof need not be direct, that is, by the confession of the accused, showing that his intention was one of those mentioned in the Code, or by the evidence of witnesses proving that he admitted to them that such was his intention. It will be enough if it is proved like any other fact (and the existence of intention is a fact) by the evidence of conduct and surrounding circumstances.(5) So also guilty knowledge must, when necessary, be proved by the prosecution. Where facts are as consistent with a prisoner's innocence as with his guilt, innocence must he presumed; and criminal intent or knowledge is not necessarily imputable to every man who acts contrary to the provisions of the law (6)

These general rules laying the burden of proof upon the prosecution are qualified by those contained in sections 105, 106, post

An accused person is not bound to account for his movements at or about the time an offence was committed, unless there has been given legal evidence sufficient prima facie to convict him of the offence (7). In a reference by a Presidency Magistrate to the High Court under section 432 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, as to whether on the facts stated any offence has been committed by an accused person, it lies on the prosecution to make out that an offence has been committed and under the circumstances the prosecution must begin (8) When a former valid subsisting marriage has been proved, the onus is entirely upon the defence to show that the earlier subsisting marriage has been validly dissolved (9). When an accused person alleges that an offence with which he is charged has been compounded so as to take away the jurisdiction of the Criminal Courts to try it, the onus is on him to show that there was a composition valid in law (10). Where the prosecution proved that a place was a fore-

<sup>(1)</sup> Bussessur Das v Smidt, 10 C. W N., 14 (1905)

<sup>(2)</sup> See p. 117 asts, and note and cases there cited What roo, Er. § 1244, and Khorhold Kest. r. R., 80 L. R. 542 (1881), Medapure Strussmoster, V. Lakanda, 9 M., 387 (1885) [newspaper libel, effect of Act. XXV of 1867 in throwing ones on accused] In re Pandya Nayak, 7 M., 435 (1884) [n. R. Factikalonai, 9 M., 431 (1893)]. R. v. Ballradan Fuklaf, 17 B., 573, 579 (1893). Deb Sanja Y. R., 5 C. W. X., 413 (1993)

<sup>(3)</sup> Bolimakund Ram τ. Ghansom Ram, 22 C., 391, 403 (1894), for s. 106, post, applies only to cases where the accused sets up an intent in his defence, see also Deputy Legal Remembraner τ.

Koruna Base'ob, 22 C, 164, 173 (1894); Khorshed Karv R R, 8 C, L. R, 542 (1881), In re-Routholouss, 9 M, 431 (1885). As to the effect to be given to the word "knowingly" in a penal enactment, see R v Fisher, 14 M, 339 (1891). (4) Balmakhad Ram v Gharum Ram, supra.

<sup>103, 101</sup>

<sup>(5)</sup> Balmakund Fam v. Ghansam Ram, supra, 406, Deputy Legal Remembrancer v. Karcona Batsobi. supra, 173, 174, R. v. Lidri (1907), 29 A., 46, (6) R. v. Nolotraco Ghon, 8 W. R., Cr., 87, 89 (1867).

<sup>(7)</sup> R. v. Bepsa Bismus, 10 C., 970 (1884).
(8) R. v. Haradhan, 19 C., 380 (1892).

<sup>(9)</sup> In ro Millard, 10 M., 218, 221 (1887). (10) Marroy v. R., 21 C., 103 (1893).

shore that was held sufficient to throw the onus on the accused to show that the foreshore was a private market within the meaning of the Bombay Municipal Act (1) When an order is passed by a Magistrate under the Criminal Procedure Code, requiring any person to "show cause" why he should not be ordered to furnish security for the peace, the onus lies upon the prosecution to establish circumstances justifying the action of the Magistrate in calling for security (2) But section 7 of Act XXV of 1867, throws the onus on the accused (3)

In a tral of an accused under sections 304 and 325, Indian Penal Code, ertain witnesses, who deposed to seeing the homicide take place and who gave evidence before the Magistrate, were not called and examined in the Court of Session. Held, that every witness who was present at the commission of such an offence ought to be called; (4) and that even if they give different accounts, it is fit that the jury should hear their evidence so as to enable them to draw their own conclusions as to the real truth of the matter, (5) Held, also, that the duty of producing the evidence prima facte devolves on the public prosecutor, (6) and though the burden of the prosecution is not to be thrown upon the Judge, (7) there is an obligation upon him not merely to receive and adjudicate upon the evidence submitted to him by the parties but also to tenquire to the utmost into the truth of the matter before him (8)

Custom

It is incumbent upon a party to a suit, who relies upon a custom as overriding the general law of the land, or that of the community to which he belongs. to specify that custom distinctly and to establish it without any reasonable doubt (9) So as the impartibility of a Raj does not render it inalienable as a matter of law, its inalienability depending upon family custom, the latter must be proved by him who alleges it (10) And where a party alleges a Raj to be indivisible and that he is, as heir, entitled to succeed to the whole, the onus of proof is upon him (11) The burden of proving that the custom in a particular family of primogeniture regulates the succession to their property is upon him who claims to inherit in that right (12) The burden of proving that the vatandar joshs of a village is not entitled to officiate and take fees in the family of any particular caste, lies upon the person asserting exemption.(13) The onus of proving that a particular form of vicinage gives a preferential right of preemption rests on the persons asserting it (14) When a person relies upon a local usage regulating the right to land the subject of alluvion or diluvion. the burden of proving such local usage hes upon him.(15) As to the law

- Nirunjun Singh, All H C. R., p. 431 (1870); Behari Patak v. Mahomed Hyat, 4 B L R., F. B., 46 (1860).
- (3) See R. v. Phanendra Nath Matter (1903), 35 Cal., 945.
- (4) See Nibaran Chandra Roy v. R. (1907), 11 C. W. N., 1085; and cases cited, ante, in Introd. to Part III.
  - (5) R. v. Holden, S C. & P., 610
- (6) R v. Dhunno Kati, 8 C, 121 (1881), [referred to in Sada Sheikh v. R., 4 C. W. N., 576 (1900)]; R. v. Kasinath Danlar, 8 Bom. H. C. R., Cr., 153 (1871)
  - (7) R v. Page, 2 Cox. C. C., 221.
- (8) R. v. Dhamba Porhya, 18 Ind. Jur. N S, 159 (1891), citing Melvill, J., in R. v. Tularam, 17th August 1871.
- (9) Museumut Natulhee v. Chowdhry Chintamun, 20 W. R., 247, 248 (1870); Gopal Narhar v.

Manuscat Gazech, 3 B., 373 (1879), Mibai r. Gorbon, 12 Bom H. C., 294 (1815); Rehnardov v. Harba, 3 B., 34 (1871), Royah Mahardav X-John Sangh, 19 W. R., 291 (1873); Thaloor Jinath v. Lolenath Schre, 19 W. R., 293 (1873), Adruhoppa r. Guruchidoppa, 4 B., 494 (1880) Govan Rambhari v. Gounzi Harvilbari, 5 B., 682 (1889). Cassumbhoy Ahmelhoy v. Ahmelhoy Hubboy. 12 B., 290 (1887), e. c., in pepel, 13 B., 53

12 B, 280 (1887), s c, m appeal, 13 D, 534 (1889).
(10) Rayah Udaya v. Jadullal Aditya, 8 I. A.,

- 248 (1881), s. c., 8 C., 109.
  (11) Gurtharre Single v. Kodahul Single 6 W. B.:
- (11) Girdharee Singh v. Koolahul Singh, 6 W. R.: P. C., 1 (1841)
- (12) Garuradhuaja Prasad v. Superundhuaja Prasad, 23 A., 37 (1900)
  - (13) Raja Valad v. Krishnabhat, 3 B., 232 (1879).
    (14) Dhumimal v. Kalu, 67 P. R. (1906)
- (15) Rae Manick v. Madhoram, 13 Moo. I. A., 1 (1869); see s. 2, Beng. Reg. XI of 1825.

R. v. Budhoobai, 7 Bom. L. R., 728 (1905).
 R. v. Abdul Kadır, 9 A., 452 (1886), R. v.

governing Hindu converts to Mahomedanism, the following principles may now be regarded as settled (a) Mahomedan law generally governs converts to that faith from Hinduism; but (b) a well-established custom of such converts following the Hindu law of inheritance would override the general presumption. (c) This custom should be confined strictly to cases of succession and inheritance. (d) If any particular custom of succession be alleged which is at variance with the general law applicable to these communities, the burden of proof lies on the party alleging such special custom. As under Mahomedan Law adoption is not recognized, the onus of proving a custom of adoption contrary thereto lies on the person alleging it.(1)

If evidence is given as to the general prevalence of Hindu rules of succession in a Mahomedan community in preference to the rules of Mahomedan law, the burden of proof is discharged, and it then rests with the party disputing the particular Hindu usage in question, to show that it is excluded hese the

Indian Succession Act (X of 1865) the Christian convert could elect to attach himself to any one of these particular classes, and he would be governed by the usage of the class to which he so attached himself (2) The same principles are applied to the case of Hindu converts to Mahomedanism such as Khojas and Cutchi Memons (3)

In a suit for damages for defamation of character the onus is on the plain-Defamation tiff to prove that he was not guilty of the offence charged before the defendant can be called upon to show that he made the imputation in good faith and for the public good (4)

Where a right of the nature of an easement is claimed, the onus of proving Easements, the existence of such right will lie on the person claiming the right (5) Possession of an easement by order of a Magistrate passed under section 532 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Act X of 1872) will not relieve the claimant from the onus of proving his claim (6)

In the undermentioned case(7) the Privy Council observed. "The habit Fraud. may be superinduced by the manifold cases of fraud with which they have to deal; but Judges in India are perhaps somewhat too apt to see fraud everywhere" However, this may be, fraud like everything else is not to be presumed or interred rightly. The burden of proving that any transaction has been effected by fraud and misrepresentation, (8) dures, intimidation, undue influence

<sup>(1)</sup> Ghulam Als Shah v Shahbal Singh, 3 P.

R. (1905)
(2) See Abraham v Abraham, 9 Moo I. A , 195

<sup>(3)</sup> As for primogranture and rule in derogation of Hindu Law, see Shyamanund Das Mohapira, 23 C, 6; & Adul Horsan ν Hobstwiah, 18 P R (1906) Badom Kumarı ν. Suroj Kumarı, 28 Λ, 438, Bajaev Pan Santok 20 B, 33 (1892 Pan Santok 20 B, 33 (1892)).

<sup>(4)</sup> Mohendra Chundra v Surbo Ehoya, 11 W. R., 534 (1869), Repolacinar v. Kashachara v. Kashachara v. Kashachara v. Kashachara v. Landang to no difficulty in extending to cases like the present the rule as to burden of proof last down in Abrath v. North-Enstern Ry. Co. Ld., 11 Q. B. D., 440, 455, H. L., 11 App. Cas. 247.

<sup>(5)</sup> Hari Mohun v. Kissen Sundars, 11 C, 52 (1884): Onrael v. Kissen Soonduree, 15 W. R.,

____

 <sup>(1871).
 (5)</sup> Obhoy Churn v. Lukhy Monee, 2 C. L. R., 555 (1878), overruling Puchai Khan v Abed Sirdar, 21 W R., 140 (1874)

<sup>(7)</sup> Moonshee Butloor v. Shumsoonessa Begum, 11 M. I A, 602 (1867).

Benjaden Narma v. Baja Goriad. 2 M. I. A., 181, 226 (1839), Achank Singh v. Kuken Pre-shad, W. R., 37 (1884), M. Söhordur v. Joy
 Karada, I. W. R., 227 (1884), Annud Boygev
 Shibo Dyal, 2 W. R., 2 (1850), Naraoh Syst
 J. M. Amoster, 10 W. R., 119, 150 (1878), P.
 C.; Kishen Dhun v. Ram Dhun, 6 W. R., 235 (1886), Grish Chander v. Molash Chander, 10
 W. R., 173 (1805), Ram Gulfy v. Mumlog
 Ebbez, 10 W. R., 280 (1888), Lalla Rocafoco v.
 Blande Ram, 10 W. R., 22 (1854), P. Naraine, Rozakan Muff, 22 W. R., 124 (1874) [Mere speca, Labon and probability will not and law apport and law apport and law and probability will not and law apport and law apport and the specific speca.

and the like (1) lies upon the persons seeking to impeach its validity on these grounds Fraud must be charged in the plaint, and vague allegations of fraud are not sufficient When fraud is charged, it is a rule of pleading that the plaintiff must set forth the particulars of the fraud which he alleges. General allegations, however strong may be the words in which they are stated, are insufficient even to amount to an averment of fraud of which any Court. ought to take notice.(2) When fraud is charged, the evidence must be confined to the allegations (3) It is a well-known rule, that a charge of fraud must be substantially proved as laid, and that when one kind of fraud is charged, another kind cannot, on failure of proof, be established for it (4) A plaintiff who charges another with fraud must himself prove the fraud, and he is not released from this allegation because the defendant has himself told an untrue story (5) When the plaintiff alleges that fraud only came to his knowledge at a certain time, it is for the defendant to prove that he was cognisant of it before that time (6) But though fraud must be alleged specifically and proved as alleged, the proof offered need not be in all cases of a direct kind. "It is a truth confirmed by all experience, that in a great majority of cases fraud is not capable of being established by positive and express proofs It is by its very nature secret in its movements, and if those whose duty it is to investigate questions of fraud were to insist upon direct proof in every case, the ends of justice would be constantly, if not usually, defeated We do not mean to say that fraud can be established by any less proof or by any different kind of proof from that which is required to establish any other disputed question of fact, or that circumstances of mere suspicion which lead to no certain result should be taken as sufficient proof of fraud, or that fraud should be presumed against anybody in any case, but what we mean to say is that, in the generality of cases, circumstantial evidence is our only resource in dealing with questions of fraud, and if this evidence is sufficient to overcome the natural presumption of honesty and fair dealing and to satisfy a reasonable mind of the existence of fraud by raising a counterpresumption, there is no reason whatever why we should not act upon it."(7) An excepti one party see the no has got pr

a finding of frand 1 Roop Bom v. Saserram Nath, 23 W. R. 14 (1835) EMS Khelzern v. Bloke Shirkhun, 24 W. R., 385 (1835), Kubrowdess v Jogol Salan, 25 W. R., 133 (1875), 5 C. L. R., 374. If the Court discretists the plantiffs witnesses as regards the food filts of a transaction which is impagend, it is at blerty to dismust the suit, although the defendant gree no substantal evidence of fraud Directivers Poskelov v Bahanuddi, 6 C., 268 (1880), Skb. Narofa v Shador Pastyrah, 5 C. W. N., 403 (1900). the opposite party to meet a general chargel, Jonnan Pershad v Jogerm Lell, 2 C. L. R., 26 (1878) Land Motopose Beal v, Roy Luchmywi 8 C. L. R., 447 (1881) Wallinghood v, Mutual Society, 5 App. Cas. 807, 701. As to oral exdense of witnesses dejecting in general terms being munificient, see Shiboosoodari Delea v. Signed Mahomed, W. R. 1864, 1879.

(3) Krishnaji v Wamnaji, 18 B., 144, 147 (1893)

(4) Abdul Hossesh v Turner, 11 B , 620 (1887).

14 I A. 111 (5) Mahomed Golab v Mahomed Sulliman, 21 C., 612 (1894)

(6) Natha Singh v Jodha Singh, 6 A, 406 (1884) as to proof of knowledge of fraud, see Rahimbhoy Hubbibhoy v. Turner, 20 J. A, 1

(7) Mathura Pandey v. Ram Rucha, 3 B L. R. A. C. 108, 110, 111, per Dwarkanath Mitter. J., s. c., 11 W R., 482.

<sup>(1)</sup> Moice Lal v Jugghonnath Gurg, I M I A, I (1830), Zemindar of Rammad v. Zemindor of Vettrapoeram, 7 M I. A., 441 (1859).

<sup>(2)</sup> Gunga Narain v Tüuckram Choudhry, 15 C., 673 (1889), s. c., 15 I. A., 119; Provinion Kumar v Koli Div., 10 C., 693 (1892); Krishnaji v. Wamaray, 18 Bom., 144, 146 (1873); Imstances must be given, it being unreasonable to require had knowledge of the fraud at a time which is too remote to allow him to bring the suit (1)

the Good and bad faith. the post, however, enacts an exception to this general rule, reversing the burden of proof, where one of the parties stands in a relation of active confidence towards the other (ib.). As to criminal proceedings v. ante, " Criminal Law."

Where the plaintiff sucs to recover the amount of excess payment on Governaccount of Government revenue on behalf of co-sharers to save the estate from revenue sale, the onus is on them to prove their shares and the amount of revenue payable on them.(2) But where a defendant pleads previous payment of his quota of the revenue to the plaintiff, he is bound to prove it (3) Where an agent of a talukdar had received sums fraudulently from a creditor, the onus as to whether particular sums had been received by the manager and used for payment of Government revenue was upon the creditor; the presumption being that the rents should have covered the revenue due, and, thus having to be met, it was for the creditor to bring proof to overcome it.(4)

The following paragraphs which are not, and are not intended to be, Hindu Law exhaustive of the subject, should be read in conjunction with the matter treated party. under the same heading in the commentary to section 114. In consequence of the presumption that while a Hindu family remains joint, all property, including acquisitions made in the name of a single member, is joint family property, the burden of proof, generally speaking, hes on that member who claims any portion of the property as self-acquired "There is a good deal of conflict, probably more apparent than real, between the decisions of the High Court of Bengal as to the question upon whom the onus of proof hes, where property is claimed by one person as being joint property and withheld by another as being self-acquired, or vice versa "(5) The normal state of every Hindu family is joint. Presumably every such family is joint in food, worship, and estate. In the absence of proof of division such is the legal presumption, but the members of the family may sever in all or any of these three things(6) and there is no presumption that a family, because it is joint, possesses joint property or any property. But where it is proved or admitted that a joint family possesses some joint property(7) and the property in dispute has been acquired or held in a manner consistent with that character, "the presumption of law is that all the property they were possessed of was joint property until it is shown by evidence that one member of the family is possessed of separate property." This presumption would not be rebutted merely by showing "that it was purchased in the name of one member of the family and that there are receipts in his name respecting it " For all that is perfectly consistent with the notion of its having been joint property and even if it had been joint property, it still would have been treated in exactly the same manner.(8)

(1891)

<sup>(1)</sup> Suth Lat v Madhurs Prasad, 2 All L J, 350 (1905) Rajah Ratan Singh v. Thakur Man

Stagh, 1 N L R., 20. (2) Aghore Ram v Ramolee Sahoo, 24 W R.

<sup>309 (1874)</sup> (3) Mahadea Mareer v Lahore Masser, 21 W.

R . 250 (1875) (4) Partab Singh , Chilphal Singh, 19 C , 174

<sup>(5)</sup> Mayne's Hindu Law, 6th Edition, 289 See 15, $5 290, 291, from which this paragraph is in part taken. See also Field, Evidence, 469

<sup>(6)</sup> Neelkrasto Deb , Beerchander, 12 Moo. I.

A, 540 (1869), s. c, 3 B L. R (P. C), 13, 12 Sath. (P C), 21 Naragunty v Vengama, 9 Moo-7 A , 92 (1861) , s c., 1 Suth (P C ), 30

<sup>(7)</sup> Bhagubha: Tularam, 7 Bom L R, 169 (1905) [The absence of any nucleus of joint property is important in the determination of the question whether the property gained by each co-parcener was his self-acquisition, for the mere fact that a family is joint does not raise the presumption of joint property in the absence of family property ]

<sup>(8)</sup> Dhurm Das v. Shama Coondurt, 3 Mco. 1. A., 229, 240 (1843), a. c , 6 Suth. (P. C.), 43,

Art. 127 (Limitation Act), the onus is on the defendants to prove that exclusion from the joint family became known to the plaintiff more than twelve years before the suit.(1) To reader property in the hands of the members of a joint Hindu family joint property, the consideration for its purchase must either have proceeded out of ancestral funds or have been produced out of the joint property or by joint labour. But neither of these alternatives is matter of legal presumption.(2)

The difficulty arises from attempting to lay down an abstract proposition of law, which will govern every case however different in its facts. But it is impossible to say generally of any piece of property in the possession of any member of the family that it is presumably joint estate. All that is laid down by the Bengal cases is that it is impossible to say what the presumption is, until it is known what proposition the plaintiff and defendant respectively put forward. The Judges say "tell us what your case is: when we find how much of it is admitted by the other side, we will then be able to say whether you are relieved of the necessity of proving any part of your case and how much of it (3).

A plaintiff coming into Court to claim a share in property as being joint family property must lay some foundation before he can succeed in his suit. He starts with a presumption in his favour; but this presumption must be taken along with other facts, and those facts may so far remove the presumption arising from the ordinary condition of a Hindu family, as to throw back the burden of proof on the other side.(4) But the rule that the possession of one of the joint owners is the possession of all will apply to this extent, that, if one of them is found to be in possession of any property, the family being presumed to be joint in estate, the presumption will be, not that he was in possession of it as separate property acquired by him, but as a member of the joint family.(5) Again, if the plaintiff's case is that the property was ancestral, and the defendant admits that it was purchased with his father's money, but alleges that the purchase was made in his own name and for his own exclusive benefit, the burden of proof would lie on him (6) Similarly, if the case is that the property is purchased out of the proceeds of the family estate, and it is admitted that there was family property of which the defendant was manager, the onus would be on the defendant to show that there was a separate acquisition (7) The same presumption will apply where the property is acquired by a member of a joint referred to in Kanhia Lul v. Debi Das, 22 A, 141 (1899): Curithandh v. Goureranth, 13 Moo I A, 542 (1870). a. c., 15 W. R. (P. C.), 10, Rampershod Tenatry v. Sheckura Dass, 19 Moo I. A, 400, 505 (1866). Teclosydas Ludhea v. Pernyi

Tricumdas, 13 B, 61 (1888). (1) Bama Nath Chatterpee v. Kusam Kamins, 4 C. L. J., 56.

(2) Hem Nath Ras v. Janki Rei, A. W N. (1905), 212; 2 A. L. J., 658

(1905), 212; 2 A. L. J., 658 (3) Mayne's Hudu Law, § 267, 5th Ed., 29, 6th Ed

(4) Birlanath v. Ajordiia, 12 B. L. R., 336 (1873), s. c., 20 Suth., 65; B-dh Slaph v. Gunch Chander, 12 B. L. R. (P. C.), 317 (1873); s. c., 19 Suth., 336.

(5) Torrack Chunder v. Jogeshur Chunder, 11 R. L. P., 197, a. c., 19 Suth., 173 (1873); overruling Shiu G sum v. Eurun Sing, 1 R. J. R., (A. C.), 164 (1863), a. c., 10 W. R., 199; differed from in Bhelanath v. Ajoodhia, 12 B. L. R., 336; e. c., 20 Sutb, 65, and in Denonath v. Harrynarata, 12 B. L. R., 349; afterned in Gobind Chunder v Doorgepersand, 14 B. L. R., 337, e. c., 22 Sutb. 248; Saskee Mohan v. Aukhil, 25 Suth., 132 (1876);

Vedaralls v Narayana, 2 M., 19 (1877).

(6) Goyektwin Gouin, v. Gaspperhad Gouin, 6 Moo. I. A., 53 (1854); Electror Loll v. Luch meter Stab, 6 I. A., 233 (1879), a. c., 5 C. L. R., 477 (1879). See also Bee Narsin v. Tren Courte, 1 W. R., 110 (1884). [Sint by member of joint family for share of joint property: plant stating property to be joint; admission by defendant that at one time it was joint; held that one was on the defendant to prove separation.]

Lusimon Rou v. Muller Row, 2 Kn., 60;
 W. R. (P. C), 67 (1866); Pedru v. Dogmont, Mad. Dec. of 1860, 8; Janobee Dasce v. Kisto
 Komal, Marsh., 1 (1859).

family and there is an admitted nucleus of family property.(1) Whereas in the case of a family governed by the Dayabhaga there is no jointness in property between the father and the sons, if property in dispute is acquired in the name of one of several brothers during the life-time of their father and is in possession of that brother the burden of proof in such a case rests upon the party who asserts that the property in reality belonged to the father.(2) The wives and mothers of the members of a joint undivided Hindu family, so long as they continue to live in the family and are supported out of its income, are just as much members of that family as their husbands and sons. So far as the ordinary and usual course of things is concerned, the practice of making benami purchases in the names of female members of joint undivided Hindu families is just as much rife in this country as that of making such purchases in the names of male members, and the presumption against separate acquisition is no less strong in the former case than in the latter (3) But, if it is neither proved nor admitted that the family are living together or have their entire property in common, a plaintiff seeking to recover property as ancestral estate must prove the title set up by him (4) And, if it is denied that there ever had been any family property or admitted that the defendant was not the person in possession of it, the plaintiff would fail, if he offered no evidence whatever. Where a Hindu, who had a son and that son's son living with him, made a gift of his property in favour of that grandson, and in the deed the property was described as self-acquired, and the deed was attested by the son, who was shown to have had knowledge of its contents, it was held that these facts led to the inference that the property was self-acquired (5)

In the undermentioned case it was laid down that a person suing for a share in joint family property must show, not only that the property is joint family property but also that he has had possession of his share or received payments on account of it within twelve years (6) And where the plaintiff admitted that certain properties were not acquired by the use of patrimonial funds, and the defendants had not acknowledged that such properties were acquired by any joint exertion of the plaintiff, it was held that the mere circumstance of the parties having been united in food at the time of the acquisition, raises no presumption so as to relieve the plaintiff from the onus of proving his averment that he had a joint share and interest in the acquisition (7) Also where the whole property is self-acquired, the onus probandi will lie on the person seeking a share and alleging that the estate is joint (8) But where a member of Hindu family sued for a division of the family estate and admitted in his plaint that he took possession of part of the family property and had for sixteen years lived separate, it was held that the onus lay on him to prove that the circumstances under which he became possessed of his portion of the property were

<sup>(1)</sup> Prankristo v Bhagerutee, 20 Suth., 158 (1873), Mooljs Lilla v. Gokuldass, 8 B., 154 (1893), Lakshman v Jamnabai, 6 B., 225 (1882)

<sup>(2)</sup> Sarada Prasad v Mahananda Roy, 31 C, 448 (1001) The headnote of thu caue is morrer at atting that the presumption was held to be generally inapplicable to joint families governed by the Dayabhaga. In this case there was not joint convenible between father and sons at there might have been between the sons themselves on the death of their father, and see Kharsondas Dharanary v. Guegobal (1908), 32 B, 479 (different kinds of joint family).

<sup>(3)</sup> Chunder Nath v. Kristo Komul, 15 W. R. 357 (1871); followed in Nobin Chander v Dhokh bala Dasi, 10 C, 686 (1884), v. ante "Benami," p. 531.

<sup>(4)</sup> Bannoo v Kashee Rom, 3 C., 315 (1877), Obboy Chury v Gobind Chinder, 9 C., 237 (1882), Todesy Dav v. Premy Treemdat 13 B. 9 (1888), (Unless there is an admitted nucleus of family property, the onus of proof be on the claimant.) (5) Kallinniji Banchof v. Bezanji Nassruvanji (1908), 22 B. 512 consistent with his statement that the family remained undivided (1) And where a member of a joint Hindu family left the family home and started a shop with funds of his own admittedly non-ancestral, it was held that any member of the family claiming to have a share in the shop must show by clear evidence that he was in some way associated with the business so as to be a partner.(2) A property acquired without the aid of joint funds or joint exertions may become joint property by being thrown into the common stock; but those who allege this must prove it (3)

<sup>(6)</sup> Gossain Dass v Siroo Koomaree, 12 B. L. R. 219 (1873)

<sup>(7)</sup> Kishorte Lall v Chummun Lall, S. D. R. (1852), 111. see Shiu Golom v Baran Singh, I B. I. R. (A. C.), 164 (1868), overtuled by Tarak Chunder, Jogeshur Chunder, 11 B. L. R., 183

<sup>(8)</sup> Soobhedur Dossee v. Bdaram Dewan, W. R., Sp. No., 57 (1862).

Hindu Law: Partition

A Hindu family admitted or shown to be joint is presumed to continue in a state of union; and, therefore, where a plantiff alleges that the property has been divided and has by partition or otherwise become separate, the presumption being the other way, the onus is on him to prove it (4) But where there has actually been a partition, the burden of proving a re-union is on the person alleging it (3) and to establish it, it would be necessary to show not only that the parties already divided, lived or traded together but that they did it with the intention of altering their status thereby. Separate residence is not of itself conclusive or even strong evidence of partition (6)

Similarly, after a general separation in food and partition of estate, if any one of several brothers comes into Court alleging that a particular portion of property originally joint continues to remain so, the onus of proof will lie on him (7) Where the plaintiffs by their own evidence destroyed the presumption that the family was, at the commencement of the suit, a joint family twas held to he upon the plaintiffs to prove a separation at such a period as would entitle them to the relief which they sought (8) Where the plaintiff admitted that there had been a previous partition under which lands sued for had fallen to the defendant, but alleged that the partition was only a temporary one and that it had come to an end, it was held that the onus lay on the plaintiff to prove his plea.(9) A fortiori, where there have been admitted self-acquisitions and an actual partition, if one of the members such is self-acquired property, alleging that it was really joint property; or if a member of the family admitted a partition among some of the members, but asserted

<sup>(1)</sup> Somangouda v. Ibharnangouda, 1 Bom. H. C. R., 43 (1883), see also cases, port, sub roc, "Self-acquisition." and for a recent case in which a large number of authorities were reviewed, the revidence being held to establish separation, see Rom Preshod v. Lakhpati Koer, 30 C., 231 (1902).

<sup>(2)</sup> Rijhu Ram v Mohan Lel, 25 P. R. (1900) (3) Bhagulas v. Tularam, 7 Bom L. R. 169

<sup>(4)</sup> Chieda v. Mishen Lell, II Moo I. A., 350 (1857); Ren Chunder v. Chunder Comer, II Moo I. A., 105 (1869); Prantishen Puul v. Mishopen Mishan Paul, 100 (1869); Prantishen Puul v. Mishopen A. Mishopen Lell, 100 (1869); Prantishen Puul v. Mishopen Mishan Paul, 100 (1879); Prantishen V. Mishopen Mishan Mishan

R. 22 (1865) Mvn Mohin v. Scodamone Dobe, 3 W R. 71 (1865). George Perhad. 6 W R. (1887). George Perhad. 6 W R. (121 (1866)). Tretochun Roy v. Ret-kishen Boy, 5 W R. (214 (1865); 3 B L. R. (R. C.) 41. Prit Korr v. Mahdeo Perhad. 21 I. A. (134 (1894) s. c. 22 C., 85; Ram Ghidum v. Rem Eshken; 18 A. 90, 91 (1895).

<sup>(5)</sup> Prankriden Nothcoremohin, 10 Moc I A. 403 (1865), s. c. A Sith, (P. C.), II; Odo A Annaram 7 Sath, 35 (1867); Ram Hari v. Trihram, 7 B. L. R. 335 (1871); s. c., 15 Sath, 12 Include Gogola Laldami Frakame, 3 B. L. R. (P. C.), 44 (1869), Dallraden Das v. Ram Namon 7 C. W. N. 578 (1909).

<sup>(6)</sup> Ranganatha Rao v. Narayarasami Nairler (1908) 31 M. 482.

<sup>(7)</sup> Ram Gobind v. Hosein All, 7 W. R., 90 (1897)

 <sup>(8)</sup> Ram Ghulam v. Ram Behari, 18 A, 90
 (1895)
 (9) Obhoy Churn v. Ruri Nath, S C, 72 (1881).

s c, 10 C L R., 81; see Headoy Nath v. Mohabutnesses Biber, 20 C., 285.

that the others had remained undivided, the onus would be upon him to make out such a case (1)

The general presumption being that, where there is admitted to be some Hindu Law: property, such property is joint family property, the onus lies on the member tion. of the family claiming property as self-acquired to prove it.(2) If one of the members of the family is found in possession of any property, the presumption would be, not that he was in possession of it as separate property acquired by him, but as a member of the joint family. (3) On the other hand, if the property is admitted to be originally self-acquired, but stated to have been thrown into the common stock, this would be a very good case, if made out; but the onus of proving it would be heavily on the person asserting it.(4) In a recent case(5) for partition of property alleged to be the property of a joint Hindu family of which the plaintiff was a member, it was held that, as the defendants set up their separate acquisition in a suit for the partition of a joint family which admittedly was possessed as such of some property, the presumption was that the whole of the property of each individual belonged to the common stock and the burden of proving separate self-acquisition lay on the person asserting it. v. ante, " Joint property."

Where after the death of a Hindu widow the plaintiff claimed, as the re- Hindu Law: versionary heir of her husband, certain properties, some of which were inherited from her husband and some acquired by her after her husband's death; held that there was no presumption that property acquired by a Hindu widow after her husband's death forms part of his estate, and that the plaintiff must

(1) Badul Singh v Chutterdharet Singh, 9 Suth., 558 (1868), Banoo v. Kashee Ram, 3 C. 315 (1877), Radha Churn v Krapa Sandhu, 5 C , 474 (1879); Obhoy Churn v. Gobind Chunder, 9 C., 237-(1882), Bata Krishna v Chintaman, 12 C., 262 (1885); Upendra Narasn v. Gopee Nath, 9 C., 817 (1883). In the two latter cases it was held that the mere fact that one member of the family had separated from the joint stock raised no presumption that the other members had separated unter se, dissenting from Radha Churn v. Krapa Sindhu, 5 C., 474 (1879), Mayne's Hindu Law, 6th Ed., § 291. See converse case Kristnappa Chetty v Ramancamy Iyer, 8 Mad H. C., 25 (2) Yanumula Venkayamah v. Boochia Venkondora, 13 Moo. I A., 333 (1870), Rampershap Tewary v. Sheochurn Das, 10 Moo. I. A., 490 (1866). Lalla Beharee v Lalla Modho, 6 W. R., 60 (1860), Sheo Ruttun v Gour Beharee, 7 W R , 449 (1867) , Radha Rumon v. Phool Kumaree, 10 W R., 28 (1868); Nelmoney Bhooya v. Ganga Narain, 1 W. R., 334 (1865), Umbica Churn v Bhugobutty Churn, 3 W R., 173 (1865). (Suit for share in joint family property; denial that property was joint within period of limitation, and allegation of separation. Held plaintiff must show joint enjoyment within the period of limitation, which having been done, it lay on defendants to prove the alleged separation.) Espro Perehad v. Kena Dayee, 5 W. R. (1865); Shusee Mohun v Aulhil, 25 W. R., 232 (1876), Vedavalli v. Narayana, 2 M., 1 (1877), Chand Huree v. Rajah Novendra, 19 W. R., 231 (1873) , Mody Lilla v. Gokulda, Vulla, 8 B., 154 (1883), Anundo Mohun v Lamb, 1 Marsh., 169 (1862), Sidapa v Paneakorty, Morris, 100, Hast Sangh v Dabee Singh, 2 N.-W P., 308 (1870), Jadoomoney Dassec v Gangadhur Seal, 1 Boolu , 600 (1856) . Barnee Singh v Bhurth Singh, 1 Agra H C., 162 (1866), Nund Ram v Choot∞, 1 Agra H C., 255 (1866) . Nursingh Das v Narain Das, 13 N -W P. 217 (1871) . Dabec Subhas v Sheo Dass, 1 Agra-P (', 285 (1866) [Admission of property being joint ancestral, throws the burden of proving exclusive and adverse pussession beyond limitation on the sharer refosing to admit other heirs l Gopeelristo Gossain v Gungapersaud Gosain, 6 Moo I A. 53 (1854), Chand Huree v. Rajah Norendra, 19 W P., 231 (1873). Nuronath Dass v. Goda Kolita, 20 W R , 342 (1873) , [Suit for possession of land under a pottah issued by eldest member of joint Hindu family, onus of proving eldest brother's right to give such title is on the plaintiff ] Makhun Lall v Ram Lall, 3 C W. N., 134 (1898) [Presumption that business was started with funds of joint family rebutted ] In l inayak Nursingh v. Dutto Gound, 25 B , 367 (1900), in which the defendant pleaded self-acquisition and limitation, it was held under the circumstances of the case that the onus lay on the plaintiffs.

(5) Kanhia Lall v. Del v Das, 22 A., 141 (1809).

<sup>(3)</sup> Tarul Chunder v Jogethur Chunder, 11 B L. R., 193 (1893), differs from Bhelanath v. Atondhia, 12 B L. R., 336 (1873), s. c., 20 Suth., 248 (4) Mayne's Hindu Law, § 291, 6th Ed.

start his case with proofs sufficient to shift the onus, proof at least of facts from which an inference can be drawn.(1) The proposition that when a widow is found in possession of property of the acquisition of which no account is given, and it is shown that her husband died possessed of considerable property, then there is a presumption of law that the property found in the widow's possession was originally that of her husband, is, according to a recent decision of the Privy Council, inconsistent with the general rule that he who claims property through some person must show the property to have been vested in that person, a rule which is as equally applicable to movable as to immovable property, CA person claiming under a deed of gift from a Hindu widow, which recites that the property to be conveyed was stridhan, must prove this in order to succeed in his claim (3) Smullarly a Hindu widow seeking to exempt property from lability for her husband's debts, as being acquired by her stridhan, must prove Hindu Law: Alienation by widow.

it.(4) If a Hindu widow mortgages or alienates property which in the ordinary course would descend to reversionary heirs on her death, or escheat to the Crown, the onus is upon those who derive their title from her to show that such alienation or mortgage was made with the consent of the immediate heirs, (5) or for purpose for which a Hindu widow is by Hindu law competent to charge the estate, (6) and as between the widow and the person dealing with her, the transaction must be absolutely free from fraud and must be shown to have been entered into after the fullest explanation to her of its nature and consequences.(7) The consent of the next reversioners at the time of the alienation will conclude another person not a party to it, who is the actual reversioner upon the death of the widow Ordinarily the consent of the whole body of persons constituting the next reversion should be obtained, but there may be cases in which special circumstances may render the strict enforcement of that rules impossible (8) Acts of alienation by a Hindu widow for pious and religious purposes calculated to promote the spiritual welfare of her deceased husband are no doubt valid, (9) but acts of alienation for her own spiritual welfare, or Kurun v. Fuaz Alee, 10 B L R , 112 (1871) ; s c. 14 Moo I A, 176 (There is no doubt that those who take security from a person having only a limited power to grant it, are bound to show, primd faces at any rate, that the money was raised for a legitimate purpose ) Mohima Chunder v. Ram Kishore, 15 B L. R , 142 (1875). The estate of a Hindu family, in which, after the death of the father and his widow a daughter held an interest for life, comprised a family trade carried on by a manager on her account. Held that the restriction upon her power to alienate remained the same, notwithstanding the trade, without being relaxed on that account. It is for the plaintiff to state and prove all that will give validity to the charge. Sham Sundar v. Arkhan Kuar, 21 A . 71 (1898).

(7) Malomed Askryl v. Engenerre Desert 10 V R. 426 (1872). [The ahenation by a Hindu widow of a portion of her estate in order to enable her to make a pilgrimage to Gra to perform her bubband's erodh was held good and proper.] Bloquet Dyol Singh v. Deld Dayel Sohu (1998), 35 C, 420.

<sup>(1)</sup> Dalhina Kali v. Jagadheshuar Bhattacharys,

<sup>2</sup> C W. N., 197 (1897) (2) Dewan Run v. Indarpol Singh, 4 C W. N., 1 (1899)

<sup>(3)</sup> Chunder Monee v. Joylissen Sircar, 1 W. R., 107 (1864) [Referred to in Dalhina Kali v. Jogodeshuar Ehattacharjee, 2 C W. N., 199 (1897)]. Biseessur Chuclerbutty v Ram Joy, 2 W R., 226 (1865)

Brojomohun Myttee v Radha Koomarer, W
 60 (1864)

R, 60 (1864)
(5) Chunder Monee v. Joylissen Streat, 1 W.

R., 107 (1864) (6) Mayne's Hindu Law, § 594; Caroly Ven. kata v. Collector of Manulepatam, 11 Mon. J. A.s 619 (1867); 10 W. R. (P. C), 47; and Collector of Masulspatamy. Cavaly Venlata, 8 Moo I. A., 500 (1861); 2 W P. (P. C.), 61; Ra; Lules v. Gocoog Chunder, 13 Moo. 1 A , 209 (1869) , 4 c., 3 B L. R. (P. C.), 57; 12 Suth (P. C), 47; Kali Coomar v. Rom Dass, W. R., 153 (1864); Bissonath Roy 1. Lall Bahadoor, 1 W R., 247 (1864); Ram Dhone v. Ishance Dabee, 2 W. R., 123 (1865), Dhondo Ramchandra v Balkrishna Gobind, 8 B. 190 (1883): Laleman Bhaulholar v. Radhabai. 11 B. 609 (1897) - Rangelbhas Kalyandus v. Linnyak Lishnu, 11 B . 666 (1887); Mahomed Shumood 1. Shewulram, 22 W. R., 409, Ran that of persons other than the deceased owner, will be void.(1) A daughter who takes her father's property on the death of the widow in default of a son takes the inheritance with a qualified power as regards alienation, in respect of which she is in no better situation than the widow. On the death of the daughter, the heir of her father succeeds as his heir, not as her heir.(2) The lender to, or purchaser from, a Hindu widow is, however, not bound to see to the application of the money. It is sufficient if he satisfied himself as to the necessity for the loan; but he does not necessarily lose his rights, if upon bond fide inquiry he has been deceived as to the existence of the necessity which he had reasonable grounds for supposing to exist.(3) But a recital in a bond given for money borrowed by a Hindu widow is not sufficient evidence of the fact in a suit against the heirs or in a suit to charge the estate ,(1) neither is a recital in a deed of sale sufficient evidence of the existence of the necessity.(5) In a case where a Hindu widow sued to recover a share of property alleged to have been inherited from her husband and mortgaged by her husband's brother and sold under a decree obtained on the mortgage, it was held that the onus was on the brother (defendant) to show that the plaintiff had derived any benefit from the money It was sufficient for the plaintiff to prove her title (6) Where a voluntary transfer by a Hindu widow is alleged, the burden of proving that it was a free gift, made with knowledge by her of her rights, is on the donee (7) In the case of alienation by one of two widows the burden of proof was held to be on the plaintiff to prove that the other widow did not consent to the sale (8) The consent of the daughter to the alienation of immovable property by the widow does not raise a presumption of law that the purpose for which it was made was proper nor is it any evidence of the propriety of the transaction (9) But consent of some only of reversioners may be evidence of the propriety of the transfer Where in a suit by reversioners the consent raises no presumption that the sale was necessary or proper, the onus of validating the sale lies on the defendant (10)

<sup>(8)</sup> Bagranys Singh v. Manalarnila Balsh Singh, P C (1907), Times L. R v. 24, p. 46.

<sup>(9)</sup> Puran Das v. Jas Narain, A., 482 (1892).

Where a guardian of a Hundu minor (who is often the widow mother) mindu faw alienates or charges the estate or any portion of it, the onus is on the mortgages Alienates or person relying on the charge to show that there was a necessity therefor, georgia and the charge to show that there was a necessity therefor, georgia and the charge to show that there was a necessity therefor, georgia and the charge to show that there was a necessity therefor, georgia and the charge to show that there was a necessity therefor, georgia and the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show that there was a necessity therefore the charge to show the charge to show the charge the charge that the transaction was for guardian.

power of the manager for an alified power, it can only be exercised in a case of need or for the benefit of the estate. But where the charge is one that a prudent owner would make in order to benefit the estate, the bond fide lender is not affected by the precedent mismanagement of the estate. The actual pressure on the estate, the danger to be averted or the benefit to be conferred upon it in the particular instance, is the thing to be regarded. The lender is bound to enquire into the necessities for the loan and to satisfy himself

<sup>(1)</sup> Den Pershed v Lujon Roy, 20 W R., 120

<sup>(2)</sup> Rom Gopal v Bellodth Bore, W R, 385 (1884); Rom Pershad v. Nophanpshee Kover, 9 W. R., 501 (1888), Amor Nah v Arhhan Kur, 14 A, 420 (1832) [It must be at least shown that the grantee was led, on reasonable grounds, to believe that there was a legal necessity for the absenction ]

<sup>(3)</sup> Kameswar Perehad v Run Bahadur, 6 C, 843 (1890), 8 C L. R., 361, L. R., 8 I A., 8 (4) Sunker Lall v Juddoobune Suhaye, 9 W

R., 285 (1868).
(5) Rajlulhee Debia v. Goloof Chunder, 12 W.
R. (P. C.), 47 (1869), 3 L. R. (P. C.), 57.

<sup>(6)</sup> Sreemully v Lukhee Karain, 22 W R , 171 (1874)

<sup>(7)</sup> Deo Kuar v Man Kaur, 17 A. (1894)

<sup>(8)</sup> Mahadesappa v Basagowda, 7 Bom L R , 258 (1905)

<sup>(9)</sup> Bepin Behari Kundu v Durga Charan Banerji (1908), 35 C, 896 (10) Chandi Singh v. Jangi Singh, 8 O, C., 21

<sup>(11)</sup> Huscoman Perhad v Jussamu Balcoes
6 Noo I A. 392, 423 (1856), Konver Doorganath v. Ram Chander, 2 C., 341, 35 (1876), Bemda Dossee v. Mohan Dossee, 5 C., 792, 797 (1880), Lella Danseedhar v. Kunoar Budetern)
M. I. A., 434 (1866), Xarayan v. Political Agent,
7 Bom. L. R., 172.

as well as he can with reference to the parties with whom he is dealing, that the manager is acting in the particular instance for the benefit of the estates. If he does so enquire and act honestly, the real existence of an alleged sufficient and reasonably credited necessity is not a condition precedent to the validity of his charge, and under such circumstances he is not bound to see to the

has acted mala file, he will not be affected, although the shown that with better management the estate might have been kept free from debt. "Money to be secured on an estate being obtainable on easier terms than a loan which rests on mere personal security, the mere creation of a charge securing a proper debt is not to be viewed as mismanagement. The purposes for which a loan is wanted are of:

and rarely have, u rightly directin honestly and ed he batoserze ou viui

has himself been deceived. A remost of money may reasonably be expected to prove the circumstances connected with his own particular loan, but cannot reasonably be expected to know or to come prepared with proof of the antecedent economy and good conduct of the owner of an ancestral estate

If, therefore, the lender proves the circumstances of his own particular loan, so as to show that he acted honestly, that he made due and proper enquiry and that he had reasonable grounds for beheving that the transaction was for the benefit of the minor and his estate, he will have sufficiently discharged the burden cast upon him. Beyond this it is not possible to lay down any general and infaxible rule as to the person on whom should be placed the burden of proving that any particular alenation was bond file. The presumption, proper to be made, will vary with circumstances, and it must be regulated by and is dependent upon them. In Malabar law there is no presumption that every debt contracted by a karnavan of a tarvead is for the uses of the tarvead and chargeable on the tarvead estate. It is for the creditor to show that the karnavan had authority from the tarvead contract the debt.(2)

Women Charn v. Herodika, Monomeder, W. R. 34(1684), Applik Nerica v. 2,40 Enn. 2. W. R. 22 (1865), Inopik v. Kantle, 2 Enn. B. C. R. 396 (1864), Sawah Norata v. Shen Golard, H. B. L. R. (App.), 29 (1875); Renjeet Enn. v. Mehrmed Wars, 2 W. R. 44 (1874). Digung a tank, although a great convenience, us not a kgal uccentry!; Mutherer Dass v. Kennon Hierer, 2 W. R. 227 (1874). [Sint by most to set and although any submitted practices of the product of the

(2) Kults Mannadsyar v. Payann Muthan, 3 M. 236 (1881). As to the evidence required where there has been a loan for family purposes. Acc Kristina v. Fasider, 21 B., 808 (1890).

<sup>(1)</sup> Hunooman Pershad v Mussumut Bahoose, 6 Moo. I. A , 425 (1856); Radha Asshore v. Mirtonnjoy Gou, 7 W. B., 23 (1867), Field's Evidence Act, 472; Kameswar Pershad v Ram Bahadoor, 8 L. A. 8 (1880): 6 C. 843, 8 C L R , 361 [Their Lordships said that they had applied these principles to the case of a manager of an infant, alienations by a widow, and to transactions in which a father, in derogation of the rights of his son under the Mitakshara law, has made an alienation of ancestral family estate], Mudden Mohun v. Kantoo Lall, L. R., 1 L. A., 333 (1874). 14 B. L R , 187 ; 22 W R , 56 [Decree 18 evidence of necessity to protect a purchaser at an execution-sale], Burrung Sahoy v. Manira Chowdrain, 22 W. R., 119 (1874); Roop Narain v. Gungalhur Pershad, 9 W. P., 297 (1868); Nund Coomar v. Gunga Pershad, 10 W. R., 94 (1898) , Looloo Singh v. Rajendra Laha, 8 W. R., 364 (1867). Bhoorun Eur v. Sahrlander, 5 W. R., 149 (1866)

In the undermentioned case(1) estate of a Hindu family, in which, after the death of the father and his widow, a daughter held an interest for life, comprised a family trade, carried on by a manager on her account. It was held that the case of a widow or daughter under such circumstances differs from that of the manager or head of an undivided family who manages an ancestral trade. It is for the plaintiff to state and prove all that will give validity to the charge. The principles laid down in Hunooman Pershad Panday's case apply to the alienation of property by the de facto manager of a Hindu endowment (2) In a suit for possession of land in virtue of a pottah issued by the eldest members of a joint Hindu family where the other members dispute the claim on the ground that the lessor, as one of a joint family, could not give title to the whole of the land, the onus of proving the eldest brother's right to give such title is on the plaintiff.(3)

Property devoted to religious purposes is, as a rule, inalienable, but it is Hindu Law competent for the sebatt of property dedicated to the worship of an idel in his by sebatt. capacity as schait and manager of the estate to incur debts and borrow money for the proper expenses of keeping up the religious worship, repairing the temples or other possessions of the idol, defending hostile litigious attacks, and other like objects. The power to incur such debts must be measured by the existing necessity for incurring them.(4) The authority of the schait of an idol's estate would appear to be in this respect analogous to that of the manager of an infant heir, defined in the case of Hunooman Pershad v Munraj Koonweree. (5) Judgments obtained against a former sebatt in respect of debts so incurred are binding on succeeding schaits (6)

Where it is contended that property has been inahenably conferred upon Hindu Law an idol to sustain its worship, the onus probandi hes upon the person who sets Adoption. up this case (7) Where the possession of the legal heir after the death of the widow is prevented and the usual course of inheritance changed on the ground of an adoption having been made, the onus is upon the party setting up that title against the entrance of the legal heir to prove the adoption, both as regards the power of the adopter to adopt and as regards the fact of the adoption, if it be questioned and not upon the heir suing to prove its invalidity, even though he alleged fraud and adduced no evidence in support of it (8) Adop-

<sup>(1)</sup> Sham Sundar v. Achhan Kuar, 21 A , 71 (1893).

<sup>(2)</sup> Sheo Shanlar v. Ram Shewal, 24 C. 77

<sup>(3)</sup> Nuronath Doss v Goda Kelsta, 20 W. R.,

<sup>342 (1873)</sup> (1) Mayne's Hindu Law, § 397, Prosunno Ku-mars v Golap Chund, 14 B. L R , 450, 459 (1875); s c . 2 I A , 145 . Kalee Churn v Banshee Mohun, 15 W R , 339 (1871) , Khusalchand v Mahaderyırı, 12 Bom. H. C., 214 (1875), Fegredo v Mahomed, 15 W R , 75 (1871), Radha Bulluth v Jaggut Chunder, 4 Sel R., 151, Shibeasouree Debia v. Mothogranath Achartee, 13 Vico 1. A., 270 (1869), s e, 13 W R (P C), 18 (1869), Juggeswar Buttobyal v Roodra Narain, 12 W R. 299 (1869); Tabhoonissa v Koomar Sham, 15 W. R., 228 (1871) , Arruth Misser v. Juggernath Indraswamee, 18 W R , 439 (1872); Mohunt Burm v. Kashee Jha, 20 W. R., 471 (1872) Bunware Chund v. Mudden Mohun, 21 W. R., 41 (1873). Narayan v. Chintaman, 5 B , 393 (1881). Cd-Lector of Thana v. Hart Silaram, 6 B , 546, 554

<sup>(1882)</sup> Shunkor Bharati v VenLapa Nail, 9 B., 422 (1885), Joy Lall : Gosain Bhochun, 21

W R . 334 (1874)

<sup>(5) 6</sup> Moe I A, 393 at p 423 (1856), Koonwar Doorganath . Ram Chunder, 4 I A , 52 G1 (1876), *, c , 2 C , 341

<sup>(6)</sup> Prosunno Aumars v Golub Chund, 14 B.

L. R., 450 (1875), L. R., 2 I. A., 145

<sup>(7)</sup> Koonwur Doorganath v Ram Chunder, 4 I A, 52, 61 (1876) s c, 2 C, 341

<sup>(8)</sup> Tarini Charan . Saroda Sundari, 3 B. L. R (A C), 145, 159 (1869), s c, 11 W. R, 369, Bistessur Chuckerbutty v Ram Joy, 2 W R , 328 (1865), Ramprotap Misser v Abhilak Misser, 3 C. L. R (1878), and see Hur Dyal v. Roy Areshlo, 24 W. R., 107 (1875), [Deals with objection that s 110, post, might apply . Choudhry Herasutollah v. Brogo Sonadur, 18 W R , 77 (1872)]. [Factum of adoption admitted], but see also as to fraud, Goorno Prossunna v. Nil Madhat, 21 W. R., 84 (1873). Helar Dan v. Durga Das Mundal. 4 C. L. J., 223.

tο

as well as he can with reference to the parties with whom he is dealing, that the manager is acting in the particular instance for the benefit of the estates. If he does so enquire and act honestly, the real existence of an alleged sufficient and reasonably credited necessity is not a condition precedent to the validity of his charge, and under such circumstances he is not bound to see to the apr has acted mola fide, he will not be affected, although it be shown that with better management the estate might have been kept free from debt "Money to be secured on an estate being obtainable on easier terms than a loan which rests on mere personal security, the mere creation of a charge securing a proper debt is not to be viewed as mismanagement. The purposes for which a loan is not to be viewed as mismanagement. The purposes for which a loan is manted are often future as respects the actual application, and a lender can rarely have, unless he enters on the management, the means of controlling and rightly directing the actual application: and a bond fide creditor, who has acted honestly and with due caution, ought not to suffer, should it turn out that he has himself been deceived." A lender of money may reasonably be expected to know or to come prepared with proof of the ante-cedent economy and good conduct of the owner of an ancestral estate.

If, therefore, the lender proves the circumstances of his own particular and bearing and believing that the transaction was for the burden cast upon him. Beyond this it is not possible to lay down any general and inflexible rule as to the person on whom should be placed the burden of proving that any particular alienation was bond fide. The presumption, proper to be made, will vary with circumstances, and it must be regulated by and is dependent upon them In Malabar law there is no presumption that every debt contracted by a karnavan of a tarvead is for the uses of the tarvead and chargeable on the tarvead estate It is for the creditor to show that the karnavan had authority from the tarvead to contract the debt (2)

Homes Chara v. Harsdha, Mojoomden, W. R. 14 (1864), Agold Nareas v. Jank Rens, 2 W. R. 222 (1865); Diords v. Kenalle, 2 Bout. H. C. R., 202 (1865); Diords v. Kenalle, 2 Bout. H. C. R., 204 (1864), Sared, Nareta v. Shen Odard, H. B. L. R. (Appl.), 25 (1871), Nampet Rom v. Jishonel Bern, 21 W. R., 49 (1874). [Diagnag a tenh, although a great correcurser, unto a legal necessity], Mishoorn Diags v. Kenoon Blores, 21 W. R., 297 (1874). [Sust by munor to set sadicalenation by guardian; parchase-money applied to munor's hearth refund by munor of the parchase-money less the rents and profits received], Stillor Chard v. Displayti Sary, 5 C., 233 (1879), 5 C. L. R., 374 (Sale by guardian number Act XI. of 1888)

(2) Kults Mannadayar v. Payanu Muthan, 3 M. 238 (1881) As to the evidence required where their has been a loan for family purposes, see Kraina v. Fander, 21 B. 808 (1890).

<sup>(1)</sup> Hunooman Perehad v. Museumut Babooee, 6 Mon I. A , 425 (1856) , Radha Kribore v Mirtoonjoy Gow, 7 W R , 23 (1867) , Field's Evidence Act, 472, Kameswar Pershad v. Ram Bahadoor, 8 L A, 8 (1890); 6 C, 843, 8 C. L R, 361 (Their Lordships said that they had applied these principles to the case of a manager of an infant, alienations by a widow, and to transactions in which a father, in derogation of the rights of his son under the Mitakshara law, has made an abenation of ancestral family estate] , Mudden Mohun v Kantoo Lail, L R., 1 I. A , 333 (1874). 14 B. L. R., 187, 22 W. R., 56. [Decree is evidence of necessity to protect a purchaser at an execution-sale]; Bu:rung Sahoy v. Manira Choudrain, 22 W. R., 119 (1874); Roop Norman v Gungathur Pershad, 9 W. R., 297 (1868), Nund Coomar v. Gunga Perehad, 10 W. R., 94 (1898) : Loaloo Singh v. Papendra Laha, 8 W. R., 964 (1867). Idoorun Euse v. Sahebrader, 6 W. R., 149 (1866)

In the undermentioned case(I) estate of a Hindu family, in which, after the death of the father and his widow, a daughter held an interest for life, comprised a family trade, carried on by a manager on her account. It was held that the case of a widow or daughter under such circumstances differs from that of the manager or head of an undivided family who manages an ancestral trade. It is for the plaintiff to state and prove all that will give validity to the charge. The principles laid down in Hunooman Pershad Panday's case apply to the alienation of property by the de facto manager of a Hindu endowment (2) In a suit for possession of land in virtue of a pottah issued by the eldest members of a joint Hindu family where the other members dispute the claim on the ground that the lessor, as one of a joint family, could not give title to the whole of the land, the onus of proving the eldest brother's right to give such title is on the plaintiff.(3)

Property devoted to religious purposes is, as a rule, inalienable, but it is Hindu Lawcompetent for the schatt of property dedicated to the worship of an idol in his by sebalt. capacity as schatt and manager of the estate to incur debts and borrow money for the proper expenses of keeping up the religious worship, repairing the temples or other possessions of the idol, defending hostile litigious attacks, and other like objects. The power to incur such debts must be measured by the existing necessity for incurring them (4) The authority of the schait of an idol's estate would appear to be in this respect analogous to that of the manager of an infant heir, defined in the case of Hunooman Pershad v. Munraj Koonweree (5) Judgments obtained against a former sebatt in respect of debts so incurred are binding on succeeding scharts (6)

Where it is contended that property has been inalienably conferred upon HinduLaw: an idol to sustain its worship, the onus probandi lies upon the person who sets Inheritan up this case (7) Where the possession of the legal heir after the death of the widow is prevented and the usual course of inheritance changed on the ground of an adoption having been made, the onus is upon the party setting up that title against the entrance of the legal heir to prove the adoption, both as regards the power of the adopter to adopt and as regards the fact of the adoption, if it be questioned and not upon the heir suing to prove its invalidity, even though he alleged fraud and adduced no evidence in support of it (8) Adop-

<sup>(1)</sup> Sham Sundar v Achkan Kuar, 21 A , 71

<sup>(2)</sup> Sheo Shanlar v Ram Shewal, 24 C. 77 (1896),

<sup>(3)</sup> Nuronath Doss v. Goda Kelita, 20 W R., 342 (1873)

<sup>(4)</sup> Mayne's Hindu Law, § 397 . Prosunno Kumars v Golap Chund, 14 B L R , 450, 458 (1875), s c., 2 I A . 145 , Kalee Churn v Banehee Mohun, 15 W R , 339 (1871) , Khusalchand v Mahadergers, 12 Bom H C , 214 (1875), Fegredo v Mahomed, 15 W R., 75 (1871), Radha Bulluth v. Jaggut Chunder, 4 Sel R , 151; Shibessourre Debia v Mothogranath Athartee, 13 Moo 1 A. 270 (1869), s c, 13 W R (P C), 18 (1869), Juggenear Buttobyal v Roodra Narain, 12 W R, 299 (1869); Tabhoonissa v Koomar Sham, 15 W R , 228 (1871) . Arruth Misser v Juggernath Indraswamee, 18 W. R., 439 (1872) . Mohunt Burm V. Kashee Jha, 20 W. R., 471 (1872) Bunware Chund v. Mudden Mohun, 21 W. R , 41 (1873); Narayan v. Chintaman, 5 B., 393 (1881); Cd. Lector of Thana v. Hart Staram, 6 B., 546, 554

<sup>(1882)</sup> Shunlar Bharats v Venlapa Nasl, 9 B., 422 (1885). Joy Lall . Gosain Bhochun, 21 W R . 334 (1874)

<sup>(5) 6</sup> Moo I A, 393 at p 423 (1856), Keenwar Doorganath v. Ram Chunder, 4 I. A , 52 61

<sup>(1876), ..</sup> c, 2 C, 341 (6) Prosunno Kumarı v. Golub Chund, 14 B.

L. R., 450 (1875) . L. R., 2 I. A., 145 (7) Koonwur Doorganath v Ram Chunder, 4

<sup>1</sup> A , 52, 61 (1876) , s c., 2 C , 341. (8) Tarine Charan v Saroda Sundare, 3 B L.

R (A C), 145, 159 (1869), s. c, 11 W. R., 368 Bissessur Chuckerbutty v. Ram Joy, 2 W. R., 326 (1865) . Ramprotap Misser v 4bhilak Misser, 3 C L R (1878), and see Hur Dyal v. Roy Kreshlo. 24 W R , 107 (1875); [Deals with objection that a 110, post, might apply , Choudkey Herasutdlah v Brojo Soondur, 18 W. R., 77 (1872)1. [Factum of adoption admitted]; but see also as to fraud; Gooroo Prossunno v. Nu Madhat, 21 W. R , 84 (1873). Helar Dasi v. Durga Das Mundal, 4 C. L. J., 323.

tion must be strictly proved, and the party who claims as an adopted son must establish by evidence (a) the authority given by the husband to adopt a son to him; (b) his actual adoption as the son of the husband (1) The fact of adoption being admitted and its validity impugned on the ground of incapacity on the part of the adopted son, it is for the party so impugning the validity of the adoption to establish the alleged incapacity.(2) In a suit brought to set aside an adoption on the allegation that adoption is forbidden by the custom of the caste to which the parties belong, the onus of proving such custom 19 on the plaintiff.(3) See further section 114, post, sub. voc. "Adoption." If a plaintiff sues as reversionary heir during the lifetime of the widow for a declaration that an adoption is invalid, the onus is on him to prove the invalidity.(4) Where a plaintiff sues to set aside certain title-deeds, some evidence ought to be given by the plaintiff to impeach the deeds: it is not sufficient for him to prove heirship, nor by so doing can he throw the burden of showing a better title on the defendant. (5) If a plaintiff institutes a suit as collateral heir, the onus is on him to prove his title through the common ancestor in all its stages (6) Where the rule of succession as sebait laid down by the endower of a religious institution was not clear and there was no established usage, the onus was held to be on the person claiming the proprrty as sebat, to make out his claim (7) In a suit by a Hindu widow for a moiety of ' husband defendant

defendant set up a vasceutnamah or will (10) The Government claiming lands as an escheat, which are admittedly in the possession of the party claiming as heir, must show by proof that the last proprietors died without heir. They are in the same position as a plaintiff in an ordinary suit for ejectment and must prove their title (10) The natural heirs of a Hindu, who has been taken as illutam into another, family, are primal lacte entitled to succeed to the property acquired by the deceased by vitue of his illutam marriage, and the onus of proving any special circumstances to rebut this claim lies on the persons, who raise this plea (11) There is no inconsistency between a custom of impartibility and the right of females to inherit. The fact of there being a custom of impartibility in respect of family property does not take it outside the common law, and cannot cast the burden of proving the existence of any particular right, as of females to take by inheritance, upon those who maintain it; for where a custom is proved to exist it only so far supersedes the general law, which, however, still regulates all outside the custom. (12)

Choudhry Pudum v. Koer Oodey, 12 Moo. I. A., 350 (1869).

<sup>(2)</sup> Kusum Kumari v. Salya Ranjan, 30 C., 999 (1903), 7 C. W N., 784.

<sup>(3)</sup> Verabhas Ajubhai v. Bai Hiraba, 7 C. W. N., 716 (1903).

N., 716 (1903).
(4) Brojo Kishoree v. Sreenath Bose, 8 W. R., 463, 467 (1868); Asharfi Kunwar v. Rup Chand, <sup>(5)</sup> Tacoordeen Tewares v. Hossein Khan, L. R., 1 I. A., 192 (1874); s. c., 13 B. L. R., 427; 21 W.

 R., 310

<sup>(6)</sup> KnJarnath Doss v. Protob Chunder, 8 C. L. R., 233 (1890); s. c., 6 C., 626; Kals Mishore v. Ehuman Chunder, 18 C., 201 (1890), s. c., 17 J. A. 159.

<sup>(7)</sup> Janek Deli v Gopal Acharji, 9 C., 766 (1892): s. c., 13 C. L. R., 30; Muttu Ramalinga Sctupati, I.I. A., 200 (1874); fa zemudac claiming a customary right to grant confirmation of the election of a mohunt must prove the customing and the election of a mohunt must prove the customing Rammulan Bar & Bannalez Bars, I Sci. Rep. 170 (1806), Genda Para v. Chhaiur Pura, 13 I. A., 100 (1886); s. c., 9 A. 1 [The only law to be observed is to be found in custom and practice, which must be proved)

<sup>(8)</sup> Nullit Chunder v. Bugola Sonnduree, 21 W. R. 249 (1874).

A. R., 249 (1874). (9) Sulcomut Bibee v. Waris Ali, 22 W. R..

<sup>400 (1874).
(10)</sup> Grvihari Lall v. Government of Bengal, '

W. R., 31; s c., 1 B. L. R. (P. C.), 44 (1868 (11) Ramakristna v. Subbakka, 12 M., 442 (1889)

<sup>(12)</sup> Ram Nundun v. Maharani Janki, 7 C. W. N., 57 (1992).

Ancestral property which descends to a father under the Mitakshara law Hindu Law. is not exempted from liability to pay his debts because a son is born to him : by father. ancestral property in which the son as the son of his father acquires an interest by birth is liable to the father's debt : if, however, the debt of the father has been contracted for an immoral purpose or is of a ready-money character for which no credit is or ought to be given,(1) the son would not be under any prior obligation to pay it and might object to the ancestral property being made liable for such a debt.(2) As regards what are immoral or improper debts ;(3) it has been held that " sons are not compellable to pay sums due by their father for spirituous liquors, losses at play, or for promises made without consideration or under the influence of lust or wrath, debts due for tolls or fines Ibeing ready-money payments for which credit will have been given at the risk of him by whom they ought to have been received, ](4) nor generally any debt for a cause repugnant to good morals (5) The Mithila law is the same: a son cannot, under the Mithila law, set aside the sale of ancestral property by his father for the discharge of the father's debt and oust the purchaser. Freedom on the part of the son, as far as regards ancestral property, from the obligation to discharge the father's debts can be successfully pleaded only by a consideration of the invalid nature of the debts incurred (6) In the above case where the share of the father in the family dwelling-house had been attached by execution under a decree obtained on a bond executed by the father, it was held that the onus probands lay on the son who, on coming of age, brought the suit to recover, not his share, but the schole property Similarly in another case.(7) where the plaintiff attained his majority seven or eight years before he took any steps to set this purchase aside. As regards the onus of proof that assets have come to the hands of the heir, it has been laid down by the Madras High Court that in a suit against an heir for debts of his ancestor, in the absence of special circumstances, the onus is on the plaintiff in the first instance to give such evidence as would prima facie afford reasonable grounds for an inference that assets had or ought to have come to the hands of the defendant; when

(1) Stra. H. L., 166 (2) Girdhares Lall v Kan'oo Lall, 1 I A , 321 (1874) followed, Innes and Muttusamy Aver. Jf., dissenting in Ponnappa Pillai v Pappurayyanjar, 4 M., 1 (1891), and in Sirasanlara Mudali v Purvati Aneri, 4 M , 96 (1891) . see also Nanomi Babuasin v Modhun Mohun, 13 C , 21 (1885) 13 I A . 1 . Deendyal Lall . Jugdeep Narain, 4 1 A., 247 (1877) Bhugbut Pershad v Girja Koer, 15 C , 717 (1889) , Pannappa Pillas v Pappurayyangar, 9 M., 343 (1885), 15 I A., 99 Sita Ram v. Zalim Singh, 8 A., 231 (1886), Lol Singh v Den Narain, 8 A , 279 (1886) Jamna v Nata Sulh, 9 A , 493 (1887) , Badri Prasad v Madan Lal, 15 A., 75 (1893), Jagabhas Lalubhas v. 1 13 Bhukandas, 11 B , 37 (1886), Chintamanrao Mehendale v Kashinath, 14 B , 320 (1889). Babu Singh v. Behart Lal, 30 A , 156 proof of father being man of immoral and extravagant habits not enough) Khalilul Rahman v Golind Parshad, 20 C., 328 (1892), Baba v. Tumma, 7 M , 357 (1883), Collector of Monghyr v Hurdas Narain, 5 C , 425, 433 (1879) , see also contra Sadabart Prayad v Foolbash Korr, 3 B. L. R. (F. Bn ), 31 (1869), and Deendyal Lal v. Jugdeep Narass, 4 I. A., 247 (1877), see also Sura, Bunei v. Sheo Proshad, 6 I A., 88 (1878),

s. c., 5 C., 148; see also Seraganga v. Labshmana,

9 M , 195 (1885), Jamsety, v Kashinath, 26 B , 326 (1901) (3) As to immoral debts, see Budree Lall v. Kantee Lall, 23 W. R., 260 (1875) Luchmee Das v Ashman Singh, 25 W R , 421 (1876) , s. c , 2 C . 213 . Wased Hossein v Nankoo Singh, 25 W. R . 311 (1876) , Sita Ram v Zalim Singh, 8 A., 231 (1886) , Mahabir Proshad v Bashdeo Singh. 6 A , 234 (1884), (a debt which was a mere . money-decree against the father personally and not a debt which it was the duty of the sons to pay), Pareman Dass v Bhattro Mahton, 24 C., 672 (1897), McDowell v Ragara Chetts, 27 M. 71 (1903)

(4) Stra. H. L , 166 , see also Mayne's Hindu Law, § 279, Colebrooke's Digest of Hindu Law. 304, 307 and 309

(5) Mahabir Prasad v. Bardeo Singh, 6 A , 234

(6) Girdharee Lall v Kantoo Lall, 1 I. A , 321

(1874).

(7) Adurmon: Dev: v. Chowdhry, 3 C., 1 (1877); see also Sura; Buns: v. Sheo Prashad/6 L. A., 88. (1878), Lekhra, Ra. v. Mahtab Chand, 14 Moo. I. A., 393 (1871) , 10 B. L. R., 42. (Where fraud and collusion were alleged by plaintiff); Hanuman Singh v. Nanak Chand, 6 A., 193 (1884)..

they have done this the onus is then on the defendant to show that the amount of such assets is not sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's claim or that he was not entitled to be satisfied out of them, or that there were no assets, or that they had been disposed of in satisfaction of other claims (1) The general result of these cases would seem, therefore, to be that under the Mitakshara law a son is always liable for his father's debts, and cannot set aside an alienation for these debts, unless they have been contracted for an immoral and improper purpose. It is not, however, sufficient to show merely that the father was a person of extravagant or immoral habits. The onus is on the son to establish some connection between the debt and the father's immorabiles (2) son seeks to get rid of the effect as against his interests in the joint family property of a decree on a mortgage executed by his father obtained in a suit to which he was not made a party, the burden of proof lies on him to establish that the mortgagee when he brought his suit had notice of his interests in the mortgaged property.(3) Whether the alienation has taken place at a sale in execution of a decree obtained against the father, or whether the debt was one antecedent to the sale, (4) or merely one antecedent to the suit, is immaterial. But in those cases, where a person buys ancestral estate, or takes a mortgage of it from the father whom he knows to have only a limited interest in it for a sum of ready-money paid down at the time of the transaction, in a suit by the son to avoid it he must establish that he made all reasonable and fair enquire before effecting the sale or mortgage, and that he was satisfied by such inquiry and believed, in paying his money that it was required for the legal necessities of the joint family in respect of which the father, as head and managing member, could deal with and bind the joint ancestral estate. (5) A Hindu father ity; burden of proof on plaintiff to show that debt was mourred for illegal or immoral purposel. Ambica Prosad v. Ram Sahay, 8 C , 898 (1881) . 10 C. L. R., 505; see also Sheo Parshad v. Jung Bahadur, 9 C., 389 (1882) : Ram Dutt v. Mahender Prosad, 9C., 452 (1892); s c., 12 C. L. R., 494. and similar case Paso Koer v. Hurry Duss, 9 C . 495 (1882) , s. c , 12 C. L. R., 292 : Jointhan Lal v Raghubir Pershad, 12 C L R , 255 (1883): Stianath Koer v. Land Mortgage Bank. 9 C., 888 : s. c., 12 C. L. R , 574 (1883); Jumoona Pershad v. Deg Narain, 10 C , 1 (1883); Doorga Pershad v. Kesho Perehad, 11 C. L. R. (P. C.), 210 (1882) (Liability of infant); Gangules v. Ancha Bapulu, 4 M , 73 (1881) [Where the sale is disputed by a coparcener (not a sou), ruling in Girdharee Lal's case is not applicable, and purchaser must show that the debts existed at time of sale and that debts were such as were incumbent on the muor to discharge.] Sundraraia Avyengar v. Joganada Pillas, 4 M., 111 (1881); Gurusams Chetti v. Sadasıva Chetta, 5 M . 37 (1881); Vellysammal v. Katha Chette, 5 M., 61 (1881) (Where purchaser at sale under decree against father has not possession of the whole property, son cannot recover his share without proving that debt for which decree was made, was illegal or immorall. Subramaniyayyan v. Subramaniyayyan, 5 M., 125 (1879) (Elder of two brothers during minority of younger renewed mortgage executed by father for purposes neither illegal nor immeral Suit by mortgagee against elder brother; decree;

sale in execution. Mimor son not bound and en-

Kottola Dpri v. Shangara Forma, 3 Mad.
 L. C., 161 (1866); et a also Joogul Kishore v. Kalee Chura, 25 W. R., 224 (1876); Mayne's Hindu Law, § 277.

<sup>(2)</sup> Hanuman Singh v. Nonak Chand, 6 A., 193 (1884); Sila Ram v. Zalim Singh, 8 A., 121 (1886); Sadoshi v. Dinlar, 6 B., 520 (1883); Ramphul Singh v. Dep Narein, 8 C., 517 (1881); Ram Nath v. Luchman Rai, 21 A., 193, 194 (1899); Kasan Sund v. Hugh Singh, 27 A., 18

<sup>(3)</sup> Ram Nath v. Lachman Ray, 21 A., 193 (1899)

<sup>(4)</sup> Ludman Dass v. Girdhur Chordhy, 5. C., 855 (1880), Lalyee Sahoy v. Faler Chand, 6 C., 135 (1880); ree also Upcorcop Testery v. Lalla Bandhire, 6 C., 749 (1881); Arnandrak Chili v. Musermi Medali, 7 M., 39 (1882); Hanuman Kemai v. Iburloi Munder, 10 C., 528 (1884)

<sup>(3)</sup> Lel Steph v. Ion Narous, 8 A, 279 (1889); ex- also James v. Nara Sukh, 9 A, 490 (1887). See also on the whole subject, the following excess Hammon Dati v. Kidata Kuhene (1807); 8 P. Le. B., 358, Metabeter Persad v. Romapad Sungh, 12 B. J. R., 100 (1873); Parada Narois v. Hammon Sobie, 5 C., 832 (1894); Luchman Dasa v. (amediar Chandlery, 5 C., 883 (1894); Elsyni followed by franga Prasad v. Ayadhar Prasad, 8 C., 121 (1881), 9 C. R. H., 477; Gobratha Lell v. Stargerer Pall, 7 C., 42 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1762 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Chand, 27 C., 1891 (1891); Surpa Prasad v. Grade Ch in order to satisfy such of his debts as would be binding on his heirs, can sell the entirety of the family property so as to pass even his son's interest therein, but it lies on him, who seeks to bind an infant, to prove justifying circumstances.(1)

In a suit against an insolvent and the Official Assignce for the sale of mort-Insolvency. gaged property, the onus is on the plaintiff to prove that title-deeds in his possession after the insolvency were deposited with him as security before the adjudication (2)

The following provisions contained in a prospectus to which a Policy was Insurance. made subject " Age admitted in the Company's policy in all cases where proof is given satisfactory to the directors. Proof of age can be furnished, at any time; if not furnished, it will be necessary on settlement of claim "-impose on the assured or '-- the Company can lifetime of the as not fall within any of those exceptions.(5)

no further proof v thrown on the Company (3) but in the absence of such evidence and of such admission it hes upon those claiming upon the policy by reasonable proof to satisfy the Court as to the age of the assured (4) When a person sues on a policy of insurance which contains certain exceptions in the event of which the assurers are not liable, it lies upon the plaintiff to prove that the loss does

It is for the person who claims an exclusive privilege under the Inventions inventions.

Act (V of 1888) and is in possession of the facts which, in his opinion, entitle him to that exclusive privilege, to show that those facts exist.(6) "Proprietors of land in the Bengal Presidency are concerned with two Lakhirat.

classes of lakhtra; or revenue-free grants of land, viz (a) Grants made previous to the 1st December 1790, and not exceeding one hundred bighas, the revenue of which (when adjudged invalid) was, by the sixth section of Ben. Reg. XIX of 1793, made over to the persons responsible for the discharge of the revenue of the estate within the limits of which the lands are situate. The gift of this revenue was an act of liberality on the part of Government, inasmuch as these (18%) (hability of grandsons to pay interest on their grand-fathers dobts] Pareman Dass v. Bhattu Makton 24 (* 672 (1897) Inc antecedent debt) McDonell v Ragara Chetts, 27 M. 71 ttur Sangh v Thakar Sangh (1908), 35 C., 1039 & Babu Nongh v Behars Lal., 30 A.

(1) Jameel , Tata v Kashenath, 26 B. 326 (1901)

(2) Willer v. Wadho Das, 23 I. A., 106 (1896). (3) In Oriental Government etc., Insurance Co. Narasimbha Chari, 25 M 204 (1901) Bus sharam Aryangar, J. was of opinion that such admission would preclude the company from producing evidence to disprove the age as admitted. (4) The Oriental Government, etc., Company v. Sarat Chandra 20 B., 99 (1895) Referred to in The Oriental Government, etc. ('o , Ld v. Narann ka Chard, 25 M., 183 (1901).

(5) Aga Syud v Hayee Jackanah, 2 Ital, Jury A. S., 308 (1867)

(6) Elgin Mills Co v. Muir Mills Co 17 A. 490 (1895).

paying his share of the mortgage-debt) Guru sams Sastrial v Ganapathia Pulas 5 M 117 (1879) (Suit against father for specific performance of contract to sell ancestral property proof of necessity must be required). Mutayan Chetts v Sangils Lien, 9 1 4 , 128 s. c. 6 M., I (1882). (Interest which sem takes by heritage from father is liable as assets by descent for payment of father's debts) lessmandra Sitaramasami v Nidatana Sanyasi 6 M. 400 (1883) (No proof that mortgage-debt contracted by father was for necessary purposes ) Phul Chand v Han Singh, 4 4 309 (1882) Where whilt son was aware of mortgage by father for necessary purpose and did not protest held son could not succeed unless he could show debt was for illigal or immoral purpose) Ujagar Singh v. Pilam Singh, 81 A , 190 (1881) Hardey Narous v Rooder Perkash, 11 1 A 26 (1883); Ramalrishna v Anmasiraya 7 M. 275 (1884). As to "family necessity," see Balage Mahadan v. Areshwan Devis, 2 B , 666 (1878) See also Luchman Das v. Khunnu Lal, 19 4, 26 titled to recover his share of property without grants had been expressly excluded from the decennial and permanent settlements. The former lakhira; holder was not dispossessed, but was allowed to hold the land as a dependant talut, subject to the payment of revenue. (b) Grants made after the 1st December 1790 and whether exceeding or under one hundred bighas. These grants (unless made by the Governor-General in Council) were declared to be in all cases null and void, and as they had been included within the limits of permanently-settled estates, the proprietors of such estates were, by the tenth section of the Ben. Reg. XIX of 1793 authorized and required to dispossess the alleged grantees, annex the lands to their estates and collect the rents thereof. With respect to the first class, proprietors were expressly required by law (section 11, Reg. XIX of 1793) to institute suits in the Civil Courts for the recovery of the revenue made over to them by Government. With respect to the second class, proprietors were formerly allowed to dispossess the alleged revenue-free-holders, but the difficulty of doing so induced resort to the Courts in those cases also , and finally, this resort was made compulsory section 28 of Act X of 1859.

There is, however, an important difference as regards the burden of proof in each class of cases. In the first class of cases, where the allegation is that the lakktraj tenure was created before the 1st December 1790, the onus probandi, in a suit for resumption of title, lies on the alleged lakktrajdar or person setting up the revenue-free title (2). If a person claims under a lakktraj grant made since 1st December 1790, this will be a conclusive bar to a suit for resumption, although the suit may be brought within twelve years; (3) but the zemindars' right to revenue is still subject to the twelve years' rule of limitation.(4)

In the second class of cases, where the allegation is that the lakhiraj tenure was created after the 1st December 1790, the onus probandilies on the zemindar or proprietor to show that the land claimed as lakhiraj is part of his mal or rent-paying estate, and was assessed with the public revenue at the time of the decennial settlement (5) Where the plaintift was the representative of an auction-purchaser at a sale for arrears of Government revenue and the suit was commenced within twelve years from the date of the purchase the onus of proof was on the plaintiff to show that the lands were not lakhiraj (6) This segmentally done by showing that rent has been paid for the land in question at some time since December 1790 (7) The mere fact that lands fall within the geographical limits of an estate does not of itself show that such land is mal land (8) But lands situated within the limits of a zemindari are primá facte considered to be a part of such zemindari, and those who alleged that they are entitled to have any such lands settled as a separate shikmi table falls much make

<sup>(1)</sup> Field's Evulence Act, 481, and see Field's Regulations, 36, 245-261

<sup>(2)</sup> Ho, Omesh Chauder v. Duthma Soundry, W. R., Sp. No., 03 (1869); Radialrands Singh v. Radha Nurgh; Sev Rep. Aug — Dec. (1863). 365; Lella Sheddal v. Shridi Ghdem, Marth Rep. 255 (1861); set also Heres Lell v. Britshase, Data v. Coccolomone Dates, 8 C., 230 (1881); s. v., 10 C. L. R. 41.

<sup>(3)</sup> Act XIV of 1859, s. 1, cl. 14; Sristeedhur Sawmel v. Romanath Robhit, 6 W. R., 58 (1868); Sheikh Sahab v. Lala Bissesnar, 1 W. R., 110 (1884).

<sup>(4)</sup> See Field's Evulence Act, 481, see also Forbes v Meer Mahomed, 20 W. R., 44 (1873); and Act XIV of 1839, s 1, cl. 14; Act IX of

<sup>1908,</sup> Art 130

<sup>(5)</sup> B.; Hurryher Mukhopodhya v Madhab Chunder, 14 Moo I. A, 152 (1871); s c., 8 B. L R., 565; 20 W R., 459, Parboti Chora v. Rojervika Mockeyre, B. L R., 509 Vol., F. B., 162, 145 (1865), Mahomed Alber v. Relly, 21 W. R., 445 (1875), Sandon Ghoet v. Aldod Turnb, 2 W. R., 205 (1865); Kdud Chunder v. Poorna Chender, 2 W. R., 258 (1865)

<sup>(6)</sup> Erfanoonnussa v. Pearce Mohun, 25 W. R., 209 (1876), 1 C, 378

<sup>(7)</sup> Beharet Lall v Kales Doss, 8 W. R., 451 (1867). Shumdan Als v. Mathooranath Dutt, 14 W. R., 226 (1870)

<sup>(8)</sup> Bishnath Choudhry v. Radha Churn, 20 W. R., 465 (1872); and see Sheikh Milan v. Mahomed Ali, 10 C. W. N., 434.

out this title.(1) In a question of boundary between a lakhiraj tenure and a zemindar's mal land, there is no presumption one way or the other, but the onus is on the plaintiff to prove his case.(2) If an alleged lakhirajdar institutes a suit for a declaration of title, the burden of proof is on him to prove his title, and no proof of possession (unless it be carried beyond 1790) will shift the burden to the zemindar.(3) Where the zemindar had already ousted the alleged lakhirajdar without resorting to the Courts, and the latter instituted a suit to recover possession, it was held that as the zemindar had no right to oust the lakhirajdar, unless the lakhiraj was created subsequently to 1st December 1790, the burden of proof was on the zemindar to prove that the lakhiraj was created subsequently to that date. To decide otherwise would be to allow the zemindar by his own wrongful act to shift the burden of proof.(4) Under section 87 of the Land Revenue Act (XIX of 1873, N.-W. P.), any person claiming land free of revenue, which is not recorded as revenue free, is bound to prove his title to hold such land free of revenue.(5)

When a public body seeks under the Land Acquisition Act to acquire any Land Acquisition portion of a block of buildings which is structurally connected with the main work, the onus is on that body to show that the portion is not "reasonably required by the full and unimpaired use of the house."(6)

When the question is whether persons are landlords and tenants, and it Landlord and tenant. has been shown that they have been acting as such, the burden of proving that they do no stand or have ceased to stand in that relationship, is on the person, who affirms it. (Section 109, post.) As to the tenant's estoppel, see section 116, post; and as to estoppels affecting the landlord, see section 115, post. Where defendants admit the ownership of the land to be with the plaintiff but claim to hold possession of it as tenants, the onus lies upon them (7) The burden of proving that a tenure has been held at a fixed and invariable rent for a period of twelve years antecedent to the permanent settlement in suit by a zemindar for enhancement of rent lies on the defendant, the tenureholder (8) But there the taluk is found to be a dependent taluk within the meaning of section 51, Reg VII of 1793, the burden rests upon the plaintiff zemindar to show that the rent is variable (9) In another case it was laid down that there is no presumption that any tenure held is not a transferable tenure and the person alleging it must prove it :(10) but in a subsequent case(11) where the plaintiff sued to recover possession, as part of his putni estate of a ryoti holding sold in execution of decree and purchased by the defendant, the onus was thrown on the defendant to prove that the ryoti tenure was of a per-

<sup>(1)</sup> Wise v Bhoobun Moyee, 10 Moo I A, 165 (1863), s. c , 3 W. R , P. C , 5 , Nastarinee v. Kalipershad Dass, 23 W R , 431 (1875), see also Purseedh Nargin v Bissessur Dyal, 7 W. R., 148 (1867) (Suit by a zemmdar for declaration that land sold in execution as lakhira; was his mail land) (2) Beer Chunder v Ram Gutty, 8 W R . 209 (1867); see also Mahabeer Persad v Oomrao Sing, 1 All. H C, 167, Tareence Persad v Kalicharan Ghosh, Marsh. Rep., 215 (1862).

<sup>(3)</sup> Ram Jeebun v Perehad Shar, 7 W R , 458 (1867).

<sup>(4)</sup> Mun Mohinee v. Joykissen Mookerjee, W. R , Sp No., 174 (1864); see also Joykrashen Moolerjee v. Pearce Mohun, 8 W. R., 160 (1867) . Sheild Goburdhun v Sheild Tofail, 6 W R , 190 (1866): Wooma Soonduree v Kunhoree Mohun. 8 W. R., 238 (1867).

<sup>(5)</sup> See Field's Evidence Act, p 482, and see for further information on Lakhira; Tenures. Field's Bengal Regulation, pp 36, 345-361 See now N .W. P Aat III of 1901

<sup>(6)</sup> Venkatarainam Naudu v Collector of Godavart, 27 M , 350 (1903).

<sup>(7)</sup> Narsing Narain v Dharam Thakur, 9 C. W N., 144 (1904) at p 146, dist Nauab Tarascep

v Behars Lal, 9 C W , N clx (1905) faut for declaration of Khud Kasht right.] (8) Gopal Lal Thakur v Tilak Chandra, 10

Moo. I A, 183 (1865) . s c, 3 W R, P C, L (9) Bamascondery Dassyah v Radhika Choudhrma, 13 Moo. I A , 248 (1869) , s. c , 4 B. L.

R. P. C. S. 13 W R (P. C), 11. (10) Doya Chand v Anund Chunder, 14 C., 82

<sup>(1887).</sup> (11) Kripamoyi Dabia v. Durga Gobind, 15 C.,

<sup>89 (1887).</sup>

manent and transferable nature. When a ryot holds lands of considerable extent under a zemindar and alleges that one or two plots are held under a different title, the burden of proving this allegation is thrown on him ;(1) and similarly if a ryot, who has paid rent for several years, pleads that he has got possession of a portion only of the lands demised, the onus lies on him to prove this allegation (2) In a suit by a kabulayatdar khot to recover rent, the onus is on the holder of the khoti land to show that he is exempted from paying rent according to the custom of the country.(3) The mere fact that a tenant some time ago gave a kabulayat for a limited period at a particular rate of rent is not sufficient in itself to throw upon the defendant the entire burden of proving what the present rent is, without any evidence on the part of the landlord that the rent specified in the kabulyat had ever been realized from him (4) The property in trees growing in a tenant's holding is, by the general law, vested in the zemindar, and a tenant is not entitled in the absence of special custom, the burden of proving which is on him, to cut down and sell such trees (5) The decision of a survey-officer as to tenure is under the Khoti Settlement Act (I of 1800, Bom. C.), binding until reversed or modified by decree of Court. and the burden of proof in such case lies upon the party seeking to vary the decision (6) The possession by the defendant of a tenure of limited extent within the plaintiff's putni raises no presumption of title upon his seizure of a piece of land and claiming it as part of his tenure. The onus hes upon the defendant to prove that the land was included in his molurari holding and not upon the plaintiff to show that it was not (7) In a suit for electment where the defendant sets up a permanent tenancy the onus is upon the defendant to show this (8) A landlord who makes an increase of rent for increase of area must show the necessary circumstances justifying a decree (9)

Landlord and tenant : Enhancement of rent

In a suit for enhancement of cent, the burden of proof is on the landlord who seeks to disturb the previously existing arrangement (10). And it has been recently held that section 91 does not prevenents in consideration of which the consideration did not constitute a term of

But where the tenant pleade that a portion of the land held by him and sought to be enhanced is held rent free, the onus is on him to prove this allegation (12) Where the defendant claimed to held as a dependent taluk, the onus was held to be on the zemindar to show that the land was included in the zemindari at the time of the permanent settlement (13) In a suit to recover arears of rent at enhanced rates, the onus of proving both the quantity and the rates is upon the plaintiff and not upon the defendant (14) The onus of proving what is the proper rate is also upon the plaintiff (15) But, where the plaintiff, who claimed

<sup>(1)</sup> Ram Coomer v. Beejoy Govend, 7 W. R., 535 (1867)

<sup>(2)</sup> Ben: Madhub v Sridhur Deb, 10 C. L. R., 555 (1881)

<sup>(3)</sup> Muhammad Yakaub v. Muhammad Isnaul, 9 Bom. H. C. R. 278 (1872)

<sup>9</sup> Bom. H. C. R., 218 (1812)
(4) Mukunda Chundra v. Arpan Ali, 2 C. W.

<sup>(4)</sup> Makunda Chunara v. Arpan Rh, 2 C. W. N., 47 (1897) (5) Kausalia v. Gulab Kour, 21 A., 297 (1899).

A tenant at fixed rates having a transferable right in his holding the presumption is that the trees standing thereon are the property of the tenant. Harbane Lal v. Makarajah of Benares, 23 A. 126 (1900).

 <sup>(6)</sup> Madhabrao v. Deonak, 21 B, 695 (1896).
 (7) Nanda Lol Gosteami v Jagneswar Holdar.

<sup>5</sup> C. W. N., cecin (1901)

<sup>(8)</sup> Ismall Khan v. Aghore Nath, 7 C. W. N.,

<sup>734 (1903)</sup> As to the facts which raise a presumption of permanency, see notes to 8 114

<sup>(9)</sup> Gours Paira v Redey, 20 C., 579 (1892) Ratan Lall v Jody Halsana, 10 C. W. N. 46 (1905), Ishan Chandra Mitter v Rameranjan

Chuckerbutty, 3 C. L. J., 25
(10) Mirza Mahomed v. Radha Roman, 4 W.

R. (Act X), 18 (1865)

<sup>(11)</sup> Probad Chandra Ganrapadhya v. Cherag Ali (1906), 11 C. W. N., 62

<sup>(12)</sup> New j Bundapadhya v, Kals Prosanna, 6 C, 543 (1880), s c, 8 C L R., 6. Gorsada Priya v. Ithatan Dhupi, 4 C. L J., 37.

<sup>(13)</sup> Assanullah v. Bussoret Al., 10 C., 920 (1884). (14) Gram Al. v Tapre, 1 W. R., 56 (1864).

W. R., 85.
 Sumera Khatoon v. Tagore, 1 W. B., 58

<sup>(1861).</sup>

a bhaoli rent at the rate of nine annas of the crop, proved that in the mauzah in question the ryots paid rent at that rate, it was held that the onus was on the defendants, who alleged that the rate was eight annas, to prove their allegation (1) When in answer to a suit for enhanced rent of a taluk, the existence of which as an ancient taluk is undoubted, it is pleaded that the rent has not been changed since the permanent settlement and is not liable to enhancement, the onus is on the defendant to prove that he has held at an uniform rent for twenty years and when he has discharged this burden of proof, it lies upon the landlord to prove that the rent has varied since the permanent settlement (2)

If in a suit for arrears of rent, the defendant claims an abatement on the Landord ground that a portion of the land has been diluviated, the onus of proving such Remission. diluvion is on him (3) So also where the defendant, in a like suit, alleges that there has been a remission of rent, the onus is on him to prove it.(4) Where a shareholder sues for a fractional portion of the rent, and it is alleged that the entire rent is payable together, the onus is on him to show that he is entitled to payment of the fractional portion separately.(5)

In a suit for ejectment the burden is on the tenant to prove that the tenure Landlord and tenant is permanent (6) A ryot(7) or a tenure-holder(8) claiming protection from Ejectment. ejectment under the proviso to section 37, Act XI of 1859, or cultivating tenants seeking to protect themselves from ejectment on the ground that their tenure is of a " permanent character "(9) are bound to prove the grounds on which they claim protection. Where a third party intervenes in a suit for rent, himself claiming the rent, the onus is on him to prove actual receipt and enjoyment.(10) A person alleging that land is held by him as sir or proprietor's private land must prove it.(11) As under the Tenancy Act a landlord has a right to eject a tenant whose holding consists entirely of sir land, the burden of proving the existence of a special contract under which he is entitled to resist ejectment has on the tenant (12) In a suit for arrears of rent and ejectment for non-payment where defendant challenged the rate claimed as well as plaintiff's right to sue alone, it was held that the onus lay on the plaintiff to prove his claim to the rate of rent sued for and to show he was sole proprietor.(13) A person alleging in a suit for ejectment the permanency of the tenure must prove it (14) If a tenant is sued for rent he can set up eviction by title paramount to that of the lessor as an answer, and, if evicted from part of the land, an apportionment of the rent may take place; but the onus lies on the lessor, who claims an appointment to show what is the fair rate for the lands out of which the tenant was not evicted (15) Unless a landlord has a prima face right to evict he must start his case and show how such right accrued. There is no presumption that every tenant in a zemindari is a tenant-at-will

(1888)

<sup>(1)</sup> Lochun Choudhury v Anup Singh, 8 (* 1. R., 426 (1881). See also a 109, post (2) Rashmonee Dabea v Hurronath Roy, ! W

R . Civ. Rul (1864), 280 (3) Sars v Oblion Nath, 2 W R (Act X), 28

<sup>(1865).</sup>

<sup>(4)</sup> Bunicarry Lall v. Furlang, 9 W P., 239

<sup>(5)</sup> Ut Lalun v Hemra) Singh, 20 W R , 76 (1673).(6) Milratan Mandal v Ismail Khan Mahamed.

<sup>8</sup> C. W N., 895 (1904), Ananda Hars Basal v Secretary of State, 3 C. L. J. 316 (7) Domun Lall v. Pudmun Singh, W. R. (Act

X), 129 (1864), (8) Rash Behars v. Hara Mons, 15 C., 555

<sup>(9)</sup> Thiagaraya v Ginaya Sanbandha, 1 M., 77 (1887)

<sup>(10)</sup> Kishen Chunder v Burgtee Sheikh, 2 W. R (Act X), 36 (1865). (11) Hart Das v Ghansham Narate, 6 A., 298

<sup>(1894).</sup> (12) Kesheo Rao v Poran Raras, 1 N. I., R.,

<sup>(13)</sup> Seith Ashruf v Ram Kishore, 23 W. R.,

<sup>(14)</sup> Thiagarata v Ginaya, 11 M. 77 (1887), Rangasami v. Gnana, 22 M., 264 (1898) · Na. mans Mastra v Mathura Nath, 4 C. W. N., chx

<sup>(15)</sup> Gopanund Jhe v. Lalla Govind, 12 W. R., 109 (1869).

nor that a tenancy is not a saleable interest. So where a rvot mortgaged the land in his holding and the mortgagee purchased the land in execution of a decree obtained upon his mortgage and the zemindar sued to eject the decreeholder and judgment-debtor: it was held, neither party adducing evidence, that as the burden of proof lay upon the plaintiff and had not been discharged, the suit must be dismissed (1) When a tenant has been in long and peaceable occupation of land as part of an admitted tenure, it lies upon the landlord in a suit for ejectment to prove in the first instance that the land is his khas property and not the tenants (2) Where the lands granted were the lands of the zemindar and the grant was on the condition that services should be rendered and that a certain sum should be payable to the zemindar in recognition of his ownership, prima lacre the ownership should remain with the zemindar; and the burden of proving the plea that the plaintiff was not entitled to eject would lie on the person resisting ejectment (3) Where a tenant, having a right of occupancy, not transferable by custom, had given up to the purchaser possession of all the culturable lands of the holding, but remained in possession of homestead lands only by permission of the purchaser, it was held that this was sufficient to indicate that the rawat had abandoned his holding, and that in such a case the landlord was entitled to eject the ranget and the purchaser and get khas possession (4) And where a tenure was sought to be sold in execution of a decree for rent obtained against one of the tenants after the shares of the other tenants had passed by auction-sale to a stranger, on the allegation that the tenant against whom it had been obtained was the sole recorded tenant of the landlord, it was held that whether this was so or not was a matter of specialty within the knowledge of the landlord and the onus was on him to prove 1t (5)

Landlord and tenant : Intermediate tenure.

the mouzahs or villages within his zemindari, and the burden of proof is on the person who seeks to defeat that right by proving that he is entitled to an intermediate tenure.(6) The same principle will apply where the zemindar, or assignee or lessee of his rights, demands possession of the land from a person who is unable to prove a tenancy or other right of continuing to occupy (7) As to strict proof required on the part of the plaintiff seeking to disturb a possession of very long duration, see the case cited intra.(8) Where in a suit by a shareholder to recover a fractional portion of the rent, the defendant contends that he is only bound to pay to the person entitled to the whole rent, the onus is on the plaintiff to show that he is entitled to sue for a fractional portion (9) Plea of part-possession-In a suit to recover arrears of rent under a kabuliat, the defendant, who had paid rent for upwards of four or five years, pleaded Plea of part that he had obtained possession of portion only of the lands demised, and it possession, was held that the account of the lands demised, and it was held that the onus was on the defendant (10) See section 114, " Presumption relating to holding of land," post.

A zemindar has, as such, a prima facie title to the gross collections of all

Landlord and tenant Fractional portion of the rent Landlord

<sup>(1)</sup> Appa Rau v. Sabbanna, 13 M., 60 (1880). (2) Nanda Lal v Jagneswar Haldar, 5 C. W.

N , erem (1901). (3) Sri Rajah v. Rajah Venkatanarammha, 26

M . 403 (1903). (4) Saulabala Debi v. Sriran Bhat'acharyi,

<sup>(1907), 11</sup> C. W. N., 873 (5) Baskunta Nath Roy v. Debendra Nath Sahs,

<sup>(1906), 11</sup> C. W N. 876. (6) Sahih Perhiad v. Dourgapershad Tewaree, 12 Moo I. A , 331 (1869) , s. c., 2 B. L. R (P. C.). 134.

<sup>(7)</sup> Ram Monee v. Aleemoodeen, 20 W. R., 374 (1873); Batas thir v. Bhuggobulty Loer, 11 C., L R . 476 (1882).

<sup>(8)</sup> Forbes v Meer Mahomed, 12 B L. R., 216 (1873)

<sup>(9)</sup> Mt Lalun v Hemra; Singh, 20 W. R., 78 (1873), see as fractional co-shares, Punchanun Banerjee v. Ray Kumar, 19 C. 610 (1892); Ram Clunder v Giridhur Dutt, 19 C , 755 , (1891); Jogendro Narain v Banki Singh, 22 C., 658 (1895), Bandu Bushins v. Pearl Mohun. 20 C., 107 (1891), Gopal Chunder v. Umesh Narain, 17 C. 693 (1890)

<sup>(10)</sup> Bani Madhub v. Sridhar Deb. 10 C. L. R. 555 (1891).

There is a presumption in favour of legitimacy and marriage, and there-Legitimacy.
or on any person who is interested in making out the illegitimacy of another thrown the whole burden of proving it. [Sections 112, 114, post, to the ofcs of which sections reference should be made.(1)

The burden of proof upon the question whether a man is alive or dead is Life and egulated by sections 107, 108, post, to the notes of which sections reference death hould be made.

It is a settled rule of law that it is for the plaintiff to show prima facie that Limitation is suit is not barred by limitation (2) But when the plaintiff's suit or proeeding is prima facie within time, if the defendant alleges that the case is overned by a special clause allowing a shorter period of limitation, it is for um to satisfy the Court that the case comes under that special clause (3) Where fraud is alleged, it is for the defendant to allege and prove that the plaintiff vas aware of the fraud on a date earlier than that assigned in the plaint (4) and where it is uncertain when a fraud affecting limitation was discovered, mus is on the defendant to show that the suit is out of time (5) And if the lefendant wishes the Court to believe in the existence of a particular fact operting as a bar to the suit, it is for him generally to prove those facts under the rovisions of section 103, ante. In a suit to recover immovable property it s for the plaintiff to prove that he has been in possession at some time within he period of limitation and not for the defendant to prove adverse possession or twelve years (6) Such possession may be proved by oral evidence alone.(7) But the acts implying possession in one case may be wholly madequate to prove t in another. The character and value of the property, the suitable and naural mode of using it, the course of conduct which the proprietor might reasonably be expected to follow with a due regard to his own interests—all these hings, greatly varying, as they must, under various conditions, are to be taken nto account in determining the sufficiency of a possession (8) Where land has peen shown to have been in a condition unfitting it for actual enjoyment in the isual modes at such a time and under such circumstances that that state naurally would and probably did continue until twelve years before suit, it may

<sup>(1)</sup> See also Rajendra Nath v Jogendra Nath, 4 Meo I A., 67 (1871), Bhima v Dhulappa, Bom. L. R., 95 Salina Khanum v Laddan Sahba, 2 C. L. J., 218, and Kaliun Singh v Matarajah (1905), A. W. M., 214

Mahomed Ibrahim v Morrison, 5 C, 36, 7 (1878). Mahomed Ali v. Khana Abdul, 9 C, 44 (1883), Mitra's Law of Limitation and Prescription, 4th Ed (1903), p 101

<sup>(3)</sup> Mitra, op cst., see Mohansing Chauan v Henry Conder, 7 B., 478 (1883), Danmill v B Steam Navigation Co., 12 C., 477, 484 (1886). (4) Raya Rotan Singh v Thalur Man Singh, N. I. R., 20, and see Tants v Gojadhar, 2 N

L. R., 98. (5) Ambiolath Kuttu v. Raman Nair (1907), 31 M., 230

<sup>(6)</sup> Perhlad Sein v. Rajendra Kishore, 12 Voo. A., 337 (1869), Dinobundhoo Suhayr v Furiong, 9 W. R., 155 (1868), Nirasur Singh v Nurd Lall, 8 Moo. I A., 199 (1860), Koomar Ranjit v. Schane, 4 C L. R., 300 (1879), Bhooting

nath Challerjee v. Kedar Nath, 9 C., 125 (1882); Nazir Sidhee v. Woomesh Chunder, 2 W. R., 75 (1865); Bodee Singh v. Hurojuna Narain 7 W.

R., 212 (1867), Bromanund Gossain v. Gotern ment,5 W R , 136 (1866) Jugodumba Chordhrain v Ram Chunder, 6 W. R., 327, Gossain Dass v. Seroo Koomaree (Suit for share in joint family property), 19 W R , 192 (1873), Collector of Rungpore v Tagore, 5 W R , 115 (1866) , Beer Chunder v Deputy Collector of Bhulloonh, 13 W. R , P C , 23 (1870) Moro Desas v Ramchandra Desas, 6 B , 508 (1882), Ramchandra Narayan v Narayan Mahader, 11 B , 216 (1886), Tulsi Pershad v Raja Musser, 14 C , 610 (1887), Mohim Chunder v Mohesh Chunder, 16 C., 473 (1888), Ram Lochun v. Joy Doorga, 11 W R. 283 (1869), Parmanund Misser v. Sahib Als, 11 A , 438 (1889) , Gooroodoss Roy v Huronath Roy. 2 W. R., 246 (1855), Jajar Hussain v Mashuq Als, 14 A , 193 (1894) Mudun Mohun v Bhuggoomunto Poddar, 8 C., 923 (1882), Merta Mahomed v Surahutoonessa Khanum, 2 W R., 89 (1864), Hemanta Kumara Del's v Jogendra Nath Roy, P. C. (1906), 10 C. W. N., 630.

<sup>(7)</sup> v ante, s 59, and pos. s. 110

<sup>(8)</sup> Lord Advecate v. Lord Locat, L. R , 5 App. Cas., 288 (1880).

properly be presumed that it did so continue and that the plaintiff's possession continued also, until the country is shown.(1) Where the plaintiff claimed certain land belonging to a mouzah, part of a taluk, stating that it was originally a large bleef but had in recent years become dry and cultivable during a part of the year, and proved his title, but the defendant relying on adverse possession for more than twelve years before the institution of the suit, denied the plaintiff's title to the soil of the bheel; it was held that, as the plaintiff had proved his title, the onus lay on the defendant to prove that the plaintiff had lost his title by reason of the adverse possession.(2) Where a suit was brought by the plaintiff, the mortgagee, to recover the principal and interest due upon two mortgage-bonds and to enforce that claim by a sale of the mortgaged property, he never having been in possession at any time, and the defendant contended that the mortgagee could not enforce his right against him, because he had been in possession adversely to the plaintiff and those under whom he claimed for a period of twelve years before suit, it was held that the suit was not brought to recover possession as upon a dispossession, and the onus lay on the defendant to prove an adverse possession (3) But neither of these cases is intended to interfere with the general rule that, when a plaintiff claims land from which he has been dispossessed, the burden is on him to prove possession and dispossession within twelve years or that the cause of action arose within twelve years (4) In the case of Radha Gobind Roy v. Inglis, (5) the defendant had set up a title by twelve years' adverse possession, and neither suit was brought to recover possession as upon a dispossession.

When a suit for possession is instituted between the vendee and his vendor, the onus is on the vendor to show that he has held adversely to the vendee for twelve years.(6) And in a recent case it has been held that to enable the defendant to add to the period of his own adverse possession (which was admittedly less than twelve years), the period of his vendor's possession it must be shown that the latter's possession was also adverse; it was held also that the question of adverse possession as between tenants in common depends not on severance of the tenancy in common by partition, but on exclusive occupation by one co-tenant amounting to ouster of the other. (7) And in another case it has been held that entry and possession of land under the common title of a co-owner will not be presumed to be adverse to the others; but will ordinarily be held to be for the benefit of all (8) Where in a suit to recover possession of certain property from the plaintiff's vendor, who did not substantially resist the claim, a third party came in and claimed the property and was made a defendant, it was held that the burden of proof against the plaintiff lay on such intervenor (9)

Mahomed M. v. Khaja bhili, D. C., 744 (1887); Mohary Mohar V. Krishon Kihava
 C. 802 (1883); Mano Mohar V. Mohara Mohara Mohara
 C. 220 (1814); O'Butron) from this case distinguish Gobol Kroto V Devel, 22 W. R., 441 (1875)
 Ke also Mohamed Hambia v Morrion, 5 C., 26 (1818); Kolley Chura v. Secretary at State, 6 C., 725, 735 (1818)

<sup>(2)</sup> Radha Gobind v. Ingles, 7 C. L. R., 364 (1880) (Dilevion): and as to the elements of adverse possession, see hundra-astriol v. Govinda Manderayan (1908), 71 M. 528, and Ingenden Nath Ros v. Inladies Inc. (1907), 33 C., 961.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ron Karan v. Baler Ali, 9 L. V., 99 (1882); 5 A. L.

<sup>(4)</sup> Viero Demi v. Remchanies Demi, 6 B. 209, 511 (1882) - Kally Churn v. Secretary of State, 6 C., 725, 733 (1881), Gokul Chunder v. Nilmoney Mutter, 10 C., 374 (1884) Bhaddar v. Khair-ud-din Husain (1906), 29 A., 13.

<sup>(5) 7</sup> C. L. R., 384 (1880). For definition of terms "discontinue," "discontinuance," in Art. 142 of Act. XV of 1877, nee Gobind Lall v. Dehendronth Mullicl., 7 C. L. R., 181 (1880).

(6) Sayad Megamtula v. Nana Valad Forbisha, 13 B., 424 (1893); Ram Prosed v. Ialki Narain, 12 C., 197 (1885)

<sup>(7)</sup> Amrita Raryi v. Shridhar Kasayan (1908). 33 B. 317.

<sup>(8)</sup> Jogindra Nath Rai v. Baladeo Das (1907) 33 C., 951

<sup>(9)</sup> Jupidanund Misser v. Hamid Reword, 10 W. R., 52 (1969).

If, in execution of a decree obtained by A against B, formal (though it may not be actual) possession has been given to .1, B cannot afterwards, in support of a plea of limitation, rely, as against .1, upon the possession which he had before the transfer of possession by execution.(1) But such possession is of no avail as against a third party.(2) The principle, however, as laid down in Juggobundhu Mukerjee v. Ram Chunder Bysack,(3) was extended by the Full Bench of the Calcutta High Court to the case of a purchaser at auction in execution of decree, who had obtained only symbolical possession, and it was held that such possession gave him a good cause of action against a person who had taken an mara from the son of the judgment-debtor in the original case.(4) Where, in a suit for possession of land, the defendants admitted the title of the landlord, but claimed to hold under a valid miras-tenure, the onus was held to be on the defendants to prove, either that they had a valid miras-tenure or that, by reason of their having held adversely to the plaintiff as mirasdars for more than twelve years, the plaintiffs were debarred from questioning their right (5)

In a suit for damages for malecous prosecution, it lies on the plaintiff to Maltelona prove the existence of malice and of want of reasonable and probable cause, prosecution before the defendant can be called upon to show that he acted bona fide and upon reasonable grounds, believing that the charge which he instituted was a valid one.(6) The rule as to the burden of proof in suits for malteious prosecution has been extended to the case of alleged false information given to the police (7) If the plaintiff is convicted in the first Court and acquitted only on appeal, the onus cast on him is especially heavy. He must show that the

<sup>(1)</sup> Jappóusáhos Maleerjes v. Ram Chunder, 5 C., 584 (1880), (followed in Jappénusáhos Miser v. Parnanard Gosema, 16 C., 570 (1889), Lo-Leser Kier v. Pargua. Roy, 7 C., 418 (1881) Vanicia Chara. v. Malbub. Ghoud, 4 C., 570 (1879), Gauga Goloba v. Banjar Chunder, 19 R., 101 (1873), Mosuffer Habid v. 404as Namod. 6 Ct. L. F., 339 (1880), Shama Charau v. Nachub. Chandra, 11 C., 93 (1884). Fralodaramanna v. Frannon, 10 M., 17 (1889).

<sup>(2)</sup> Ranist Singh v Banuars Let, 10: C 993 (1884), Mohinssin v Manchershak, 6 B, 550 (1882), Bugnasihi Panda v Kelov Panda, 14 C L R, 705 (1882)

<sup>(3) 5</sup> C. 584 (1850)

<sup>(4)</sup> Juggehhundhu Mitter v Parnamund Gessoms, 16 C., 530 (1889) overruing Krisshna Lol v Rodha Krishna, 10 C., 402 (1884)

<sup>(5)</sup> Ogra Kant v Mohesh Chunder, 4 ( 1., R 40 (1879)

<sup>(6)</sup> Mohard Guay v. Hayapyrib Ins., 6 B. L. R., 371 (1870), a. c. la W. R., 425. Naccought R., 371 (1870), a. c. la W. R., 425. Naccought Numeric United v. Riemonopyr., 3 W. R. 169 (1855), Moster E. Maylla, b. Mustraph Communication, Moster Dept. v. Gridane Mall, 10 W. R., 439 (1885), Nacila Reakan v. Nohar Chaeffen, 6 B. L. R., 777 note (1890) a. c., 12 W. R., 402, Augustlab v. Moter Penkaltar, 13 W. R., 276 (1870); Aller Mohard Roy v. Redaks Perahed, 14 W. R., 339 (1870); Kuleret Lall v. Enach Hoseita, 13 W. R., 4, A., 7, 11 (1869), Baloo Reak.

Budden v Surday Dyal, 17 W R. 101 (1872). Balson Ganesh v. Mugnerrom Chordey, 17 W. R , P C , 283 (1872) , s c , 11 B L R , P C ... 121 Dunne v Legge, 1 Agra H C . 38 (1866) : Weatherall . Indian, 6 N - N P Rep . 200 (1874) . Scams Nayudu v Subrumania Mudali, 2 Med. H. C., 158 (1864) Lengama Naviae v Raghara Chary, 2 Mail H C., 291 (1864) Gardharlal Dayaldas v. Jaganath Girdharbas, 10 Bom H C., 182 (1873) Hall v Venlatakrishna, 13 M , 394 (1889); Il atson v Amith, 4 C W. N , xviii (1899) , Nolliappa Goundan v Kalvappa Goundan, 24 M., 59 (1900), Ramayya v Sirayya, 24 M , 549 (1900) Hurrich Chander . Nachikun'a Banerjee, 28 C., 591 (1901) As to reasonable grounds, see Brownath Roy v Austen Lall, 5 W R., 282 (1868). Mohendrannih Duit v Koylash Chunder, 6 W. R. 245 (1866) and prosecution dismissed for want of proof Mujnee Ram v Gonesh Dutt, 5 W. R. 134 (1866) and untrue charge before police, Mohendry Chunder v Surbo Kolhya II W. R. 534 (1869) The mere absence of reasonable and probable cause does not of steelf justify the conclusion as a matter of law that an act is malicrous. It is not identical with malice, but malice mat, having regard to the circumstances of the case, be inferred from it Bhim Sea v Sita Ram . 24 A , 363 (1902) original conviction proceeded on evidence known to the complainant to be false or due to the wilful suppression by him of material information.(1)

<sup>(7)</sup> Rophalendra v Aashieath Bhat, 19 B., 717 (1894). per Jardine, J According to the judgment of Ranade, J., this case was governed by Pineyles regulating anti- for defamation.

Measure ment.

Where a plaintiff alleges and adduces evidence to show that the standard of measurement prevalent at the time the claim is made was in use when the tenancy was created; and the defendant asserts that the standard prevalent at the creation of the tenancy was a different one, but gives no evidence of it. the Court may presume that the state of things in existence at the time of the suit existed also at the inception of the tenancy.(2)

Minority

It is for the party who comes into Court and pleads minority to make out his case before the adverse party can be required to rebut it (3) It has been recently held in England that in an action against an infant for necessaries the onus is on the plaintiff to prove not only that the goods supplied were suitable to the condition in life of the infant, but also that the latter was not sufficiently supplied with goods of that class at the time of the sale and delivery.(4)

Mortgage.

When a plaintiff sues to redeem and the defendant denies the mortgage. the plaintiff must in the first instance prove his title, (5) In a suit to enforce . a mortgage-bond which was registered in the Sealdah-Registry, on the ground that one of the properties mortgaged was in the Sealdah District, the defendant set up the defence that inasmuch as there was no such property in existence in the Sealdah District, the registration of the mortgage was bad and the deed as a mortgage had no efficacy in law : Held that the onus was on the defendant to show with every clearness that no property in the Sealdah District had been comprised in the mortgage (6) In a suit for redemption a plaintiff has to prove the existence of a subsisting mortgage which he is entitled to redeem (7) Where under an Act certain things are required to be done, before any liability attaches to any person in respect of any obligation, it is for the person who alleges that that hability has been incurred to prove that the things prescribed in the Act have been actually done. In a suit for arrears of road-cess, purchaser the onus is on the raight to show that he held the land as such (11)

Notices.

it is for the plaintiff to prove the publication of the notices and extracts from the valuation-roll of the estate prescribed by section 52 of Act IX (B C.) of 1880, and no presumption can be made as to their due service, and section 114, clause (c) of this Act could not apply.(8) In a suit to set aside a sale of a patna taluk on the ground that the notices required by the 2nd sub-section of that section had not been duly complied with, it hes upon the defendant to show that the sale was preceded by the notices required by that sub-section, the service of which notices is an essential preliminary to the validity of the sale (9) Under Act XI of 1859 the onus is on the person who seeks to have a sale set aside, to establish that the requirements of the Statutes have not been complied with by the Collector, (10) and in a suit for ejectment by a

<sup>(1)</sup> Thimms Redd: v. Chenna Redds, 16 M. L. J., 18, and see Thaldi Hajiiv. Budrudin Saib, 29 M . 208

<sup>(2)</sup> Ishan Chandra Mitter v. Ramranjan Chuc-Ferbutto, 2 Cr. J. J., 125

<sup>(3)</sup> Fampakshappa v. Shalappa, 28 B , 109,

<sup>(4)</sup> Nath v. Inmas (1908), 2 K. B , p. 1. (5) Bala v Shua, 27 B . 271 (1902), and other eases there eited. (6) Jogani Mohan v. Bhoot Nath, 31 C., 146

<sup>(7)</sup> Musafir Rai v. Mussi. Lagan, 2 Alt. L. J .

<sup>62 (1901).</sup> (8) Ashanullih v. Terlochan Bagelo, 13 C , 197 (1886) . Rash Behars v. Putambori Chonedhrani,

<sup>15</sup> C . 237 (1888) (9) Hurro Dayal v. Mahomed Gazi, 19 C , 699

<sup>(1989) ,</sup> followed Prem Chand v. Suroj Ranjan 1 C. L J. 102 n. (1905) See also Doorga Churn v. Sgud Najunooddeen, 21 W. R., 397 (1874) Ashunulla Khan v Hurrs Churn, 17 C , 478 (1890) and as to notices under Rent Recovery Act VII of 1865 (Madres), see Dorasamy v. Mulhummv. 27 M , 94 (1903) [landlord proceeding by way o distress must show that the requirements of the Act have been complied with ?

<sup>(10)</sup> Sheikh Mahomed Aga v. Jedunandan Jha, 10 C W. N., 137.

<sup>(11)</sup> Ambila Churn Chakravarti v. Dya Gazi,

<sup>10</sup> C. W. N., 497,

The purchaser of an estate at a sale for arrears of Government Revenue is, however, in a different position. In the latter case the notices are served in the ordinary way through the officers of the Revenue Court, and the presumption under section 114, clause (c) would arise in respect to the service of such notices until the contrary was proved. The onus of proving irregularity in the preparation, service or posting of the notice rests on the person who asks to have the sale set aside (1)

The law gives the holder of a registered mortgage priority over an unregistered mortgage though the latter may be of earlier date. In order, however, to check fraud under cover of this provision of the law, such priority cannot be claimed if the subsequent mortgagee, at the time of obtaining his mortgage, had notice of the earlier mortgage. The onus is upon the party alleging such knowledge or notice to aver the same in his pleadings and to prove it.(2) And the onus is on the defendant to show that the plaintiff as holder of a bill of lading had notice of the contents of the charter-party.(3)

Possession of property is presumptive proof of ownership. Therefore Ownership when the question is whether any person is owner of anything of which he is shown to be in possession, the burden of proving that he is not the owner is on the person who affirms that he is not the owner. (Sections 110, 114, post, to the notes of which sections reference should be made.)

The burden of proof as to relationship in the cases of partners, landlord ship and tenant, principal and agent, is dealt with by section 109, post, to the notes, of which section reference should be made. In a partnership-suit where one party does, but the other party does not, allege a specific agreement that the shares in the said partnership were unequal, the existing presumption as to the equality of partners' shares casts the burden of proof on those alleging the agreement, who must therefore begin (4) For observations on the procedure to be adopted in a suit for an account of a dissolved partnership and the burden of proof on the taking of the account, see the undermentioned case (5)

In a "passing off" case the burden of proving that particular words have acquired a secondary signification lies on the person alleging it (6)

If in a suit for rent the defendant does not deny tenancy, but pleads pay- Payment ment, the onus probands is on him (7) When a defendant in a suit for arrears of rent alleges remission, the onus lies on him in regard to the remission.(8) When a defendant admits the cause of action and pleads payment he must prove that the claim which is admitted has been discharged by payment (9) When a debtor pleads tender of payment as a ground for not being saddled with interest, the onus is on him to prove that he made such tender (10)

See Notes to section 110, post.

In a suit to enforce 1'

the price stated in the co a primá facie case in a fa Possession. · · · mplished the onus is on the vendor and vendee to prove by cogent evidence that

<sup>(1)</sup> Sheoruttun Singh v. Net Lall, 30 C., 11 (1902). Sheilh Mohammed v Jadunandan Jha, 10 C. W N . 137 (1905)

<sup>(2)</sup> Chennappa Redds v. Manicka Lasagam, 25 M., 1 (1901).

<sup>(3)</sup> The Draupner (1909), P 219. (4) Jadobram Dey v. Bulloram Dey, 26 C., 281

<sup>(1899) ,</sup> s. c., 3 C. W N., xciv. (5) Therukumaresan Chette v. Subbaraya Chette, <sup>20</sup> Mr. 213 (1895), and see also as to rendering account Moves v. Alston, 18 M., 245 (1892).

<sup>(6)</sup> Smidt v Reddawny, 32 C., 401

<sup>(7)</sup> Puretag Lall v. Ram Jeewan, 1 W. R., 264 (1864). Kwonjo Beharte v Roy Mothocranauth.

<sup>1</sup> W. R., 155 (1864) (8) Bunwary Lall v. Furlong, 9 W. R., 239

<sup>(9)</sup> Bibes Meheroonnissa v. Abdool Gunee, 17

W. R., 509 (1872).

<sup>(10)</sup> Rance Shurut v. Collector of Mymensingh. 5 W. R. Act X, 69 (1866).

the amount of the price actually paid was larger than that stated by the preemptor.(1) If a right of pre-emption is based on custom the onus is on the defendants to show that a custom proved to have once existed had come to an end.(2) If a wajib-ul-arz clearly shows that a clause as to pre-emption embodies a new contract entered into by the co-sharer, at the time the waiibul-arz was prepared, it would be necessary for the plaintiff claiming pre-emption to prove that he, or some one through whom he claims, was an assenting party to the contract (3) If a plaintiff pre-emptor alleges that the price in a sale-deed is fictitious, it is for him to give some prima facie evidence that this is the case. Comparatively slight evidence will suffice to shift the anus. (4)

Presumptions of fact of various kinds other than those mentioned in the Presumptions of last of various kinds other than those mentioned in the tions of fact. notes to these sections may affect the question of the burden of proof. So there being a presumption that judicial and official acts have been regularly performed, the burden of proving the irregularity of such acts will ordinarily be upon the person who asserts it. (See section 114, nost, to the notes of which section reference should be made)

Recitale

A recital in a deed or other instrument is in some cases conclusive, and in all cases evidence as against the parties who make it, and it is of more or less weight or more or less conclusive against them according to circumstances. It is a statement deliberately made by those parties, which, like any other statement, is always evidence against the persons who make it. But it is no more evidence as against third persons that any other statement would be (5) When a plaintiff sues on a receipt admitting a payment and the defendant admits execution of the receipt it is on the defendant to prove that the statement of payment on the receipt is incorrect (6) Where an instrument recites that the defendant has received consideration, such a recital is evidence against. but not conclusive upon, the defendant; the onus, however, is on the defendant to show that the recitals are not correct (7) The last-mentioned rulings do not, however, govern cases to which the Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act (XVII of 1879) applies (8) The defendants in a suit on a bond admitted the execution of the bond, but denied that they had received, as the bond recited they had at the time of its execution, the consideration for it; the Court of first instance instead of calling on the defendants to establish the fact that they had not received the consideration for the bond, as it ought to have done under the circumstances, irregularly allowed the plaintiff to produce witnesses to prove that the consideration for the bond had been paid at the time of its execution The evidence of these witnesses proved that the consideration

<sup>(1)</sup> Bhaywon Singh v Mahalir Singh, 5 4. 184 (1882) Sheoupargash Dube v Dhanra; Dube, 9 A . 225 (1897) . Tawakkul Ros v. Luchman Rai,

<sup>6 4 . 344 (1894).</sup> (2) Birjanandan Lal v. Museumat Kunuwii,

<sup>3</sup> All L. J. 561 (3) Sarak Singh v. Girja Pande, 2 A. L. J., 6

<sup>(1905),</sup> A. W. N. 16 (4) Abdul Majid v. Amelak (1907), 29

A . 618 (5) Brajeshwure Peskabar v. Budkanuddi, 6 C. 269 (1890) . s. c . 7 C. L. R . S . Manohar Singh . .

Sumirta Kuar, 17 A , 428 (1895). (6) Invalata v. Ganesh Shastrs, 4 B , 245 (1884). (7) Fulli Bilo v Banisuds Modha, 4 B L. R. F. B , 51 (1889); a c , 12 W. R , F. B., 25 feeting

Chouckey Deby v. Chouckey Doubut, 3 Moo. 1 A . 347 (1884) , explained in Brojecheure Peshakar v. Budhanudli, 6 C., 268 (1880)]; Sakeb

Perlad v. Balsos Budhoo, 2 B L R., P. C 111 (1869). Rojah Saheb v. Bahon Budhon, 12 Moo I A, 275 (1869), Nawab Syud v Mt. Amaner, 19 W R., 149 (1873) . Manillal Bahon v. Ramda+ Mazumdar, 1 B. L. R. A. C., 92 (1868); 1 c , 10 W. R , 132 ; Jugjut Chunder v Bhugwan Chunder, 1 Marsh Rep., 27 (1862). Rodhanath Banerjee v. Jodonath Singh, 7 W R , 441 (1807); Rughovnath Dass v. Luchmee Narain, 10 W. R., 407 (1869); Mt Kurutool v Mt Raykalee, 17 W. R . 439 (1872). [Actual sight of the passing of the money is not only mode of proving payment of consideration] The following cases Musenmat Jhaloo v. Shash Furzund 5 W. R., 203 (1888). Telest Roop v. Anund Roy, 3 W. R., 111 (1805) are no longer law of the bond had not been paid at the time of execution, and that, if it had been paid at all, it had been paid at some subsequent time. The plaintiff did not give any further evidence to establish such payment and the Court of first instance, without calling on the defendants to establish their defence, dismissed the suit. The lower Appellate Court held that the defendants should have been required to begin under the circumstances, and reversed the decree of 12 Court of Gest include and gave the plaintiff a decree, It was held in appeal vet as he had done so, the bond had not been paid as admitted in the bond, a new case was opened up, in which the onus was shifted back to the plaintiff to establish that he had, not at the time alleged in the bond, but at some subsequent time, paid to the defendants the consideration for the bond.(1) Where the land is held by a person who is not a tenant of other land Rent-free belonging to the plaintiff, or when such land is occupied as a separate parcel or holding, or in any other manner so as to be distinct from any other land held by the same person as a tenant under the plaintiff, the burden of proof is on the landlord to shew that they are not lakkira, but mal lands. Where, however, the land is occupied by a tenant of the zemindar, who helds other lands within the zemandari which are rent-paying and are not distinguishable in the manner indicated above, the burden of proof is on the tenant (2) But in another case this ruling was not followed to its full extent, and it was held that the burden of proof would lie on the ryot only if the land in dispute is in the ambit of the other ryoti lands held by him, but not if it is merely in the ambit of the zemindari, where he has a rent-paying holding. Where the onus lies on the zemindar to prove that the land in dispute is part of the mal land of his estate, he can do so either by proof of receipt of rent or that its proceeds was taken into account at the permanent settlement or by any other sufficient means (3) He must, however, make out a prima lacie case sufficient to entitle him to a decree, if the defendant failed to produce rebutting evidence (4) But in a suit for rent where the ryot gives prima facie evidence that part of the land is lakhiraj, the onus is on the landlord to prove that such land has paid rent in previous years (5) Where the onus of proof of the right to hold land rent-free hes on the claimant, it is not necessary to produce a lakhira; sanad, the fact may be legally established by long and uninterrupted possession without payment of rent. raising the presumption that the land had been held rent-free from the decennial settlement, or of twelve years' adverse possession (6) The lakhira; tenure must be shown to have a real existence before it can be held that any question

<sup>(8)</sup> Malogi Santagi v lathu Hars, 9 B., 520 (1895).

<sup>(1)</sup> Makund v. Bahors Lal, 3 A., 824 (1881) (2) Albur 4li v. Bhyen Lal, 6 C , 666 (1880) s c., 7 C L. R , 497

<sup>(3)</sup> Bucharam Gundul v. Penry Mohun, 9 C , 813 (1883), a e , 12 C. L. R., 475 See Dhun Mones v. Suttoorghum, 6 W R. (Act X), 100 (1866), Gungadhur Singh v. Bimola Dassee, 5 W. R (Act X), 37 (1866) Aradhar Nunds v Braya Nath, 2 B L. R. (A C ), 211 (1868) . Raj Kishore v Hurechur Monkergee, 10 W R , 117 (1868), Mun Mohun v. Sriram Roy, 14 W R.,

<sup>(4)</sup> Narendra Narain v Bushen Chandra, 12 C., 182 (1885), Ram Coomar v Debet Pershad, 6 W. P. (Act X), 87 (1866)

<sup>(5)</sup> See Motee Lall v. Judooputtee, 2 W 11 (Act X), 44 (1865), Bussessur Chuckerbutty v. Wooma Churn, 7 W. R., 44 (1867), Sheeb Narusa v. Chilam Doss, 6 W. R. (Act X), 45 (1666) , Jug-

gensuree Debia . Guadhur Baneejee, 6 W R. (Act X), 21 (1866) Nehal Chunder v Hurse Pershad, 8 W. R., 183 See also Goorgo Pershad v. Juggobundoo Mozoumdar, W. R., Sp. No., 15 (1862). This was a suit for a kabuliat, and a Full Bench held that, the tenant having admitted that plaintiff was his landlood for a portion of the land, this was sufficient primit facts explence of his being plaintiff's root to throw on him the builden of procing his special plea of lakkares as to the remainder Bacharam Mundul v Peary Mohun, 9 C., 813 (1883). See contra, News, Hundopadkya v Kali Prosessao 6 C , 543 (1880) Albar Ali v Bhyea Lat, 6 C., 567 (1880)

<sup>(6)</sup> Dhunpul Singh v Russimoyee Choudhrain, 10 W R. 461 (1868) Nee also Heera L II v Peetumber Mundal, Sev. Rep Aug - Dec (1803), 171 : Hurryhur Mookerpee v Abbas Ally, Sex. Bec. Aug.-Dec. (1863), 9875.

Tort

plaintiff.(10)

of lakhiraj arises.(1) In a suit for enhancement, however, where the defendant admits that the main portion of the lands are mal, but does not separate the rent-free lands, the plaintiff is not bound to prove that the lands are mal until the defendants point out their precise situation (2) Long possession of lands as choukeedaree chackeran affords ground for the presumption that the lands were set apart as such as the decennial settlement, and the onus of proof that the lands were the private land of the zemindar not set apart at the decennial settlement as choukeedaree chakeran is on the zemindar.(3) The position of Inamdars differs materially from that of zemindars; and the presumption that persons becoming tenants of zemindars after the permanent settlement become occupancy tenants does not apply to persons who become tenants under

Inamdars.(4) When a plaintiff institutes a suit for a declaration of title, the onus is on him to prove the title which he seeks to have confirmed. It is not sufficient for him to show that he is in possession, and that the defendant has proved no better title (5) But, if the plaintiff fail to prove title against a defendant, who has himself no title and is a mere wrong-doer, the former may be declared to be entitled to be retained in possession as against the latter (6) If the defendant is in possession and the plaintiff produces title-deeds in his own favour. the onus is on the defendant to disprove the title of the plaintiff. (7) Where a plaintiff purchased ostensibly on his own account and for the sum of Rs 16 property of a judgment-debtor put up for sale by a decree-holder in execution of his decree, and the decree-holder, believing it to be purchased benami on behalf of the judgment-debtor by the plaintiff, took out execution again and advertised it for sale, it was held in a suit by the plaintiff to have the executionproceedings set aside that the onus lay on the plaintiff to show that the property h In a suit by t a hereditary a temp trustee

s held that the onus lay on the plaintifis to prove that the temple was of the class mentioned in the Act (9) Where the defendants were in possession of disputed land under an award of the Magistrate under Act X of 1872, section 530, it was held in a unit for possession and establishment of tute that the onus probards lay on the

A party setting up a tort has the burden on him to prove such tort. If the cause of action be negligence, deceit or fraud or the like, the plaintiff must prove the negligence, deceit or fraud. If to a tort justification is set up by the defendant, the burden is on him to prove such justification. The general rule therefore is that the burden lies on the party seeling either to make good his (1893).

<sup>(1)</sup> Synd Ahmed v. Emest Hossein, I. W. R. 270 (1885). See also Ommane Kates v. Hurzyku Mookerpet (F. B.), W. R. Sp. No. 115 (1892). Skut for enhancement of rent; defence, that past is lathiest; Beebes Abbriljonassas v Umung Ma. han, 5 W. R. (Act Xl.), 48 (1899); Roylessa Moo. Irrjee v. Joylussen Mookerper, W. P., 1884 (Act Xl.), 119.

<sup>(2)</sup> Sutto Churn v. Tarinee Churn, 3 W. R. 178

<sup>(3)</sup> Mochtaleshes Debta v. Collector of Moorshedelad, 4 W. R., 30 (1865); Forber v. Meer Mahomed, 13 Moc. 1 A., 438 (1870).

<sup>(4)</sup> Marapu Tharalu v. Tduksla Neelakasta Behara (1907), 30 M., 502.

<sup>(5)</sup> Jidole Singh v Gurwar Singh, 2 W. R., 167 [1895]; Rassonada Rayar v. Sitharama Pullal, 2

Mad. H C. 171 (1864); Royes Modah v Mudhoo Sordun, 9 W. R, 154 (1868); Purseedh Norun v. Biseasor Dyal, 7 W. R, 148 (1867); Gangaram v. Secretary of State, 20 B, 798, 800 (1895); Shekh

Torob v Sheith Mahomed, 19 W R, 1 (1872) (8) Gangaram v. Secretary of State, 20 B, 798 (1895), Iemail Ariff v. Mahomed Gouse, 20 I. A.

<sup>99 (1893) .</sup> s c , 20 C , 834 (7) Swarnamayee Rayur v. Srinibash Koyal,

<sup>6</sup> B L. R , 144 (1870)
(8) Muddun Mohun v. Bhurut Chunder, 11 W.

R., 249 (1969)
(9) Ponduranga v. Nagappa, 12 M., 366

<sup>(10)</sup> Huri Ram v. Bhikarce Roy, 25 W. R., 20 (1876).

claim for damages arising from the tort of another or to establish a release from such claim, supposing it to be made out against himself, by imputing tort to the plaintiff.(1) In a suit for a tort the onus is on the plaintiff to prove that the malfeasance, misfeasance, nonfeasance or other event from which limitation commences to run, took place within the prescribed period, upon the general principles which regulate the burden of proof on the point of limitation (2) In cases of collision at sea the masters and owners of the colliding vessel even though compelled by law to take a pilot on board, are prima facie hable for damage caused by their ship; and the burden of proof is on them to show that the negligence which caused such damage was that of the pilot and solely his.(3) 'See "Defamation," "Fraud," "Good and bad Faith," "Malicious Prosecution," ante and post, s. 114, "Presumption of Innocence"

A waiver is an intentional relinquishment of a known right, or such conduct Waiveras warrants an inference of such relinquishment; and there can be no waiver unless the person against whom the waiver is claimed had full knowledge both of his rights and of the facts which would enable him to take effectual action for their enforcement. The burden of proof of such knowledge is on the person who relies on the waiver. A presumption of waiver cannot be rested on a presumption that the right alleged to have been waived was known (4)

The onus probands lies in every case upon the party propounding a will; and wills. he must satisfy the conscience of the Court that the instrument so propounded is the last will of a free and capable testator. The onus is in general discharged by proof of capacity and the fact of execution (5) The quantum of evidence sufficient to establish a testamentary paper must always depend upon the circumstances of each case. Three things must be proved capacity, testamentary intention, and execution The circumstances of the case may be such as to necessarily awake the vigilance of the Court, and to require that the proof shall be full and satisfactory. When such circumstances occur, the evidence to prove the affirmation must be stronger than in ordinary cases (6) The fact that the testator did know and approve of the contents of an alleged will is part of the burden of proof assumed by everyone who propounds a will This burden is satisfied prima facie in the case of the will of a competent testator, but if those who oppose it succeed by cross-examination or otherwise in meeting this prima facie case, the party propounding must satisfy the tribunal affirmatively that the testator did really know and approve of the contents of the will, that is to say, the burden of proving knowledge and approval is always on the person propounding the will, though formal proof may suffice when no dispute is raised.(7) If a party writes or prepares a will under which

<sup>(1)</sup> Wharton, Ev. $$ 358-364 and cases there cited.

<sup>(2)</sup> Mitra's Law of Limitation and Prescription, 4th Ed., 1905, v ante, "Limitation"

<sup>(3)</sup> The ship Glencoe, 1 Boul. Rep , 105 (1856) Muhammad Yusutv P. & O S Nav Co., 6 Bom H. C R. (O C), 98 (1869) As to the burden of justifying duty of ship at anchor in the case of collision, see Mary Tug Co v B I Steam Navigation Co., 24 C., 627 (1897)

<sup>(4)</sup> Danukdhare Singh v Nathema Sahu (1907),

<sup>11</sup> C W N . 848 (5) Barry v. Bullen, 2 Moo P. C., 482, Cleare

v. Cleure, I., R , I P. 3 D., 657 , cited in Woomesh Chunder v. Rashmohins Dassi, 21 C , 279, 290, 291 (1893), Lacko Bile v Gops Narats, 23 A. 472, 475 (1901) and see In re Dintarini Debi, 8 C., 880, 882 (1882).

<sup>(6)</sup> Jones v Godrick, 5 Moo. P C . 16, 19-21 (1844) So fraud cannot be presumed, but the circumstances may render fraud so probable that the Court will require stronger proof than in cases where all natural presumptions are in favour of the disposition and the free will of the testator . 15. 21 As to proof in the case of mofficious wills. see Stroda Soondures v Muddun Mohun, 24 W. R , 162 (1875) As to wills by Purdanashins, see s. 111, post, Khas Mehal v. Administrator-General of Bengal, 5 C. W N., 505 (1901).

<sup>(7)</sup> Balkrishna v Gopikabas, 7 Boin. L. R., 175-(1905) The onus may be increased by circumstances, such as an unbounded confidence in the drawer of the will, extreme debility of the testator, clandestin ty and other circumstances which may increase the presumption, so as to be conclusive against the instrument, id.

he takes a benefit, or if any other circumstances exist which excite the suspicion of the Court, and whatever their nature may be, it is for those who propound the will to remove such suspicion, and to prove affirmatively that the testator knew and approved the contents of the will, and it is only where this is done that the onus is thrown on those who oppose the will to prove fraud or undue influence or whatever they rely on to displace the case for proving the will (I). But there is no rule of law as to the particular kind or description of evidence by which the Court must be satisfied. The degree of suspicion excited and the weight of the burden of removing it must depend largely on the nature and amount of the benefit taken, and all the circumstances of the case (2).

The dictum of Lindley, L. J., in Tyrell v. Pointon(3) "that whenever circumstances exist which excite the suspicion of the Court and whatever their nature may be, it is for those who propound the will to remove such suspicion and to prove affirmatively that the testator knew and approved of the contents of the document," does not apply to a case where the question is simply which set of witnesses should be believed.(4) "Due execution" of a will implies not only that the testator was in such a state of mind as to be able to authorize and to know he was authorizing, the execution of a document as his will, but also that he knew and approved of the contents of the instrument; and in cases of disputed execution the Judge should consider and express an opinion upon both these questions. In ordinary cases execution of a will by a competent testator raises the presumption (sufficient, if nothing appears to the contrary, to establish) that he knew and approved of the contents of the will. Also under ordinary circumstances the competency of a testator will be presumed, if nothing appears to rebut the ordinary presumption : ordinarily therefore, proof of execution of the will is enough. But where the mental capacity of the testator is challenged by evidence, which shows that it is to say the least, very doubtful whether his state of mind was such that he could have "duly executed" the will, as he is alleged to have done, the Court ought to find whether upon the evidence the testator was of sound disposing mind and did know and approve of the contents of the will. Where this had not been done, the Appellate Court, after considering the whole evidence, held, contrary to the decision of the Lower Court, that the will was not approved, and refused probate, (5) It is incumbent on persons propounding a will for the purpose of obtaining probate or letters of administration to produce all the evidence which the circumstances of the case indicate as proper and necessary to prove the execution of the will. It hes upon such a person to prove it by evidence as good as that which would be produced to prove any other oof, how-the appli-

ceedings should take, as nearly as may be, the form of a regular suit brought by the party propounding the will.(8) The fact that a contested will bears an endorsement stating that it was acknowledged by the testator before the Registrar, does not warrant a Judge in granting probate without any other evidence in support of the will, even though the caveator does not produce Lacho Bibi v. Copi Narasa, 23 A , 472 (1901).

 Bas Gungabai v. Bhugwandas Valps (P. C.).

<sup>9</sup> C. W. N., 769 (1905), 29 B., 530 (3) L. R. (1894), P. D., 151,

<sup>(4)</sup> Shama Churn v. Khetromons Duri, 4 C. W. N., 501 (1809), s. c., 27 C., 521.

<sup>(5)</sup> Woomesh Chunder v. Rashmohim Dassi, 21 C., 279 (1893).

<sup>(6)</sup> Tara Chund v. Debnath Roy, 10 C. L. R.,

<sup>550 (1882)</sup>

<sup>(7)</sup> In re Nobodoorga, 7 C. L. R., 397, 391, 392(1890); see In re Shudee Churn, 23 W. R., 103(1874)

<sup>(8)</sup> Saroda Soonduree v. Muddun Mohun, 24 R. 162 (1873); Annonda Sundari v. Jugutmoni Doli, 8 C. L. R., 176 (1880), s. 63, Probate and Administration Act any evidence to impeach the will.(1) If a will shown to have been in the custody of t to have presump

presump where gr

that persons interested on the disappearance of the will had access to the testator's house.(2) Such presumption of revocation does not arise unless there is evidence to satisfy the Court that the will was not in existence at the time of the testator's death.(3) A will, duly executed, is not to be treated as revoked, either wholly or in part, by a will which is not forthcoming unless it is proved by clear and satisfactory evidence, that the will contained either words of revocation or dispositions so inconsistent with those of the earlier will that the two cannot stand together. It is not enough to show that the will, which is not forthcoming, differed from the earlier one, if it cannot be shown in what the difference consisted. The burden of proof lies upon him who challenges the existing will.(4) The burden of proof hes upon the person who sets up a will, not upon the person who is prepared to impeach it. The defendants (widow and sister-in-law of a deceased talugdar) set up a will under which they alleged they took all the property of the testator absolutely, whereupon the plaintiffs, the next reversioners, sued for a declaration that the will was not genuine and that the alleged testator died intestate. Held that the onus was on the defendants, who set it up, to prove that the will was genuine, and not on the plaintiffs, who impeached it, to show that it was a forgery. The fact that the plaintiffs omitted to give any evidence that the will was forged, though they asserted that "they would prove it to be spurious if necessary" raised no presumption of the genuineness of the will Nor did the omission of the plaintiffs to cross-examine some witnesses called by the Court previously to hearing, to explain the alleged loss and consequent non-production of the will, give rise to any presumption in favour of its validity. They were not bound to cross-examine the witnesses, which they could not have done without permission of the Court, but were perfectly justified in waiting until evidence in support of the will was produced at the trial (5)

Where a testatrix executed a will written on two sheets of paper and tied by a string at the top of the left hand corner four or five years before her death. and only one sheet of the will was found after her death, which disposed by means of legacies of the bulk, though not the whole, of her property, and an application made for the grant of probate of that portion of the will, was opposed by the testarix's heir Held (per Maclean, C. J.), that the presumption that the testator destroyed the second sheet of the will animo revocandi was a rebuttable one and that it had been rebutted in the case, that probate could be granted of a portion of a will, and that where the contents of a lost will are not completely proved, probate can be granted to the extent to which they are proved. Held (per Banerjee, J.) that judging from the nature of the document as it stood when complete, as deposed to by the witnesses examined in the case, and judging from the nature and appearance of the part that had been preserved, the fact of a part being wanting raised no presumption of the destruction or mutilation of the will with intent to revoke it (6) In a recent

<sup>(1)</sup> Othoy Churn v Uma Churn, 1 C L R, 342 (1877) (2) Shib Sabirs Praied v Collector of Meeral

<sup>(1906), 29</sup> A 82 (3) Anwar Hossess v Secretary of State, 31 C.,

<sup>885 (1904) .</sup> s c., 8 C W N , 821.

<sup>(4)</sup> Sahis Murza v. Umdo Khanum, 19 C., 444 (1892); s. c 19 I. A., 83; Cutts v Gilbert, 9 Moo.

P. C., 131 (1854) Hitching v. Basset, 3 Mod., 203. Show. Par. Cas., 146 Goodraght v Harwood, Wm. Black, 937

<sup>(5)</sup> Sulh Dei v Kedar Vath, 23 A , 405 (1901); s. c 3 C. W N , 895

<sup>(6)</sup> Kedernath Mutter v. Sreemutty Sormini, 3 C. W. N., 617 (1899).

English case it was held that the Court will not order the insertion in the probate of words actually missing from a torn will, but the practice to be followed in such a case, where satisfactory oral proof of the missing words is given, is to annex to the probate a document showing what the words were.(1)

Where a will was challenged on the ground that it was made by the deceased after the taking of poison and was therefore bad for being the act of suicide, it was held that the onus of proving whether the will was written after the swallowing of poison rested on the party impugning the will.(2) Upon a petition under section 234 of the Succession Act for revocation of probate on the ground that citation had not been published, and that the petitioner, being a minor under the care of the person who obtained probate, had no opportunity of understanding his mala fides and improper acts, and that the will was a proving

ceeded, t

propounding would have to prove in the ordinary way, (3) The mere fact of an attesting witness to a will repudiating his signature does not invalidate a will, if it can be proved by the evidence of other witnesses of a reliable character that he has given false evidence (4) And it has been held in England that when a party is compelled to call the attesting witness to a will or codicil he may cross-examine him, as the latter is not the witness of either party but of the Court (5) When a will has been proved summerly proof in solemn form per testes will not of a person who had had notice, or had before the grant of probate issued, and had then abstained from coming forward (6) Mere omission to serve a special citation would not by itself be sufficient ground for revoking the grant if it is shown that the person on whom the citation ought to have been served had knowledge of the application for probate. The onus of proving that he had such knowledge rests on the party who alleges it (7) Where a deed of gift or will confers an estate upon a named person because he fills, or by reason of his filling, a certain character, he is entitled to recover the estate without affirmatively proving that he fills such character. The onus of proving that he does not fill the character which is the reason of the gift lies upon those who dispute his claim.(8)

Burden of proving that case of accused comes with in exceptions.

When a person is accused of any offence, the burden of proving the existence of circumstances bringing the case within any of the General Exceptions in the Indian Penal Code, or within any special exception or proviso contained in any other part of the same Code, or in any law defining the offence, is upon him, and the Court shall presume the absence of such circumstances.

290 (1904)

(6) Brinda Choudheain v. Radhica Choudheain,

11 ( , 492 (1885). As to the name of proof, see

Kali Das v Ishan Chandra, 31 C., 014 (1904).

The Privy Council did not, however, decade the

<sup>(1)</sup> Gall v. Gall (1909), P., 157.

<sup>(2)</sup> Marker Husen v. Belka Bibl. 21 A., 91 (1878).

<sup>(3)</sup> Dintarini Debi v. Doibo Chunder, S C., 890 (1892L

<sup>(4)</sup> Noba Kudore v. Joy Deeps, 22 W. R., 189 (1974). See as to attentation, as 69-72, post. (5) Jones v. Jones (1938), Times L. R., v. 24, . 832 point, as it decided the case on the evidence-(7) Prem Chand v. Surendra Nath, 9 C. W. N., (8) Rango Ralagi v Mudigippa, 23 B., 296. 301 (1899), per Parratt, C. J.

Illustrations.

(a) A, accused of murder, alleges that, by reason of unsoundness of mind, he did not know the nature of the act.

(b) A, accused of murder, alleges that, by grave and sudden provocation, he was deprived of the power of self-control.

The burden of proof is on A. The burden of proof is on A.

(c) Section 325 of the Indian Penal Code provides that whoever, except in the case provided for by section 335, voluntarily causes grievous hurt, shall be subject to certain punishments.

A is charged with voluntarily causing grievous hurt under section 325.

The burden of proving the circumstances bringing the case under section 335 lies on A.

Principle—See Notes, post.

s. 101 (Burden of proof.)

s. 3 (" Court.") s. 4 ("Shall presume.")

Field, Ev., 495-496; Act XXV of 1861, ss. 235-237; Act XVIII of 1862, ss. 26-27; Act X of 1872, s. 439; Act X of 1882 and Act V of 1898, s. 221.

COMMENTARY.

This section is an important qualification of the general rule that in cri- Exceptions minal trials the onus of proving everything essential to the establishment of the Code charge against the accused, lies upon the prosecution (1) It is, as will be seen, stated in two forms-that of a rule as to the burden of proof, and that of a presumption. The result is the same in both cases (2) This section is an application, and perhaps, in some cases, an extension, of the principle contained in section 103, ante. This section effected an alteration in the law which required the prosecution, previous to its enactment, to prove the absence of circumstances constituting special exceptions.(3) Now both in the Presidency Towns(4) and in the Mofussil the burden of proof is upon the accused of showing existence, if any, of circumstances which bring the offence charged within any of the special as well as of any of the general exceptions or provisos contained in any part of the Penal Code or in any law defining the offence (4) With reference to the words "shall presume," see fourth section. So it is for those who raise the plea of private defence to prove it. The act charged moreover cannot be denied and the plea of private defence raised as an alternative If raised. a full account of the occurrence must be given in evidence.(5) So also the burden of proving the loss of self-control; (6) exemption from criminal respon-

(1) v ante, sv. 101-104, sub-toc Criminal

(2) Markby, Ev., 81,

(3) Field, Ev , 495, 496 , are Act XXV of 1861, 88 235, 236, 237 The Evidence Act expressly repealed (see Schedule), # 237, and the whole of the Act was subsequently repealed by Act X of 1872 (See s. 439 of Act X of 1872 and s. 221, the corresponding section of the present Code Act V of 1898).

(4) Before passing of Act X of 1892 it was doubted whether Act XVIII of 1862, ss. 26 and 27, were overridden by the present section [In re-Shibo Prorid, 4 C., 124, 127 (1878)]. The latter Act applied only to the High Court in its Original Criminal Jurisdiction , Sealy v Rammarain Bose, 4 W R , Cr., 22 (1865) The coubt 18, however, now solved as Act X of 1882 repealed so much of Act XVIII of 1862 as had not been previously repealed

(12) In re Shiba Prosad, 4 C , 124 (1878);

s c . 3 C L. R . 122 (5) In re Janaheer Sirdar, 1 C L. R. 62, 65

(1877) In re Kale Churs, U.C. L. R., 232 (1882). Astruddin Ahmed v. R., 8 C. W N., 714 (1904). (6) R. v. Devri Gorandyi, 20 B , 215, 223 (1895); R. v. Ehelli Choellys, 4 W. R., Cr., 35 (1865). English case it was held that the Court will not order the insertion in the probate of words actually missing from a torn will, but the practice to be followed in such a case, where satisfactory oral proof of the missing words is given, is to annex to the probate a document showing what the words were.(1)

Where a will was challenged on the ground that it was made by the deceased after the taking of poison and was therefore bad for being the act of suicide, it was held that the onus of proving whether the will was written after the swallowing of poison rested on the party impugning the will.(2) Upon a petition under section 234 of the Succession Act for revocation of probate on the ground that minor under the

of understanding forgery, it was held that the petitioner should be allowed an opportunity of proving that she had no knowledge of the previous proceedings; and if she succeeded, there should be a new trial as to the factum of the will, which the person propounding would have to prove in the ordinary way (3) The mere fact of an attesting witness to a will repudiating his signature does not invalidate a will, if it can be proved by the evidence of other witnesses of a reliable character that he has given false evidence (4) And it has been held in England that when a party is compelled to call the attesting witness to a will or codicil he may cross-examine him, as the latter is not the witness of either party but of the Court (5) When a will has been proved summarily, proof in solemn form per testes will not as a rule be required on the application of a person who had had notice, or had been aware of the previous proceedings before the grant of probate issued, and had then abstained from coming forward (6) Mere omission to serve a special citation would not by itself be sufficient ground for revoking the grant if it is shown that the person on whom the citation ought to have been served had knowledge of the application for probate. The onus of proving that he had such knowledge rests on the party who alleges it.(7) Where a deed of gift or will confers an estate upon a named person because he fills, or by reason of his filling, a certain character, he is entitled to recover the estate without affirmatively proving that he fills such character. The onus of proving that he does not fill the character which is the reason of the gift lies upon those who dispute his claim (8)

Burden of proving that case of accused comes within exceptions.

105. When a person is accused of any offence, the burden of proving the existence of circumstances bringing the case within any of the General Exceptions in the Indian Penal Code, or within any special exception or proviso contained in any other part of the same Code, or in any law defining the offence, is upon him, and the Court shall presume the absence of such circumstances.

th B39.

(6) Brinda Choudhrain v. Radhica Choudhrain,

11 C , 492 (1885). As to the onus of proof, see

<sup>(1)</sup> Gill v. Gill (1909), P, 157.

<sup>(2)</sup> Mathar Husen v. Bedha Bibi, 21 A., 91 (1898).

<sup>(7)</sup> Dintarins Debi v. Donbo Chunder, 8 C , 880 (1892).

Nobo Kishore v. Joy Deorya, 22 W. R., 189
 Kee as to attestation, ss. 68-72, post.
 Jones v. Jones (1908), Times L. R., v. 24.

Kals Das v. Ishan Chandra, 31 C., 914 (1904). The Prvy Council did not, however, decide the point, as it decided the ease on the evidence. (7) Prem Chand v. Surendra Nath, 9 C. W. N., 290 (1904)

<sup>(8)</sup> Rango Balajs v. Mwleyippa, 23 B, 296, 304 (1898), per Farran, C. J.

Illustrations

' (a) A, accused of murder, alleges that, by reason of unsoundness of mind, he did not know the nature of the act.

The burden of proof is on A.

(b) A, accused of murder, alleges that, by grave and sudden provocation, he was deprived of the power of self-control.

The burden of proof is on .1.

(c) Section 325 of the Indian Penal Code provides that wheever, except in the case provided for by section 335, voluntarily causes grievous hurt, shall be subject to certain nonthiments.

A is charged with voluntarily causing grievous hurt under section 325.

The burden of proving the circumstances bringing the case under section 335 lies on A.

Principle-See Notes, post.

s. 101 (Burden of proof.) s. 3 ("Court.")

s. 4 (" Shall presume.")

Field, Ev., 495—496; Act XXV of 1861, ss. 235—237; Act XVIII of 1862, ss. 26—27; Act X of 1872, s. 439; Act X of 1882 and Act V of 1898, s. 221.

COMMENTARY,

This section is an important qualification of the general rule that in cri- Exceptions minal trials the onus of proving everything essential to the establishment of the Gode charge against the accused, hes upon the prosecution (1) It is, as will be seen, stated in two forms-that of a rule as to the burden of proof, and that of a presumption The result is the same in both cases (2) This section is an application, and perhaps, in some cases, an extension, of the principle contained in section 103, ante. This section effected an alteration in the law which required the prosecution, previous to its enactment, to prove the absence of circumstances constituting special exceptions (3) Now both in the Presidency Towns(4) and in the Mofussil the burden of proof is upon the accused of showing existence, if any, of circumstances which bring the offence charged within any of the special as well as of any of the general exceptions or provisos contained in any part of the Penal Code or in any law defining the offence (4) With reference to the words "shall presume," see fourth section. So it is for those who raise the plea of private defence to prove it. The act charged moreover cannot be denied and the plea of private defence raised as an alternative. If raised, a full account of the occurrence must be given in evidence (5) So also the burden of proving the loss of self-control ,(6) exemption from criminal respon-

<sup>(1)</sup> v ante, ss. 101-104, sub-toc Craminal

<sup>(2)</sup> Markby, Ev. 81.

<sup>(3)</sup> Field, Er., 495, 496, see Act XN of 1861, s 235, 236, 237. The Exidence Act expressly repealed (see Schelule), s. 237, and the whole of the Act was subsequently repealed by Act N of 1872 (Ker s 479 of Act N of 1872 and s. 231, the corresponding section of the present Code Act N of 1820).

<sup>(4)</sup> Before passing of Act X of 1882 it was doubted whether Act XVIII of 1862, ss. 25 and 27, were overridden by the present section [In re-Shibo Prusad, 4 C., 121, 127 (1878)] The latter Act applied only to the High Court in its Original Criminal Jurishetton, Sealy v. Romeorain Bose, 4 W R, Cr., 22 (1865) The doubt is, however, now solved as Act X of 1882 repealed so much of Act XVIII of 1882 as had not been previously repealed.

<sup>(12)</sup> In re Shiba Prosad, 4 C., 124 (1878); • e, 3 C L. R., 121.

In re Jameheer Kirdar, 1 C. L. R., 62, 65
 In re Kals Churn, 11 C. L. R., 232 (1882), Asiruddin Ahmed v. R., 8 C. W. N., 714 (1904).

R. v. Deryi Gorindyi, 20 B., 215, 223 (1895);
 R. v. Shelkh Choullye, 4 W. R., Cr., 35 (1865).

sibility by reason of unsoundness of mind (1) good faith (2) the acceptance of risk by the person injured (3) and the like lies upon the accused. But it is not necessary for the accused to plead the existence of circumstances bringing his case within an exception; and the burden of proof which is upon him can be discharged by the evidence of witnesses for the prosecution as well as by evidence for the defence. An accused is clearly entitled to claim an acquittal if on the evidence for the prosecution it is shown he has committed no offence (4)

Burden of proving fact especially within knowledge.

106. When any fact is specially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.

Illustrations.

- (a) When a person does an act with some intention other than that which the character and circumstances of the act suggest, the burden of proving that intention is upon him (5)
  - (b) A is charged with travelling on a Railway without a ticket.
  - The burden of proving that he had a ticket is on him.

Principle—The capacity of parties to give evidence may effect the burden of proof. A person will not be forced to show a thing which lies not within his knowledge, (6)

s. 3 (" Fact.")

s. 101 (Burden of proof.)

Taylor, Ev., §§ 376 & 377; Wharton, Ev., § 367, Powell, Ev., 330; Best, Ev., §§ 274—276.

COMMENTARY.

Facts especially within the knowledge
of a party.

As already observed, (7) the first exception to the general rule that the burden of proof rests with the party who asserts the substantial affirmative is, that it does not apply where there is a prima facie presumption one way or other. This exception is the subject-matter of sections 107—114, post.

The second exception to the above-named general rule is stated by the present section, riz, that where the subject-matter of the allegation lies peculiarly within the knowledge of one of the parties, that party must prove it, whether it be of an affirmative or a negative character, and even though there be a presumption of law in its favour. (8)

v. Kals Kant, 13 B L. R., 161, 165 (1869), the

<sup>(1)</sup> R. v. Kader Nasuer, 23 C, 604, 607 (1896), R. v. Niat Ali, A. W. N. (1905), v. 2

<sup>(2)</sup> R. v. Baltrichae Vidal, 17 B. 573, 577, 575 (1802); R. v. Dhun Single, 6. A. 2.20, 222 (1884); Remeasuré v. Lolananda, 9 M. 387 (1885); Salton Kolding, v. K. 14 C., 560 (1887) In re Shiva Pressed, 4 C., 124 (1878); R. v. Gripskander Kachiem, 15 B. 258 (1899); R. v. Gripskander Kachiem, 15 B. 258 (1899); R. v. Sirigskander Sence in good 1841) "within the meaning of Act XXV of 1887, section 71 see R. v. Pharendan Nosh Matter (1993), 35 C., 1615.

<sup>(3)</sup> Sukaron Kohira, v. R., 14 C., 588, 569, 599 (1897)

<sup>(4)</sup> In re Kali Churn, 11 C. I., R., 232 (1892). Where, however, the plea is taken for the first time on appeal cf. R. v. Tiramal, 21 A., 122 (1893).

<sup>(5)</sup> See Deputy Legal, Remembrancer v. Karuna Buistoln, 22 C., 164, 174 (1894)

<sup>(6)</sup> Best, Ev. § 274
(7) v ant. Introd to Ch. VII.

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 307A; Dickow v. Evans, 6 T. R, 80; 3 R. R., 119, R. v. Turen, 7 C. E. K., 722; but see the observations of Alderson, B. vn. Effés v. Janone, 124 M. EV., 855, 14 I. J. Ev., 201, 9-Jur., 353, 282, 286; surgresting that the rule only refers to the scripts of the evidence; but that there should be some extincte of tarts the presumption and cast the ones on the other side. These observations are referred to Pools Blowing V. Watern & Co., 9 W. R., 102 (1888). Though there might, prior to this Act, have been said to have been soure doubt upon the subject, see Pednar Blowers.

' So in England, under the old law, in an action for penalties against a person for practising as an anotherary without a certificate(1) as the defendant was peculiarly cognizant of the fact whether or not he had obtained a certificate, and, if he had done so, could have no difficulty about producing it, the law compelled him to do so (although, had it not been for the principle in question, the plaintiff would have been bound to prove the negative for two reasons ; first, as essential, to his case, and secondly, to rebut the presumption of innocence). and in accordance with the principle under consideration it is for him to do so, and not for the plaintiff to prove its non-existence.(2) In a suit against a zemindar to reverse the sale of a patni tenure held under Regulation VIII of 1819 on the ground of non-service of notice, the onus of proving service lies on the defendant according to the terms of this section.(3) Where a horse was delivered to a defendant in a sound state, but when returned was found to be foundered, it was held that it was for the defendant to show how the horse which was perfectly sound when taken out was foundered when returned.(4) Sales of consignments entrusted to commission-agents and particulars of those sales are matters which he specially within their knowledge, and every contract of of rendering a true and complete account

' agency.(5) Where in a suit between a eld lands of considerable extent under the former, but objected that one or two plots occupied by him had been held under a different title, it was held that under such circumstances it was for the defendant to prove a matter which was peculiarly within his knowledge (6) Where the plaintiff who was formerly putnidar of the village sued for the possession of certain land which he claimed as lakhiraj, and from which he stated that he had been ousted by the defendant who had become putnidar by purchase at a sale held under Bengal Regulation VIII of 1819, it was held that though, according to the general rule, it would have lain upon the defendant to show that the land was rent-paying after 1790, yet as the plaintiff by reason of his having been formerly putnidar of the village had special means of knowledge and was in a position to prove the area of the rent-paying lands, the burden of proof lay upon him in the first place to show that the disputed land was not within this area.(7) When the sons of a living father bring a suit against a creditor to get rid of a charge on the ancestral estate created by him, on the aste of the estate, the ante-

be in the knowledge of the ger, the onus of disproving the charge may properly be placed upon them (8) recorded share of the profits of a malad, e. defendant hable under section 209, not rule, however, m India now that stated in the test and in Taylor, Ev. § 756 A. Wharton, Ev. § 367. Cavell, Ev. p. 330 As to the extent of this section, are observations in Muhammed Issayat V Muhammed Karanacillah, 12 A., 12 (1893) The applicability of the rule and the extent to which it should be careft as a question of conniderable difficulty; see Best, Et. §§ 274-276

- (1) Under 55 Geo 3, C 194 (The Apothecarus Act, 1815), see now 21 & 22 Vic., C 90, § 40
- (2) Taylor, Ev., § 376A . Apolh Co v Beniley Ry. & M., 159, 1 C. & P., 638.
- (3) Doorgs Churn v. Synd Majunooddeen, 21 W. R., 397 (1874); see also Hurro Doyal v. Makomed Ga-i, 19 C., 699 (1894).

- (4) Collins v Bennett, 46 N. Y. Rep. (Au er.)
  "That is a case which probably would come under a 108 of the Evidence Act," per Edge, C
- m Shidda C Billinson, 9 A., 406 (1987)
   Mayen V Alien, 16 M., 238, 245 (1892), to account sales being prima facia evidence, see Bailow V Chini Lall, 28 C, 209 (1900).
  - (6) Ram Coomer v Beejoy Gorsed, 7 W R , 53 (1667), distinguished in Gredhar Hart v Kale
- Kant, 13 B 1 R . A C . 181 (1869)
  (7) Nubo Kissen v Promothonat'i Ghose, 5 W.
- R., 148 (1868), distinguished in Girdhar Hari v. Kali Kant, 13 B. L. R., A. C., 161 (1869).
- (8) Hunoman pershad Panday v. Museumat Kunnverer, C.M. 1 A. 418, 419, (1856).

only for the profits which the latter has actually collected, but for those which through gross negligence or misconduct he has omitted to collect, the burden of proving such negligence or misconduct rests in the first instance on the plantiff. No general rule can be laid down as to the quantum of evidence which the plaintiff in such a case must give in order to shift the burden of proof on to the defendant. The mere production by the plaintiff of the jamaband or rent-roll is not sufficient to cast upon the defendant the necessity of proving that there was no negligence or misconduct in him. Section 106 of the Evidence Act does not apply to such a case.(1)

instiunless ce the necessary license or authority (as the case may be) in proceedings for selling liquors, improperly exercising a trade or profession, and the like; in actions for penalties against the proprietor of a threatre for performing dramatic pieces without the written consent of the author, in proceedings for misprison of treason, where if the treason be proved, and the knowledge of it be traced to the prisoner, he is in strictness bound to negative the averment of concealment by offering proof of a discovery on his part (2) So if, notwithstanding the act of he accused was some-

d by the character and argued that though the facts might go to show that the intention was that the girls should be employed for the purpose of prostitution, still they did not sufficiently show that the employment intended was to be before the completion of the sixteenth year by the girls, it was held that under this section it lay upon the accused to prove that she intended to put off the employment until the completion. The section of the sixteen of the property of the employment until the completion of the sixteen of the section of the section ty of Agra, all carrying arms (guns and and none of them could give any explanation of his presence at the spot under the particular circumstances, and at that period the District of Agra was notorious as the scene of frequent and recent dacoities, it was held that the circumstances justified the inference of an intent to commit dacoity and the burden of proving the contrary rested on the accused under this section (4)

When an instrument on its production appears to have been altered, it is a general rule that the party offering it in evidence must explain this appearance, if he be called upon to do so by the issue raised, and if the instrument be not admitted by his opponent under notice, because as every alteration on the face of a written instrument renders it suspicious it is only reasonable that the party claiming under it should remove the suspicion.(5) It is not, however.

v. Moodestrein kipsh, 9 M. I. A. J. If (1881). I. W. R. P. C., 26. There may, however, be corre-because proof strong enough to rebut the presamption which arms against an apparent and presumable falsefur of evidence in, 17. As to malernal alterations in instruments being facilities to their valshipt, see Taylor, F. J. Hillor—180. The role of English law that a material alteration of a document by a party to the after its evention without the consent of the other party renders to vord, in no force in India. (Insuran v. Landon, 23 R., 616 (1901); [distinguished in Galemals v. Miyobhal, 3 Dim. I. R., 544 (1901) in which it was add that where a written acknowledges that its data that the tree a written acknowledges that its data there as written acknowledges that its data there, our effects of the property of the control of

<sup>(1)</sup> Muhammed Inyat v. Muhammed Koramulullah, 12 A., 301 (1893) See now N.-W. P., Act II of 1901.

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, Fv., § 377, and cases there exted.
(3) Deputy Legal Remembrance v. Karuna Doisdoli, §2 C., 164, 175 (1891), see R. v. Papur Sani, 23 Y., 159 (1899). See as to the application of this section in criminal cases. Bulmalmad Ram v. Ghanem Ram, §2 C., 409, argurado

<sup>(4)</sup> R v. Bhde, 23 A., 124 (1900).

<sup>(5)</sup> Taylor, I'v., § 1819; Petamber Manilyee v. Mosterbard Manilyte, 1 M. I. A., 429, 429 (1837); S. W. R., P. C., 33; Maddon Mohan v. Bolmad Reva, Sutherland's Moland Small Cause Court Reference, 69 (1841); Museum Akado

on every occasion of a party tendering an instrument in evidence that he is bound to explain any material alteration that appears upon its face; but only on those occasions when he is seeking to enforce it, or claiming an interest under such instrument.(1) The instrument may be void for the purpose of taking an interest under it, but nevertheless admissible to prove a collateral fact.(2) It follows that a deed is not rendered inadmissible by alteration, if it be produced merely as proof of some right or title created by or resulting from its having been executed (3) Nor does the rule of law which requires the party tendering in evidence an altered instrument to explain its appearance, apply to ancient documents coming from the right custody merely because they are in a mutilated or imperfect state. It is sufficient that the instrument is produced in the same state in which it was actually found. The weight, however, due to such a document may be affected (4)

Where a written acknowledgment bears a date which has been altered, oral evidence to prove the date is inadmissible under the nineteenth section. second paragraph, of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877.(5)

107. When the question is whether a man is alive or dead, Burden of and it is shown that he was alive within thirty years, the burden person and it is shown that he was alive within thirty years, the burden person who affirms it. of proving that he is dead is on the person who affirms it.

have been alive within thirty vears.

108. Provided that when the question is whether a Burden of man is alive or dead, and it is proved that he has not been heard that person of for seven years by those who would naturally have heard of heard of heard of the provided in the control of the second of the control of the cont him if he had been alive, the burden of proving that he is alive is seven years shifted to the person who affirms it.

Principle.—The presumption in favour of continuance. See Notes, post-

s. 101 (Burden of proof)

Taylor, Ev., §§ 196, 198-201; Best, Ev., §§ 408, 409, Wharton, Ev., §§ 1275-1277; Lawson on Presumptive Evidence, p. 192, et seq.

to prove that date is madmissible under para 2 of s. 19 of the Limitation Act ] See also Gogun Chunder v Dhuronidhur Mundul, ? C., 616 (1831); s c. 9 C. L. R. 257; Ganga Ran v Chandan Singh, 4 A., 62 (1881) Sitaram Arishna v. Days Heran, 7 B , 118 (1883) Idesented from m Mohesh Chunder v Kamana Kumari, 12 C . 313 (1885)] , Ooley Chand v Bhaskar Joronnath, 6 B., 371 (1981), Christacharlu v. Kasibasanya 9 M , 399 (1885), F B , Gobindasami v. Kuppusams, 12 M., 239 (1889). Paramma v. Ramarhandra, 7 M , 302 (1883) The rule does not apply to documents which are not the foundation of a plaintiff's claim, but ere merely evidence of a defendant's pre-existing hability A written acknowledgment of his hability by a debtor which is intended merely to save the bar of limitation and not to give a light of action is not within the rule _limaram v. Umedram, 25 B., 616 (1901); referred to and distinguished in Sayad Gulamals v Meyabhas, 26 B , 128 (1901). An immaterial alteration discs not avoid the in-

- strunent. Islandas Jarahirdas v Gungakom Mathuradas, 11 Bom H C R, 203 (1873); Ede v Kanto Nath, 3 C., 220 (1877), unless made fraudulently Kales Koomar v. Gunga Narain. 10 W. R., 250 (1968) And a material alteration made after execution does not vitiate a deed, if it be made with the concent of all the parties; Isac Mohamet v Bas Farms, 10 B., 487 (1886).
  - (1) Taylor, Ev , § 1824, and cases there cited.
- (2) Hutckins v Scott, 2 M v W . 816. (3) Taylor, Ev. § 1826 as to alterations by a stranger and without the privity of either party.
- (4) 16, $ 1838 (5) Sayad Galamals v. Msyabhas, 26 B. 128 (1901).

ece ib , §§ 1827-1829

- (6) The words in brackets in a 108 were substituted for the original word (" when ") by Act XVIII of 1972, s. 9
- (7) The words in brackets were substituted for " on " by s. 9 of Act XVIII of 1872.

COMMENTARY.

Continuance of life This section, according to its terms, does not require that the Court should hold the person dead at the expiration of the seven years therein indicated; but merely provides that the burden of proving that he is alive at the time of the suit is shifted to the person who affirms it.(1)

"'Various primé lacie legal presumptions are founded on the continuance or immutability for a longer or shorter period, of human affairs, which experience tells us usually occurs. So when the existence of a person or personal relation, or a state of things, is once proved, the law presumes that the person, relation, or state of things continues to exist till the contrary is shown, or till a different presumption is raised from the nature of the subject."(2) So, apart from the present sections and that which follows them, the Act declares generally that the Court may presume that a thing or state of things which has been shown to be in existence within a period shorter than that within which such things or state of things usually ceases to exist, is still in existence (3)

These sections and the following section deal with certain instances of the presumption which exists in favour of continuance of immutability. It is on the principle of this presumption that a person shown to have been once living is, in the absence of proof that he has not been heard of within the last seven years, presumed to be still alive (4) These sections establish a uniform rule upon their subject-matter, both for Hindus and Mahomedans as well as all others. According to Hindu law twelve years must have elapsed before an absent person, of whom nothing has been heard during this period, can be presumed to be dead.(5) In the case of Mahomedan law the old Hanafi doctrine required that ninety years should have elapsed from the date of the birth of missing person before his death could be presumed. The Maliki principle is now, however, in force among the Hanafis, namely, that if a person be unheard of for four years he is to be presumed to be dead. Among the Shiahs the period is ten years, and among the Shafees seven (6) Now however, the rule contained in these sections, being a rule of evidence only, governs both Hindus(7) and Mahomedans (8) Although, however, a person who has not been heard of for seven years is presumed to be dead, there is no presumption as to the time of his death; and if any one seeks to establish the precise period at which such person died, he must do so by actual evidence! The question for which provision is made is whether a man is alive or dead at the time the question is raised (9) There is no presumption of law relative to the continuance of life in the abstract The death of any party once shown to have been alive is a matter of fact to be determined by the Court. But as the presumption is in favour of the continuance of life, the onus of proving the

Narayan Bhaywant v. Sesniras Trimbuk, 8 Bons, L. R. 226.

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, v. § 196, Best, Pres Ev., 196 (3) S. 114, Ill. (d), post.

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 108; see v. 114, III. (d),

 <sup>(5)</sup> Janmajay Maiumdar v. Keshub Lal, 2 B.
 L. R., A. C., 124 (1868); 6 B. L. R., App., 16.
 (6) Hedaya, Bix, xm, N.-W. P. Reja., 191.
 Amer Hal's Mahommedan Law, n. 129

Dharag Nath v. Gobind Saran, 8 A., 614 (1880); Dhondo Bhilaji v. Gancah Bikaji, 11
 B., 431 (1895); Bilanya v. Kinnapja, 11 M., 444 (1888), see also Pari Chinlaman v. Moro fatihman, 11 D., 80 (1899).

<sup>(8)</sup> Mathar 4ls v. Rud's Sing's, 7 A., 297 (1891), Vocilis Casum v. Murila Abilul, 15 Med L. J.

<sup>317 (1995),</sup> P. C. s. c., 2 Alt. L. J., 798, 10 C. W. N., 33 But see observations in actes to s. 112, <sup>764 &</sup>quot;Eudence of Parents" (9) Fast Basen Banery v. Suryua Kanda (19) Fast Basen Banery v. Suryua Kanda (19) Fast Basen Banery v. Suryua Kanda (1907), 35 Cal., 25, 11 C. W. N. Si 32, Dhavap Nath v. Goldad Saran, 8 A., 641 (1881), Rompo Endiqi v. Madyeppen, 23 B., 296 (1893), Tavlor, K. § 200 In re Peton, 6 L. T. R., 707, 710 All the casas will be found cited in In re Panera Travier, I. N., 6 Ch. Arp., 170 The role in the name whether only seren years of more than seven years have elapsed. There us no presumption either is to the ture of death within the period of seven years, or that the person divid at the conclusion of that period, ψ. see Neptan v. Dov., 2 Sim. L. C., In τe Overa's Suttlement, L. R., 1 Eq., 289.

death lies on the party who asserts it. The fact of death may, however, be proved by presumptive as well as by direct evilence. So the presumption of the continuance of life ceases at the expiration of seven years from the period when the person in question was last heard of. And the burden of proving that the person was alive at any time within the seven years is upon the person asserting it (1) But a Court may find the fact of death from the lapse of a shorter period than seven years, if other circumstances concur (2) In England it has been held that the Court will in particular circumstances modify the usual form of oath, (3) and that in Chancery there is no presumption of death without issue; for the latter point must be proved (4)

109. When the question is whether persons are partners, Burden of landlord and tenant, or principal and agent, and it has been proof as to shown that they have been acting as such, the burden of proving in the cases that they do not stand, or have ceased to stand, to each other in landlord and tenant, those relationships respectively, is on the person who affirms it.

Principle.-The presumption relating to continuance: see Notes, post-When a juridical relation is once established, it is enough generally for a party relying on such relation to show its establishment, and the burden is then on the opposite party to show that the relation has ceased to exist. (5)

s. 101 (Burden of Proof.)

Taylor, Ev., § 196; Best, Ev., § 405; Wharton, Ev., §§ 1284-1296; Lawson on Presumptive Evidence, 172, 175, et seq.

COMMENTARY.

This section, which confirms the previous law upon the subject,(6) merely continuapplies to three common and important relationships,—partnership, landlord ance of part-and tenant, and principal and agent—the general presumption, already ad tenancy and verted to in the notes to the preceding sections, based on the continuance of agency human affairs in the state in which they are once shown to be. When, therefore, the existence of a relationship or state of things is once proved, the law presumes that it continues till the contrary is shown or some other presumption arises A partnership(7) agency,(8) tenancy,(9) or other similar relation. once shown to exist is presumed to continue, till it is proved to have been dissolved.(10) So when a partnership was admitted to exist in 1816, it was presumed to continue in 1838 (11) From the same presumption of a continuance of death armes."

<sup>(1)</sup> Re Benjamin (1902), 1 Ch , 723 (2) Best, Ev., §§ 408, 409; as to the presumption of survivorship v. & , $410; and p. 59, note (5), ante. See Wharton, Ev., §§ 1275-1277. In Lawson on Presumptive Evidence, p 192, the rule with regard to the presumption of hie is thus summarised :- "Love of life is presumed. (therefore suicide will not be presumed), and a person proved to have been alive at a former time, is presumed to be alive at the present time, until his death is proved or a presumption

<sup>(3)</sup> Re Walter (1909), p. 115.

<sup>(4)</sup> In to Jackson; Jackson v. Ward (1907). 2 Ch., 354.

<sup>(5)</sup> Wharton, Fr., § 1294; Lauson on Presumptive Evidence, 172

<sup>(6)</sup> Rungo Lall v. Abdool Gufloor, 4 C. 314 317 (1878)-

<sup>(7)</sup> See Clark v. Alexander, 8 Scott, N. R . 181 (8) See Smout v. Ilbery, 10 M. & W., 1 [continuance of authority of agent.]

<sup>(9)</sup> See Picket v. Packham, I. R., 4 Ch App. 190.

<sup>(10)</sup> Taylor, Ev , $ 194

<sup>(11)</sup> Clark v. 4lexander, 8 Scott., N. R. 161. and see Anderson v. Clay, & 1 Stark., 405; and Cooper v. Pedrick, 22 Barb., 515 (Amer ), eited m Lawson's Presumptive Fridence, p. 175 In the last case a partner brought an action on a note. It was contended that the plaints Ta were not partners. It was proved that three years previous they were partners. It was still that the presumption was they continued to be so.

of things once shown to exist, it follows that, after the expiration of the term limited by the articles it is prima face presumed that such of the provisions of the articles as are not inconsistent with a partnership at will continue to apply.(1) This presumption has been made the subject of positive enactment by section 256 of the Contract Act (2) As to agency, see sections 182-238 of the same Act, and in particular section 206, which deals with notice of revocation or renunciation, and section 203, which deals with the taking effect as to the agent and third persons of the termination of an agent's authority. From the same presumption when a tenant holds over after the expiration of the term, he impliedly holds subject to all the covenants in the lease which are applicable to his new situation (3) Where two persons set up rival claims to the tenancy of the same piece of land under the same landlord, and one of them admitted the previous tenancy of the other, who, he pleaded, had relinquished the land, which was upon that lease, to himself, it was held that it lay upon him to prove the relinquishment which he thus alleged (4) When the relationship of landlord and tenant has once been proved to exist, the merc non-payment of rent, though for many years, is not sufficient to show that the relationship has ceased, and a tenant who is sued for rent and contends that such relationship has ceased, is bound to prove that fact by some affirmative proof, and more especially is he so bound when he does not expressly deny that he still continues to hold the land in question in the suit (5) The principle upon which this section is based is one of general application, and the presumption upon which it proceeds has been applied to other cases than those particularly mentioned in the section (6)

Burden of proof as to ownership.

110. When the question is whether any person is owner of anything of which he is shown to be in possession, the burden of proving that he is not the owner is on the person who affirms that he is not the owner.

Principle—Possession affords prima face presumption of ownership, for men generally own what they possess. (7) See Notes, post.

s.-101 (Burden of Proof.)

Taylor, Ev., §§ 123—127; Markby, Ev., 84, 85; Wharton, Ev., §§ 1331—1350; Lawson on Presumptive Evidence, 440; Best on Presumptive Evidence, 87—169; Pollock and Wright, Possession in the Common Law

COMMENTARY.

Possession

A person in possession of land without title has an interest in the property which is heritable and good against all the world except the true owner, an interest which, unless and until the true owner interferes, is capable of being disposed of by deed or will or by execution-sale, just in the same way as it could be dealt with if the title were unimpeachable [8] But if a person

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 196, and cases there cited.
(2) Nos also §§ 339-366; * 264 deals with notice of dissolution

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Fv., § 196; see Act IV of 1882 (Transfer of Property), s. 116

<sup>(4)</sup> Kesern Chunder v. Hookoom Chand, W. R., 1861, p. 47. (5) Rungo Lall v. Abduol Guffoor, 4 C., 114

<sup>(1878);</sup> see also Parbatts Dassi v. Ram Chand, 3 C. L. R., 576 (1879).

<sup>(6)</sup> Her O'hoy Churs v. Huri Nath, S C., 72, 79

<sup>(1891)</sup> So, according to Hindu law, a joint family is presumed to remain so, until evidence of division has been given. See s 114, post (7) Webb v. Fox, 4 R. R., 472, per Lord Kenyon. The presumption arising from possession has also been elsewhere recognised by the Indian Legislature, both in criminal and civil proceedings. See Cr. Pr. Code, s. 145, Act I of 1877 (Specific Relief), s. 9.

<sup>(8)</sup> Oobind Pranad v. Mohan Lul, 21 A., 157 9 (1901)

claiming to be the true owner does interfere, the possession of his opponent casts upon the former the bunden of proof. Possession of movable or immovable property is presumptive proof of ownership, because nen generally own the property which they possess. When therefore a person is in possession of anything, the presumption of expership being in his favour, the builden of showing that that person is not the owner of that of which he has possession is on the person who affirms it. So a plaintiff seeking to eject a delepdant from property of which the latter has possession and to obtain possession thereof for himself, must recover by the strength of his can legal title and cannot in the first instance call upon the defendant to shew the title under which he holds He must succeed by the strength of his own title and not by reason of the weakness of his opponents. It is immaterial therefore to consider in such a case whether the property in question belongs to the defendant or not because whether it does so belong or not, unless it be proved that the property belongs to the plaintiff, the latter is not entitled to turn the defendant out of posses This presumption in favour of the person in possession is of the greatest practical importance in this country, especially in relation to disputes as to the ownership of land, the commonest of all disputes. It is an imperative presump tion; that is to say, the Court is found to regard the owner-hip of the possessor as proved, unless and until it is disproved. But the plaintiff, by the very form of his suit, in a suit to recover possession, assumes that the defendant is in possession, and therefore provides his antagonist with a strong weapon of defence. This it is which lends importance to those disputes regarding passes rion, very often leading to bloodshed, which the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Chapter XII) and the Penal Code (sections 151, 158), and the 9th section of Act 1 of 1877 were specially intended to suppress. Not a few of these disputes are preliminary skirmishes, the object of which is to secure the advantageous position of defendant in the civil suit which must ultimately determine the question of ownership (1) Where a person is shown to be in possession of property he is under this section to be presumed to be the owner of it (2) According to this section, possession is prima facte evidence of a complete title because it is the sum of the acts of ownership. This applies both to prior and to present possession. Thus possession has a

(1) Markby, Fr. Act, 84, 85; Seriagi Vapaya v. Chinna Nayana, 10 M. I. A., 151 (1854); Joseph Bulah v. Dhar Singh, 10 M. I. A., 511, 528, 529 (1856); Ram Rutton v. Furrenkonnikat Begum, 4 M. I. A., 233 (1817); Rajah Burdacani v. Chunder Coomar, 12 M I A . 145 (1868) 2 B. L. R., P. C., 1. [In a case of disputed boundarres, when one of the claimants is in possession by virtue of a Magnetrate's order (see se. 145-148, Cr. Pr. Code), it hes on the party seeking to oust him to show a better title to the land claimed than that of the party in possession . see also Hari Ram v. Bhikaree Roy, 25 W. R. 20 (1876)]; Kalee Namin v. Annuad Moyer, 21 W. R., 79 (1874), Mudun Mchun v. Bhogyomania Poddar, 8 C , 923 (1882) , [when a person who, by an order of the Collector passed under the provisions of the land Regustration Act (VII of 1876, B. C ), has been declared to be out of possession of land, brings a suit for its recovery, it has upon him in the first instance to make out a primal facir case. But see also Omrunnsses Bibes v. Dilaum Ally, 10 C, 350 (1884); and as to whether regutration is any evidence of title, see p. 353, note (6) ante]; Ratan

Koar v. Jiwan Singh, 1 A., 194 (1876), Rom. chandra Apaji v Bolaji, 9 B. 137 (1894); Wallker v. dimorom, 14 W. R., 478 (1870); Hari Ram v Raj Comear, 8 C., 759 (1892); Sumatun Sala v. Ramjey Sala, Marshall's Rep., 519 (1863); Rajah Habesh v. Keshanund Mier, M. I. A., 324, 329 (1862); 5 W. R., P. C., 7 [vale under Beng. Reg XX of 1795); Tiers v Kristodhun Bose, 1 I. A., 76, 83 (1873); [expediency of insisting on strict proof on part of plaintiff in ejectment]; Rance Shornomoyee v. Walson & Co. 20 W. R., 211 (1873); [it is immaterial to consider whether or not the land is the property of the defendant] : Sham Narais v. Court of Wards. 20 W. R., 197 (1873); Shah Gulam v. Mahommed Albar, 8 Mad. H C. R , 63 (1875); Ashrooffoonises Begum v. Rughoonath Sohov. 2 W. R., 267 (1865); Chunder Moneev. Ray Kishore, 5 W. R., 246 (1866); Museamut Hurrosconderu v. Ameens Regum, 1 Jur N. S , 188 (1866) ; and cases cited post passim. · (2) Hari Chintaman v. Moro Lakshman, 11 B., (2) Hars Chinteman v. Moro Lakshman, 11 B 99 (1886). two-fold value; it is evidence of ownership and is itself the foundation of a right to possession.(1) Any one who would oust the possessor must establish a right to do so. The law leans in favour of possession and an apparent right exercised for many years It requires the claimant to make out a clear case and to succeed by the strength of the title he sets up.(2)

Possession is evidence of title, and gives a good title as against a wrongdoer; but a person who has not had possession cannot, without proof of title, turn another out of possession, even though that other may have no title; for possession is a good title against every one who cannot prove a better.(3)

A Magistrate, trying a case under section 145 of the Criminal Procedure Code, in determining the question of possession, took into consideration the question of title. Held, that he had a right to discuss the question of title, if in his opinion it was material upon the question of possession; and that the mere fact that he had considered and discussed the question of title, could not invalidate his decision on the point of possession, provided that there was evidence before him as to who was in possession. Semble.—In the absence of any other evidence of possession, a Magistrate would be justified in finding possession to be with a person to whom symbolical possession has been shown to have been given in execution of a decree, although possibly slight evidence would be sufficient to rebut such evidence of possession.(4)

When a plaintiff sues for declaration of title to property, of which the defendant is in possession, but of which the plaintiff produces the title-deeds in his favour and the defendant admits them, the onus is on the latter to disprove the plaintiff's title. (5)

When a plaintiff sued to recover possession of certain lands, alleging that they had been granted by his ancestor to one P R, to be held in jagkeer tenure by P R, and his lineal descendants, that P R's leneal descendants had failed, and therefore plaintiff was entitled to resume possession, it was held that it lay upon the plaintiff to prove the grant to P R in the first instance: and that, until he had done this, he had no standing in Court at all (6)

The ordinary presumption is that possession goes with the title: that presumption cannot, of course, be of any avail in the presence of clear evidence to owever, cannot contradict facts or overcome resumption of law being contested by proof of are denied, the presumption loses its value, unless the evidence is equal on both sides, in which case it should turn the

<sup>(1)</sup> Harr Kharls v. Dondhi Natha, 8 Bon. L. R., 96

<sup>(2)</sup> Harder Khan v. Secretary of State for India in Council, P. C. (1908), 55 C., p. 1, Rom Papir v Balgsi Bhavara, 9 B., 137, 140 (1834) The policy of the Law is favourable to presumptions arming from lapse of time; Wharton, Ev., § 1338.

<sup>(3)</sup> George Clarke v. Bindabun Chunder, W. R. F. B. 20 (1862)

<sup>(4)</sup> Raja Rabu v. Muddun Mohun, 14 C., 169 (1898).

<sup>(6)</sup> Swarnamayi Raur v. Srinibadi Koyal, 6 B. L. R., 149 (1870).

<sup>(6)</sup> Maharajah Juggernath v. Ahlad Kouur, 19 W. R., 140 (1873)

Rungeet Ram v. Coburthon Ram, 20 W. R.
 30 (1873); Diagra Singh v. Hur Pershad, 12
 C. 33 (1885), Mahomed Rassir v Kurrem Balsh,
 H. W. R., 288 (1889); Rarbumar Ray v. Oobind
 Chunder, 19 C., 600, 673 (1801).

<sup>(8)</sup> Lasson, Presumptive Evidence, 576 Presumptions stand only till fley are overnome by facts; Whitaler v. Morrison, 44 Am. Dec. 6.7 (Amer.) They have no place for consultation when the evidence is disclosed of the avernment is made; Odjan v. Pagr., 18 Wall., 364 (Amer.), exted in Lasson, Loc. 61.

two-fold value; it is evidence of ownership and is itself the foundation of a right to possession.(1) Any one who would out the possession must establish a right to do so. The law leans in favour of possession and an apparent right exercised for many years. It requires the claimant to make out a clear case and to succeed by the strength of the title he sets up (2)

Possession is evidence of title, and gives a good title as against a wrongdoer; but a person who has not had possession cannot, without proof of title, turn another out of possession, even though that other may have no title; for possession is a good title against every one who cannot prove a better.(3)

A Magistrate, trying a case under section 145 of the Criminal Procedure Code, in determining the question of possession, took-into consideration the question of title. Riedl, that he had a right to discuss the question of title, if in his opinion it was material upon the question of possession; and that the mere fact that he had considered and discussed the question of title, could not invalidate his decision on the point of possession, provided that there was evidence before him as to who was in possession. Semble—In the absence of any other evidence of possession, a Magistrate would be justified in finding possession to be with a person to whom symbolical possession has been shown to have been given in execution of a decree, although possibly slight evidence would be sufficient to rebut such evidence of possession.

When a plaintiff sues for declaration of title to property, of which the defendant is in possession, but of which the plaintiff produces the title-deeds in his favour and the defendant admits them, the onus is on the latter to disprove the plaintiff's title (5)

When a plaintiff sued to recover possession of certain lands, alleging that they had been granted by his ancestor to one P R, to be held in jagheer tenure by P R, and his lineal descendants, that P R's leneal descendants had failed, and therefore plaintiff was entitled to resume possession, it was held that it lay upon the plaintiff to prove the grant to P R in the first instance: and that, until he had done this, he had no standing in Court at all (6)

The ordinary presumption cannot, of course the contrary; but where one side, opposed by evidence apparently strong also on the part of the other, in such cases in estimating the weight due to the evidence on both sides, the presumption may, when the circumstances of the particular case require it, be regarded (7) A presumption, however, cannot contradict facts or overcome facts proved (8) A rebuttable presumption of law being contested by proof of facts showing otherwise, which are denied, the presumption loses its value, unless the evidence is equal on both sides, in which case it should turn the

<sup>(1)</sup> Hars Kharda v Dondhi Natha, 8 Bon L. R., 96.

<sup>(2)</sup> Harder Khan v. Secretary of State for India in Council, P. C. (1908), 20 C., p 1, Ram Chandra Appi v. Balan Bhauran, 9 B, 137, 149 (1834) The policy of the Law is favourable to presumptions aroung from lapse of time, Wharton Ev. 4 1338

<sup>(3)</sup> George Clarle v. Bindahun Chunder, W. R. F. B., 20 (1802) (4) Rapi Bahu v. Muddun Mohun, 14 C., 169

<sup>(1886).</sup> (5) Swarnamayi Raur v. Srenibach Loyal, 6 B. L. R., 149 (1870).

<sup>(6)</sup> Maharajah Juggernath v Ahlad Konur, 19 W R, 140 (1873)

Runjeet Ram v. Ooburdbon Ram, 20 W. R.
 30 (1873). Dharm Singh v. Hur Pershad, 12
 C. 33 (1885). Mahomed Bassiv v. Kurrem Balsh,
 H. W. R., 268 (1889); Railtumar Ray v. Gobind
 Chunder, 19 C., 690, 673 (1891)

<sup>(8)</sup> Lawson, Presumptive Evidence, 676. Presumptions stand only still flav are necrone by facts, Whittaker v. Morrson, 44 Am. Dec, 627 (Amer.) They have no place for consideration when the evidence is disclosed or the averiment in made; Oslpin v. Paye, 18 Wall, 384 (Amer.), cuted in Lawson, loc. cit.

scale (1) It is, therefore, only when there is no exidence of possession either way, or when the exidence of possession is strong on both sides and apparently equally balanced, that the presumption that possession goes with title should prevail. The principle does not apply where the exidence of possession is equally unworthy of rehance on both sides (2). When it is not shown that defendant's possession becan as of a tenant, and it is not proved that the plaintiff received any rent from the defendant during twelve years prior to the filing of the suit, the plaintiff's suit for possession must be dismissed, for the defendant's possession must be presumed to be that of an owner, and adverse to the plaintiff (3)

Ordinarily in the case of property held in common the possession of a co-sharer is the possession of all. In a case in which co-sharers set up a title adverse to a co-sharer it has upon them to show at what time their possession become adverse or that there was clear and definite abandonment with intention (4). When the defendant to a suit for possession of land pleads adverse possession, it lies in the first instance upon the plaintiff to prove that he was in possession at some time within twelve years of the suit (5). But the onus is then on the defendant to show at what time his adverse possession began (6)

In the case of the owner of land seeking to recover possession on the allegation that the party in possession has no right to continue in it, and showing a prima facte title to possession, he can claim a decree, unless the party in possession has a tenure entitling him to retain possession (7). Thus in a suit to recover possession, the plaintiff, who was admittedly the remindar, alleged, but failed to prove, that the land was her zerrat. The defendants who claimed to have acquired rights of occupancy failed to prove that they had acquired such rights or that they were tenants of the plaintiff. It was under such circumstances held that the plaintiff being admittedly the zemindar was entitled to a decree, the defendants having failed to establish their defence.(8) Upon a similar principle a remindar has as such a prima facie title to the gross collections of all the mauzahs or villages within his zemindary, and the burden of proof is upon a person who seeks to defeat that right by proving that he is entitled to an intermediate tenure.(9) And in the undermentioned case it was held by the Privy Council that while it is for the plaintiff in ejectment to prove possession prior to alleged dispossession, at the same time on this question of evidence the material fact of his title comes to his aid with greater or less force according to the circumstances established in evidence.(10)

Orders for possession under Act XXV of 1861, section 318, Act X of 1872, section 530, and X of 1882, section 145, relating to "disputes as to immovable property" are merely police-orders made to prevent breaches of the peace and decide no question of title. Such c 1-- -- 3 -1-313 :- -principles as well as under the Evid fact that such orders were made. following facts appearing on the orders themselves, tiz., who the parties to the

<sup>(1)</sup> Lawson, op est., 576.

<sup>(2)</sup> Thalur Singh v. Bhogera; Singh, 27 C, 25 (1899); the last sentence which is taken from the headnote is not expressly stated in, but appears to be implied by the judgment, Apparently the evidence given negatived the presumption, otherwise the case put is similar to that where there is no evidence.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ram Monce v. Alcemoodeen, 20 W. R , 374 (1873); see also Raj Kishen v. Pearce Mohun, 20 W. R , 421 (1873).

<sup>(4)</sup> Behari v. Sadho Mal 73 P. L. R. (1906).

<sup>(5)</sup> Haji v. Gohna, 39 P. L. R. (1906) (6) Mazhar Hann v. Behari Singh (1906). A. W. N., 234

<sup>(7)</sup> Gunpat Rao v. Ganpat Rao, 2 N. L. R , 32, (8) Batai Ahrr v. Bhuggobutty Koer, 11 C. L. R., 476 (1882); and see Narring Narain v. Dharam Tholus, 9 C. W. N., 144 (1904).

<sup>(9)</sup> Rajah Sahib v. Doorgapershad Tewaree, 12 M. I. A., 331 (1869); s. c., 2 B. L. R. (P. C.), 134. (10) Rani Himanta Kumari v. Jagadendra Nath Roy (P. C), 10 C. W. N., 630; 3 All. L. J., 363; 8 Bont. L. R. 400.

dispute were; what the land in dispute was; and who was declared entitled to retain possession. For this purpose and to this extent such orders are admissible in evidence for and against any one, when the fact of possession at the date of the order has to be ascertained. If the lands referred to in such an order are described by metes and bounds, or by reference to objects or marks physically existing, these must necessarily be ascertained by extrinsic evidence, i.e., the testimony of persons who know the locality. If the order refers to a map, that map is admissible in evidence to render the order intelligible and the actual situation of the objects drawn or otherwise indicated on the map must, as in all cases of the sort, be ascertained by extrinsic evidence. Reports accompanying the orders or maps and not referred to in the orders may be admissible as hearsay evidence of reputed possession; but they are not otherwise admissible, unless are made so by the thirteenth section of the Evidence Act Though an order for possession under the Criminal Procedure Code confers no title, yet the defendant had been, by an order under section 145 of the Criminal Procedure Code (Act X of 1882) made in 1888, declared to be in possession Held, that the onus was on the plaintif to prove her title to the land. Where, however, she had done so, and had obtained a decree in her favour, the onus is on the defendant (who is the appellant) to show that the decision of the High Court was wrong, and where it was wrong. In induce the Judicial Committee to reverse the judgment appealed from, the appellant must do something more than show that the plaintiff's title is not free from doubt, and must at least give some acceptable explanation of the circumstances which have led the Court below to its conclusion. The principle laid down in Ray Kunar Roy v. Gobind Chunder Roy (I) followed.

Where, therefore, the plaintiff sued for pos-

In a case of disputed boundaries, to prove a map, a witness was called, whan assisted as an Amin in preparing it with another Amin, who was dead; the witness had little or no knowledge of surveying but the Amin with whom it was prepared was a skilled surveyor, and the Collector (who was also dead) had tested the accuracy of the measurements. Held, that the map was sufficiently proved to be admissible in evidence (2)

Evidence and nature of possession

Possession is a question which from its nature would seem to be very easily determinable; but in practice it is found to be one of the most difficult issues to decide in this country. (3) The fact of possession as every other fact (excluding the contents of documents) may be proved by oral evidence. (4) A dence the testimony of all the witnesses is general in the extreme. They speak of the 'disputed land.' They say that they saw plaintiffs 'in possession.' They say they saw them 'collecting rents.' All these statements are general. And to persons who have had any experience in the Mofusul, and who know how easy it is to bring any number of witnesses into Court who will readily give general testimony of this nature, the absolute worthlessness of such evidence

 <sup>(1) (1892) 19</sup> C., 660; L. R., 19 I. A., 140
 (2) Dinomons Choodhrans v. Brojomobini, 29
 C., 187 (1902)

<sup>(1)</sup> See remarks of White, J., in Jibusts Kath v. Shib Nath, 8 C., 819 (1892), at p. 824

 <sup>(4)</sup> See p. 457 ante, and cases cited in note (6),
 (5) Manram Deb v. Debs Charan, 4 B. L. R.,

(F. B.), 97 (1869); Vithu Govinda v. Ramji Yesenji, 8 Bom. L. R., 19; contra, Ishan Chander v. Ram Lochun, 9 W. R., 79 (1868).
(6) Indara Busse v Mahomed Mibarack, 8

C, 975, 983, 984 (1882), per Field, J: see Also Allyst Chinaman v Jugust Chunder, 5 W. R., 242, 243 (1806).

requires no demonstration." When the question relates to the occupation of comparatively waste or waste land, the smallest indication of occupation must be taken hold of and used as explence in the determination of any matter of dispute with regard to it between the contending parties (1). In a suit for possession of jungle lands, where there is no proof of acts of ownership having fren exercised on either side, possession must be presumed to have continued with the person to whom they rightfully belong (2). Lands which have never been occupied for cultivation and which are of such a nature and description as that no one can be said to be in possession, may be presumed rightfully to belong to the parties with whom the title rests (3) "If there are two persons in a field each asserting that the field is his, and each doing some act in the assertion of the right of possession, and if the question is, which of these two is in actual possession, I answer the person who has the title is in actual possession. and the other person is a trespasser."(4) Possession is not necessarily the same thing as actual user. The nature of the possession to be looked for and the evidence of its continuance must depend upon the character and condition of the land in dispute. Where land is permanently or temporarily incapable of actual enjoyment in any of the customary modes, all that can be required is that the plaintiff should show such acts of ownership as are natural under the existing condition of the land, and in such cases when he has done this, his possession is presumed to continue so long as the state of the land remains unchanged, unless he is shown to have been dispossessed (5). Where the District Judge held that the fand in dispute was not enclosed and that the " plaintiff had not been in actual occupation of any definite portion" of the land; it was held to be not necessary that a person should use any definite portion of an unenclosed land in assertion of his ownership. Evidence may be given of acts done in other parts provided that there is a common character of locality as would raise an inference that the place in dispute belonged to the plaintiff if the other part did (6). Where it was pleaded that the plaintiffs had not actually occupied the land in suit, it was held that the Courts should be very careful before holding that title has been lost merely by non-possession.(7) Evidence of possession of certain specific property has been treated as evidence of possession as regards an appendage to such property though no definite acts of possession were proved as regards the appendage (8). The possession of a trustee is the possession of, and cannot be adverse to, those on whose behalf he is such trustee (9) In dealing with the question of possession as between brothers and sisters in native families regard must be had to the conditions of life under which such families live, and to the fact that in such families the management of the property of the family is, by reason of the seclusion of the female members, ordinarily left in the hands of the male members. In the case of such families, slight evidence of enjoyment of income arising from the property is sufficient prima facte proof of possession (10) Where the plaintiffs alleged forcible dispossession, from which, if made out, it would have been

Mussimut Nathukhee v. Chowdhrs Chinaman, 20 W R, 247, 249 (1875), per Phear, J. Mohima Chunder v. Hurro Loll, 3 C, 768 (1878), a. c., 2 C L. R, 36s.

<sup>(2,</sup> Ledanund v Mussamut Batherronntssa, 16 W R., 102 (1871)

<sup>(3)</sup> Moochee Ram τ. Bissambhur Roy, 24 W R., 410 (1875).

<sup>(4)</sup> Per Lord Selbourne in Laws v. Telford (1876), 1 A. C., 423, cited in Vithaldus v Sucretary of State for India, 26 B, 416 (1901)

<sup>(5)</sup> Mahomed Ali v. Abdul Gurny, 9 C., 744, 1983); s. c., 12 C. L. R., 257, referred to in Tha-kur Singh v Bhoperaj Singh, 27 C., 25, 28 (1899).

(6) l uhaldas v Secretary of State, 26 B., 410, 416, 417 (1901)

<sup>(7)</sup> Prosonno Chunder v. Land Mortgage Bank, 5 W R , 453 (1876)

<sup>(8)</sup> Iybal Husen v λ and Kishore, 24 A , 294 (1902).

<sup>(9)</sup> Chunder Kant v. Bungshee Deb, 6 W. R. 61 (1886); Bigelow on Estoppel, 545. See cases cited in Mitra on Limitation, 4th ed., p. 169, and his notes to a 10 of the Limitation Act. (10) Inayet Husen v. Ali Husen, 20 A., 182.

<sup>(1897)</sup>

probably inferred that their possession up to date of that forcible act had been consistent with the title which they alleged, but failed to prove the dispossession alleged, the Privy Council held that they had to deal with a possession on the part of the defendants which was not shown to have commenced in wrong, and that the plaintiffs could only disturb that by proving distinctly a superior title.(1) With regard to possession obtained by force, see next paragraph.

The ordinary rule is that force does not interrupt possession. He whose possession has been interrupted by an act of violence without any form of law or justice is nevertheless considered as a possessor, because he has the right to enter into possession again (2) When a party is dispossessed by its major (e. g., a flood) the constructive possession of the land (e.g., while it is submerged) remains in its true owner (3) A man cannot be allowed to take advantage of his own wrong, as where possession has been obtained by illegal means such as force or fraud, in order to shift the burden of proof to his opponent. It was therefore formerly held that where the plaintiff proved that he was in possession and was ousted by the defendant, otherwise than by due course of law, the burden of proving a title in the first instance was shifted upon the defendant, and in the event only of the latter establishing his title would the plaintiff be required to prove his (4).

Relief Act.

The Specific Relief Act, however, gives a special remedy to the party illegally dispossessed of property, in the nature of a possessory suit to be brought within aix months from the date of dispossession, in which suit the question of title is immaterial and will not be enquired into [5]. The result of a possessory suit under this Act is to restore to possession the party ousted by force and to leave the question of title wholly untouched and open to bitgation in a regular suit. (6) And when a regular suit has been brought to establish title and to recover the land from the party so restored to possession, the whole burden of proof is upon the plaintiff in such regular suit; and until he can show title to the property the Court will not look into the defendant's title or disturb his possession (7) Evidence of the plaintiff's possession prior to the summary order under which he was dispossessed may be good evidence of his title and must be considered. (8) If the defendant pleads limitation, the plaintiff in the regular suit cannot by way of answer set up the possession which, having obtained it otherwise than in due course of law, he held before the possessory suit (9)

The question of the effect of this provision in the Specific Rehef Act upon the general power of the Courte to give rehef against unlawful interference has been the subject of conflicting decisions. It has been questioned whether, when a person outed otherwise than by due course of law fails to avail himself within six months of the aummany remedy provided by the Specific Rehef Act,

<sup>(1)</sup> Arumugam Chetty v. Perriyannan Servas, 25 W. B., 81 (1876).

<sup>(2)</sup> Domat's Civil Law, 1889, cited in Khaja Engelodlah v Kissen Soonder, 8 W R, 386, 389 (1867)

<sup>(3)</sup> Munch: Mathar Hasan v. Behar: Sinah (1906), A. W. N., 234; 3 A. L. J., 567

<sup>(4)</sup> See Jeduhnah v. Ram Sondur, T. W. R., 174 (1897); Rollah Bullub v. Kivisa Gohad, 9 W. R., 21 (1898); Gun Paroy v. Homo Sonderr, 12 W. R., 472 (1899). [It is, however, for the plantiff to prove the alleyed queter]; Market Charder v. Sermati Baroda, 2 B. L. B., 274 (1899). Mahamed Dav. v. Iddod Neuron, 20 W. R., 498 (1873); Dattari Mohani v. Jupo Burdino, 23 W. R., 290 (1875), and see Mussia Mahor Hard san v. Behars Singh, 1906, A. W. N., 234, and Ganput Rao v. Ganpat Rao, 2 N. L. R., 32, supra.

<sup>(5)</sup> Act I of 1877, s 9, which takes the place of the repealed s 15 of Act XIV of 1859

<sup>(6)</sup> Field, Ev., 507.

<sup>(7)</sup> Moules Maennooddeen v. Greesh Chunder.

W. R., 230 (1867)
 (8) Unilubee Kant v. Doorjodhun Shikiz, 7
 W. R., 89 (1867), Ram Chundra v Brajanath

Sarma, 3 B. L. R., App., 109 (1869).
(9) Gelom Nubee v. Bissonalh Kur, 12 W. R., 9 (1869); Prem Chand v. Hurce Dass, 22 W. R.,

<sup>259 (1874);</sup> Tura Banu v. Abdul Guffur, 12 C. L. 1t., 486 (1892).

probably inferred that their possession up to date of that forcible act had been consistent with the title which they alleged, but failed to prove the dispossession alleged, the Privy Council held that they had to deal with a possession on the part of the defendants which was not shown to have commenced in wrong, and that the plaintiffs could only disturb that by proving distinctly a superior title.(1) With regard to possession obtained by force, see next paragraph.

The ordinary rule is that force does not interrupt possession. He whose possession has been interrupted by an act of violence without any form of law or justice is nevertheless considered as a possessor, because he has the right to enter into possession again.(2) When a party is dispossessed by vis major (e.g., a flood) the constructive possession of the land (e.g., while it is submerged) remains in its true owner.(3) A man cannot be allowed to take advantage of his own wrong, as where possession has been obtained by illegal means such fas force or fraud, in order to shift the burden of proof to his opponent. It was therefore formerly held that where the plaintiff proved that he was in possession and was ousted by the defendant, otherwise than by due course of law, the burden of proving a title in the first instance was shifted upon the defendant, and in the event only of the latter establishing his title would the plaintiff be required to prove his (4).

Bpecific Relief Act. The Specific Relief Act, however, gives a special remedy to the party illegally dispossessed of property, in the nature of a possessory suit to be brought within aix months from the date of dispossession, in which suit the question of title is immaterial and will not be enquired into (5). The result of a possessory suit under this Act is to restore to possession the party outset by force and to leave the question of title wholly untouched and open to htigation in a regular suit (6). And when a regular suit has been brought to establish title and to recover the land from the party so restored to possession, the whole burden of proof is upon the plaintiff in such regular suit; and until he can show title to the property the Court will not look into the defendant's title or disturb his possession (7). Evidence of the plaintiff's possession prior to the summary order under which he was dispossessed may be good evidence of his title and must be considered. (8) If the defendant pleads limitation, the plaintiff in the regular suit cannot by way of answer set up the possession which, having obtained it otherwise than in due course of law, he held before the possessory suit (9).

The question of the effect of this provision in the Specific Relief Act upon the general power of the Courts to give relief against unlawful interference has been the subject of conflicting decisions. It has been questioned whether, when a person ousted otherwise than by due course of law fails to avail himself within six months of the summary remedy provided by the Specific Relief Act,

ſs. 110.1

<sup>· (1)</sup> Arumugam Chetty v. Perriyannan Servai, 25 W. R., 81 (1876).

<sup>(2)</sup> Domat's Civil Law, 1889, cited in Khaja Enadodlah v Klasen Soonder, 8 W R ,386, 389

<sup>(3)</sup> Munchs Mathar Hawan v. Behari Sanch (1908), A. W. N., 234, 3 A. L. J., 567.

<sup>(4)</sup> See Joshibanth V Ban Sconder, T W. R., 174 (1867); Fadha Bullub V. Kithen Goldin, G W. R., 71 (1868); Gun Panny V. B. coma Scondures, 12 W. R., 472 (1867). [Hi In, however, for the plantiff to prove the alleged outer?] Mahoke Chander V. Srimett Barola, 23 L. L. B., 574 (1869). Makomed Eur. Addr & Auren. 50 W. R., 438 (1873); Datari Hohari V. Jupp Burdho, 23 W. R., 290 (1875), and tex Muschi Maike Jin.

san v. Behart Singh, 1906, A. W. N. 234, and Ganput Rao v. Ganpat Roo, 2 N. L. B., 32 supra.

<sup>(5)</sup> Act I of 1877, s 9, which takes the place of the repealed s. 15 of Act XIV of 1859.

<sup>(6)</sup> kield, Ev., 507. (7) Moults Maennooddeen v. Greech Chunder.

<sup>7</sup> W R , 230 (1867)
(8) Bullubee Kant v. Doorjodhun Shikitar, 7

W R. 89 (1867), Ram Chandra v. Brajanath Sarma, 3 B. L. R. App., 109 (1869).

<sup>(9)</sup> Gelam Nubee v. Bissonath Kur, 12 W. R. 9 (1969); Prem Chand v. Hurce Dass, 22 W. R., 259 (1874); Tara Banu v. Abdul Guffur, 12 C. L. H., 486 (1882).

but afterwards brings a regular suit to recover possession, the burden of proof ought to be laid upon him or upon the defendant; whether in fact the plaintiff's previous possession in such cases is not prima force exidence of title, and whether the Specific Relief Act while providing a special and summary remedy in a particular case, has in others interfered with the general rule above adverted to, that a man cannot be permitted to take advantage of his own wrongful act to shift the burden of proof upon his opponent. Most of the earlier decisions of the Calcutta High Court were based upon the view that possession is prima facie evidence of title, and favoured the plaintiff's right to succeed in such a suit on proof merely of previous peaceable possession and illegal dispossession. unless the defendant could show a better title (I). But the later decisions of that Court are to a contrary effect, and it has been held that mere previous possession for any period short of the statutory period of twelve years will not entitle a plaintiff to a decree for the recovery of possession, even though the defendant cannot establish title, except in a suit under the ninth section of the Specific Rehef Act, which must be brought within six months from the date of dispossession (2). Where, however, the plaintiff had received possession of property by purchase and had such possession when the suit was brought, and the defendant who disturbed such possession, had no title whatever, but alleged a defect in the plaintiff's title, it was held that lawful possession of land is suffitient evidence of right as owner as against a person who has no title whatever. and who is a mere trespasser, that it was not necessary that the plaintiff should negative defendant's case as to the former's defect in title, and that he was by virtue of such possession cutifed to a de-laratory decree and to an injunction restraining the wrong-doer (3). The result of the later decisions of the Calcutta

High Court is therefore that in possessory suits under the Specific Relief Act nothing further is required than proof of possession at the date of illegal dispossession. In other cases the plaintiff must show title or such adverse possession as under the Limitation Act confers title. In this view the possession referred to by this section is actual de facto possession or rather physical occupation at date of suit, and not juridical possession, the requisites of which are freedom from force, clandestinity and permission. Force therefore does interrupt possession if the party aggreeved does not avail himself of the provisions of the Specific Relief Act, and a tortfeasor may; in such case by his own wrongful act and though destitute of title, shift the burden of proof upon his opponent For if more than six months have passed since the date of illegal dispossession the burden of proof of ownership will be upon the plaintiff as being the party out of actual present possession. Where, however, the plaintiff is in, and therefore does not seek to recover, possession, but desires to obtain merely a declaratory decree; then that possession is valid and sufficient against another who is a mere trespasser.

The course of opinion in the Bombay High Court has been the opposite to that in Calcutta. The Bombay High Court at first held views similar to those now held by the Calcutta High Court (1) Subsequently, however, the views

> ' w of England claim to the e mere omisiedy by possessory suit does not deprive him of his right to rely upon his previous possession in an action of ejectment against a trespasser (3) In this view of the case the possession which attracts the presumption of ownership is juridical possession obtained nec vi, nec clam, nec precario, ab adversario, and mere possession is valid against all the world except the person legally entitled. In, however, a recent case where the party suing was in possession it was held by Ranade, J., that (4) though a party may rely upon his previous possession it must be of such a character as leads to a presumption of title. Mere previous possession less than the Limitation Law requires is insufficient except in a possessory suit, and mere wrongful possession is insufficient to shift the burden of proof. The position here adopted is not clear. As already observed, the case was not one of dispossession. The plaintiff was in possession and sought confirmation thereof, Jenkins, C. J., (with whose judgment Ranade, J., appeared to desire to concur) held that the section obviously does not require possession according to title, otherwise it is meaningless (5) It was therefore sufficient for the plaintiff to show possession to recover against the defendant unless the latter could show title. The question was whether he had shown it. If, however, the plaintiff had been forcibly dispossessed more than six months before suit, the question would then have arisen whether proof of previous possession was sufficient. The Calcutta High Court answers the question in the negative because it holds that there has been an interruption of possession, and the substantive right of possession has been lost by failure to seek the

<sup>(1873);</sup> distinguished in Nies Chand v. Kanchiram Ragani, 26 C., 579 (1899). (1) Field, Ev., 509, 509; Dadabkai Nareldas'v.

Sub-Collector of Broach, 7 Bonn. H. C R , A. C. J .. 52 (1870); Lakelinikal v Fithal Ramchardra, D Bom. H. C. R., A C. J., 53, 55 (1872).

<sup>(2)</sup> Krashaerav Yasheeni v. Ydradev Apaji,

<sup>8</sup> B . 371 (1884); Pemraj Bhavaniram v. Narayan Shiraram, 6 B , 21 215 (1892) (3) Krishnarat Tashvani v. Vasudev Apost.

<sup>8</sup> B., 375, 376 '(4) Hanmantroo v. Secretary of State: 25 B.

<sup>287, 303 (1900).</sup>

&#x27;(5) Hanmanimo y, Secretary of State, 25 B , 290

special remedy which the Specific Rebel Act gives in protection of mere posses-According, however, to the generally prevailing view of the Bombay High Court, possession is a good title against all persons but the rightful owner, and failure to avail oneself of the provisions of the Specific Relief Act does not deprive a party of his right to rely upon his mere previous possession, which force does not interrupt. In this view in no case should it be necessary to show title in the absence of any title shown by the defendant. And so it has been held recently by the Madras High Court(1) that possession in law is a substantive right or interest which exists and has legal incidents and advantages apart from the true owner's title; that the Specific Relief Act cannot possibly be held to take away any remedy available with reference to this well recognised doctrine on possession; that it is an undoubted rule of law that a person who has been ousted by another who has no better right is, with reference to the person so ousting, entitled to recover by virtue of the possession he had held before the ouster even though that possession was without any title. Where, however, a plaintiff in possession without any title seeks to recover possession of which he has been forcibly deprived by a defendant having a good title, he can only do so under the provisions of the minth section of the Specific Relief Act and not otherwise

The question has been raised in the Allahabad High Court, but not decided; it being held that usually it is for the plaintiff who seeks ejectment to prove his title, but that, when possession for 20 or 40 vears is proved to have been peaceably enjoyed, the person who has recently dispossessed such plaintiff has to meet the presumption of law that the plaintiff's long possession indicates his ownership of the property (2)

In a suit for possession of immovable property it is for the plaintiff to Limitation. show by some primi facie evidence that he has a subsisting title not extinguished by the operation of lumitation, before the defendant can be called upon to substantiate a plea of adverse possession (3) Where the plaintiff has established his title to land, the burden of proving that the plaintiff has lost that title by reason of the adverse possession of the defendant is upon the latter. (1) If the property sued for was originally joint, the burden of proving exclusive adverse possession by one of the original joint holders is on him (5). To prove title to land by twelve years' adverse possession it is not sufficient to show that some acts of possession have been done. Where adverse possession is relied on it must be adequate in continuity, in publicity and in extent, to show that it is possession adverse to the competitor (6) It must be a complete possession exclusive of the possession of any other person, and is displaced by evidence of partial possession by the party against whom the title by adverse possession is claimed (7) When limitation is set up in answer to a suit for possession, it does not lie upon the defendant to disprove plaintiff's possession; but it is the duty of the plaintiff to show that he has been in possession within twelve years before the commencement of the suit (8) The circumstance that the defendant has in his answer set up a defence merely of limitation in a suit for the

 Mustapha Saheb v Santha Pillas, 23 M,
 179 (1899) But see Rassonada Rayar v. Suharoma Pillas, 2 Mad H C R, A. C J, 171 (1864)
 Terumalasams Redds v Ramasams Redds, 6 Mad H. C R., A C. J, 420 (1871)

(2) Lachho v Har Sahas, 12 A , 46 (1887) (3) Inayat Hussen v Als Hussen, 20 A., 182

(4) Radha Gobind v Inglia, 7 C. L. R., 364 (1880)

<sup>(1997),</sup> the possession of an usufructuary mortgages is the possession of all persons having the right of redemption, &

<sup>(5)</sup> Jagjirandas v Bai Amba, 25 B., 362 (1900); s c, 3 Bom L R, 47, and see Haji v Gohna, 39 P. L. R. (1906)

<sup>(6)</sup> Radhamont Debt v Collector of Khulna, 27 C, 943 (1900), s c, 4 C W N, 597, Jazzttandas v Bas Amba, 25 B, 362 (1900), Wals Ahmed v Tota Meah, 31 C, 397 (1903)

<sup>(7)</sup> Vishaldas v Secretary of State, 26 B., 416 (1901)

 <sup>(8)</sup> Kalee Narain v. Anund Moye, 21 W. R.
 79 (1874) See. Innasimuthu v. Upakarihudayan,
 3 C. W N. ceexxiii (1899); Munshi Mathar

nossession of land does not constitute an admission of the title of the plaintiff. so as to dispense with the obligation upon the plaintiff to prove title.(1) Where the defendant, who was alleged to be the tenant of the plaintiff, admitted the plaintiff's ownership up to a particular date, it was held that the onus was on him to show when the alleged adverse possession under article 144 commenced or under article 139 when the tenancy terminated (2) Acts at different times by a fluctuating body of persons do not amount to adverse possession, to constitute which the possession must be adequate in continuity, publicity and extent Occupation by a wrong-doer of a portion only of land cannot be held to constitute constructive possession of the whole so as to enable him to obtain a title by limitation.(3) It is of the essence of the title by adverse possession that it must relate to some property which is recognised by law.(4) There is no constructive possession in favour of a wrong-doer.(5) And sec cases cited ante, in the Notes to ss. 101-104.

Proof of good faith in transac-tions where one party is in relation of active confidence

111. Where there is a question as to the good faith of a transaction between parties, one of whom stands to the other in a position of active confidence, the burden of proving the good faith of the transaction is on the party who is in a position of active confidence.

Illustrations

(a) The good faith of a sale by a client to an attorney is in question in a suit brought by the client.

on is on the attorney. father is in question in a

The burden of proving the good faith of the transaction is on the father.

Principle.-The reason why the burden of proving good faith is, by way of an exception to the general rule, cast upon the defendant is that if it were not so the transaction could rarely be satisfactorily enquired into The plaintiff, having been entirely in the hands of the defendant, would be destitute of the means of proving affirmatively the mala fides of the transaction; whilst the defendant in such a transaction may fairly be subjected to the duty not only of dealing honestly but of preserving clear evidence that he has done so (6)

Steph. Dig., Art. 97A, Taylor, Ev, §§ 151-153; Wharton, Ev., §§ 1248, 358, 357, ,366; Story, Eq. Jur., $\frac{3}{2} 309 327A; Powell, Ev., 327; Pollock's Law of Fraud in British India, 63-80 Deading cases in Equity, Notes to Huquenin v. Basely. 人

COMMENTARY.

Good faith in a contracting party has been frequently declared to be a rebuttable presumption of law, being regarded, in the same way as the presump-

Badin v Behari Singh, 3 A. I. J., 567; A. W. NA1900), 23X

(1) Soonatun Saka v. Rampoy Saka, Marshall's Rep., 849 (1863)

(2) Talshihan v. Ranchod, 26 B , 442 (1902); Gangel Rao v. Gangel Roo, 2 N. L. R., 32. (3) Wali Ahmed v. Tota Meal, 31 C., 397

(4) Jethalkas v. Natabhail 28 B , 399 (1904). (5) Secretary of State v. Trishnamoni Gupta, 29 C , 518 (1902) at p. 535; s. c , 29 L. A , 104. (6) Markby, Ev., 86 In such cases it is seldom, if ever, possible to prove specific acts of bad faith. Yet the risk of abuse is obviously great

The law, therefore, reverses its usual rule of evidence in dealing between man and man. Commonly nothing is presumed contrary to good faith. But this is the rule between equals When one party habitually looks up to the other and is gusted by him, he can no longer be suption of innocence, as an assumption of the law made for the determination of the burden of proof and not for the adjudication of the ments. A person who is sued is charged with bad faith, and the burden is upon the plaintiff to prove the charge; or the defendant sets up bad faith in the plaintiff, and the burden is on the defendant to make this defence good.(1) So it is an elementary principle that a party setting up a tort has the burden on him to prove such tort.(2) But when the actor in either of the relations above quoted establishes a prima facie case, and this is met by exidence sustaining good faith on the other side, then the case must be decided upon the merits (3). Therefore, so far as good faith and legality are assumed as belonging to ordinary business-transaction, it may be generally held that the burden of proof is on the party assailing good faith or legality.(4) And in a recent case it has been held that where a pleader is charged with defamation in respect of words spoken or written while discharging his duty as a pleader, the Court ought to presume good faith and not hold him criminally liable unless there is satisfactory evidence of actual malice and unless there is cogent proof that unfair advantage was taken of his position as a pleader for an indirect purpose (5)

So while in all cases where it has been proved that a mere stranger, connected with the other party by no peculiar or fiduciary relation, from which undue influence can be inferred, has either by fraud, surprise, or undue influence obtained from him a benefit, a Court of Equity will at once set it aside cases, however, the proof of fraud, surprise, or undue influence is completely upon the other party or person deriving title from him, for prima facie the transaction is valid.(6) The present section, however, enacts an important exception to general rule, reversing the burden of proof, where one of the parties stands in a relation of active confidence towards the other. The rule laid down by it is in accordance with a principle of equity long acknowledged and administered, both in England and in this country (7) namely, that he who bargains in a matter of advantage with a person who places confidence in him, is bound to show that a proper and reasonable use has been made of that confidence The transaction is not necessarily void apso facto, nor is it necessary for those who impeach it to establish that there has been fraud or imposition; but the burden of establishing its perfect fairness, adequacy and equity is cast upon the person in whom the confidence has been reposed, and the party seeking restitution is not called upon to prove that the transaction was unrighteous and his consent not free

The rule further applies equally to all persons standing in confidential relations with each other (8) So if a deed conferring a benefit on a father is posed capable, without special precaution, of exercising that independent judgment which is requisite for his consent to be free. Pollock's Law of Fraud in British India, 63, 64 See Contract Act, s. 16

(1) Wharton, Fr. § 1248, as to proof of good and bad faith, see thispon, Ev. 7 dt Ed. 118 So upon the principle that the law will not impute bad faith, ambiguous instruments are to he construed in a sense consistent with good faith Best, Ev. § 347, Murv of Gasjone Bank, 4 L. R. H. L., 337, Wharton, Ev. § 1249

(2) Ib , $$ 357, 358 , v ante, ss 101, 104

(3) Ib., § 1248

(4) Ib, § 366; Lewis v Lery, E B. & E., 557.
 (5) Upendra Nath Bagchi v R (1909), 36 C, 375; following in te Nagarji Trikanji (1894), 19
 B., 340, & R v Purshottandas Rankoddas

(1907), 9 Bom L. R , 1287.

(6) Irel, Ev. 510, 511, etting Hoptesta v. Bandy, 2 Leading cares in Equity and see Rob Jandhow v Sha Noper, 11 B. 78 (1885) [It is only in cases where one person standam a fiduciary relation to another that the law requires the former to exercise extreme good fasth in all his dealings with the latter and scrittnines those dealings with more than eclinary care and caustion. In the absence of any special confidence reposed by one person in another it lies on him who alleger francia to prove it.

(7) See Moonshee Budoor v. Shamsoonissa Begum, 11 Moo I A, 551 (1867), and cases cited post, passim

(8) See Story, Eq Jur, §§ 309-327 A, Hu. guensa v. Basely, 2 L C in Equity, Pollock's Law of Fraud in British India, 64, 65 executed by a child who is not emancipated from the father's control, and the deed is subsequently impeached by the child, the onus is on the father to show that t father

be set aside. This onus extends to a volunteer claiming through the father, and to any person taking with notice of the circumstances which raise the equity, but not further.(1) The Illustrations to the section afford two instances of the relations to which the rule of proof applies, v.z., those of legal adviser and chent.(2) and of father and child,(3) but there are many others, such as those of medical practitioner and patient, spiritual director and pentent.(4) trustee

cised by one person over another (9) But the mere relation of daughter to mother in itself suggests nothing in the way of special influence or control (10)

The words "active confidence" in the section indicate that the relationship between the parties must be such that one is bound to protect the interests of the other (11). The section has been spoken of as an exception to the general rule relating to the burden of proof because the allegation of bad faith is one which the plaintiff, according to section 101, onte, is bound to prove, and to require the defendant to prove good faith is in contradiction to the terms of that section. The reason why the exception is made and this duty is imposed on the defendant has been adverted to above in the Note giving the principle upon which the section is founded, (12) in contradistinction to the case of a transaction with a mere stranger, where a relation of active confidence between the partners is proved, then the burden of proof is on the

- (1) Balnbrigge v. Browne, L. R., 18 Ch. D.
- (2) See also Pushong v. Munta Halwans, 1 B L. R., A C, 95 (1868), Ram Pershad v Rance Phulputtee, 7 W R, 99 (1867); Kamini
- Sundars v. Kals Procunno, 12 C, 225 (1885)
  (1) Basabrigge v. Browne, supra.
  (1) Mannu Singh v. Umadut Pande, 12 A.,
- Jiannu Singh v. Umadut Pande, 12 A., (1889)
   Grav v. Warnar, J. R., 16 Eq., 577, Raghu-
- nathji Mulchand v. Varjiwandas Madanjee, 8 Bom L. R., 525. (6) Monnhee Bulloor v Shumsooniesa Begum,
- Il Moo. I. A., 551 (1897). see as to recovery of property held by the husband. Abdod Ali v. Kurrumasasa. 9 W. R. 153 (1868) And see Hakim Muhammad v. Nay-ban, 20 A., 447 (1898).
- (1) Tanonders Tecory v. Nanch Syd. 1 Ind. App., 102 (1874), a. c. 13 B. L. R., 427. 2.2 W. R., 210; Kanni Lal v. Kamusi Dels, 1 B. L. R., 0 C., 21 (1857); Bujid Khan v. Keuz M., 18 C., 51 (1891), a. c., 18 Ind. App., 144, a. to acretion to standing in fiduriary relation, we Bos Distriction v. M. Neger, 11 B., 78 (1854), a. to confidential manager, we Mahaders v. Nedamast. 29 M., 273 (1890).
- (8) Taylor, Ev. # 151, 152, Story, Eq. Jur. §§ 307-327A, and cases there cited. The courts also regard with suspicion all dealings with heirs as regards their expectancies, and rehere against.

unconscionable bargains with poor and ignorant persons. See Chunn Kurr v Rup Singl, 11 A., 57 (1888), Taylor, Ev., § 153. But these cases do not, as a rule, come within the scope of the section. Pollock's Law of Fraud in British India, 75-80.

(9) Satel Praced v Parkhu Lal, 10 A, 635 1888) are remarks upon the facts of this case, in Poliock's Law of Fraud, 68, 69

(10) Ismail Mussajee v IIafi: Roo, P. C (1908), 33 Cal, 773. 10 C W N., 570, and for tests of undue influence see Ganesh v Vichna (1907), 3° B, 77, and Chatring Moschand v Whitchurch (1907), 32 B, 208.

(11) Markhy, Er, 36 "So far as they go (i.e., the word of the section they pice effect to the general law of all Courts in which the principles of Englah Equity prevail. But I renter to think that they do not go quite farerough to be an adequate expression of the law, unless the words 'active confidence' are to receive a larger meaning than they would naturally convey to any reader, whether a laymin or a lawyer, not familiar with this class of cares." Pollock's Law of Fraud in Dirich India, pc 5: In Thaker Das v Jarref Rosph, 20 1, 130 (1991); the Priry Council held that the plaintiff want of in sposition of "active confidence" towards the defendants within the meaning of this section party receiving the tenefit or on those claiming through him (1). The Courts so far presume against the validity of the instrument as to trequire proof (varying in amount according to circumstances) of the alsence of anything approaching to imposition, over-reaching, undue influence or unconscionable advantage, and the person benefited will have thrown upon him the burthen of establishing keyond all reasonable doubt the perfect fairness and honesty of the entire transaction (2).

(12) v. ante, p. 591, note (6).

[r. 111.]

In judging of the validity of transactions between persons standing in a purdaconfidential relation to each other, it is very material to see whether the person mashin conferring a benefit on the other had competent and independent advice; (3) and the age or capacity of the person conferring the benefit and the nature of the benefit are also of very great importance in such cases (4).

In this country where the position of purdanashin or secluded women is to a large extent one of isolation and subserviency, it has been held that they are entitled to receive that protection which the Court of Chancery always extend to the weak, ignorant and infirm, and to those who for any other reasons are specially likely to be imposed upon by the exertion of undue influence over them. This influence is presumed to have been exerted, unless the contrary be shown, It is, therefore, in all dealings with those persons who are so situated, always incumbent on the person who is interested in upholding the transaction to show that its terms are fair and equitable (5) Protection is given in these instances apart from the provisions of this section, which strictly apply only to the case of those purdangehin women who have dealings with others in confidential relations It has in numerous cases been laid down that strict proof of good faith is required where purdangship women are concerned, and that it is incumbent on the Court when dealing with the disposition of her property by a purdanashin woman, whether Mahomedan(6) or Hindu to be satisfied that the transaction was explained to her and that she knew what she was doing (7) But the burden of proof will be discharged by evidence given of circumstances inconsistent with or contrary to those upon which the presumption is raised.(1) The presumptions as to the knowledge of the executant of the contents of the document she is executing do not equally apply in the case of a purdanashin as in the case of other persons (2) In a case in the Privy Council(3) a person was described as a quasi-purdanashin. Their Lordships taking the term to mean a woman who, not being of the nurdanashin class, is yet so close to them in kinship and habits and so secluded from ordinary social intercourse that a like amount of incapacity must be ascribed to her, and the same amount of protection which the law gives to purdanashins must be extended to her, held the contention to be a novel one and that outside the class of regular nurdanashin it must depend in each case on the character and position of the individual woman whether those who deal with her are, or are not, bound to take special precautions that her action shall be intelligent and voluntary, and to prove that it was so in case of dispute. And in a more recent case the Privy Council did not treat as a purdanashin a lady who had no objection to communicate, when necessary, in matters of business with men other than members of her own family, who was able to go to Court to give evidence and to attend at the Registrar's Office in person.(4)

Wills

It has been held in England that the rules of Courts of Equity in relation to gifts inter vivos are not applicable to the making of wills; and that though natural influence exerted by one who possesses it to obtain a benefit for himself is undue inter vivos, so that gifts and contracts inter vivos between certain parties will be set aside, unless the party benefited can show affirmatively that the other party could have formed a free and unfettered judgment in the

sc. 13 B L R., 427: 2t W. R., 340: Panna Lol v. Frimati Bamamundari, 6 B. L. R., 732; 174 (1871): Ram Pershad v Rance Phoslputtee, 7 W R., 99 (1867), Museumal Azeezoonises v. Barur Khan, 10 B L. R., 205 (1872) JA plaintiff who seeks to make a purdanashin liable on a document alleged to have been executed by her agent must give strict proof of such agency]. Asmutooniesa Bibee v Alla Hafiz [Admissions by purdanashin], 8 W. P., 468 (1867); Bibee Rubhun v Shaikh Ahmed, 22 W. R., 443 (1874) : Syed Fuzzul v Amjud 41i [Registration mutation of names), 17 W. R., 523 (1872); Dooles Chand v Must. Oomda Khanum [Registration], 18 W. R . 238 (1872) . Greesh Chunder v. Bhuggo. butty Debia, 13 Woo J A , 419 (1870); 14 W. R. P. C., 7, Behart Lot v. Habiba Bibi, 8 A., 267 (1886); Den Kuar v. Man Kuar, 17 A .1 (1894). s. e. 21 Ind. App., 149, Bad Bibi v Sami Pillas, 18 M., 257 (1892); distinguishing Ashgar Ali v. Dilrona Banon, supra : Arkhan Kuar v Thakurdas, 17 A., 125 (1895); Mahaders v. Neelamons, 20 M., 273 (1896); Hatim Muhammad v. Najiban, 20 A . 447 (1899); Annoda Mohun v. Bhuban Mohini, 5 C. W. N., 489 (1901) . s. c., 29 C . 546 Khan Mehnt v. Administrator-Gener. al of Bengal, 5 C. W. N., 505 (1901); Annoda Mohun v Ehuban Mohiner, 28 C , 546 (1901). ["Their Lordships cannot act on the speculation that she must have known that of which it is not shown that any direct information was conveyed to her." | Summeddin v. Abdul Husein (1906), 31 B . 165

<sup>(1)</sup> See Tamarnskers Sprithri v Maranat Va-

suderan, 3 M, 215 (1881); Mahomed Bulsh v. Hossens, 15 C, 684 (1888); s c, 15 Ind App, 81, to which the Privy Council point out the facts which a court should consider m an issue of undue influence rightly raised

<sup>(2)</sup> Khus Mehal v Administrator-General of Bengal, 5 C W N , 505 (1901)

<sup>(3)</sup> Hodges v London & Dihi Boni, 5 C. W. N., 1 (1900), s c, 23 A, 137. [Where a surety alleged that he signed a bond without reading it, and that he was not given to understand that he was contracting himself out of the ordinary rule exonerating him from liability if time be given to the principal debtor; held that people who induce others to advance money on the faith of their undertakings cannot escape from their plain effect on such plea 'and that it requires a clear case of misleading to succeed on such a plea!" See as to the plea that a party signing a document did not know what it was ; Kirby v. Great Western Ry Co., 18 L. T., 658, Great Western Ry Co v. McCarty, L. R., 12 App. Cas., 218, 227, 234 , Richardson v. Rosentiet, L. R., App. Cas (1894), 217 , Parler v South Eastern Railway Co., 2 C P D., 416, 422, Harris v. Great Western Ry Co. 1 Q B D. 515, 530; Watkins T. Rymill, 10 Q B D. 178, 189; Smith v. Hughes, L. R , 6 O B , 597, 607, cited in Ram Lall v. River Steam Navigation Co., Suit 752 of 1894, Cal H. Ct., 28th July 1996, Cor. Sale J.

<sup>(4)</sup> Ismail Mussajes v. Hafiz Ros, P. C. (1906); 31 C., 713; 10 C. W. N., 570.

matter; yet such natural influence may be lawfully exercised to obtain a will or locacy (1) It is as yet an open question whether or not the same rule will be found applicable in this country though here, as in England, a will is void only when caused by fraud or coercion, or by such importunity as takes away the free agency of the testator (2) For though, as observed in the case cited belon, while it may be reasonable to presume that a person has availed himself of the natural influence his position gave him, it is a very different thing to presume, without any evidence, that a person has abused his position by the exercise of dominion or the assertion of adverse control (3) yet, on the other hand, it has been said that there is no sound teason why the presumption of undue influence should not be applicable to wills in the same manner as to deeds (4)

112. The fact that any person was born during the con-nirth tinuance of a valid marriage between his mother and any man, marriage or within two hundred and eighty days after its dissolution, the proof of mother remaining unmarried, shall be conclusive proof that he is legitimacy the legitimate son of that man, unless it can be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when he could have been begotten.

Principles -See Notes, 10st

s. 3 (" Fact.")

* 4 (" Conclusive proof.")

Steph. Dig., Art. 98, Best, Presumptive Evidence, 70, 71, Wharton, Ev. §§ 1298, 1299, 609; Lawson's Presumptive Evidence, 104-119, Taylor, Ev., §§ 16, 106, 950. 951; Phinson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 166, 167, 168; Best, Ev., § 556; Roscoc, N. P. Ev., 95, 1038; Phillips and Arnold, 471-473; Wills, Ev., 152, 203, 204, 37, 38; Powell, Ev., 81, 8, 155, 156; Stewart Rapalje's Treatise on the Law of Witnesses, § 158.

COMMENTARY

The section assumes the existence of a valid marriage The legal presump- Legitimacy tion of paternity raised by it is applicable only to the offspring of a married couple. A person claiming as an illegitimate child must establish his alleged paternity like any other disputed question of relationship. So where a person alleged that he was the illegitimate son of one C C. the onus of establishing that fact was held to be clearly upon him, and he could not, by simply proving that his mother was C C's concubine, shift the onus on to the other side to disprove his paternity. (5) Where the father and mother were or are married, it is a presumption of law, which is binding until rebutted, (6) that a person born in a civilized nation is legitimate But this presumption may be rebutted, as where a married woman had admittedly lived for years with a man other than her husband and they both had admitted that he was the father of her

<sup>(1)</sup> Parfitt v Laulese, L. R. 2 P & D. 462 (2) Act X of 1867 (Succession Act), a 48, Act XXI of 1870 (Hindu Wills). See Sayed Mu hammad v Fatteh Muham nod, 22 Ind App . 4, 10 (1894), in which the distinction between undue influence and incapacity is pointed out.

<sup>(3)</sup> Parfitt v. Laudess, supra, 470. (4) 2 Leading Cases, Notes to Huguesia v.

Basely See Burr. Jones, Ev. 1, § 189 (5) Gopalaeams Chetts v Arunachellan Chetts. 27 M , 32 (1903)

<sup>(6)</sup> Wharton, Ev., § 1298, Best, Pres. Ev., 70, 71 , 5 Co , 985 , Morris v Daues, 5 Cl. & F , 163 . Banbury Peerage case, 1 Sim & St 153; Head v. Head, 1 Ston. & St., 150, Cope v. Cope, 1 M. & Rob , 269, 276.

children born during that time (1) In the Roman law according to the well-known maxim pater est queen nuptine demonstrant (he is the father whom the marriage indicates)(2) the presumption of legitimacy is this, that a child born of a 'married woman is deemed to be legitimate, and it throws on any person who is interested in making out the illegitimacy the whole burden of proving it. The law presumes both that a marriage-ceremony is valid(3) and that every person is legitimate. Marriage or filiation (parentage) may be presumed, the law in general presuming against vice and immorality (4)

As has been said, "this legal presumption that he is the father whom the unptials show to be so is the foundation of every man's birth and status. It is a plain and sensible maxim which is the corner-stone, the very foundation, on which rests the whole fabric of society; and if you allow it once to be shaken, there is no saying what consequences may follow."(5) So strict upon this head was the ancient common law that if the husband was within the four seas, at any time during the pregnancy of the wife the presumption was conclusive that her children were legitimate (6) But this rule at length was in the language of Grose, J. "on account of its absolute nonsense," exploded, (7) and the rule of modern English law has been summed up concisely by Leach, V. C. to be as follows (8):—

"The ancient policy of the law of England remains unaltered. A child born of a maried woman is to be presumed to be the child of the husband, unless there is evidence which excludes all doubt that the husband could not be the father But in modern times the rule of evidence has varied. Formerly it was considered that all doubt could not be excluded, unless the husband were extra quaturo maria. But sait is obvious that all doubt may be excluded from other circumstances, although the husband be within the four seas, the modern practice permits the introduction of every species of legal evidence tending to the same conclusion. But still the evidence must be of a character to exclude all doubt; and when the Judges in the Banbury case spoke of satisfactory evidence upon this subject, they must be understood to have meant such evidence as would be satisfactory having regard to the special nature of the subject.

The rule here referred to, and declared by the House of Lords in the Babbury Perenge case, (9) was—'I nevery case where a child is born in lawful wedlock, the husband not being separated from his wife by a sentence of divorce, exual intercourse is presumed to have taken place between the husband and wife, until that presumption is encountered by such evidence as proves, to the satisfaction of those who are to decide the question, that such sexual intercourse dul not take place at any time, when, by such intercourse, the husband could, according to the laws of nature, be the father of such child.' This is the law both in this country(10) and in England and America at the present time.

The section says that birth during marriage is conclusive proof(11) of legitimacy, unless it can be shown that there was non-access. This section

<sup>(1)</sup> Bahadar Singh v Vira, 28 P R. (1996)

<sup>(2)</sup> See the maxim applied in the case of Muhammadans in Jesioni Single v. Jet Single, 3 Moo. I. A., 215 (1844), Nicholas v. Aspher, 24 C., 222 (1896).

<sup>(3)</sup> Harrol v. Harrod, 1 K. & J., 4; Fleming v. Fleming, 4 Bing, 269; Fakhd v. Lambert, 15 C. B., N. S., 782; Harrison v. Hayor, DeG. M. & G., 157; Lawson's Presumptive Evidence, 109, 107; see s. 114, post

<sup>(4)</sup> Lawson's Presumptive Er, 104-106
(5) Rouledge v. Carrathers, Nicholas Adult Bast., 161; "The basis of the rule seems to be a notion that it is undesirable to inquire into the paternity of a child, whose parents have access to each other." Markhy, Er., 87

<sup>(6)</sup> R v Murray, 1 Salk., 122; R v. Alerion, 1 Ld Raym, 122, see Lawson's Presumptive Ev. 169

Ev. 109
(7) R v Luffe, 8 East, 203

<sup>(8)</sup> Head v Head, 1 Sim. & St. 150 (1823). (9) 1 Sim. & St. 153 (10) As to Muhammadan Law, v. post, and differs from those which direct that the Court "shall presume" in the circumstance that in the latter case the presumption may be rebutted by any fact or facts; but the presumption enacted by the present section can be rebutted only by proof of the particular fact indicated as that by which it may be rebutted. In order to displace the conclusive presumption, it must be shown that no "access" or opportunity of sexual intercourse occurred down to a point of time so near to the birth (as for instance six months) as to render paternity impossible.

K 114, post

<sup>(11)</sup> See s 4, ante.

In this rule "access" and "non-access" mean the existence or non-Access-existence of opportunities for sexual intercourse (1). If sexual intercourse is proved between the husband and wife at the time of the child being conceived, the law will not permit an enquiry whether the husband or some other man was more likely to be the father of the child (2). Non access may be proved by means of such legal evidence as is admissible in every other case in which it is necessary to prove a physical fact (3).

As a child born of a married woman is in the first instance presumed to be legitimate, such presumption is not to be rebutted by circumstances which only create doubt and surption; but it may be wholly removed by proper and sufficient evidence showing that the husband was (a) incompetent (1) (b) entirely alsent so as to have no intercourse or communication of any kind with the mother; (c) entirely absent at the period during which the child must, in the course of nature, have been begotten, or (d) only present under such circumstances as afford clear and satisfactory proof that there was no sexual intercourse.

Such evidence as this puts an end to the question and establishes the illepittinacy of the child of a matric woman [6]. All these similar facts are receivable in evidence in proof of non-access. So also Lord Ellenborugh in R. v. Luffe(6) laid it down that the illegittinacy of the child might be shown when the legittinacy was impossible and the impossibility arose from (a) the husband being under the age of puberty, (b) the husband labouring under a disability occasioned by natural infirmity, (c) the length of time elapsed since the death of the husband, (d) the absence of the husband or (c) where the impossibility was based on the laws of nature

In this last connection it will be unnecessary to prove facts which may certainly be known from the invariable course of nature, such as that a man is not the father of a child, where non-access is already proved until within six months of the woman's delivery. (7)

So far as concerns descent from particular parents a child born during wedlock is presumed according to English law, to be the legitimate issue of

<sup>(1)</sup> Banbury Peerogr Case, 1 Sim & St., 189 5 CL & F., 250, Cope v Cope, 1 M. & Rob., 275, Bury v. Philpot, 2 My. & K., 349, in Haryrace v. Haryrare, 9 Beav., 552, 556, Lord Langlale calls it "generating access."

(2) Morris v. Davies, 5 Cl. & F., 243 . Cope v

Cope, 1 M & Rob., 275.

<sup>(3)</sup> Rosenov I Inglee, 18 Dom., 465, 472 (1807). (4) In Field, 187, 514; it as ungested that it section searcely makes promision for this case, but "access" does not in this connection simply mean boung in the same place of house (Bashayer, Verneya Case, 1 Sinn. & St., 159), but access viewed with reference to the result, sr., the procreation of children. There can therefore be as little "access" when the hashand is imposted.

though present, as when he is capable though absent it is clear that there was no intention to depart from the English rule on the point, which is also a rule of obvious good sense such parents, no matter how soon the birth be after the marriage (1) When a man marries a woman whom he knows to be with child he may be considered as acknowledging by a most solemn act that the child is bis.(2) And it has been held that nothing except evidence that the husband did not have intercourse at the period of conception can prove to be illegitimate a child born in wedleck, and that if the husband could from the circumstances of time, place and health have had nuptial intercourse with his wife and there be no evidence that he did not have such intercourse, he must be considered the father of her child.(3) The present section, following the English law, adopts the period of bir as the turning point of tegitimacy.

<sup>(5)</sup> Horgrans v. Harryrans, 9 Beav., $52, 535, per Lord Langulale.

<sup>(6) 8</sup> East . 207

(i) Taylor, Ev. 5 IV, and cases there ettel: and of Whitefel's case cited in Lawron, Pres Ev., 110, where it was attempted to charge a black man as the father of a white child bourt of a Milatto woman. No also expert readence has been admitted to show that by the "laws of nature," a white man and woman could not be the parents of a Mulatto 'child, Whatton, Ev., § 1508.

It is

Where evidence of access is given, it requires the strongest evidence of non-intercourse or other proof beyond reasonable doubt, to justify a judgment of illegitimacy.(6) Adultery on the wife's part, however clearly proved, will not have this effect, if the husband had access to the wife at the beginning of the period of the gestation, unless there is positive proof of non-intercourse.(7) From evidence of "access"—as this word is used in this connection—the presumption of sexual intercourse is very strong (8) But evidence of access is not conclusive. It being only proved that the opportunity for sexual intercourse had existed—as that the parties hyed in the same house—and the fact itself not being proved, evidence it did take place. The parties m. the fact of sexual intercourse not of the child (5)

circumstantial evidence raising a strong presumption against the fact. In other words the proof of sexual intercourse being conclusive the presumption

Wharton, Ev., § 1298 As to the Mahommedan Law, see Syed Ameer Alt's Mahommedan Law, Vol. II, pp. 199—201.

<sup>(2)</sup> R. v. Lufe, S. East., 210, per Lawrence, J. and new by, 207, "with respect to the case where the parents have marned so recently before the furth of the chill that it could not have been legotien in wellock, it stands upon its own peculiar ground. The marriage of the parts is the criterion adopted by the law in the case of anti-ruptial generation for assertaning the actual parenties of the while. For this purpose it will not examine when the gentation began, locking only to the recommtion of the yet he habad in the subsequent act of marriare." Per Lord Ellevlarough.

<sup>(3)</sup> Gordon v. Gordon and Granville Gordon, (1983), p 141.

<sup>(1)</sup> Melammed Allakied v Melammed Inmed, 10 A., 290, 236 (1893), per Mahmood, J. Under Mishammedan law questions of legitimacy are referred to the date of the conception of the child and not to the period of the birth, S, v pod. Unler Hindu law it u not necessary in order to render a child beptimate that the procretation as well as the birth should that place after marriage. Odogappa Chetty v. Collector of Tracknopely, 14 B L. R., 115 (1873); see s. 114, past. As to the position of bistards in Hindu Law, see Pandaiya Telacry v. Pali Tearry, 1 Mad. H. C. R., 479, (1863)

<sup>(5)</sup> Morris v Daties, 5 Cl. & F., 163; R v. Manafid3, 1 Q. B., 444, Aichlee v. Spriff, 23 L. J., Ch., 345; Wharton, Ev., § 1298.

<sup>(6)</sup> Wharton, Er. § 1298. Taylor, Er. § 1902. Head v. Head v. Head, supra; Cope v. Cope, supra. 1902. Head v. Head, supra; Cope v. Cope v. Cope, supra. 1902. S. L. Kir., 1887. L-759 v. Edmond, 25 L. 1., Ch., 125. Enabury France can, supra; E. v. Levie, supra; as to the conpetency of the parents to prove non-access, v. post.

<sup>(7)</sup> Bury v Philpel, 2 Myl. & K., 349; Head v. Head, supra. Lanson's Pres. Ev., 113, 114; Whatton, Ev., § 1298, The Barony of Safe, § H. L. Cas., 507, Gurney v Garney, 32 L. J., Ch., 456

<sup>(8)</sup> Lawson, 114; see Ploxer v. Rerty, S. L. J. Ch., 630, R. v. Inhabitants of Massfeld, I.Q. B., 144, Copt v. Copt, supra; that hustand and wife slept together affords strong and irresatishic inference of avoid intercourse; Letje v. Edwards, supra.

cannot be attacked, but the evidence by which such fact is to be established may be contradicted (1) To rebut the presumption under this section it is for those who dispute the paternity of the child to prove non-access. Where a wife came to her husband's house a few days before he died and remained there up to the time of his death, and it was shown that a child alleged to be that of her husband, was the child of the wife and that it was born within the time necessary to give rise to the presumption under this section, the Privy Council in the absence of any evidence to show that the husband could not have had connection with his wife during the time she was residing with him, held that the presumption as to the paternity of the child given by this section must prevail. The fact that the husband was during the period within which the child must have been begotten, suffering from a serious illness which termi nated fatally shortly afterwards was held, under the circumstances, not sufficient to rebut the presumption (2). This presumption still exists where the parties are living apart from each other by mutual consent, though the presumption is rebuttable by proof of non-access. But it is otherwise where they are separated by a decree of Court, for in such cases the presumption is that they obey the decree (3). Moreover by the terms of the section there must be a "continuance of a valid marriage." But a child born within 280 days from the dissolution of a valid marriage will be presumed legitimate. So in the case of widowhood though cohabitation is possible, the law will presume in favour of chastity and of the legitimacy of a child born within 280 days after the death of the husband (4). Where a child born some 365 days after the last period at which he could have been begotten by the husband of his mother was set up as legitimate, it was held that although such a period of gestation was perhaps not absolutely beyond the bounds of possibility, yet there being evidence that the mother had been married to her husband for ten years without having had any children by him, and also evidence which pointed strongly to the conclusion of immorality on the part of the mother, the only reasonable finding was against the legitimacy of the child (5) Where the question in issue was whether the plaintiff was the legitimate son of a man to whom his mother had admittedly been at one time married, but by whom (according to the defendant) she had been abandoned or divorced, it was held that mere abandonment would not dissolve the tie of marriage, and that in such a case the presumption of legitimacy would prevail, unless it could be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at a time when the plaintiff could have been begotten, and it was held also that the burden of proof as to this and as to the alleged divorce having taken place at a time which would debar him from relying on this section lay on the defendant.(6) It may be a question of difficulty to determine how far the provisions of this section are to be taken as trenching upon the Muhammedan law of Marriage, parentage, legitimacy and inheritance, which departments of law under other statutory provisions are to be adopted as the rule of decision by the Courts in British India (7)

<sup>(1)</sup> Ib , 115, 116 . R v Inhabitants of Mans field, supra , Cope v. Cope, supra , on this point the conduct of the parties is relevant, as that the wife concealed the birth of the child from the husband Morris v Daues, 5 Cl & F. 163.

Cope v Cope, supra , Banbury Perrage case, supra, Pandasya Telaver v Puls Telaver, 1 Mad H C ·R., 478, 485 (1863)

<sup>(2)</sup> Narendra Nath v Ram Gobind, 29 C. 11 (1901); s. c., 4 Bom L. R., 243.

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Ev , § 106, and cases there ested

<sup>(4)</sup> See Trilok Nath v. Lochhmin Kunwari, 7

C W. N , 617 (1903), when the child was born 223 days after the husband's death # c . 25 A .

<sup>(5)</sup> Tilum Singh v Dhan Lunuar, 24 A , 445

<sup>(6)</sup> Bhima v Dhulappa, 7 Bom L R., 15 (7) Muhammad Allahdad v. Muhammad Irmad, <sup>10</sup> A , 289, 339 (1888), per Mahmood, J., in Field, Ev., 514, it is stated that "It may be supposed that the provisions of this section will supersede certain rather absurd rules of Muham-medan Law, by which a child born six months

Evidence of

According to English (1) and American (2) law the parents are incompetent to prove non-access when the legitimacy of a child is in question, which latter fact must be established by circumstantial evidence only. The rule in England has been stated (3) to be that—(a) Neither the mother nor the husband is a competent witness as to the fact of their having or not having had sexual intercourse with each other,(4) nor are any declarations by them upon that subject deemed to be relevant facts when the legitimacy of the woman's child is in question, whether the mother or her husband can be called as a wild is in question, whether the mother or her husband can be called as a wind been given (by independent evidence) of the non-access of the husband at any time when his wife's child could have been begotten, the wife may give evidence as to the person by whom it was begotten.(5)

It has further recently been held by the House of Lords that a husband who asked whether he had intercourse before marriage with the woman who afterwards became his wife (6)

The grounds of the rule have been stated to be decency, morality and policy. The proviso relating to affiliation-orders is founded on necessity, since the fact to which the woman is permitted to testify is probably within her own knowledge and that of the adulterer alone (7) It has been held in America that the rule thus established is not affected by the Statutes removing disability from interest (8) The rule excludes not only all direct questions respecting access but all questions which have a tendency to prove or disprove that fact, unless they are put with a view to some different point in the cause (9). No such rule is, however, to be found in, or implied from, this Act: and it has accordingly been held that in this country a wife can be examined as to non-access of her husband during her married life without independent evidence being first offered to prove the illegitimacy of her children (10).

Proof of cession of territory.

113. A notification in the Gazette of India that any portion of British territory has been ceded to any Native State. Prince after marriage or within two years after divorce or the death of the husband, is presumed to be his ligitimate offspring See the Hedays, Ch. XIII and Macnaghten's Hundu Law, Ch VIII, $ 31. "It is to be noted that, according to the modern view, the period is ten months after divorce or the death of the husband. Further the determination of this point is not touched by considerations as to the rational character of the rules to be adopted, but is simply dependent on an accurate distinction between the substantize rules of Muhammedan Law and the rules of evidence. (10 A , 325, supra) If the point for decision be one of explence only the case will be governed by this Act (ib.; Mathar Ali v. Budh Singh, 7 A ; 297; see s. 107, 108,

Taylor, Ev., §§ 950, 951; Phipson, Ev., Id. 168—168; Red, Ev. § 588; Roscor, N.
 P. Ev. 1039; Steph. Dig., Art. 99, Powell,
 Ev. 155, 156

(2) Stewart Rapalje's Treature on the Law of Witnesses, § 159; Lawson's Presumptive Eridence, 119; Wharton, Er., § 608.

(3) Steph Dig. Art. Pt.

44) Unless the proceedings in the course of which the question arises are proceedings instituted in consequence of adultery, 32 and 33 Vic, c 68, s 3.

(5) Steph Duc. Art. 98, exting R. v. Lufg. v. Supra. Cope v. Vope, upon. 272, 274. Lufg. v. Edimode, 25 f. J. Eq. 125,135, R. v. Mene Edd. L. Q. B. 444. Morrary Dutter, 3. G. A. R. P. 215. Haces v. Broger, L. R., 23 Ch. D., 173. Applied Prerage case, 11 Q. B. D., L. Letter written by the mother may, as part of the reserving by a manufacture of the control of th

(6) Poulett Peerage case, L. R., A. C. 395 (1903).

(7) Taylor, Ev., §§ 950, 951; see the grounds given in the judgment cited in Wharton, Ev. § 609, note (2).

(9) Lawson, Pres. Ev., 118; Wharton, Ev. $ 608.

(9) Taylor, Ev., § 950 and case there ented.
(10) Rozario v. Inglie, 18 B., 468 (1893). In England independent evidence of non-access would be required in the first instance; v. supra.

or Ruler.(1) shall be conclusive proof that a valid cession of such territory took place at the date mentioned in such notification.

Principle -See Note, post, a, 37 (Ederancy of Notifications in O.Frial n. 57 Ct. (10) (Judicial natice of British Gazettes 1 terrstories.)

s. 4 (" Conclusive proof.")

Markby, Ev. Act, 87; Field, Ev., 614, 515; Cunningham, Ev., 298, 299; Whitley Stokes, Anglo-Indian Codes, 835.

COMMENTARY.

This section was an attempt for political reasons to exclude inquiry by Cossion of Courts of Justice into the validity of the acts of the Government. But it has been decided by the Privy Council(2) that the Indian Legislature had no power to do this; and the section is therefore a dead-letter (3) The British Crown has the power without the intervention of the Imperial Parliament to make a cession of territory within British India to a foreign prince or feudatory (4) But the Governor-General in Council being precluded by the Act 24 and 25 Vic., Cap 67, section 22, from legislating directly as to the sovereignty or dominion of the Crown over any part of its territories in India, or as to the allegiance of British subjects,-could not, by any legislative Act purporting to make a notification in a Government Gazette conclusive evidence of a cession of territory, exclude inquiry as to the nature and lawfulness of that cession.(5) The Court must take judicial notice of the territories under the dominion of the British Crown (6) See also in connection with this section,(7) the seventh clause of the third section, Bengal Regulation XIV of 1825, which enacts that, for the purposes to that Regulation (etc., the inquiry into the validity of lakhira; grants), the following shall be held to be the periods at which the several provinces subordinate to the Bengal Presidency were acquired by the British Government, namely, for Bengal, Behar and Onssa (excepting Cuttack), the 12th August 1765, for Benares, the 1st July 1775; for the provinces ceded by the Nawab Vizier, the 1st January 1801, for the provinces ceded by Daulat Rao Scindia and the Peshwah, the 1st January 1803, for the provinces of Cuttack, Puttaspore and its dependencies, the 14th October 1803; for the pergunnah of Khandah and the other territory ceded by Nana Govind Rao, the 1st November 1817.

114. The Court may presume the existence of any fact Court may which it thinks likely to have happened, regard being had to the existence common course of natural events, human conduct and public facts and private business, (8) in their relation to the facts of the particular case.

<sup>(1)</sup> See, for example, Gazette of India, 1873,

Part I, p 2 (2) Damodar Gordhan v Deoram Kanji, 1 B. 367 (1876). s. c , L. R , 3 I A , 102 , same case in Bombay High Court reported in 10 Bom H C. R , 37 (1873), in which cases the effect of this section and the power of the Indian Legislature to enact it were discussed. As to the power of legislation of the Governor-General in Council, see Alter Caufman v. Government of Bombay, 18 B., 636 (1894), and cases there cited

<sup>(3)</sup> Markby, Ev Act, 87

<sup>(4)</sup> Lachmi Narain v Raja Partap, 2 A , 1 (1878), following opinion expressed by the Privy Council in Damodar Gordhan v. Deoram Kanji

<sup>1</sup> B , 367 (1876), supra (5) Damodar Gordkan v Deoram Kanji, I B.,

<sup>367 (1876),</sup> supra

<sup>(6) 9 57,</sup> C1 10 (7) Field, Ev , 515.

<sup>(8)</sup> As to the meaning of "common coatse of public and private business," see Ainja or v

Illustrations.

The Court may presume-

- (a) that a man who is in possession of stolen goods soon after the theft is either the thief or has received the goods knowing them to be stolen, unless he can account for his possession:
- (b) that an accomplice is unworthy of credit unless he is corroborated in material narticulars :
- (c) that a bill-of-exchange, accepted or Chdorsed, was accepted or endorsed for good consideration :
- (d) that a thing or state of things which has been shown to be in existence within a period shorter than that within which such things or states of things usually cease to exist, is still in existence:
  - (e) that judicial and official acts have been regularly performed;
  - (f) that the common course of business has been followed in particular cases :(1)
- (q) that evidence which could be and is not produced would, if produced, be unfavourable to the person who withholds it;
- (h) that if a man refuses to answer a question which he is not compelled to answer by law, the answer, if given, would be unfavourable to him;
- (i) that, when a document creating an obligation is in the hands of the obligor, the obligation has been discharged
- But the Court shall also have regard to such facts as the following, in considering whether such maxims do or do not apply to the particular case before it
  - as to illustration (a)-a shopkeeper has in his till a marked rupee soon after it was stolen, and cannot account for its possession specifically, but is continually receiving rupees in the course of his business:
  - as to illustration (b)-A, a person of the highest character, is tried for causing a man's death by an act of negligence in arranging certain machinery. B. a person of equally good character, who also took part in the arrangement, describes precisely what was done, and admits and explains the common carelessness of A and himself:
  - as to illustration (b)-a crime is committed by several persons. A. B and C. three of the criminals, are captured on the spot and kept apart from each other. Each gives an account of the crime implicating D, and the accounts corroborate each other in such a manner as to render previous concert highly improbable:
  - as to illustration (c)-A, the drawer of a bill of exchange, was a man of business (2) B, the acceptor, was a young and ignorant person, completely under A's influence :
  - as to illustration (d)-it is proved that a river ran in a certain course five years ago, but it is known that there have been floods since that time which might change its course :
  - as to illustration (e)-a judicial act, the regularity of which is in question, was performed under exceptional circumstances .
  - as to illustration (/)-the question is, whether a letter was received. It is shown to have been posted, but the usual course of post was interrupted by disturbances:

Rhaemappa, 23 B. 66 (1898)

<sup>(2) &</sup>quot;Man of business in its well-known popu-(1) See Nengawa v. Bharmappa, 23 B. 60 lar sense must mean a man habitually engaged in mercantile transactions or trade," ib , at p 66. (1809).

- as to illustration (g)—a man refuses to produce a document which would bear on a contract of small importance on which he is sued, but which might also injure the feelings and reputation of his family:
- as to illustration (A)—a man refuse to answer a question which he is not compelled by law to answer, but the answer to it might cause loss to him in matters unconnected with the matter in relation to which it is a sked:
- as to illustration (i)—a bond is in possession of the obligor, but the circumstances of the case are such that he may have stolen it.

Principle.—See Notes, post; Introduction, ante

s. 3 (" Court.") s. 3 (" Fact.") n. 4 (" May presume.")

* 79-99, 107-113 (Other

Steph. Dig., Arts. 85—89, 98—101; Taylor, Ev., § 70—216; Greenled, Ev., § 14—48 and Index; Wharton, Ev., § 1220—1365; Burr, Jones, Ev., § 8—103; Wood's Practice, Ev., § 53—82; Wharton, Cr. Ev., § 707—831; Lawson on Presumptive Evidence, passim. Beat on Presumptive Evidence, passim. Phillips and Arnold, Ev., 467—493; Best, Ev., 275—401.

COMMENTARY.

The subject of presumptions, considered generally, will be found to have scope of the been shortly discussed, ante, at pp 119-122 Certain particular presumptions section. were by the Evidence Act Bill, and have been by the Act itself made the subject of special enactment. Objection having, however, been taken to the Evidence Act Bill on the score of its insufficient treatment of the subject of presumptions, the present general clause was inserted with a view of providing for all instances not covered by the provisions of the preceding sections. The present section coupled with the general repealing clause at the beginning of the Act makes it clear "that Courts of Justice are to use their own common sense and experience in judging of the effect of particular facts, and that they are to be subject to no technical rules whatever on the subject.(1) The illustrations given are for the most part cases of what in English law are called presumptions of law, artificial rules as to the effect of evidence by which the Court is bound to guide its decision, subject, however, to certain limitations which it is difficult either to understand or to apply, but which will be swept away by the section in question "(2) A presumption of law is an inference which derives from the law some arbitrary or artificial effect and is obligatory upon Judges and juries The inference in such case is independent of any belief based upon what is more or less probable because the law declares the uniform effect of a certain state and condition of circumstances The history of jurisprudence illustrates the fact that among Judges as among legislators, there is a constant struggle, however meffectual it may be, to approach uniformity in the law Although every Judge understands that each case should be determined according to its own facts, he often finds different cases so nearly analogous in the facts presented that similar instructions to the jury or directions to himself are appropriate in each Judges thus find themselves not only applying to different cases the same substantive rules of law, but they derive aid from precedents even in reaching conclusions as to the facts of a given cause. This is well illustrated by the growth of presumptions of law. Out of the attempts of many Judges to deduce rules for determining the probative effect of certain facts or groups of facts often recurring have developed in England many rules called presumptions but which widely differ in importance and intensity. English and American Courts are, however, now inclined to abandon the arbitrary rules of evidence which formerly forbade inquiry into the real facts, and but few of the numerous presumptions formerly called conclusive can now be so classified (1) This Act is a strongly marked instance of this tendency. 'The terms of this section are such as to reduce to their proper position of mere maxims which are to be applied to facts by the Courts in their discretion a large number of presumptions to which English law gives, to a greater or less extent, an artificial value. Nine of the most important of them are given by way of illustration."(2) But though artificial and technical rules find no place in this Act, the Courts being free to use their own common sense and experience in judging of the effect of particular facts, it will be of assistance in forming inferences from those facts to take notice of these principles in the nature of presumptions with certain questions or , other country, as also to rec touch with certain questions or country, as also to rec questions peculiar to this country, as also to rec questions peculiar to this country. These presumptions will be found dealt with in alphabetical order following the notes which are given to the Illustrations of this section. Some of those which have been laid down by Indian Courts as applicable to certain circumstances peculiar to this country indicate the fact that the process abovementioned which evolved the ancient law of presumptions is still, and will always, perhaps to some extent, remain in operation.

<sup>(1)</sup> When events occur in the far past it often becomes absolutely, necessary for the purposes of justice and equity that presumptions should be made. Ram Chunder v. Jugesh Chunder, 19

W. R., 353, 354 (1873).

(2) Proceedings of the Legislative Council, Gazette of India, Supplement, 30th March, 1872, pp. 234, 235, per Sir J. F. Stenhen.

The Illustrations to this section are examples taken from the important presumptions relating to innocence, (3) regularity (4) and continuity which are commented upon in the following notes, (5)

Illustration (a)

If possession is proved(6) the Court may presume that the man who is in possession of stolen goods soon after the theft is either the thief, or has received an account for his possession (7)

but when it is proved or may uestion is stolen property, the burden of proof is shifted, and the possessor is bound to show that he came by it honestly; and if he fail to do so, the presumption is that he is the thief or the receiver according to the circumstances. (9) The mere fact of recent possessors of stolen property is, in general, evidence of theft, not of receipt of stolen goods, with guilty knowledge. The effect to be given to such possession is, however,

[s. 114.]

C. & P. 399; R. v. Woodford, 1 M. & Rob., 384.

<sup>(1)</sup> Barr Jones, Ev., I , $5 8, 10

<sup>[2]</sup> Steph Introd , p. 133 , see Field, Ev., 519 —523

<sup>(3)</sup> See Illustrations (a), (b), (g), (b)

<sup>(4)</sup> See Illustrations (c), (e), (f), (i).

(b) See Illustration (d).

<sup>(6)</sup> R v. Hors Mansram, 6 Born. I. R, 887, 893 (1904).

<sup>(7)</sup> S. 114, III (a): see Taylor, Ev., §; 127 A.—
—127 C., Ina Statia v. R., 11 C., 120 (1885);
R. v. Skavafloodden, 13 W. R., C., 28 (1870);
Iden Chandra v. R., 21 C., 228, 338 (1803);
R. v. Mora Jadah, 5 W. R., Cr., 65 (1898). In
R. v. Mora Jadah, 5 W. R., Cr., 65 (1898). In
R. v. Adis Hassin, 23 W. R., Cr., 10 (1875);
In R. v. Adis Hassin, 23 A., 306 (1901), the Court appear to have been of opinion that the vide core was not sufficient to connect the prisoners with the roce-water of the stelon attales.

<sup>(8)</sup> v. sate, s. 110, and notes thereto.

<sup>(9)</sup> Roscor, Cr Ev. 18, 864, for a case in which the circumstances led to the second of these presumptions, see R v. Langmend, L & C. 427 (When the prisoner was found in the recent possession of some stolen sheep of which he could give no satisfactory account, and it might reasonably be inferred from the circumstances that he did not steal them himself, it was held that there was evidence for the jury that he received them knowing them to have been stolen ) In Ishan Muchi v R. 15 C., 511 (1888); it was held that in a case of receiving there must be some proof that some person other than the accused had possession of the property before the accused got possession of it See R v Poromeshur Aheer, 23 W. R., Cr., 16 (1875); R v. T. Burke, 6 A. 224 (1884). It has been thought that there should be some evidence of some other person having committed the theft; see R. v. Densley, 6

a question not of law but of fact (1) The property must be shown to have been stolen by the true owner swearing to its identity and loss, or the circumstances must be such as to lead in themselves to the conclusion that the property was not honestly come by. So persons employed in carrying sugar and other articles from ships and wharves have been convicted of theft upon evidence, that they were detected with property of the same kind upon them, recently upon coming from such places, sithough the identity of the property. as belonging to such and such persons could not otherwise be proved (2). If the property be proved to have been stolen,(3) or may fairly be presumed to have been so, then the question arises, whether or not the prisoner is to be called upon to account for the possession of it. If he fails to do so, a presumption will arise, if taking into consideration the nature of the goods in question, they can be said to have been recently stolen. It has been said that to raise the presumption legitimately the possession should be exclusive as well as recent.(4) But where stolen property was found in the house of a joint Hindu family, and the circumstances were such that it was very improbable that such property could have been placed there without the connivance of some or all of the members of the family, it was held that the managing member was rightly convicted, because knowledge of its presence having been established against him, he was as house-master presumed to have been in possession of such stolen property (5) If actual possession is proved it is not incumbent upon the prosecution to prove that the accused knew that the articles were in his actual possession before he can be put upon his defence to account ' · · correct presumption of guilt in a prisoner in his premises is dependent on the fact of the case really and properly rais.

instances goods are to be considered r any precise manner, but the undermentioned cases will show what has been held upon the subject (8) And in another more recent case it was held that no presumption was raised under this section where goods alleged to be stolen (but not identified, being jewellery of an ordinary type) were found six months after a dacoity (9) The presumption is not confined to charges of theft, but extends to all charges, however penal. Thus in an indictment for arson, proof that property which was in a house at the time it was burnt, was soon after found in the possession of the prisoner, raises a probable presumption that he was present and concerned in burning the house, and, under similar circumstances, a like inference arises in the case of murder accompanied by robbery of house-breaking and of the possession of a quantity of counterfeit money (10) So in cases in which murder and robbery have been shown to form parts of one transaction, the recent and unexplained possession of the stolen property, while

(1) Mayne's Criminal Law of India $5 528,

(3) See R v Burke, 6 A, 224 (1884), R v Bajo Hari, 19 W. R., Cr., 37 (1873)

(4) R v Malkars, 6 B, 733 (1892), citing Best, Ev. The finding of stolen property in the house of the accused, provided there were other inmates capable of committing the larceny, is of sted insufficient to prove his possession, though if coupled with proof of other suspicious circum. stances, it may fully warrant the conviction of the accused. Taylor, Fr. § 1274, and cases there cited, and observations in R . Hari, 6 Bom. L. R., 887, 892 (1904)

(5) R. v. Budh Lal (1907), 29 A., 594 (6) R. v. Hars, 6 Bom. I. R , 887, per Aston,

(8) Roscor, Cr Ev. 19 Ina Sheikh v R 11 C, 160 (1895), citing and following R. v Adam, 3 C & P , 600 , R v Cosper, 3 C & R , 318; R v. Parridje, 7 C & P , 551 See Roscoe, Cr. Ev., loc cit, where these another cases are cited. R v Poromeshur Aheer, 23 W R , Cr , 16 (1875), R v Burke, 6 A, 224 227 (1884) The question what amounts to recent possession sufficient to justify the presumption in any parti cular case varies according as the stolen articles is or is not calculated to pass readily from hand to hand Taylor, Ev., § 127A. (9) R v Sughar Singh (1907), 29 A. 138. following Ina Sheakh v. R and R v. Burke.

(10) Taylor, Ev., § 127C, and cases there cited.

<sup>499,</sup> Taylor, Ev , § 127B (2) Roscoe, Cr Ev. 18, citing 2 East, P C. 656, see R. v. Burton, Dears, C C., 282

J , contra per Batty, J (7) In re Meer Yar, 13 W. R , Cr , 70, 71 (1870)

it would be presumptive evidence against a prisoner on a charge of robbery, would similarly be evidence against him on a charge of murder.(1) The Court must in all cases consider whether under the circumstances the maxim does or does not apply to the particular case before it.(2)

Illustration (b).

The Court may presume that an accomplice is unworthy of credit unless he is corroborated in material particulars. (3) The grounds upon which this presumption is based, and the rules which relate to the admission of accomplice evidence will be found discussed in the notes to section 133, post.

Illustration The Court may presume that a ''' - ' - accepted or endorsed for good consu tion for a contract should be the sul change and promissory notes form an exception to this general rule. They are prima facre presumed to be founded on a valuable consideration, partly to secure their negotiability, and partly because the existence of a valid consideration may reasonably be inferred from the solemnity of the instruments themselves and the deliberate mode in which they are executed.(4) This and other presumptions relating to negotiable instruments have been made the subject of special enactments in sections 118-122 of Act XXVI of 1881 (the Negotiable Instruments Act).(5) Professional money-lenders sued a young man recently come of age to recover certain loans of money alleged to have been advanced by them to him on promissory notes. The defendant, who, under the will of his father was entitled to a large property but had not yet come into possession of it, was of an extravagant and reckless character. He pleaded, as to part of the consideration for the notes, that he did not receive it, and as to a further part, that the consideration was immoral In dealing with the case the Court laid down the following propositions, not as rules of law, but as guides in considering the evidence in such a case :-

- 1. That upon the above facts the ordinary presumption that a negotiable instrument has been executed for value received was so much weakened that the defendant's sallegation that he had not received full consideration was sufficient to shift the burden of proof and to throw upon the money-lenders (the plaintifis) the obligation of satisfying the Court that they had paid the consideration in full. That is the practical effect of Illustration (c) to section 114 of this Act
- Where the plaintiff, in answer to such a defence, affirmed that he had paid the consideration in full, and was corroborated by his books and witnesses, the onus of proof again shifted over upon the defendant.
- 3 The burden of proof thus thrown upon the defendant could only be met by a perfectly truthful and harmonious statement which the Court felt able to rely upon with confidence. In the absence of this, the ordinary presumption laid down in section 118 of the Negotiable Instruments Act (XXVI of 1831) must prevail, vez., until the contrary is proved, the presumption should be made that every negotiable instrument was made for consideration.(6) The mer fact that the drawer and acceptor of a bill are partners, does not give rise to the presumption that they are partners in respect of the drawing of the bill or that the bill was drawn by one of them on behalf of both (7)

<sup>(1)</sup> R. v. Jami, 13 M., 426, 432 (1890).

<sup>(2)</sup> See a. 114, observations in text of this section relating to this Illustration on p. 706.

<sup>(3)</sup> S. 114, III. (b); but see also observations in the text of this section relating to this Illustration on p. 706.

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 149, Story on Bills, §§ 16, 178; Jones v. Gordon, 2 App. Cas., 627; H. L. Lawson, Pres. Ev., 77—81.

<sup>(5)</sup> See the Act, edited by M. D. Chalmers (1892), pp. 110-114.

<sup>(6)</sup> Mots Golabchand v. Mahomed Medhi. 21 B, 367 (1895).

<sup>(7)</sup> Jombu Ramaswamy v. Sundararaya Chetti, 25 M. 273 (1902), which case also deals with the question of onus in the case of damage suffered by drawer by omission to give notice of dahonour.

The Court may presume that a thing or state of things which has been mustration shown to be in existence within a period shorter than that within which such thing or state of things usually cease to exist, is still in existence. The ordinary legal presumption is that things remain in their original (1) When the existence of a personal relation or a state of things continuous in its nature is once established by proof, the law presumes that such status continues to exist as before until the contrary is proved or until a different presumption is raised from the nature of the subject in question. But the presumption is not retrospective. It cannot be permitted to operate retrospectively so as to infer the, prior existence of marriage or other like relationship from proof of its present) existence. It may well be that in the example given the parties contracted the relationship within a few days before the trial (2) And though a present continuance may be, a future continuance is never presumed. The law presumes that a fact continuous in its nature still continues to exist until a change is shown, and so a state of things proved to exist three years ago is presumed in law to be still existing unless the contrary be shown, but the law indulges no presumption that it will continue three years longer. It is not unreasonable to presume the continuance of an existing fact at the time of the trial, for the other party can overthrow it by proof if it be not so; but when a future contianswer by his proof · the presumption innocence. Thus of the continuance of a bankrupt in 1837 It is afterwards discovered that in 1835 he owned certain property which was not included in the schedule. There is no presumption that he owned this property in 1837, for

Sections 107-109, ante, deal with particular applications of the principle, of which the present illustration is the general expression Other common instances are here shortly adverted to the presumption is that he did not commit a fraud (4)

the person in whom there is title. So in a suit for the possession of jungle lands, where there is no proof of facts of ownership having been exercised on either side, possession must be presumed to have continued with the person to whom

<sup>(1)</sup> Museamat Janut-ool-Batool v Hosevitte Berum, 11 Moo I. A. 194, 209 (1867), Ohboy Churn v Hurs Nath, 8 C , 72, 79 (1891). Cee Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 86 [States of persons mind of things, at a given time, may in some cases be proved by showing their previous existence in the same state, there being a probability (weakened with remoteness of time) that certain conditions and relationships continue, eg., human life, marriage, sanity, opinions, title, partnership, official character, domicile.) Taylor, Ev., $$ 196-205, Best, Pres Ev., 186-202 Burr. Jones, § 52 et sez., Best Ev., §§ 405-410 Wharton, Ev , $$ 1284-1289 This rule must, of course, be clearly distinguished from that which declares that specific acts done in other cases do not raise the inference that a similar act was done in another case Holingham v Head, 4 C B N. S , 388, v. post

<sup>(2)</sup> Lauson, Pres Ev., 190, 191, citing Murdork v. State. 68 Ala., 587 (Amer.); Bardi v.

Lyte, 4 La. Ann., 357 (Amer) It cannot be presumed from the fact that a person was qualified to act as a justice at a particular date, that he was qualified so to act at a persod anterior to that date Tujoro v Creswell, 45 Ind., 423 (Amer). (A made a contract in 1860 In 1864 he was insane There is no presumption that he was insane in 1800)

<sup>(3)</sup> Covert v Gray, 34 How Pr. 450 (Amer.), cited in Lawson, Pres. Ev., 187, 188

<sup>(4)</sup> Lawson, Pres. Er., 191, cittige Powell v. Kaor, 16 Ala, 634 (Amer.) But see Best, Ev., Pres. Ev., 186, citting R v. Rudd., 5 Eap., 230 Turhon v. Turnos, 3 Hagg. N. C., 350 in which it is said that there are several instances to be found in the books where this presumption has been held stronger than that of innocence or those derived from the course of nature.

<sup>(5)</sup> Best, Pres Ev , 186, Lawson, Pres. Ev., 163 & 164, and cases there cited; Best, Ev., 405.

they rightfully belong (1) Possession is not necessarily the same thing as actual user. When land has been shown to have been in a condition unfitting it for actual enjoyment in the usual modes, at such a time and under such circumstances that that state naturally would and probably did continue till within twelve years before suit, it may properly be presumed that it did so continue, and that the previous possession continued also until the contrary is proved. Such a presumption is in no sense a conclusive one. Its bearing upon each particular case must depend upon the circumstances of that case (2) Constructive possession will not, however, be presumed in favour of a wrong-doer. (3) Similarly non-possession or loss, (4) debt. (5) and other conditions of property or things, (6) once proved to exist are presumed to continue until the contrary is shown. (7) So when a private arrangement by way of partition was admitted to have existed and to have been acted upon for forty years, it was held that that of showce or none-authorhings(12)

once shown to exist are presumed to continue until the contrary is proved. (13) Sanity or insanty once proved to exist is presumed to continue. But alter as to temporary insanity produced by drunkenness, violent disease or otherwise (14) The character and habits of a person are presumed to continue as proved to be at

- (1) Ledanund v Mussumat Batherootstee, 18 W. R., 102 (1871) Mitterget Kingh v Rolida Perhad, 23 W. R., 196 (1875), Rom Baedha V. Kwa Bhatu, 5 C. R. 481 (1870) Watson & Co. v The Government, 3 W. R., 73 (1887) Mohing Unbun v. Krishno Kishore, 9 C., 802 (1887), c. a. 12 C. L. R., 371, Probhator Theory, v. Rom Baddyn, 1 C. W. N., cxv. (1897), and secesses reliat notes to s. 100, and corsesses reliat notes to s. 100, and
- (2) Mahomed Als v. Khaja Abdul, 9 C , 744 (1893), F. B., s c . 12 C L. R . 257 . cf Raycoomer Roy v Colund Chunder, 19 Ind. App., 140 (1891), as to the possession of land formed by the gradual drying up of lakes or water channels, see Radha Gobind v Inglis, 7 C L. R., 364 (1880), Sunnud Alix Mussamut Karimoonissa, 9 W R. 124 (1868), Mohiny Mohun v. Krishno Kishore. 9 C, 802 (1883), # e, 12 C. L. R., 337. As to possession in the case of chur land and land diluviated and then reformed by the gradual action of a river, see Gokool Kristo v David, 23 W. R. 443 (1875); Kally Churn v. Secretary of State, 6 C., 725 (1881), a c , 8 C. L. R., 90; Mano Mohun v. Mathura Mohun, 7 C. 225; s. c. 8 C. L. R . 126.
- (3) Secretary of State v. Krishnamoni Gupta, 29 C., 518 (1902) at pp. 534, 535.
- (4) Thus where the question was as to the admissibility of secondary evidence of a document, and it was proved that two years ago dilgent search was made, but it could not be found at the presumption was held to be that it was all lost, and secondary evidence was admissible: Por v. Durná, 20 Alas, 280 (Amer.).
- (5) Juckson v. Irrin, 2 Camp., 49. [To prove debt against a bankrupt an entry in his books

- some months before the bankruptcy showing that he was indebted to the claimant in a certain sum is proved. The presumption is that the debt still continues, Rest, Pres. Ev., 187-189, Best, Ev., § 406, Taylor, Ev., § 197.
- (6) Scoles v Kry, 11 A. & E. 8, 819 [The question is whether a certain custom resident in the year 1840. The jury finds that the custom existed in 1869 without more. The presumption is that the custom exists in 1840], and see Oblogy Churn v Hars Nath, 8 C., 72 (1881), cited 20st.
- (7) Lawson, Pres. Ev., 163—172 (8) Obhoy Churn v. Hars Nath, 8 C., 72, 79 (1891).
- (9) See Wharton, Ev. § 1285, as to readence Bdl v Kennody, Ir. 3, R. I., 207, Wheler v Hume, 7 H. L., 124, Wharton, Conflict of Laws, § 65, domucle The Landerdale Perroye, 10 App Cas. 602 But of course in this and very other instance the inference varies with the facts of the case. So no presumption but that of mobility of residence attaches to the tramp, Wharton. Ev. 150 cat
  - (10) Wharton, Ev., § 1289
- (11) See Smout v. Hbery, 10 M. & W., 1; Ryan v. Sams, 12 Q. B., 460 (agents' authority, continuance of)
- (12) eg. It is proved that F was an numerried woman at a certain date. The presumption is that she continues so until proved to have married. Page v. Findley, 5 Tex., 391 (Amer.). (13) Lawson, Pres Ev., 172—178.
- (14) Lawson, Pres Ev., 179, 180; Best, Pres Ev., 187; Gresley, Ev., 474-479, a time past. So in an American case(1) it was attempted to impeach the character of  $P_c$  a wines. A and B who knew P four years before, when he resided at another place, testify that his character was then bad. It was held that the presumption was that P/s character remained the same. And though specific acts done in other cases do not raise the inference that a similar act was done in another case, and evidence of them is inadmissible (2) yet the habit of an individual being proved he is presumed to act in a particular case in accordance with that habit (3). Thus a subscribing witness to a will or other document if unable to recollect whether he saw the testator or obligor sign the instrument or heard it acknowledged. may testify to his own habit never to sign as a witness without seeing the party sign whose signature he attests or hearing that signature acknowledged (4).

The main use of this presumption is to designate the party on whom lies the burden of proof. If a state of facts is established by one party, those facts in themselves not being so limited as to time as to have expired at the period of litigation, it is not necessary for that party to prove the continuance of the relation. The burden is on the opposite party to prove that that state has ceased to exist. But there is no presumption of law against the latter which when the ridence is all in, can outweigh any preponderance in such evidence in his aroun; (5) And in the undermentioned case it was held that where there is evidence on both sides as to the factum of attestation, the maxim "omnia rice ease ace a" can only be recorted to (that all) when the evidence on both sides is evenly balanced, and that the maxim operates when there is no evidence on either side and may possibly be used to eke out unconvincing testimony on one side only (6)

This section authorises the presumption that a particular judicial or official Illustration act which has been performed has been performed regularly; but it does not authorise the presumption without any evidence that the act has been performed (7) The Court may presume that judicial and official acts have been regularly performed. This Illustration is a particular application to acts of a judicial or official character of the general and important presumption usually embodied in the maxim, Omnia præsumuntur rite esse acta (8) If it be the duty of a Court to do a particular thing, it must be assumed that the Judges of that Court did their duty (9) And the same rule is made by the Illustration applicable to the official acts of all other persons who are not judicial officers (10) The meaning of this rule is that if an official act is proved to have been done, it will be presumed to have been regularly done Thus in the undermentioned case it was held by the Privy Council that all things done before a Registrar in his official capacity and verified by his signature will (unless it be shown that a deliberate fraud on him has been successfully committed) be presumed to be done duly and in order; and it was further held that evidence of the general reputation of character of the identifiers in his office was inadmissible to

<sup>(1)</sup> Sleeper v. l'an Middlesworth, 4 Denio, 431 (Amer.).

<sup>(2)</sup> v. ante, pp 13"-137, 7(1, note (1)

<sup>(3)</sup> Wharton, Ev , § 2187. Lawson, Pres Ev .

<sup>(4)</sup> Wharton, Ev , 2187 and cases there cited

See also s 16 ante, and cases there collected.

<sup>(5)</sup> Ib., Ev., § 1284.

<sup>(8)</sup> Jhama v Deobux, 2 N. L. R., 10 (7) Deputy Legal Remembrancer v Mir Sar-

war, 6 C. W. N., 845 (1902), Narendra Lal v. Jogi Hari, 32 C., 1107 (1905)

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev , 44 143-150; Broome's Legal Maxims, 6th Ed., 896-908. v put.

<sup>(9)</sup> Bourne v. Gallf, II C & F, S0 vs. But were Dav v. Mohammed Mashing A., 269, 702 (1887), Majestoodsten Kazee v. Mohr Ali, 1 W. R., 222 (1886), foral evolution of contract of decree), Ashanallah Khan v. Trilochan Boycis, 13 C, 197, 199 (1889), Gasper v. Mytton, Taylor, R. 291, 310 (1888), Arman Khan v. Bama Soondarer, 25 W. R, 62 (1876), Hem Lotta v. Stechhoe Boroos, 3 C, 771 (1877), Sarda Prossad v. Luchmeepst Sing, 10 B, 1, R, 244, 250 (1872).

<sup>(10)</sup> See cases cited in Taylor, Et . 55 143-1;at raise any presumpthe proof of which nich all rules of law

on the contrary, nothing shall be intended to be within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court, but that which is so expressly alleged. (4) When under an Act at that ct have been actually done. No presumption should be made under this Illustration in favour of the condition precedent having been observed.(5) But where a defendant in answer to a claim for arrears of taxes by Bombay District Municipality alleged that the taxes were illegal (a) because no notice had been given him under section 57 (Bombay Act II of 1884), (b) because no notice had been issued by the Municipality to the Commissioners under the 11th section of Bombay Act VI of 1873, it was held that he must prove the defence and in the absence of such proof the Court would presume that the Municipality had used the regular procedure, and that the common course of business had been followed in the particular cases (6) Before the deposition of a medical witness taken by a Committing Magistrate can, under section 509 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, be given in evidence at the trial before the Court of Session, it must either appear from the Magistrate's record or be proved by the evidence of witnesses, to have been taken ar of the accused. The Court ought not so proved, presume either under sect Act, that the deposition was so taken and attested. (7) Irregularity is not to be presumed, but a party alleging such irregularity is at liberty to prove it.

The date borne by a decision is not conclusive evidence of the date on which it was pronounced according to law. (8) But in 'the left that the presumption of regularity under sions either as to the communicating of the or in the order-sheet of the Magistrate (9)

Hlustration (f)

The Court may presume that the common course of business has been followed in particular cases. When there is a question whether a particular act was done, the existence of any course of business according to which it naturally

<sup>(1)</sup> Gangamoy, Deb. v Troiluckya Nath Chowdri, 10 C W. N., 522; P. C. (1906), 33 C, 537. (2) Narendra Lol v Jogi Hars, 32 C, 1107

<sup>(1005):</sup> Deputy Legal Remembrancer v. Mir Sarwar, 6 C. W. N., 845 (1902). (3) Gopeenath Singh v. Anundmoyee Debia, 8

<sup>(3)</sup> Gopeenath Singh v. Anundmoyee Debia, W. R., 187, 169.

<sup>(4)</sup> R. v. Nahadusp Gossams, 1 B. L. R., O. Cr., 15, 29, 30, 35 (1869); a c, 15 W. R., Cr., 71, 77.

<sup>(5)</sup> Ashandid Alon v. Troledum Bopth, 13 C., 197, 199 (1888), referred to a Shoroutum Snejk v. Net Lell, 30 C. J., 11 (1902); but see also Maneripedity of Shelaper v. The Notepur Sprang Co. 20 B., 732 (1893); cited post, As to notice under the Itoad Cras Act IIX of 1880 B. C.), see Back Bladry v. Primber Chordivan, 15 C., 237 (1848); and before sale of a point state, we Harry Duply v. Melomod Gray that the control of the Principles of the

 <sup>19</sup> C , 699 (1892) referred to in Shearuttun Singht. Net Lall, 30 C , 1, 11 (1902), followed in Sheat Mohamed v Jadunandan Jha, 10 C. W. N., 137 (1903) at p (147), which distinguishes the case of a sale for arrears of Government Revenue.

(6) Municipality of Sholapur v. The Sholapur Spinning Co., 20 B. 732 (1895), followed in R. v. Ram Chandra, 10 A., 493 (1897), but see Ashanullah Khan v Tritochan Bagchi, 13 C., 197, 199 (1896), citch ante

<sup>197, 199 (1880),</sup> cited ante (7) Kachali Hari v. R., 18 C., 129 (1890). R. v. Riding, 9 A., 720 (1887), R. v. Pohp Singh,

 <sup>10</sup> A., 174, 177, 178 (1887). v. ante. p. 526.
 (8) Gopal v. Krishna, 3 Bom. L. R., 420 (1901).
 Mahipat v. Lakshman, 24 B., 406; s. c., 2 Bom. L. R., 224.

<sup>(9)</sup> Aparles Krishna Bose v. R (1907), 35 C., 141.

would have been done, is a relevant fact (1). When the common course of business has been proved, the Court may under this Illustration presume that it has been followed in the particular case. There are various prima facie presumptions which are founded upon the experience of human conduct in the ordinary course of business (2) Several presumptions are made from the regular course of business in public offices, of which the Post office affords a large numher of examples (3) Similar presumptions are drawn from the usual course of men's private offices and business, where the primary evidence of the fact is wanting (4) But though this section and Illustration leave it to the Court's discretion to presume that the course of business has been followed, it is not bound to presume it (5) It will consider all the circumstances of the case, especially if they be in any manner unusual. So, if the question is whether a letter was received, and it is shown to have been posted, the Court will, in dealing with the presumption consider such a fact as that the usual course of the post was interrupted by disturbances.(6) The effect to be given to the word "refused" on a registered cover as proof of tender of the packet to the addressee is one of fact. Each case must be decided under this section according to its circumstances.(7)

The Court may presume that evidence which could be and is not produced Hisatriation would, if produced, be unfavourable to the person who withholds it. This Illustration deals with the presumptions which arise from withholding evidence and from the spoliation or fabrication or suppression of evidence. The subject of spoliation is dealt with further on and, as will be there seen, the fact, if established, raises most powerful presumptions. But the mere withholding or failing to produce evidence, which under the circumstances would be expected to be produced and which is available, gives rise to a presumption against the party, though it is less violent than that which attends spoliation. Such a presumption would, for instance, arise if the owner of a vessel were to omit without reasonable explanation to call the seaman who had charge of the light at the produced, would of the defendants were said to have been burnt, but this fact was not proved, it was held that the non-production of the documents subjected the defendants to have raised against them the presumption recognised by this Illustration (5). "The non-production of deeds or papers after notice, has, in general, only the effect of admitting the other party to prove their contents by parol, and as against the party refusing to produce them, to raise a primá facie presumption that they have been properly stamped (9) Nevertheless such conduct is, in the absence of excuse, calculated to produce a very prejudicial effect in the minds of the intra against the person having recourse to it; and if the production of his

Prosanna, 30 C. 1033 (1903) . 8 C. W. N. 1 Inon-

<sup>(1)</sup> S 16 ante, v. pp., 205.207, ante.

<sup>(1)</sup> S to ante, v. pp, 200,201, ante. (2) See Taylor, Ev., § 176-178, and cases

there ested

<sup>(3)</sup> See Taylor, Ev. § 179-180A. and cases there exted v ante, pp 205-207 and Municipality of Shdapur v. The Shdapur Spinning Co., 20 B., 732 (1895), cited supra.

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor, Ev., §§ 181, 182, and cases there cited, and see aste, pp. 205—207.

<sup>(5)</sup> Ram Das v Official Liquidator, 9 A., 366, 376 (1887).

<sup>(6)</sup> See s. 114

<sup>(7)</sup> Gopal v. Krishna, 3 Bom L. R., 420 (1901)

<sup>(8)</sup> Ram Prosad v Rayhunandan Prasad, 7 A. 738 (1885); and see Wuttler v. Sharpe, 15 A., 270, 289, 290 (1893); Hem Chandra v. Kali

production of collection papers by tenants. Set Burr Jones, Ev., §17, and cases there etch. The evidence of course must be available there is no presumption if it is not within the central of the party failing to produce it, nor from the failure to call as a witness one whom the other party had the same opportunity of calling, nor one whose testimony would be simply cumulative; 16, 1, 18

<sup>(9)</sup> S 89, ante, Crop v Anderson, 1 Stark, 35, and attested a 89, ante Further a party refusing to produce a document cannot generally afterwards use the document as evidence; a 164, post

papers would establish the guilt or innocence of a person charged with fraud or misconduct, the jury will be amply justified in presuming him guilty from the unexplained fact of their non-production. Indeed, jurors will always do well to regard with suspicion the conduct of a party, who, having it in his power to produce cogent evidence in support of his case, offers testimony of a weaker and less satisfactory character."(1) But it is not necessary that a judge should direct a jury in so many words that the omission of the prosecution to call certain witnesses raised a presumption under this illustration that their evidence would have been unfavourable to the Crown, if he has pointed out that the jury might properly draw any inference they pleased from such omission.(2)

Presumptions are necessarily made against persons who will not subject themselves to examination when a primal face case is made against them, and when by their own evidence they might have answered it (3). Everything is to be presumed against a party keeping his adversary out of possession of evidence and taking means to retain that evidence in his own custody.(4). Where a plaintiff cited witnesses, and when they appeared, declined to have them examined, it was held that the inference to be drawn from this conduct was that those witnesses on examination and cross-examination would have deposed to a state of facts exactly that set up in the defendant's answer.(5). Where a party does not produce a document in his possession, the Court may presume that its production would damage his case (6).

It has been held that na a Criminal trial there is no misdirection in a Judge pointing out to the jury the contrast between the evidence for the prosecution, and the course followed by the prisoner (namely, a simple denial of the charge coupled with a refusal to examine the witnesses in attendance) so long as the Judge leaves it to the jury to decide between the opposing statements, and to credit whichever they think most worthy of belief (7). It has also been held that while it is the duty of the prosecutor to produce all evidence directly bearing upon the charge, and that, if without sufficient reason such evidence is not produced, the Court may draw an adverse inference to the prosecution, yet that there is no corresponding duty on an accused person, who is at liberty to offer evidence or not, as he thinks proper, and no corresponding inference unfavourable to him can be drawn because he takes one course rather than another (8) Butit has been held that there is a misdirection sufficient to justify setting aside the crowitchion when a Judge in his charge to the jury omits to mention the

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev . $ 117

<sup>(2)</sup> Fanindra Nath Banerjee v R (1908), 38 C., 281, and are Desirath Mandal v R (1907), 34 C., 325, and Nibaran Chandra Roy 1, R (1907), 11 C. W. N., 1085

<sup>(3)</sup> Nauca's Sued v. Amanee Begum, 19 W. R., 149, 151 (1873) In this case the Privy Council observed .-- "It is not unimportant to observe that the Nawah, who is a genthman of rank, went into the witness-box on this occasion and of course offered himself for cross examination Their Lordships have often said that it would be very desirable if native gentlemen would do that more frequently, because presumptions are necessarily made against them, if when parties in a Court of Justice and facts are in dispute the knowledge of which must not with them, they will not present themselves to the Court to state their own evulence and knowledge of those facts." See also Circular of Bombay High Court cited in Sallan v. Shulappa, 26 B , 302 (1901), which ease also refers to the question as to how far adverse inference can supply the place of positive

<sup>(4)</sup> Sooriah Row v Cotaghery Booch.ah, 2
Moo I A, 113, 125 (1838), in which case observations were also made on the appellant not calling witnesses within his reach who were acquainted with the subject-matter of the suit.

(5) Rajah Nilmoney v Ramanoograh Roy, 7
W. R., 29, 30 (1867)

Raghunath v. Hots. Lat., 1 All. L. J., 121
 Moharans. Bens v. Goberdhan Koers, 6
 W. N., 823, 824 (1902).

<sup>(7)</sup> R.v. Sredonath Ghosel, 2 W. R., 60 (1865); and see R.v. Modlub Chender, 21 W. R., Cr. 13, 16 (1874), whereupon another point Markby, J., also remarked "It seems to me a most extraordinary doctrine that because an infanous charge as made against a man it is useless to call hum to deep it."

<sup>(8)</sup> In re Dhunna Kats, 8 C., 121 (1881); Hurry Churn v. R., 10 C., 140 (1883); s. c., 13 C. In fact that all the original witnesses named in the first information have been abandoned by the prosecution and that two of them gave evidence for the defence. (1) and it has been held that the withholding of important witnesses intimately connected with the transaction gives rise to the presistible inference that they would not have corroborated the prosecution (2)

It must be borne in mind that the rule mentioned in this Illustration (like) most of the other rules of evidence contained in this Act) applies equally to criminal and to civil cases, nor does the case law in reality tend to any other conclusion. The effect of this section and of the preceding cases feited in the last notel which must be considered with reference to their own particular circumstances, may be summarised and explained as follows: - It has upon the prosecution affirmatively and with reasonable certainty to establish their case of the duties of the prosecution in this regard is the production of all available evidence bearing upon the charge. If the prosecution fail to completely establish a case against the accused, the latter may, without further action on his part. rely upon such failure to procure his acquittal (3). If the prosecution does not discharge its duty of producing all its available evidence, it is no answer to say that the accused who has no such duty cast upon him might have produced that evidence.(4) No inference unfavourable to the accused can be drawn in such a case against him When, however, the prosecution has called all its available evidence, and has made out a complete case against the accused, and that case discloses that there is evidence which could be produced by the accused for the purpose of negativing the charge against him, then under the provisions of this section, if such evidence be not produced, the Court may presume that it would, if produced, be unfavourable to the accused who withholds it in fact only under these circumstances that the presumption properly commences The law upon this point has been well expressed by Shaw, in the Commonwealth v Webster, (5) in which case he said -"Where probable proof is brought of a state of facts tending to criminate the accused the absence of evidence tending to a contrary conclusion is to be considered. though not alone entitled to much weight, because the burden of proof hes on the accuser to make out the whole case by substantive evidence pretty stringent proof of circumstances is produced, tending to support the charge, and it is apparent that the accused is so situated that he could offer evidence of all the facts and circumstances as they existed, and show, if such was the truth, that the suspicious circumstances can be accounted for consistently with his innocence, and he fails to offer such proof, the natural conclusion is that the proof, if produced, instead of rebutting would tend to sustain the charge But this is to be cautiously applied, and only in cases where it is manifest that proofs are in the power of the accused, not accessible to the prosecution."(6)

If, moreover, an accused or other person, not merely abstains from giving evidence but commits spoliation, that is, suppresses or destroys evidence which he ought to produce, or to which the other party is entitled, the strongest

<sup>(1)</sup> Dasgrath Mandal v. R., 34 C., 325 and see Fanindra Nath Banerjee v. R (1908), 36 C. 325

<sup>(2)</sup> Nibaran Chandra Roy v R (1907), 11

C. W N . 1085.

<sup>(3)</sup> Hurry Churn v R, 10 C, where it was held that it was entirely open to the defence to adduce no evidence at all, but to rely upon the evidence of the witnesses for the prosecution as to which there was certainly room for forming two opinions

<sup>(4)</sup> See In re Dhunno Kazi, S C , supra, at p. 125, where it was pointed out that the mere fact of witnesses being summoned for the defence was not a sufficient reason for rebeving the prosecution of the duty of calling them

<sup>(5) 5</sup> Cush, 316 (Amer ), cited in and observed

upon in Lawson, Pres Ev., 120, 121 (6) See to the same effect, Wills' Circumstan tial Ev , s 5, p 65 [Unexplained appearances of auspicion] where it is said "the force of auspictous circumstances is augmented, whenever the party attempts no explanation of facts which he may reasonably be presumed to be able and interested to explain ." and see Best, Ev., § 346.

presumption will be drawn against him. So strong is the presumption in such a case that the ordinary presumption of innocence may be overthrown and a presumption of guilt raised, the general rule being "Omnia prasumuntur contra enoligitorem." whose conduct is attributed to a supposed consciousness that the truth would operate against him (1) Where a person is proved to have suppressed any species of evidence, or to have defaced or destroyed any written instrument, a presumption will arise that, if the truth had appeared, it would have been against his interest, and that his conduct is attributable to his knowledge of this circumstance. (2) So applying the maxim "Omnia prosumuntur contra spoliatorem." the High Court held that, where a vessel was seized on suspicion of having a greater quantity of salt on board than was allowed by its permit, and immediately afterwards a number of men boarded the boat, and, with the assistance of the agent of the owner threw a considerable quantity of salt overboard, a presumption arose that there was an excess of salt on board at 41 a time of 41 a serence beneal the by the permit.(3) And in refrain from preventing the

the land was the private property of the judgment-debtors or Government service-land, the plaintiff alleged that the land had been granted in free inam by a sanad, which he petitioned the Mamlatdar of the pargana to search for and send to the Collector , and, on a reference by the High Court, the District Judge found that "the Collector did destroy the document that purported to be a copy of a sanad such as the plaintiff petitioned the Mamlaidar to search for":-It was held that it was not competent under such circumstances for the defendant to say that the document was not such a one as could legally be admitted in evidence . and that the case came within the rule omnia prosumentur contra spolustorem (4) In a suit to recover the value of plundered property, where a question arose as to the amount of the property misappropriated, it was ruled that, unless the defendant produced the property and showed it not to be of the value stated by plaintiff, the strongest presumption should be made against him and the highest value assumed (5) The maxim, however, only applies where a man by his own tortuous act withholds the evidence by which the nature of his case would be manifested (6) But in an action for goods sold against a defendant who has been guilty of no fraud or improper conduct, in the absence of evidence of the quality of the goods which were delivered, the presumption is that such goods were of the cheapest description (7)

Where a party objected to the admissibility of a document which was afterwards withdrawn, and the Judge, in summing up to the jury, said that the document was in Court, and might have been produced but for the party's

<sup>(1)</sup> Wills' Circumstantial Er., a 7, p. 82, Lawan, Prac Er., 140, Taylor, Er. 1116, the rule is evalently based on the principle that no one shall be allowed to take advantage of his own wrong, set note at p. 123, 3 flows H. C. R., A. C. J. (1886), "H." says Lord Holt, "a man destroy a thing that if designed to be evidence against himself, a small matter will supply it "Axon, 1 Ld Rayn, 731, but see Bullonsens r. Reere Cycle Co., C. A. Ir., (1901), 2 Ir. R., 615.

<sup>(2)</sup> Frami Hormany v. Commissioner of Customs, 7 Bom. H. C. R., A. C. J., 89, 92, 91 (1870), per Westropp, C. J., citing Rassell on Crimes, ii, 217, 4th El, and many of the English decisions on the subject of this presumption. And see Ardesher Dhanphan v Collector of Sural, 3 Bom H C R, A C J, 118, 120 (1866). Roseco, Cr. Ev., 99. Of course the destruction or mutilation of a document is not spolation within the meaning of the rule, if caused by mere inadvertence or matake. Lawson, Pres. Ev., 15.

<sup>(3)</sup> Frampi Hormaspi v Commissioner of Customs, 7 Bont. H C. R., A C J., 89 (1870).

<sup>(4)</sup> Ardeshir Dhanpilhas v Collector of Sural, 3 Bom H. C. R., A. C. J., 116 (1806).

<sup>(5)</sup> Soundur Monee v. Bhoobun Mohan, 11 W. R., 536 (1869), see Armory v. Delamirie, 1 Smith L. C., 345.

<sup>(6)</sup> I mayak v. Collector of Bombay, 26 B., 339.
351 (1901.)

<sup>(7)</sup> Clume v. Pezzry, 1 Camp., 8.

objection, and that the jury were at liberty to draw an inference from such objection and non-production, it was held that there was no misdirection.(1)

The presumption arising from the non-production of evidence within the power of the party does not relieve the opposite party altogether from the burden of proving his case ;(2) and though the fact of spoliation standing alone may defeat, it cannot of itself sustain, a claim (3) Lastly, the presumption is to be made after regard being had to the common course of natural events. human conduct, and public and private business in their relation to the facts of the particular case.(4)

The Court may presume that if a man refuses to answer a question which mustration he is not compelled to answer by law. (5) the answer if given, would be unfavourable to him. So while the Criminal Procedure Code gives power to the Court to examine the accused, and the latter does not render himself liable to nunishment by refusing to answer or by giving false answers, yet the jury (if any) may draw such inference from such refusal or answers as it thinks just (6) So also in the case of the subject-matter of section 148, post, the Court may, if it sees fit, draw from the witness's refusal to answer, the inference that the answer if given would be unfavourable.

The Court may presume that when a document creating an obligation is in Illustration the hands of the obligor, the obligation has been discharged (7) As men are usually vigilant in guarding their property, prompt in asserting their rights, dues, there is a prima facie presumpder for the payment of money, or the the drawee, or a promissory note is found in the possession of the maker, (8) that such note has been duly paid, or that the goods ordered have been delivered. Similarly a receipt for the last year's or quarter's rent is evidence of all the rent previously accrued having been paid.(9) The plaintiff in a suit on a bond for money, with a view to anticipate the possible production of the bond by the defendant and the presumption of payment that might otherwise be drawn from its being in the posses-

<sup>(1)</sup> Sutton v. Deronport, 27 L. J C P., 54 "The case is like the ordinary one where there is a witness in Court who could give an account of something which would affect the case of one party and who is not called, and in such case the jury may assume that his evidence would not have been favourable to that party," sb , per Crowder, J. (see Taylor, Ev , § 117). Sed qu, as to the correctness of this decision, for a person should not suffer by taking objection on which he has a right to succeed. Though it is to be observed that in this case there appears to have been no adjudication upon the question of the admissibility of the document, which on objection was withdrawn, still this makes no difference. For there is as much, or as little, reason for drawing an inference against the party objecting to the admissibility of the document as against the party withdrawing the document on such objection

<sup>(2)</sup> Lawson, Ev., 137.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ib., 152, Cowper v. Cowper, 2 P. Wms, 748 , Saltern v Melhursh, Amb , 248. (4) Venayak v. Collector of Bombay, 26 B., 339

<sup>(1901),</sup> where it was held that the facts of the case called for no such presumption.

<sup>(5)</sup> See as 121-129, post A witness is not excused from answering on the ground that the armwer will eriminate a. 132, post as to criminating documents see a. 130, past Persons are not compelled to answer interrogations regarding certain matters under the provisios of s 19, Reg. VII of 1822 See Field, Er , 607. But see Lawson. Pres Ev. 120, 137, where the rule is stated to be that "the omission of a party to an action to testify to facts or to produce evidence in explanation of or to contradict adverse testimony raises a presumption against his claims, unless the evidence is not peculiarly within his power, or is privileged" Wentworth v Lloyd, 10 H. L. Cas, 589

<sup>(6)</sup> Cr Pr Code, s 342, v also 16, sa 161, 175 , cf. also ss 9-12 of the Oaths Act (X of 1873) in the Appendix

<sup>(7)</sup> See for an application of this rule : Abdul Karım v. Manjı Hansraj, 1 B , 295 (1876) , Skearman v Fleming, 5 B L. R., 619 (1870), and cases cited, post.

<sup>(8)</sup> See Bhog Hongkong v Ramanathen Chetty, 29 C., 334 (1902),

<sup>(9)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 78 and cases there cited.

sion of the obligor, accounted for not producing it by alleging that the defendant had stolen it. The defendant admitted the execution of the bond, but alleged that he had paid it. Held that the defendant was bound to begin and prove payment either by the production of the bond or other evidence or by that the claiming of the bond or other evidence or by that the claiming of the bond or other evidence or by that the claiming of the bond or other evidence or by same time as the mortgage, which reserved the equity of redemption to the mortgagor. This etter was made over to the defendant, the mortgagor. Plaintift's allegation was that the etteranameh was returned to him by the mortgagor who thus surrendered the equity of redemption. Defendant alleged that the ettera had been lost, and had somehow found its way to the plaintiff. Held that the presumption of law was in favour of the plaintiff who had possession of the ettera and that the onus of proving its loss lay upon the defendant (2) On the other hand, there is a presumption that a grant remains in force from the fact that the original documents evidencing the grant remain in the hands of the grantees (3) Though the presumption is a strong one, it may of course be that the circumstances of the case rebut it.(4)

Continuance

It is a very general presumption that things once proved to have existed in a particular state are to be understood as continuing in that state until the contrary is established by evidence either direct or circumstantial (5) Thus where possession, the authority of an agent, the holding of an office, adultery, insanity, a debt or obligation, or the like have been shown, their continuance will be presumed (6) The subject has been already dealt with in the notes to Illustration (d) to which the reader is referred Common applications of this presumption are the rules touching the continuance of life enacted in sections 107 and 108, ante, and of certain judicial relations such as partnership, tenancy and agency enacted in section 109, ante Connected with the subject of continuance of life is the question of the presumption of survivorship in common disaster. Allusion is here made to those cases where several persons generally of the same family have perished by a common calamity, such as shipwreck, earthquake, conflagration, railway accident, or battle, and where the priority in point of time of the death of one over the rest exercises an influence on the rights of third parties. The civil law recognised certain arbitrary rules or presumptions for determining the relative times of death of two or more persons who perished in the same catastrophe. These rules were based on the age, sex, or state of health of the parties. So a child under the age of puberty was presumed to have died before its parent, but if above that age the rule was reversed These fixed presumptions, however, never prevailed in the common law, and the Courts rejecting this conjectural mode of ascertaining the truth. have laid down the rule that the case must be determined upon its own peculiar ascertaining it.(7) Thus in a recent English case where the bodies of a husband and wife were found tied together, the Court gave leave to swear the

<sup>(1)</sup> Cheni Kuar v. Udai Ram, 6 A , 73 (1883). (2) Ram Coomar v. Ram Sahaye, 11 W. R.

<sup>[5] (1864)</sup> (3) Checkelingam Pillar v. Mayand Chettior, 19 M., 485, 496 (1896).

<sup>(4)</sup> Bhoy Hongtong v Ramanathen Chetty, 29 C., 234 (1902); s. c., L. R., 29 I. A., 43 . 4 Born, L. R., 378.

 <sup>(5)</sup> Best, Ev. $ 405, Taylor, Ev. $$ 196-203.
 (6) Ib., see Dip Sidgh v. Grand. Singh, 1 All.

L J (1903); where a mortgage having been admitted by the defendants the onus was held to be on them to show that it had ceased to exist.

(7) v. osis, pp 157, 178; Best, Ev., 410 ('faylor, beauty of the control of th

Ev , $\ 202, 203; Underwood v. Wing, 10 Bear. 459; 4 DeG M. & G., 633; Wing v. Angrave, 8

death of the wife on or since the day when she was last seen alive and declared that there was no reason to believe that her husband had survived her.(1)

Although this rule as to the presumption of continuance of the existing state of things has been long sanctioned, it is stated in very general terms and must have a reasonable interpretation. It is always disputable, and while sometimes entitled to considerable weight, it is frequently hable to be rebutted by very slight circumstances. The rule has been held to apply to some cases I do do after a limited time the accommetion could have little weight. , .

the function of the presumption has been taken by the framers of this Act in sections 107-109, antc. If Hindu families migrate from one part of the country to another, the pre- Hindu Law sumption is that they carry with them the laws and customs as to succession prevailing in the province from which they came (3) The acquirer of property presumably intends to retain dominion over it, Hindu Law and in the case of a Hindu widow the presumption is none the less so when the Acquisi-fund with which the property is acquired is one which, though derived from widow. her husband's property, was at her absolute disposal Inasmuch as the widow's absolute power of disposition over the income derived from the widow's estate is now fully recognised, she will be presumed, in the absence of an indication of her intention to the contrary, to retain the same control over the investment of such income.(4) And where a Hindu widow spends the income which is her absolute Hindu Law property in the erection of buildings on lands belonging to the estate, it will be Adoption presumed that she intended such buildings to be an accretion to the estate (5)

In addition to the following notes reference should be made to those at pp. 647-657, antc. It is a doctrine of Hindu law in the case of adoption that "permission is to be presumed in the absence of prohibition" This maxim, however, relates to the person who gives and not to the person who receives a child in adoption (6) Adoption being a proper act, it will be presumed that when the majority give their consen'

After a long lapse of time and

tion of an adoption for a ser necessary to render the adoption vanu has been performed. So in a case to set aside an adoption on the ground that the ceremonies has not been performed. where there was satisfactory evidence showing that the adoption had been continuously recognised for a series of years, and that the party adopted had been in possession, either in person or through his guardian, of the property in dispute, held that the Court might well dispense with formal proof of the performance of the ceremonies, unless it were distinctly proved, on the part of the plaintiff, that the ceremonies had not been performed (8) A Hindu testator by

W. LE

H L. Cas . 183 The strength and health, etc., of a party may be properly considered as a circumstance, but standing alone it is sufficient to shift the burden of proof, Wharton, Ev., §§ 1280-1282

In the good; of Good (1908), Times L. R. v. 24, p 492, following In the goods of Bemjon (1901), P. 141, in which case a husband and wife perished in a massacre in China.

<sup>(2)</sup> Burr Jones, Ev, § 52, see Wharton, Ev, §§ 1284-1296 (on presumptions of constancy and uniformity) and ib , $5 1274-1283.

<sup>(3)</sup> Parbats Kumars v. Jagadse Chunder. 29

C . 433 (1902)

<sup>(4)</sup> Aklanna v. Venkaya, 25 M., 351 (1901).

<sup>(5)</sup> Rajah Venkata Narasımho Appa Rao v. Rajah Surenan: Venkata Gopala Row, 31 M.

<sup>(6)</sup> Tarını Charan v Saroda Sundarı, 3 B. L. R, A C J, 145 (1869)

<sup>(7)</sup> Wenkata Krishnamma v. Annapurnamma, 23 M , 486 (1899).

<sup>(8)</sup> Saboo Bewa v. Nahagun Maits, 2 B. L. R., App , 51 (1869) , and ere Nittanund Chose v. Krishna Dyal, 7 B. L. R., 1, 5 (1871).

his will gave authority to his widow, with the consent of his mother, to adopt a son, in pursuance of which a son was adopted, and the other provisions of the will acquiesced in by the family for twenty-seven years, when a suit was then in possession of

Held that, although a fact, yet from the long period during which he had been received as adopted son, every allowance for the absence of evidence to prove such fact was to be favourably entertained. and that the case was analogous to that in which the legitimacy of a person in possession had been acquiesced in for considerable time, and afterwards impeached by a party, who had a right to question the legitimacy, where the defendant, in order to defend his status, is allowed to invoke against the claimant every presumption which arises from long recognition of his legitimacy by members of his family, and that the case of a Hindu, long recognised as an adopted son, raised even a stronger presumption in favour of the validity of his adoption. arising from the possibility of the loss of his rights in his own family by being adopted in another family (1) And it was held by the Privy Council that in the absence of proof of a valid adoption (which proof the lapse of time had made impossible) it was incumbent on the appellant, before any presumption of the fulfilment of the conditions of such adoption was justified, to establish an initial probability that the adoption was likely to have been made and that the conduct of the parties cognizant of the facts had at least been consistent with such an hypothesis (2) Where an adoption has been acquiesced in for many years, the consent of some person competent to give away the adopted son should be presumed (3) In a suit for a declarat upon is fraudulent, the onus is on the plaintiff alleges (4) It is incumbent upon one seeking ground that the person making it was a "disqualified proprietor," to show that all the procedure necessary to make such person a disqualified proprietor was carried out according to law (5) As to estoppel by adoption, see notes to section 115, post, and generally sections 101-104, ante As to Marriage, v. post, "Marriage" notes to section 112, ante and Index, sub voc., "Marriage."

The principle of joint tenancy appears to be unknown to Hindu law except in the case of coparcenary between the members of an undivided family. Among Hindus when property is given to two persons jointly, there is no presumption that the donor intended to annex the condition of ownership (6)

Hindu Law Öiit.

As to the presumption of English law that a gift made under certain circumstances is a donatio mortis causa being mapplicable to Hindus, see the case undermentioned.(7)

Hindu Law : Endowment

In the case of endowments made by Hindus for the worship of idols, it is presumed that the intention of the donor is to preserve the sheba in the family rather than to confer a benefit on an individual, but in the absence of words in the deed of gifts denoting an intention that the gift should belong to the family, that presumption will not arise.(8) Where certain Hindu texts were referred to, to show that a Bairagi is condemned to a life of perpetual poverty, and is incapable of acquiring property for his own use and benefit, it was held that such precents could not be looked on as anything more than counsels of perfection, and could not be held to carry much weight in the obsence of clear and

W. R. 84 (1873).

11 D T D G# 114/1979

H. C. R. (App.), 23 (1863).

<sup>(1)</sup> Enjendro Nath v. Jojendro Nath, 14 Moo 1. A., 67 (1871); See Mayne's Hudu Law,

<sup>§ 148;</sup> West & Buhler, 3rd Ed., 1907. (2) Harshanlar Partab Singh v. Lal Raghura; Singh, P. C. (1907) , 29 A , 519 ; 34 L A., 125-

<sup>(5)</sup> Ishri Prasud v Lalp Jas, 22 A , 204 (1900). (6) Bar Diwals v. Patel Bechardas, 26 B , 445. 449 (1902). (7) Kumara Upendra v. Nobin Krishna, 3 B. L.

<sup>, (3)</sup> Anandrae Siraji v. Ganesh Eshtant, 7 flom. R. (O C.), 113 (1869) (N) Chundernath Roy v. Kooge Gobindnath, satisfactory proof that, as a matter of fact, the mobunt in question had no private funds at his disposal (1) Hindu law is in the nature of personal usage or custom, and where an Hindu Law: ancient family custom is shown to have existed among Hindus, the presumption perty. is in layour of the continuance of that custom, even though the family have migrated.(2) In the case of a family the members of which have migrated from a part of the country governed by the Mitakshara law, the presumption is that they are governed by the Mitakshara law until proof is given of their having adopted the law of their new domicile (3) This presumption may be rebutted by showing that, except as regards marriage, all ceremonies in the family are performed according to the law of the Bengal school and by Bengal priests (1)

When a Hindu family is joint in food and worship, and is shown to be pos- Hindu Law sessed of some joint property,(5) the presumption is that all the property they Family are possessed of a joint property, and that all acquisitions have been made from joint funds, and the onus of proving that any portion of that property is separate or self-acquired is on the person who alleges it.(6)

This presumption of joint property arising out of a nucleus of joint property cannot be sufficiently rebutted by evidence that the name of one member of the family only appeared as that of sole owner in revenue-records or in other documents relating to the property.(7) Nor is evidence only of separation in mess sufficient to rebut the presumption (8) although separation in both dwelling and food if not conclusive evidence of separation in estate, will give rise in Hindu law to a presumption of separation in estate (9) Where the members of a Mahommedan family live in commensality they do not form a joint family in the sense that Hindus do, and there is therefore no presumption at all in Mahommedan law that the acquisitions of the several members are made for the benefit of the family jointly.(10) In the case of further acquirements, it would not

<sup>(1)</sup> Shree Mohan Kushora v. Coimbature Spinming Co . 26 M . 79, 82 (1902).

<sup>(2)</sup> Surendra Nath v Hiramani Burmain, 1 B. L. R. (P. C.), 26 (1869)

<sup>(3)</sup> Porthee Singh v Shen Soondurer, 8 W R., 261 (1867)

<sup>(4)</sup> Ram Bromo v Kaminee Soonduree, 6 W II .

<sup>295 (1866)</sup> (5) Denonath Shaw v Hurrynarain Shaw, 12 B L. R , 349 (1873) , Taruel Chunder v Jogeshur Chunder, 11 B L. R , 193 (1873), per Couch, C. J., overruling Shin Golam v Baran Sing, I B. L. R. (A C), 164, and dissenting from Khilut Chunder v. Koon; La'l, 11 B L R , 194 (1868), s c , 10 W R , 333 , Soobheddur Dasses v Bolaram Dewan, W. R., Sp. No., 57 (1862), and approving Koon; Behares v Khetturnath Dutt, 8 W. R., 270 (1867), Dhunoodharee Lall v Gunput Lall, 11 B. L. R., 201 (1868), Radhika Prosad v. Dhaema Dan, 3 B L R. (A C), 124 (1869). Nedkristo Deb v Beer Chunder, 12 Moo I A. A., 540 (1869), a c, 3 B. L. R. (P C), 13 (1869), 12 Suth P C discussed also in Bholanoth v Ajoodhia, 12 B. L. R., 336 (1873), s. c., 20 W. R., 65, Denonath v Hurrynarain, 12 B L R., 349 (1873), Gobind Chunder v Doorgapersaud, 14 B L. R., 337 (1874).

<sup>(6)</sup> Dhurm Das v Shama Soondes, 3 Moo. I. A., 229 (1843); Gopeekristo Gosain v Gunga Persaud, 6 Moo. I. A. 53 (1854); Naragunty

v Ienjama, 9 Moo I A , 66 (1861) Prantishen Paul v Mothocramohun Paul, 10 Moo. I A, 53 (1865), Abed 4ls v Moheshur Bulsh, Sev Aug. Dec 1863, p 801 (1862). Tara Churn v Joy Nurain S W P. , 226 (1867), Lalla Sreedhur v. Lala Madho, 8 W R., 294 (1867) (character of strict. proofs required to rebut presumption in favour of joint estate in joint Hindu family). Prankristo v Bhageerutte, 20 W R , 158 (1872), Gajendar Singh v Sardar Singh, 18 A., 176 (1895), Where the plaintiffs set up a case which was inconsistent with the presumption of the family remaining joint, it was held that it was for them to prove that separation took place as they alleged : Ram Ghulam v Ram Behars, 18 A , 90 (1895). Anandrao Gunpatrao v. Lasantrao Madhanrao (1907), 11 C W N , 478 , Lal Bahadur v. Kanhaiya Lal, P C (1907), 29 A, 244

<sup>(7)</sup> Cheetha . Miheen Lall, 11 Moo I A . 369 (1867), Hyder Hossain v Mohomed Hossain, 14 Moo. I A , 401 (1872) , Justoondah v. 410dhia, 2 Ind. Jur., N. S., 261 (1867), Janolee Dassee v Kesto Komul, Marsh , 1 (1862), be sufficient to show that the consideration-money passed out of the hands of the member claiming the purchased property as self-acquired without its being shown that the funds were exclusively his own.(1) The fact that certain parcels are held in severalty does not do away with the presumption that the rest of the estate is joint.(2) but evidence by a purchaser at an execution-sale

<sup>(8)</sup> Bance Madhub v. Baggobutty Churn, 8 W. R . 270 (1867)

<sup>(9)</sup> Musrumut Anundee v Khedoo Lel. 14 Moo. L A , 412 (1872) , Jogun Koer v. Rughoonundun Lal, 10 W R, 148 (1868).

<sup>(10)</sup> Halim Khan v Gool Khan, 8 C., 826 (1882). 10 C. L. R., 603.

those alleging it the onus of establishing the joint nature of the property claimed.(3) In the undermentioned case the family of the deceased, consisting of his father and two sons (of whom one was the deceased father of the plaintiff) was not shown to have had any ancestral property, but it had acquired property by trade in which the father and the two sons were jointly engaged. There being no indication of an intention to the contrary, it was held that it must be presumed that the property thus acquired was held by the members of the family as joint property with the incident of the right of survivorship.(4) Lastly, the presumption of union has been held to be stronger as between brothers than as between cousins, and the presumption is weaker the farther from the common ancestor the descent has proceeded (5) There is no presumption when one coparcener separates from the others that the latter remain united (6) The presumption that all property held by any member of a joint family so long as the family remains joint is joint-property applies to families governed by the Dayabhaga (7) As to the presumption that a father dealing with self-acquired property intended that it should be taken as ancestral estate. see below.(8) See Notes to se 101-101 sub. roc, "Hindu Law."

Hindu Law . Manager

Hindu Law . Suit by Re-

There is no presumption that a loan contracted by the manager of a joint Hindu family has been contracted for a family purpose.(9)

Where immovable property is devised to the testator's wife as "malik" of the property, unless there is something in the context to the countrary the widow takes an absolute and not merely a fle-interest in the property. The mere fact that the donce is the testator's wife is not sufficient to rebut the presumntion of that meaning (10)

It is incumbent on a plaintiff sung as the reversionary heir of a Hindu proprietor who has died leaving a widow, to show that the proporty claimed in the suit and found in her possession, has vested in the husband. There is no presumption of law arising where the late husband possessed considerable proprity, that property found to be in the possession of the widow after his death, must have been included in that which belonged to him unless she shows that she obtained the property from another source (11).

There is a general presumption against misconduct of all kinds, no presumption being perhaps more highly favoured in the law than that of innocence.

<sup>(1)</sup> Koon; Behares v. Khelurnath Dutt, 8 W. P., 970 (1867).

<sup>270 (1867).
(2)</sup> Seteram Glose v Secenath Dutt, 7 W R.

<sup>451 (1867).</sup> (3) Bodh Singh v. Gunesh Chunder, 12 B I.

<sup>(3)</sup> Roda Singa V. Gunera Caunder, 12 R ; R (P. C.), 317, 326, 327 (1873).

<sup>(4)</sup> Gopulasami Chetts v. Asunachelam, 27 M., 32 (1903). (5) Moro Tishonsa'h v. Gonesh Tuthal, 10

Bom. H. C. R., 444, 453 (1973). (6) Balabur v. Rukhmabai, 30 C. 725 (1991). 47) Rama Nath Chawerjee v. Kusum Kamust.

<sup>4</sup> C I J, 56

 <sup>(8)</sup> Nagalingam Pillar v Ramachandra Tevar.
 24 M., 429 (1901).
 (9) Soirn Padmanabh v Narayanrao, 18 B.

Norm Padmandh v Narayanrao, 18 B, 1893). See Krishna v. Lasuder, 21 B., 1818 (1893).
 Mussumat Surayman v. Rabi Nath Oaks.

P. C. (1007), Times L. R., v. 24, 218, approving Padam Lal v. Tel. Singh, 29 A., 217.

<sup>(11)</sup> Discri Roy v. Indarpal Singh, 28 C., 871 (1889).

Although some of the reasons which led to the adoption of this presumption have disappeared with the severity of the old criminal law, yet the sacredness of reputation and liberty still gives sanction to the rule that the law presumes in favour of innocence. Every man is to be regarded as legally innocent until the contrary be proved, and criminality is never to be presumed (1). In the inferior Courts of this country the right principle is occasionally reversed, and a person is presumed to be guilty the moment he is accused, and every attempt on his part to prove his innocence is regarded as vexatious (2). When the facts found proved in a case are perfectly consistent either with the innocence or guilt of the accused, the presumption of innocence should prevail (3). The favour with which this presumption is regarded is shown by (amongst other facts) that other presumptions often have to yield to that of innocence, (4) and by the fact that, although ordinarily the burden of proof is on the party asserting the affirmative of the issue, yet if proof of a negative is necessary to establish guilt, such proof must be given, (5)

This presumption has its most frequent applications in the criminal law; but though it has sometimes seen said to have no place in civil issues except so far as it regulates the burden of proof,(6) yet the weight of authority in England when misconduct or crime is alleged, whether in a criminal or in a civil proceeding, whether in a direct proceeding to punish the offender or in some collateral matter, presumes the accused to be innocent until strictly proved to be guilty beyond a reasonable doubt (7). The presumption of innocence in civil cases has been stated to be that "a person who is shown to have done any act is presumed to have done it innocently and honestly and not fraudulently, illegally, or wickelly." (8). In accordance with this principle, it has been had in America that in a civil action on a policy of insurance a death must be presumed to have been a natural one and not a suicide, when there is no evidence as to its cause, since suicide is felony. (9). The presumption of innocence may be overthrown and a presumption of guilt be raised by the misconduct of the party in suppressing or destroying evidence (10)

issue assur

<sup>(1)</sup> Burr. Jones, Ev., § 111. Taylor, Ev., §§ 112.—118. Best, Ev., §§ 334, 346. I Greenleaf, § 35. Lawon, Pres Ev., 433 et acq., Wharton, Ev. § 1244. Starkie, Ev., 755.

<sup>(2)</sup> Sheapralash Singh v. Raulins, 28 C, 594 (1901)

<sup>(3)</sup> R. v Ramchandra Dhondon, 6 Bom L. R., 551 (1904)

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor, Er., § 114. Burr Jones, Ev. § §11. 100, 102. Best, Ev. §329, 334, 364. The presumption of innocence is stronger than the presumption of payment, continuance of life, or of things generally, and of marriage, but is less strong than the presumption of knowledge of the law or of samity. Lawson, Free Ev. 682.

<sup>(5)</sup> Williams v East India Co., 3 East, 192.
Taylor, Ev., § 113

<sup>(6)</sup> Wharton, Er., § 1245. It has been said that this presumption has no evalentizer force, being founded on no presumption of fact, being in most instances a paraphrase of the rules regulating the burden of proof, and that what is meant is this: if a man be accused of crime he must be proved guitte peopod rassonable doubt.

Best, Ex., Amer Notes, pp. 309, 310,386 The weight of American authority appears to support the proposition that in civil actions, although the charge of a crime is to be established, a preponderance of testimony is sufficient Burr Jones, Er., §316,193

Er. §§ 15, 103
(7) Steph Dig., Art 84. Tsylor, Er., § 112;
Bert, Ev., 346. Magne v. Alton, 16 M., 245.
'It is a chard well founded in asying that so far as appellants impute to respondent's micronductor derection of dut, it is for the former to establish their case. The presumption is against using microscopic with the property of the party who makes the imputation."] For Mutusama Ayyar, 3 Gaur Mohan v Terachand, 3 B. L. R., App. 17 at p. 20 (1889) "It must be always bone in mind that want of bond fifts should not be presumed against applically," per Mitter, 3.

<sup>(8)</sup> Lawson, Pres Ev., Rule 19, p. 93.

<sup>(9)</sup> Walcolt v. American Life de. Society (1891), 33 Am. St. R., 923.

<sup>(10)</sup> v. aste, p. 718,

the ordinary transactions of life, fairness and honesty are presumed, and conveyances, sales and contracts generally are presumed to have been made in good faith until the contrary appears. Odiosae inhonesta non sunt in lege presumenda (1) So also the law presumed against vice and immorality, and on this ground presumes strongly in favour of marriage, so that cohabitation and reputation are generally held to be presumptive evidence of marriage, (2) One of the strongest illustrations of this principle (although resting also in some degree on grounds of public policy) is the presumption in favour of the legitimacy of children (3)

It is a branch of this rule that ambiguous instruments or acts shall, if possible, be construed so as to have a lawful meaning. Thus where a deed or other instrument is susceptible of two constructions, one of which the law would carry into effect, while the other would be in contravention of some legal principle or statutory provision, the parties will always be presumed to have intended the former.(4) There is a legal presumption in favour of a deed that it is honest and is what it purports to be (5) Wrongful or tortuous conduct will not be presumed.(6) All persons are presumed to have duly discharged any obligation imposed on them by law. Thus the judgments of courts of competent jurisdiction are presumed to be well founded, and their records to be correctly made; judges and jurors are presumed to do nothing causelessly or maliciously; public officers are presumed to do their duty, and the like (7) Further, all testimony given in a Court of Justice is presumed to be true until the contrary appears, perjury not being presumed (8) When a person is required to do an act, the omission to do which would be criminal, his performance of that act will be intended until the contrary is shown (9)

On the same principle rests the rule that negligence is not to be presumed; it is rather to be presumed that ordinary care has been used. And the person charging negligence must show that the other party by his act or omission has violated some duty incumbent upon him and thereby caused the injury compared to the compared to the case of common carriers, who,

to have been negligent, if goods damaged (11) Railway Companies are not common carriers of passengers Where such a company is sued for not carrying safely, negligence alleged against them must be proved affirmatively when denied.(12)

<sup>* (1)</sup> Best, Er., § 349, see onte notes to as. 101, -104, p. 647 and note to a 111, onto, Kerr. Frauds, 2nd Ed., 449, Lawson, Pres Er., 95; Saidappa v Detekand, 26 B., 132 (1901) ["There is no more reason to presume fraud than to presume negligene"]

<sup>(2)</sup> Bost, Fv., § 349; Lawson, Pres. Ev., 104; exceptional cases are criminal and divorce proceedings; v. onto, s. 69, p. 424, and see "Marriage," p. 730, post; for the presumption as to dissolution, see Burr. Jones, Ev., § 13

<sup>(3)</sup> Post, Er. 349; we z. 112, ante, and cases there cited; Lawson, Pres. Ev., 106, 106

<sup>(4)</sup> Best, Fr. § 347

 <sup>(5)</sup> Sremate Lalhemani v. Mohendranath Dutt.
 4 B. L. R., P C., 16, 27 (1869)

<sup>(6)</sup> Pest, Fr. | 350.

<sup>(7)</sup> Best, Ev., § 250, until the contrary apposits every person will be presumed to have conformed to the laws: R. v. Hunkser, 10 Easts, 211.

<sup>(8)</sup> Ib . 4 352

<sup>(9)</sup> Starkie, Ev., 756

<sup>(10)</sup> Lawson, Pres. Ev., 102, 103. Burr. Jones Ev. § 14. As to whether carriers "negligence clause" is good in India are Sheith Mahamad Ravuthar v British India Steam Navigation Co., 32 M., 95

<sup>(11)</sup> Ross v. Hill, 2 C. B., 890; Coggs v. Bernard, 2 Ld. Raym, 818. Choutmult Doopst v. Rictes Steam Natigation Co., 24 C, 786 (1897).
26 C., 398 (1898), s. c, 3 C, W, N., 145

<sup>[12]</sup> East Indian Resirog Co. v., Kaidas Maier, j. 25. C., 401 (1901) reversing decision of Lower Coart reported in 26 C. 465 (1808); 2 C. W. N. 781; 2 C. W. N., 609. A passenger may lawfully attempt to grt rid of inconvenience or danger caused by negligence, provided that in so doing he runs no obvious disproportionate risk and is not himself guilty of negligence. Resulty v. G. I. P. Kailey Co., 24 B., 1 (1907), C., 24 B., 1 (1907).

Where a thing is shown to be under the management of the defendant or his agent, and where an oxcident in the ordinary course of events does not happen when the business is properly conducted, the accident itself, if it happens, raises a presumption of negligence in the absence of any explanation. In such cases the facts are said to speak for themselves. Bee spea (popular, (I) When goods which have been entru-ted to builees for hire are lost, it lies on the builees to show that they have taken as much care of the goods as a man of ordinary prudence would, under similar circumstances, have taken of his own goods of a similar kind and that the loss occurred not withstanding such care. If they fail to satisfy the Court on that point, they are liable for the loss (2) Where goods are delivered to a Railway Company for carriage not "at owner's risk," and for the owner suing for compensation for such loss or destruction to prove negligence on the part of the Company, but when the owner has proved delivery to the Company, it is for the latter to prove that they have exercised the care required by the Contract Act of ballees for hire, 30.

A print facie case does not take away from a defendant the presumption of innocence, though it may, in the opinion of the jury, be such as to robut and control it; but that presumption remains, in aid of any other proofs offered by the defendant, to rebut the prosecutor's prima facie case.(4) It is clear that a presumption may be rebutted by a contrary and stronger presumption.(5) Where there are conflicting presumptions the rule has been stated to be(6) that the presumption of innecence will prevail against that of the continuance of life.(7) the presumption of the continuance of things generally. (8) and the presumption of the law (10) and the presumption of santy.(11)

<sup>(1)</sup> Byrne v. Droudle, 2 H & C, 7:22, Scott v. London Dock Co., 24 L. J. St., 229, Kerry v. London d Driphon Rulway Co., L R., 5 Q B., 411; Choulmult Doryne v. River Steam N. Co., 24 C., 786 (1897), 20 C, 399, (1898), East Indon. Rulway Co. v. Kaledas Mukerj., 28 C, 404 (1901), 26 C, 465 (1898).

 <sup>(2)</sup> Trustees of the Harbour, Madras τ. Best & Co., 22 M., 524 (1899)
 (3) Nonku Ram τ Indian Midland Railway

<sup>(3)</sup> Nonku Ram v Indian Midland Radwa Co., 22 A , 381 (1900)

<sup>(4)</sup> Commonwealth v. Kimball, 24 Pick (Mass), 373 (Amer). Nibaran Chandra Roy v. R (1907): 11 C. W. N., 1085

<sup>(5)</sup> Jayne v. Price, 5 Taunt , 326
(6) Lawson, Pres. Ev., 447

<sup>(7)</sup> R v. Inhabitants of Gloucestershine, 2 Barn & Ald., 386, 194, was where held that the law presument the continuance of hie, but it also presumes against the commission of crimes, that the cases rated were distinguishable as they designed only that seven years after a person has been last heard of, his death was to be presumed, but that they did not show that where confirting presumptions exist, death may not be presumed at an earlier person [3]. See, however, R v. Infabricate of || Harboras, 2 Ad. & Ellis, 540, Lepsley v Green. Son, 11 H. L. San, 200, Stather, Ev., 755

<sup>(8)</sup> Kless v. Landman, 29 Mo., 259 (Amer.) (4 and B, as husband and wife, sued C for sland.

er, they proved their marriage, but C proved declarations of the wife that she had been married in Germany to another man II was presumed that the previous marriage had been dissolved by death or directed It was here and — "The presumption of law is that the conduct of parties is in conformity to law until the contrary is shown That a fact continuous in its nature will be presumed to-continue after its existence is once shown is a presumption which ought not to be allowed to overthrow another presumption, of equal, if not greater, force, in favour of innocence."

<sup>(9)</sup> Clayton v. Bardell, 4 N Y., 230 (Amer.); Case v Case, 17 C., 293 (Amer.). A presumption of mariage arises from combitation. M and Y were proved to have lived together and combited. Y afterwards married S. The presumption that Y did not commit bigainty prevails over the presumption that M and Y were married.

<sup>(10)</sup> Ignorance of the law according to the well known maxim excuses no one and cannot be pleaded as an excuse for the commission of a crime. Secases cited in Lawson, Pres Ev. 453—457

<sup>(11)</sup> Thus if A is charged with a crime, the presumption is that A was sane when he committed it, and if he wishes to be excused on the ground of non-responsibility, he must prove insanity. A Lawson, Pres. Ev., 457—459. See S. 105, ante

Possession, knowledge or motive may overthrow the presumption of innocence and raise in its place a presumption of gult<sub>1</sub>(1) as also may conduct of spollation (2) As to cruminal intention, v. post, "Intention." A person on trial for one crime cannot be presumed guilty because he has, at another time, committed a similar or different crime, and the latter fact is not admissible in evidence against him.(3)

But to prove knowledge or intent or motive, a collateral crime may be shown(1) and a separate crime from that charged may be shown where it is necessary to prove that the crime charged was not accidental (5). And so in the case of embezzlement effected by means of false entries; a single false entry might be accidentally made, but the probability of accident would diminish at least as fast as the instances increased (6)

A separate crime from that charged may also be proved where it forms part of the res gestar (7) It frequently happens that, as the evidence of circumstances must be resorted to for the purpose of proving the commission of the particular offence charged, the proof of those circumstances involves the proof of other acts either criminal or apparently innocent. In such cases it is proper that the chain of evidence should be unbroken. If one or more links of that chain consist of circumstances which tend to prove that the prisoner has been guilty of other crimes than that charged, this is no reason why the Court should exclude those circumstances. They are so intimately connected and blended with the main facts adduced in evidence that they cannot be departed from with propriety, and there is no reason why the criminalty of such intimate and connected circumstances should exclude them more than other facts apparently innocent.(8)

As there is a general presumption in favour of innocence, so where certain facts are proved there may arise presumptions in disfavour of innocence (9)

The rule as laid down in section 112, which is a rule of substantive law rather than of evidence, has no application to Mahommedans so far as it conflicts with the Mahommedan rule that a child born within less than six months

niers with the Manonmedan rule that a child born within less than is months after the marriage of its parents is not legitimate [10] but Mahonmedan law raises a strong presumption in favour of legitimacy In a case where a child was born to a father, of a woman who had recided during a period of seven years in his female apartments anterior to the birth of the child taking place, and while so residing was recognised to a certain extent as his wife, and the child was born under his roof and continued to be maintained in his house without

Mahomme dan law. 728

<sup>(1)</sup> Lawson, Pres. Ev., 478; as to possession of stolen goods, see s. 114, Ill (a); and as to motive, Starkie, Ev., 50, 51, and notes to ss. 8, 14, ante.

<sup>(2)</sup> v. ante, p. 719

<sup>(3)</sup> v. ante, p. 135, and notes to vs. 14 and 15, anter E. v. c64. I Phil. E. v. 695 i Lawson, Pres. Ev. c43.—485, Steph. Dg., 162.—164, where this rule is stated to be one of the most tharacteristic and distinctive features of the English crimial law. Up to, however, the beginning of the 18th century there are to be found numerous instances of the admission of evalence of this kind, see 6 100., 51. Tr. p. 913.

<sup>(4)</sup> S. 14, ante, and cases there cited; Bun's case, 1 Mooly., 146; Lawson, Pres. Ev., 487-489; R. v. Francis, L. R., 2 C. C. R., 128, R. v. Cooper, 1 Q. B. D., 19; R. v. Cleeces, 4 C. A. P., 221.

<sup>(5) 5. 15,</sup> sate, and cases there ested; R. v.

Gray, 4 F. & F., 1102, Lanson, Pres, Ev., 489, 490, R. v. Richardson, 2 F. & F., 313, R. v. Gerrrag, 18 L. J., M. C., 215, R. v. Catton, 12 Cox, C. C., 400, R. v. Garner, 3 F. & F., 681, R. v. Voks, Russ & Ry., 531; R. v. Roden, 12 Cox, C. C., 639; R. v. Dossett, 2 C. & K., 360.

<sup>(6)</sup> Sinte v. Lapage, S.T.N. H., 215 (Amer) (7) S. C.5, andt, and cases there cited; Lawson, Pris Dr., 400-422, and see R., 1794/or, 5 Cox, C. C., 138 [4] is inducted for aroun in sufficient fire to a rick, the property of B. Evidence of A*p presence and conduct at fires other ricks on the same night the property of C and B is admissible.

<sup>(8)</sup> Baller's case, I Leigh. (Va.), 557 (Amer.).
(9) See Ch. XX of Lawson on Pres. Evidence where these presumptions will be found collected, arranged in rules, and commented upon.

<sup>(10)</sup> Wilson's Digrat of Mahommedan Law, p. 83, Field's Evidence Act, p. 531.

any steps being taken on the father's part to repudiate his title to legitimacy as his off-pring; it was held that that was presumptive evidence of marriage and legitimacy according to Mahommedan law. (1) Cohabitation and birth with treatment tantamount to acknowledgment is sufficient to prove legitimacy, although mere cohabitation alone will not suffice to raise such a legal presumptance of the sufficient of the sufficien really illegitimate by birth becomes legitimated, it is by force of an acknowledgment, express or implied, directly proved or presumed. These presumptions are inferences of fact. The child of a concubine may become legitimate by treatment as legitimate. Such treatment will furnish evidence of acknowledgment. The presumption in favour of marriage must rest on sufficient grounds and cannot be permitted to override uptive (2). Where a son, although occasion, was always treated on the Privy Council held that this raised some presumption that his mother was the father's wife (3) In another ease the same princ particular case the

this conclusion, hos tinctly understood that they did not deny or question the position that, according to Mahommedan law, the legitimacy of a child may be presumed from circumstances without any direct proof either of marriage or of any formal act of legitimation, (4) The acknowledgment of the child as the offspring of the acknowledgment where the circumstances render it within the bounds of possibility(5) is, however, not merely primal face evidence which may be rebutted, but establishes the fact acknowledged (6) The acknowledgment of paternity legitimating the child ought to be clear and distinct; (7) but need not be of such a character as to be evidence of marriage (8)

(1) Hidayai Oollah v. Jan Khanum, 3 Moo I. A. 293. Kee aloo Jereasi Singue v del Kingje. 5 Moo. I. A., 245 (1841): Comda Biber v. Shah Jondo, 5 W. R., 132 (1860). (the acknowledgment of a father renders a son or daughter a legit unate child and herr, unless it is impossible for him or her to be son.) Nacudianese v. Fatlooniese, Marsh. Rep., 428. Ashrafjannsea v. Asteeman, 1 W. R., 17 (1864)

(2) Ashrufooddoulah v Hyder Hossen, 11 Moo. I. A., 94, p. 113 (1866), Ismail Khan v. Fidayat-un-nasa, 3 A., 723 (1881), Wilson's Digest of Mahommedan Law, p. 84

(3) Khajooroonissa v Rowshan Jehan, 2 C, 184, 199 (1876)

104, 119 (1870)

(4) Mahomed Bauker v Shurguos Nissa, 8

Moo. I A, 136 (1860), s. c., 3 W R (P C), 37

See also Mussumot Japut-ul-Batod v Hosenne Begum, 11 Moo I A, 194 (1864) See also Autunniesa Khaloon v Korimminesa Khaloon.

23 C , 130 (1896)
(5) Meer Arshruf v Meer Arshad, 16 W R ,

250 (1871).

(6) See also on acknowledgment of child by father under Mahommedan law. Oomda Bibee v. Shah Jonab, 5 W. R., 132 (1866), In re Bibee Nujechunnissa, 4 B L R (A C), 55 (1869), Fuzedum Bibee v Omdah Bibee, 10 W R., 469

(1868), Mussamut Joibun v. Mussamut Bibee. 12 W R , 497 (1870) , Nujmooddeen Ahmed v. Beebee Zuhoorun, 10 W R , 45 (1868) , Bibee Wuheedun v Bueee Hossein, 15 W R , 403 (1871) . Numbo Cant v Mahatab Bibee, 20 W. R. 164 (1873), Khanooroonissa v Rowshan Jehan. 2 C . 184 (1877) . s. c . 26 W R . 36 . L. R., 3 I A . 291 . Azmat Ali v Lali Berum. 9 I A., 8. A. c., S C . 422 . Mahatala Bibee v Hales Moorooman, 10 C L R , 293 (1881) . Sadakat Hossern . Muhomed Yusub, 10 C , 663 (1883) , s c . L R., 11 I A . 31 , as to the offspring of an adulterous intercourse, fornication or incest, see Muhummad Allahdad v Ismail Khan, 8 A. 234 (1886), s c, 10 A, 289, Dhan Bibee v Lalon Bibee, 27 C., 801 (1901), Bailie's Mahommedan Law. 2nd Ed. p., 406

(7) Kedarnath Chuckerbutty v. Donzelle, 20 W R , 352 (1873)

(8) Wuheedan v Buree Hossens, 15 W. R., Vel (1871), see further Rowshan Jehan v. Enast Hossens, 5 W. R., 5 (1866). As to acknowledgment as a brother, see Murza Hummut v. Sahchander, 13 B L R., 182 (1873); n. c, 11 A., 22, 21 W. R., 113, Feld's Evidence Act, pp 181, 531. See for care of a son born to a Mahommedan by a Burmees women, 21 C., 666 (1893).

Marriage

The mere cohabitation of a man and woman or their behaviour in other respects as husband and wife always affords an inference of greater or less strength that a marriage has been solemnized between them. Their conduct being susceptible of two opposite explanations, the Court, giving effect to the presumption of innocence, (v. ante) is bound to assume it to be moral rather than immoral.(1) The law presumes the validity of a marriage-ceremony.(2) Where a man and a woman intend to become husband and wife and a ceremony of marriage is performed between them by a clergyman com-petent to perform a valid marriage, the presumption in favour of everything necessary to give validity to such marriage is one of very exceptional strength, and unless rebutted by evidence, strong, distinct, satisfactory and conclusive, must prevail (3) According to the rule of the Catholic Church a dispensation from the proper ecclesiastical authority is necessary to give validity to a marriage between a man and the sister of his deceased wife. In the case undermentioned,(4) the parties were Catholics and intended to become husband and wife, and a ceremony of marriage was performed between them by a clergyman competent to perform a valid marriage: Held that the Court was bound to presume that a dispensation necessary to remove the obstacle to the marriage on the ground of affinity had been obtained When once a marriage, in fact, has been proved, there arises a presumption, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that there has also been a marriage in law. There can, however, be no such presumption as to a form of marriage gone through when a former valid subsisting marriage has been proved. such case the onus is entirely upon those setting up the second marriage to show that the earlier marriage has been validly dissolved (5) In the undermentioned case(6) the dispute was between certain claimants under a will, and the question was whether certain of them were legitimate children of one G A. There was no direct evidence of the marriage of the parents, which was alleged to have taken place recently in France But there was evidence that G A and the mother of the claimants whose legitimacy was in question had lived together in England as man and wife There was also some evidence of recognition of the children by the family Upon this evidence the Court dispensed with strict proof of marriage de facto, and held in favour of the legitimacy of the claimants in question. Referring to the Privy Council cases of Sastry Velauder Aronegary v Sembycutty Vayalie(7) the Court pointed out that it was not essential to prove either the fact of marriage or the recognition of children by the family, and that the presumption of marriage must prevail when the evidence shows that the parties were living together as man and wife the erit-

<sup>(1)</sup> Lawson, Pres. Er., 93, 95, 104 et seq. The law in general presumes against vice and immorality, Corple v. Wood, 613 Mo., 56 (Amer.). (2) B., 106, 107; Harrson v. Mayer, 4 Dell.

<sup>(2) 16, 165, 161</sup> arrol v. Harrol, 1 K. & J. 4; H. & G., 153; Harrol v. Harrol, 1 K. & J. 4; Fleming v. Fleming, 4 Bing, 208; Siehel v. Lambert, 15 C. B. (N. S.), 792.

<sup>(3)</sup> Lopez 4. Lopez, 12 C , 706 (1983); discussed in Inte Mill and, 10 M., 219, 221 (1997).

<sup>(4)</sup> Lope: v Lopez, supra

<sup>(5)</sup> In re Millard, 10 M., 218, 221 (1887) explaining Lopes v. Lopes, 12 C., 706, supra.

<sup>(6)</sup> Sheppard, In re, George v. Thyer (1901).
1 Ch., 456.

<sup>(7) 6</sup> App. Cas , 364, 371.

<sup>(9)</sup> See Campbell v. Campbell (The Bresslatlane case), L. R., 1 H. L., Sc., 182.

731

enough to find that the marriage took place, leaving it to be presumed that the necessary rites and ceremonies were performed; but the Court must find specifically what these rites and coremonies are and whether they were performed (1) The presumption which ought to be made in favour of marriage where there has been a lengthened cohabitation, is rebutted by showing that the conduct of the parties is inconsistent with the relation of husband and wife (2) Under the Mahammedan law the mere continuance of cohabitation under circumstances in which no obstacle to marriage exists is not alone sufficient to raise a presumption of marriage, but to raise such a presumption it is necessary that there should not only be a continued cohabitation, but continued cohabitation under circumstances from which it could naturally be inferred that the cohabitation was a cohabitation as man and wife, and there must be a treatment tantamount to an acknowledgment of the fact of the marriage and the legitimacy of the children (3) And it has been recently held by the Privy Council that before applying the general presumption of marriage arising from cohabitation with habit and repute, it is necessary to make sure that the conditions necessary to it exist, for instance that there was some body of neighbours, many or few, or some sort of public, large or small. It was held also that the habit and repute must be habit of the particular status which in the country in question is lawful marriage.(4)

In the case of Hindus, marriage between parties in different sub-divisions of the Sudra caste is prohibited unless sanctioned by any special custom, and no presumption in favour of the validity of such a marriage can be made, although long cohabitation has existed between the parties, in the absence of proof of such special custom.(5) In criminal cases where marriage is an ingredient in an offence, as in bigamy, adultery, and the entiring of married women, the fact of the marriage must be strictly proved. The onus of proving that certain members of certain Brahmin families cannot enter into a legal marriage-contract is on the person who advances such a proposition, opposed as it is to the law and custom prevailing among members of the caste all over India (6)

The constancy of natural laws is to be assumed until the contrary be prov- Physical The ordinary physical sequences of nature are to be contemplated as pro- presump-

'.' 'r nature ; as that untended ght at extraordinary noises may be made as to the conduct of men in masses, such as that persons in fright will act instinctively and

<sup>(1)</sup> Surjyamon: Dass v Kalı Kanta, 28 C, 37, 50 (1900) , s c , 5 C W N., 195 , referring to Inderan Valungypuly v Ramasawmy Pandia. 13 Moo I A . 141 (1869) . Brandabun Chandra v. Chundra Kurmokar, 12 C , 140 (1885) , Adminsetrator-General of Madras v Anandachars, 9 M., 466 C (1896)

<sup>(2)</sup> Abdool Razack v Aga Mahomed, 21 Ind. App , 56 (1896) , in which case will be found a discussion as to whether Buddhists come under the same category as Jews and Christians with whom Mahommedans may intermarry. In Luchma Koer v Roghu Nath, 27 C., 971 (1900). the ordinary criteria afforded by conduct contrabuted but little aid to remove doubt; but it was held that the oral testimony should prevail against the improbability presented by the case that a marriage should have taken place.

<sup>(3)</sup> Masil un-nissa v Pathani, 26 A., 295 (1904)

<sup>(4)</sup> Ma Nun Di v Ma Kin (1907), 35 C. 232

<sup>(5)</sup> Narain Dhara v Rakhal Gain, 1 C , I (1875). followed in Kirpal Narain v. Sukurmons, 19 C . 91 (1891), in which case all the decisions bearing upon the matter are cited. (6) Papps Anterjenam v. Teyyan Nayer, 14

Mad. L J, 214 (1903) (7) Wharton, Ev , §§ 1293, 1294.

(S) Ib., § 1295.

convulsively.(1) The physical presumptions relating to life and death are the subject of sections 107 and 108, ante, and have been also adverted to under the heading of the presumption of continuity. Mention has also been made thereunder of the presumptions which formerly prevailed with reference to survivorship. When simply the fact is known of the death of a person capable of having had issue, death without issue cannot be presumed. But such presumption may be drawn from any circumstances indicating non-marriage or childlessness.(2) In cases where it is proved, either directly or inferentially, that there are several persons in the same circle of society, hearing the same name, mere identity of name, by itself, is not sufficient to establish identity of person (3) The inference, however, rises in strength with circumstances indicating the improbability of there being two persons of the same name at the same place and at the same time. Names, therefore, with other circumstances are facts from which identity may be presumed (4) But ordinarily similarity of names will sustain a verdict when no dispute of identity was raised on trial (5) So a prima facie case of identification of the person executing a document is necessary, but such identification need not be by the attesting witness, but may be alunde. The proof of identity, however, need only be inferential; and the fact that the names are the same may, unless there be grounds of suspicion, ordinarily supply the inference (6) And it is now held that unless the defendant's signature is by a mark, (7) or unless there be evidence of a name being common in a country, or unless there be some other circumstance calculated to throw confusion on identity, mere identity of name is sufficient for a prima facie case.(8) See further "Continuance." ante.

Psychologi cal presumptions

As to the distinction between physical and psychological facts, see Best, Ev., § 12 Among psychological presumptions may be enumerated the following:—In the absence of any evidence on the subject every person is presumed to be of sound mind Sanity is presumed. This is but an application of the rule that the ordinary mental condition is presumed to exist. Hence it follows that if a state of invanity is shown the presumption of sanity is not only removed, but there arises, in the case at any rate of insanity of a permanent type, a presumption that insanity continues (9)

Intention Knowledge

A sane man, it has been said, is conclusively presumed to contemplate the natural and probable consequences of his own acts (10). It must, however, be remembered that probable consequences may result from acts as to which the law, by pronouncing them to be negligent expressly negatives intent; and it would be repugnant to justice that one should be conclusively presumed to intend the consequences of his accidental or unavoidable acts. But when the

<sup>(1)</sup> Wharton, Ev., $ 1206.

<sup>(2)</sup> B., § 1239. Robards v. Richards, 15 East, 207 (see, however, Bor v. Pinkla, 3 C & P. d.); Lee v. Griffe, 15 East, 203. Graves v. Gressword, 24 W. R., (Frg.), 206; In v. Plene's Trad, L. R., 3 Ch., 103); Massav v. Marm, 134er, 216; Barsett v. Teyerd, 3 B Nav. 212, In v. Nelya, 3 Hag. N. 8, 74v; Purdy v. Bastelli, 14 Sun, 277. In v. Nielse's, L. R., 2 P. & D., 304.

<sup>(2)</sup> Wharton, Ev., §§ 1273, 70) ; Jones v Jones, p M, & W., 75

<sup>(4)</sup> Greenshills v. Henderson, 9 M. & W., 75; Sewall v. Erans, 4 Q. B., 626; Aurietta v. Holf-Angen, 2 C. & K., 744.

<sup>. (5)</sup> Wharton, Ev., § 1273; see Nelson v. Hail-

<sup>(6)</sup> Whatton, Er, § 739 A., Taylor, Ev.,

<sup>§ 1877, 1838,</sup> there must be some kind of identification of the squer. Jones v. Jones, D.M. & W., 75, see cases, super, and Smith v. Henderson, D.M. & W., 801. Knesell v. Smyth, D.M. & W., 201. Knesell v. Smy

<sup>(7)</sup> Whitelocks v. Musprore, 1 C. & M., 511.
(8) Wharton, Er., § 1273. see Sewell v. Evans.
4 Q. B., 626., Musicita v. Wolfhajen, 2 C. & K.,

<sup>(9)</sup> Taylor, Ev., §§ 197, 370; Wharton, Ev., §§ 1232-1254, Burr, Jones, Ev., § 53, and cases there cited

<sup>(10)</sup> Greenleaf, Ev., § 18, criticized in Whatton, Ev., § 1298. Are Lawson, Pres. Ev., Rulo 96—"A person is presumed to intend the natural and k gal consequences of his acts." Taylor, Fv., § 89—83.

proper limitations are observed the rule is less open to the criticism which it has received (1). Though it must be presumed that when a man voluntarily does an act, knowing at the time that in the natural course of events a certain result will follow, he intends to bring about that result; there is no presumption that a person intends what is merely a possible result of his action, or a result which, though reasonably certain, is not known by him to be so (2). Where a woman of twenty years of age was found to have administered datura to three members of her family, it was held that she must be presumed to have known that the administration of datura was likely to cause death, though she might not have administered, it with that intention (3).

The presumption that a party intends the natural consequences of his acts extends to civil as well as criminal responsibilities (1) So one who knowingly utters a forged bill is presumed to intend to defraud, (5) and one who wilfully sets fire to the property of another is presumed to intend to injure the owner.(6) A debtor, knowing himself to be insolvent, executes a bill of sale and an assignment of his book accounts to one of his creditors, the presumption is this was done with the intention of giving a preference to such creditor (7) A married man is proven to have entered a house of prostitution in the evening and to have remained all night. The presumption is that he committed adultery while there (8) A baker is charged with delivering adulterated bread for the use of a public asylum. It is proved that I delivered the bread The presumption is that he intended it to be eaten (9) He who publishes a libel is presumed to do so intentionally, though the presumption may be rebutted by proof of coercion or fraud on the part of the plaintiff (10) And where an act is criminal per se the general rule is to presume a criminal intent from the commission of the act So if A is proved to have been stabled by a deadly weapon by B from which wound he instantly died : B is presumed to have intended to kill A.(11) And if a man forges a document, the intent to defraud is presumed (12)

It is safer, however, and more accurate to remand all presumptions of malice and intent (as had indeed been done by this Act) to their proper place among presumptions of fact, the office of the Court in all such cases being one of induction and not deduction. The reasoning should be not.—'All acts their of that class, conse-

the case make it probable The process is one of inference from fact, not of pre-determination by law. And the same rule as to intention should be applied to civil as to criminal issues. (13)

<sup>(1)</sup> Burr Jones, Ev , § 23 , Wharton, Ev ,

<sup>1258.</sup> (2) R v. Lakshman, 26 B., 558 (1902)

<sup>(3)</sup> R v Tulsha, 20 A, 143 (1897), R v Gutalı (1999), 31 A, 148.

<sup>(4)</sup> See Taylor, Ev, § 83, and cases there ented criticised in Wharton, Dv, § 1262
(5) R v Sheppard, R & R, Cr, 9, R v Hill,

Moody, Cr. C., 30, R. v. Nash, 2 Den. C. C., 498
 R. v. Farrington, R. & R., Cr. C., 207.

<sup>(7)</sup> Ecker v McAllister, 45 Ind , 290 (Amer ), see English cases cited in Taylor, Ev., § 83. (8) Evans v. Evans, 41 Cal , 103 (Amer ), Astley v. Astley, 1 Hagg. Ecc , 720.

R. v Diron, 3 M. & S., 12.
 See Pontifez v. Bignold, 3 M & Gr., 63;
 Taylor, Ev., § 83 So also in suit for damages for malicious presecution malice may be inferred from the absence of reasonable and probable cause Bishonali Rukhi v Ram Dhone, 11 W. R., 42 (1869), Goday Narain v Sri Ankitam, 6 Mad. If C R., 88 (1871), Gunga Pershad v. Ramphul Kahoo, 20 W R. 1, 177 (1873)

<sup>(11)</sup> Lawson, Pres Ev., 469, Rule OT., to which that learned author appends the sub-rule "But when a specific intent is required to make an act an offence, the doing of the act does not raise a presumption that it was done with the specific intent." See Taylor, Ev., § 80, Best, Ev., § 433, Starke, Ev., 757.

<sup>(12)</sup> R. v. Porteous (1907), C. C. C., Seas, Pa., V 147, p 450.

<sup>(13)</sup> Wharton, Ev., §§ 1258, 1261, 1262; Wharton, Cr. Ev., § 738.

upon the fact that there could be no successful administration of justue if the rule were not to prevail. If prisoners accused of crime could successfully plead that they were ignorant of the illegality of their acts, no other shield for crime would need to be interposed, for no other defence could be so easily raised or so difficult to overcome.(2) The same considerations which forbid a party to urge his ignorance of the law as a defence to a criminal charge also forbid that he is an excuse for the failure to comply with in actions of tort. So where the drawer me had been given by the holder to the hischarged him and thinking himself still name, promised to pay it if the acceptor did not, he was held bound by this promise, though made under a mistake of law (3) But the maxim is limited to the determination of the civil or criminal liability of the person whose knowledge is in question and cannot be legitimately made use of in a case where the parties are entirely different and distinct from him (4) Persons engaged in a particular trade are presumed to be acquainted with the general customs obtaining and followed there (5) So if it be the general custom in a certain trade to charge interest on accounts after a fixed time, parties dealing therein are presumed to be cognisant of this custom and are bound thereby.(6) Every man is, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, presumed to know the contents of any deed which he executes and to be bound by it (7) So in the case of a will, or proof of the signature of the deceased, he will be presumed to have known and approved of the contents and effect of the instrument be has signed (8) But mere attestation of a document does not imply knowledge of its contents. The burden of proof is on the party to show a material fact of which he is best cognisant (9) A person is presumed to know what he does in the sense that a person who is capax negotic, will not be permitted to set up ignorance of facts as ground of exculpation or defence; the law treating him in the absence of fraud or coercion as if he were cognisant of what he did (10) It is on this principle that (as observed) a person dealing in a particular market, is taken to be acquainted with its customs, and a person executing a document is assumed to know its contents

According to the English equity doctrine (11) "Debitor non prasumuntur donner" If a testator who is already in debt to another, leaves to that creditor by his will a legacy sufficient to cover the amount of the debt or to exceed it, without in any way mentioning the debt or providing for his payment, such

<sup>(1)</sup> Wharton, Er., § 1240 (the rule as rather an anion of law than a presumption). Lawson, Pres. Er., 5., Taylor, Er., § 80. But there is no presumption of knowledge of foreign laws, lawson, Er., 14, Wharton, Er., § 1240, see Pollock on Contract, 474, Best, Er. § 330. Astococknowledge, see K. v. Fisher, 14 M., 342, 352.

<sup>(2)</sup> Burr. Jones, Ev., § 20., Wharton, Ev., § 1240; Pascalargued that society would be destroyed, if such an excuse were held good (4th Pror. Letter.)

<sup>(3)</sup> Sterens v. Lyurh, 12 East, 33. See Gordman v. Sayres, 23. & W., 263 i Brisbane v. Docres, 5 Taunt, 143: East India Co. v. Trition, 3 li. & C., 250 j Stelley, 1 V. & B., 23: not can a nistake as to the legal effect of a document Le set up us a defence i Powell v. Smith, L. ll., 14 Ep.,

<sup>85</sup> Parties are presumed to know the legal effect of their contracts. Burr Jones, Ev., 22.

enect of their contracts. Burr Jones, Ev., 2-and cass there cited

(4) East Indian Railway Co v. Kali Dass, 26 C, 465, 489, 490 (1898), 2 C. W. N., 609.

<sup>(5)</sup> Sutton v Thatham, 10 A & E , 7; Englift v Butterworth, and numerous cases cited in Wharton, Ev., § 1243

<sup>(6)</sup> Mc illister v Real, 4 Wend , 493; 8 id., 109 (Amer ), cited in Lauson, Ev., 16.

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 150 (see Lawson, Pres. Ev., 18 and s. 111, aste).

<sup>(8)</sup> Ib., § 160.

<sup>(9)</sup> S. 106, ante, Lawson, Pres. Ev., 20.

<sup>(10)</sup> Wharton, Fr., § 1243.

<sup>(11)</sup> See Leading Cases in Equity; Ex Parte Pye.

PRESUMPTIONS.

bequest is held to be in satisfaction of the debt, and the creditor cannot have both the debt and the legacy. This presumption has sometimes been applied by the Court, in India. In a case where a Mahommedan husband who had executed in favour of his wife a deed of dower for five lakes of rupees, and had begun in his lifetime, but had not completed, a transfer of a sum of four and a half lakes of sicca rupees, which was alleged to be an equivalent, and was referred to in a supplement to his will, it was held that this sum was to be taken in satisfaction of the dower, and was not a gift to the wife of that sum.(1) The Indian Succession Act.(2) however, does not follow the English equity doctrine.

Generally speaking it is often said that a man is presumed to know the truth in regard to facts within his own special means of knowledge. More definitely the rule has been thus stated; what a person is bound to know has regard to his particular means of knowledge and to the nature of the representation, and is then subject to the test of the knowledge which a man paying that attention which every man owes to his neighbour in making a representation would have acquired in the particular case by the use of such means, (3)

The ordinary rule is that a man having a right to act in either of two ways shall be assumed to have acted according to his interest. In the familiar instance of a tenant for life paying off a charge upon the inheritance, he is assumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to have intended to keep the charge alive.(4)

The presumptions which arise when evidence is withheld, where there is spoliation, and where there is a refusal to answer questions, have been dealt with in the notes to Illustrations (g) and (h), ante Many presumptions arise, from conduct, and are of frequent application in both civil and criminal cases, such as the presumption which arises when a party accused of crime flies from trial (5) The presumption of innocence being of a very important and extensive character has been dealt with under a separate heading (v. ante, pp 724 -- 728). Love of life may be assumed when necessary to determine the burden of proof. So, if the evidence is in equilibrium on an issue of suicide, it will be inferred that suicide is not established (6) Good faith in a contracting party will be presumed except in those cases which come within the purview of section 111, ante. A conspicuous instance of this presumption exists in the rule that when an instrument is susceptible of two conflicting probable constructions, the Court will adopt that construction which is most consistent with good faith and will hold that such construction was intended by the parties (7) A contract will be presumed to have been made in view of a law under which it is the acts or things presumed are divided into three classes (1) when prior acts are inferred from the existence of posterior acts, as when a prescriptive right or grant is inferred from modern enjoyment , (2) when posterior acts are inferred from prior acts, as when the sealing and delivery of a deed are inferred on proof of signing only, (3) when intermediate proceedings are presumed. as when a jury are directed to presume mesne assignments. The subject will also be found discussed by the same author in his Treatise on Presumptions of law and fact, 74-86 The maxim may also be considered with reference to (1) official appointments [see post], (2) official acts [see Ill. (e), (3) judicial acts (v. 16 ], (47 extra-judicial acts [see IV. (f) and worf). Best, Ev., § 355.

<sup>(1)</sup> Iftikarunnissa Begum v Amjad Ali, 7 B L. R., 643 (P. C.), (1871) Field's Evidence Act, p. 528.

 <sup>(2)</sup> See Succession Act (X of 1865), 81. 164,
 165, 166
 (3) Bigelow on Estoppel, p. 611, crimg Jarrett

v. Kennedy, 6 C B, 319, 322. Doyle v. Hart, 4 L R Ir, Ex D, 661, 670, and dealing with the subject of representations made by a person under circumstances in which, from his peculiar relation to the facts, he was bound to know the true state of things.

<sup>(4)</sup> Gokaldas Gopaldas v. Puranmal Premsukhdas, 10 C., 1035, 1046 (1884). (5) Wharton, Ev., § 1269; v. ante, "Innocence."

<sup>(6)</sup> Ib., § 1247.

<sup>(7)</sup> See Taylor, Ev., §§ 143-150 A., asts, notes to III. (e), and Best, Ev., §§ 353-365, where valid.(1) It has been sometimes said that when a document is shown to be genuine, the law presumes that it is true. But truth and genuineness are not convertible or equivalent, genuineness or spuriousness afford inferences of truth or falsehood.(2)

Regularity.

The presumption as to regularity is embodied in the familiar maxim-Omnia præsumuntur rite et solemniter esse acta.(3) This maxim "is an expression, in a short form, of a reasonable probability and of the propriety in point of law of acting on such probability. The maxim expresses an inference which may reasonably be drawn when an intention to do some formal act is established: when the evidence is consistent with that intention having been carried into effect in a proper way, but when the actual observance of all due formalities can only be inferred as a matter of probability. The maxim is not wanted where such observance is proved, nor has it any place where such observance is disproved The maxim only comes into operation where there is no proof one way or the other, but where it is more probable that what was intended to be done was done as it ought to have been done to render it valid, rather than that it was done in some other manner which would defeat the intention proved to exist and would render what is proved to have been done of no effect "(4) The maxim has been applied by this section in Illustration (c) to one class of acts, namely, judicial (5) and official (6) acts which may be presumed to have been regularly performed.(7)

Valuable property-rights often depend upon the presumption that judicial proceedings have been regularly and properly conducted, more especially when the lapse of time has rendered it practically impossible to furnish extraneous evidence that the requirements of the law have been in all respects complied with So unless the want of jurisdiction is distinctly shown it will be presumed to have existed both as to parties and subject-matter (8) So in the undermentioned case it was held that having regard to the due performance of official acts it ought to be presumed in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, that the istahar in question which was directed by the Commissioner to the collector was duly published (9) It will also be presumed that the procedure So if the papers are lost or destroyed, it will be presumed that proper service was made. But no presumption will be allowed to contradict the express statement of the record; thus if the return or proof of service shows service at a particular place or upon a person not defendant, and there is no averment of other service, there is no room for presumption that service was also made at another and different place or that it was made upon the defendant also (10) And if the record shows certain steps to have been taken which in law are insufficient to sustain the judgment, no other steps will be presumed. Thus

Atlyns v. Hode, 1 Burr., 106; Lewis v. Davison, 4 M & W., 654; Harph v. Brooks, 10 A
 E., 300; Richards v. Black, 6 C. B., 441; Ireland v. Livingstone, L. B., E; & 1 Ap., 393; Wine v. Glazmor Bank, 4 L. B., II. L., 377.

<sup>(2)</sup> Wharton, Ev . $ 1250.

<sup>(3) 16 . § 1251.</sup>

<sup>(4)</sup> Harris v. Knight, L. R., 13 P. D., 179, 180, per Lin lley, L. J.

<sup>(5)</sup> See Best, Ev., §§ 360, 361; Taylor, Ev., § 143, et seq

<sup>(6)</sup> See Best, Er . § 350 ; Taylor, Ev., § 143

<sup>(7)</sup> v. antr. notes to III. (e), and cases there clied, Steph. Dig., Art. 101; Broom's Legal Maxims; Co. Litt., 65, 332; Burr. Jones, Ev., § 23-41.

<sup>(8)</sup> v. ante, notes to III. (c), where the distinction given in Paccole v. Int.], I Saund, 73, between presumptions as to puradiction in the case of superior and inferior Court is cried. The role, however, that no presumptions are multiped in favour of the proceedings of inferior Court's applies only to the question of jurisdiction. Such Courts his others are presumed to here safety correctly as to matters within their jurisdiction. Inferiors v. McGreen, 1, New. 2, P., (Ala) 30 (Amer.), Lawson, Pres. Pr., 31-44;

<sup>(9)</sup> Province Kumar v. Secretary of State, 3 C. W. N., 895 (1899).

<sup>(10)</sup> Galpin v. Page, 18 Wall , 350, 364 (Amer.) I Lawson, Pres. Lv., Rule 12, p. 46, "a presumption cannot contradict facts averred or proved."

if it appears that rervice was made in a particular manner, no other mode of service can be presumed, since this would be a contradiction of the record (I) The presumption not only applies to the fact of jurisdiction, but to the regularity of proceedings subsequent to the gaining of jurisdiction. When the jurisdiction of a competent Court has attached, every act is presumed to have been rightly done until the contrary appears. This applies not only to the final decree but to every judgment or order rendered in the various stages of the pro-So it will be presumed that the evidence was sufficient to support the judgment; that improper evidence was not admitted, unless the record shows otherwise, that if admitted, it was disregarded, that every fact susceptible of proof was proved, that the charge of the Court was correct, unless the record shows to the contrary , that the jury were duly sworn, and in charge of a sworn officer, duly admonished by the Judge, and that they were of such intelligence as to understand the charge; that the prisoner was present in Court during all proceedings; that the judgment was regular and the verdict in proper form; that the summons was duly served; that the necessary parties were before the Court; that all persons interested had due notice, and that several acts in a judicial proceeding, if performed on the same day, were performed in the order necessary to give them legal effect. When an order has been made it will be presumed that the Court had the proper evidence for making the same. (2) So if an attachment is alleged to be without authority on the ground that no copy of the decree was transmitted, the maxim omnia rite will prevail unless it be affirmatively shown that the copy was not transmitted.(3) The reasons on account of which the Courts indulge such presumptions are thus stated in an American case (i) "we are not to expect too much from the records of iudicial proceedings. They are memorials of the judgments and decrees of the Judges and contain a general, but not particular, detail of all that occurs before them. Much must be left to intendment and presumption, for it is often less difficult to do things correctly than to describe them correctly." When the extant parts of an incomplete writing exhibit traces of careless preparation it is straining the maxim too far to presume that the parts which have disappeared must necessarily have been free from error.(5)

all the presumption of the regularity of official acts not only embraces judicial acts but those of other officers. (C) Though the presumption in this case has less weight and hence is more easily rebutted, the principle is the same, namely, that when an official act is shown to have been substantially regular, it is presumed that the formal requisites were also performed. Thus it will be presumed that a man acting in a public capacity has been rightly appointed; that entries found in public books have been made by the proper officer; that every man in his official character does his duty, until the contrary is proved. (7)

<sup>(1)</sup> Burr. Jones, Ev , 1 27.

<sup>(2) 16. § 29;</sup> Lawson, Pres. Ev., 34-44, and numerous American authorities in these textbooks cited; the presumption of regularity extends to the proceedings of arbitrators; 16, 24, Best. Ev., § 360, Russell, Arbitr. 3rd Ed., 288, 681; Tsylor, Ev. § 86.

<sup>(3)</sup> Saroda Prosaud v. Luchmeepul Sing, 10

B. L. R., 214 (1872), P. C at p. 230.
(4) Beale v. Com., 25 Pa. St., 11 (Amer.).

<sup>(5)</sup> Mahomed Abdul v. Gujraj Sahas, 20 1. A., p. 75 (1893)

<sup>(6)</sup> III. (e), s. 114.

<sup>(7)</sup> Per Story, J., in Hank of United States v. Dandridge, 12 Wharton, 64, 69 (Amer.) The presumption is that one who is proved to have acted in an official expanity possessed the necessary and proper authority; Lawson, Pres. Ev., 47. Due appointment may be presumed from the fact of acting in an official capacity v. ante, as. 79, 91, Exception (1), Marshall v. Lamb, 5 Q. B , 115; R, v. Verelst, 3 Camp., 432 : Bunburg v. Mathews, 1 C & K , 380 , Plumer v. Brisco, 19 O. B . 46 , Berryman v. Wise, 4 T. R., 366; Cannell v. Curtis, 2 Bing N C . 228 See cases cited in Best, Ev., § 356-360, Taylor, Ev . § 171. The presumption is not restricted to appointments of a strictly public nature ; Butler v. Ford, 1 Cr & M , 662 , Dest. Ev., § 357. The presumption is that julie officers do as the law and their duty require them; Lawson, Pres. Ev., 53, Van Omeron v.

The Court may also, in the absence of anything to excite suspicion, fairly assume that a Notary satisfied himself of the identity of an executant before he certified and attested a power-of-attorney.(1) On the same principle this presumption of regularity is extended to the acts of the officers of municipal corporations (2) Gradually the presumption that officials obey the mandates of the law and perform their duties has been extended to include to some extent the acts of private persons as well in the transaction of affairs of business. Men are presumed to have acted legally and properly rather than otherwise ; and it is reasonable to assume that the usual and customary modes of business have been adopted in given cases, until some departure from the regular mode has been shown. But it is evident from the very statement of the considerations which have influenced the Courts to adopt presumptions of this class that such presumptions are far from conclusive, that they must be received with caution; vet they h variety of cases, sometimes being entitled to importance

or order of proof.(3) Presumptions of this character are frequently raised in respect of negotiable paper. (4) Payment of a note will be presumed from its possession by the maker; (5) and consideration will be presumed.(6) Documents regular on their face are presumed to have been properly executed and to have undergone all formalities essential to their validity.(7) A document is presumed to have been made on the day on which it bears date, and if more documents than one bear date on the same day, they are presumed to have been executed in the order necessary to effect the object for which they were executed (8) Every document called for and not produced after notice to produce, is presumed to have been attested, stamped, and executed in the manner prescribed by law.(9) The rule is the same where secondary evidence is given of a lost instrument.(10) Where a deed

Dorrick, 2 Camp., 44, Taylor v Cool, 8 Price, 653, Bruce v. Nicolupulo, 11 Ex., 129

- (1) In the goods of Mular, 9 C W (1905) at p 988
- (2) Municipality of Sholapur & Sholapur Spinning Co., 20 B , 732 (1895).

(3) Burr. Jones, Ev., § 42, v ante, notes to Ill. (f), Taylor, Ev., $$ 149-150 \, 176-182. and cases there ested; Best, Ev. 55 400-404 (presumptions from the ordinary conduct of mankind, the habits of society and the usages of trade), Lawson, Pres. Ev., 67-92 The presumption stated in § 177 of Taylor, Er . of an indefinite hiring being a hiring for a year certain does not apply in India; nor is the mere payment of wages monthly sufficient to raise the presumption that a biring is a monthly biring Hughes v. Secretary of State, 7 B. L. R . 689

(4) See III. (c), . 114, Act AAVI of 1881 (Negotiable Instruments), ss 118-122 and ante, notes to Ill. (c), ante. This Illustration is an application of the maxim under consideration ; Taylor, Iv., § 148. So also III. (1) is a presumption of regularity ; see Taylor, Ev., § 178.

- (5) See Ill. (i), a 114, aute
- (6) her Ill (c), a 114, ante, and notes to that
- (7) v. unte, p 642; Lauson, Pres. Pr . 82; Ball v. Taylor, 1 C. & P., 417; Re Entuk, etc., Austrante Co. 1 Dell. J. & S. 488; Crup v. Anderson, 1 Statk., 35; Clasmalene v Carrel.

18 C B , 36 , Pooley v. Goodsen, 4 A. & F., 94: Hart v Hart, 1 Hare, 1; Bradlaugh v. DeRen, L R , 3 C P , 286; Marine Intestment Co. v. Hatteide, L R . 5 H L. Cas , 624; Griffin v. Mason, 3 Camp , 7 , Re Sandilands, L. R., 6 C. P , 411 , Hall v. Bainbridge, 12 Q B , 609 , Burling v Patterson, 9 C. & P., 570 In Affathura v Gopala Panilar, 25 M., 674 (1901); the Court appears to have been of opinion that the law as to the presumption which may be made in the case of documentary evidence is laid down in the sections which deal with documentary cylinere, and it held that this section had no application to a case of the sort then before it, in which it was argued that this section enabled the Court to presume the genuineness of the original of a document of which accordary evidence had been given to very little; generally their chief

(8) Steph. Dig , Art 85; Atlyne v. Horde, 1 Burr., 106; Taylor, Et., § 169; Best, Er., 1402; Lauson, Ev , 89 As to letters, see Anderson v Weston, 6 Bing, N. C . 296; when there is danger of collusion as in divorce, see Howleston v. Smyth, 2 C. & P., 24. or insolvency proceedings, see Hours v. Coryton, 4 Taunt . 500; Bright v. Lainean, 2 M. & W., 789; Sindair v. Rappally, 4 M. & W., 312; Taylor v. Kinlock. 1 Stark , 175.

(9) 5. 89, ante, Steph. Dig., Art. 86, (10) Marine Investment Co. v. Harraide, 5 L. R. H. L. Cas , 624 is duly signed, attested and witnessed, there arises a presumption of scaling and delivery. (1) If a will purports to have been duly signed, attested and witnessed, on proof of execution the Court will presume, in the case of the death of the witnesses or in case they do not remember the facts connected with its execution, that the law was complied with (2) Other presumptions arise as to the mailing and receipt of letters (3). "The presumption is based on the proposition that the post office is a pubble agency charged with the duty of transmitting letters; and on the assumption that what ordinarily results from the transmission of a letter through the post office probably resulted in the given

But no such presumpd resided in the city or porting to be an answer to one which has been duly mailed to a person at his place of residence, this fact creates a presumption that the answer is genuine (5) On proper preliminary proof, similar presumptions may arise as to the sending and delivery of a telegram.(6) In the case of communication by telephone, the American Courts, widening the scope of the rules of evidence with the expansion of business by the aid of new inventions, have in several instances received as evidence the statements made at the telephone or to telephone-operators and intended to be communicated to another party. In such case the operator may be regarded as the agent of both parties to make and receive such communication. There are, however, cases holding the stricter rule that where evidence of the substance of such conversation is sought to be introduced, it must first be shown that the party speaking was recognised either by his voice or in some other manner [7].

cations of the maxim to extrais an example of the presumption of regularity applied to public business by public officers. Illustration (f) declares that the Court may presume from the general regularity and uniformity of men's dealings that the common course of business has been followed in particular cases.(9) "Where," it was once probably to have taken place on Tuesday, evi-Tuesday or Wednesday is strong evidence that it took place on Tuesday."(10) The presumption is that any act done was

<sup>(1)</sup> Steph, Dig, Art. 87; Ball v. Taylor, 1 C. & P., 417; Gralter v. Neale, 1 Peake, 199; Talbut v. Hodon, 7 Taunt, 251; Vermscombe v. Butter, 3 S. & T., 589; Re Huckrale, L. R., L. P. & D., 375; Adam v. Kur, 1 B. & P., 360; Andreas v. Moltey, 12 C. B., N. S., 526

<sup>(2)</sup> Burgoyse v. Shorter, I Rob. Eco., 5 [referred to m Jogender Nath v Nuis Chur, 7 C. W. N., 384, 386 [1903], in which the Court presumed that the attesting variences to a document signed after the execution of the document) Breeckly v. Sid., 2 Roberts, 102, Thomora v. Hall, th., 426; Retter v. Landaug, L. R., 3 Eq., 509. But see Copt; v. Copt; 4, 8. E., 10, 8. Expensibly as to presumptions in case of wills, Taylor, Ev., §1, 100—168

<sup>(3)</sup> v. ante, pp. 206, 207, and cases there cited; Best, Ev., § 403.

<sup>(4)</sup> Henderson v. Carbondale Coal Co., 140 U. S., 25, 27 (Amer.), per Brewer, J.

<sup>(5)</sup> Walter v. Haynes, R. & M., 149.
(6) v. ante, pp. 542, 543, and cases there cited, see also Gray on communication by telegraph.

<sup>(7)</sup> Burr Jones, Ev. § 210, etting with American cases the following articles, 23 Weekly Law Bul. 235, "Are telephonic communications, admissible as evidence;" C. Leg. News, 24 "Conversations by Telephone," 2 Un. Law Rev., 31, "Presence by Telephone"

<sup>(8)</sup> As to alterations in documents, ancient or otherwise, see 5 106, and c other instances of the application of the maxim to extra-judicial acts are the presumptions as to the saint, signing and delivery of documents; in favour of formality in the case of far wills, due stimping; priority of execution of deeds and the like, Best, Er., § 302—305.

<sup>(9)</sup> v. aste, notes to Illustration.

<sup>(10)</sup> Avery v. Bowden, E. & B., 973; see Lawson, Pres. Ev., 67; v. Rist v. Hobson, 1 Sing, & St., 543, Farrar v. Beswick, 1 M. & R., 527; Clarke v. Magruder, 2 E. & J., 77.

done of right and not of wrong. (1) The performance, however, of a mere moral duty is not presumed. (2)

An important application of the maxim is to be found in the support given to possession and user, especially where there has been long and peaceable enjoyment.(3) So the presumption of right in a party who is in possession of property gives rise to the rule that possession is prima facie evidence of title.(4) And so, where the facts show the long continued exercise of a right, the Court is bound to presume a legal origin, if such be possible, in favour of the right, and will not only presume that the right had a legal origin but also many collateral facts, so as to render the title of the possessor complete.(5)

Miscellaneous pre sumptions : Benami transactions

Where under Hindu law, a father purchases property in the name of his son, a presumption arises, contrary to the presumption under English law, that it is a benami purchase merely and that the property belongs to the father. The the version entitled to roving this in making every presumption against apparent ownership (7) A wife, a member of a joint-family is, as regards property held in her name, in the same position as her husband with respect to property acquired in his name and subject to the same presumption in favour of the joint-family (8) The same presumption as stated above was applied in the case of a person who purchased property in the name of an idol, whom no one worshipped but himself (9) To prove a purchase to be a benami one, it is usual to show that the funds with which the purchase was made were exclusively the funds of the person alleged to be the real owner of the property (10) The same principle has been applied to Mahomedans in the case of a purchase made by a father in the name of a son(11) or in the name of his wife (12) This presumption that a purchase was an ordinary benami one may, however, be rebutted by evidence showing that the father's object was to affect the ordinary rule of succession as from him to the property purchased; and it was also laid down in this case that when bond fide creditors seek to render liable property of which their debtor is the ostensible owner, it is the duty of the Court of Justice to put those who object on the ground that

<sup>(1)</sup> Gibson v. Doeq, 2 H & N , 615

<sup>(2)</sup> Fitzgerald v Dressler, 7 C B (N. S ), 375

<sup>(3)</sup> Best. Ev , § 355, 366 et sen

<sup>(4)</sup> Haidu Khan v Secretary of State for India in Council (1903), 36 C, p 1, see v 110, ante, and cases there cited.

<sup>(5)</sup> Bost, Ev. § 1968, v. sb. §§ 267-299, which deal with prescriptive and customs; which deal with prescription and customs; rights; the Trescription Act, 2 & 3 Will, 4 C, TI; the presumption and from user in the case of incorporeal rights, the presumption of the surrender or extinguishment of memogravial right by non user; exements; licenses, presumptions of fact in support of hendrical copporent; the presumption of conveyances by trustees; and of the surrender of terms

<sup>(6)</sup> Gopeckrist Gossin v. Unngaprasad Gossin, 8 Moo. I. A., 53 (1854); Bhaghat Chander v. Huro Gobind, 20 W. R., 269 (1873), Naginbhai v. Abdulla, 6 B., 717 (1892); Field's Evidence Act, p. 527)

<sup>(7)</sup> Busloor Rahim v. Shammoniasa Begum, 11 Moo. I. A., 602 (1867); Sreemanchunder

Gopaulchunder, 11 Moo I. A., 28 (1866): see also Mahesh Chundra v. Barada Debi, 2 B.

L R (A C), 275 (1869)

<sup>(8)</sup> Nobia Chander v Dobhobia Daia, 10 C, 896 (1884), following Chander Nath v, Kristo Sei (1880), following Chander Nath v, Kristo Sei (1890), and distinguishing Chandrais v. Terney Kondi, 8 C, 355 (1882); s. c., 11 C L R, 41, where the question considered was whether as between a busband or a purchaser at a sale in execution against the hubband and the write there was any presumption that property standing in the name of the wife was bold by her beams for the hubband.

<sup>(9)</sup> Brojosovandery Debea v. Luchmee Koonua, ree, 20 W. R., 95 (1873).

ree, 20 W. R., 95 (1873).
(10) Ushor Ali v. Ultaf Faltima, 13 Moo. I. A s
232 (1869); Gopeekrist Goeain v. Gungaprased

Gosata, 6 Moo, I. A., 53 (1854). (11) Sayyud Uzhur v. Beebes Ultal, 13 Moo. I. A., 232 (1869).

<sup>(12)</sup> Surnomayee v. Luchmeepul Doogra, 9 W. 11, 339 (1869).

he only held benami to strict proof of such objection (1) As regards suits instituted by a benamidar, as long as the benami system is to be recognised in this country, it has been held that, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, it is Miscellaneto be presumed that the benamidar has instituted the suit with the full author sumptions. rity of the beneficial owner, and any decision come to in his presence would be as much binding upon the real owner, as if the suit has been brought by the real owner himself (2) See further cases cited ante, ss. 101-101, sub roc, " Benami Transactions" As regards encroachments made by a tenant against Encroachhis landlord, the true presumption is that the lands so encroached upon are ments added to the tenure and form part thereof for the benefit of the tenant so long as the original holding continues, and afterwards for the benefit of the landlord. unless it clearly appears by some act done at the time that the tenant made the encroachment for his own benefit. The principle on which this doctrine is founded is one of general application; namely, that if an act is capable of being treated as either rightful or wrongful, it shall be treated as rightful (3). In another case the same principle was applied, and it was further held that when a tenant acquired a title against a third person by adverse possession, he ac-

Witnesses are presumed to have testified truthfully (5) Presumptions Miscellanearise from the withholding, (6) or from the spoliation (7) of evidence. [Illus-ous pretration (g).] If a man refuses to answer a question which he is not compelled Evidence. by law to answer, the Court may presume that the answer if given would be unfavourable to him.(8) [Illustration (h).] The records of Courts are presumed to be correctly made ;(9) and when a document is produced as a record of evidence there is a presumption of its genuineness and due taking (10)

The presumption of implied authority on the part of the wife to pledge her Husband husband's credit for necessaries may be rebutted by proof of circumstances and wife inconsistent with its existence. Such authority cannot be presumed where the husband has expressly forbidden his wife to pledge his credit (11)

The hereditary nature of a tenure or taluk may be presumed from Land Pre evidence of long and uninterrupted enjoyment, and of the descent of the sumptions tenure from father to son, notwithstanding the absence of words of in to the hold-heritance in the instrument by which the tenure was originally created (12) ing of: In another case it was held that successive enjoyment for three generations without interference, of land granted by a zemindar to a member of his family quired it for his landlord and not for himself.(4)

(1884).

(12) Gopal Lall v. Tilul Chunder, 10 Moo. I.

<sup>(1)</sup> Azimut 4li v. Hurdwaree Mull, 13 Moo. 1. A., 401, s. c , 5 B. L. R., 578 (1870); ser also Nograbhai . Abdulla, 6 B , 717 (1882), see also ante, as, 101-104, sub vor. "Benami Transaction . "

<sup>(2)</sup> Gops Nath v. Bhagunt Pershad, 10 C., 697

<sup>(3)</sup> Goorgodose v. Issur Chunder, 22 W. R.,

<sup>(4)</sup> Nuddarchand Shaha v. Meajun, 10 C., 820

<sup>(5)</sup> v. ante, pp 725, 726.

<sup>(6)</sup> v. ante, Ill. (9), pp. 714-719. (7) v. ante, Ill. (g), pp. 714-719.

<sup>(8)</sup> v. ante, Ill. (A), p. 719.

<sup>(9)</sup> Best, Ev . § 349. (10) S. 80, ante, pp 524-529; as to certified

coptes, see a. 79, ante. (11) Mahomed Sultan Sahib v., Robinson (1907),

<sup>30</sup> M , 543; following Jolly v. Rees, 15 C. B , N. S , 628.

A , 191 (1865); s c., 3 W., 3 P. C , 1; Dhunput Singh v. Gooman Singh, 11 Moo. I. A., 433 (1867) (evidence of long uninterrupted encovment will supply the uant of words of limitation in a pottah.) See also on abware of words of "inherstance" and use of word "mokurrart," 5 C., 543 (1879) : 9 I. A., 33 (1881), 8 C., 664 (1891), 12 I. A., 205 (1885), Suttosarrun Chosel v Moheschunder, 12 Moo. I. A., 263; s c., 2 B. L. R. (P. C.), 23; 11 W R. (P. C.), 10, 268 (1868), Kooldeen Narain v. Government, 14 Moo. I. A , 247 (1871); s c., 11 B. L. R., 71; Munrunjun Singh v. Telanund Singh, 3 W. R., 84 (1865). Nobo Doorga v. Dicarka Nath, 24 W. R., 301 (1875), Karunalar Mahats v. Neladhro Chowdhey, 5 B. L. R. 655 (1870) , s. c., 14 W. R., 107 ; Lalles Koowar v. Hors Krishno, 3 B. L. R , 226 (A. C.) (1869); s. c., 12 W. R., 3 (the words "mokurrari istemarri" create an hereditary right in perpetuity)," Brajanath Kunda v. Lalhi Narain, 7 B. L. B., in lieu of maintenance, justified the presumption that the original grant was intended to be absolute.(1) In England proof of the possession of land or of the receipt of rent from the person in possession is prima facie evidence of a seisin in fee. In India the proof of possession or receipt of rent by a person who pays the land revenue immediately to Government is prima facie evidence of an estate of inheritance in the case of an ordinary zemindari. The evidence is still stronger, if it be proved that the estate has passed, on one or more occasions, from ancestor to heir.(2) As regards lakhiraj lands, as the general presumption is in favour of the hability to assessment of land, the onus probandi lies on a claimant to lakhirgi to establish his title to exemption, not by inference but by positive proof required by the Regulations (3) Registration by a Collector of land as lakhira; in 1795 affords presumption of the lakhira; having commenced before 1790.(4) In a question of boundary between a lakhira; tenure and a zemindar's mal land, there is no presumption in favour of one or the other, but the onus is on the plaintiff to prove his case (5) If a person sets up as against the Government a permanent or perpetual settlement, it is incumbent on him to make out that case. Unsettled and unoccupied waste land, not being the property of any private owner, must be held to belong to the State (6) A purchase at a sale for arrears of Government revenue " is remitted to all the rights which the original settlor at the date of the perpetual settlement had; and may in consequence of that sweep away or get rid of all the intermediate tenures and incumbrances created by preceding zemindars since that date In the assertion of this right the auction-purchaser is, no doubt, in many cases allowed to have the benefit of a certain presumption, and by virtue thereof to throw the burthen of proof on his opponent. That presumption is, however, founded not so much upon the principle just mentioned as upon the principle that every bigha of land is bound to pay and contribute to the public revenue, unless it can be brought within certain known and specified exceptions, and that the right of the zemindar to enhance rent is also presumable, until the contrary is shown Accordingly in many cases which may be found in the books, a very heavy burden of proof has been placed upon the defendants, whose tenures have been questioned by auction-purchasers; and they have had to prove in circumstances of great difficulty that their tenure did really exist at the date of the perpetual settlement, or even twelve years before, in order to escape the consequences of the claim. It is, however, to be ns has, ts, to a giving force to the contrary presumptions arising from proof of long and undisturbed possession "(7) It is, however, necessary for the purchaser to take some clear step for avoiding or cancelling the tenure; otherwise the presumption will be

(2) Collector of Trickinopoly v. Teklamani, 14 B L. R , 139 , L. R , 1 I. A , 283 (1874).

(4) Omesh Chunder v. Dukhina Soondry, W.

R , Sp. No., 95 (1863). (5) Beer Chunder v. Ram Gutty, 8 W. R., 209

(1867). (6) Prosunno Kumar v. Secretary of State, 3

C. W. N., 695 (1899). (7) Forbes v. Meer Mahomed, 12 B. L. R., 215.

20 W. R., 44

<sup>211 (1871),</sup> Ismael Khan v. Aghore Nath, ? C W. N., 734 (1903); Weaterscale v. Sarat Chandra, 8 C. W. N., 155 (1903) , Ismail Khan v. Mrsnmogi Dan, 8 C. W. N., 301 (1903) A maurasi title was presumed from continuous payment of rent for more than a hundred years. Any presumption arising from long possession is, of course, negatived where the origin of the tenancy is known Ismail Khan v. Broughton, 5 C. W. N., 846 (1901). See Upendra Krishna v. Ismail Khan, 8 C. W N., 889 (1904), Nilratan Mandal v. Ismail Khan, B C. W. N , 805 (1904). See an article on "Presumption as to permanent tenancy in homestead land," 5 C. W. N., ccexxu. (1) Jayannadah Noroyana v. Pedda Pakir,

<sup>4</sup> M , 371 (1881)

<sup>(3)</sup> Mahtab Chand v. Bengal Government, 4 Moo. I. A , 497. See as to lakhira; tenures, ante. ss. 100-104, "Lalheray," Field's Evidence Act, pp. 481, 482, 529.

that the tenure is unaffected.(1) In every case the question what lands are included in the Permanent Settlement of 1793 is a question of fact and not of law.(2) Where lands were let out more than sixty years before the suit, for building purposes, the ancestors of the defendants having erected thereon a house more than sixty years before the suit, and having with the defendants resided there from first to last, it was held that the Court was at liberty to presume that the land was granted for building purposes, and that the grant was of a permanent character.(3) A tenancy having been created by kabulyat which did not contain any words of inheritance, nor even the usual words mourasi-mokurari, and there not being anything in the kabulyat to show that the lease was taken for building or residential purposes, and there having been no recognition of successive transferees of the land by the landlord except by receipt of rent from them, and there being nothing to show that the pucca buildings standing on the land were erected with the knowledge of the landlord, and the land having always been let out in ijara; held that these facts were not sufficient to warrant the inference that the tenancy was, when first created, intended to be permanent or was subsequently by implied agreement converted into a permanent one.(4) In a subsequent case(5) the facts of long possession of a tenancy by the tenants and their ancestors, and of the landlord having permitted them to build a pucca house, which had existed for a very considerable time and which was added to by successive tenants, and of the tenure having been from time to time transferred by succession and purchase in which the landlord acquiesced, or of which he could not have been ignorant, were held sufficient to warrant the Court in presuming that the tenancy was of a permanent nature. Where a person claiming to be the absolute owner of an estate borrowed moneys ostensibly to pay off a mortgage, there being no intermediate incumbrance, it was held that the presumption must be that his intention was to extinguish the mortgage and not to keep it alive ,(6) but in the case of a first and second mortgage, and in the absence of evidence to the contrary, it would be presumed that he intended to keep the prior charge alive for his own benefit (7) Where a road has been for many years the boundary between two properties, and there is no evidence that either proprietor gave up the whole of the 11 1 11 h registered purchaser under section 50 of Act VIII of 1871 will have priority over an unregistered one, even though he has obtained possession, but this doctrine will not apply where the subsequent purchaser, who registers, has actual notice of a prior unregistered purchase, possession itself having been under certain

<sup>(1)</sup> Surnomoyee v Satteshchunder Roy, 10 Moo I A, 123 (1864), Assanodlah v Obhoy Chunder, 13 Moo I A,, 317, 318 (1870)

<sup>(2)</sup> Jagadindra Nath v Secretary of State, 30 C. 291 (1901), see notes to s 36

<sup>(3)</sup> Guspadhur Shikhdar v Ajumuddin Shaj, 8 C., 960 (1882) Keferred to in Rakhal Das v Dinomoyi Debi, 16 C., 652 (1889), Onlarapa v. Subaji Pandurang, 15 B., 72 (1890), Yeshwadabai v Ramchandre, 18 B., 81 (1893), Nobin Mondul v Cholim Mulik, 25 C., 807 (1898).

<sup>(4)</sup> Ismail Khan v Joygoon Bibes, 4 C W N, 210 (1900), see also Ismail Khan v Broughton, 5 C. W. N, 846 (1901)

<sup>(5)</sup> Caspers: v Kedar Nath, 5 C. W N., 858 (1901); and see Nanda Lal Goswam: v. Atarman: Dasce (1908), 35 M., 763; and Grant

v Robinson (1906), 11 C. W N , 242

(6) Mohesh Lat v Mohun Bawan, L. R , 10

I A, 62, 71 (1883), s c, 9 C, 961.
 (7) Goluldas v Puranmal, 10 C, 1035 (1884);
 I1 I A, 126, see also Gopal Chunder v Herembo

Chunder, 16 C , 523
(8) Mobaruck Shah v Toofany, 4 C , 206 (1878).

<sup>(9)</sup> Hamun Chulf v. Coomer Guntheam, P. C., App, 84 (1834), Pedal * Incatalpu v. Arcordea Rootenppo, P. C. App, 112 (1834), Burdaceat Royt Chunder Roomer, 12 Non. A, 145 (1868); Trilochan Ghose v. Kaulas Nath, 3 B. L. R., 292 (1869), 12 W. F., 175, Selam Sherkh v. Bado-nah Chatah, 3 B. L. R. (A. C.), 312 (1899), Kales Chauder v. Adou Shakla, 9 W. R., 608 (1868), 16 Ahmad v. Ajudhus Kundu, 13 A, 537 (1891), we saloo Falvil's Terdence, 245, 503.

circumstances created as sufficient notice.(1) Where a tenant under a lease holds over after the expiration of the lease, it is presumed that there is an implied agreement and that he does so on the same terms and conditions as are mentioned in the lease, until the parties come to a fresh settlement.(2) Where a ryot shows payment of rent for any particular year, the presumption is that the rent for previous years has been paid and satisfied, unless the contrary is shown by the landlord.(3) There is no presumption in South Canara that a tenancy is either chalgeni or mulgeni. Immemorial possession on a uniform rent will raise a presumption in favour of mulgeni enure, and the burden will be on the other party to prove that the tenant was holding on chalpen tenure (4) See further as to presumptions in the case of possession, the Notes to section 110, ante. and See Notes to sections 101—104. "Landlord and Transt."

Litigation · Procedure

Delay in suing to enforce rights raises a presumption unfavourable to the person who makes such delay. It some presumption usually arrises against those who slumber on their rights, it is the stronger when applied to rights the subject-matter of which is in a constant state of change, and the proof of which is rendered more than usually difficult by lapse of time [3]. Delay on the part of a suitor may under particular circumstances be indicative of a consciousness on his part that what the opposite party claims is a true and proper amount [6]. No presumption can be raised against a party to a suit from his refusal to withdraw his case from the determination of a properly constituted Court in order to submit it to private arbitration. Nothing which passes between the parties of the constitution of the parties of the parties of the constitution of the parties of the necessarily conclusive, and does not preclude enquiry into the truth of the matters alleged therein (8) A witness sent by the police is presumably under restraint, and a statement made by such witness and so recorded raises suspicion that it was not voluntarily made (9)

Partnership In a partnership suit where one party does, but the other party does not, all get a specific agreement that the shares in the said partnership were unequal, the existing presumption as to the equality of partners' shares casts the burden of proof on those alleging the agreement who must therefore begin (10)

Mortgage.

The presumption, generally speaking in the absence of any evidence to the contrary is that a person whose money goes to satisfy a prior mortgage intends to keep alive for his benefit that prior mortgage. (11)

Fuzloodeen Khan v. Falir Mahomed, 5 C, 136 (1879): see 7 C., 550 (1881), and cases there reviewed; and Narain Chunder v. Dataram Roy,
 C. 597 (1882)

<sup>(2)</sup> Enaquinollah v. Flaheduslah, W. R. (1864), X. 42; Jumant Ali v. Chutterdharee Sahee, 16 W. R. 185 (1871), Tara Chunder v. Ameer Mundul, 22 W. R., 394 (1874); Allah Bibee v. Joogul, 23 W. R., 244 (1876), see also Bengal Tranney Act. (VIII of 1885)

<sup>(3)</sup> Secreth Scondare v. Breder, I.W. R., 274 (1864)., Metherjeet Songh v. Choker Narain, 2 W. R., 58 (1865); Enoyd Hoosen v. Diedar Bux, W. Ic. (1864); Act X 97.

<sup>(4)</sup> Kittu Meyadihi v. Chanamma Shetlathi (1907). 30 Mr. 1908, and as to presumption under Agra Tenney, Act (1901), s. 201; see Bachan Singh v. Karan Singh. (1908), 30 A., 447, and Dhanka v. Umran Singh. (1908), 30

<sup>. ..</sup>

<sup>(5)</sup> Sham Chand v. Kishen Procad, 14 Mon. I. A., 595, 600 (1872).

<sup>(6)</sup> Mussamut Bebee v. Sheikh Hamid, 10 B. L. R., 45, 54 (1871).

<sup>(7)</sup> Mohabeer Singh Dhujjan Singh, 20 W.

R., 172 (1873).
(8) In the matter of Khatiya Bibi, 5 B L. R.

<sup>557 (1870);</sup> contra, R. s. Faughan, S. B. L. R., 148 (1870), the writ does not now assue, the High Court has, however, conferred upon it certain powers of itsuing directions in the nature of a writ of habeas corpus; Cr. Pr. Code, s. 401-(0) R. v. Jadab Das, 4 C. W. N., 129, 141, 142

<sup>(1899).</sup> (10) Jadabram Dey v. Bulloram Dey, 26 C., 281 (1899).

<sup>(11)</sup> Amar Chandra v. Roy Goloke, 4 C. W. No. 769' (1990).

A child born in India must under ordinary circumstances be presumed to Bellston-have his father's religion and his corresponding civil and social status.(1) With regard to change of religion it has been held that where in consequence of the conversion of a person from one form of religion to another, the question arises as to the law to be applied to such person, that question is to be deter-mined, not by ascertaining the law which was applicable to such person prior to the conversion, but by ascertaining the law or custom of the class to which such person attached himself after conversion and by which he preferred that his succession should be governed.(2) in which (p. 541), it was held that the lower Court (2) Lastings v. Gonsalves, 23 R., 539 , (1699) had not drawn a correct presumption.

<sup>(1)</sup> Shaner v. Orde, 14 Moo. I. A., 309 (1871).

CHAPTER VIII.

ESTOPPEL.

The subject of estoppels(1) differs from that of presumptions, which are partly dealt with in the preceding chapter, in the circumstance that an estoppel is a personal disqualification laid upon a person peculiarly circumstanced from proving peculiar facts; whereas a presumption is a rule that particular inferences shall be drawn from particular facts, whoever proves them (2) An estoppel is only a matter of proof (3) A man is estopped when he has said, done or permitted some thing or act, which the law will not allow him to gainsay. Owing to its use in ancient times in shutting out the truth against reason and sound policy, the doctrine of estoppel was not favoured and was characterised as "odious" In modern times the doctrine has lost all ground of odium and become one of the most important, useful and just factors of the law. At the present day it is employed not to exclude the truth; its whole force being directed to preclude parties, and those in privity with them, from unsettling what has been fittingly determined—a just principle which can be and is daily administered to the well-being of society.(4)

It has been pointed out by a text-writer of the highest authority on the law of evidence(5) that the Courts formerly through the phraseology and under the garb of "evidence" accomplished results which they now attain through a cautious reaching out of the principle of estoppel, the modern extensions of this doctrine broadening the law by a direct and open application of maxims of justice. At Common Law there were three kinds of estoppel, namely (a) by Record, (b) by Deed, and (c) in pairs.

Estoppel by Record. Estoppel by Record is dealt with by the Code of Civil Procedure, sections 11—14,(6) and by sections 40—44 of this Act (v. ante, pp. 369-396). There is the fall actornal arising by record that is from the proceedings of the Courts; in or entry of the judgment; and ment In the first case mentioned world. It imports absolute verity, not only against the parties to it and those in privity with them but against strangers also; no one may produce evidence to impeach it. Thus no one, whether party, privy or stranger, is permitted to deny the fact that the proceedings narrated in the record took place, or the time when they purport to that kaken place, or that the parties there named as hitgants participated in the cause, or that judgment was given as therein stated; unless in a direct proceeding instituted for the purpose of correcting or annuling the record.(7)

ance. The force ie proceedings in an action in rem

<sup>(1)</sup> See as to the law of estoppel, Bigelow; Treative on the Law of Estoppel, 5th Ed (1889), Everest, and Strode's Law of Estoppel (1884); Cababo, Principles of Estoppel (1883); and Estoppel by Representation and Res Judicata in British Indias, by A. Caspersz, 2nd Ed. (1896), leing th Tagors Law Lectures, 1893.

<sup>(2)</sup> Steph. Introd., 173.

<sup>(3)</sup> Bashi Chandra v. Enoyd Ali, 20 C , 236, 239 (1892).

<sup>(4)</sup> Bigelow, op. cit., 5, 6 (5) Thayer's Evidence at the Common Law, 318, cited in Rup Chand v. Sarbenvar Chandra, 10 C. W. N., 747 (1908), s. c., 3 C. L. J., 629.

<sup>(6)</sup> pp. 97-98 (7) Bigelow, op. cit., 8, 36

or in personam; (1) and secondly, upon the forum in which it was pronounced, i.e., upon the question whether it was a judgment of a domestic or foreign Court.(2) The record of a judgment in rem is generally conclusive upon all persons. Inother cases, so far as the recond purports to declare rights and duties, its material recitals import absolute verity between the parties to it and those who claim under them. The estoppel arising from or fixed by the fact enrolled constitutes the estoppel of a judgment. And to the question whether the judgment necessarily creates an estoppel, the general answer is, yes, if it results in res judicata; no, if it does not (3)

The strict technical doctrine of estoppel by deed cannot be said to exist Estoppel by in India.(4) Section 115 of this act is exhaustive, and the Law of Estoppel in this country is contained in it.(5) This species of estoppel originated by virtue of that which constituted a writing, a deed, namely, the seal. It is to the fact that the seal was once the mark of authority and greatness, rather than to the fact that it was a seal, or that (as is commonly said) its use was a solemn act, that is to be traced the origin of the effect of the instrument as matter of evi-Later the idea gained force that the seal itself, besides affording authentication, somehow imported verity and gave to the instrument to which it was appended its peculiar efficacy.(6) Written evidence was considered of a higher nature than verbal, and where the document was of a formal character executed under seal, it was regarded as conclusive not merely as to the interests conveyed, but also as regards matters of recital. The principle was that where a man had entered into a solemn engagement by deed under his hand and seal as to certain facts he should not be permitted to deny any matter which he had so asserted.(7)

An estoppel by deed is a preclusion against the competent parties to a valid sealed contract and their privies to deny its force and effect by any evidence of inferior solemnity.(8) The rule declares that no man shall be permitted to dispute his own solemn deed. In India, however, conveyancing is of a simple and informal character (9) and contracts under seal have no special privilege attached to them, being treated on the same footing as simple contracts.(10) But while the technical doctrine has no application in this country, statements in documents are as admissions always cridence against the parties admissions may be conclusive if they work an estoppel, that is, if the statement has been acted upon by the party to whom it was made (11)

The Courts in England and America in recent times appear inclined to treat the estoppel by deed as resting on contract, an intelligible basis upon which a

(1) Bigelow, op cit., 8, 36, 38, v aute, pp

- 369-371.
- (2) v ante, pp. 369-371
- (3) v. ib.
- (4) See Goleldas Gopaldas v Purannal Premsukhdas, 10 C . 1035 (1884) , Zemindar Serimatu v. Firappa Chetti, 2 Mad. H C R , 174 (1864) . I" The strict technical doctrine of the Fughsh law as to estoppel in the case of solemn deeds under seal rests upon peculiar grounds that have no application to the present bonds or the other written instruments ordinarily in use amongst natives"] Rum Gopal v Elaquiere, 1 B. L. R. O. C. 37 (1867), Paran Singh v. Lalji Mal, I. A , 403 (1877) , Donzelle v Kedarnath Chuckerbutty, 7 B. L. R , 720 (1871), Kedarnath Chuckerbutty v. Donzelle, 20 W. R , 352 (1873).
- (5) Asmatunnessa Khalun v Harendra Lal Biswas (1908), 35 C., 904
- (6) Bigelow, op cit, 330-332.

- (7) Boseman v Toylor, 2 A & E , 278, 291 Pollock on Contract, 5th Ed., 131-143
- (8) Bigelow, op cit, 330-332 Bucman v Taylor, 2 A & E , 278, 291
- (9) See observations of Paul, J . in Powelle v Redormath Chuckerbutty, 7 B L R , 728-730 (1871) and see Kedaraa's Chuckerbutty v Ilon zelle, 20 W R , 353 (1873), and the deeds and contracts of the people of India are to be liberally construct, Hancoman Prasad 1 Babooce, 6 Moo I A , 411 (1856) , Ramfall Sett v Kanas Lol, 12 C , 578 (1886)
- (10) Raja Sahib v Bhudhu Singh, 12 Moo. 1. A., 275 (1869), s. c. 2 B L R., P. C. 111. Ram Gopol v. Blaquiere, 1 B L R . O C . 37 (1867) . Terumala v Pengala, 1 Mad. H C R .
- 312, 318 (1863) (11) e s 31, ante, pp. 290-292, and Sudder Churn v. Basudev Parbeary, 9 C. W. N. cerm , (1905)

748 ESTOPPEL.

large class of estoppel is arising, namely, that the parties have agreed for the purposes of a particular transaction to treat certain facts as true (1) In this country the technical doctrine is not recognised at all, and a statement in a deed or other document can only give rise to an estoppel if the case is one which can be brought within the rule as to estoppel by conduct. In some cases, such a statement amounts to a mere admission of more or less evidential value according to the circumstances, but not conclusive. In other cases, namely, those in which the other party has been induced to alter his position upon the faith of the statement contained in the document, such a statement will operate as an estoppel In this view of the matter, an estoppel arising from a deed or other instrument is only a particular application of that estoppel by misrepresentation or which is the subject-matter of section 115 of this Act estoppel, however, in pais, may arise in connection with a deed as in connection with any other instrument

In the case of Param Singh v. Lalji Mal, (2) the rule on this point was laid down as follows:-"If a party to a deed is to be precluded from questioning his solemn act, this country. The strictness of the rule of If it is to be used to promote justice, the to be enforced must be proportioned to hich the natives of the country in practice bring to bear upon their transactions. What is ordinarily known in these provinces as a deed, is an attested agreement prepared without any competent legal advice, and executed and delivered by parties who are unaware of any [ 1 . 1 . -ire-materine it ppde le cod congre , il distinction bet pears to us that the secretary of the second party to such ... prejudice of another person, when that other, or the person through whom the other person claims, has been induced to alter his position on the faith of the instrument; but where the question arises between parties, or the representatives in interests of parties, who at the time of the execution of the instrument were aware of its intention and object, and who have not been induced to alter their position by its execution, we consider that justice in this country will be more surely obtained by allowing any party, whether he be plaintiff or defendant, to show the truth. As to the cases in which, in order to prevent fraud it may be shown that an apparent deed of sale is really a mortgage, see ante, s 92, sub voc. 'Evidence of Conduct' and authorities there cited.(3) As to estoppel by pleading v. ante, pp. 455-56 (4)

Estoppel in pais.

" Estoppel in pais under the ancient doctrine of the Common Law sprang from (i) livery of seisin; (ii) entry; (iii) acceptance of rent; (iv) partition; (v) acceptance of an estate. Aside from the case of partition, only one of the abovementioned instances mentioned by Coke, estoppel by acceptance of rent, prevails at the present day, and even the character of this instance is widely different from what it was in his time Estoppel by the acceptance of rent as known to Coke occurred where the landlord accepted rent from a tenant who held over after the expiration of a lease by deed. Such an estoppel depended upon the prior existence of a deed; while at the present day it is immaterial how the tenure arose (5) The estoppel by partition was a case of implied war-

78 (1881).

<sup>(1)</sup> Bigclow, up. est , 331, note (1), see Car. nenter v. Buller, 8 M. & W , 209, 212. (2) 1 A., 403, 410 (1877), but see as to this case Chenritoppa v. Putappa, 11 B , 708 (1887) (3) See also Bapuje v. Senorarji, 2 B. 231 (1877): Mahadaji Gopal v. J dhal Ballal, 7 R.,

<sup>(4)</sup> And see Phagennetern Duckey v. Myna

Bace, 11 Moo I. A , 487, 497 (1867). Ram Surun v. Masst Pran, 13' M. I. A , 551, 559 (1870); Kriehto Prea v Pudžo Lochan, 6 W. R. 288 (1866); Ramgasvarii v. Krostna, 1 Mad H. C., 72 (1862); Dayal Jaura) v. Khatav Ladha, 12 Bom H C , 97.

<sup>(5)</sup> Bigelow, op. cst., 454; see Act IVad 1882 (Transfer of Property), s. 116.

ESTOPPEL, 749

ranty. In the case of a partition of lands by writ of partition between co-tenants the law imported a warranty of the common title, and held it to be incompatible with their duty to each other for either to become demandant in a suit to recover any portion of the land by a paramount title and thus to place himself in antagonism to his co-tenants. No tenant after partition could set up an adverse title to the portion of another for the purpose of ousting him from the part which had been partitioned off to him (1). In this country the question whether there is an estopped by reason of partition will depend, in the case of a partition by decree, upon the question whether there is an estopped by judgment or respudicata; (2) and in the case of partition by act of parties whether there is under the circumstances such an estopped by agreement or by the control of the case of the control of the case o retion 115, post (3) In addition to the above now chiefly of historic interest only, there of the present day has grown up entirely since the time of Coke, and embraces cases never contemplated in that character by him or by the lawyers of even much later times, though the old lines are often visible in the newer pathways."

Estoppel in pair according to the modern sense of that term, has been said to arise firstly (a) from agreement or contract; secondly (b) independently of contract, from act or conduct of misrepresentation which has induced a change of position in accordance party against whom the estoppel is allo in which there is an actuas settled, so that it must stand specifically as agreed; and (b) all caves in which an estoppel grows out of the performance of the contract by operation of law. Estoppel by contract does not include cases of estoppel not arising by or by virtue of the contract itself, though arising in the course of the contract, if the estoppel is not part of the contract itself or of its legal effect, it belongs to the next head. While there can be no estoppel by agreement where the justice of the case does not require it, such an estoppel may be found to exist where there is an agreement either express or to be implied from the conduct of the parties to, or the nature of, the transaction itself, which justice requires should be enforced. The question of the existence of such an estoppel must be dealt with on broad grounds of legal principle irrespective of whether there may be a decision in point or not. The question in each case is—is there an agreement on which an estoppel should be justly founded. (4) Sections 116 and 117 afford instances of the estoppel was gareement, but they are not exhaustive of it (5). As has been well said.

Daji, 7 B., 272 (1883). Kirty Chunder v. Anauth Nath, 10 C., 97 (1883), and Caspersz, op. cit. 386:389. where these cases are cited and considered and Chokhey Singh v. Jote Singh, P. C. (1908), 31 A. 73

<sup>(1)</sup> Bigelow, op cit, 409—411. In the case of partition in pais by conveyance between the parties there appears to be no estoppel apart from recitals, unless there is an express warrant; And the rule itself has been subjected to some qualification = 0.410.

<sup>(2)</sup> At to the conclusiveness of partition-proceedings, see Hassemit Odels vs. Bhopd. 3 Agr. Rep. 137 (1888). Chairs Khen v Kullon, 1 Agra Rep. 132 (1886). Shirram v Karayan, 5 B., 27 (1880); Laishman Bada v Bomchandra Dada, 5 B., 48 (1880). Konneriev Carrix, 5 B., 89 (1880). No Romachandra v. Covend Bada, 10 B., 24 (1885). Sadu v Batta, 4 B., 37 (1870), Annal Balcabary v. Damodher Malund, 13 B., 25, 31 (1888); Krishna Bibar v. Brojewer. Chowldran, 1, C. 144, 2 I. A., 23 (1875), Araba Gridge V. Batta, 4 B., 4 C. (1884); Vrakadar v. Peda Venkayaman, 10 M., 16 (1889); Shrik Hossen v. Shrik Muzund, 18 W. R., 260 (1872); Harn Karayan v Completes

<sup>(3)</sup> Cl Greender Chunder v Troylokho Nath, 21 1 A, 35 (1892) Ananta Balacharya v. Damodhar Makund, 13 B., 25 (1888) Simuli Sukhimani v Mohendra Nath, 4 B. L. R., P. C., 16 (1869) Casperge op cit, 77, 78

<sup>(4)</sup> Rup Chand v. Sarbeswar Chandra, 10 C W. N., 747 (1906), s c , 3 C L J , 629.

<sup>(5)</sup> at Mr. Bigelow describes the estopped of tenant and incrase of land as a mistiance of stepped growing out of the performance of the contract by operation of law (Bigelow, op. ct., 506, 642). The estopped of a bailes and other becases is analogous to that of landlend; and tenant (bi, 434, 648, 525). The estopped in respect of negotiable instruments is also an instance of estopped by contract, but in this listiance is.

750 ESTOPPEL.

some transactions there are which are so obviously based on a conventional state of facts that for that very reason the parties never in practice come to any express agreement about them at all, and the estoppel is but the carrying out of what the parties as honest men must have intended if they thought about the matter at all at the time they made their bargain (1) The parties are deemed to have dealt with one another on the basis of their rights being regulated by a conventional state of facts. The tenant and licensee and halee obtaining possession are taken to accept it upon the terms that they will not dispute the title of him who gave it to them and without whose possession they would not have got it The act of acceptance of a bill of exchange amounts to an undertaking to pay to the order of the drawer. Though all are instances of estoppel by agreement, the precise terms of the agreement and therefore of the estoppel may vary according to the nature of the particular transaction in each case (2) Another instance of such an estoppel (which however has not been provided for in the Act) is the estoppel of a person taking possession under an instrument whether a will or deed inter vivos. Where such taking is in accordance with a right which would not have been granted except upon the understanding that the possessor should not dispute the title of him under whom the possession was derived, there is an estoppel. This occurs where several persons take limited interests under the same instrument. In that case a party cannot say that the instrument is valid so as to enable him to take under it, but is invalid as regards the interests of those in remainder who claim under the same instrument (3) And a person holding land under a deed or will, which, however, does not operate in law to pass the land in question, cannot by such possession for more than twelve years acquire an interest in the property different from that which he would have taken if the deed or will had been yahd and operative.(4) Whether all the cases here referred to under this head ought to be called estoppels is a matter of doubt.

Secondly: The next head, which constitutes an important addition in recent times to the law of estoppel, embraces the class of cases known and described as estoppel by conduct of misrepresentation, the estoppel arising without regard to contract, or rather the fact to be taken as true not being necessarily or ordinarily the subject or the effect of contract. This estoppel is dealt with in section 115, post

Besides these two classes, the name of estoppel has been extended to a variety of cases which are not estoppels at all; in some of these cases there may perhaps be said to be a quasi-estoppel; in others, the word is merely used as equivalent to "bar," in others, it is an entire misnomer; the free use of the term "estoppel" in such cases giving rise to confusion and misapprehension of the real legal character of the act or declaration which is to be considered. (5)

This Act deals with the subject of estopped in pass in sections 115-117, but does not in terms preserve the above-mentioned distinction between estoppel by contract and estoppel by conduct. The rules contained in sections 116 and 116 and

<sup>1</sup>s said to arise "upon some fact agreed or assumed to be true" (ib., 4%) 9 9 B., 48 (1) Rup Chard v Sarbessar Chandra, 10 C (Rayah Venleta Norounha. 1ppa Raov. Rayah

W. N., 747 (1906) citing with approval Cababe on Petoppel, 12, 21.

<sup>(2)</sup> Rup Chand v. Sarbenvar Chandra, supra.
(3) Id. Ikilion v. Filiperald, 1 Ch D (1897),

<sup>(4)</sup> Rayah Venlaia Norannha i ppa Raov. Rayah Surrann Gopala Row (1908), 31 M. 321, and Dalion v. FitzGerall (1897), 2 Ch. D., 56, (5) See Bigelow, op etc., 473, 438

ESTOPPEL. 751

are matters of infinite variety, and are by no means confined to the subjects dealt with in this Chapter of the Act.(1)

In the case of the Ganges Manufacturing Co. v. Sourujmull(2) Garth, C. J., said :- "It has been further contended by the appellants, that sections 115 to 117 contained in Chap, VIII of the Evidence Act lay down the only rules of estoppel which are now intended to be in force in British India; that those rules are treated by the Act as rules of evidence; and that, by the second section of the Act, all rules of evidence are repealed except those which the Act contains. But if this argument were well founded, the consequences would indeed be serious. The Courts here would then be debarred from entertaining any questions in the nature of estoppel which did not come within the scope of sections 115 to 117, however important those questions might be to the due administration of the law. The fallacy of the argument is in supposing that all rules of estoppel are also rules of evidence. The enactment in section 115 is, no doubt, in one sense, a rule of evidence. It is founded upon the wellknown doctrine laid down in Pickard v. Scars(3) and other cases that where a man has made a representation to another of a particular fact or state of circumstances, and has thereby wilfully induced that other to act upon that representation and to alter his own previous position, he is estopped as against that person from proving that the fact or state of circumstances was not true. In such a case the rule of estoppel becomes so far a rule of evidence, that evidence is not admissible to disprove the fact or state of circumstances which was represented to exist But estoppels in the sense in which the term is used in English legal phraseology are matters of infinite variety, and are by no means confined to the subjects which are dealt with in Chap. VIII of the Evidence Act. A man may be estopped, not only from giving particular evidence, but from doing acts, or relying upon any particular argument or contention, which the rules of equity and good conscience prevent his using as against his opponent. A large number of cases of this kind will be found collected in the notes to Doe v. Olucr(4) and whatever the true meaning of the second section of the Evidence Act may be as regards estoppels which prevent persons from giving evidence, we are clearly of opinion that it does not debar the plaintiffs in this case from availing themselves of their present contention as against the defendants "

So parties will not be allowed to vary their cases on appeal by receding a from andmassions made in the Court of first instance(5) and may be estopped from appealing by reason of an undertaking that they would not do so.(6)

Where a large of the solution of the was held that as he had obtained time he was estopped from saying that he

<sup>(1) 5</sup> C , 669, 678, 679 (1890)

<sup>(2)</sup> Ganges Manufacturing Co. v Sourusmull, 5 C., 669 (1880), and see Janals Ammal v. Kamalathammal, 7 Mad H C R, 263 (1877) (3) 6 A & E. 469

<sup>(4) 2</sup> Smith, L. C., 8th Ed., pp. 775 et seq. See Caspersz op cit., 239-262

<sup>(6)</sup> Mohma Chundre v Rom Kishore, 15 B. R., 142, 23 W. R., 174 (1975), Denny Gogop, v. Godelhar Godelha, 2 Dom H. C. R., 29 (1855), Stray v Bale, 1 M. & W., 168, Natha Chondhay, v. Bunda Lall, 6 W. R., 289 (1886), Doe dray v. Bunda Lall, 6 W. R., 289 (1886), Doe dray v. Runda Lall, 6 W. R., 299, Motchand v. Datelhan, 11 Bom. H. C. R., 186 (1874), Hureka W. Motchinger, v. Rojishkan Modelrey, 2 W. R.

<sup>251 (1875),</sup> Kanuidal Khan v Shoshi Bhoosun, 8 C L. R., 117 (1891) see Gopal Sahu v Joyram Tewary, 9 C L R., 402 (1851)

<sup>(6)</sup> Moonake Amer v Mahavane Inderset, 14 Noo. 1. A. 203. 9 B. L. R. 400 (1871); Anast Dav v. Ashburner d. Co., 1. A. 57 (1870); Protop Chander v. Arsthoon, 8. C. 455, 10 C. L. R. 443 (1882); Bahr Dav v. Nohn Chunder, 20 C., 200 (1901). See also Prann v. Altorago-Geseral, L. R., 5 P. C., 516, and Raymohus Gosant v. Gour Mahas, 8 Moo. 1. A. 91; 4 W. R. P. C. 47 (1839), where it was said that a decree of an Appellate Gout obtained after a componue and an agreement not to prosecute an appeal was an adjustantion obtainer with fraud.

was not bound by his agreement (1) And in another case though it was held that there was strictly no estoppel where in an application to execute a decree which provided for no interest the decree-holders put in a prayer as to the award of interest, and the judgment-debtor, accepting his liability to pay this decretal debt as well as interest, obtained from time to time adjournments from the Courts to enable him to pay the amount : it was held that the judgment-debtor could not at a later stage of the proceedings dispute the item of interest, and was bound to pay interest from the date on which he admitted his hability to pay interest (2) Estoppels may also arise out of the compromise of legal claims pendente lite. (3) Where a Court has in fact no jurisdiction to entertain a suit or application, the consent of the parties thereto cannot give it jurisdiction. Where a person filed a claim in execution-proceedings in the Small Cause Court and thereafter when such claim was disallowed brought a regular suit in which it was held that that Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the claim, it was also held that the plaintiff was not estopped from saying that the Small Cause Court had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter because under wrong advice he originally filed a claim in that Court (4) In, however, an earlier case, where a plaintiff put the Subordinate Judge's Court in motion to execute a decree and thus submitted himself to the jurisdiction of that Court, it was held that the plaintiff was by his own act estopped from saying that the same Court had not jurisdiction to retrace its steps by directing a refund of the sum realized under the order for execution, and to replace the parties in the position which they occupied before the irregular execution was had (5) The mere fact of a plaintiff in a suit for ejectment in a Civil Court having on a previous occasion applied to the Revenue Court for the ejectment of the defendant, would not estop him from asserting that the defendant was unlawfully in possession, that is, as a trespasser (6)

(1) Ultam Chandra . Khetra Nath, 29 C., 577 (1901).

(2) Narayan v. Rasp. 6 Bom L. R . 417 (1904). (3) Civ. Pr. Code, O. XXIII, r. 3, p 1038; Ruttansen Lalis v. Poursbas, 7 B . 304 (1883): Karupan v. Ramasami, 8 M., 482 (1885). Appasamı v. Manikam, 9 M., 103, Hara Sundarı v Aumar Dulhinessur, 11 C., 250 (1885), Gocul das Bulabdas Co. v. Scott, 16 B , 202 (1891) . Kally Nanth v. Rasseblockun Mozoomdar, 2 Ind. Jur., N. S., 343, 122 (1867), Juggobundhon Chatterjeev Watson & Co , 2 Bourke, 162 (1865) Scully v Lord Dundonald, L. R , 8 Ch D , 639 Pryer v. Gribble, L. R., 10 Ch. D , 534; Holt v Jesse, L. R. 3 Ch D. 177. Rasendra Narasn v. Bija: Gobind, 2 M. I. A., 181 (1839) . Sri Gajapaths v Srs Gajapathi, 13 Moo. I. A . 497 (1870) , Gholaub Koonwaree v. Eshur Chandey, 8 Moo. I. A , 447 , 2 W. R , P. C , 47 (1891); Chera-Lunneth v. Vengunat, 18 M., 1, 7 (1894); as to waiver, see Dwarkanath Sarma v. Unnoda Soondurrer, 5 W. R., Mise, 30 (1866); Shiralingana v. Nardingaya, 4 B., 247 (1878). Janki Ammor v. Kamalathammal, 7 Mad. H. C. R., 203 (1873) abandonment; Man Gobind v. Janlee Ram, W. R., 1864, 211; as to agreements confra cursus curra, see Sadasira Pillas v. Ramalinga Pillas. 15 B. L. R., 383 ; Pisans v. Attorney-General, L. R., 4 P. C., 516; Sheo Golam v. Bens Prosad. 5 C., 27 (1879); Diamonath Sen v. Guruchurn Pal, 14 B. L. R., 287 (1874), 21 W. R., 310; Stowell v. Billings, 1 A., 350 (1877); Debs Rai v Golul Prasad, S. A., 585 (1881). Romlakban Rars. Nabkhurr Rai, GA, 623 (1881); it has been held that a compromise which does not supersede the decree is no bar to the enforcement of the original decree. Darbha Venkama v. Rossa Subburgudu, 1 M., 387 (1878), Ganga v. Meril Dhr. 4 A., 20 (1882). Lefalul Hussin v. Bidshah Hussin (P. C.), 8 O. C., 143, Mella Reils v. Ausar Natha Reids, 15 M. L. J. 404. See Casperscop ed., 252—262, where these casis are discussed.

(4) Deno Nath v. Adhor Chunder, 4 C. W. N., 470 (1900); 3 C. W. N., 591.

(5) Govend Vanum v. Sakherum Remelandra. 3 B. 42 (1878), discarding from Garcia Daylv. Sakherum Remelandra, P. J., 1877, p. 227. See also Gyna Chundra v. Darga Churn, 7 C., 318 (1881), in which it was objected that partition proceedings could not be taken in recentance of acters and that the Court was in error in appointing the Amin as commissioner to effect partition, a. 306 of the Color Jeering to "Commissioners" in the plural. Pontifier, J., lowers the did that the order of the Judge was within the meaning of the section 396 of the Code. It may also well be that a part from questions of jurnaliction a person who has acquirested in proceedings may be estepped form calling them.

(6) Zabedo Bibee v. Sheo Charan, 22 A., 38 (1890). Persons will not be permitted to take up inconsistent positions (1) So in the case first cited, which was a suit upon a mortgage, the defendant contended that the suit was prema ure and the Court accepted that view. The plaintiff again sued and the defendant pleaded limitation, but it was led! that it was not open to him to raise the defence. Where a plaintiff, having obtained a decree arainst one of two defendants, acquiesced in that decree, but the defendant judgment-debtor appealed, making the other defendant also a party to his appeal, with the result that the plaintiff is suit was distinsissed, it was held that it was not open to the plaintiff in second appeal to contend that the Court below should have made a decree against that defendant with regard to whom he had acquiesced in the dismissal of his suit (2)

Nor will a party be permitted to approbate and reprobate in respect of the same matter.(3) Where a person allowed execution to proceed for nearly a year without objection, having twice obtained a stay of sale on the plea that he would satisfy the decree if time were allowed, and having approbated the executionproceedings by payment of part of the debt, induced the creditor to grant time for payment of the balance, he was held estopped from saying that the decree was incapable of execution against him.(4) But in all cases it must be shown that there really exist those conditions which are the essentials of an estoppel, So to petition for the postponement of a sale in execution of a decree is not an intentional causing or permitting the decree-holder to believe that the judgment-debtor admits that the decree can be legally executed (5) And where a son, against whom a suit ought to have been instituted, conducted on behalf of his mother a suit wrongly brought against her, knowing all the time that he and not the mother should have been sued, but there was nothing to show that it was by reason of representation or any conduct of the son that the plaintiff was led to think that the mother was the right person to be sued, it was held that the decree in that suit was not binding on the son, and did not estop him, in a subsequent suit against him, from contesting the validity of that decree.(6)

Parties may by conduct of waiver in the course of a suit preclude themselves from asserting the rights which they have vaived (7) The plaintiff in a suit brought in forma paupers died, but in ignorance of her death the Court passed a decree in her favour. The defendant appealed, making respondent to his appeal a lady whom he alleged to be the legal representative of the deceased

<sup>(1)</sup> Must. Estatonius N. Kanuller Khola.
21 W. R., 734 (1874). Byr. Bhochur v. Jiahadou.
21 W. R., 734 (1874). Byr. Bhochur v. Jiahadou.
21 W. R., 734 (1875). Boher Muser v.
Muspur Meha, 2C I. R., 298 (1878). Sonzoliub.
Wappur Meha, 2C I. R., 298 (1878). Sonzoliub.
V. Inamondaten, 24 W. R., 272 (1875). SulyaManna Daner v. Krahan Clashert, 6C, 255 (1890).
Where a defendant allowed without objection a purchaser of a plaintiff's miteract in the sait to whottate has name on the record he was estepped from contending that the wait had alasted. Eur Chamira v. Bhann Dhar, 3 R. L. R., A. C., 214 (1899). Manny V. Sahib Ram (1995), A. W.
N., 91, 27 All., 544 (F. B.) Kanah Rem v.
Badda (1996), 22 P. L. R.

<sup>(2)</sup> Lohre v. Deo Dans (1907), 30 A., 48. Farzand Ali Khan v. Bismillah Begam (1904), 27 A., 23.

<sup>(3)</sup> See Kristo Indro v. Huromonee Dassee, L. R., 1. I. A., 84, 88 (1873), Rup Chand y Serbeswar Chandra, 10 C W. N., 747 (1906), s. c., 3 C. L. J., 629. "It is a sound principle of law that as between the same litigants a defendant cannot defeat the claim of the pluntiff by a plea negativing a contention successfully advanced by him in a former suit, if he thereby approbates and reprobates," Varaplal Salot v. Bhain Na gardas, 8 Bom. L. R., 1103 (1904). See Corentry v. Tulsh. Pershad, 31 C. 822 (1904).

<sup>(4)</sup> Coventry v Tulshi Pershad, 31 C., 822 (1904).

<sup>(5)</sup> Mana Konsens v Jupyal Setan, 10 C., 196 (1883). s., f. R., 10 I. A., 119, 13 C. L. R., 285, see Mused, Codeg v Mussamul Ladoo, 13 Voo. I. A., 685 (1870). Newton v Leidward, 12 Q. R., 223 See also as to pertitions for postponement. Girdham Singh v Hurden Korsus, 3 I. A., 230 (1875), distinguished in Theloro Maktab v. Leidauurd Singh, 7 C., 613; 0 C. L. R., 938 (1881)

<sup>(6)</sup> Mohum Das v. Nillomul, 4 C. W. N., 283 1899).
(7) Janah Ammal v. Kamalathammal, 7 Mad.

<sup>(7)</sup> Janati Ammal v. Kamalahammai, T. Mas H. C. R., 263 (1873).

plaintiff. On this appeal an order was passed by consent of parties sending back the suit to be retried on the merits as between the defendant and the person nominated by him as plaintiff, and it was so retried and a decree was again passed in favour of the plaintiff. Held that it was not thereafter open to the defendant to object that there had been no enquiry into the right of the representative of the original plaintiff to sue as a pauper.(1) In the undermentioned case, a mortgagor was held to be precluded from raising the objection that the sale of the mortgaged property in execution of the decree in the mortgages suit was invalid by reason of the decree his not having been made absolute, if such objection was not raison to the decree his not having been made absolute, if such objection was not raison.

can be no estoppel arising or appears on the face of the appears on the fact of the anne of law, which both parties must be presumed to know.(4) A person can be precluded by his conduct from objecting to an irregularity in procedure which he himself invites.(5)

Generally as to admissions made in the course of judicial proceedings, see note below.(6)

The law of estoppel in pais by misrepresentation "received in England its distinctive enunciation and form with the leading case of Pickard v. Sears. (7) a case which bears much the same relation to this part of the law of estoppel, as that of the Duchess of Kingston (8) does to estoppel by record. The doctine had indeed been foreshadowed and applied in a few of the earlier cases (9) but Pickard v. Sears was the case in which the doctrine of the Court of Chancery was finally adopted. "(10) "Prior to the passing of this Act in 1872, the doctrine of estoppel by representation was enunciated in various forms by the Indian C. ""(11) Since the control of the court of the court hostile to its technicality.''(11) Since en interpreted by many Indian decihe notes thereto. The Privy Council ted by section 115, in which is to be regarded estopped by misrepresentation.

that da

sions w

The boundary line between estoppel and breach of contract is often apt to be obscured, but must not be confounded. For one and the same false state-

(1) Akbar Husain v Alia Bibi, 25 A., 137 (1902). (2) Gunindra Prosad v. Baijnath Singh, 31 C.

370 (1903).
(3) Tara Lal v. Sarobar Singh, 4 C. W. N., 533 (1899)

(4) Gurulingasu ams v Kamalak-hmamma, 18 M, 58 (1894).

M , 58 (1894).
(5) Timmana v. Putobhata, 2 Bom L R , 90

(1890).

(6) Turrdu w Poorno Chunder, S. W. R., 129

(1867); Crea Rus v. Jenam. Rus, 2 Mad. H. C.

R., 31 (1864); Mellod Ethiete, P. Rusa, 9 Bond.

H. C. R., 65 (1872). See Caspers, op. cit., Ch.

XI, where the subject is diverseed, the conclusiveness or otherwise of such admissions being traveled as referable to the general rule of estopped by conduct, which is explained in the notes herein in to s. 115, post. As to estopped by pending, in to s. 115, post. As for estopped by Pending, 12 B.

L. R., 274, 276 (1873); Lechena Chunder v.

Koli Chura, 19 W. R., 292, 297 (1873). (7) 6 A. & E., 469 (1837). ["But the rule of law is clear that where one by his words or conduct midnily cause sunders to believe the centrace of a certain state of things, and induces him to act on that belief so at to after his own persons position, the former is concluded from averring against the latter a different state of things as evisting at the same time," per Lord Demann, C. J.; It will be observed from the remarks in the text that the cases anterior to 1837 will be of intle practical assistance on this branch of the law. The principle was stated more broadly by Lord Demann in Grope v. Fells, 10 A & E. p. 30, 97 (1839), both cases were followed by Freenan v. Cook, 2 E. R. p. 654 (1848)

(8) y ante, s. 40.
(9) Heans v. Rogers, 9 B & C., 577, 586 (1829), Graves v Key, 3 B & Ad, 318 n (1832). See remarks of Etle, C. J., in Bhite v. Greenish, 11

C. B. N. S , 229 (1861) (10) Bigelow, op cil , 538

(11) Caspersz, op. cit., 41, 42.

(12) L. R., 19 I. A , 403 , 206 (1892)

755 ESTOPPEL.

ment may well be a deceit and a breach of contract and capable of operating by estoppel. These possible qualities of a false representation are not mutually exclusive.(1) A false representation must operate in one of four ways if it is to produce any legal consequences: (a) It may be a term in a contract in which case its falsity will, according to circumstances, either render the contract voidable, or render the person making the representation liable either to damages or to a decree, that he or his representatives shall give effect to the representation. The common case of a warranty is an instance of a representation forming part of a contract. (b) It may operate as an estoppel preventing the person making the representation from denying its truth, as against persons whose conduct has been influenced by it. (c) It may afford a cause of action in tort for deceit. (d) It may amount to a criminal offence. A false pretence by which money is obtained is an instance of a representation amounting to a crime.(2) In the first and third instances the representation gives rise to a of evidence which precludes previously made by himself or the conventional statement of facts upon the basis of which an agreement has been entered into An action cannot be founded upon an estoppel which is only important as being one step in the progress towards relief on the hypothesis that the defendant is estopped from denying the truth of something which he has said. One party is assisted to relief owing to his opponent being estopped from denying the truth of something which he has said or done ce, and by preventing either act alleged, becomes effective or by annihilating and destroying it. Estoppel is effective where an action must succeed or fail if the defendant or plaintiff is prevented from disputing a particular fact alleged; for example, if an assign of A sues A's trustee to recover the fund assigned, and the trustee is prevented from denying its existence in his hands. Or, in the converse case, an estoppel may be a defence, as if a joint stock company were to sue a share-holder for calls and they were estopped from denying that the shares were paid up, their action would fail (3)

Referring again to the classification of estoppels under English and American law, it will be observed that the only classes to which the Act expressly or impliedly refers, are the estoppel by record or judgment (sections 40-44), and the estoppel in pais in its modern forms of estoppel by conduct and agreement or contract (sections 115-117). These latter sections do not enact anything different from the law of England on their subject-matter,(4) and moreover, are not, as already observed, exhaustive of the law of estoppel.(5) It is not here possible to enumerate all the cases in which effect has been given to estoppels in English Courts, nor to minutely classify a branch of the law which is not only of recent but of actual present growth As cases of difficulty from time to time arise for determination, recourse must be had to the large body of decisions which exists on this subject in England and America, as also in this country, some of which will be found collected in the notes to the following sections

<sup>(1)</sup> Pollock on Contract, 6th Ed., 505-506 (2) See Alderson v Maddison, L. R., 5 Exch

<sup>1), 293, 296;</sup> a representation which influences the conduct of a person to whom it is made is not legally enforceable against the person who makes it unless it operates either as a contract or as an estoppel.

<sup>(3)</sup> Low v. Bouverse, L. R., 3 Ch , 82 (1891), see Caspersz, op. cit , 4, 28-30.

<sup>(4)</sup> See Sarat Chunder v Gopal Chunder, 19 I. A , 203 , 20 C , 296 (1902) , the Indian leading case on the subject of Estoppel <sup>(5)</sup> Gangen Manufacturing Co. v. Sourusmull. 5 C., 669 (1880), Rup Chand v. Sarberwar Chandra, 10 C W N , 747 (1906) , s. c., 3 C. L. J., 629, but see Asmalunessa Khalun v. Harendra Lall Bismas (1908), 35 C., 904.

Estoppel

115. When one person has, by his declaration, act or omission, intentionally caused or permitted another person to believe a thing to be true and to act upon such belief, noither he nor his representative shall be allowed, in any suit or proceeding between himself and such person or his representative, to deny the truth of that thins.

Illustration.

A intentionally and falsely leads B to believe that certain land belongs to A, and thereby induces B to buy and pay for it.

The land afterwards becomes the property of A, and A seeks to set aside the sale on the ground that, at the time of the sale, he had no title. He must not be allowed to prove his want of title.(1)

Principle—The principle upon which the rule of estoppel rests is that it would be most inequitable and unjust that if one person, by a representation made, or by conduct amounting to a representation, has induced another to act as he would not otherwise have done, the person who made the representation should be allowed to deny or repudiate the effect of his former statement, to the loss and injury of the person who acted on it.(2)

38. 116, 117 (Estoppel of tenant, licensee, acceptor, bailee).

Bigelow's Treatise on the Law of Estoppel, 5th Ed., 1890; Everest and Strode's Law of Estoppel (1884); Cababe, Principles of Estoppel (1888); Estoppel by representation and Res Judicata in British India, by A. Caspersz, 2nd Ed. (1896). See also general text-books on Evidence sub voc. "Estoppel."

COMMENTARY.

Scope of the section

A general classification of estoppels and a short account of their position in the law of evidence has been given in the Introduction to this Chapter, to which reference should, if necessary, be made. In dealing with this and the ot exhaustive evidence ;(3) ections enact he subject of estoppel. Cases of estoppel may therefore arise which are not within the purview of these sections at all, and those which are within such purview will (in the absence of an authoritative ruling of the Courts of this country) be determinable upon the principles which regulate English Courts, and which are to be found embodied in English decisions, (5)

Stack, 20 W. B., 291 (1873).

<sup>(1)</sup> See Roday Lel v Mohod Praesil, 7 A., 804 (1853). Act IV of 1852, 4 3, and case cited post in notes to paragraph "Declaration, Act. Oncasion". When a person having a limited unterest, namely, a sub-leave, granted a perfectal lease and afterwards equired the proprietary right, he was holl estopped from disputing the perpetual lease. Kwn Chasti v. Jank. Persol., IX.W., P. Rep., 1855. See Syd Amster v. Hera.

<sup>(2)</sup> Sarat Chunder v. Gopal Chunder, 19 1. A., 203, 215, 216 (1892); see Citizen Bank v. First National Bank, 1. R., 6 E. & I. A., 352, 360.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ganger Manufacturing Co v. Sourujmull, 5 C, 669 (1880); v. ante, p. 750

<sup>(4)</sup> Sarel Chander v. Goyal Chander, 191. A. 2010, 216 (1892); a. e. 20 C., 296 ["The Learned Counsel who argued the present case on either side were agreed that the terms of the Indian Evidence Act and not senece a law in India anything different from the law in England on the subject of extoppel, and their Lordships enturely adopt that view."]

<sup>(5)</sup> American decisions, though not of course of authority, may, in so far as American law's founded upon English law, also be referred to as

This section deals with estoppels by "representation," or "misrepresentation," that term including both express and implied statements. It may be described as estoppel by "misrepresentation," for though in strict legal theory the proposition that the representation must be untrue is probably not essential, and the person is none the less bound to admit a fact because it is true; still in practice the doctrine only obtains legal significance when there has been a misleading, or in other words when the admission exacted from .1, by reason of his conduct, is of facts which are not capable of actual proof.(1) It is not necessary that there should be an express statement; whatever word, action, or conduct conveys a clear impression as of a fact is embraced in the term. Indeed the term practically includes silence in certain cases, for silence where one is bound to speak is ordinarily equivalent to an admission of the fact. (2) And so the section speaks not only of declarations but also of acts and omissions. As it is immaterial in what form the representation is made, so it be a representation, so also is it immaterial to know what the motive or the state of knowledge is of the party making the representation. The main determining element in every case is not the motive or the state of knowledge of the party estopped, but the effect of his representation or conduct as having induced another to act on the faith of such representation or conduct (3) The principle upon which the rule rests is that the situation of the one party having been changed by the representation, the person who made the latter shall not be per-causing or permitting belief in another, (b) there must have been belief on the part of that other; and (c) there must have been action arising out of that belief. When these facts are shown, an estoppel arises which consists in holding for truth the representation acted upon when the person who made it or his privies seek to deny its truth and to deprive the party who has acted upon it of the benefit obtained (6). Assuming that all the conditions necessary to effect an estoppel are not fulfilled, a representation may still operate as an admission—that is, a statement which suggests any inference as to any fact in issue or relevant fact and may be evidence, though not conclusive, against the party who has made it.(7) The doctrine of estoppel cannot be applied to an Act of the Legislature, and it is not competent to parties to a contract to estop themselves or anybody else in the face of such an Act. So in the face of a clear legislature enactment like the fourth section of the Indian Companes Act, the

—(a) ional

with the object or result of altering the law of the land. The law for instance imposes fetters upon the capacity of certain persons to incur legal obligations and particularly upon their contractual capacity. It invalidates and renders aids to determination upon this or other ques-

<sup>(1)</sup> Cababe's Estoppel, 60.

<sup>(2)</sup> Bigelow, op cit, 570. Carr \ London Ry. Co., L. R., 10 C. P., 307, 316, 317

<sup>(3)</sup> Sarat Chunder v. Gopal Chunder, 19 1. A, 2017, 215 (1892). As to mistake of law, see Kurerys v. Babai, 19 B, 374 (1891), and mistake of fact, Nathubbai v. Mulchand, 3 Bom. L. R, 535 (1901). Illean Dan v. Durga Das Mundal, 4 C. L. J., 323

<sup>(4)</sup> Sarat Chunder v Gopal Chunder, supra: Bigelow, op cit, 453; Citizen Bank v. First

National Bank, L R , 6 E & I A., 352, 360

<sup>(5)</sup> In Bahadur Singh v Mohur Singh, 24 A., 94, 107 (1901), the Privy Council held that there was no evidence of any representation on which to found an estoppe!

<sup>(6)</sup> Bigelow, op. cit., 557.
(7) v. ante, sv. 17—23, 31 See Iashvant
Pattu v Rodhabhai, 14 B, 312 (1889), Pandit
Hanuman v Mufti Assadullah, 7 N.-W P, 145

<sup>(8)</sup> Madras Hindu Mutual Fund v. Raques Chetti, 19 M., 240, 207, 208 (1895), see Jogini Mohan v. Bhoot Nath, 31 C., 146 (1903)

null and void certain transactions, on the ground that they are illegal. It attaches certain incidents to property, as, for instance, by prescribing the mode in which it shall be transferred. This general law is in no way altered by the doctrine of estoppel. It is not allowed to enlarge the status or capacity of parties, nor to be a cloak for illegality: not to alter the incidents of property. The admission exacted must always be of something which can legally be done by the party from whom it is exacted (1) Estoppel, like acquiescence, is not a question of fact but of legal inference from the facts found. (2)

But in a recent English case it has been held that a man may be estopped from alleging a legal incapacity; for a foreigner or British subject domiciled abroad who, being in England, contracts in due form according to the laws of England a marriage with a person domiciled in England, is not permitted to assert that he was under the burden of an incapacity imposed by the law of the foreign domicile to do that which he, in fact, did voluntarily and in due form according to the laws of England, and he cannot repudiate the marriage on the ground of such personal incapacity, (3)

One person

A party may himself make the representation, or it may be made by him through the agency of some other person by whose acts he is bound. In the first case there is no difficulty except when the representation is made by persons under a disability to contract (4)

It has been held by the Bombay High Court(5) that an infant is not excepted by the terms of this section, and by the Calcutta High Court (Maclean, C. J., and Prinsep, J.) (6) that the term "person" in this section is amply satisfied by holding it to apply to one who is of full age and competent to contract, and that this section has no application to the case of a minor. The induced of America Maria Links are accompanied on the ground not that se of a minor at

fs. 115.7

upon a contract or in respect of a fraud in connection with a contract, he cannot be made hable upon the same contract by means of an estoppel under this section; in other words, that, as already stated, the general law cannot be altered by estoppel (7) Upon an appeal in the latter case to the Privy Council their Lordships said: "The Courts below seem to have decided that this section does not apply to infants; but their lordships do not think it necessary to deal with that question now." (8) It may be that the judgments of the majority of the High Court should be read as applicable simply to cases such as that which was before it, but if not, it is respectfully submitted in this, as it was in the earlier editions of this work, that the broad assertion that the doctrine of estoppel in pass has no application whatever to lindants, is incorrect (9) The position would appear to be this, that the law relating to estoppel must be read together with and subject to, other laws in force, such as those relating to center of the position would appear to be this, that the law relating to estoppel must be read together with and subject to, other laws in force, such as those relating to center.

<sup>(1)</sup> Cababe's Estoppel, 123, 124

<sup>(2)</sup> Narsing Das v. Rahimanhhai, G Bom L. R., 440 (1904): s. c., 28 B., 440 "The question of estoppel is a mixed question of law and fact." Nogindas Harjiiandas v. Kara Jesang. 6 Bom. L. R., 603 (1904)

<sup>(3)</sup> Chette v. Chette, 1909, P. 67, Law Quarterly Review, April 1909, p. 202.

<sup>(4)</sup> See Bigelow, op cit, 699—1917, where the question of the estopped of parties under disability is discussed. A man cannot set up the incapacity of the party with whom he has centracted in lar of an action by that party for breach of the contract. Legal disability as a g, in the case of an infant has defence personal to him who is under it and cannot be made use of by another.

Bigelow, op est , 465. (5) Ganesh Lala v. Bapu, 21 B , 198 (1895)

<sup>(6)</sup> Brokmo Dutt v. Dhurmodass Ghosh, 26 C., 398 (1898): [dissenting from Ganrah Lala v. Bapu, 21 B., 198 (1895)]

<sup>(7) 26</sup> C., at p. 394. (8) Mohun Bibee v. Dhurmodas Chose, 30 C.,

 <sup>539, 545 (1993); 7</sup> C. W. N., 441; 5 Fom L. R., 421 [referred to with reference to s. 41 of the Specific Relat Act in Dattaram v. Vinoyal, 23 B., 181 (1993).

<sup>(9)</sup> See Bigelow, op cd., 599-607, where the question of the estoppel of parties under disability is discussed, 9 C. W. N., clay, cexyin.

tract and transfer of property, and that where such laws declare an infant to be free of liability in respect of a particular transaction, he cannot be made liable by virtue of an estoppel, for an estoppel cannot alter the law, but that in other cases an infant may be estopped. An infant is not liable upon a contract nor for a wrong arising out of, or immediately connected with his contract, such as a fraudulent representation at the time of making the contract that he is of full age (1) A person under disability cannot do by an act in pair what he cannot do by deed.(2) He cannot by his own act enlarge his legal capacity to contract or to convey. He cannot be made liable upon a contract by means of an estoppel under this section, if it be elsewhere declared that he shall not be liable upon a contract. To say that by acts in pais that could be done in effect which could not be done by deed would be practically to dispense with all the limitations the law has imposed on the capacity to contract.(3) So if a person sue in infant upon a contract, such contract having been entered into on the faith of a representation by the infant that he was of full age, the infant will not be estopped from pleading his minority in answer to a claim to fix him with personal liability to a money-decree notwithstanding his fraudulent representation (4) But though this section may not apply, the Court may, in other cases, acting on well-recognised principles of equity, relieve against an infant's fraud An infant will not be permitted to take advantage of his own fraud, and he will be estopped in answer to such equity from pleading his minority.(5) Though a decree for personal payment on the contract, express or implied in a mortgage, cannot be made against an infant, however fraudulent he might be, the hability of a fraudulent infant to a decree for sale or foreclosure is, it has been held, a different thing. So where an infant by fraudulent misrepresentation as to his age, induced the plaintiff to advance him money on the security of a mortgage, it was held that the plaintiff was entitled to a mortgage-decree for the amount to be realised only from the mortgaged property (6) recent case, where an infant by nusrepresenting his age obtained a loan on the security of a promissory note, it was held that he was hable in equity on the note, since there w

But proof of frauc the power of the lent minor of the benefits flowing from the plea of infancy; one who invokes the aid of that power mustcome to the Court with clean hands, and must further establish that a fraud was practised on him by the minor and that he was deceived into action by that fraud (8) This section does not apply to a case where the statement rehed upon is made to a person who knows the real facts and is not misled by the untrue statement. There can be no estopped where <sup>(1)</sup> Pallock on Contract, 6th Ed., 52, 72, and cases there etcl. It is clear that an action, cannot be maintained on a contract made with an initiant for falsely representing himself to be of age at the time, the representation in such case not operating as an extenpel, Bigelow, op. cd., 605, Johnson v. Pys. Sat., 258. Burdiet v. Walls, 1. B. & S. Sat. The Liverpool Addight Loan Association v. Furtherly, Ex., 422 (1843). See as to infants, statement of account, Hedging v. Holl, 4. C. R. P. 104. and disproof of allegation that goods supplied were necessaries. Darnes & Co. v. Topy, 13 Q. B. D., 409. Byder v. Wombrell, L. R. J. Ex., 190, dissented from L. R. J. Ex., 20, dissented from

<sup>(2)</sup> Brohmo Dutt v Dhurmodass Ghosh, 26 C, 388, 394 (1898).

<sup>(3)</sup> Bigelow, op cit., 600

<sup>(4)</sup> Dhanmul v Ramchunder Ghose, 1 C. W. N. 270 (1890), and cases there cited, s. c., 24 C. , 205 Evplained in Sreemuly Mohun Dibi v. Sarat Chunder, 2 C. W. N., 18 (1897)

<sup>(5)</sup> Cory v. Gericken, 2 Madd 50. See Sreemutty Mohan v. Sarat Chunder, 2 C W N, 18, 26, 27 (1897), and cases there cited

<sup>(6)</sup> Secentity Mohun v Sorat Chunder, 2 C W N, 18 (1897), m appeal, 25 C, 371. In Thurston v. Nottingham Permanent Benefit Building Society, 1 Ch. (1902), at p. 12, it was pointed out that no question of fraud arone in that caseappeal to House of Lords (1903). A. C., 6.

<sup>(7)</sup> Leiene v Browsham (1903), Times L. P. v 24, p 46

<sup>(8)</sup> Dhurmodass Ohnsh v Brahmo Dutt, 2 C. W. N., 330 (1998) . a. c., 26 C., 381; and by Privy Council, 30 C., 539 (1902)

the truth of the matter is known to both parties. A false representation made to a person who knows it to be false is not such a fraud as to take away the privilege of infancy.(1)

An infant is liable for a tort committed by lim. And when an infant has induced persons to deal with him by falsely representing himself as of full age, he incurs an obligation in equity to restore any advantage he has obtained by such representations to a person from whom he has obtained it (2) In cases of fraud separate from contract, a person under disability may estop himself to deny the truth of his representation.(3) So if an infant, having a right to an estate, permuts or encourages a purchaser to buy it of another without asserting any claim to it, the purchaser will be entitled to hold against the person who has the right although covert or under age (4) As regards suits by a minor, it was held in the undermentioned case(5) that a minor who, representing himself to be a major and competent to manage his own affairs, collects rent and gives receipt therefor, is estopped by his conduct from recovering again the money once paid to lum by instituting a suit through his guardian.

The principle of estoppel by conduct applies to corporations(6) as well as to individuals, with this qualification, that if the act undertaken was in and of itself ultra vices(7) of the corporation, no act of the body can have the effect of estopping it from alleging its want of power to do what was undertaken. Just, as according to previous observation, an infant cannot by his act in pais create in the face of an Act regulating his position, a contractual hability, so the powers of the ordinary corporation being dependent upon the Statute which created the body, those powers cannot be enlarged by the body itself; and the act in question being in itself ultra vires, the corporation cannot make it otherwise, whether directly or indirectly.

In the case of corporations, particularly joint-stock companies, the application of the rule sometimes gives rise to difficulty, but such difficulty is met by bearing in mind the distinction between those things which the company can

<sup>(1)</sup> Mohori Bibee v. Dhurmodass Ghose, 30 C., 539 (1903).

<sup>(2)</sup> Ser Pollock on Contract, 6th Ed., 73, 78, and cases there cited in particular, Stiteman v Davron, I Bec. & Sm., 90, Jagoranth Singh v. Lalta Prased (1998), 31 A. 21 C. see also Dhammul v. Ramchunder Ghove, supra. Whatton, Ev., $1151.

<sup>(3)</sup> Bigelou, op cit., 606

<sup>(4)</sup> See Naiogi v. Poster, L. C., in Equity, Watter v. Crewell, 9 Vin, 415. [17] in minut is old and cunning enough to contrive and early as old and cunning enough to nake satisfaction for it," per Lord Corpert, and case order on Grey v. Oreica, 2 Mail. 40, 48—51. Sapden Vendors, 743, 14th Ed. Dicelow, op. or. (40, 60, 60, 60, 743, 14th Ed. Dicelow, op. or. (40, 60, 60, 60, 60), or and always depend upon the existence of a right of action for dicett; for while there may be an extoppel without this right of action in some cases, the extoppel always arises where the action of decent would be mantamable, b. (60).

<sup>(5)</sup> Ram Ratun v. Shew Nandan, 29 C., 126 (1901).

<sup>(6)</sup> See on this subject, Bigelow, op. cu., 461— 470, and cases there cited (and see Index, 16); (happersz, op. cu., 187—208, and cases there cited, where the subject will be found dealt with (a) as to membership and retirement ; (b) as to the register; (c) as to the issuing of certificates of share, (d) as to debentures irregularly psued; (c) estoppel by issue of pard-up shares, (f) negligence on the part of members of a company (g) effect of the company's real [see Goodrich v. Гепкаппа, 2 М., 195 (1878)]. Estoppels against corporations being of infrequent occurrence in this country, it has not been here thought necessary to deal with this important subject at length The Indian cases are scanty. But as the Indian Companies Act (VI of 1882). reproduces the English Act, 25 and 26 Vic , c 88; 30 and 31 Vic. c , 131 . 40 and 41 Vic , c. 261, reference may and should be made to the English, case-lan, and the text books on the subject of the law relating to corporations. In two recent cases it was held that the entoppel was not established , Retell-Carnac v New Molused Co , 20 B, 54 (1901) [Sale of shares-voucher by company of title of sendor-pures receipt issued by Company.] Sree Mahant v. Combatore Spinning Co , 26 M , 79 (1902) [application for rectification of register.]

(7) Fairtille v. Gilberi, 2 T. R., 169; Ex-parto B atson, L. R., 21 Q. B. D., 301; Earnos's Cost.

do, it it goes the proper way to work to do them, and those things which by 'iture of its constitution the company can under no circumstances do at all (1). There may be an estoppel against the Crown (2). Apart from agency, the representation of one person may be binding on another, if both are to be regarded in the light of one person. So it has been held in America that the acts and admissions of one of several administrators which amount to an estoppel against him, will work an estoppel against all, it being said that where there are several administrators or executors they must be regarded in the light of an individual person.(3)

Secondly, a party may be estopped by reason of the representation of some person by whose acts he is bound. The rule of estopped between parties covers, of course, the misrepresentations of agents, even agents of corporations, when made in the scope of their employ. When an agency really exists, the principal is estopped to deny the truth of the agent's statements, express or tacit, just as much as if he himself had made them, subject to the same limitations that would prevail in that case. But an agent or a servant is not lumself estopped when acting by direction of his principal, unless his own conduct was such as to estop him (4). Where an agent or servant commits a wrong within the scope of his employment and in the interests or the supposed interests of the principal or master and not for his own private and fraudulent purposes, the principal or master is hable; but only then, (5). But it has been held that the commission of a crime by a servant severed the connection (6).

An estoppel against a principal is dealt with by section 237 of the Contract Act, which enacts that when an agent has, without authority, done acts or intter is bound induced such the scope of the agent's authority. In such cases there is an estoppel (7) In the undermentioned case, the right of a third party against the principal on the contract of his agent, though made in excess of the agent's actual authority, was nevertheless enforced where the evidence showed that the contracting party had been led into an honest belef in the existence of the authority to the extent apparent to him.(8) There may also arise estoppels against agents in favour of their

L. R., 14 Ch. D., 441 - ["there can be no estoppe! in the face of an Act of Parliament" Per Bacon, V. C.] Birelow, op. cit., 467.

<sup>(1)</sup> Cababe's Estoppel, 125, 126

<sup>(2)</sup> Toolsemony Dosset v. Marm Margery, 11 B. I. R., 144 (1873) In re Purmananda. Jeercandas, 7 B., 109, 117 (1892), see this question of Estoppel against the State discussed Bigelow, op. cit. 508, note (2), 406, 561

<sup>(3)</sup> Bigelou, op cit 599 but see also p 223, ante, note (4)

<sup>(4)</sup> Baylov, op. et., 233, as to agents of corporation, see Bouldarouth V. Gly of Glaspor Doration, see Bouldarouth V. Gly of Glaspor Bask, L. R., 5 App. Ca., 231. As to the authority of agents, etc. Context. 4ct., s. 186, 187, 188, 189, 189, 189, 189, 189, as wife a representations will not affect the bouldard etcher and missions or estopped, unless challenges of the constituted by the agent. The more relation creates on agency (i. ada, p. 127, Byg. bw, op. cf., 269, see (2)). There must be a real square. Thus a wide as not except by an administrator, as estimated in the rabbence by an administrator, in seeling land of the intestate, that is a free from a seeling land of the intestate, that is a free from ciaims of dower (b) As to embagents, or Contract Act, ss. 170–195 ratification, b), ss. 196–200, revocation of authority b, ss. 201–210, effect of spency on contracts with third person, scope of authority, b), 226–238 effect of misrepresentation or fraud of agent, b, s. 238

<sup>(5)</sup> Malcolm Brunler & Co & Waterhouse and sons, 1908, Times L. R. V 24 p 855

<sup>(6)</sup> Cheshire , Bailey (1905) 1 K B , 237

<sup>(7)</sup> See Bonadea v. Dyson, 1 E. & I. A., 1.2v, 188, and other cases stell on Kappers, pp. et a., 1956—196 and Baylon, ep. et a., 437, 48° 863, 566, where the distinction between sencery props rand cotopps.) is pointed out. A pressu assuming to act in a contract as principal with after sands is extrapped from assing that he was in fert acting outles angent, is. 85° Longout V. V.Z.M., 38° 111, 490 (Amer.) As to the effect of misripute with the action of the contract acts, a. 228° 111.

<sup>(8)</sup> Ram Pertab v. Marshall, 26 C., 701 (1898).

principals or of third parties (1) Two cases of estopped in the case of partners (a branch of the law of principal and agent (2) have been dealt with in sections 245, 246 of Contract Act. When a man holds himself out as a partner, or allows others to use his name, he is estopped from denying his assumed character, upon the faith of which creditors may be presumed to have acted, and becomes a partner by estopped (3) The misrepresentation of a trustee in respect of the trust-estate to one having notice that it is such, will not work as estopped upon an innocent estain-quefus.(4)

If a trustee takes upon himself to answer the inquiries of a stranger about to deal with the cestuis-oue-trust, he is not under any legal obligation to do more than to give honest answers to the test of his actual knowledge and belief; he is not bound to make inquiries himself: Provided he answers honestly, he incurs no liability to the enquirer, unless he binds himself by a statement amounting to a warranty or so expresses himself as to be estopped from afterwards denving the truth of what he has said (5). The estoppel against a trustee in favour of a cestui-que-trust has been likened to that between landlerd and tenant. Trustees cannot set up, as against their cestuis-que-trust, the adverse title of third parties. "It is a common principle of law that a tenant who has paid rent to his landlord cannot say 'you are not the owner of the property;' the fact of having paid rent prevents his doing it. The same thing occurs where persons are made trustees for the owner of property; if they acknowledge the trust for a considerable time, they cannot say that any other persons are their costuis-que-trust, or 'we will turn you out of the property.' This is an analogous case."(6) A creditor does not lose his right to see the executors, and to recover from them, by mere leckes. But if the creditor misleads the executors so that they are thereby induced to part with the assets in a manner which would be a decretarit, then the creditor cannot complain of the devistarit.(7) So if a cestui-que-trust concur in a breach of trust, he is estopped from proceeding against the trustee for the consequences of the act, and a fortieri a cestui-que-trust who is also a trustee cannot hold his co-trustee responsible for any act in which they both joined.(5) A trustee, alleging that the trust-property, consisting of land, was his own property, mortgaged it. The mortgagee took the mortgage in good faith, for valuable consideration. and without notice of the trust. The mortgagee obtained a decree against the trustee for the sale of the land, and the land was sold in execution of that decree. The trustee subsequently brought a suit to recover the land from the purchaser on the ground that it was trust-property, and that he had no power to transfer it. To this suit none of the beneficiaries under the trust were parties (9) Held that the plaintiff was estopped by his conduct from

So cases each in Oursers, ep. 62., 156—
 160.

<sup>(2)</sup> Charles Chara v. Edvine Commin. S.C., 674, 684 (1842).

<sup>(3)</sup> E for Mont v. Court Work, L. E., 4 P. C. 419, 431; or Lodley's Pattershy, its E!, 44–47; P. Davk's Pattership, 25–29; Captern, ep. etc., 162–166; Parlow, ep. etc., Sci., 55, as to culture mechany to etchic La Lip as patter by entoppel on Perov. Incl., 10 C. W. N., 312.

<sup>(4)</sup> Bordon, op. cd., 500, 500; Keste v. Pidlips, 18 Ch. D., 560, 577; as to the enterpt archit a trustee, see Necessie v. Floren, 20 Boart, 401, 470.

<sup>(5)</sup> Low v. Bustone, L. R., 3 Ch. (1891), Sc; Emerger v. Lock, 10 Vec, 470.

(f) Necome v. Flower, 20 Fear, 481, 430, pp. Str. John Bowlly, M. E., nor can be accert account the tract vary the (parameter test always to the tract) which be may know Parer. Attractogramal v. Neson, 2 Peof. 2 Stn. 181, 163. A tracte may not set up any this always to that of the consideration. Earlow, Escapel, 345. Act Hol Book, a 14.

(i) he re Perk, L. R., 27 Ct. D., 622 Ct., (ii) here, Trada, 8th Ed., 918; are Confident England L. R. and 1867 1865 Act 11 of

v. He-les, L. E., 3 Ch. (1992), 105; Art II of 1992, 88, 23, 62, 68.
[9] The Court observed: "We make no remark with recard to the beneficiars's under the trust, as they, having made no effect to figure in the rait, do not appear to be interesting themselves in the matter.

recovering possession of the land.(1) It may well be, that a succeeding trustee should not be allowed to impeach a former trustee's act when it is one of that character, without its following, as a logical consequence, that where the trustee avowedly acts in breach for repudiation of the trust such act should be binding by estoppel upon his successors in the trust (2) In the undermentioned case the plaintiff was held bound by the conduct of his father, even though technically he succeeded as reversioner in his own right.(3) As to the estoppels of tenants, licensees, bailees and acceptors of bills of exchange, see sections 116 and 117, post, and notes thereto.

As already observed the form of the representation is immaterial. The Declaration. representation may be express or implied; for whatever word, action or con-ston duct conveys a clear impression as of a fact is embraced in that term. There is no necessity for an express verbal statement or indeed any verbal statement whatsoever. An act may involve and amount to a distinct declaration which will found an estoppel. So if a man take an active part in carrying out a mortgage on behalf of another, as by signing the deed and receiving the consideration-money, his acts may amount to a declaration of the validity of the mortgage as against any claim of his own, and his acting as the attorney of that other in the matter of the mortgage may amount to a declaration that that other is the owner in possession of the property covered thereby (4) So also a mere omission may involve a representation. Thus silence where one is bound to speak is ordinarily equivalent to an admission of the fact (5) So if a person stands by and allows another to advance or expend money on property on which he has a charge or encumbrance, he may be estopped by his conduct of acquiescence (6) A duty to speak, which is the ground of liability, arises only where silence can ' property, that of misleading (7) And condu ere there is a duty to But whatever the form disclose the truth, may in which the representation be made, it must, in order to justify a prudent man in acting upon it, be not doubtful, or matter of questionable inference, certainty being an essential of all estoppels, which must be clear and unambiguous (9) This does not mean that either the language or the conduct must be such that it

<sup>(1)</sup> Gulzar Alı v. Feda Alı, 6 A., 24 (1883) (2) Shri Ganesh v Aeshairaw Gound, 15 B . 825, 636, 637 (1890).

<sup>(3)</sup> Vinayek v Govind, 2 Bom. L R , 820

<sup>(4)</sup> Sarat Chunder v Gopal Chunder, 19 I A, 203, 212, 213. See also for similar cases Achil Kristo v Ram Coomar, 9 W R , 571 (1868) Sia Dass v Gur Sahas, 3 A , 362 (1980), Ram Chunder v. Hars Das, 9 C , 463 (1882) , Ras Seeta v Kishun Dass, H C R , N -W P , 1868 p. 402 , Salamai Als v Budh Singh, 1 A , 303 (1876), and see Kanshs Ram v. Badda (1906), 23 P L R.

<sup>(5)</sup> Bigelow, op cit , 571, 583, 584 et seq (6) Ramsden v Dyson, L R, IE & I, App.

<sup>129, 140 ,</sup> Exparte Ford, L R , 1 Ch D , 521. 528, Nundo Kumar v Bonomals Gayan, 29 C. 871 (1902) [Assuming that quiescence amounts to a representation, it must be found that it was intended that a party should believe or act upon it or that in point of fact they did act upon it 1

<sup>(7)</sup> Freeman v Cooke, 2 Ex , 654 , v post Besides fraud there may be an estoppel by negligence and by circumstances, l'isayek : Gorind.

<sup>2</sup> Bom. L R , 820, 829, 830 (1900) And see as to neabscence Longman v Bath Electric Tramtrays, 1 Ch., (1905), 646, 663

<sup>(8)</sup> Joy Chandra Bundozadhua Srinath v Chattapadhya, 32 Cal 357, 1 C L. J 23

<sup>(9)</sup> Rans Meua v Rans Hulas 13 B L R , 312 (1874), 1 I A , 161 , (the nature of an estoppel being to exclude an inquiry by evidence into the truth, those who rely upon a statement as an estoppel must clearly establish that it does amount to that which they assert), Rivett Carnac v. New Motural Co . 26 B . 75 (1901) . s. c . 3 Bom L R , 846 [certainly is essential to all estoppels], Co Litt , 352, b [Every estoppel because it conclude th the man to acknowledge the truth must be certain to overy intent, and not to be taken by argument or inference], Low v. Bourerse, L. R., 1891, 3 Ch., 106, 113, Freeman v Cooke, supra , Heath v Crealock, L R , 10 Ch , 22 , Bigelow, op est , 578 An estoppel to have any judicial value must be clearand non-ambiguous, it must also be free, voluntary and without any artifice, Mours v. National Bank, 2 Bom. L. R., 1041 (1900) When an estoppel is pleaded sgamst a party, the facts relied upon as leading

ſ

cannot possibly be open to different constructions, but only that it must be such as will be reasonably understood in a particular sense by the person to whom it is addressed (1)' On the other hand, a plain representation cannot be cut down from its natural and proper import in the particular situation or transaction. This import may be technical and peculiar, or popular according to the business concerned, modified, of course, by any actual understanding of both parties A person who has made a representation cannot escape the consequences by showing that in a literal sense it is true, if in its natural sense it is untrue. A half-truth too, is generally a whole lie in effect; if the part suppressed would make the part stated false, there is a false representation, that is, the representation is taken to consist of the part stated and a denial of anything to the contrary (2) This assumes, of course, that the stated part is a clear, positive statement of fact. Thus a representation that shares of stock are "paid up" must reasonably be understood, and so must be held to mean that they are paid up in cash (3) In like manner, however definite the representation, it cannot be enlarged or acted upon otherwise than according to its terms or natural import and clear meaning; and the whole representation (as is indeed the rule with regard to all admissions (4) must be taken together. One part, though sufficient alone to create an estoppel, cannot be separated from another part connected with it, which takes away its effect, though only by making the other part uncertain.(5) The section does not apply to a case in which a belief otherwise caused has been only allowed to continue by reason of any omission on the part of the person against whom the estoppel is sought to be raised (6) The representation must be of a nature to lead naturally, that is, to lead a man of prudence to the action taken, hence it must be of fact and material, having reference to a present or past state of things Representations of law, opinion, or intention are generally insufficient (7) The reason of the doctrine of estoppel wholly fails when the representation relates only to a present intention or purpose of a party, because being in its nature uncertain and liable to change, it could not properly form a basis or inducement upon which a party could reasonably adopt any fixed and permanent course of action.(8) A promise de future cannot be an estoppel (9)

But if a man, under a verbal agreement with a landlord for a certain interest in land, or under an expectation created and encouraged by the landlord that he shall have a certain interest, takes possession of such land with the consent of the landlord, and upon the faith of such promise or expectation, with the knowledge of the landlord and without objection by him, lays out money upon the land, a Court of Equity will compel the landlord to give effect to such pro-The Crown too comes within the range of this equity. mise or expectation.

to it should be precise and unambiguous. Aba v. Sonahai, 3 Bom. L. R., 832 (1901). Caranan v, Nilo, 6 Bom L. R. 864, 867 (1904).

(1) Low v. Bourerie, supra, at p 106; "If a party uses language which, in the ordinary course of business and the general sense in which words are understood, conveys a certain meaning, be cannot afterwards say he is not bound, if another so understanding it has acted upon it." Cornish v. Abington, 4 H. & N., 549, 555, per Pollock, C. B.

(2) Bigelow, op. est., 579, 580, esting Perk v. Gurney, 6 H. I., 377, 403 , Central Ry Co. v. Kuch, 2 H. L. 99, 113; Corbett v Brown, 8 Bing , 33; though none of the cases cited are exses of catoppel, that learned author submits that there can be no doubt that they are applicable to the present subject

(3) Burkinsham v. Nicholls, 3 App Cuses, 1004, 1021,

(4) v ante, pp 216-218, and cases there cited (5) Bigelow, op. cut , 582 (as to enlargement of the representation, see Syed Nurmul v. Shee Sahor, 19 1 A., 221, 226, 227 (1892).

(6) Joy Chandra v. Sreenath Chatterjee, 32 C , 357 (1904)

(7) 1b , 572, 574, 582 , v. post.

(8) Langdon v. Doud, 10 Allev, 433 (Amer.) per Bigelow, C. J. v. post

(9) George Whitechurch, Lil v. Caranaph, 5 C. W. N., cccvit (1901), 1902, A. C., 117, at p 130 , Jethabhai v. Nathabhai, 28 B., 309 (1904), at p 407. See also with regard to representation as to the inture Rivell-Carnas v. New Mojused Co., 28 B , at p. 69 (1901) ; and Dhondo v. Acadara, 7 Bom. L. R., 179.

This equity differs essentially from " ... ... is not a rule of equity but is a rule c' in Courts of Law, whereas the for assumed by the Court of Equity, to intervene in the case of, or to prevent, fraud (1)

Assuming that there has been a representation in the sense mentioned, and that that representation is clear and unambiguous, and the other party has been induced to act thereby, it is immaterial what the intention, motive or state of knowledge of the party making the representation was (2) But though the intention is immaterial so far as the creation of the estoppel is concerned, representations may be, and have been, classified with reference to the intention with which they may be made. A person may be estopped, if he has made either a fraudulent misrepresentation, or made a false statement without fraud but negligently, or has made a false representation without fraud or negligence (3) In the case of Carr v. London and N.-W. Railway Company,(4) a very leading decision upon this subject, the following four recognised propositions of an estoppel in pair or modes in which it may arise were laid down(5) :=

(a) "One such proposition is, if a man by his words or conduct willully endearours to cause another to believe in a certain state of things, which the first Lnows to be false, and if the second believes in such a state of things and acts upon his belief, he who knowingly made the false statement is estopped from averring afterwards that such a state of things did not in fact exist." (6)

This proposition deals with fraudulent representations (7)

(b) "Another recognised proposition seems to be that, if a man, either in express terms or by conduct, makes a repsesentation to another of the existence of a certain state of facts which he intends to be acted upon in a certain way, and it be acted upon that way in the belief of the existence of such a state of facts, to the damage of him who so believes and acts, the first is estopped from denving the existence of such a state of facts "

This proposition deals with representations made without fraud "(8)

(c) "And another proposition 15, that, if a man, whatever his real meaning may be, so conducts himself that a reasonable man would take his conduct to

<sup>(1)</sup> Municipal Corporation of Bombay v. Secretary of State, 29 B , 590 , 7 Bom L R , 27 (2) v ante, p. 758

<sup>(3)</sup> Seton Laung & Co v Lafone, L R , 19 Q B. D., 70.

<sup>(4)</sup> L. R., 10 C P., 307 (1875).

<sup>(5)</sup> These propositions were approved in Cotentry v Great Eastern Railway Co , 11 Q B D , 776 , and in Selon Laing & Co v. Lafone, L R , 19 Q B D . 68. "Estoppels may arise in various grounds, all of which the judgment in Carr v The London & N W Ry Co, endeavours to state, and each of the grounds on which an ex toppel may arise, there stated, is intended to be independent and exclusive of the others," per Brett, M R , in Sejon Laing & Co v Lajone, L R , 19 B Q D , 68, 70 (1881) Both these cases were cited and approved by the Privy Council in Sarat Chunder v Gopal Chunder, 19 I A , 203, 217 (1892)

<sup>(6)</sup> See for examples of representations of this character giving rise to estoppels .- Mc. Cance v. London and N.- N. Railway Co., 7 H.

&amp; M , 477 [A person having wilfully made a false statement as to the value of certain horses in order to induce a railway company to carry them at a lower rate of freight held to be there. by estopped from proving their real and greater value m an action against the Company for their loss). Cherry v Colonial Bank of Australana. L R 3 P C, 24. Munoo Lall v Lalla Choonee, 1 I A , 144 (1873) * c , 21 W R , 21 , Baboo Radhali men Mussummat Shureejunnissa, W R 11 (1884).

<sup>(7)</sup> See as to fraudulent misrepresentations Peek v Derry, L 1: , 37 Ch D , 541

<sup>(8)</sup> See Howard v Hudson, 2 E & B , 1 , where Crompton, J , says -" The rule, as explained in Freeman v Cool, takes in all the important commercial cases, in which a representation is made not wilfully in any bad sense of the word not male anime, or with intent to defraud or deceive, but so far wilfully that the party making the representation on which the other acts means it to be acted upon in that way," Sec Madhub Chunder v. Law, 13 B. L. R , 394 (1874).

mean a certain representation of facts and that it was a true representation, and, that the latter was intended to act upon it in a particular way, and he with such belief does act in that way to his damage, the first is estopped from denying that the facts were represented."(1)

The first two propositions deal with both "declaration" and "act:" this deals with "act" only and the inferences which may be drawn from conduct.(2)

"There is yet another proposition as to estoppel. If, in the transaction itself which is in dispute, one has led another into belief of a certain state of facts by conduct of culpable negligence calculated to have that result, and such culpable negligence has been the proximate cause(3) of leading and has led the other to act by mistake upon such belief, to his prejudice, the second(4) cannot be heard afterwards as against the first(5) to show that the state of facts referred to did not exist."(6)

This proposition deals primarily with what the section refers to as " omission." Not only must the neglect be in the transaction itself and be the proximate cause of leading the party into mistake : but it also must be the person led into belief and not merely to the party himself, or even to whom those seeking to set up the estoppel are not privv.(8)

With reference to these propositions, the Privy Council, in the case of Sarat Chunder Deu v. Gonal Chunder Laha(9) point out that there may be statements made which have induced another party to do that from which otherwise he would have abstained, and which cannot properly be characterised as "misrepresentations," as for example, what occurred in that case in which the inference to be drawn from the conduct of the party estopped was either that the conveyance in favour of his mother was valid in itself or at all events that he, as the party having an interest to challenge it, had elected to consent to its <sup>(1)</sup> The care of Sarut Chunder v. Gopal Chunder, 19 I A., 203 : 20 C , 296 (1892), is an example of this proposition . In a case in the same volume somewhat resembling the former in its facts there was held to be no estoppel; Sued Nurul v. Shea Sahar, 10 I. A., 221 (1892).

<sup>(2)</sup> See Cornish v. Abington, 4 H. & N., 549, 555. [Where a person has conducted himself so as to mislead another, he cannot gainsay the reasonable inference to be drawn from his conduct | See Khadar v. Subramanya, 11 M., 12 (1887).

<sup>(3)</sup> In the subsequent case of Seton Lains d Co. v. Lalone, L. R., 19 Q. B D., 68, Brett, M. R. (with him Lopes, L. J., concurring) stated that he would prefer to insert in the proposition the word "real" instead of the word "proximate" (15 , 70, 71). Fry, L. J. however, said: "I will not attempt to give any paraphrase of the word "proximate," the doctrine of causation involves as much difficulty in philosophy as in law, and I do not feel sure that the term 'real' is any more free from difficulty than the term 'proximate' (16, 74). See Swan v. North British Australisman Co., 2 H & C , 75; "Proximate cause" means "direct and immediate cause" Coventry v. Great Eastern Ry. Co., 11 Q. B. D., 776, 740. In the recent case of Longman v. Bath Electric Teamscrys Co (1905) 1 Ch., 646, at p. 663, it was held that mere negbgence will not raise an esteppel. There must be negligence which is the real and immediate cause of the damage done.

<sup>(4)</sup> Quære "first " the person referred to is the party guilty of negligence. (5) Ouare "second" see last note

<sup>(6)</sup> For illustration of the extoppel by culpable negligence, see Carr v. London & N.-W. Ry. Co. L. R., 10 C. P., 307; Coventry v. The Great Eastern Railway Co., L. R., 11 Q B. D., 766; Selon Laing & Co., v. Lajane, L R., 19 Q B. D. 68; Swan v. N. B. Australarian Co , 2 H. & C , 175; and cases referred to in these reports and in McLaren Morrison v. Verschoyle, 6 C. W. N . 229 (1901).

<sup>(7) &</sup>quot;There can be no negligence unless there be a duty," per Brett, M. R., in Corestry v. Great Eastern Railway Co., 11 Q B. D , 776, 780.

<sup>(8)</sup> Swan v. N. B. Australanan Co , 2 H & C , 175, per Blackburn, J. A party on whom there is no duty to disclose a fact, may of course by his misrepresentation estop himself under the prereding propositions; Munno Lall v. Lalla Choones, I Ind. App., 144, 156 (1873).

<sup>(9) 19</sup> I. A., 203, 217 (1892).

767

being treated as valid. It has been recently held that no representations can be relied on as estoppels if they have been induced by the concealment of any material fact on the part of those who seek to use them as such: and if the person to whom they are made knows something which, if revealed, would have been calculated to influence the other to hesitate or seek for further information before speaking positively, and that something has been withheld, the representation ought not to be treated as an estoppel (1)

Not much difficulty is usually experienced in the application of the first and second of the abovementioned propositions; questions, however, of difficulty may, and frequently do arise as to whether or not a person has by his conduct brought himself within the scope of the third and fourth propositions. The determination of this question will largely depend upon the facts, which will vary with each particular case. Some, however, of the more obvious and frequently recurring estoppels may be here shortly alluded to.

A representation may arise not only (as already observed), by way of concealment of part of the truth in regard to a whole fact; but also from total but misleading silence (that is knowledge or passive conduct. The case must be such that it

The case must be such that it attends of the party that he has, eg, no interest in the subject of the transaction.

In the subject of the transaction in properly be said to have

According to a succinct nan has been silent when in conscience he ought to have spoken, he shall be debarred from speaking when conscience requires him to be silent "(4) Further an admission by silence, of a representation made by the party claiming the estoppel may sometimes raise an estoppel [3]. And when in answer to an enquiry a person gives an estage misseding answer, it will estop even though it may not have been intended to deceive, if its effect was in fact to deceive the inquirer (6) Mere standing by in silence will not bar a man from asserting a title of record in the public registry or other like office, so long as no act is done to mislead the other party, for there is no duty to speak in such a case. Thus a patentee is not bound to warn others whom he may see buying an article which is an infringement of his patent, (7). But if there be any misleading either by express declara-

Porter v. Jioore (1904), 2 Ch., 367 followed.
 Whitechurch, Ld. v. Cavanagh (1902), A. C., 117, 145, per Lord Brampton.

(2) Of course there can be no duty to speak without a knowledge of the extinence of one's own right or of the action about to be taken. Bigelow, op. cit, 805. Chindonon Romchanders v. Durepps, 14 B., 506 (1850), silence when there is a duty to speak is an expressive as speech. Story, Eq. dur., 3, 335, cited in Cherna v. Kain. Behari, 9. A. 4, 19 (1887), as to mere quiescence dutinguished from a breach of dutinguished from a breach of dutinguished from a breach of duty to speak, see Bansoniapa v. Banu, 9 B, 86 (1881), Sheldad. our v. Banchandran, 6 B, 430 (1883)

(3) Big-low, op. ct., 583, 584 The subject of allone is illustrated by the case of F-t-I and Start, 6 A & E, 460, and Greyy v. Wells, 10 A. E., 90, in the latter of which cases Lord Denman and :—"A party who negligently (see Gotentry v. Great Eastern Ry. Co., 11 Q B. D., 776; Carr. L. London Ry. Co., 1L. R., 10 C. P., 307), or cul-pably stands by and allows another to contract on the faith and understanding of a fact which he can contradict, cannot afterwards dispute that fact in an action against the person whom he has himself assisted in deceiving."

- (4) Per Thompson, J., in Niten v Belknap, 2 Johns., 573 (Amer)
  - (5) Bigelow, op cit, 589
  - (6) McConnell v. Mayer, 2 N.-W P, H C R 315 (1870), where it was said that when inquiry was expressly made of the person, he was bound under the circumstances to have given definite and full information
- (7) Bigelow, op et., 594, 695, Proctor v. Ben., 36 °C D. 740 And ese as to registration being notice of title, Chistomen Ramchandran-characteristics, 14, 15, 160 (1899), Agarchand Camandand v. Rahlma Hannant, 12 B., 678 (1888), Act IV of 1882, a. 3 (Transfer of Property), edited by Shephard and Brown, 3rd Ed. (1894), pp. 12—23.

tions.(1) or by conduct.(2) there will arise an estoppel notwithstanding registration of the title. There is no duty generated to speak by the mere fact that a man is aware that some one may act to his prejudice, if the true state of things is not disclosed. So long as he is not brought into contact with the person about to act, and does not know who that person may be, he is under no obligation to seek him out, or to stop a transaction which is not due to his own conduct as the natural and obvious result of it (3)

The commonest instance of inference from conduct arises in the case of conduct of acquiescence; for acquiescence under such circumstances as that assent may be reasonably inferred from it is no more than an instance of the law of estoppel by words or conduct. If a person having a right, and seeing another person about to commit, or in the course of committing, an act infringing upon that right, stands by in such a manner as really to induce the person committing the act, and who might otherwise have abstained from it, to believe that he assents to its beng committed, he cannot afterwards be heard to complain of the act (4) In enunciating +

the Evidence Act indicates the lines

proceed.(5) Estoppel by acquiesce submission not amounting to ratification and inducing no action or emission. There is a distinction between acquiescence in an act which is still in progress, and mere submission to it when it has been completed. In the first case, it may operate as an estoppel if it has induced action infringing a right. In the second case submission cannot change the past (6)

If the owner of a piece of land stands by while another person professes to sell that land to a third party, and he does not interfere, but allows that other person to hold himself out to be the owner of the land and to make a transfer of it, he is not to be heard afterwards for the purpose of destroying that purchaser's title by asserting to the contrary, though he may upset that title if he can show either that the purchaser had notice of his title constructive or actual, or that circumstances existed at the time of the nurchase which as a reasonable man, should have put him upon his s iquiry, if made, would have resulted in ner (7) ige the

The same principle applies when property of the former.(8) A mortgagee who causes the mortgaged property to be sold in execution of a decree other than a decree obtained upon his mort-

<sup>(1)</sup> Munnoo Lall v. Lalla Choonee, 1 Ind. App , " 153, 156 (1873).

<sup>(2)</sup> Ib.; Dullah Stream v. Krishna Kumar Balshs, 3 B L R , 407, 408 (1869) , in this last and kindred cases there was a duty to speak,

<sup>(3)</sup> Bigelow, op. cit., 595, 596,

<sup>(4)</sup> Duke of Leeds v. Earl of Amherst, 2 Ph., 117, 123 , De Buesche v. Alt, L. R., 8 Ch D , 286, 314. For a case of acquiescence, see Rangama v. Atchama, 4 Moo I. A., 1 (1846)

<sup>(5)</sup> Bisheshur v. Murhead, 14 A , 362, 364 (1892). A case may be founded on the equitable doctrine of acquiescence or the legal doctrine of estoppel by conduct (Proctor v. Bennis, 36 Ch. D , 765, per Fry, L. J.) When founded upon the first doctrine, it has been said that the conduct relad on should be conduct with knowledge of legal rights and amounting to fraud | Wilmolt v. Barber, L. B., 15 Ch D., 96, 105; Russell v. Watte, L. R., 25 Ch. D., 559, 585; both cases cited and followed in Basicantapa v. Banu, 9 B , 85 (1894)]. When, however, the doctrine of estoppel 14 alone myoked, there may be an estoppel by conduct of acquiescence where there is no fraud and where the person estopped has seted bond fide and unaware of his legal rights, Gopal Chunder v. Sarat Chunder, 19 I. A. 203. 20 C, 296 (1892).

<sup>(6)</sup> Thakore Faterings v. Bamanys Dalal, 27 P., 515, 531, 532 (1903) . . c . 5 Bom. L. R . 274

<sup>(7)</sup> Ramcoomar Koondoo v. Macqueen, 11 B. L. R., 46 (1872); I. A , Sup Vol 40 [followed in Mahomed Mozaffer v. Lethors Mohun, 23 C., 909 (1895)], Uda Regum v. Iman-ud din. 1 A . 82 (1875); Bisheshur v Muirhead, 14 A, 362 (1892); and see Phyro Datt v. Lelhrance Kooer, 16 W. R., 123, 125 (1871); Manmohinee Joginee v. Jogobundhoo Sadhooka, 10 W. R., 223 (1873); Bancantapa v. Banu, 9 B , 88 (1884); Story, Eq. Jur. i, § 385, cited in Cheran v Aus; Behari, 9 A., 419 (1887)

<sup>(8)</sup> Bance Pershad v. Baboa Moun, 8 W. R., 67 (1867).

gage, without notifying to intending purchasers the existence of his mortgagelien, is estopped for ever from setting up that lien against the title of bond fide purchasers (1) If a person stands by and allows a Court to sell his property he cannot afterwards come forward and ask for possession.(2) If a person is allowed to expend money on that which is not his own; as where a stranger begins to build on land supposing it to be his own, and the real owner perceiving his mistake, abstains from setting him right, and leaves him to persevere in his error, in which case the Court will not afterwards allow the real owner to assert his title to the land (3) An instance of an estoppel by omission occurs when a mortgage, bringing the property to sale in execution of a money-decree of his incumbrance, will be estopped from which he has given no notice. Having hy which he has given no notice. Having by elieve that the property was offered for sale free of encumbrances and to pay full value for it, he cannot as against the latter be heard to deny that the sale took place free of encumbrances.(4). And where a person had purchased bon i fide and feet which a Bank, being deceived by that the Bank was estopped from

H. C. R., A. C , 37 (1871) It must always be shown that the circumstances of the case are such as bring it within the purview of the section : Solano v. Lalla Eam, 7 C. L. R., 481 (1880) Ap estoppel may also arise where the mortgages permits the property to be sold by private sale : Munnoo Lall v Lalla Choonee, 11 A., 144 (1873). In the case of Dhondo Ballrishna v Raopi, 20 B., 290 (1895) in which Dullah v Krithna, suprawas cited, it was held that there was no estupuel. registration (except in a case of fraudulent concealment) bring notice according to the settled course of the previous Bombay decisions, For a case of a somewhat converse character, to that in text, see Busonath Sahouv Doolhun Binganath. 24 W R., 83 (1875) Where mortgaged property is sold in execution of a decree in a suit brought upon the mortgage, the interest of the mortgagee at whose instance the sale is made is held to pass to the purchaser, and the mortgagee is estopped from disputing that such is the effect of the sale Kheora; Justup v. Lingaya, 5 B., 82 (1873), Seeligin Shankbhoy V. Salvador Vas. 5 B , 5 (1873); Shask Abdulla v. Han Abdulla 5 B., 8 (1893), see Nareidae Jitram v. Joglekar, 4 B., 57, and cases there cited Ramanath Dose v Bolaram Phookun, 7 C. 677; Hart v Lakshman, 5 B., 614 (1881) Where a person claimed as his own property attached, in execution of a decree, against another person, and his claim being rejected without enquiry, purchased the property at the sale, it was held that his so purchasing did not estop him from asserting as against a mortgagee prior to the sale that the property was his independently of the sale Hanuman Dat v. Assadula, 7 N.-W. P. Rep , 145 (5) Bank of England v. Cutler (1907), 1 K

(5) Bank of England v. Culler (1907), 1 K B., 889, and as to effect of acquescence under a mistaken belief see Goura Chandra v. Secretary of State, 9 C. W. N., 553.

Vahommad Hamid ud-din v. Shih Sahai,
 A 700 (1839).

<sup>(2)</sup> Balden Parshed v Fakhr-ud-din, I All L. J., 402 (1904).

<sup>(3)</sup> Rimeden v. Dyson, L. R., L. E. & L., Ap. 129, 140 Case or principle commented in Lala Bens v. Kundan Lal, 3 C W. N., 502 (1899) 21 A , 496 , Ismail Khan v Joygoon Beber, 4 C. W. N., 210, 223 (1900), Ismail Khan v. Broughton, 5 C W. N., 846 (1901); Caspers: v Kedar Nath, 5 C. W. N , 858 (1901) , Nundo Kumar v. Banomali Gayan, 29 C. 871 (1902). Ahmed Yar v. Secretary of State, 28 C., 691. s c , 5 C. W. N., 634 (1901). Severtary of State v. Dattatraya Nayayı, 26 B . 271 (1901) See as to these cases as to the presumption of permanent tenancy in respect of homestead land an article in 5 C. W N., coexxii. See Ex-parte Ford, 1 Ch D., 521, 829, Yeshwadabas v. Ramchandra, 18 B., 66 (1893) See Duttays v Kalba, 21 B , 749 (1896).

<sup>(4)</sup> Dullab Sircar v. Krishna humar, 3 B. L. R., A. C , 407 , 12 W. R , 303 (1869) . McConnell v. Mayer, 2 N .W. P. H C. R , 315 (1870) , Dootee Chund v. Oomdo Begum, 24 W. R., 263 (1875); Tukaram Atmaram v. Ramchandra Budharam, 1 B., 314 (1876), Tennappa v. Murugappa, 7 M., 107 (1883), Nursing Narain v. Raghoobur Singh, 10 C, 609 (1884), Agarchand Gumanchand v. Rakhma Hunmant, 12 B., 678 (1888). Jagnaatha v. Gangs Redds, 15 M., 303 (1892). Kasturi v Venkatachulpathi, 15 M , 412 (1892), the list case distinguishes Banwars Das v. Muhamad Market, 9 A, 690 (1897), in which (at p. 702), and in Gheran v Kuny Behart, 9 A, 413 (1887), it was pointed out that it cannot be said that one person solely by bidding at an auction sale encourages another person (see Civ. Pro. Code, O. XXI, r 66, p. 946) to buy. As to legal representative being bound by an execution-sale, see Natha Hirs v. James, 8 Bom.

The estoppel against a mortgagee in favour of subsequent encumbrancers is dealt with by section 78 of the Transfer of Property Act.

A person who purports to deal with property which is not his own in favour of a stranger, is estopped, if the property eventually becomes his, from saying that he had no previous title to convey.(1) If a person having right to a property takes no steps towards asserting his right against the person in possession, but leaves that person so in possession with all the indicia of ownership, the former cannot afterwards assert his right against the vendee of the person in possession who takes without notice of his claim (2) Section 41 of the Transfer of Property Act applying the general principle of estoppel deals with such transfers of property by estensible owners (3)

Connected with this subject are estoppels arising from benami transactions, which have long been recognised and given effect to by Courts in India. Assuming that the transaction is of a benami character, as to which strict proof is required, the general rule, in the absence of any statutory limitation (4) is to give effect to the real title and to allow the truth to be shown. The law of benami is merely a deduction from the equitable doctrine of resulting trusts, and therefore the real owner may establish the trust against the benamidar or set it up as a defence to a suit by the benamidar, if the latter attempts to enforce his apparent title against the beneficial owner. Similarly creditors of the real owner may have recourse to the benami property; but if creditors of the benamidar seize the property, the real owner is entitled to have the property released (5) But a third party will not be allowed to suffer by the voluntary acts of owners of property. And it is not to be supposed that, because the existence of bename transactions has been judicially recognized, parties are at liberty to use the system to the injury of others, whether by direct fraud, or by putting other parties in a position to defraud or take undue advantage of innocent persons (6) The transaction may give rise to an estoppel against the real owner and his representatives, (7) in favour of innocent third parties, whether purchasers, mortgagees or creditors, whose acts have been influenced by the conduct of the real owner in permitting the ostensible owner to appear as such. In such a case the real nature of the transaction cannot be shown, and the real owner will be estopped from setting up the secret trust in his own favour against a title acquired without notice from the person who holds bename for him. (8) The ground of the rule is obvious: it would be monstrous if it were allowed that

 Moonshee Amir v. Syef Ali, 5 W. R., 289 (1885); see s. 43 of the Transfer of Property Act; explained in Syed Nurul v. Sheo Sahas, 19 I. A., 227 (1892)

(2) Mohesh Chunder v. Issur Chunder, 1 Ind. Jur., N. S., 206 (1896); etting Boyson v. Coles, 6 M. & S., 23; Dyer v. Peerson, 3 B & C., 42; Howard v. Hudson, I E. & B., 1, Prelard v. Sears, supra. Freeman v. Cooks, supra., Siran v. N. B. Autrindonan Co. supra.

. (3) See the Attroduted by Shaphard and Brown, and cases there cited. In Joycam v. Norogua, 5 Born. I. R., 652 (1903), a mortgager was held to be estopped from questioning his own right to mortgage. See also Norogua Kandu v. Kaisundal, 41 B., 407.

(4) See Cv Pro. Code, Part II, a. 68, p. 310; a. 36 of Act XI of 1859; a. 184 of Act XIX of 1859; a. 184 of Act XIX of 1873. P. Act III of 1901 [where immorable, property has been sold in execution of a deeree or for arrors of Government revenue, a stranger will not be allowed to claim the property on the ground that the certified purchaser merely purchased beaumi on his account, and any suit brought on such an alicgation will be dismissed with costs

(5) See Mayne's Hindu Law, $5 400-407, and cases there cited.

(6) Ralhaldons Moduck v. Bindoo Bashinte, I Marsh , 293, 295 (1803)

(1) See Luchano Churdre v. Kai Chrn. 19 W. R. 292 (1873) destanguished in Soriel Churdre v. Goyal Churdre, 19 I. A., 200.-211 (1892) And see Churdre Komer v. Hurbars Sahai, 19 C., 137 (1888), Sarat Churdre v. Goyal Churdre, 16 C., 148 (1888), but there is no estopel against the purchaser at a rule bell in execution of a derive chiarind against a person who would by his conduct be precluided from denying the tille of third perties who have dealt with his becansular. See post, and pp. 235-210, asts. (5) Samecomar Konndov v. Mitguera, 112

L. R. P. C., 48, 54 (1873); Ralhaldas Meduck v. Bindeo Bashince, supra; Luchman Chunder a man should invest another with the apparent ownership of his property; and then after that other has raised money upon the property, resume it in virtue of a private understanding.(I) Where the owner of certain immovable property after having executed a fictitious sale-deed thereof in favour of some persons, brings about a sale of the same by these ostensible vendees in favour of a third party who purchases the property for consideration upon representations made to him by the real capacity the factors which we will be preschaded from estation dar will be affected by notice, actual or constructive, of the real title,(3) for if they are cognisant of the real facts they can in no way have been misled.

So far reference has been made to the rule that the Courts will not enforce the rights of a real owner where they would operate to defraud innocent persons. "A still stronger case is that in which property has been placed in a false name, for the express purpose of shielding it from creditors. As against them, of course, transaction is wholly invalid. But a very common form of proceeding is for the real owner to sue the benamidar, or to resist an action by the benamidar, alleging, or the evidence making out, that the sale was a merely colourable one, made for the express purpose of defrauding creditors. In other words, the party admits that he has apparently transferred his property to another to effect a fraud but asks to have his act undone, now that the object of the fraud is carried out. The rule was for some time considered to he, that where this state of things was made out, the Court would invariably refuse relief, and would leave the parties to the consequences of their own misconduct; dismissing the plant when the suit was brought by the real owner to get back

v. Kali Churn, supra., Bhuquean Doss v. Upooch Singh, 10 W. R. 85 (1868), Obhoy Churn v Punchason Bose, March , 564 (1963) , Kolly Das v. Gobind Chunder, 1 March , 569, 571 (1863) Renns v. Gunga Narain, 3 W R., 10 (1865), Nundun Lal v Taylor, 5 W R , 36 (1866) , Brojonoth Ghose v Koylash Chunder, 9 W 11 , 593 (1869), Nidhe Singh v Bisso Nath, 24 W R., 79 (1875). Chunder Coomar v Hurbung Sahas, 16 C . 173 (1888) . Smith v Molhum Maktoom, 18 W R , 526 (1872) . Ram Mohinee v Pran Koomaree, 3 W R., 87 (1865) Sarat Chunder v. Gopel Chunder, 19 I A , 203 (1892) , cf Sarat Chunder v Gopal Chunder, 16 C , 148 (1888) where it was held that the mere fact of a benum: transfer did not amount to a binding representation the contest must more over be between the true owner of the property and a person claiming under his benamidar Bashi Chunder v Enayet Ali, 20 C , 236 (1892), in Muhammad Ahan v. Muhammad Ibrahim, 1 All L J., 214 (1904), the Court, referring to the principal case, held that the party had no constructive notice of the real title

- Ralhaldoss Moduck v Bindon Bashines, Marsh., 293, 294 (1863)
- (2) Tulihi Ram v. Mutsaddi Lal, 2 All L J, 97 (1901).
  (3) Ramcoomar Koondoo v. McQueen, 11 B. L.
- R., P. C., 46, 54 (1872), and cases cited in penultimate note 'and in Mayne's Hindu Law, § 403.

(4) Ramiadur Dea v Roopnarain Ghose, 2 S D A , Select Cases, 149 (1814) , Roushun Khatoon v Collector of Mymenengh, S D A (1846), 120 , Brimho Mye v. Ram Dulab, S. D. A. (1849), 276 , Rajah Rajnarain v Jugjunnath Pershad. S D A (1851), 774 . Koonjee Singh v Janlee Singh, S D A (1852), 838 Bhowanrysunlur Pandey v Purcem Liber, S. D. A. (1853), 639. Ramsoonder Sandial . Anundnath Roy, S D. A (1856), 542 , Hurry Sunkur v Kals Coomar, W. It , 265, 1864 [whether any creditors were actually defrauded or not is immaterial], Roy Roshbehares v. Roy Gourse, 4 W. R., 72 (1865), Rowshun Bibee v. Shailh Kureem, 4 W R . 12 (1885) . Bhowanee Pershad v Oheedun, 5 W R. 177 (1866), 4lok-mondry Goopto v. Horo Lal, 6 W. R., 287 (1866), Keshub Chunder v Vuasmonee Dostin, 7 W R. 118 (1867). Kaleenath Kur v. Doyal Kristo, 13 W R , 87 (1870) [Plaintiff not permitted to plead fraud of his father from whom he derived title | On the other hand, sec Ram Surun v Pran Peary, 13 Moo. I. A. 551 (1870), s. c., m lower Court, I W R., 156 (1864) In this case the distinction was taken which is to be found in the latter cases, eiz., that no innocent party had been affected by the admission of representation See also Bery Mohun v Ram Nursungh, 4 S D. A., Select Cases, 435 (1829), [cf. Navab Assinal v. Hurdwaree Mull.

13 Moo I. A , 402 (1870); Errent: Lulhimdni? v. Mohendronath Dutt, 4 B L. R., 28, 29 (1899);

it up in opposition to the persons whom he had invested with the legal title.(1)
And persons who take under the real owner whether as heirs or as purchasers, were treated in exactly the same manner as he was (2) On the other hand, a contrary doctrine was laid down in more recent cases." (3)

It is in the first case clear that where two persons have combined to commit a fraud upon a third the transaction is wholly void as between those persons and the party defrauded.(4) It has, however, been a question of some difficulty as to how far the parties may, as between themselves, show the truth of the transaction. Whatever doubt there may be as to the plaintiff's right to avoid his own deed by setting up his own fraudulent act, it is open to the defendant to defend his possession by showing that the real transaction between himself and the plaintiff was to defraud, whether a third party or the defendant's creditors generally (5) Whether a plaintiff shall be so allowed to plead his fraud will depend upon the question whether the fraud has been carried beyond the stage of mere intention. If the fraudulent purpose has been wholly or partially carried into effect the real owner will not be permitted to succeed in a suit instituted by him for recovery of the property. But, where the fraud has not been carried into execution he may succeed.(6) In a recent case it has been held by the Privy Council that where a benami conveyance of land is made for the purpose of fraudulently defeating the claim of an equitable mortgagee and the claim of the latter is not defeated, the grantor can recover back the land from the grantee, and that the benami conveyance being in such cir-

Kali Charan v Rank Lall, 23 C , 26n. (1894). Chenvarappa v. Putappa, 11 B , 708 (1867). Shom Lall v. Amarendro Nath, 23 C., 400 (1895); Banku Behary v Ray Kumar, 4 C. W. N., 209 (1899) 27 C., 231; Gorinda Kuar v Lala Kishun, 28 C., 370 (1900), Mayne's Hindu Law. § 495, and cases there and in the preceding decisions cited. The rule, however, appears to be stricter in the Madras High Court Yaismats Krishnayya v. Chundra Pappayya, 20 M., 326, 330 (1897); Rangammal v. l'enlaiachan. 20 M , 323 (1896); Varadajulu Nasdu v Srinitasulu Naidu, 20 M., 333, 338 (1897); [it is verf doubtful whether in a case in which the maxim in pari delicto would otherwise apply any exception arises by reason that the illegal purpose has not been carried out]. See, however, as to these cases . Jadu Nath v. Rup Lall, 10 C. W. N. 650 at p. 661 (1906) In Honapa v. Aarenpa, 23 B , 406 (1898) , Farran, C J., at p. 409, was of opinion that the law applicable was that laid down in Yasamats Krishnaya v. Chundra Pappayya, supra , but treats Calcutta decisions as being to same effect, and Fulton, J. stated, p 413, that when the fraud was not completed it might well be contended that as the collusive transaction had not really frustrated justice, the original owner retained a good claim to the property. See also May on Fraudulent and Voluntary Dispositions of Property, 2nd Ed , 470-472; as to fictitious sales made to evade process for recovery of arrears of revenue, see Ram Perand v. Shica Persod, 1 N .W. P. Rep., 71, and sen Pelherpermal Chetty V. Muniandy Serias (infra).

Obhoychurn Ghuliuck v Treelochun Chal terpes, S. D. A. (1859), 1639. Ram Lall v. Aushen Chunder, S. D. A. (1860), 439. [cf. Ramanugra Naran v. Mahasundar Kunuar, 12 B. L. R., 433, 438 (1873)]

<sup>(2)</sup> Lukhee Naroin v Taramonee Doucee, 3 W R., 92 (1865). Kaleenath Kur v Doyalkristo Deb, 13 W. R, 87 (1870).

<sup>(3)</sup> Mayne's Hindu Law, § 404, atting most of the above seas and as the recent caves refer rol to in text. Extensity Bohav. Binda Kondree, 21 W. R. 422 (1874), Forermine Adventa Karv. Degyl Kristo, 13 W. R., 87 (1870), sepra dato overruled by Klein Loll v. Ameresino Nath., 22 °, 400 (1820), followed in Opperation Nath. 22 °, 500 (1825), followed in Opperation Nath x 4 ° 500 (1825), followed in Opperation Nath x 4 ° 500 (1825), Followed in Opperation Nath x 4 ° 500 (1825), Followed in Opperation Nath x 4 ° 500 (1825), Followed in Opperation Nath x 4 ° 500 (1825), Followed Nath x 500 (1

<sup>[4]</sup> See Nauab Eidheev. Opodhyrann Khappa O Moo. 1. A., 50 (1866), [Iollowed in Khappa v. Shiraya, 20 B, 492 (1895); see Eranat v. Sukramappa, 21 B. (42, 44v, 189). Espend LeX v. Eurocolean Chonding, 11. A., 105 (1873), Opp Wandeev. Marlande Narayan, 3 B, 20, 33 (1878).

<sup>(5)</sup> Babaji v. Krishna, 18 B., 372 (1893), followed in Premath Korr v. Kati Mahamed Shated (1903), 8 C. W. N., 620.

<sup>(6)</sup> Jain Nath v. Rup Lal, 10 C. W. N., 650 (1996), in which all the authorities are reviewed. Goberdhan Singh v. Rulu Roy, 23 C., 962 (1896);

cumstances an inoperative instrument, it is unnecessary to bring an action to tet it acide (1) Where the ostenible transferce never had any exclusive possession of the property in question, which was for a great many years treated as part of the joint family property, and which was enjoyed by the joint family off which the plaintial was the sole surviving member) for more than twelve years before suit; it was held that the plaintial was entitled to have a declartion of his right to the property and to confirmation of his possession (2) As to the purchase of a decree by a judgment-debtor benami, see cases cited below (3)

Estoppel by conduct may arise in the case of family arrangements; the decisions as to which extend not merely to cases in which arrangements are made between members of a family for the preservation of its peace but to cases in which arrangements are made between them for the preservation of its property. (4) So where infants had, since attaining their majority, by their conduct adopted the acts of their mother and guardian and agreed to treat the will of a testator as valid, it was held that by their acquiescence in the disposition of the property they were estopped from disputing the provisions of the will. (5) Not only may there be an estoppel giving effect to a family arrangement, but a party may by his conduct be estopped from invisting upon a family arrangement. (6)

An estoppel may, in certain cases, arise where an invalid adoption has been acted upon, and the person adopted has, through representations, been led to change his original situation. So where the defendant actively participated in the adoption of the plaintiff by the defendant's brother, and by many acts signified to the plaintiff and to his adopting father the defendant's complete acquiescence in the adoption, and thereby encouraged the plaintiff, who was an adult, to assent to such adoption, and allowed the adopting father to die in the belief that the adoption was valid, and finally concurred in the performance by the plaintiff, of the funeral ceremonies it was held that the defendant was estopped from disputing the validity of the adoption (7) But in order that estoppel by conduct may raise an invalid adoption to the level of a valid adoption, there must have been a course of conduct long continued on the part of the adopting family, and the situation of the adoptee in his original family must then become so altered that it would be impossible to restore him to it (8) In the undermentioned Madras case, (9) it was held that the rule of estoppel by conduct does not apply when an adoption is made by a person in full belief that the adoption is valid in law, and thereby, and by the subsequent conduct of

<sup>(1)</sup> Petherpermal Chetty v. Musiandy Servai, P. C. (1908), Times L. B., v. 24, p. 462.

<sup>(2)</sup> Gorinda Kuar v Lala Kishun, 28 C, 370 (1900)

<sup>(3)</sup> Obhoy Churn v. Nobin Chunder, 23 W R 95 (1874), Soroop Chunder v Troylobhonath Roy, 9 W R, 220 (1868).

<sup>(4)</sup> Williams v. Williams, L. R., 2 Ch. Ap., 294, 304 cited in Lakshmibai v. Ganpul, 5 Bom. H. C. R., 128 (1865).

<sup>(5)</sup> Lakehmibas v. Gunput, 5 Bom H. C. R., 128 (1863). See also Sua Dan v. Gur Sahas, 3 A., 352 (1880). Rayender Narasa v. Bisas Gorind 2 Moo. I. A., 233, 234 (1830). Danudar Dass v. Hahiram Pandah, 13 C. L. R., 96 (1883).

<sup>(6)</sup> Janali Ammel v Kammathamel, 7 Mad H. C. R., 263 (1873).

<sup>(7)</sup> Sadashir Morethros v. Harrmoreshear, 11 Rom. H. C. R., 190 (1874), Chintz v. Dhonda, 1b., 192 note (1873), Earn Vinayalras v. Lat.

shmida, 11 B., 381 (1817); Chitio v. Janati 11 Bom. H. C. R., 199 (1874), Kassammal v. i irasms, 15 M., 456 (1892), see however also, Toyammay v. Saskarkilla, 10 Moo. I. A.

<sup>429 (1985)
(18)</sup> Perceitaloguamea v. Eumalrechan, 13 M., 145 (1894) following Gopdagyen v. Espherpot Agyan, 7 Mad H. C. R. 230 (1971). Karey, v. Esban, 19 Dem, 374 (1894). For case and which it was held there was no estoppel, see Garataganceau v. Emadel demanda, 18 M., 53 (1894). Santappayen v. Emajorpower, 18 M., 327 (1894). Esakeaut Patte v. Endhalos, H. B., 312 (1899); and see Tarras Charan v. Serondo Sandara, 3 B. L. R., 145 (1989). Gardinger series v. Emalos, 18 M., 51, 58 (1894).

<sup>(9)</sup> Eranydi Vishnu i Eranydi Krishnan, 7 N., 3 (1803).

the adopter, the person adopted is induced to abstain from claiming a share in the inheritance of his natural family, so as to prevent a person claiming through the adopter from impugning the validity of the adoption. But the construction which was placed by this decision on the word "intentionally" in section 115 was overruled by the Privy Council in Sarat Chunder Dey v. Gopal Chunder Laha, in which case their Lordships said of the Madras case cited that they would have "great difficulty in holding, as the High Court did, that a series of acts by which an adoption is professedly made and subsequently recognised constitute a representation in law only, and not of fact."(1) When in a recent suit to set aside an adoption, brought by the adoptive mother against her adopted son, it was found that the plaintiff had represented that she had authority to adopt, and this representation was acted on by the defendant, and that the ceremony of adoption was carried out on the faith of this representation; that the marriage of the defendant was likewise on the strength of it celebrated, and that the defendant performed the Sradh ceremony of his adoptive father and had been obliged to defend a suit brought against him by an alleged reversioner to the estate of his adoptive father, it was held by the Allahabad High Court that the plaintiff was estopped from maintaining a suit for a declaration that the adoption was without authority and void.(2) As to estoppel arising by reason of the recognition by one member of a joint Hindu family of another as being also a member. (3) or by reason of plaintiff treating defendant as being m certain relationship to a common ancestor (4) see the undermentioned cases.

In the last mentioned case it was pointed out that, though a course of conduct may not amount to an estoppel in point of law it may nevertheless be strong evidence and throw upon the party, whose conduct is in question, a heavy burden of proof.

Where it had been understood by the parties for some time that a certain mortgage had been converted into a sale, and that the property had passed to the defendant by purchase, it was held that mere admissions that it had been converted into a sale did not operate as an estoppel or prevent the mortgagor from redeeming the property (5) Where two members of a joint Hindu family had held out another as the manager of the estate so as to induce outsiders.

did oods

are in a man's possession, order, or disposition under such circumstances as to enable him by means of them to obtain false credit, the owner who has permitted him to obtain that '' is not be such that the such t goods for the benefit of those sale was made to a pre-emptor onhe could sented to a sale to a stranger, it was held that, after a sale to a stranger, he could not set up his right of pre-emption. (8) See for the effect of an admission as to the rate of interest in an account stated by a banker, case below (9) The service of notice of foreclosure on the occupant of mortgaged property (a party 78 (189m.

L. R., 19 J. A., 203, 218 (1802); as to estoppel on a point of law sie Gopee Lall v. Chandraellee Buhoopee, 11 B. L. P., 301, 395 (1872); Dharam Kunwar v. Baluant Singh (1908).

<sup>30</sup> All, 549. (3) Lala Muddan v Khilbinda Korr, 18 C, 341 (1800).

 <sup>(4)</sup> Agrawal Singh v. Fought Singh, 8 C L.
 R., 346 (1890)
 (5) Abial Fahim v. Madharras Apap., 14 B.,

<sup>(6)</sup> Krivhraji v. Moro, 15 B. 32 (1890); as to standing by during alteration by father, see Surn's Karain v State Goldman, 11 E. L. R. App 29 (1873), as to acquirecence of Hurdin minor atternationing majority, see Gopdinarain v. Muddomathy, 11 B. L. R., 32 (1874).

 <sup>(7)</sup> Boilesa v. Miller, 10 C. L. R., 591 (1892)
 (8) Braja Kishor v. Kirli Chandra, 7 B. L. R., 10 (1871).

<sup>(9)</sup> Makunds Kuar v. Ballishen Das, 3 A., 528 (1980).

who claimed as purchaser from the mortgagor, but who had not established his title) does not stop the mortgagee from dispating the occupant's title to redeem the mortgaged premises.(1) If a person takes out probate of a will his heirs are not estopped from disputing the will (2) Semble that a tenant may be estopped from objecting to the terms of a potta where he has accepted pottas containing similar terms for a series of years previously in respect of the same holding and has by his conduct led the landlord to suppose that the potta would not be objected to (3)

As already observed, it makes no difference what the form is which the representation takes or whether it be written or verbal (4) and further that in India there is no technical written matter being only c which provision is made by to not some of the general principles touching estoppels in writing and the cases decided thereon (5) The intention of the deed as appearing on the lace of it must be regarded. A recital will be building if it was a bargain on the faith of which the parties acted (6) The deeds and contracts of the people of India ought (the Privy Council have said) to be liberally construct. The form of expression, the literal sense, is not to be so much regarded as the real meaning of the parties which the transaction discloses (7). A party will be precluded from contradicting an instrument to the prejudice of another only where that other has been induced to alter his position upon the faith of the statement contained in the instrument (8) Recitals therefore which have not had this effect cannot operate as estoppels. So a statement of consideration in a deed is not conclusive evidence of the existence of such consideration, but it is only evidence as far as it goes, (9) and so also a receipt may be contradicted or explained(10) (v. post) Estoppels must be made out clearly, and this is an they assert (12) If the document is ambiguous, the construction of it may be aided by looking at the surrounding circumstances (13) Where a plaintiff sued the defendant to recover a sum of money by attachment and sale of certain

- (1) Prannoth Roy v Roalher Begum, 7 Moa I. A., 323, 394 (1859) (2) Mahomed Mudun v Khodezunnissa, 2 W.
- R , 181 (1865).
- (3) Sree Sankarachors v Varada Pillas, 27 M, 332 (1903)
- (4) v. ante, p 757 As to certain classes of documents which (amongst other) may raise an estoppel, see Caspersz, op. cst , 230-233 ; mvoices, Holding v. Elliot, 5 H. & N., 117, documents representing goods, such as warehouse receipts and delivery orders - Ganges Manufacturing Co. v. Sourumul, 5 C, 689 (1880), Knight v Wiffen, L R , 5 Q B , 660 , Coventry v The Great Eastern Ry Co , L R , 11 Q B D , 776 , Seton v. Lafone, I. R., 19 Q B. D., 68. Farmlon v Bain, L. R., 1 C. P. D., 445, railway receipts G. I. P Radway Co. v. Hannandas Ramkson, 14 B., 57 (1899), bills of lading Lishman v Christie, 19 Q B D, 333, 340, Grant v Nortray, 10 C B , 665 , Cox v Bruce, 18 Q. B D , 147; difference note Sindh, etc., Bank v Mudoo. soodun Choudhry, Bourke, O C, 322 (1865). See as to accounts and awards Caspersz, op. cd ... 233-239.
- (5) See Cuspersz, op. cst , C. H., where the - Indian cases will be found collected (6) South-Eastern Railway Co. v. Wharton, 6
- H. & N., 520, 526 (7) Hanooman Prosad v Musst Babooes, 6
- Moo I. A. 411 (1856), per Knight Bruce, L. J. and see Ramiall Sett v Kanas Lall, 12 C., 578 (1886)
- (8) Faram Sing v. Lalp. Mall, 1 A., 403, 410 See this case considered and on certain points dissented from in Chemirappa v. Puttappa, 11 B., 708 (1887)
- (9) See s 92, Prov (1), ante, and cases there cited, and Ram Surun v. Pran Pearee, 13 Moo I A, 551, 559 (1870), Zamindar Serimatu v. Virappa Chetti, 2 Mad H C R, 174 (1864).
- (10) Tweedie v Poorno Chunder, 8 W. R., 125 (1867)
- (11) Low v Bouterse, L R., 1891, 3 Ch , 113,
- (12) Ram Merca v Ram v Ali Balsh, 3 B. L. R., 312 (1874) See Siva Ram v Ali Balsh, 3 A, 805 (1881), where the estoppel was held to have been clearly made out.
  - (13) Ib., and see s. 92, Prov. 6.

property in the legal pissession of the defendant; and both the plaintiff and the defendant professed to receive their title by virtue of a document which the Court found was invalid according to Mahommedan law; it was held that the defendant was not estopped from denying its validity, and the Court was not bound to hold that the document, as between the parties, was valid. The defendant being in possession, it was for the plaintiff to establish her right to attach and sell the property by showing superior title in herself, whatever might be the rights of the defendant (1)

A receipt signed by a party, like any other statement made by him and produced afterwards to affect him, is evidence but evidence only, and is not conclusive but capable of explanation. (2) It may, however, like any other statement, be conclusive evidence in favour of any person who may have been induced thereby to alter his condition (3) It has been an ancient practice among Hindius of indorsing payments on bonds (4) It is also very customary to stipulate that no payment will be recognised except "after causing the payment to be entered on the back of the bond, or after taking a receipt for the same" But such a stipulation is no estoppel, and the obligor of the bond may prove by other means that the debt or a part of it has been satisfied (5) The mere absence of an indorsement of payment on the back of a kistburdi cannot prevail against positive proof of payment, and evidence of such payment must be admitted (6) though, of course, in deciding whether the alleged payments were made, the omission of indorsements is a most important circumstance to be considered (7)

A recutal in a deed or other instrument is in some cases conclusive, and in ore or less leblerate

s evidence

against the persons who make it But it is no more evidence against third persons than any other statement would be (9) A recetal by one party of a state of facts on the faith of which the other party was induced to change his situa-

(1) Kuwarkas v. Mur Alam, T B, 170 (1883) (2) Farrar v. Hańkanson, 9. A E, 641, a recept is nothing more than a prumd fotce arhowledgment that the moncy has been paid, Skuje v Jackson, 3 B E C, 421, Corner v Kep, 3 B. E Ad, 318, sees. 0.1, iil (c), aufe, and cases at p 571 aufe to On the other hand, while a recept is only exidence of payment, a release amphiltacts the debt. New v v Footre 2 H. E N, 779

(3) Grates v. Key, 3 B. & A., 318, asc. Rice v. Rect., 2 Dewy, 77 (ouppad vendor), Shropshire Union, etc., Co., v. R., L. R., 71 B. L., App., 463, 300 (the same), Inderion v. Walter, L. R., 31 Co., D., 151, and Powel v. Browner, C. A. (1907). Times L. R., v. 24, p. 71, W. N., 228 (mortgager acknowledging recepted and expension of complex as against assignee of mortgage who has green full values.

(4) Narayan Under v Mobilal Ramdas, 1 B , 45 (1875).

(5) Kalee Das v. Tara Chund, S W. R., 316 (1867); Narayan Under v. Modula Randas, 1 B, 45 (1875).

(6) Girdharee Singh v. Lallon Koonwur, 3 W. R., Misc., 23 (1865).

Raskachellum Chetty v. Golsadappa, 5 Mad.
 C. R., 451 (1870); Nagar Mall v. Atternoollah, 1 N -W. P. H C R , 146 (1869).

(8) See Sarkies v Prosonomoyee Dossee, 6 C, 794 (1881), Gour Mones v. Krishna Chunder, 1 C , 397 (1878), Nimhoo Sahoo v Boudhoo Iummadar, 13 W R , 2 (1870); Tehilram v Kashibas (1908), 33 B, 53 [recitals in derds of sale], Silher Chand v. Dulnutty Sing, 5 C. 363, 375 (1879) [recitals of necessity for cou tracting debt], Sunkar Lall v Juddobuns Sunaye, 9 W P., 285 (1868) [that money was borruned for husband's shradh]; Mahomed Hamidorlah v Madhoo Soodun, 11 W R., 208 (1869) [possession], Gopal v Narayan, 1 Born. H. C R. 31 (1863) [separation], Bheeknarain Singh 1. Necol Koer, Marsh, 373 (1863) [Mooktearnamah]. Rao Kurun v. Mehlab Koonuar, 3 Agra, 150 (1869) [previous mortgage]; as to recitals in will, see Nulmonee Choudhry v. Zuheerunissa Khanum. 8 W. R., 371 (1807); Bomanjee Munchurjee v. Rossain Abdoellah, 5 W. R., P. C. 61, Lakshman Dada v. Rum Chandra, 1 B , 511 (1877)

[9] Brajeshwars Pashalar v. Budhanuddi, 6 C., 268 (1880); Monedor Singh v. Sumirta Kur, 17 A., 428 (1890), and a recital does not estop in favour of third persons who did not contract on the faith of it: Stronghill v. Buck, 14 Q. B., 781, 784, 787.

tion, as for instance by continued in the continued in th party whose position is of the idence. ped in there is no authority to an action by the other party, not founded on the deed and wholly collateral to it, to dispute the facts admitted in the deed (2)

The question whether one of the parties to a fraud against third persons can show the truth as against the other has already been discussed in connection with the subject of benami transactions (3) The rule of title by estonpel has been the subject of enactment in section 43 of Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882) and the 18th section of the Specific Relief Act (I of 1877) to which as also to the undermentioned cases reference should be made.(4) The mere fact of a person attesting a deed is no evidence in itself that he consented to it or knew its contents, that is, the mere attestation does not necessarily import concurrence, though it may be shown by other evidence that when he became an attesting witness he fully understood what the transaction was and that he was a concurrent party to it (5) As to documents executed by pardanashin women, Hindus or Mahomedans, v. ante, section 111.(6) There is not necessarily any inconsistency in a party who has unsuccessfully tried to rescind an agreement afterwards claiming performance of it (7)

To constitute an estoppel it is necessary that the statement or conduct "Intention charged should have been intentional, with the object of inducing the other party to change his situation in consequence. Mere loose talk does not usually estop. A party will not be estopped by information given by him merely informally, as a matter of conversation, with no intention of establishing a contractual relation with the party to whom he speaks—it being the duty of the parties asking him for such information to notify him, if they would bind him, that they intended to act upon his answers. At the same time a party by negligence in asserting a claim may be afterwards estopped from setting up such claim against strangers (8) The representation must have been made with the intention, either actual, or reasonably to be inferred(9) by the person to whom it was made, that it should be acted upon A third person to whom the representation was not made cannot claim the estoppel, unless it was intended or apparently intended that he should act upon it (10) The term "wilfully" as used in the case of Pickard v. Scars(11) is in effect equivalent to "intentionally" (12)

<sup>(1)</sup> Stronghill . Buck, supra and sec sh , as to circumstances in which an estoppel operates on all or is confined to a single party South Fastern Railway Co v Warton, 6 H & N , 520,

<sup>(2)</sup> Corpenter v Buller, 8 M & W , 209, 212

<sup>(3)</sup> s ante.

<sup>(4)</sup> Deals Chand v Nerban Singh, 5 C , 253 (1879), Pranispan Gotardhandas v. Bain, 4 D. 34 (1879), Radhey Lal v Mahesh Prasad, 7 A. 864 (18-5), Sheo Pracad v. Udas Singh, 2 A., 718 (1880) See p 756, note (1)

<sup>(5)</sup> Ram Chunder v Hars Das, 9 C , 463, 466 (1882), Rajlathee Debs v. Gocool Chunder, 3 B. L. R (P. C), 57, 63 (1889) v. ante, p 197, note (5), as to attestation by reversioners of estates beld by Hindu females, see last case and Gopaul Chunder v. Gour Monee, 6 W R . 52 (1866) Madhub Chunder v. Gobind Chunder, 9 W. R., 350 (1868). See also Mahadett v. Neelamoney, 20 M., 269, 273 (1896) Collier v. Baron, 2 N. L. It., 34.

<sup>(6)</sup> ante, a 111 and cases there cited (7) Srish Chundra v. Roy Bonomali, 6 Bom R. 501 (1904).

<sup>(8)</sup> Wharton, Ev., §§ 1079, 1155, as to fact stated as hearsay offered to prove an estoppel. see Roe v. Ferrars, 2 B & P , 518 Stephen v Froman, 16 N Y, 381 (Amer) "In genera where there is nothing reasonably indicating that the representation was intended to be acted upon as a statement of the truth, or that it was tantamount to a promise or agreement that the declaration made is true so as to amount to an undertaking to respond in case of its falsity, the party making it is not estopped from proving the truth ' Bigelow, on cit , 629.

<sup>(9)</sup> v. post. (10) Mayenbarg v. Haynes, 50 N. Y., 675, (Amer.) Bigelow, op cit, 630. Carr v London 4 N . B. Ry. Co , 10 C. P., 317

<sup>(11) 6</sup> A. & E , 469 , v. unte, p. 755, note (1) (12) Sarat Chunder v. Gopal Chunder, 191, A . 203, 219 (1892).

or "voluntary." (1) And by the term "wilfully" we must understand. "if not that the party represents that to be true which he knows to be untrue, at least that he means his representation to be acted upon, and that it is acted upon accordingly; and if, whatever a man's real intention may be, he so conducts himself that a reasonable man would take the representation to be true, and believe that it was meant that he should act upon it, and did act upon it as true, the party making the representation would be equally piccluded from contesting its truth." (2) Therefore, intention to have the representation acted upon may be presumable as well as actual, so that a man would be bound as well when his conduct or the circumstances of the case justified the inference of intention. Neglicence when naturally and dientical efore have the same effect in creating the mere want of care towards preventing an unauthorized transfer of one's property or the like act creates no estoppel; 'ided from alleging that his signature had been negligently employed a dishonest clerk. It is ach of duty to the party claiming the estoppel, as for instance, where it has amounted an apparent authority to act for the

that the rule of intention is satisfied or omission, has caused another to believe a thing to be true and to act upon that belief must be held to have done so "intentionally" within the meaning of the Statute, if a reasonable man would take the representation to be true and believe it was meant that he should act upon it (5). It is not necessary, however, to prove an intention to deceive in order to make a case of estoppel, nor sit necessary to an estoppel that the person whose acts or declarations induced another to act must have been under no mistake or misapprehension himself. Section 115 does not make it a condition of estoppel resulting that such person was either committing or seeking to commit, a fraud, or that he was acting with a full without full knowledge, or under error, sibi imputet, it may, in the result, be unfortunate for him, but it would be unjust, even though he acted under error, to throw the consequences on the person who beheved his statement and acted

<sup>(1)</sup> Corman's v Monglom, 4 If & N, 649 Sarate Chandre v Gopal Chauster, appra Parke, B. prevering that the word 'wilduly' might be read as opposed not merely to 'involuntarily' boat to 'uninetationally' aboved that if the representation was made voluntarily, though the effect on the mind of the hearer was produced unintentionally, the same result would follow Bagloway por 1, 634 m

<sup>(2)</sup> Freeman v. Cooke, 2 Ex. R., 654, per Baron Parke, cited in Sarat Chunder v. Gopal Chunder, $1074.

Freeman v. Cooke, S. Ex. R., 634, Greggy, Wilde, 10.4. E., 90, 97; Carr v. London,
 Co., L. R., 10 C. P., 307; Arnold v. Cheque Bank,
 C. P. D., 678, Loglamo v. Bank of England,
 C. P. D., 678, Loglamo v. Bank of England,
 C. P. D., 678, Loglamo v. Bank of England,
 C. P. D., 68, Loglamo v. Cook,
 C. P. D., 68, Bigdow, op cit, 630,

<sup>(4)</sup> Bigelow, op. cit., 631, 632, citing Swan v.
North British Australanan Co., 2 H. & C., 175;

as to silence as to the fact of a forged signature, see McKenzie v. British Lines Co., 6 App. Cas.

<sup>(5)</sup> Serat Chunder v. Oopet Chunder, uspra. The High Court of Molans had previously (Vista v. Krednas, 7. Mr., 3, 8. (1839) expressed the view that by the auditation in this section of the word 1" interationally " for "wifully" in the rule stated in Pictar's X cerus, 6. A. E. 1, 469, it was possibly the design to exclude cases from the rule in Indua to when it might be applied under the terms in which it had been stated by the English Courts. But the Prey Courted Lessified with this view, and likil that on the contrary, the substitution was made for the parpose of declaring the law in Indua to be previously that of the law of England.

<sup>(6)</sup> Surat Chunder v. Oopal Chunder, 10 f. A. 201, 215, 218 (1802); overruling Ganya Suhai v. Hira Singh, 2 A., 809 (1850). Lishau v. Kristinan, 7 M., 3 (1883)

on it as it was intended he should do (1) It has been held in America that the representation must have been a free voluntary act; and if obtained by the party who has acted upon it, it must have been obtained without artifice. If it has been promised by duress or by fraud, there will be no estoppel upon the party making it, it would seem, though he made it with the full intention that it should be acted upon; indeed, it is said that where the conduct supposed to have created an estoppel, was brought about or directly encouraged by the party alleging the estoppel, no estoppel is created. But that must probably be understood of something in the way of artifice or other questionable endeavour (2)

The representation and the action taken must be connected together as "Caused or cause and effect. Not only must it be shown that there was belief in a particular fact, and action taken upon such belief, but also that the action and belief were induced by a representation of the plaintiff intended or calculated to have the result which has happened.(3) But though the representation must have been the inducement to the change of position, it need not have been the sole inducement if it were adequate to the result,—that is, if it might have governed the conduct of a prudent man, and if it did influence the result, that will be enough though other inducements operated with it. And the law will not undertake, in favour of a wrong-doer, to separate the various inducements presented and ascertain precisely how much weight was given to the representation in question (4) But though the representation need not be exclusively acted upon, there can be no estoppel where the party claiming one is obliged, before changing his position, to enquire for the existence of other facts to make the inducement sufficient, and to rely upon them also in acting (5) In such a case it is clear that the inducement was not adequate to, and therefore not the cause of the result, viz., the action taken. If the party is absent at the time of the transaction his silence or other conduct must at least be of a nature to have an obvious and direct tendency to cause the omission or the step taken.(6) The section uses the word "permitted" as the expression apt to cases of omission and negligence. Conduct of omission or negligence may be the cause of the action taken such conduct raising inferences which are often as casually effective as any positive declarations may be

There can be no estopped if the party to whom the representation is made "To be does not believe it to be true, for in such case the resulting conduct is in no lieve." sense the effect of the preceding declaration, or if the party deceived does not act on that belief so as to alter his previous position (7) This section does not apply to a case where the statement relied upon is made to a person who knows the real fact and is not misled by the untrue statement. A person cannot use as an estoppel a statement by which he has been in no way misled or induced to alter his position to his own detriment (8) There can be no estoppel arising

<sup>(1)</sup> Ib , esting Cairneroes v. Lorimer, 3 Macq . 829 , Pickard v Sears, supra . Freeman v Coole, supra, Cornish v. Abington, supra, Carr v London & North-Hestern Railway Co . L. R . 10 C. P 316 , Seign Larng & Co v. Lafone, 19 Q

<sup>(2)</sup> Digelow, op cif, 583, as to admissions under duress, see Wharton, Ev., § 1099

<sup>(3)</sup> Solano v Lalla Ram, 7 C L R , 481 (1880) , Mohunt Das v Nillamal Dewan, 4 C W N. 283 (1893), in Gens Prasad v Mulhterar Ras, 21 A., 316, 322 (1899), it was held that that which really induced the party to abandon a portion of his claim was not the acts of the other party teled upon as an estoppel but an extraneous cause independent of such party;

v post, ' To Act," p 781

<sup>(4)</sup> Bigelow, op cit, 582, 583, r- port

<sup>(5) 15, 639, 640</sup>

<sup>(6)</sup> Ib, 596

<sup>(7)</sup> Collier v. Baron, 2 N. L. R., 34 (8) Grish Chandra v Incar Chundra, 3 B. 1.

R., A C , 337 (1869) , s c , 12 W R , 226 , Agrals Charan v Mahlab Chandra, Sev Rep . July-Dec 1864, p 29. Jhingura Leuari v. Durga, 7 A , 878 (1895) , Narayan v Kaoji, 28 B.,

<sup>393, 397 (1904)</sup> So in an action for deceit, if it is proved that the plaintiff did not rely upon the false statement complained of, he cannot maintain the action: Smith v. Chadwick, 20 Ch. D., 27.

out of legal proceedings when the truth of the matter appears on the face of the proceedings (1) The person who claims the benefit of an estoppel must show that he was ignorant of the truth in regard to the representation (2) When both parties are equally conversant with the true state of the facts it is absurd to refer to the doctrine of estoppel (3) So where the plaintiff was as much acquainted with the actual facts of the case as the defendant, there being in fact no misrepresentation by the latter upon which the plaintiff had been induced to act or to alter his position, there was held to be no estoppel (4) In such cases the person making the representation to another does not "cause or permit" that other to believe the representation to be true. The representation in order to work an estoppel must be of a nature to lead naturally, that is, to lead a man of prudence to the action taken.(5) To justify a prudent man in acting upon it, it must be plain, not doubtful, or matter of questionable inference, for certainty is essential to all estoppels The Courts will not readily suffer a man to be deprived of his property when he had no intention to part with it.(6) Again, to say that the representation must be such as would naturally lead a prudent man to act upon it is also to say that it must be material. That is equally essential to the estoppel. (7) This, however, does not mean that the representaif it were adequate t I · · · والمتروا والمتراوري والمراب والمتراور ander a filosofia di articoloriti of a prudent man.-1.1 other inducements operated with it And the law will not undertake, in favour of a wrong-doer, to separate the various inducements presented, and ascertain

"A thing"

A proposition of law is not "a thing" within the meaning of the section, and this expression refers to a belief in a fact (9) So also an admission on a point of law is not an admission of a thing within the meaning of the section (10). The representation in order to work an estoppel must be a material statement of fact (11). The rule excluding statements of opinion and statements of law has been said to be based upon the ground that the truth is.

precisely how much weight was given to the representation in question (8)

(1) Tara Lal v Sarobar Singh, 4 C W N, 533 (1899), s. c, 27 C, 413, Narayen v Raoji, 29 B., 393 (1994), at p. 397

(2) Big-low, op cit, 626-628, and cases thereted, as to the presumption of knowledge, v. ib., pp. 627, 611, and oute a 114, *Intention*, **Knowledge, **to circumstances which may necessitate enquiry, see Birstehlur v. Muir. kead, 14 A. 382 (1892), *Inanconner Koondon v. Morquesa, 11 B. L. R. 40 (1872)

(3) Per Farran, C. J., Honapa v., Narsapa, 23 B., 408, 409 (1898)

(4) Mt Oodey Koowur v Mt Ladoo, 13 Moo I. A, 595, 598 (1870)

(5) Bigelow, op. ett., 572
 (6) Ib., 578. sie Smith v. Chadwick, 20 Ch.

D. 27. [If a statement, by which the plaintiff says he has been deceived, is ambiguous, the plaintiff is bound to state the meaning which he attached to it, and cannot have the Court put a meaning upon it.]

(7) Bigclow, op. cst., 582, Smith v. Chadwick, supra. [If a statement, although untrue, is so trivial that it could not in the opinion of the Court have influenced the conduct of the plaintiff, it will not support an action for decrit.] See Taylor, Ev., s. 93

(8) McAleer v. Horsey, 35 Ind. 430 (Amer.): Bigelow, op. cit., 582. Narayan v. Raop., 28 B., 393, 397 (1904).

(9) Roynarein Bose v. Universal Life Assurnace Co., T. C. 534 (1881); n. Coppe Lail v. Chen inducte Bulsonge, [1 B. L. R., 325 (1872)]; s. c. 19 W. R., 12; Surreduchina Roy v. Doorgasundars Daser, 10 I. A., 115, 116 (1892); Topper v. Topper, I. A., Sop Vol., 71 (1872), Morgan v. Couchman, 14 C. B., 180; na to admissions of law, see p. 216, aufe.

(10) Dangaraga v. Naud Lal, 3 All I. J. 531 (11) Bigslow, op et 372—571, states that to be the perard rule, adding that it can solom happen that a statement of opinion or of a prosition of law will conclude the party making it from denying its correctness except where it is understood to mean nothing but a sample statement of fact; that st. tennents of opinion-however, often approach to representations of fact, the whole suggestion in regard to reti opinion treading on deheats ground, and that its seems probable that the rule against representations of law has been present to fact New Section 10, 12 that hadden v. Nathaden, 24 II., 200 (1004), at p. 407.

uncertain, or that the person to whom the statement is made knows as much about the matter as the other.(1) In the undermentioned case the Court expressed an opinion that a grantor might possibly be estopped from questioning the permanent character of a lease by reason of misrepresentations even on a point of law which was not clear, and free from doubt (2) The fact must be a fact alleged to be at the time actually in existence or past and executed representation must have references to a present or past state of things; for, if a party make a representation concerning something in the future, it must generally be either a mere statement to intention or opinion uncertain to the knowledge of both parties, (3) or it will come to a contract, with the peculiar consequences of a contract, or to a waiver of some term of a contract, or of the performance of some other kind of duty (4)

It is essential to an estoppel that one party has been induced by the con "To act." duct of the other to do or forbear(5) doing something which he would not, or particular belief were ission), on the part of the defendant, which representation was intentionally made, in order to produce that result (6) To establish an estoppel it is not sufficient to find that it may well be doubted that the plaintiff could have acted in the way he did, but for the way in which the defendant had acted It must be proved as a fact that the plaintiff could not have acted in the way he did, and that the defendant by his declaration, act or omission intentionally caused or permitted another person to believe a thing to be true and to act upon such belief (7) As the foundation of the doctrine is the changed situation of the parties referable to the representation as its cause, a person cannot use as an estoppel a statement by which he has been in no way misled or induced to alter to his own detriment(8) his previous position (9) Upon this essential of an estoppel Mr.

<sup>(1)</sup> Bigelow, op. cif , 573

<sup>(2)</sup> Narsingh Dyal v Ram Narain, 30 C., 893 (1903)

<sup>(3)</sup> The intent of a party is necessarily uncertain as to its fulfilment. No person has a right to rely on it A person cannot be bound not to change his intention, nor can he be precluded from showing such a change merely because he has previously represented that his intentions were once different from those which he eventually executed . Langdon v Doud, 10 Allen , 433 , s c., 6 Allen , 423 (Amer ), per Bigelow, <sup>(4)</sup> Bigelow, op cit , 574 , Maddison v Alderson, 8 App Cas , 467, 473 , 5 Ev D , 293 Jordan v. Money, 5 H L. Cas , 185, 213-215 , Cutizens Bank v. First National Bank, L R. 6 E. & I A , 352, 360 , Jethabas v Nathabhas, 28 B , 399, 407 (1904) Pollock on Contract, Appendix, sole K , and cases there cited.

<sup>(5)</sup> The damage need not be shown to be a positive step taken to one's prejudice; it is enough to show that the party claiming the estoppel was induced by the other party to refrain from obtaining a particular benefit which he would otherwise have been reasonably sure of acquiring, Bigelow, op cit , 645 , citing Knights v Waffen, L. R , 5 Q B , 360.

<sup>(6)</sup> Solano v Lalla Ram, 7 C L R , 481 (1880), or which being intentionally made had the effect of producing that result v supra, and see Jhingurs Tewars v Durga, 7 A , 878 (1885). Mohunt Das v Nd Komal Dewan, 4 C W N , 283

<sup>(7)</sup> Narsingdas v Rahimanbhai, 28 B , 440  $\{1904\}$

<sup>(8)</sup> Prejudice to the party claiming the estoppel should be shown , Schmaltz v Avery, 16 Q. B , 155 . Bigelow, op cit , 644 . it is not enough that the representation has been Larely acted upon, if still no substantial prejudice would result by admitting the party who made it to contradict it he will not, according to the American cases, be estopped, ib It does not prejudice one in law to do something one was bound to do. 16 . 638, n (1)

<sup>(9)</sup> Grish Chandra v. Isuar Chandra, 3 B. L. R , A. C., 337, 341 , s. c , 12 W. R , 226 (1869). Sev. Rep., July-Dec. (1864), p. 29, In re Purmanandas Jeeuandas, 7 B., 109 (1882), Mt. Oodey Koowar v. Mt. Ladoo, 13 Moo. I. A., 585 (1870) . Kurerji v. Babai, 19 B., 374, 389

Bigelow observes as follows:(1)-"The rule is fundamental that unless the representation of the party to be estopped has also been really acted upon, the other party acting differently, that is to say, from the way he would otherwise have acted, so that to deny the representation would be to prejudice him, no estumpel arises. Neither a statement of any kind nor an admission in pais can amount of itself to conclusive evidence. But if, on the other hand, the representation has been acted upon promptly, under circumstances, such as those already detailed, the party making the statement or guilty of the conduct in question will be precluded from alleging the contrary of that which he has given the other party to understand to be true. And it matters not, if the party acting upon the representation was justified in so doing, how he has changed his position, whether by the purchase of property, the surrender of posession, the erection of improvements or other outlay upon land or goods about which the estoppel be claimed, or the expenditure of money in hitigation, or it is held, even by being induced to refrain from steps which would otherwise probably have been taken But unless the representation is in some way acted upon, unequivocally, as tested by the first step taken, the estoppel cannot arise: nor will any e-toppel arise when the party acting upon the representation has done only what he was legally bound to do. And though, as we have seen, it need not be erclusively acted upon, there can be no estoppel where the party claiming one is obliged, before changing his position, to inquire for the existence of other facts to make the inducement sufficient, and to rely upon them also in acting. In other words, though the party may, no doubt, act upon any one of several representations or inducements from different sources, it will not answer for him to put together two severally insufficient inducements from different and independent sources " Where it is plain that the representation has been substantially acted upon there is, of course, no question (supposing the existence of other elements) that an estoppel arises, but the general rule is that only the person to whom the representation was made, or for whom it was designed can act upon and avail himself of it (2)

Represen-

It is necessary to an estoppel that there should be privity between the parties; that is to say, an estoppel is only available between the parties to the representation and those claiming under them. The section only says—"retitler he (that is the person making the representation) nor his representative shall be allowed." Therefore only parties and their privies are bound by the representation, and only those whom the representation is made to or intended to induce and their private may take advantage of the estoppel. A stranger can neither take advantage of an estoppel nor be bound by it (3). It will be observed that whetever be the rule in the case of estoppel by judgment, (4) this estoppel is not mutual. The party to whom the n isrepresentation was made has an estoppel (3). If the act was inter allost there can be no estoppel (6).

(1804): Purpa v. Jinayun, 7 A., 511, 515 (1885) (the alternated his postion by the person pleading the entropy line an essential part of the field). Pollandikally v. Tunna Rellis, 2 Wal. II. C. E., 521 (1884). In the Purmassian Jinematica, 7 E., 100, 117 (1882). M. Osfer Komero v. M. Lafwi, 15 M. A., 283, 80 (1887). Malammati Samindida v. Massa E., 4 A., 286 (1885). The rale that the proposalization must have been acted upon is farther illustrated by Hosonic v. Hallens, 2 E. E. E., 1.5 Komero, v. Agricultura, 1888. E. E., 1.5 Komero, v. Agricultura, 1888. E. E., 1.5 Komero, v. Farthers, B. E., 7 G. P., 1733; Schmaltz v. Farthers, B. E., 7 G. P., 1733; Schmaltz v. Aster, 18 Q. E., 6551 (1977) v. Smith, 28 Ch. D., 700; Comv. Landica N. M. F., D. Co., 10 Co.

p. 317. Makaden v. Neilamani, 20 M., 253, 273 (1886). Krieb. Moni v. Scertary of S. 26; C. W. N., 29, 103 (1898); Tara Ld v. Sarvar Singh, 4 C. W. N., 233, 238 (1891); Falue Basson Rejum v. Swoder Dis, 4 C. W. N., 563 (1993).

<sup>(1)</sup> Or cit., 635-640

<sup>(2)</sup> Bigelow, op. etc., 649, 649, where the quation of statements at record hand is discussed.

(3) Bigelow, op. etc., 597; Taylor, Fr., § 9)

<sup>(4)</sup> Spencer v. R. Manuel, L. R., 2 P. & D., 230.

 <sup>(5)</sup> Riccion, op. est., 587, note (2).
 (6) R. v. Amburgate Rv. Co., 1 E. & R., 372;
 Momant v. Castle Sted Co., 34 Ch. D., 58.

When a person claims property as the representative of another the doctrine of estoppel cannot apply to representations made by any one except that other person (9)

. .

<sup>(1)</sup> See Board v Roard, L. R., 9 Q B., 48, Middition v Polloc, L. R., 4 C. D., 49, Sra. Man v Alt Bolth, 3. A., 805 (1881), [vendor—vendes] Bromshee Amer v. Syrl Alt., 5 W R., 233 (1865) [Levil Johnshives Joyane v Jagobradhoo Salhoolla, 19 W. R., 233 (1873) [raurdian and mucol Lachmun Chander v Kolle Chern, 19 W R., 292 (1873), [hers] Chander Commer v. Harbury Solat, 16 C. 177 (1888)

<sup>(2)</sup> See Taylor, Ev , § 90

<sup>(3)</sup> v. sate, notes to s. 20 sub-voc "Persons from whom interest is derived" and cases there etted Vasanji Haribhai v. Lalla Akhu, 9 B., 285, 288 (1885). but see Bance Pershad v. Manu Singh, 8 W. R., 67 (1867).

<sup>(4)</sup> Krishnabhupati Devu v. Vikrama Devu, 18 M., 13 (1894).

<sup>(5)</sup> Sarad Chunder v Gopal Chunder, 191 A, 203, 220 (1892) a stretly speaking it is not the office of an estoppel to gass a title. The title remains, but it cannot be asserted against the party who acted upon the false representation. Bigelow, op. etc., 609.

<sup>(6)</sup> Prayag Raj v Sidhu Prasad Tewari (1903), 35 C, 877, and see Sarat Chandra Dey v O'pal Chandra Laha (1892), 20 Cal, 296 and Carr v London North-Western Radway (1875), 10 C P, 316.

<sup>(7)</sup> Ismalunessa Khatun v Harendra Lal Biswas (1908), 35 C , 904.

<sup>(8)</sup> Eagranja Singh v. Manolarnika Baksh Singh, P.C. (1907), Times L. R., v. 24, p. 46

<sup>(9)</sup> Ranga Rau v. Eharayammi, 17 M., 473 (1894).

to whom the representation was actually made, but also for the benefit of hi

Not only, as has been already seen, is the representative of the person Between Not only, as has been already to himself and estopped bound by the same estopped as that which affects his predecessor in title such person but the estopped conversely also enures not only for the benefit of the person sentiative.

successors in title. Therefore, not only may the heir be bound by an estoppe affecting his ancestor, but he may also claim the benefit of an estoppel which his ancestor might have claimed.

The estoppel by conduct operates by nature, that is, whenever it can s To deny

The estoppel by conduct operates by nature, that is, whenever it can state that thing operate, specifically, and gives to the party entitled the rights he would have against the person estopped supposing the representation true. So if the re presentation is made on the sale of a security which the seller did not own, the buyer's rights are not limited to the recovery of the consideration paid, bu

the purchaser will be entitled to recover what he would have received had the representation been true (1) If a person is entitled to avail himself of a f proof, that is, as a mean were those which did u statement made by the other party is evidence by way of admission of the fact to which it relates. I becomes conclusive evidence because the party claiming the estoppel affirm its truth, which the party estopped is not permitted to deny. The section only says that the party sought to be estopped is not to be allowed to deny the truth of the representation. It is, of course, open to him to deny that he made the representation itself. Lastly,(3) this estoppel, arising as it does from miscon duct, is not mutual, like other estoppels, and cannot be used against the party in whose favour it has arisen.(4)

Estoppel of tenant;

116. No tenant of immovable property, or person claiming through such tenant, shall, during the continuance of the tenancy, be permitted to deny that the landlord of such tenant had, at the beginning of the tenancy, a title to such immovable property; and no person who came upon any immovable property by the license of the person in possession thereof, shall be permitted to deny that such person had a title to such possession

se of person

Principle,-These are instances of estoppel by agreement based on permissive enjoyment If A being in possession of land deliver the possession to B upon his request and upon his promise to return it, with, or without rent, at a specified time, or at the will of A, B cannot be session to dispute A's title, because to allow hi to work a wrong against A by depriving him c at the time when such license was given.

sion afforded him and with which he would not have parted, but for the promise (or perhaps to speak more aptly the implied agreement) of B that he would hold it from him and in his place and stead (5) The estoppel of a tenant is founded

<sup>(1)</sup> Bigelow, op. cit., 651, 652.

<sup>(2)</sup> Luchmun Chunder v. Kals Churn, 19 W R., 292, 297 (1873), v. also sh., remarks as to the necessity of pleading an estoppel. In Shork Hanif v. Jajabandhu Shaha, 8 C. W. N., cexxvii (1904); a plea of estoppel was disallowed which had not been pleaded and as to which no issue was raused in the Court of first instance; and so Narsingdas v. Rahimanbai, 29 B., 440 (1904). (3) Bigelow, op. cit., 652.

<sup>(4)</sup> Y. ante, p. 66%.

<sup>(5)</sup> Franklin v. Merida, 35 Cal , 539 (Amer.). per Sanderson, J., cited in Bigelow, op. cd., 527, 529. The broad principle is that a person who

upon the contract between him and his landlord. The former took possession under a contract to pay rent as long as he held possession under the landlord, and to give it up at the end of the term to the landlord, and having taken it in that way he is not allowed to say that the man whose title he admits and under whose title he took possession has not a title.(1) There is no distinction between the relation of a tenant and that of a licensee in whose case the law itself implies a tenancy and to whom the same principles apply.(2)

Bigelow on Estoppel, Ch. XVII; Estoppel by Representation and Res Judicata by A. Caspersz, Ch. III, 2nd Ed., 1896; Everest and Strode on Estoppel, 268; Taylor, Ev., §§ 101-103 ; Cababé, Principles of Estoppel.

COMMENTARY.

As already stated this and the " " by agreement, as the last deal, wi h however, not exhaustive of this for settled rule that neither a tenant ne

estoppel Estoppel of hey are tonant. n a well dispute the landlord's title.(4) And a person who has been let into possession as tenant by a plaintiff is estopped from denying the latter's title without first surrendering possession (5) This rule was acknowledged and acted upon in India prior to this Act, (6) and is contained in this section. Enjoyment by permission is the foundation of the rule. Two conditions therefore are essential to the existence of the estoppel: (i) possession, (ii) permission When these conditions are present, the estoppel arises. (7) It follows, therefore, that when there is no permissive enjoyment; where the occupant is not under an allegation, express or implied, that he will at some time or in some event surrender the possession, as in the case of the grantee in fee, there can be no estoppel (8) By the terms of the section the rule applies not only to the tenant but to his representatives, and is operative throughout the continuance of the tenancy The rule applies in favour of a landlord with an equitable title only; (9) an unnamed landlord letting by means of an agent ;(10) and one of several co-sharers. If a person take a lease from one of several co-sharers he cannot dispute his lessor's exclusive title to receive the rent or sue ejectment.(11) The estoppel will also enure for the benefit of a lessor who has no title whatever, and the person let into possession will not be permitted to set up this want of title.(12) The question of the lessor's title is foreign to a suit for rent or in ejectment has received property from another will not be permitted to dispute the title of that person or his right to do what he has done. Bigelow, op.

(1) In re Stringer's Estate, L R , 6 Ch. D , 9, 10; see Dule v. Ashby, 7 H. & N., 602. Bigelow, op est., 506.

(2) Doe d Johnson v. Baylup, 3 A. & E., 188. (3) Rup Chand v Sarbeswar Chandra, 10 C. W. N., 747 (1906); s. c., 3 C. L. J., 629.

(4) Bigelow, op. cst., 606. Taylor, Ev. § 101-103 , Doe d Knight v. Smythe, 4 M & S , 347; Alchorne v Gomme, 2 Bmg , 54, see cases cited in William's Saunders 1, 575 11, 826 (Ed 1871); Bigelow, op cit., Ch XVII., Caspersz, op est , Ch. III. As to adverse possession, see Kristomons v. Secretary of State, 3 C. W. N . 99 (1898). (5) Mulhuraiyan v. Sinna Samaraiyan (1905).

28 M., 526, 15 M L. J., 526.

(6) Jainarayan Bose v. Kadambini Dan, 7 B. L. R., 723 n. (1869); Varuder Dojt v. Babaji Ranu, 8 Bom H. C. A. C., 175 (1871); Banee Madhab v. Thaloor Does, B. L. R., Sup. Vol , 588 F B (1866): Burn & Co v. Busho Moyes, 14 W R., 85 (1870), Course Dass v Jagunath Roy, 7 W. R., 25, 26 (1867), Mohesh Chunder v. Gooroo Prosad, Marsh , 277 (1863).

(7) Bigelow, op cit, 500

(8) Rup Chand v Sarberrar Chandra, supra. (9) Board v Board, L. R. 9 Q R , 53; see Bigelow, op vit , 362, 363, 538, 539.

(10) Fleming v. Gooding, 10 Ring . 549. (11) Jameedje Sprabje v. Ialehmiram Raja-ram, 13 B , 323 (1888) (12) Tadman v. Henman, L. R., 2 Q R. (1893).

168, 170, and this is so, though the tenancy be created by a deed which shows that the landlord possessed no legal estate : lilgelow, op. cd . 538. 539, 540, 362, 383 , Jully v. Arbutanot, 4 DeG. & J , 224 . Morton v. H ands, I., R , 4 Q. B., 293 ; Dule v. Askly, 7 H. & N., 600. As to objection to validity of lessor's title on the ground of want against a lessee. And this is so, though the ostensible lessor is merely a trusted and liable to account to the cetua que trust.(1) In this country, however, the principle that a tenant cannot dispute his landlord's title has been made to yield to the influence of the benami system. The tenant when sucd for reat due to his lessor has been allowed to prove that the person from whom nominally, he accepted a lease, was only a benamidar for a third person to whom the rent was really due.(2) And conversely where a landlord had accepted rent continuously from persons in whose names a lease had been taken for the benefit of their husbands, when the benamidars were unable to pay, he was allowed to sue the persons really interested in the lease (3) A plaintiff having sued to obtain possession of certain land which the defendant held as tenant and in respect of which he had for sor to the time when he became veyed to him the premises le ance was found to be a mere benami transaction Held, that the plaintiff was not estopped from asserting the tonancy and under the circumstances was entitled to recover.(4) And in a recent case it was held by the Madras High Court that where a deed is executed by a tenant in favour of a person benami for another, the real owner and not the benamidar is the landlord whose title the terant is estopped from denying under this section, and that in a suit by such benamidar for rent the tenant can deny his right to sue on the ground that he is not the person entitled, for a benamidar, as such, has no right to sue unless he can show a legal right to sue under the general law, (5)

Where the planntiff sued for possession of a house, alleging the expiry of the lease on which the defendants held as tenants, and the lower Court dismissed the suit, being of opinion that the plaintiff had no title to the house when he granted the lease, and that it belonged to the defendants when they passed the lease; it was held, reversing the decree of the lower Court, that the defendants (tenants) having executed the lease could not deny the plaintiff's title as a ground for refusing to give up possession, and the lower Court itself therefore could not go into the question (6)

A lease, like other contracts, is binding only on parties sui juris; and persons under disability not being bound by the contract are not estopped to deny its validity. (7) The estoppel of the tenant may rest upon the sole ground that he has received possession from the landlord. It is perforce an admission of registration, see Shums Ahmud v Goodum Mobiecooddeen, N.-W. P. H. C., 153 (1871)

<sup>(1)</sup> Januaran Bose v. Kadimbini Dan, 7 B. L. R., 723, 724 note (1869); Mussamut Purma v. Toreb Ali, Wyman's Rep., 14.

<sup>(2)</sup> Donzelle v. Kedarnath Chuckerbutty, 7 B. L. R , 720 : 20 W R , 352 (1871) , but see contra Jamarain Base v. Kadimbins Davi, 7 R. L. R., 723 note (1869) It is to be noted that the first mentioned case was decided prior to this Act and proceeded on the eround that the technical doctrine of estoppel was not applicable to this country. But that doctrine has been sanctioned by the present section, and, according to the principle upon which it rests, the question of the lessor's title is wholly foreign to a sust instituted against the hasee for rent. See Mohesh Chunder v. Gooroupersad Ghose, Marsh., 377 (1863); Cuthbertoon v Jering, 4 H. & N., 758; Mussamat Purnis v. Torab Ali, Avenan's Rep. 14. The principle, however, labl down in Dontelle v. Kedarnath Chuckerbutty, supra, was re-affirmed in Mussamat Indurbuttee v Shuth Mahboob, 24 W. R., 44 (1875) When there is a Leenni and real tenant, the latter may be used for the rent. As to must by lamilated when the ostensible tenant is a Leennide Medical Research Budshee v. Rushikare Morounder, v. R., Sp. No. 55 (1862); Judoonah Faul v. Pronumonah Dutt, 9 W. R., 17 (1861); Pronumon Coomer v. Koylash Churder, 8 W. R., 423, P. B. (1867); Depublican Chordity v. Kamchandra Rey, 5 B. L. R., 234 (1870), Fukl. Er, 563, 564.

<sup>(3)</sup> Debnath Roy v. Gudadhur Dey, 18 W. R.

<sup>(4)</sup> Subukisila v. Hari, 10 C. L. R., 199 (1882) (5) Kuppu Konan v. Thiragnana Sanonandani Pillai (1908), 31 M., 481: following Kuthupommal Rajali v. Secretary of State for India of some title in him; and by reason of the landlord's change of position the act is deemed a binding admission that he had sufficient title to make a lease. Where, however, the tenant being already in possession, has made an attornment or acknowledgment of the tenancy, he may show that he did so through ignorance, mistake or the like.(1) The doctrine that the tenant cannot dispute his landlord's title is not confined to the action of ejectment (2) The estoppel applies to all matters connected with, or arising out of the contract by which the relation of landlord and tenant was created Where in a suit for rent of land, the plaintiff alleged that he bought the land from the defendant and thereafter leased it to him year by year, and the defendant totally denied the sale and the lease, no question of title was held to arise on the pleadings because if the lease were proved, the defendant would be estopped by this section from denving his landlord's title (3) The estoppel cannot, however, extend further and affect matters quite outside that contract.(4)

<sup>(1906), 30</sup> M., 245. (6) Patel Kilabhai v. Hargoran Mansath, 10 B. 133 (1894).

<sup>(7)</sup> Digelow, op. cit., 512.

In regard to the relation of mortgagor and mortgagee, without attempting The relato define it, it is sufficient to say that when the mortgagor retains possession, a tion relation is created similar to that of landlord and tenant, and the mortgagor is estopped to deny the title of the mortgagee ,(5) unless after a distinct disclaimer brought to the knowledge of the latter he has acquired a title by adverse possession,(6) or unless the mortgage is void by Statute (7) The same principle applies in the case of trusts (8) and to certain relations between vendors and purchasers.(9) The position also of a licensee, who, under a license, is working a patent right for which another has got a patent, is very analogous to the position of tenant and landlord, and the licensee is bound upon the same principle and in the same way He cannot question the validity of the patent during the continuance of the license, though he may show what the limits of the patent are (10) A right to use a trade-mark may be created by license or assignment, in which case the licensee will be in the same position as the licensee of a patent. Indeed it may be broadly asserted that the assignce or licensee of any right accepted and acted under may be estopped to deny the authority from which the right proceeds (11) A landlord is also estopped from asserting that he had no title to let his tenant in It is an application of the maxim that no man shall derogate from his grant. It must be taken against him that he had power to do what he purported to do Hence the estoppel upon a vendor which precludes him from setting up his own want of title to defeat his own grant or sale and hence the same estoppel upon the mortgagor of property (12)

<sup>(1)</sup> Bigelow, op. cit , 522, 523

<sup>(2)</sup> Delany v Fox, 2 C B N S , 76%.

<sup>(3)</sup> Kaung Illa Pru v San Pau, 3 L. B R , 90 (4) Madras Handu, &c , Fund v Ragara Chetta,

<sup>19</sup> M , 200, 207 (1895).

<sup>(5)</sup> Bigelow, on ett. 544.

<sup>(6)</sup> Die d Higginbotham v. Barton, 11 A & E , 307, 314 , Partridge v Bere, 5 B. & Ald , 604 Hitchman v Waltman, 4 M. & W., 409; Moss v. Sallimon, 1 Doig , 279, 292 . Birch v. Wright, 1 T. R . 378, 383,

<sup>(7)</sup> Bigelow, op. cit , 544 (8) Bigelow, op. cit , 545.

<sup>(9)</sup> Ib., 545-552. Caspersz, op. cit., Ch. VI. Contract Act, sq. 98, 103, 234; Biddomoye Dabee v. Sitaram, 4 C., 497 (1878); Shanlar Murlidhar v. Mohan Lal, 11 B . 704; Ganger Manufacturing Co. v. Soursymull, 5 C., 669 (1880);

Greenwood v Holquette, 12 B L R , 42 , LeGeyt v Harney, I L R , 8 Bom , 501 (1894);

G I. P. Ry v Hamandas Ramkison, 14 B , 57 (1889); Premji Trikamdas v Madhowji Munji,

<sup>4</sup> B , 457 , Bir Bhaddar v Sarju Prasad, 9 A., 681, 20 I A. 108, Purmanundass Jurandass

v Cormacl, 6 B , 326 (1881)

<sup>(10)</sup> Clark v Adie, L R , 2 App. Cas., 423. In the matter of D H R Moses, 15 C , 244 (1887); see Act V of 1888 (Inventions and Designs); Bigrlow, op cit , 552-553 . Cababé, Estoppel, 37; Caspersz, op cit., Ch IV As to the estoppel against patentee, see Cropper v. Smith, L. R., 20 Ch. D , 700 , L R , 10 App, Cas , 240 c Proctor v. Bennis, L. R., 36 Ch. D., 749.

<sup>(11)</sup> Bigelow, op. cit., 532; Caspersz, op. cit., 120. See Lavergne v Hooper, S M., 149 (1884). · (12) Cababé, Estoppel, 43, 44,

The existence of a tenancy may be established by proof of a written or verbal contract under the terms of which the tenant was let into possession.(1) or it may be inferred from the circumstances of the case, such as the payment of rent.(2) admission of the relation in a deposition in former suit.(3) submission to a distress.(4) attornment(5) or other like circumstance. No difficulty arises where an actual demise is proved and it is shown that the tenant has taken possession thereunder. The permissive occupation raises an estoppel. But other acts of the tenant, such as payment of rent, stand on a different footing. Though such an act operates as an admission, it is like all other admissions rebuttable and not conclusive (6) And though the tenant is often required to make out a strong case he may show that the payment of rent or other act on his part was done through ignorance, fraud, misrepresentation, mistake or coercion, and thus rebut the inferences arising from his acts which tend to prove the existence of the relation asserted. He may show on whose behalf the rent was received; and when it has been paid under a mistake or misrepresentation the tenant is not estopped from resisting further payment after discovery of the misrepresentation or mistake (7)

In order to make the payment of rent operate as an estoppel, it is essential to show that the payments have been made as for rent due in respect of land held as a tenant, and if upon the facts of the case it is plain that the payments have been made not for rent but on another account, the doctrine of estopped arising from payment of rent has no place, (8) A tenant may always explain,

(1) See the judgment of Field, J., in Loda: Mollah v. Kally Das, 8 C., 238, 241 (1881), where the various ways in which the relation may exist are fully discussed, as also the defences to an action for rent

(2) Raykishore Surma v. Grija Kant, 25 W. R., 66 (1875), Vasudev Dajs v. Babajs Ranu, 8 Bom. H. C. R , 175 (1871) , Banee Madhub v. Thaloor Dass. B. L. R., Sup. Vol., F. B., 588, 890 (1866), Durga v Jhangurs, 7 A., 511, 515 (1885) . Vithaldas v. Secretary of State, 25 B . 410 (1901), Gracenor v. Boodhouse, 1 Bing, 38. 43 [payment of rent in all cases furnishes a strong presumption against the tenant, and it is always a good primit facts case for the landlord; Rogers v Pilcher, 6 Taunt., 602, Cooper v. Blandy, 1 Bmg. N. C., 45; Harrey v Franess. 2 Maclean & Robinson's Sc App , 57 , Lodas Mollah v. Kally Dass, 8 C, 238, 241 (1881). See as to the establishment of tenancy by acceptance of rent , Durga v Jhingurs, 7 A , 515, 878 (1893), Mohesh Chunder v. Urga Kant, 24 W. R . 127 (1875); The Government v. Greedharee Lall, 4 W. R , 13 (1865); the acceptance of rent must be with notice and knowledge to bind the landlord; Mrstunjaya Screar v. Gopal Chundra, 2 B. L R , A. C. J., 131 (1868) . Gour Lal v. Ramesenr Bhumik, 6 B. L. R., App , 92 (1870), but a landlord will be estopped by acceptance of rent with full knowledge of the facts: Gunga Buhen v. Ram Gut, 2 Agra, 48 (1867). Contract to pay a certain rent may be implied from payment for a number of years: Ventata. gopal v. Rangappa, 7 M., 365 (1883). The service of notice of ejectment under s. 36, Act XII

of 1881, is a conclusive admission of the existence of a tenancy , Baldeo Sing v. Imdod Ali, 15 A., 189 (1893). See now N.-W. P. Act III of 1901

<sup>(3)</sup> Obkoy Gobind v. Beejoy Gobind, 9 W. B., 162 (1868)

<sup>(4)</sup> Loda: Mollah v. Kally Dass, 8 C., 238, 241 (1881); Cooper v. Blandy, 1 Bing. N. C, 454.

<sup>(5)</sup> Lodai Mollah v. Kally Dass, supra; Fenner v Duplock, 2 Bing., 10.

<sup>(6)</sup> Banee Madhub v. Thaloor Dass, B. L. R.
F B., Sup Vol., 588 (1868).

<sup>(7)</sup> See cases cited at pp. 710-792, post; Hartey v Francis, 2 Macleen and Robinson's So-App . 57 . Doe d Barlow v. Wiggins, 4 Q B . 367 . Cooper v. Blandy, 1 Bing. N. C., 45; Bance Madhub v Thakoor L . , B. L. R., Sup. Vol., 599 F B , (1866); a. c., W. R., F. B , 71; Cd. lector of Allahabad v. Suraj Buksh, 6 N .W. P., 333 (1874) [A person accepting a lease under correson is not bound by such acceptance, nor do payments of rent by him to the person granting the lease stop him from questioning the title of the payer, unless the payer let him into possession. Even then the effect of the payment as estoppel would be confined to the title of the payer at the time possession was given.] As to the somewhat analogous case of payment of taxes raising no estoppel, see Pilamberdas v. Jambusor Municipality, 17 B. 510 (1892).

<sup>(8)</sup> Attorney-General v. Stephen, 6 DeG. M. & G. 111, 136.

and thereby render inconclusive, acts done through mistake or misapprehension. (1) So a person is not estopped from showing that a person to whom he has paid rent is not the legal representative of the person from whom he took possession. (2) But a person will be concluded by the unexplained payment of rent from disputing the title of the person to whom rent has been so paid (3)

The relation of landlord and tenant once created between certain parties continues as between them and their representatives in title until it is proved to have ceased.(4) The ordinary case of a tenant holding over after the expiry of his tenancy is not in itself, and in the absence of special circumstances treated as a case of adverse possession.(5) The possession of a tenant not being adverse to the title of his landlord, limitation cannot be applied in a suit by the latter against the former (6) The possession of a tenant is in the eye of the law the possession of his landlord.(7) Where land is leased to a person for life, and upon the latter's death, his heirs continue in possession without obtaining a fresh lease or paying any rent to the landlord, the heirs, though not in possession as tenants, are not trespassers. Their possession is permissive and not adverse until they expressly set up a title of ownership in the property (8) And in the undermentioned case it was held by the Allahabad High Court that possession acquired during the continuance of a lease will not ordinarily be adverse possession as against the lessor, until, at any rate, such time as the lessor becomes entitled to possession.(9) When the relationship of landlord and tenant has once been proved to exist, the mere non-payment of rent, though for many years, is not sufficient to show that the relationship has ceased; and a tenant who is such for rent and contends that such relationship has ceased, is bound to prove that fact by some affirmative proof, and more especially is he so bound when he does not expressly deny that he still continues to hold the land in question in the suit (10) Mere discontinuance of payment of rent does not constitute a dispossession within the meaning of the ninth section of the Specific Relief Act (11) The mere resumption of a lakhira; tenure by Government does not dissolve the contract between the zemindar and tenant. The latter has the option to determine his tenancy, or he may consent that the

<sup>(1)</sup> Banes Madhub v. Thaloor Dass, B. L. R., Sup. Vol., 588, F. B. (1866), Doe d. Pletin v

Brown, 7 A & E , 447, 450
(2) Rance Madhub v. Thakoor Dass, cupra.
(3) Vasudev Days v. Babass Ranu, 8 Bom H.

C. R., A. C., 175 (1871), (citing Cooper v. Elandy, 1 Bmg. N. C, 45, Dec d. Barlow v. Wiggins, 4 Q. B, 367]

<sup>(4)</sup> S. 109, ante Rungo Lall v. Abdool Guffoor, 4 C., 314, 316, 317 (1878); Krishnap: Ramchandra v. Antap. Pandurang, 18 B., 256, 258 (1893). See Zamorin of Calicul v. Narayanan Mussad, 22 M., 323 (1899).

 <sup>(5)</sup> Krishnaji Ramchandra v Intaji Pandurang, 18 B., 256, 258 (1893), Tatia v Sadashiv,
 7 B., 40 (1882).

<sup>(6)</sup> Stratecthur v. Kalkant, I. W. B., 171 (1894). Replactor Surma v. Gray Kant, 25 V. R., 96 (1876); Watson & Co. v. Rance Sharat, 7 W. R., 295 (1897); Edano Khan v. Wer, 18 W. P., 444 (1872). Raboo Daviev v. Sham Beharer, 24 W. R., 132 (1875). Haraban Ray v. Halothur Chawfer, 25 W. R., 56 (1876). Dat the rule is applicable to those exact only in which the parties are really related to each other as andlord and tenant: Domonousy Dakes v. Doorsal Ferbolet, I. D. L. R., 174 (1872). Macking a Ferbolet, I. D. L. R., 174 (1872). Macking

Saiba v Nagappa, 7 B , 96 (1882)

<sup>(7)</sup> Grish Chunder v Bhagwan Chunder, 13 W. R., 191 (1869).

<sup>(8)</sup> Krichnell, Ramchandra v. Antaja Pandarran, 18 B., 205 (1893), Heller v Silvon, I L. J., Q. B., N. S., 295. Duclaimer of a landlord's title after aut brought in the pleadings does not of itself determine the tenancy and render notice to quit unnecessary, Ambolas v. Bhau Bis, 20 B., 739 (1895). See Venlaja Krishnav Latkman Driy, 20 B., 235 (1895).

<sup>(9)</sup> Thammam Pande v Maharaja of Vitian-agram (1907), 29 A., 593, following Muhamad Husenn v. Mul Chard (1904), 27 A., 395, dissenting from Gobinda Nath Shaha Chokedry v. Surja Kantha Lehiri (1999), 26 C, 460

<sup>(10)</sup> Runyo Lell v 1bdod Gufjoor, 4 C, 311, (1878), 3 C L. II., 110 Turchuran Perumal v. Sanyadise, 3 31., 118 (1891), Tetta v. Soda-bir, 7 B., 40 (1882), Trofluctho Tarniser v. Mahma Chandra, 7 W. R. 400 (1887) [the mres noussion to pay rent does not constitute adverse possession], Poreth Narain v. Kan Chunder, 4 C., 601 (1875).

<sup>(11)</sup> Tarini Mohun v. Gunja Provad, 14 C., 649 (1887): Dhunput Singh v. Mahomed Kazim, 24 C., 296, 304 (1896).

amount of revenue which the landlord must pay to Government or a portion of it, shall be added to his original jumma.(1) Where a tenant has, by the direction of his landlord, paid rent to a third person, the landlord is estopped from recovering so much of the rent as the tenant has paid or made himself liable to pay in consequence of that representation.(2) A landlord may also be estopped from treating as his tenant him whom he has required to enter into that relation with another instead of himself.(3) In the undermentioned case it was held that the landlord, after having accepted rent from all the heirs, had no right to ignore some of them.(4) According to English law a tenant by accepting a lease for a new term, even less than the existing one, is held impliedly to surrender the previous tenancy, and by the acceptance of the new lease estops himself from setting up the old one.(5) It has been said(6) that such a rule has no application in this country out of the Presidency-towns, it being notoriously customary for tenants who hold protected tenures to accept fresh leases upon every change of proprietorship, whether by inheritance, private sale, or auction-purchase. The new lease is generally regarded as confirmatory of the tenure, and the fact of the tenure being an old one is occasionally, though not always, mentioned therein. Surrender, however, both express and implied, has been recognised by the Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), section 111, and it is conceived that what may amount to a surrender in any particular case will always in this country to a question of intention, and that if in fact the tenant by his acceptance of a fresh lease intended to, and did, surrender his old lease, the ordinary rule of estoppel will apply; but there will be no estoppel if the fresh lease be, and was intended to te, confirmatory only of the preceding one (7)

"Persons claiming through Buch tenant'

As in other cases the estoppel binds the tenant's privies as well as the tenant, (8) so if the tenant sublet the premises the sub-lessee cannot dispute the title of the original lessor. (9) e also sion of land by a lessor is este ınderpersons claiming through him tenant,(11) or as licensee,(12) c third persons, not claiming possession of the land under the tenant, are not so estopped. A person therefore who lets premises to which he has no title to a tenant, cannot distrain for arrears of rent due from the tenant the goods of a third person which happen to have been brought on to the premises by the tenant's license.(14)

Persons claiming thiough

-- + -- siste mar have The question whether the ----77 to be decided under one of two defendant into possession of the person who lets the defendant into possession, but claims under a title derived from the person who did. This section applies to the first case and estops the

(1) Vt. Fartharee v. Attunnesa, B. L. R. Sup. Vol., F. B , 175 (1965)

(2) Il hite v. Greenich, 11 C. B , N. S., 209; as to conduct not sufficient to bar landford's rights, see Rambhat v. Bababhet, 18 B. 250 (1893).

(3) Docus v. Cooper, 2 Q. B., 256.

(1) Annanda Coomar v. Hari Das, 4 C. W. N., 603 (1200).

(5) As to surrender, see Bigelow, op. cit., 523; Reed v. Lyon, 13 W. & W., 235.

(6) Fiell, Ev., 561, referring to Ram Chunder v. Junkewhunder, 12 B. L. B., 22 (1873); Roy Olmyle v. Ublurun Roy. 4 W. R., Act X. I (1865); Pudlo Monre v. Jkolla Polly, 7 W. R., 283 (1867).

(7) See Casperse, op. cit., 94.

(8) Bigelow, op. cil., 512; the doctrine of privity is illustrated by Doe d. Bulles v. Mills, 2 A & F ... 17 , Rennie v. Robinson, 1 Bing . 147; London & E.-IF. Ry Co. v. West, L. P. , 2 C. P.,

(9) Barwick v. Thomson, 7 T. R., 488. (10) Doe d Bullen v. Mille, 2 A. & E., 17:

Taylor v. Needham, 2 Taunt , 278.

(11) Due d. Spencer v. Beclett, 4 Q B , 601. (12) Don d. Johnson v. Raylup, 3 A. & E., 184.

(13) Pasupali v. Narayana, 13 M , 335 (1894). (14) Tadman v. Hesman, L. P. (1893), Q. B. 168 See L. Q. R. Vol. IX, 309.

tenant from denying the landlord's title. In the second case of derivative title that is by assignment, including gift, sale, devise, lease or by inheritance, the original lessor. Thus in the case cited below (2) the defendant hired apartments by the year from one W, who afterwards let the entire house to the plaintiff. In an action by the latter nagainst the defendant for use and occupation, it was held that the defendant having used and occupied the premises under a clease from W was not competent to impeach his title or that of the plaintiff who claimed through him. Further an attornment to one claiming under the original lessor leaves the tenant ordinarily in precisely the same position (so far as the question of the estopped to deny the title of the kessor is concerned) as he was with the original landlord, he cannot dispute the title in the one case more than the other (3) Whether, however, there be an attornment or not, the tenant may always show that the claimant has no derivative title from his original lessor or that the derivative title is defective, or that an attornment made by him to the person claiming under the original lessor was made under the influence of fraud, or ristade or the like (4) Thus though the lessee of A will te estopped to deny the title of A from whom he received possession, he not in peached, but only the title of him who claims to be the successor of the landlord Without denying the landlord's title, the derivative title of his alleged successor may be in peached in several ways. It is clear, firstly, that if a man takes land from one person and afterwards pays rent to another, behaving that other to be the representative of the person from whom he took the land, he is not estopped from proving that the person to whom he so paid rent was not the legal representative of the person from whom he took; for example if a man pays rent to another believing him to be the heirat-law of his deceased landlord, and afterwards discovers that he is not the heir-at-law, or that the landlord left a will, the tenant in a suit for subsequent arrears of rent would not be estopped from showing that he paid the former arrears under a mistake, and that the person to whom so paid had no title (6) It may be shown that the claimant is a stranger to the title of the original lessor (7) So again the tenant in possession will not be estopped from showing that, however valid the title of his original landlord may have been, there has been in fact no transfer thereof to the claimant (8) So also it may be shown that the original lessor's title was not such a one as would enable him to pass the legal estate to the plaintiff, (9) or that the original lessor's title had deter-

<sup>(1)</sup> Loda: Mellah v. Kally Dass, 8 C , 239, 241,

<sup>243 (1881).</sup>

<sup>(2)</sup> Rennie v. Robinson, 1 Bing, 147.
(3) Bigelow op. cit, 533.

<sup>(4)</sup> Bigelon, op ct, 533, 534, 536, Gource Date v Japunnath Roy, 7 W. R., 25, 26 (1807), Lall Mahoneed v Kallanus, 11 C., 519 (1884)

<sup>(5)</sup> Doe d. Higginbotham v Earton, 11 A & L., 387. the tenant may always show that the assymment was meffectual to pass the lessor's title; Hibourn v. Foqq, 99 Mass., 1 (Amer), citing the last and other cases. Bigelow, op. cit., 533 note.

<sup>(6)</sup> Bance Mathub v. Thaloor Dave, B. L. R., Sup Vol., F B., 588, 590 (1866), Course Daes v Jagunnath Roy, 7 W. R., 25, 26 (1867).

<sup>(7)</sup> Bigelow, op cit , 534 , ef Cornish v. Sear-ell, 8 B & C , 471.

<sup>(8)</sup> Accidental Death Ins. Co. v. Maclenzie, 10 C. B., N. S., 870. Fance Tillespurce v. Rance Asmedh, 24 W. B., 101 (1975). [A tenant is not prevented from questioning the title of the alleged assumes of his admitted landlord.]

<sup>(9)</sup> Doe d. Higginbotham v. Barton, 11 A. & E., 307.

mined (1) If again a tenant being already in possession of the premises executed a lease in favour of a stranger to the title, or a person claiming a derivative title from the last owner, he is not estopped from disputing the title of the person to whom he has so given the agreement (2) The broad distinction between all the cases above mentioned and that dealt with by the section lies in the fact that the person whose title is disputed is not the person who let the tenant into possession, and is not therefore a person in favour of whose own title the estoppel operates The words "at the beginning of the tenancy" in this section only apply to cases in which tenants are put into possession of the tenancy by the person to whom they have attorned, and not to cases in which the tenants have previously been in possession.(3) A tenant further is not estopped to allege that he was let into possession under a title since acquired by him, under which subordinately the fandlord claims.(4) When moreover the tenant being already in possession has attorned or paid rent, or otherwise acknowledged the tenancy, he may show that he did so through ignorance, (5) fraud,(6) misrepresentation,(7) mistake,(8) or coercion;(9) and if induced to attorn and take a lease by these means, he may dispute the title of the person claiming to be his lessor (10)

"Continuance of the tenancy." Although a tenant may not, during the continuance of the tenancy, deny that his landlord had a title at the beginning of such tenancy, he may show that his landlord's title has expired or determined; for this section only operates as an estoppel during the continuance of the tenancy.(11) Insucha case he does not dispute the title, but confesses and avoids; by matter ex post lacto.(12) Justice requires that the tenant should be permitted to raise his plea, for a tenant is liable to the person who has thereal tile and may be forced to make payment to him, and it would be unjust if, being so lible, he could not show

(1) Dred. Highinotham v Barton, 11 A. & E., 307; Lall Mahomed v. Kallanus, 11 C., 519 (1884) in this list case, it was alleged, that the title of the person under whom the Jote had originally been held had expired owing to the execution of a deed of minangaspatta.

(9) Lall Mohamed v. Kallanus, supra

(3) Ib., see Sertharoma Raju v Dayannal Pantudlu, 17 M, 278 (1894), Bigelow, op cit, 525, 538; as to what constitutes a letting into possession, see Taylor, Ev., § 103.

(4) Ford v Ager, 2 H & C , 279

(5) Jaw v. Food, Cr. & P., 185, Fenner v. Dul'x-1, 2 Bruz, 10, Geopry v. Doddy, 3 Bruz, 474; followed in Kith Bass v. Sureda Noth, 7 C. W. N., 505 (1907) see Jeanghhai v. Hatoji, 4 B., 79 (1879). Eryonah Choudhry v. Lall Mech, 14 W. R., 301 (1870).

(6) Rigelow, op. cit , 527 , Franklin v. Medida, 35 Cal., 558 (Amer.); Dae d. Barlow v. Wiggins, 4 Q. B., 387.

(7) Dos. d. Plevin v. Brown, 7 A. & E., 447; Gravenor v. Woodhouse, 1 Ding., 38, 43

(8) Jee v. Wood, sapra; Ropes v. Pitcher, Taant., 202; followed it for the Des v. Swender Noda; T. C. W. N., 909 (1903); followed Dec d. Pitran v. Brown, T. A. & E. 447; Cornain v. Sratill, S. B. & C., 471; Cornain v. Woodhous, 1 Ping , 33; I tileddas v. Secretary of State, 20 D., 410 (1901); [admission of payment of rent rates a priend pixer precumption of title and rates a priend pixer precumption of title throws the onus on the other party of showing that it was made by mistake! For a case under s. 60 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, see Durga Das v Samach Akon, 4 C. W. N. 606 (1875).

(9) Collector of Allahabad v. Sura Bulsh, 6 N. W. P., 333 (1874); Lall Mahomed v. Kallanus. 11 C., 519 (1885).

(10) Bigelow, op. cit., 523, 527. The tenint of his assignce, it may then be broadly stated, is not estopped, to explain the circumstances under which, being already in possession, he has made an attornment to the plaintiff, 10, 625, 528

(11) 4mmu v. Ramalrichna, 2 M., 22 (1879); Subbaraya v. Krishnappa, 12 M., 426 (1888); the English authorities are numerous; see Mountnoy v. Collier, 1 E. & B., 630, 640 . Hoperoft v. Keys, 9 Bing., 613; Gravenor v. Boodhouse, 1 Bing., 38; Nente v. Moss, 1 Bing , 260; England d Syburn v. Slade, 4 T. R., 682; (1a. ridge v. Mackenzie, 4 M. & Gr., 143. Doed. Morriott v Fdwords, 5 D. & Ad , 1065; Ibuns v. Cooper, 2 Q D., 256; and Burn & Co v. Bushomoyee Dosece, 14 W. R., 85 (1870); Mahan Mahton v. Meer Shumsorl, 21 W. R., 5 (1873). The defendant may show that the plaintiff's title has expired or has been defeated by title paramount; as, for example, that the plaintiff's tenure has been avoided by sale for arrears of revenue : Lodai Mollah v. Kally Dase Roy, 8

C., 238, 440, 241 (1881). (12) Field, Fv., 501. tenant may show that his landlord's title has expired, yet if he enters on a new tenancy he shall be bound; but before he can be so bound, it must appear that he was acquainted with all the circumstances of the landlord's title. The landlord before he enters into a new contract must explain to the tenant that his former title is at an end.(2) It is well settled that a tenant in possession cannot even after the expiration of his lease, deny his landlord's title without actually and openly surrendering possession to him, or being evicted by title paramount, or attorning thereto, or at least giving notice to his landlord that he shall claim under another and a valid title.(3) The tenant must give up possession to the landlord and then if he has any title alunde that title may be tried in a suit of ejectment brought by him against his former landlord.(4) A tenant who has been let into possession by a landlord under a lease for a term of years is bound to surrender it to such landlord at the expiration of such lease, even apart from any covenant by the tenant to surrender. He cannot set and notice of the fact is brought home to the lessor, the tenant's possession then becomes adverse; the lessor may at once eject him from the premises; and if he fails to do so before the period of limitation has expired, the tenant may then set up his own title acquired by adverse possession or the title of any other person under whom he claims to hold But he cannot set up such title in an action brought by the lessor before the expiration of the period of limitation (6)

[8. 116.]

These words only apply to cases in which tenants are put into possession beginning of the tenancy by the person to whom they have attorned, and not to cases in of the tenanwhich the tenants have previously been in possession.(7) Where, however, in a suit for rent the tenant deni d the execution of the kabulyat propounded by the plaintiffs, pleaded that it was forged and denied payment of rent under it to the plaintif's and failed to establish his pleas, it was held that the tenant was not b case what, if any, limitations there are of the tenant's privilege to deny the title of his lessor after attornment when he was not inducted by such lessor; and that it was not intended to lay down that a person in occupation of land may select his rent receiver and execute a solemn agreement promising to pay him rent, and pay him rent for a time with full knowledge that he had no right to the land, and thereafter at any time decline to pay him rent pleading want of title in him and without attempting to show any other circumstances which would invalidate the contract of tenancy. Certain property was mortgaged in 1884 In 1889 the appellant took from the mortgagors and another person a lease of certain lands which included a portion of the mortgaged property. In a suit by the mortgagee on his mortgage to which the appellant was made

<sup>(1)</sup> Mountagy v Collier, 1 E. & B , 630, 640 : see Coponund Jha v Lalla Gobind, 12 W. R., 109 (1869), [when a tenant is sued for rent he can set up eviction by title paramount to that of his lessor as an answer and it exicted from part of the land an apportionment of the rent may take place) Ledas Mollah v Kally Dass, 8 C. 241. 242 (1891) As to what constitutes exiction, see Dhunput Singh v. Mahomed Kazum, 24 C at p. 300 (1996) (2) Fenner v Duplock, 2 Ding , 10.

<sup>(3)</sup> Birelow, op cit , 520.

<sup>(4)</sup> I asuder v Daj. Babaji, 8 Bom. H C. R., 175 (1871)

<sup>(5)</sup> Bankalal Vittel v Chidriamokkanea, 15 Mad L J., 368 (1905)

<sup>(6)</sup> Bigelow, op. cst , 534

<sup>(7)</sup> Lall Mahimed v. Kallanus, 11 C., 519: sce Seetharama Raju v Bayanna Pantulun, 17 M , 278 (1894).

<sup>(8)</sup> Ketu Dass v. Surendra Nath, 7 C. W. N ... 596 (1903).

a party defendant; it was held that though as between the lessors and lessen under that lease, it might well be that the lesses who was represented by the appellant was estopped from saying that, at the date of that lease, the share mentioned in it was not the share of the lessors; yet that the appellant was not, owing to the lease taken by him in 1889, estopped from showing that the mortgagors were not entitled to the whole of the mortgaged property at the time the mortgage was executed in 1884, s.e., five years before the lease was taken by the appellant.(1)

Licensee.

The rule of the tenant's estoppel prevails against one who is in possession of land under a mere heense (2). The rule as to claiming title app ind to the case of a tenant extends also to that of a person coming in by permission as a mere lodger or as a servant. There is no distinction between the case of a tenant and that of a common licensee. Both have been let into possession by the act of the landlord, and the licensee by asking permission admits that there is a title in the landlord and the law under such circumstances implies a tenancy.(3). The case last cited was an ejectment in which it appeared that the defendant applied to the plaintiff then in possession of the premises for the privilege of getting vegetables from the garden, and that having obtained the keys he fraudulently took possession and set up a claim to the land. The Court refused to hear it.(4)

Estoppel of acceptor of bill of exchange bailee or licensee

117. No acceptor of a bill of exchange shall be permitted to deny that the drawer had authority to draw such bill or to endorse it; nor shall any bailee or licensee be permitted to deny that his bailor or licensor had, at the time when the bailment or license commenced, authority to make such bailment or grant such license.

Explanation 1.—The acceptor of a bill of exchange may deny that the bill was really drawn by the person by whom it purports to have been drawn.

Explanation 2.—If a bailed delivers the goods bailed to a person other than the bailor, he may prove that such person had a right to them as against the bailor.

Principle—These are further instances of the estoppel by agreement,
The acceptance of a bill amounts to an undertaking to pay to the order of the drawer, but the transaction would be idle if after having so undertaken, the acceptor were allowed to set up that the drawer had no authority to draw the bill. He is therefore precluded from doing so, for to allow him to do so would be to allow him to contradict that which his act of acceptance really imports,(5)
The estoppel of bailee and licensee is analogous to that of landlord and tenant and is based on similar principles (6)

Provinso Kumar v. Mahabharai Saha, W. N., 75 (1993); as to adverse passession, see Fattch Single v. Ramanii, 5 Bom. L. R., 274 (1993).
 Bigelow, op. ett., 542; Por. d. Johnson v.

Raylup, 3 A. & E., 188; Mathanaiyan v. Sinna Samaraiyan (1983), 28 M., 526 (3) Doe d. Johnson v. Baylup, 3 A. & E., 188.

<sup>(4)</sup> See also for another example of the heresee's estoppel: Gour Hari v. Americanica Rhatom, 11 C. L. R., 9 (1881); see, as to becase, Act V of 1882 (Essements), se. 52-56. (5) Calabé Estoppel, 44; Rup Chanl v. Sar.

<sup>(5)</sup> Calabé, Fstoppel, 44; Rup Chanly. Sot. besser Chandra, 10 C. W. N., 747 (1906); s. c.,

<sup>3</sup> C. L. I., 629. (6) Rup Chand v. Sarbencar Chandra, supra.

Bigelow on Estoppel, 480-498, 548, 552, 5th Ed. (1890); Estoppel by Represenation and Res Judicata, 2nd Ed., 1896, Ch. VIII, by A. Casnersz: Taylor, Ev., § 850-853; Everest and Strode's Law of Estoppel (1884), pp. 277-279; Story on Bills of Exchange, §§ 113, 114, 115, 252, 262, 412; Act XXVI of 1881 (Negotiable Instruments) Ed. by M. D. Chalmers (1882). Cababé, Principles of Estoppel (1888).

COMMENTARY.

Estoppels in the case of negotiable instruments are instances of estoppel Estoppel of by agreement or contract. Rules such as those contained in this section may acceptor of be called 'estoppels,' but they are estoppels springing from the nature of the change. transaction founded upon mercantile custom, and may now be regarded as statutory estoppels,(1) This section is in accordance with English Law(2) except as to the first Explanation. Under the terms of the latter the acceptor may show that the signature of the drawer is a forgery, while in England he is not allowed to do so; for it is held that he is bound to know his own correspondent's signature (3) And in a recent case it was held by the Calcutta High Court that no person can claim a title to a negotiable instrument through a forged endorsement, for such an endorsement is a nullity (4) This section is supplemented by sections 41 and 42 of the Negotiable Instruments Act (XXVI of 1881), which provide for the hability of the acceptor in the case of a forged indorsement and of a bill drawn in a fictitious name (5) Other sections define the position of the maker of a note, (6) or cheque, (7) an acceptor before maturity (8) the drawer until acceptance (9) the acceptor (10) and indorser (11)

Sections 118-122 of Act XXVI of 1881 enact special rules of evidence with regard to negotiable instruments There are certain presumptions as to consideration, date, time of acceptance, time of transfer, order of indorsement, stamp, and as to the holder being a holder in due course (12) On proof of protest the Court will also presume the fact of dishonour (13) The same Act then proceeds to enact three cases of estoppel against the maker of a note, the drawer of a bill or cheque, the acceptor of a bill, and the indorser, which are here reproduced.

No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honor of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn (14)

No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same (15)

<sup>(1)</sup> Bigelow op e.t., 490-498; Caspersz, op cat., Ch VIII. Chalmers on Bills of Exchange, 4th Ed., 312-313.

<sup>(2)</sup> See Taylor, Ev , § 851

<sup>(3)</sup> Sanderson v Coleman, 4 M & Gr., 203. as to estoppels arising out of adoption of forged s'gnatures see Brook v. Brook, I R , 6 Ev , 89, 99 . Ashpitel v. I ryan, 3 B & S . 474, 492 . Markenzie v. British Linen Co , L R., 6 App

Case, 109. (4) Banku Bebars Sildar v. Secretary of State for India in Council (1904), 36 C., 239, following Puntraj Purmanand v Ruttonje Walju, 24

B . 65, and discenting from Chandra Kales

Dabee v. Chapman, 32 C. 799.

<sup>(5)</sup> See Chalmers' Neg. Inst. Ac', p. 49. (6) Act XXVI of 1851, sp. 32, 37.

<sup>(7)</sup> Ih., s 37

<sup>(8)</sup> Ib , 4, 32.

<sup>(9)</sup> Ib , * 32. (10) Ib , ss. 37, 8%.

<sup>(11)</sup> Ib , a 89.

<sup>(12)</sup> P., 118 (13) Act XXVI of 1881, v. 119.

<sup>(14)</sup> Ib , s. 120.

<sup>(15)</sup> Ib., s. 121.

No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument (1)

Section 20 deals with inchoate instruments. (2) As to estoppels arising out of negligence and agency in connection with negotiable instruments, see note below; they are but instances of the general estoppel by omission, to which reference has been made in section 115, ante (3)

The bond fide holder for value of a forged hundi to whom, after it had been dishonoured, it had been transferred by indorsement by the payees, who at the time of indorsement knew that the hundi was forged, sued the payees on the hundi to recover the amount he had paid them for it. Held that the payee were estopped from setting up the forgery of the hundi as a bar to the suit (4)

Estoppel of Bailee and Licensee

The relation between bailor and bailee is analogous to that of landlord and tenant. He will not be permitted to deny his bailor's title any more than the tenant may deny title of his landlord (see section 116, ante). But by the second explanation to this section, the same exception applies to his case as to that of the tenant, namely, that where something equivalent to title paramount has been asserted against the bailee, he is discharged as against those who entrusted the goods to him. The bailee has no better title than the bailer, and consequently if a person entitled as against the bailor to the property claims it, the bailee has no defence against him. The true ground on which a bailee may set up the jus tertii is that the estoppel ceases when the bailment on which it is founded is determined by what is equivalent to an eviction by title paramount. It is not enough that the bailee has become aware of the title of a third person, nor is it enough that an adverse claim is made upon him so that he may be entitled to relief under an interpleader.(5) A bailce can set up the title of another only if he defends upon the right and title and by the authority of that person.(6)

As between a bailor and bailee, the latter in an action for non-delivery of goods upon the demand of his bailor must take one of the following courses: (a) He may show that he has already delivered the goods upon a delivery order authorized by the bailor or (b) he may institute a suit of interpleader: or (c) he may defend the action on behalf of the real owner, alleging and proving the title of the real owner, defending expressly upon that title (7)

(1) Act XXVI of 1881, s. 122. Thicknesse v. Bromilou, 2 Cr. & J., 425 , McGregor v. Rhodes, 6 E. & P., 266, the above sections appear generally to represent the English law upon the same subject, see Chalmers' Neg. Inst. Act, 113, 114 (2) See Foder v. Maclinnon, L. R., 4 C. P. 701, 712, Russell v. Langetaffe, 2 Doug., 498 Babidunnises v Durgadass, 5 C. 39, Bigelow, op. cit., 457, 494, 565. It has been said to be doubtful whether the liability in these cases rests on estoppel or on the law-merchant Exparte Sens, 7 C. P., N. S., 416 as to metruments lost or stolen, see Act XXVI of 1881. 4. 58 ; Razerdal v. Rennett, L. R , 3 Q B. D., 525. (3) Frirest and Strode's Fatoppel, 200. Casperse, op. cd., 174-186; Joung v. Grote, 4 Bing., 53; Inglam v. Primrose, 7 C. B., N. 8., 82; Arneld v. Cheque Banl, L. R., 1 C. P. P., 579; Echiffeld v. Fart of Landerborrugh, L. P., 1874, 2 Q. B., 660; Bank of England v. l'aglaces Brot., L. B., App. Car., 91; L. R., 23

Q B. D., 243; L. R., 23 Q B. D., 103. Bhuputram v. Hari Pria, 5 C. W. N., 313 (1900). (4) Bishen Chand v. Eojendro Kishore, 5 A.

102 (1883)
(5) As to the procedure in interpleader suits, see G. XXXV, pp. 1134-1137, Civ. Pro Code, see G. XXXV, pp. 1134-1137, Civ. Pro Code, see G. XXXV, pp. 1134-1137, Civ. Process to the control of the control of the control of the code of t

see G. XXXV, pp. 1134-1137, Cr. Pro Code, Rogers Sons d Co. v Lambert, I. R. (1891), 3 Q B, 327.

(6) Bulile v. Bond, 6 B. & S., 231, followed in Repers Sons d. Co v. Lembert, spray ier Contract Act, a 106, and parently as to balments ab, as, 148—173; Copys v. Burnard, Sn L Cas., Bigglow, op. cit., 488—532; Caspetts, op. cit., Ch. V, Exercat and Strole, op. cit., 288—276.

(7) Rogers Sons d Co. v. Lambert, L. I. (1871), 1 Q. B., 325, per Lord Esher; as to catoppel by election to support title either of ballor or third party, see Ex-parte Duries. L. II. 19 Ch. D. 80 (1881).

.... --incinte applies in the case of a wharfinger who agrees to hold of the defendant g., that they have never been separated from bulk and that, therefore, no property passed to the person delivering (1)

The rule with regard to principal and agent is that an agent must account to his principal and cannot set up the jus tertii against him except when the principal has been acting under a bona fide misapprehension as to the rights of some third person or has been fraudulently acting in derogation of those rights.(2)

As to licensees, see section 116, ante (3)

Licensees.

(1) Woodley v. Cocentry, 2 H. & C , 164 , Knighte v. Wiffen, L. R , 5 Q B., 660 See remarks on this latter case in Simon v. Anglo-American Telegraph Co., L. R., 5 Q. B. D., 212. See Ganges Manufacturing Co. v. Sourujmull, 5 C., 669 (1880); Henderson Co. v. Williams. L. R. (1895), 1 Q. B., 521 (2) Everest and Strode, op. cst., 268, Smith.

Mercantile Law, 1122, 10th Ed., 1890. (3) And see Everest and Strode, op. est., 268.

CHAPTER IX.

OF WITNESSES.

The present Chapter deals mainly with the competency(1) and compellability(2) of witnesses A witness is said to be incompetent to give evidence when the Judge is bound, as matter of law, to reject his testimony,(3). The motives to prevent the truth are so much more numerous in judicial investigations that in the ordinary affairs of life the danger of injustice arising from this cause, has, till modern times, been thought to justify the observance of rules by firthe of which large and numerous classes of persons were rendered incompetent witnesses, and their testimony was uniformly excluded.(4) A recognition of the artificial character of these rules of exclusion, which had no foundation or justification in actual experience, and which led to frequent injustice, and of the necessity of increasing, as much as possible, the media of investigation led gradually to the conversion of questions of competency into questions of credibility. The tendency of modern legislation has been rather to allow the capacity cranice to capacity, an persons become anomasine as anomaly the being loft to the Court. To attach to their evidence that amount of credence which it appears to deserve, from their demeanour, deportment under cross-examination, motives to speak or hide the truth, means of knowledge, powers of memory, and other tests, by which the value of their statements can be ascertained, if not with absolute certainty, yet with such a reasonable amount of conviction as ought to justify a man of ordinary prudence in acting upon those statements "(6) Thus neither want of religion, nor physical defect, not involving intellectual incapacity, (7) nor interest, arising from the fact that the witness is a party to the record, or wife or husband of such party, (8) or otherwise; nor the fact that the witness is an accomplice in the commission of a crime, (9) form any ground for the exclusion of testimony.

But the competency of a witness to give evidence is one thing, and the power to compel him to give evidence another (10) And this compellability may

- (1) Sa. 118-120, 133, post.
- (2) Sa. 121-132.
- (3) Best. Er . § 132.

(4) See Tavlor, Er., § 1312; Shehis's Fractice relating to white size, 1-16; Wharton, Er., §§ 331-120; Burn, Jones, Er., §§ 730-736, and generally §§ 730-736, Stewart Rapaje's Law of Wittness, 1-397; Philip's and Arm, Er., 3-412. See the Statutes affecting qualifications in Wignore, Er., § 488.

(5) See Taylor, Er., § 1343 et seq ; Best, Er., § 622, 132 et seq.; Wigmore, Er., § 501; see remarks in Blake v. Albion Lefe Assurance So-

- cety, 4 C. P. D., 109; R. v. Oopel Date, 3 M., 271, 282 (1881). As to the credibility of and other general remarks as to withcases, see Fuell's Er. p. 33 et seq., and Norton, Ev., p. 33 et seq., Bat, Ev., pp. 11, 13, 15, 111. As to credibility
- see Stenart Rapalje, op. ce'., 305-379. (6) Fiell, Er., 566
  - (8) Field, Er., 500 (7) See as, 118, 110, post.
  - (8) S. 120, post. (9) S. 133, post.
- (10) See De Bretton v. De Bretton and Holms, 4 A., 49, 52 (1881). As to the meaning of the word "compelled" in the following sections be either (i) compellability to be sworn or affirmed; thus ordinarily in matrimonial proceedings the parties are competent but not compellable; they may, if they choose, offer themselves as witnesses,(1) and under the Bankers' Books Evidence Act(2) an officer of the Bank is not, in any proceeding to which the bank is not a party, compellable to produce, or to appear as witness to prove, any bankers' books, without the order of a Judge made for special cause: or (ii) compellability when sworn to answer questions; thus a witness, who may be generally compellable to give evidence, may yet be protected or privileged in hich he may be unwilling to speak.(3) respect of the law will not permit the witness

WITNESSES. 799

Further. to speak. ions 121-132 declare exceptions to the general rules that a witness is bound to state the whole truth, or to produce any document in his possession or power relevant to the matter in issue.(5)

These rules of privilege and prohibition rest on grounds of public policy which mrellable to do g of evidence is regulated by the Civil and Criminal Procedure Codes.(6) Lastly, section 134 declares that no particular number of witnesses are required for the proof of any fact.

The exclusionary rules in the present Chapter are based either directly on general considerations of public policy, such as the rules relating to affairs of State and official communications, (7) information given for the detection of crime.(8) and judicial disclosures ,(9) or on grounds of privilege, such as the rules relating to professional(10) and matrimonial(11) communications, and title-deeds and other documents (12) In connection with these rules should be read the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code relating to discovery (13) In fact, questions of privilege arise as frequently on applications for discovery or inspection before trial as with reference to testimony in the witness-box, but the principles are substantially the same. (14) Whatever difference may exist between the case of evidence asked for or tendered at the trial, and that of an application for disco to order discovery in the interrogated under O. XI, r 6, or orde ne Civil Procedure Code, may plead his privilege in the terms of this Act When it was contended for the defendant that even if a case submitted by the plaintiff to his counsel could not be used in evidence under section 129 of the Evidence Act, yet the defendant was entitled to have inspection of it under section O. XI, r. 11 of the Civil Procedure Code, such contention was disallowed by West, J., who said: "The argument that altert the document may not be such that the Court can properly order its production as evidence, yet the opposite party may demand a perusal of it, is, I think, opposed to all principle. If a communication 18 protected by its confidential character, it is protected in an especial degree see R. v. Gopol Doss, 3 M., 271, 276 et ecq (1881). Moher Shecks v. R . 21 C., 392, 400 (1894).

<sup>(1)</sup> See Act IV of 1863, ss. 51, 52 (Indian Divorce), and note to s. 120, post

<sup>(2)</sup> Act XVIII of 1831, s. 5 Act I of 1833. (3) See as, 122, 124, 125, 129, post.

<sup>(4)</sup> See as. 122, 123, 126, 127, put

<sup>(5)</sup> R. v. Gopal Doss, supra, 277. (6) Civ. Pr. Code, O.XVI, pp 799-809, passim, Cr. Pr. Cole, se. 171, 208, 218, 217, 219, 231, 244, 252, 256, 257, 250, 485 540; see also Penal Code, ss. 174, 175; and ss. 172-180, sd., passiss;

see Introduction to Chapter X. post

<sup>(7)</sup> Ss 123 and 124, post,

<sup>(8)</sup> S 125, post. (9) S. 121, post.

<sup>(10)</sup> Ss. 126-129, post,

<sup>(11)</sup> S. 122, post. (12) Sa. 130, 131, post

<sup>(13)</sup> Civ. Pr. Code, O.XI, pp 751-774.

<sup>(14)</sup> See Greenough v. Gaskell, L. M. & K., 98. 115; Henessy v. Wright, 21 Q. B. D., 509, 521. (15) Henresy v. Wesqle, supra, per Wills, J.,

as against an adversary in Ritigation."(1) A person cannot be indirectly compelled to disclose what he cannot be directly called upon to state.(2) Urder the law of privilege it is necessary to set it up, because it is only an excue which the Judge may or may not recognise as good, and it is his decision that either accords the privilege or withholds it.(3) There is a great difference between privilege and incompetency. An incompetent witness cannot be examined, and if examined inadvertently, his testimony is not legal evidence; but a privileged witness may be examined and his testimony is legal, if the privilege be not insisted on.(4)

Who may

118. All persons shall be competent to testify unless the Court considers that they are prevented from understanding the questions put to them, or from giving rational answers to those questions, by tender years, extreme old age, disease, whether of body or mind, or any other cause of the same kind.

Explanation.—A lunatic is not incompetent to testify, unless he is prevented by his lunacy from understanding the questions put to him and giving rational answers to them.

Principle.-See Notes, post.

s. 3 (" Cosst.") s. 119 (Damb Waterwa) s. 120 (Parties: Hudands and Wices) s. 133 (Accomplice.)

Act X of 1873 (Indian Oathe); Cr. Pr. Cede, ss. 337, 342, 343; R., s. 294; Act X of 1853, s. 55 (Indian Succession); Act XXI of 1870, s. 2 (Hinda Wills); Taylor, Er. § 1342 et sq., Eest, Er., § 132, et sq.; Powell, Er., 25; Phipson, Er., 37d Ed., 305; Steph. Dig., Ch. XV; Phillips and Arnolds, Er., 3–142; Wharton, Er., §§ 391–420; Burr Jones, Pr., § 750, et sq.; Stewart Rapalje's Law of Witnesses, 1–201; Siebel's Practice Relating to Witnesses, p. 16; Witmorr, Er., § 483, et sq.

COMMENTARY.

Court

The division of function between Judge and Jury allet without question to the Judge the determination of all matters of fact on which the admissibility of evidence depends and therefore of the facts of a winness' capacity to testify (5). So it was held that whether or not a child was competent to give evidence was a question for the Judge to decide and not for the Jury; the amount of credit to be given to the statements being all that fell within the province of the later.(6). And it was beld that before a child of tender years is questioned the Court should test his capacity to understand and to give rational answers and to understand the difference between truth and false-hood, and it was also held that the Judge must form his opinion as to the competency of a witness before the actual examination commences.(7)

Under standing

Understanding is the sole test of competency. The Court has not to enter into enquiries as to the witness' religious belief, or as to his knowledge of

m. 123, 124, p.w.

(II Manchester Errore v. The New Pharemay S. W. Ca. 4 R., 576 (1990).

<sup>(2)</sup> From v. Shresheeler, 15 R. 7, 10 (100). (3) E. v. 6 pai Phu, supen 24; but one also

<sup>(4)</sup> Roscov, Cr. Ec., 12th Ed., 12th [5) Wagners, Ev., § 45...

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v. H. miser, S. W. R., (r., 6) (147). (7) Sinth Fater v. F. (1986), 11 C. W. S. . 51.

the consequences of falsehood in this world or the next.(1) It has to ascertain. in the best way it can, whether, from the extent of his intellectual capacity and understanding, he is able to give a rational account of what he has seen or heard, or done on a particular occasion. If a person of tender years, or of very advanced age, can satisfy these requirements, his competency as a witness is established (2) The omission to administer either an oath or solemn affirmation to a child, although knowingly made, does not render its evidence inadmissible.(3) But a Court has no option when once it has elected to take the statements of a person as evidence, but to administer to such person either an oath or affirmation as the case may require. The competency of a person to testify as a witness is a condition precedent to the administration to him of an oath or affirmation, and is a question distinct from that of his credibility when he has been sworn or has affirmed.(4) If a witness, after being sworn, is shown to be incapable of understanding, the Judge should strike out all his evidence.(5) The modern practice is to interrogate the witness before swearing him, or to elicit the facts upon the examination-in-chief, when, if his incompetency appears, he will be rejected (6)

"A witness may be in such extreme pain as to be unable to understand Disease of or, if to understand, to answer questions; or he may be unconscious, as if in a fainting fit, catalepsy, or the like.

This applies to idiocy and lunacy. An idiot is one who was born irrational; Disease of a lunatic is one who born rational has subsequently become irrational. The mind. idiot can never become rational; but a lunatic may entirely recover, or have lucid intervals At the time when unscientific ideas prevailed the deaf and dumb were so far treated as idiots that they were presumed to be incapable of This presumption has now disaptestifying until the contrary was shown peared, and ordinarily the only question will be as to the possibility of communicating with them by some certain system of signs (7)

Eq, drunkenness (8) It must be ejusdem generis The disability is only Orany other co-extensive with the cause, and, therefore, when the cause is removed, the dis-same kind, ability also ceases Thus, a lunatic during a lucid interval may be examined. The return of sobriety renders a drunkard competent

This applies to the case of a monomaniac, or person affected with partial Explanainsanity, who may be a very good witness as to the other points than that tion on which he is insane "(9) The leading case is R v Hill (10) There the witness believed that he had 20,000 spirits personally appertaining to him. On all other points he was perfectly sane His testimony as to all other matters was received. An accused person cannot, in a criminal case, be examined as a witness. An accused The effect of sections 342, 343 (no oath to be administered to the accused) of person

(1 ) As to the necessity in English law in the case of a child witness of belief in punishment for lying in a future state, see Steph. Dig , Note XL and Whitley Stokes, 831. (2) R v La! Sahat, 11 A., 183 (1889), R v Ram Sewak, 23 A, 90 (1900), as to age and degree of intelligence, see Taylor, Ev., § 1377. and Roscoe, Cr Ev., 115, 116, 10th Ed., cited in R. v. Maru, 10 A , 207, 210, 212 (1888), m which the history of legislation in India relating to oaths and affirmation is discussed R v Shara, post

(3) R. v Mussumat Itwarya, 14 B. L R , 54 (1874); 22 W. R., Cr , 14 , s. c , R v Sewa Bhogto, 14 B L R., 294 (F. B ), 23 W. R., Cr., 12 [overroling R. v. Anunto Chuckerbutty, 22 W. R. Cr., 7 (1874); R.v. Share, 16 B, 259 (1891);

- per contra, R v Maru, supra, and Ouare, R. v Viraperumal, 16 M , 105 (1892) , see Act X of 1873, sa. 5, 13, m Appendix.
  - (4) R v Lal Sahar, supra, R. v Shara, supra,
  - (5) R. v Whitehead, L. R., 1 C C. R , 33
- (6) Wharton, Ev., § 492 Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed , 412 , Taylor, Ev , §§ 1392, 1393 , Wigmore, Ev., § 486. The preliminary examination is known as the more dire.
- (7) Wigmore, Ev., §§ 498, 811 (see s 119, post). (8) Ib , § 499 See Waller's Trial, 23 How.,
- St. Tr., 1153 (9) Norton, Ev., 306, 307; Wharton, Ev., $5 401, 418 , Stewart Rapalje, op. cif., $5 1-10.
  - (10) 2 Den. & P. C. C., 254.

and the two accused were thereupon discharged under s 494 of the Criminal

ľs. 118.1

<sup>(1)</sup> R. v. Hanwarta, 1 B , 618 (1877), and are cases cuted now. In a turge number of mod orn English Statutes clauses have been incorporated (nabbing the party charged with a crime to give evalence on his own bihalf, "ere Bast, Pr., | 622. And under the Criminal Evidence Act, 1803 (61 & 62 Viet , C. H , 36), an accused may cliet to give evalence on his own lahalf See Jell's Law of Evidence in Criminal cases.

<sup>(2)</sup> Arunachellam v. R (1908), 31 M., 272, following R. v. Ramamins, 24 M., 321.

<sup>(3)</sup> Kullan v. R. (1908); 32 M., 173 . R v. Bala (1901); 23 B., 675, R. v. Kathia (1900), 30 R . 611. (4) Kullan v. R., supra; R. v. Nata (1908).

<sup>27</sup> C., 137; R. v. Sudra (1892), 14 A . 338,

<sup>(5)</sup> E. v. Ashruf Shadh, & W. R., Cr., 21

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v. Bradlaugh, 15 Cox, 217; Winners

v R., L. B., I Q B , 390; Steph. Dig , Art. 108. (7) R. v Hanmania, supra : R. v. Remedios, <sup>3</sup> Born H. C. R., Cr. C , 59 (1867); R. v. Ashqar Al., 2 A , 260 (1879) , R. v. Dala Jua, 10 B , 190 (1885); R v. Mona Pana, 16 B . 661, 665 (1892), R v. Payne, L. R., 1 C. C., 349. In re .1. Dand, 5 C. L. P. , 574 (1880).

<sup>(8)</sup> R v. Mona Pana, 668, supri.

<sup>(9)</sup> Tineller's case, 1 East , P. C , 351, cited in R. v. Mona Puna, 665, supra-

<sup>(16)</sup> Mohesh Chunder v. Mohesh Chunder, 10 C. L. R., 553 (1882).

<sup>(11)</sup> E v. Mona Puna, supra-(12) Cited in R. v. Mona Pana, 666, supra.

<sup>(13)</sup> R. v Behary Lall, 7 W. R., Cr., 44 (1867)

Principle.—See Introduction, ante.(1)

s, 118 (Competency.)

122 (Communications during marriage.)

Cr. Pr. Code, s. 488; Act IV of 1869, ss. 51, 52 (Indian Divorce); Best, Ev., §§ 167— 169; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1348—1372; Steph. Dig., Arts. 106, 108, 108A Note XLI; Stewart Rapalje's Law of Witnesses, §§ 25—45; see also Index; Wharton, Ev., §§ 457—490, 421 —433.

COMMENTARY.

Parties to suit : husband and wife

The position of parties to a civil suit is (except when otherwise regulated by Statute) in no wise different from that of other witnesses Proceedings under section 488 of the Code of Criminal Procedure which provides for the passing of orders for the maintenance of wives and children, are in the nature of civil proceedings within the meaning of this section, and the person sought to be charged is a competent witness on his own behalf.(2) In criminal proceedings the prosecutor (though the Crown is always the nominal party prosecuting) is competent, but the accused is not (v ante). The rule in matrimonial proceedings is that, upon a petition by a wife for dissolution of marriage on account of adultery coupled with cruelty or desertion the parties are competent and compellable to give evidence of, or relating to, such cruelty or desertion, but they cannot in this case be examined or cross-examined as to facts relating to acts of adultery, and cannot, in other cases, be examined at all, unless they offer themselves as witnesses or verify their cases by affidavit.(3) The co-respondent, in a suit by a husband for the dissolution of his marriage with his wife on the ground of adultery, was summoned by the petitioner in such suit as a The Court did not explain to him before he was sworn, that it was not compulsory upon, but optional with him, to give evidence or not He did not object to be sworn, and replied to the questions asked him by the petitioner's counsel without hesitation, until he was asked whether he had had sexual intercourse with the respondent He then asked the Court whether he was bound to answer such question The Court told him he was bound to do so, and he accordingly answered such question, answering it in the affirmative. Had the Court not told him that he was bound to answer such question, he would have declined to answer it Held under such circumstances, that the co-respondent had not "offered" to give evidence, within the meaning of section 51 of the Divorce Act, and therefore his evidence was not admissible (4) As to evidence of communications during marriage, see section 122, post. In crimmal proceedings it has been seen (v. ante) that the party accused, or any person jointly indicated and tried with the accused, is not a competent witness. So much of the section as declares husbands and wives competent witnesses against each other in criminal proceedings differs from the English rule, according to which persons are, in general, incompetent.(5) for the prosecution though most fluent and natural mode. Wigmore, Ev., § 811, p. 915, n. 3 vi. See also Wharton, Ev., § 406, 407; Stewart Rapalye, op. cit., § 6. as to evidence by an interpreter, see Ruston's case, § Leach, C. C., 408

<sup>(1)</sup> And Best, Ev , $ 132 et arq.; Taylor, Ev., $ 1344 et arq.

<sup>(2)</sup> In re Tokes Bibes v. Addod Khan, 5 C., 505 (1879), Nur Mohomed v. Biemulla Jan, 16 C., 781 (1889), followed in Rosano v. Ingles, part; Hira Lall v. Sakh Jan, 18 A., 107 (1895). As to examination of wife as to non-access of humahand, see Rosanio v. Ingles, 18 B. 469 (1994).

and a 112, ante, as to the corroboration of the mother's evidence, required by English law, see Cole v Manning, L. R., 2 Q. B. D., 611; Law rence v Ingmire, 20 L. T. N. S., 391, and note to s 134, post.

<sup>(3)</sup> Act IV of 1869, ss. 51, 52 (Indian Divorce), and see Kelly v Kelly, 3 B L. R. App. 6 (1869), DeBrition v. Defirition, 4 A., 49 (1881); as to English rule, see Steph. Dig., Art. 109.

<sup>(4)</sup> DeBretton v. DeBretton, supra.
(5) Taylor, Ev., § 1371, 1372; Steph. DisArts. 109, 108 t; Whitley Stokes, 831.

under the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898; (61 & 62 Vict., c. 36), every person charged with an offence and the husband or wife of such person are now competent witnesses for the defence at every stage of the proceedings,(1) but is in accordance with the Full Bench decision in the case of it. v. Khynollak.(2). In England, in addition to the husbands or wives of persons charged with criminal offences, who are in general only admissible upon the application of the person charged, though in some few cases they are competent for the prosecution, the only classes of persons now incompetent to testify are persons who in cases of High Treason or misprision of Treason (other than such as consist in injuring or attempting to injure the person of the Sovereign) are not included or properly described in the list of witnesses delivered to the defendant, and secondly, persons devoid of sufficient understanding to know what they are about (3)

121. No Judge or Magistrate shall, except upon the Judges and Magister special order of some Court to which he is subordinate, be comtrates pelled to answer any questions as to his own conduct in Court as such Judge or Magistrate, or as to anything which came to his knowledge in Court as such Judge or Magistrate; but he may be examined as to other matters which occurred in his presence whilst he was so acting.

Illustrations.

(a) A, on his trial before the Court of Session, says that a deposition was improperly taken by B, the Magistrate. B cannot be compelled to answer questions as to this, except upon the special order of a Superior Court.

(5) A is accused before the Court of Session of having given false evidence before B. a Superior Court.
Superior Court.

(c) A is accused before the Court of Session of attempting to murder a Police-officer whilst on his trial before B, a Session Judge. B may be examined as to what occurred.

Principle —The general grounds of convenience (a, the inconvenence of withdrawing a Judge from his own Court) and public policy (4) This section clears up a doubtful point of English law It is hardly necessary to add that, with regard to things not coming to his knowledge in Court as Judge, a Judge is as competent and compellable a witness as any other person (5)

s. 3 (" Court.") s. 118 (Competency.) ss. 35-166 (Examination,)

s. 165; Prov. 2 (Judge's, power to put questions.)

Steph. Dig , Art., 111; Taylor, Ev , § 938; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed , 164; Best, Ev., §§ 184, 188; Stewart Rapalje's Law of Witnesses, §§ 45, 68n, 275; Wharton, Ev., § 600.

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, § 1342-3 Stephens Comm (14th edition), v. II, p. 307.

<sup>(2) 6</sup> W. R., Cr., 21 (1866), s. c., B L. R., Sup. Vol., F B, App. 11, and see for a case under the earlier law, R v Gour Chand, 1 W. R., Cr., 17 (1864).

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, § 1372 (g).

<sup>(4)</sup> See R. v. Garard, S. C. & P., 595, Buccleuch v. Metropolitan Board of Morks, L. R., 5 H. L., 418, Rest, Ev., § 189, p. 176, note; Taylor, Er, § 938 As to illust (c), see R v Lord Thanet, 27 St Tr, 836, and for the law before the Act, Romasoms v. Romu, 3 Mad H C R, 372 (1867) [evidence of subordinate Magustrate holding prelumnary enquiry into a criminal charge].

<sup>(5)</sup> Steph Drg., Art 111 and Note XLII; Taylor, Er., § 1379; Best. Ev., supra: Stewart Rapalje, op. ct., §§ 45, 68n., § 275; Wharton, Ev., § 600.

COMMENTARY.

Judges and Magistrates dge or Magistrate of whom does not object to answer ther person to assert the privilege (1) No definition is given of "Judge" or "Magistrate," in the Act. (2) Arbitrators who are (but to a narrower extent) within the rule in England, appear from the terms of the section itself, not to be within it (3)

A Judge cannot, without giving evidence as a witness in the usual way, import into a case his own knowledge of particular facts (4) When he gives evidence, he should be sworn like other witnesses (5) In a case tried by a Sessions Judge, with the aid of assessors, it was held that a Judge is a competent witness, and can give evidence in a case being tried before himself, even though he laid the complaint, acting as a public officer, provided that he has no personal or pecumary interest(6) in the subject of the charge; and he is not presonal or pecumary interest(6) in the subject of the charge; of which his own forms a part.(7) Although a Magistrate is not disqualified from dealing with a case judicially, merely, because in hus character of Magistrate it may like been his duty to initiate the proceedings, yet a Magistrate aught not to act judicially in a case, when there is no necessity for his doing so, and where he is himself discovered the offence and initiated the prosecution, and where he is

(1) R v Chaddi Ahan, 3 A, 573 (1881) As to the meaning of the word "compelled" in the section, see R v Gopal Dass. 3 M, 277 (1881)

(2) Cf definition given in Penal Code, s 19, and Act I of 1869, s 4, sub-section (13) No. non Act X of 1897

(3) Euceleach v Metropolitan Board of Works, L R . 5 H L . 418 In re Bhitely, 1 Ch . 558 (1891); 64 L. T., 81, O'Rourke v Commissioners for Railways, 15 App. Cas , 371 . Fllis v . Sallav, 1 C. & P , 327 (n) a . Whitly Stokes, 831 In England, it has been also held that a barrister cannot be compelled to testify as to what he said in Court in his character of a barrister. Curry v Walter, 1 Esp., 456, Steph Dig., Art 111 And a further rule exists against the competency of jurors to give evidence as to what passed between the jurymen, in the discharge of their duties Steph Dig , Art 114 , Best, Er , §§ 570, 5911 . Taylor, Er , $3 942-945 The Act contains no similar provisions (see Whitley Stokes, 919) The competency of jurymen, as witnesses in a cause which they are trying, is a wholly different question, for which see a 118, ante.

(4) Harpenhad v. Sho Dyd., 3.1 A. 229, 288 (1876); Rouseway P. 100, 1877 N. P., 190 (1887); Rouseway P. 100, 7 N. P., 190 (1887); Alecthan Robes v. Bushre Khan, 11 Moo I. A., 213, 221 (1876); Kalloman v. Gampa Gobbad, 22 W. P., 121 (1876); Soorej Kent v. Khodes Karan, 22 W. R., 121 (1876); Soorej Kent v. Khodes Karan, 22 W. R., 9 (1874); R. v., Donadhy, 2. S. W. R., 20 C., 40, 416 (1877); Grah Chunder v. R., 20 C., 487, 460 (1877); Grah Chunder v. R., 20 C., A. C., 13 (1878). As to the duty of the Judge to total to the account the fact he himself downers, and the right of the account the fact he himself downers, see In re Hurre, Pen are Hur

R. C. 7. 76 (1872). Grah. Clauder v. R., supra856. It is extremely improper for a Magetiste in disposing of a case, to rely in any may on statements made to him out of Court. R. v. Set Balesu, 22 M., 427 (1889). In Son Balesu v. Se.
Balesu, 22 M., 427 (1889), the Court says "the Dattern Judge of Codurers mays, "the profile have settled down under the law councated in 1882." Her can hardly collect the state of things prior to 1882, but his statement of the present state of things is founded to personal knowledge."

state of things is founded on personal knowledge "
(5) Kishore Singh v. Ganesh Moolerjee, 9 W.
R., 252 (1868)

(6) Sec R v. Bholanath Sen, 2 C , 23, 27 (1876); R. v Hira Lall, 8 B. L R., 422, 430 (1871), In re Hurro Chunder, 20 W. R., Cr., 76 (1873); Grish Chunder . R , supra , R. v. Donnelly, ante ; Wood v Corporation of Calcutta, 7 C., 322 (1891). Loburt Domini v. Assam Radway Company, 10 C , 915 (1894); Summrao v. Collector of Dharwar. 17 B., 299 (1892); Kashinath Khaspirala v Collector of Poona, 8 B., 553 (1884), and R. v. Meyer, 1 Q. B D , 173; R. v. Pherozska Perion. 71, 18 B . 442 (1893) . Alon Nathu v. Guyubin Dipsanp, 19 B., 608 (1894) The same person should not be both Judge and presecutor. R v. Nads Chand, 24 W. R., Cr. 1 (1875); R v Gungadhur Bhunio, 3 C., 622 (1878); R. v. Dicks Nandan, 2 1., 806 (1850); In re Het Lal, 22 W R , Cr., 75, (1874), [appeal]; Griet Chunder v. R., 20 C., 865; R. v. Sahader, 14 B . 572 (1890). And a public prosecutor should be without personal interest, R v. Kashinoth Dia-Lar, B Bom. H. C. R , Cr. Ca., 126 (1871).

(7) R. v. Multa Sing, 4 R. L. R., Cr., 15 (1870) , s. c., 13 W. R., Cr., 60. one of the principal witnesses for the prosecution.(1) Further, a Magistrate cannot himself be a witness in a case in which he is the sole judge of law and fact. A Judge who is a sole judge of law and fact cannot give his own evidence and then proceed to a decision of the case in which that evidence is given (2) Where in such a case he has given his evidence and convicted the accused, his having so acted makes the conviction had (3) The conviction is not absolutely bad. It is open to the Court to uphold the conviction, if it is of opinion that, after rejecting the Magistrate's evidence, there is other evidence sufficient, if behaved, to support the conviction (4) Quare, whether the presence of assessors takes the case from without the operation of the last-mentioned rule.(5)

Where a Magistrate in whose Court a complaint of noting and mischief had been filed made a personal inspection of the locus in quo, which inspection was not made only for the purpose of better understanding evidence which had already been given, held, that by so doing he had made himself a witness in the case and had thereby rendered himself incompetent to try i, held, further that where a Judge is the sole judge of law and fact in a case tried before himself, he cannot give evidence before himself or import matters into lus judgment not stated on oath before the Court in the presence of the accused (6) When a Magistrate was present at a search made by the Police during investigation and in all probability he came to know of some facts in connection with the case, it was held to be expedient that the case should be tried by some other Magistrate.(7).

122. No person who is or has been married, shall be com-conting pelled to disclose any communication made to him(8) during during marriage by any person to whom he is or has been married; nor shall he be permitted to disclose any such communication, unless the person who made it, or his representative in interest, consents, except in suits between married persons, (9) or proceedings in which one married person is prosecuted for any crime committed against the other.

Principle .—The protection given by this section has been said to rest upon the ground that the admission of such testimony would have powerful tendency to disturb the peace of families and to weaken, if not to destroy, the

 R. v. Bholanath Sen, supra, 29, and see remarks of Phear, J. in In re Hurro Chunder, 20
 W. R., Cr., 76 (1873), and of Markby, J., in R. v. Donnelly, 2 C., 405, 414 (1877), Taylor, Ev., $ 1379

(2) R v Donadly, supra, per curam. Tavlor Ev., §1379. Grah Chandr v R, 20 C, 837, 887 (1892). Hert Kuthor v Abdel Balt, 21 C, 920 (1894). Scannero v Collector of Dharror, 17 B, 299 (1892). See also R v. Fathak Chand, 24 C, 499 (1897). The cases of Grah Chandre v. R, 20 C, 857 (1892), and Sathema Updhya R, 23 C, 238 (1893). were distinguished in In the motive of Ananto Chandre v. Baw Muth, 24 C, 167 (1892).

(3) R v. Donnelly, supra, per Markby, J. (4) Ib , per Prinsep, J.

(5) See R. v. Multo Singh, supra; and R. v. Ponnelly, supra, 414, in which latter case the correctness of the former decision, in so far as it proceeded upon the ground that the presence of a sessors brought the case within the general rul. laid down by it is doubted

(6) R v Manikam, 19 M, 263 (1896), but a Mapi-trate who views a place merely to better understand the evidence does not make himself a witness. In re Lally, 19 A, 302 (1897)

(7) Gya Singh \ Mobamed Soliman, 5 C W N, 864 (1901)

(8) In this section 'he, 'him' and 'his,' include 'she,' 'her' and 'her' Act X of 1897, as to the meaning of the words "permitted" and "compelled" in this section, see R. v. Gopal Docs, 3 M, 271 (1881).

(9) E g, such communications may be disclosed under s 52, Act IV of 1869; v s 120, mutual confidence upon which the happiness of the married state depends (1). The exception is made ex necessitate ret. It has, however, been pointed out(2) that no argument advanced for the privilege has ever risen to a higher level than an appeal to considerations of sentiment; and the conclusion of the Commissioners of Common Law Procedure in their second report was that husband and wife should be competent and compellable to give evidence both for and against one another on matters of fact as to which either could be examined as a party in the cause.

8. 120 (Competency of Husband and Wife.) s. 165, Prov. 2 (Judge's power to question.)

Taylor, Rv., § 900—910 A; Best, Rv., § 586; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 168; Steph. Die, 110; Whatton, Ev., §§ 427—432; Rapaljo's Law of Witnesses, § 274; Hageman's Privileged Communications, §§ 163—188. Wigmore, Ev., §§ 22, 27, et seq.

COMMENTARY.

Communications during marriage.

"The protection is not confined to cases where the communication sought to be given in evidence is of a strictly confidential character, but the seal of the law is placed upon all communications of whatever nature which pass between husband and wife (3) It extends also to cases in which the interests of strangers are solely involved, as well as those in which the husband or wife is a party on the record. It is, however, limited to such matters as have been communicated during the marriage, and, consequently, if a man were to make the most confidential statement to a woman before he married, and it was afterwards to become of importance in a civil suit to know what that statement was, the wife, on being called as a witness and interrogated with respect to the communication, would, as it seems, be bound to disclose what she knew of the matter."(4) The privilege extends only to persons who legally and technically are husband and wife, and therefore there is none where the marriage is void (5) A document, even though it contains a communication from a husband to a wife or tice tersa, in the hands of third persons, is admissible in evidence, for in producing it, there is no compulsion on or permission to the wife or husband to disclose any communication. The section protects the individuals and not the communication, if it can be proved without putting into the box for that purpose the husband or the wife to whom the communication was made So where on a trial for the offence of breach of trust by a public servant, a letter was tendered in evidence for the prosecution which had been sent by the accused to his wife at Pondicherry and had been found on a search of his house made there by the police; it was held that the letter was admissible in evidence against the accused (6) The privilege continues even after the marriage has been dissolved by death or divorce (7) So, where a woman, who had been divorced and had married another person, was offered as a witness against her former husband to

<sup>(1)</sup> Tarker, Fr. § 909; Fest, E. , § 504. (2) Winners, Fr., p. 501, Emthoni area "Hand," handhip! "Johny," "power of famihes," talk plute mercenty! "same such most asthese are the velocies by which the faint spark of reason that rabbits itself is conveyed. These are the Johnig terms and these are all you are furnished with; and cut of these you are to make applicable a distinct and intelligible proposition as you can." Battonale, Ecol. IV, Part IV, e.v.

<sup>(3)</sup> Ib.; O'Conner v Marcellants, 4 M &

<sup>(4)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 200; ere Wharton, Ev., § 427-432, Rapalje, op. ed., § 274

<sup>(4)</sup> See Wigmore, Er., p. 2013. Their demertic peace may be shattered at any integral descrition... Again its (the rule's) lend's are not lost by the unemious wounder who trures himself with fit formal terms by marrying the witness after service of sulpean and thus creating allows a domestic peace who his to be probability allowanded.

 <sup>(6)</sup> R v. Ponaglue, 22 M., 1 (1808).
 (7) Taylor, Ev., § 010; Poscor, N. P. Fe.

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 4(0) Poscer, 108; Monroe v. Tayofetin, Pon. Ad) Car., 221;

prove a contract which he had made during the coverture, Lord Alvanley rejected the evidence, adding: "It can never be endured, that the confidence which the law has created while the parties remained in the most intimate of all relations, shall be broken, whenever by the miscordnet of one party the relation has been dissolved,"(1) The words "has been married" in the above section give effect to this dietum. The rule being "that nothing shall be extracted from the bosom of the wife which was confided there by the husband; she may yet be admitted to testify to facts which came to her knowledge by means equally accessible to any person not standing in that relation."(2)

123. No one shall be permitted to give any evidence(3) as to amain derived from unpublished official records relating to any affairs of state of State, except with the permission of the officer at the head of the department concerned, who shall give or withhold such permission as he thinks fit.

124. No public officer shall be compelled to disclose communications made to him in official confidence, when he considers that the public interests would suffer by the disclosure.

Principle.-Public policy; prejudice to the public interests by disclosure.(4) If it were not so it would be impossible to communicate (recly.(5)) If the giving of such evidence would be injurious to the public service the general public interest must be considered paramount to the individual interest of a suitor in a Court of Justice. The public officer concerned, and not the Judge. is to decide whether the evidence referred to in these sections shall be given or withheld, because the Judge would be unable to determine this question without ascertaining what the document or communication was, and why the publication or disclosure of it would be injurious to the public service-an enquiry which cannot take place in private and which, taking place, may do all the mischief which it is proposed to guard against.(6)

s. 3 ("Evidence.") 8. 162 (Production of document referring to matters of State.)

s. 165. Prov. 2 (Indoe's cover to rut questions or order production.)

Act XV of 1889 (Disclosure of Official Secrets); 21 Geo. III, can, 70, s. 51Prosecutions against Governor-General or Member of Council, Production of Order in Council

Taylor, Ev., §§ 946-948A; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 172, 173; Best, Ev., § 578; Steph. Dig., Art. 112; Bray on Discovery, 547—549; Powell, Ev., 146—149; Physon, Pv., 3rd Ed., 162; Wharton, Ev., §§ 604A-605, Rapalje's op. cit., § 276; Hageman's Privileged Communication, §§ 301-317.

being a party to the suit or not! Us wisher ye Morris, 1 B. C. C., 471

Averson v. Lord Kunnauri, 6 East, 192, 193 · O'Connor v. Margoribants, supra, but see Wig more, Ev., pp 3054, 3055.

<sup>(1)</sup> Monroe v. Tundleton, supra (2) 1 Greenleaf, Ev., § 254, 7th Ed., eved to Best, Ev., 5 586. (3) Oral or documentary , r s. 3, sale.

<sup>(4)</sup> Wadter v. East India Company, 8 D G

M. & G., 191 [production does not depend on the question of the person, called on to produce,

<sup>(5)</sup> Smith v. Fast India Company, 1 Pt., 85; The Bellewick at 44 L. J. Adm. S. Hennessy v.

<sup>(6)</sup> Per Pollock, C. B., in Postace v. Steer, S. H & N , 838, 837, astathe meaning of the word "compelled" in this section, see E v. Eigel. Ikus, 277, sujea.

COMMENTARY.

Affairs of State: Offi-ctal communications. Under this near nave the proceedings of the Pri-communications between Under this head have been held to come the deliberations of Parliament, political communications

England that where the head of a Department of Government states at the trial of an action that the production of a particular document by the Department would be injurious to the public interest, the Judge ought not to order its production (2) It has been doubted whether a Government Resolution relating to the conduct of a Deputy Collector can properly be described as relating to an affair of State, but it was held that if it could be so regarded the Government had in relying on it in their list of documents practically conceded permission (3) Communications, though made to official persons, are not privileged when they are not made in the discharge of any public duty; and so letters by a private individual to the Postmaster-General, complaining of the conduct of a postal official, were held not to be protected.(4) Objection may be taken by the public officer, or by the party interested in excluding the evidence, or by the Judge hin

the duty of the Judge who Crown or by the party, or apparent to hum that a r documents or information '(5) The exclusion when allowed is absolute, so that in the case of documents no secondary evidence is admissible.(6) The latter section is confined to public officers, though who are such is not defined. The former embraces every one Section 123 leaves the discretion with the head of the department, section 124 makes the officer himself the judge of the propriety of waiving the privilege In no case has the Court any authority to compel disclosures, if the objection is raised by the proper authority.(7) In the undermentioned case the accused was convicted of criminal breach of trust in respect of three gold bangles The evidence went to show that the accused insured a parcel in the post office as containing these gold bangles, but shortly after delivery to the addressee, the parcel was found to contain only a piece of steel One of the witnesses deposed to having sold the steel to the accused. Accused's counsel asked the Superintendent of Post Offices the name of the person who had informed him about the sale of the steel to the accused; but the Sessions Judge refused to allow the question to be put, as he was of opinion that the Superintendent was protected by this section and the next, but it was held And in a recent case it has that neither section had any application (8) been held that documents produced and statements made under process of law (eg, under the Income Tax Act) cannot be said to be made in official con-

Information as to

No Magistrate or Police-officer shall be compelled to commission say whence he got any information as to the commission of any fidence within the meaning of this section (9)

<sup>(1)</sup> See Text books cited above, et ils cause (2) Williams t. Star Newspaper Co. (1908), Times L. R. v. 24, p. 297.

<sup>(3)</sup> Jekanger v. Secretary of State, 6 Bom. L. R., 131, 160 (1903).

<sup>(4)</sup> Hake v. Pdford, 1 M. & Rob , 198.

<sup>(5)</sup> Per Wills, J., in Hennessy v. Bright, 21 Q. B. D , 500, in which all the authorities are reviewed, and it was held that an affidavit of objection by the Secretary of State to production sufficed to justify a refusal to give discovery. See Jekanger v. Secretary of State, 6 Bom. In B.,

<sup>100 (1003)</sup>

<sup>(6)</sup> Home v. Ben'incl. 2 B. & B., 130; Parkins v Roleby, L. R . S Q R. 255; Hennessy ..

Wright, sapra. (7) Norton, Ev., 309, Jehanger v. Secretary of State, 6 Bom. L. R , 160 (1903); ere note to offence, and no Revenue-officer shall be compelled to say whence he got any information as to the commission of any offence against the public revenue.

<sup>*. 162,</sup> post. (8) R. v. Ramadhan Waharam, 2 Rom, I. B.

<sup>329 (1000)</sup> (9) Venkatachella Chettar v. Sampatha Che. trar (1900), 32 Mad , 62; and see Jalkram Deg v. Bulloram (1899). 24 C., 281.

Explanation .- 'Revenue-officer' in this section means any officer employed in, or about, the business of any branch of the public revenue.(1)

Principle.-While it is perfectly right that all opportunities should be afforded to discuss the truth of the evidence given against a prisoner: on the other hand, it is absolutely essential to the public welfare, that the names of parties who give information should not be divulged; for otherwise, be it from fear, or shame, or the dislike of being publicly mixed up in enquiries of this nature,—few men would choose to assume the disagreeable part of giving or receiving information respecting offences, and the consequences would be that many great crimes would pass unpunished (2)

s, 118 (Competency.)

s. 27 (Information received from Accused.) s. 165, Prov. 2 (Question by Judge.)

Act XV of 1887, s. 13 [see note (2), infra]; Act V of 1892, s. 12 (ib.), Taylor, Ev., §§ 939-941; Best, Ev., § 578, Steph. Dig., Art. 113; Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 154; 155; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 164. Rapalje's op. cit., § 276; Wharton, Ev., § 604; Hageman's Privileged Communications, §§ 201-305.

COMMENTARY.

The section draws no distinction between public and private prosecution. (3) Information Though the section does not, in express terms, prohibit the witness, if he be mission of willing, from saying whence he got his information, it is submitted, upon the offences English authorities and upon a consideration of the foundation of the rule, that the protection does not depend upon a claim being made, and that it is the duty of the Judge, apart from objection taken, to exclude the evidence (4) The rule applies not only upon the criminal trial but upon any subsequent civil proceedings arising out of it (5) The English rule protects not only the names of the persons by, or to, whom the disclosure was made, but the nature of the information given, and any other question as to the channel of communication, or what was done under it.(6) The Court has under this section apparently no discretion to compel an answer, (7) even if it consider disclosure necessary to show the innocence of the accused (S)

126. No barrister, attorney, pleader or vakil shall at any Protestime be permitted, unless with his client's express consent, munica to disclose any communication made to him in the course and

<sup>(1)</sup> This section was substituted for the original * 125 by Act III of 1887 By s. 13, Act XV of 1897, and Act V of 1892, s. 12, Commandants and Seconds in command of Military Police, in Burms and Bengal, are entitled to all the privaleges conferred by this section on Police-officers As to the meaning of the word ' compelled" m this section, see R v Gopal Dose, 277, surra. (2) Taylor, Ev., § 941, R . Hardy, 24 How , St. Tr., 808, 816 . Home v Bentinck, 2 B & B .

<sup>162 .</sup> Hennessy v Height, supra, 512, 513.

<sup>(3)</sup> A distinction which is made in the English rule, see R. v. Richardson, 3 F. & F . 693. Marls

v Begins 25 Q B D , 494 , Steph Dig Art 113 In r. Mohech Chunder, 13 W R. Cr. 1 10 (1870) see R v Richardson supra, adversely reviewed in Worthington v Scribner, 109 Mass., 487 (Amr.) cited in Rapalp s op cit., p. 456 (4) Marks v Beylus, supra Hennessy v Wright, 21 Q B D 509 per Walls, J

<sup>(5)</sup> Marls . Brytus, supra. (6) Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 164 . R v Harly, supra Marts v Revius, supra. (7) S. 165, Prov. 2, post.

<sup>(*)</sup> According to the rule in Marks v. Leylas, supra.

for the purpose of his employment as such barrister, pleader, attorney or vakil, by or on behalf of his client, or to state the contents or condition of any document with which he has become acquainted in the course and for the purpose of his professional employment,(1) or to disclose any advice given by him to his client in the course and for the purpose of such employment:

Provided that nothing in this section shall protect from disclosure—

- (1) Any such communication made in furtherance of any [illegal] purpose;(2)
- (2) Any fact observed by any barrister, pleader, attorney or vakil, in the course of his employment as such, showing that any crime or fraud has been committed since the commencement of his employment.

It is immaterial whether the attention of such barrister, [pleader],(3) attorney or vakil was or was not directed to such facts by or on behalf of his client.(4)

Explanation.—The obligation stated in this section continues after the employment has ceased.

Illustrations.

(a) .1, a chent, says to B, an attorney :— 'I have committed forgery and I wish you to defend me.'

As the defence of a man known to be guilty is not a criminal purpose, this communication is protected from disclosure.

(b) A, client, says to B, an attorney:—'I wish to obtain possession of property by the use of a forged deed on which I request you to sue.'

This communication, being made in furtherance of a criminal purpose, is not protected from disclosure.

(c) A, being charged with embezzlement, retains B, an attorney, to defend him. In the course of the proceedings, B observes that an entry has been made in A's account-book charging A with the sum said to have been embezzled, which entry was not in the book at the commencement of his employment.

This being a fact observed by B in the course of his employment, showing that a fraud has been committed since the commencement of the proceedings, it is not protected from disclosures (5)

<sup>(1)</sup> In R v. Bals Pharma, 4 Bom. L. R., 460 (1902); the communication was held not to be "In the course," etc.

<sup>(2)</sup> The word within brackets was substituted for "criminal" by s, 10 of the Amending Act AVIII cell 1872. This substitution curries the rule probage somewhat further than has been exhibited in Englan! (see Steph. Dig., Art. 115), but is in conformity with the opinion expressed, by Tource, V. C., in Rustaff v. Jackson, 50 Hare, <sup>392,</sup> and Rolle, V. C., m. Fellett v. Jeftreyt. I. Stm. N. S., 17. It seems just and resonable to include ease of frand as well as erminably See also Kelly v. Jorkson, 13 Ir. Fq., 1Rp., 120, and R. v. Cor. & Raitlen, L. E., 14 Q. ID. J. Pransj. Blacesja v. Mohansing Diameters, 18 B., Pransj. Blacesja v. Mohansing Diameters, 18 B.

<sup>276, 280, 281 (1893).</sup> (3) Added by s. 10, Act XVIII of 1972.

<sup>(4)</sup> See a. 23, Explanation, onte. (5) See Brown v. Foder, 1 H. & N., 736.

127. The provisions of section 126 shall apply to inter-section 12 preters, and the clerks or servants of barristers, pleaders, to interpreters, attorneys and vakils.(1)

128. If any party to a suit gives evidence therein at his Privilege own instance or otherwise, he shall not be deemed to have consented thereby to such disclosure as is mentioned in section 126; the section and, if any party to a suit or proceeding calls any such barriers, [pleader], [2] attorney or vakil, as a witness, he shall be deemed to have consented to such disclosure only if he questions such barrister, attorney or vakil on matters which, but for such question, he would not be at liberty to disclose.

129. No one shall be compelled to disclose to the Court confident any confidential communication which has taken place between because him and his legal professional adviser, unless he offers himself as east a witness, in which case he may be compelled to disclose any such communications as may appear to the Court necessary to be known in order to explain any evidence which he has given, be known in order to explain any evidence which he has given, but no others.

Principle.—The first two sections apply when the legal adviser or his is, as well as the professional applies when the chent himarty to the case or not, and unications which have passed that are privileged (v. post), the legal adviser but of the waived by the latter; it is business without professional assistance, and on the necessity, in order to render that assistance effectual, of securing the fullest and most unreserved communication between the chent and his legal adviser Further, a compulsory disclosure of confidential communications is so opposed to the popular conscience that it would lead to frequent falsehoods as to what had really taken place. It is quite immaterial whether the communications relate to any litigation commenced or anticipated; it is sufficient if they pass as professional communications in a professional capacity; if the rule were so limited, no one could safely adopt such precautions as might eventually render any proceedings successful, or all proceedings superfluous. (3) The provisos in the first section prevent the privilege conferred from becoming the shield of crime or illegality. The rule does not apply to all which passes between a client and his legal adviser, but only to what passes between them

Rehards, 19 Beav., 404. Ex parto Comphill, 5 Ch. App., 703. etted us Fromp: Edicop. v. Medanang Dhonaing, supra., 272. Southwarf. Co., Quel., 3Q B. D., 337. Ross v. Gibbs, L. E., s. Eq., 222, 224. Whede v. LeMarchast, 17 Ch. D., 681, 683. Mard v. Moorga, L. Et., 8 Ch., 361, 368. Tuylor, Ev., § 911, et ap. S. Ev. judgment of West, J., in Muscherskow Econyi v. New Diarumany, etc., Company, 4 B., Cf. (1859).

<sup>(1)</sup> See Kameshur Pershad v Sheik Amanutulla, 2 C W N , 649, 661 (1898), s c 26 C., 53.

<sup>(2)</sup> Added by a 10 of the Amending Act XVIII of 1872.

<sup>(3)</sup> Greenough v Gaskell, 1 M. & K., 103, Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 169, Wigmore, Ev., 5 2391, Lyell v. Kennedy, 9 App. Can., 86; Eddion v Corporation of Liverpool, 1 M. & K., 58; Caldey v.

in professional confidence; and the contriving of crime or illegality is no part nf î

it -Th

tual) made by the second to apply to the necessary organs of communications with the legal advisers, viz, interpreters, clerks and servants,

s. 32 Explanation (Admissions in Civil Cases.) s. 165 (Questions by Judge.)

Civil Procedure Code, Chapter X (Of Discovery and of the admission, Inspection, Production, Impounding, and Return of documents.)

Taylor, Ev., §§ 911-937; Best, Ev., § 581; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 168-171; Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 143-145, 133-135; Powell, Ev., 125-143; Steph. Dig., Arts 115, 116; Bray on Discovery, 385-387, Wharton, Ev., §§ 567-608; Stewart Rapalje's op.cit, 88 271-274; Hageman's Privileged Communications, §§ 16-164; Wigmore, Ev., §§ 2290, et seq

COMMENTARY

English and Indian Law

The law relating to professional communications between a solicitor and client is the same in India as in England, with the single exception relating to the substitution of "illegal purpose" for "criminal purpose" (v. ante); and, in interpreting section 126, the Court may rightly refer to English cause (2)

Construction

"The rule of protection seems to me to be one which should be construed in a sense most favourable to bringing professional-knowledge to beareflectively on the facts out of which legal rights and obligations arise."(3)

Rule limit-ed to legal advisers

Legal advisers alone are within the rule, and of these (as it would seem from the wording of the section) only barristers, attorneys, pleaders and vakils It was decided under section 24, Act II of 1855, that mulhtars were not within the rule (4) The protection does not extend to any matters communicated to other persons, eg, priests and clergymen, (5) medical men, (6) clerks, (7) bankers, (8) stewards, and confidential friends (9) and the like, though such communications were made under terms of the closest secreey. No privilege even attaches to communications made to an attorney friend, consulted merely as a friend and not as an attorney ,(10) nor to those passing before the relationship exists, or after it has ceased (11) The rule does not require any regular

<sup>(1)</sup> Russell v Jackson, 9 Hare, 392, Follett Jefferyes, 1 Sim. N. S , 17 , see also Kelly v Jackson, and R v Cox d Railton, supra, Wharton, Er , $ 590 , as to testamentary communications, v. tb , and Russell v Juckson, supra, the privilege does not attach to these Taylor, Ev . $ 929 ; Hageman, §§ 84, 85.

<sup>(2)</sup> Framps Phicags v. Mohanning Dhanning, 18 B , 263, 271, 278, 279 (1893)

<sup>(3)</sup> Per West, J., in Munchershau Bezongs v The New Dhurumery, etc. Co., 4 B., 576 (1880). (4) R. v. Chunderlant Chuckerbutty, 1 B L R. 1, Cr., 8 (1864), 9 W. R., Cr. Let., 10, the reasons given for this decision seem equally to apply to the linguage of the prescut section

<sup>(5)</sup> R. v. Galam, 1 Mos C. C., 186; Wheder LeMarchant, L. R. 17 Cb. D. 641, but see Taylor, Fr., p 750, note, and Steph. Dig., Note MLIV. p. 196. Some Faglish Judges have considered that such evidence should not be given; see Break v. P. v. 3 C. & P , 518 . E. v. Griffe, b

Cox, C. C., 218; Wharton, Ke , § 597. Mr. Baddely's work on the Privilege of Religious Confeesions (1865), and Hageman, op. cit, $$ 131-

<sup>(6)</sup> R v. Gibbon*, 1 C. & P., 97; Taylor, Fv.,

<sup>$ 916.</sup> (7) Leev. Birrell, 3 Can p. 3, 37 . Webb v. Smith, <sup>1</sup> C & P. 337. (8) Lloyd v. Freshfield and Kaye 2 C. & P., 325 (a banker of one of the parties is bound to answer what such partus' balance was on a given (9) Wheeler v. IeMarchant, supra; Taylor, Er 916. (10) Smith v. Daniell, 44 L. J., Ch , 189; PF also R. v. Brewer, & C. & P , 367; Die v. Jaunces, 8 C & Ph., 99; where the relationship between attorney and client was held not to have been entablished. (11) Greenough v. Gastell, 1 M. & K., 109.

813

of any fees; it is enough if the legal adviser be in any way consulted in his prolessional character;(1) and the protection exists notwithstanding love file mistake in supposing that the solicitor had consented to act;(2) or the latter's subsequent refusal of the retainer,(3) So also under section 129, when the client is interrogated, a confidential communication, in order to be protected, must be one which has taken place between the client and his legal professional adviser. The mere circumstance that communications are confidential does not render them privileged. Thus confidential communications between principal and agent, relating to matters in a suit, are not privileged. To be privileged, they must be "confidential communications with a professional adviser." (4) So also a letter written in answer to enquiries about the character of a servant is matory statements, retainer, or any particular form of application or engagement, or the payment

but it is not privile

privilege being confined to communications with the legal advisers of the party. (5) The communication is equally protected whether it is made by the elient in person, or is made by an agent on behalf of the client, and whether it is made to the solicitor in person or to a clerk or subordinate of the solicitor who acts in his place and under his direction. (6) It is immaterial (under section 129, as under section 129) whether the communication relate to a litigation commenced or anticipated or not. (7) A communication with a solicitor for the purpose of obtaining legal advice is protected, though it relates to a dealing which is not the subject of litigation, provided it be a communication made to the solicitor in that character and for that purpose, (6)

No privilege attaches to "communications between solution and client Joint interas against persons having a joint interest with the client in the subject-matter est of the communication—eg, as between partners (9) directors and shareholders (10) trustee and cetus-quet-trust (11) lessorand lessee as to production of the lease (12) reversioner and tenant for the as to common title (13) two persons stating a case for their joint benefit (14) or a husband and wife who are only collusively in contest (15) Nor does any privilege attach as between joint claimants under the same client—eg, between claimants under a testator as to communications between the latter and his solicitor (16). But where the communications relate to matters outside the joint interest they are privileged, even against a person bearing the expense of the communication (17)—eg, communications between a plaintiff corporation and its solicitors, as against a defendant rate-payer as to matters not connected with the rates, or letween a trustee and his solicitor as against the costum-questrust, where the communication is not made for the former's guidance in the trust, but to enable him to resist litigation by the latter; (1) or where it concerns his character, not as trustee, but as mortgagee of the client "(2)

Employment by different parattorney > munication made by the party to the witness in the character of his own exclusive attorney 2 If it was, the bond of secrecy is imposed upon the witness; if it was not, the communication will not be privileged."(4)

· "At any time

A communication or document "once privileged is always privileged."(5) The obligation continues after the employment, in which the communication was made, has ceased ,(6) nor is it affected by the party ceasing to employ the solicitor, and retaining another, nor by any other change of relation between them, nor by the solicitor's being struck off the rolls, (7) nor by his becoming personally interested in the property, to the title of which the communications related,(8) nor even by the death of the client

Waiver

The privilege may, however, be waived by the client himself (though not by the adviser) expressly under section 126, or impliedly under the second portion of section 128 (post); or perhaps, in the event of the client's death, by his personal representative (9) The client does not waive his privilege by ness has been examined-in-chief (11) As to waiver in part, v. post.(12) Disclosures made under section 129 should not be enforced on any case except when they are plainly necessary (13)

Communi cation must

The communication must be of a private or confidental nature (as is expressly stated in section 129, and shown by the use of the word "disclose" or confident in section 126), to be privileged (14) It must be made to the adviser sub sigillo confessionis (15) Section 126 has no application where the statement is made not as confidential but for the purpose of communication.(16) It is not every communication made by a client to an attorney that is privileged from dis-The privilege only extends to communications made to him confidentially with a view to obtain professional advice.(17) Letters containing

L R., 26 Ch D, 678, 683

<sup>(1)</sup> Thomas v Serretary of State for India. 18 W. R., 312 (Eng.)

<sup>(2)</sup> Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 178, Johnson v. Tueler, 11 Jur . 382

<sup>(3)</sup> Phipson, Ev , 3rd Ed , 178, Taylor, Ev . $ 206 : Baug v. Cradocle, 1 M & R., 182 . Perru v. Smith, 9 M. & W., 681 , Shore v. Bedford, 5 M & G., 271; Ross v. Gibbs, L. R , 5 Eq., 524; Rennell v. Sprye, 10 Bear , 51; all followed in Memon Horse v Moultre Abdul, 3 B , 91 (1878) , supra. (4) Taylor, Ev., 926, Perry v. Smith , Rennell

v Sprye, supra ; Wharton, Ev , $ 587. (5) Bullock v. Corrie, 3 O B. D., 356; Pearce v. Foster, 15 Q B. D., 114.

<sup>(6) 500</sup> Erplanation to s. 126.

<sup>(7)</sup> Cholmondeley v. Clinton, 19 Ves., 268.

<sup>(8)</sup> Chant v. Brown, 7 Hare, 79.

<sup>(9)</sup> Bray on Discovery, 330, as to waiver by successor in title, or personal representative v.

<sup>15 , 385-387 ,</sup> and Taylor, Ev., § 927. (10) S. 128, the rule was otherwise under 4. 24. Act II of 1855.

<sup>(11)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 927, Vaillant v Dodemend,

<sup>2</sup> Atk , 524 , R v. Leverson, 11 Cov., 15. (12) Kay v. Poorunchand Poonalal, 4 B., 631

<sup>(1890),</sup> s. c., Ind. Jur., 479

<sup>(13)</sup> Munchershaw Bezonji v. New Dhurumsty, etc , Co., 4 B , 583 (1880) (14) Memon Hapee v. Moult ie Abdul, 3 B., 91

<sup>(1878) ,</sup> Framps Pricage v. Mohanenagh Dhansingh, 18 Bom , 263, 271 (1893); Greenough v. Gastell, 1 M. & K., 104.

<sup>(15)</sup> Ex-parte Campbell; In re Catheart, L. R. 5 Ch. App , 703, ested in Framji Lincon v. Mohansingh Dhansingh, supre, 272.

<sup>(16)</sup> R. v. Rodrigues, 5 Bom. L. R., 122 (1903). (17) Framji v. Dhanningh, supra, Foolis v. Webb, 28 Ch. D., 287; Gardser v. Irres, 4 Ex. D . 49; O'Shea v. Wood, L. R. P. D. (1891), 208, 201

mere statements of fact are not privileged: they must be of a professional and confidential character (1) Where defendants, at an interview at which the plaintiff was present, admitted their partnership to their attorney, who was then also acting as attorney for the plaintiff, it was held that the attorney was not pieculaded from giving evidence of this admission to him:—1st, because the defendant's statement, having been made in the presence and hearing of the plaintiff, could not be regarded as confidential or private; 2ndly, because those statements did not appear to have been made to the attorney exclusively in his character of attorney for the defendants, but to have been addressed to him also as attorney for the plaintiff. (2) The legal adviser must have learned him also as attorney for the plaintiff. (2) The legal adviser must have learned his being employed professionally (3) There is no privilege where, in any correctness of speech, there is no communication; as where, for instance, a fact, that something was done, became known to him, from his having been brought to a certain place by the circumstance of his being the attorney, but of which fact any other man, if there, would have been equally cognisant; (4) or where the thing disclosed had no reference to the professional employment, though disclosed while the relation of attorney and client subsisted; or where the attorney makes himself a subscribing witness, and thereby assumed another character for the occasion, and adopting the duties which it imposes, becomes bound to give evidence of all that a subscribing witness can be required to prove (v. post) But an attorney may not be called upon to disclose matters which he can be said to have learned by communication with his client, or on his client's behalf, matters which were so committed to him in his capacity of attorney, and matters which in that capacity alone he had come to know (5) The mere circumstance, however, that a solicitor or client obtains, by means of confidential communication, information about a fact, does not protect him from disclosing what he already knew about that fact (6) But knowledge whether of adviser or client, derived solely from privileged communications, is itself privileged.(7) The communication must be made by, or on behalf of, the client (section 126), when the adviser (or client) has his knowledge independently of any communication from the client (or adviser) or from collateral quarters, there is no privilege, (8) nor in respect of knowledge derived by the adviser from the employment, but not from the client, as to mere facts patent to the senses.(9) Where a solicitor claims privilege under section 126. he is bound to disclose the name of his client on whose behalf he claims the privilege. The mere fact that the client's name had been communicated to another entially, may also

e.g., chent's address, if not confidentially disclosed (11) mere matters of

<sup>(1)</sup> O'Shea v. Wood, supra, 290

Memon Hajes v. Moules Abdool, supra.
 Greenough v. Gaskell, supra, 103, 104.

Taylor, Ev., § 910.
(4) Ib., 104 , Framp. Ehicap. v Mohansingh

Dhansingh, supra, 275, 276.
(5) Greenough v. Gaslell, supra, 104, 105.

<sup>(6)</sup> Lewis v. Penington, 29 L. J., Ch., 670. (7) Lyell v. Kennedy, 9 App. Cas., 81, Proctor

v. Smiles, 55 L. J., Q B., 527.
(8) Wheatley v. Williams, 1 M. & W., 533;

Sawyer v Berchmore, 3 M & K , 572 , Manager v Diz, 1 R. & J , 451.

<sup>(9)</sup> Brown v Foster, 1 H & N., 736, per Pollock, C. B., Kennedy v Lyell, 23 Ch D., 406.
(10) Framp Bhang v. Mohansingh Dhansingh.

supra, following Bursil v. Tanner, 16 Q. B. D., I.
(11) Ex-parte Compbell, In ro Catheori, L. R., 5 Ch. & App., 703, cited in Framp. Biscopi v.
Modansingh Dhansingh, supra, 272; Ro Arnott, 60 L. T., 109, Ramsbottom v. Senior, L. R., 8
Eq., 575.

identity,(2) as eg, having sworn an owing the client's mental capacity;(3) s it would seem, its character :(5) and the retaining of counsel comes within the rule respecting confidential communications (6) Communications which are not necessary for the purpose of the employment; eq., a prosecutor's remark that "he would give a large sum to have his adversary hanged,"(7) are not, but all necessary professional and confidential communications, legal opinions, drafts and the like, are privileged (8) A solicitor is not at liberty, without his client's express consent, to disclose the nature of his professional employment. Section 126 protects from publicity not merely the details of the business, but also its general purport, unless it be known, alrunde, that such business, or the communications made in respect of it, fall within first or second proviso to the section. (9) If this be known, aliunde, and a foundation be thus laid for asking the question and admitting the evidence; eq, if in a particular case the facts proved make it probable that the visit to the adviser really was intended for a criminal or illegal purpose, the adviser may be rightly questioned as to the nature of his employment (10) The legal adviser will not be permitted to state the contents or condition of any document with which he has become acquainted by virtue of professional confidence (11) But he cannot withhold documents, unless his client is so entitled (12) He may not state whether a document, while in his possession, was stamped, indersed or bore erasures, for that is condition(13) nor the date when, or purpose for which, it was entrusted to him. (14) but he may prove the fact that a particular document is in his possession, so as to let in secondary evidence, if it be not produced on notice, (15) but not in whose possession or custody it is, or when or where he saw the same, if he came to the knowledge of the fact inquired after in the course of confidential communication with his client in his professional capacity.(16) He may prove that his client put in a pleading, or swore an affidavit, for these are matters of publicity.(17) A solicitor employed to obtain the execution of a deed, and who is one of the witnesses, is not precluded, on the ground of a breach of professional confidence, from giving evidence as to what passed at the time of execution, by which the deed may be proved invalid (18) "If an attorney puts his name to an instrument as a witness, he makes himself thereby a public man, and no longer

- (1) Dwyer v Collins, 7 Ex , 646.
- (2) Ib . Greenough v. Gashell. 1 M & K . 108 . Studdy v Sanders, 2 D. & R., 347.
- (3) Jones v Godrich, 5 Moo. P. C , 16, 25
- (4) Lety v. Pope, 1 M. & M., 410 . Gillard v Bates, 6 M & W , 547 , Forshaw v. Lewis, 1 Jur .
- N. S., 263. (5) Beckwith v. Bonner, 6 C. & P., 682, appears to be disapproved of in Framis Bhicago v. Mohan-
  - (6) Porte v. Hayne, 1 C & P., 545

ang Dhansingh, supra, 280

- (7) Annedey v. Anglesea, 17 St. Tr., 1223; see also Cobden v. Kendrick, 4 T. R., 431.
- (8) Munchershaw Betonjs v. The New Dhurrumsey, etc., Co., 4 B., 580 (1890), Rerce v. Trye, 9 Bear., 316; Penruddock v. Hammond, 11 Bear., 59; Bunbury v. Bunbury, 2 Beav., 173 [case for opinion and opinions]; Reece v. Trye, supra. Mostyn v. The West Mostyn Cool & Iron Co., 34 L. T. 532 [drafts of agreement, lease or conveyance]; Dorden v. Elakey, 23 Q B. D., 332 [draft advertisement settled by counsell; Ward v. Marchall, 3 T. L. R., 578; Woolley v. N. L. M. Co., L. R , 4 C. P., 602; Ryrie v. Shirehanlar,

- 15 B., 7 (1890); [notes of interviews of communi-
- cations by solicitor or chent.] (9) Framp: v. Dhansingh, supra, 276, 280, 281. (10) R. v. Coz & Railton; L. R., 14 Q. B D.
- 153; and see Framjs v. Dhansingh, supra, 276, 280, 281 ; c/. Taylor, Ev., § 912.
- (11) S 126; see Dwyer v. Collins, supra , Darses v Waters, 9 M. & W., 608 ; Cleave v. Jones, 7 Ex . 421 , Doe v. James, 2 M. & R , 47 : Moore v. Tyrell, 4 B. & Add , 870; Lyell v. Kennedy, 9 App. Cas., 81.
  - (12) Bureill v. Tanzer, 16 Q. B. D , 1.
- (13) Wheatley v. Williams, 1 M. & W., 533. but see Brown v. Foster, 1 H. & N., 736, supra (14) Turquand v. Knight, 2 M. &. W., 98; From-
- je Bhicaje v. Mohansingh Dhansingh, supra. (15) Duyer v. Collins, 7 Exch., 646; Beron v. Waters, 1 M. & M., 235.
- (16) Colman v. Orlan, 9 I., J., Ch., 268 ; see also Banner v. Jackson, 1 D. G. & S., 472; Robum v. Kemp, 5 Esp., 52 [destruction].
- (17) Studdy v. Sanders, 2 D. & K., 347; Green. ough v. Gastell, 1 M. & K., 108.
- (18) Crascour v. Faller, 18 Ch. D., 50.

Documents which the client intends others to see as well as the solicitor.

clothed with the chara disclose all that passed at the what took place in the hut not ny other time, and not connected with the execution of it."(1) documents of a public nature, documents entrusted to the solicitor for purposes outside the ordinary scope of professional employment—e.g., a book describing tithe lands and given him for the purpose of collecting the tithes, are not privileged (2) Names of parties, witnesses merely as such, proofs of witnesses, whether disclosure be sought before, or at the trial, are privileged ;(3) but not names of parties' witnesses when constituting material facts in the action-e.q, those of persons in whose presence a slander was uttered.(4) Draft pleadings in the same or ' lings when filed, for they then bec nn. or notes and observations in. solicitor's instructions on, or in, the brief are privileged; and indorsements on counsel's brief of an order of Court, and any other matters publici juris contained therein-e.g., copy pleadings in former action, are not privileged (5) communications between opposite parties merely as such, or between co-plaintiffs, or co-defendants simpliciter, are not,(6) but communications between co-plaintiffs or co-defendants when directed to be admitted to a joint solicitor, are privileged (7) So also are letters written by the solicitor of two plaintiffs to the solicitor of a third plaintiff, as against the defendant claiming their pro-solicitor is no waiver of the privilege as regards the parts which were not read (8) A person relying upon the privilege is undoubtedly bound to bring himself clearly and distinctly within it (9) The communication need not, as has been seen, relate to any actual or "In the prospective litigation, but the matter of the communication must be within course and for the preduction ; and the fact that portions of them had been read to the defendant's

(1) Robson v. Kemp. 5 Esp. 52, per Lord Ellenborough

(2) Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 175; R. v. Woodley, 1 M & R , 390 ; Doe v. Hertford, 19 L. J., Q B., 526 but copies or extracts from public or non-privileged private documents are privileged if the collection is the result of the solicitor's (or his agent's) labour and skill and might disclose his view of the client's case, Ib , Lydl v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D , 1 . Walsham v. Stainton, 2 H. & M. 1

(3) Ib. . Marriott v. Chamberlain, 17 Q. B D., 154 ; London Gas Co. v. Chelsea, 6 C. B. N. S., 411, Fenner v S E. R. Co , L. R., 7 Q. B , 767 Eade v. Jacobs, 3 Ex. D , 337, mentioned in 20 Ch. D., 529. See also Muchenzie v Teo, 2 Curt .

866; Taylor, Ev . 1 932. (4) Ib ; Roselle v. Buchanan, 13 Q B. D., 656 ,

Marriott v. Chamberlain, supr . (5) Ib., Walsham v. Stainton, 2 H. & M . 1. Lamb v. Orton, 22 L. J , Ch , 713 , Nucholls v. Jones, 2 H & M , 589. [In this case it was also said that counsel's indorsement is a note on which the Court always acts and on which great rehance is placed, th., 595.] Hadon v. Hall. 3 T. L R . 776 . as to notes of evidence and proceedings in open Court, see Rawstone v. Corporation of Preston, 30 Ch D , 116; Robson v. Warmet, 38 Ch. D., 370

(6) Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 176, and cases there cited and see note to s. 23, ante, as to communications "without prejudice" the rule, however, applies where the attorney is a codefendant , Hamilton v Nott, L R., 16 Eq , 112.

(7) Jenkins v. Bushby, L. R , 2 Eq , 54%.

(8) Kay v. Poorunchand Poonalal, 4 B , 631 (1890).

(9) Framji Bhicaji v. Mohansingh Dhansingh. aupra, 278.

(10) Carpmad v. Pouts, 1 Phill, 647, 692, a correlative test is whether the nature of the em. ployment would give the Court summary juris. diction over the solicitor. Turquand v Knight. 2 M. & W., 101.

(11) Ib.

(12) R v. Farley, 2 C & K., 313.

(13) Wilson v. Eastall, 4 T. R., 753. (14) Stratford v. Hogan, 2 Ball, & B., 16 (Irish):

Dos v. Hertford, 19 L. J . Q. B . 526.

agent(1) or trustee: (2) nor communications in furtherance of a fraud or crime whether the solicitor is a party to, or ignorant of the illegal object.(3) nor probably are forged documents, though entrusted to the solicitor in professional confidence, privileged.(4)

No hostile inference drawn from a refusal to let a legal adviser disclose confidential communications Communi cation in of duty :

evidence.

"The exclusion of such evidence is for the general interest of the community; and, therefore, to say that, when a party refuses to permit professional confidence to be broken, everything must be taken most strongly against him, what is it but to deny him the protection, which for public purposes the law affords him, and utterly to take away a privilege which can thus only be asserted to his prejudice "(5) There is a distinction between such cases as these and those in which evidence is improperly kept out of the way (6)

If the solicitor, in violation of his duty, should voluntarily communicate to a stranger the contents of an instrument with which he was confidentially intrusted, or should permit him to take a copy, the secondary evidence so obtained would, it seems, be admissible, provided that notice to produce the original were duly given, and the production were resisted on the grounds of privilege (7) "Indeed it has been more than once laid down, that the mere fact that papers and other subjects of evidence have been illegally taken from the possession of the party against whom they are offered, or otherwise unlawfully obtained, constitutes no valid objection to their admissibility, provided they be pertinent to the issue For the Court will not notice whether they were obtained lawfully or unlawfully, nor will it raise an issue to determine that question ''(8)

Information obtained from third tion

Section. 126-129 refer to communications between clients and their legal advisers alone. As regards documents governed by these sections, they are parties for absolutely privileged, and the Court has no power whatever to order produc-the purpose absolutely privileged, and the Court has no power whatever to order produc-offluings tion (9). There are certain cases however (for which the Act does not make tion (9) There are certain cases, however (for which the Act does not make specific provision, and in which the question of privilege generally arises on applications for discovery or inspection before trial), in which communications made for the purpose of litigation between third persons and the adviser, or third persons and the client, for the purpose of submission to the adviser, are under the discretion given by s. 130 of the Civil Procedure Code, which discretion is exercised according to the practice of the Court, (10) protected from disclosure. Such communications are only protected when they have been made in contemplation of some litigation, or for the purpose of giving advice or obtaining evidence with reference to it. And this protection is given because the solicitor is then preparing for the defence or for bringing the action, and all communications he makes for that purpose and the communications made to him (directly or to the client for transmission to him) for the purpose of giving him the information are, in fact, the brief in the action (II) The rule relating to the privilege may be summarised as follows .- The information may be called into existence or obtained either by (A) the client, or (B) the solicitor.

<sup>(1)</sup> Mosely v. The 1 setors a Rubber Co . 55 L. T., 132.

<sup>(2)</sup> Tugicill v. Hooper, 10 Beav., 348. (3) S. 126, Proviso P. v. Coz a Ruilion,

<sup>14</sup> Q. B D., 153; R. v Downer, 14 Cox, 486, Re Arnott, 60 L. T., 10 . Postlethwaite v. Rickman. L. P. . 35 Ch. D . 722.

<sup>(4)</sup> Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 157, R. v. Hayward 2 C. & K., 334; R. v. frery, 8 C. & P , 596, 599; R. v. Jones, 1 Den , 166; R. v. Brown, 9 Cox, 281 ; R. v. Downer, supra ; Taylor, Ev., § 929.

<sup>(5)</sup> Per Lord Brougham in Bolton v. The Cor. poration of Liverpool, 1 M. & K., 89, 94.

<sup>(6)</sup> Wentworth v. Lloyd, 10 Jur. N. S., 961.

<sup>(7)</sup> Cleave v. Jones, 21 L. J . Ex , 106; Hind v Mostyn, 10 M. & W., 491, 492; Taylor, Pv., $ 920 , if the chent sustains any injury from such improper disclosure being made, an action will he against the solicitors; Toy'er v. Blacklov.

<sup>3</sup> Bing, N. C., 235

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev., 1 920; and cases there cited. (9) I sahnu Yezhawant v. New York Life Insurance Co., 7 Bom. L. R., 709 (1905); and see Umbica Churn Sen v. Bengal Spinning Co. 1891, 22 C., 105. (10) Ib.

<sup>(11)</sup> Wheder v. Lellarchant, supra, 691, 6-5, "You have no right to see your adversary's

A (a) Information (oral or documentary) from third persons called into existence by the client, and given in relation to an intended action (whether at the request of a solicitor or not, and whether ultimately laid before the solicitor or not) is privileged, if it has been so called into existence for the purpose of submission to the solicitor, either for the purpose of advice or of enabling him to prosecute or defend an action; (1) e g., shorthand notes of interviews held between a superior and subordinate employé of a plaintiff company or between the chairman of the same company and an employe, in order to obtain information on a subject of expected litigation for submission to the companies' solicitors were held to be privileged;(2) and so also were reports obtained by a party from his subordinates for a similar purpose.(3) But letters written by one of the defendants, servants to another, for the purpose of obtaining information with a view to possible future litigation, with the intention that, in that case, they should be laid before a solicitor, are not privileged. It is for the party claiming the privilege to show that the documents were prepared for the use of his solicitor, that th municated to the solicitor him to prosecute or defend

"merely for the purpose of being laid before the solicitor for his advice or consideration "(4) If communications prepared to be laid before solicitors for the purpose of taking their advice are privileged, (5) it follows that, a fortiori, the advice given with reference to such communications must also be privileged, and it is immaterial that such communications pass from agent to principal, or vice tersa, before or after they are communicated to the solicitor. The same rule must apply to the advice of the solicitor (6) Documents which record the steps taken by the plaintiffs from time to time in prosecuting their claim against the defendant are not privileged (7) (b) But information (oral or documentary) obtained by the client otherwise than for submission to the solicitor (e q , reports and communications made by agents or servants in the ordinary course of their duty) is not privileged even though litigation be anticipated.(8) The rule has been thus stated by Brett, I., J "Any report or communication by an agent or servant to his master or principal, which is made for the pur-1 1 1 1 1 . .1.2 or defence in an existing litigation, roduced; but if the report or comthe duty of the agent or servant.

whether before or after the commencement of the litigation, it is not privileged, and must not be produced The time at which the communication is made is not the material matter, nor whether it is confidential, nor whether it contains facts or opinions The question is whether it is made in the ordinary course of the duty of the servant or agent, or for the instruction of the master or principal as to whether he should maintain or resist litigation."(9) Accordingly an answer to a letter from a principal stating that certain claims had been made and asking the agent for information as to the facts, (10) or made brief and no right to see the materials for his brief." Per James, L. J., in Anderson v Bank of Columbia, L. R., 2 Ch. D., 641, and see remarks of Blackburn, J., in Fenner v. S E Ry Co., L. R , 7 Q. B , 767.

(1) The Swithwark d. Vauxhall Water Company v. Quick, I. R., 3 Q B. D , 315, followed in Bipro Doss v. Secretary of State, 11 C , 655 (1855), Veshau Yeshawant v. New York Life Insurance Co . 7 Bom. L R., 709 (1903).

(2) Southwark v. Outck, supra.

(3) London & Tilbury Ry Co v. Kerl. 28 Sol. Journ , 688 ; Hadam v. Hall, 3 T. L. P., 776. (4) Ripro Doss v. Secretary of State, supra;

Southward v Quiel, supra, see also Cooks v. North Met Tram Co , 6 T L R , 22 . Westinghouse v M R Co 48 T L R 452

(5) Southwark v. Quick, supra.

(6) Byrie v Shirshankar Gopalys, 15 B , 7 (1890)

(S) Wolley v North London Ry. Co , L. R., C. P , 6021, Wallace v Jefferson, 2 B., 453 (1878); sea also Cooke v. Nor'h Met Tram Co., 6T L. P., 22. (9) Woolley v. N. L. Ey. Co., supra at pp. 613, 614.

(10) Anderson v. Bank of Columbia, L. R., 2 Ch. D , 644, followed in Wallace v. Jefferson, to the principal to be submitted " in the event of litigation " to the latter's solicitor, have been held not to be privileged.(1)

B-(a) Information (oral or documentary) from third persons "which has been called into existence by the solicator (or by his direction, even though obtained by the client) for the currens of languism -e.g., information to be embodied in proofs of witnesses, reports made by medical men at the request of the solicitors of Railway Company, as to the condition of a person threatening to sue the Company for injury from a collision (2) and anonymous letters sent to selicitor and counsel(3) with reference to, and for the purpose of a trial." are privileged (4) (b) But there is no privilege in respect of such information " not called into existence by the solicitor, though obtained by him for purposes of hitigation, e.g. copies of letters written before action by third perces to the client (5) or called into existence by the solicitor, though not for the purposes of higgs inn-e.g. a report made by a surveyor at the solicitor's request as to the state of a property upon which the client was about to lend money (6) or as to matters in respect of which litigation was not at the time contemplated, although it afterwards arose."(7) (See also preceding paragraph )

Production of title-deeds of a party

No witness who is not a party to a suit shall be comdeeds or pelled to produce his title-deeds to any property, or any document in virtue of which he holds any property as pledgee or mortgagee, or any document the production of which might tend to criminate him, unless he has agreed in writing to produce them with the person seeking the production of such deeds or some person through whom he claims.

Production 131. No one shall be compelled to produce documents of the product of sen having refuse to produce if they were in his possession, unless such last could refuse mentioned person consents to their production.

> Principle - V rule of legal policy, founded in English law upon a consideration of the great inconvenience and nischief to individuals which might at d would result to them from compelling them to disclose their titles by the productive of their title-deeds (+) The object of the privilege, as to not produring title deeds, is that the title may not be disclosed and examined (9) ethics of the rule has been said to be questionable. Nevertheless in England the law's failure to protect titles adequately by registration, and the inevitable risks which were thereby created for even hand file titles, furnished a sufficient explanation if not a justification. But under a system of compulsory Julie registration there is in such a privilege perther necessity not utility.

O: Fo Halway, 12 P. D., 167; but anonemore between wat by stranger to clear are not garra; me a'so Lundin Gas Co. v Chelma, 6 C P. N. S. 411, End. A v. Tota, 1Q E. D. 141 (1) Cake v. Such Md. Tran Co., sugre West athress v. M. E. Cr. 43 L. T. 435 Figer Does v. Serveney at State, 11 C . 633 (190).

<sup>(2.</sup> Wwilly v. N. L. R. Co. sagra, Front L.C. & D E Co . TEx. D . 477, and me Wheeler v. La Marchest, expens, Printer v. Smil e. 33 L J . Q. P., 57; Beamer. Wide, 1 Q. B. D., 423 M Corpord de v. Eut., 1 C. P. D., 471.

privileged (5) to " where a solicitive is employed on behalf of his come, the missestum which he goes in selemane to the he green in which he clima to conserved in protect of." W.

<sup>(4)</sup> Pr pson, Ev., 2-1 E.L. 177

<sup>15</sup> Chalmil v. Borman, 18 Q. F. D. 561. (5) Bilader v. La Murchint, expra-

<sup>(7)</sup> Westaphone v. M. R. Co. 44 L. T., W. Phipson, Ev. 351 Ed. 177

<sup>(8</sup> Starker, Er., 111. m Best, Er., 1 18. are also Tarlor, Eru § 1664, (9. Philps v. Prev. 3 E. & R., 441, per File J and they are few, who do not register voluntarily, take the risk of loss, and their situation does not justify special protection Those who do register have no need of protection, for their title in general stands or falls by what is publicly recorded, not by what they privately possess (1) As to section 131. See Commentary; and as to criminating documents, see Commentary and section 132, post.

s. 3 (" Document,")

s. 162 (Production of Documents.)

s. 139 (Cross-examination of persons called s. 165, Prov. 2 (Power of Judge to compet to produce document.) production of document.)

Act XIX of 1853, s 26, Act X of 1855, s. 10; Act XVIII of 1891, s. 5 (Banker's Books), Steph. Dig., Arts. 118, 119; Starkie, Ev., 111; Best, Ev., § 128; Roscoe, N.-P. Ev., 154-156; Taylor, Ev., §§ 458, 918, 919, 1464; Bray's Discovery, 313, 203-206; Civ. Pr. Code, O. XI, r. 6, p. 757; r. 14, p. 767; Hageman, op cit., §§ 117, 118; Wigmore, Ev., § 2211.

COMMENTARY.

The rule enacted by these sections, in so far as they relate to witnesses Production not parties, and the class of persons contemplated by section 131, is in general leged door accordance with that of the English law on the same subject (2) The first sec- ments. tion applies only in the case of a witness who is not a party to the suit in which he is called But where discovery is sought under the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code, a witness, if a party, cannot be compelled to produce documents which he swears relate solely to his own title or case, and do not in any way tend to prove or support the title or case of his adversary But the production of other relevant and material documents will ordinarily be compelled (3) The privilege in the case of a party is not confined to title-deeds "The word 'title ' produces confusion, because in many cases it is not a question of title at all, and the proposition ought to be that a plaintiff is not entitled to see any document that does not tend to make out his case "(4) The oath of the witness is conclusive as to the nature of the document (5) Quare whether a party can on an application for discovery be compelled to answer interrogatories, or to produce documents of a criminating character. In England (where, however, the rule relating to criminating evidence is different from that under this Act) he would not be so compelled (6) No protection is given by this Act against such answer or production, which (section 1) does notapply not entitl decided u

probably the questions may be dealt with as if the party interrogated were in the witness-box, and that all questions will be allowed which the party interrogated would be bound to answer if he were a witness (7) If this be so the defendant would be bound to answer On the other hand, it is one of the inve-

<sup>(1)</sup> Wigmore, Ev., § 2211 In the United States there is no such privilege. (2) Taylor, Fr . 85 458, 918 Pickering v Noyes,

<sup>1</sup> B & C , 263 , Adams v Unyd, 3 H & N , 351 Whitaler v Ized, 2 Taunt , 115; and text-books cited ante. · (3) Morris v Edwards, D. R., 15 App Cas ,

<sup>309,</sup> affirming Morris v. Edwards, 23 Q B D . 287 see Bolton v. Corporation of Liverpool, 1 M. & K . 8%.

<sup>(4)</sup> Per Kin lersley, V C , in Jentins v Bushby, 35 L. J. Ch. 100 see Bewick v Graham, 7 Q B. D., 400 . Morris v. Edwards, 23 Q B. D.,

<sup>(5)</sup> Morris v Educids, supra

<sup>(6)</sup> Cf Civ. Pr. Code, O XI, r 6, p 757;

r 16, p 767, Hill v Compbell, I R , 10 C P., 222 Atherley v Harrey, 2 Q B D , 524; Fish. er . Owen, 8 Ch D , 645, Webb v. Earle, 5 Ex. D , 109 , Bray on Discovery, 313 As to discovery in criminal cases, are Mahomed Jackeriah v Ahmed Mahomed, 15 C , 109 (1887)

<sup>(7)</sup> See remarks of Ablerson. B., in Octors v. London Doct Co , 10 Ex , 698, 702; Lyell

T Kennedy, 8 App. Cas., 234

terate principles of English law, that a party cannot be compelled to discover that is so taker

rogated, who is apparently without the statutory protection given to a witness, should or should not be protected by the application of the general principles abovementioned. Where a witness is not compelled to produce a deed, he cannot be compelled to answer questions as to its contents, otherwise the protection would be perfectly illusory (v. post).(3) In a case to which section 130 applies, it is entirely optional for the witness to produce his title-deeds and to raise any objection whatever (4) Section 131 extends to the agent the same protection which section 130, or any other section of this or any other Act, provides for the principal, and so where a principal would be entitled to refuse production of a document, it cannot be compelled from his solicitor, trustee, or mortgagee.(5) But in so far as the object of the privilege is that the title may not be disclosed and examined, it has been held in England that production may be enforced for the purpose of identification, which must not extend to a perusal of its contents (6) It has also been held that, unless it appears that the title of the person possessing the document will in some way be affected by its production, the rule will not prevail. (7) It would appear from the terms of section 131 that, though the persons contemplated by that section cannot be compelled to produce documents in their possession, they will yet, if they so choose, be permitted to do so and therefore, for example, though a legal adviser holding a document confidentially for his chent, may justify his refusal to produce it under this section, and is forbidden (by section 126) to state the contents of any document with which he has become acquainted in the course, and for the purpose, of his professional employment, he will yet be permitted to produce the document itself, if it happen to be in his possession and he chooses to do so (8) The fact that the production of document will expose the person producing it to a civil action affords no ground for protection (9) A witness not a party need not produce a criminating document, but he must answer any criminating question, save, it is submitted, any question as to the contents of any such criminating document, as, by the provisions of section 120, he is or to produce a document, see Acts XIX of 1853,(12) and X of 1855 (13) A witness called on his subpana duces tecum, who objects to the production of documents, has no right to have the question of his liability to produce argued by his counsel retained for that purpose (14) A witness cannot withhold production of a document called for as evidence, on the ground of any lien he may

Ondhi

<sup>(1)</sup> Per Bowen, L J., in Redfern v Redfern. P. D., 1891, p. 14.

<sup>(2)</sup> Odmes on Libel, 580.

<sup>(3)</sup> Davies v. Waters, 9 M W , 608, 612 . Few v. Gappy. 13 Peav , 457; and this notwithstanding s. 132, post.

<sup>(4)</sup> R. v Moss, 16 A., 89, 100 (1993)

<sup>(5)</sup> Burnill v. Tanner, 16 Q. B. D , 1 : Steph Dig., Art. 119; Taylor, Ev., §§ 458, 918

<sup>(6)</sup> Phelps v. Prew, 3 E. & B., 430; see also Volunt v. Soyre, 13 C. B., 231.

<sup>(7)</sup> Taylor, Ev . $ 450 . Ice v. Mercat, 39 L. J.,

Ecc., 53; Doe v. Langion, 12 Q. B . 711. (9) Finkl, Ev., 603; Taylor, Ev., $$ 458, 919; ras and Bombay). (14) Roweliffe v. Fgrem rat, 2 M & Rob., 386; ere also Lee v. Merert, 39 L. J., Fec., 63, 54

Roscor, N. P. Ev , 156; Hellerd v. Knight, 2 Er R., 11 , as to the giving of secondary evidence in the case of non-production, see note to . 65,

<sup>(9)</sup> Doe v. Date, 3 Q H . 600; Taylor, Ev .

<sup>$$ 460, 1464.</sup> (10) S 132, post; Daries v. Hatere, sapra.

<sup>(11)</sup> S. 162, pret (12) S. 26 (in force in Bengal, N.-W. P. and <sup>(13)</sup> S. 10 (in force in the Presidencies of Med-

825

have upon it ;(1) unless perhaps the party requiring the production be himself the person against whom the claim of lien is made, (2) for in such case the right to use the document evidentially might, on the facts, practically annul the value of the lien, and there seems no reason why this should be permitted him. So though a solicitor, having a lien on a deed, may not be bound to produce it at the instance of the client against whom the lien exists, yet if the client is bound to produce it for the benefit of a third person, as eg, under a subjecta duces tecum, so too is the solicitor.(3) A banker is not compellable to produce his books in legal proceedings to which the bank is not a party.(4) But in England it has been recently held that the fact that a banker has received a document upon the terms that it shall not be delivered up except with the consent of the depositor is no answer to a subpana duces tecum (5)

A witness shall not be excused from answering any witness not question as to any matter relevant to the matter in issue in any ground suit or in any civil or criminal proceeding, upon the ground that ground that the answer to such question will criminate, or may tend directly criminate. or indirectly to criminate such witness, or that it will expose, or tend directly or indirectly to expose, such witness to a penalty or forfeiture of any kind :

Provided that no such answer, which a witness shall be com- Proviso. pelled to give, shall subject him to any arrest or prosecution, or be proved against him in any criminal proceeding, except a prosecution for giving false evidence by such answer.(6)

Principle.-The general rule is otherwise in England, where (with certain exceptions) a witness need not answer any question the tendency of which is to expose the witness, or the wife or husband of the witness, to any criminal charge, penalty or forfeiture ,(7) the maxim being "Nemo tencture seipsum prodere (8) The privilege is based on the principle of encouraging all persons to come forward with evidence, by protecting them, as far as possible, from

<sup>(1)</sup> Hunter v Leathley, 10 B & C , 885 , Ley v Barlow, 1 Fx., 801; Taylor, Ev. § 458, and cases there cited.

<sup>(2)</sup> This is suggested in Brassington v Brassington, 1 Sim & St , 455, and acted upon in Kemp v King, 2 M & Rob , 437 see also Hope v. Lidial, 24 L. J. Ch. 693, Re Cameron's, etc. Co., 25 Bear , 1 , Taylor, Ev , 1 458 . Bray's Discovery, 203-206, Wigmore, Ev., p 3001 But it seems to be opposed to Hunter v Leathley, supra, in which a broker, who had a ben on a policy for premiums advanced, was compelled to produce it in an action against the underwriter by the assured who had created the hen [Steph. Dig., Art. 119 see also Fowler v Fowler, 29 W R. (Eng.), 801. See Lociett v. Cdrey, 10 Jur N. S., 144, where a solicitor was party to the action, and Indian Contract Act (IX of 1872). es. 171, 221 As to right of mortgagee to withhold production of mortgage-deeds or titledeeds, see Beattie v Jetha Dungares, 5 Bom H C. R., O. C. J., 152.

<sup>(3)</sup> Cordery's Law relating to Solicitors, 2nd

Ed , 301 Insh's Practice, 3rd Ed , 335, 336 . as to hen in msolvency, administration, and in winding up proceedings, see Bray's Discovery,

<sup>(4)</sup> Act XVIII of 1891, s 5, v Appendix (5) R v Days (1908), 2 K B , 333 (Div

<sup>(6)</sup> Sec Hossain Baksh v R , 6 C , 96, 107 (1880), as also see R v Durant, 23 B , 213, 220 (1898), in which the accused called as witnesses persons charged with him and awaiting a separate trial for the same offence

<sup>(7)</sup> See R v Gopal Doss, 3 M , 279-282 (1891); Best, Ev . 85 126-129 , Taylor Ev . 55 1450-1468. Bray on Discovers, 311-349, Roscoe, N P Ev., 166-108; Phipson, Fr , 3rd Ed., 181, 184 . Powell, Ev., 116-123 Steph. Dig . Art 120 , R. v Boyes, 1 B & S . 330 , Ex-parte Reyardds, L. R., 20 Ch D , 208 (oath of the witness not conclusive claim must be bond fide). (8) For a criticism of this rule, see Bentham.

Rationale Bk. IX, Part IV, Ch. 3; Stephen's History of the Crimmal Law, I, 342, 441, 533.

injury or needless annovance is consequence of so doing.(1) This privilege was repealed in India by section 32, Act II of 1855, which is reproduced in the present section. The state of the law, while the privilege existed, tended in some cases to bring about a failure of justice, for the allowance of the excuse, when the matter to which the question related was in the knowledge solely of the witness, deprived the Court of the information which was essential to its arriving at a right decision In order to avoid this inconvenience, and to obtain evidence which a witness refused to give, the witness was deprived of the privilege of claiming excuse; but, while subjecting him to compulsion, the Legislature, in order to remove any inducement to falsehood, declared that evidence so obtained should not be used against him, except for the purpose in the Act declared (2) The necessity under which the privileged witness formerly lay of explaining cases to a virtual der how the answer to a rule enacted by this :

the cause of justice, and the benefit of the rule, that no one shall be compelled to criminate himself, to the witness (claiming his privilege), when a criminal proceeding is instituted against him (3)

s 130 (Criminating Documents.)

88 146-148 (Criminating Questions in cross-evamination.)

Steph Dig , Art. 120 , Taylor, Ev., §§ 1453-1468; Best, Ev., §§ 126-129; Bray on Discovery, 311-349; Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 166-168, Powell, Ev., 116-123; Cr. Pr., Code, so. 161-175; Stewart Rapalic's Law of Witnesses, $$ 261-269, Wharton, Er., §§ 533-540 . Hageman's Privileged Communications, §§ 256-271.

COMMENTARY.

"Shall not beexcused

This section gives the Judge no option to disallow a question as to matter relevant to the matter in issue Section 148 gives him an option to compel or excuse an answer to a question as to matter which is material to the suit only so far as it affects the credit of the witness.(4) As to interrogatories, see notes to s 130, ante

"Relevant to the matter in issue

This section does not in terms deal with all criminatory questions which may be addressed to a witness, but only with questions as to matters relevant to the matter in issue Irrelevant questions should not be allowed, and it may be implied from the limitation in this section, that a witness should be excused from answering questions tending to criminate as to matters which are irrelevant (5) On the very language of the section the witness can always claim to be excused on the ground of the irrelevancy of the question (6)

Criminate: penalty; forfeiture

Though the question does not so expressly provide, it follows, a fortiori. that a person is not excused from answering any question only because the answer may establish or tend to establish, that he owes a debt or is otherwise liable to a civil suit, either at the instance of the Crown or of another person.(7)

- 542, 565; Wigmore, Ev., § 2251, and at p. 3101, where he deals with the subject of judicial cant towards crime and with what a wit has called " justice tampered with mercy."
- (1) Best, Ev., § 126, a compromise has, however, been adopted in several modern statutes by compelling the disclosure, but indemnifying the witness from its results; see Phipson, Er.,
  - (2) Per Turner, C. J., In R. v. Gopal Press, 3rd Ed , 181.

- supra. 279, 280, (3) Ib., per M Ayyar, J., at pp. 286, 287.
  - (4) R v. Gopal Dass, 3 M . 271, 250.
  - (5) Ib., 278; per Turner, C. J.
- (6) Ib , 283, per Innes, J. (7) See 46 Geo. 111, Cap. 47; Steph Dig. Art. 120 and note; as to the meaning of "ten
- dency to eriminate," are Lamb v. Munder, 10 Q. B D, 111, 114.

The section makes a distinction between those cases, in which a witness "Shall be columnarily answers a question, and those in which he is compelled to answer; compelled and gives him a protection in the latter of these cases only. Protection is afforded only to answers which a witness has objected to give, or which he has asked to be excused from giving, and which then he has been compelled to give, and not to answers given voluntarily "As these words stand they presuppose an objection by the witness, which has been overruled by the Judge, and a constraint put upon the witness to answer the particular question." If, therefore, the witness wishes to prevent his statement from being thereafter used against him, he must object to reply, and only answer on being compelled by the Court (1) The answer so given, unless it be false, cannot be ground for any subsequent criminal proceeding: apparently it might be made use of in a subsequent civil suit. The objection should in strictness come from the witness himself (2) Quare, however, whether the Judge ought not (though he is not bound) to advise the witness of his right (3) In the undermentioned case it was held by the Allahabad High Court that if a witness while giving evidence makes a statement which amounts to defamation he may be prosecuted under section 499 of the Penal Code, and it lies on him to show that the statement falls within one or other of the exceptions to that section or that he is protected by the proviso to this section (4)

Persons examined by Police-officers investigating cases under the provi- Persons sions of sections 161, 175, Criminal Procedure Code, are not bound to answer by Police. criminating questions put by such officers (5) As to criminating documents, officers see section 130, ante; and as to the penalties for refusing to give evidence, and for perjury, and the protection afforded to witnesses in respect of what they may say whilst under examination, see pp 839, et seq , post.

133. An accomplice shall be a competent witness against Accomplies an accused person; and a conviction is not illegal merely because it proceeds upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice.

Principle -The testimony of accomplices, who are usually interested. and nearly always infamous witnesses, is admitted from necessity, it being often impossible, without having recourse to such evidence, to bring the principal offenders to justice (6) But the practice is to regard the statements of such persons as tainted because, from the position occupied by them, their statements are not entitled to the same weight as the evidence of an independent witness (7) Accomplice evidence is held untrustworthy for three reasons (a) because an accomplice is likely to swear falsely in order to shift the guilt from himself, (b) because an accomplice as a participator in crime, and consequently an immoral person, is likely to disregard the sanction of an oath, and (c)

<sup>(1)</sup> R v. Gopal Doss, supra (1881), per curiom Kernan and Ayyar, JJ, diesent, R v Ganu Sobna, 12 B , 440 (1888), per curiam Birdwood, J., dissent R v. Samiappa, 15 M., 63, per curiam (1891), Moher Sheilh v R , 21 C., 492 (1893), rer curiam R v Moss. 16 A. 88, 100 (1893) . Haidar Als v. Abru Mia, 2 C L. J., 105 (1905) . c. 9 C W N., 911, 32 C. 756; Soharuddin Sarlar v R , 31 C , 715 (1904), at pp. 720, 721. As to the law under section 32, Act II of 1853, see R v. Zamiran, B L. R., Sup. Vol. 521, 524, 526, 530 (1866). (2) Thomas v. Newton, 1 M. & M . 48n.; P v.

Adey, 1 M. t Rob . 94 . Boyle v. Wiseman, 10

Ex . 647.

<sup>(3)</sup> See Fisher v Ronalds, 12 C B , 762 : Paron v Douglas, 16 Ves., 242 1 G v Radolff. 10 Ev., 89, R. v. Gopal Doss, supra, 288, p. 148, post, especially refers to warning by Judge As to the power of the Judge to question the witness, see R v. Hars Lalshman, 10 B , 185 (1885) (4) R v Ganga Pracad (1907), 29 All., p.

<sup>686 (</sup>Knox and Aikman, JJ , but Richards, J , diss., held that no prosecution for defamation could he against a witness).

<sup>(5)</sup> Cr Pr. Code, es 161, 173

<sup>(6)</sup> Taylor, Ev., $ 967. (7) P. v Eepin Biswar, 10 C., 970, 975 (188') .

because he gives his evidence under promise of a pardon, or in the expectation of of an imphed pardon, if he discloses all he knows against those with whom he acted criminally: and this hope would lead him to favour the prosecution (I) Therefore, as a general rule, confirmation of the evidence of an accomplete is required (v. post); yet as it is allowed that he is a competent witness the consequence is inevitable, that if credit is given to his evidence it requires no confirmation from another witness (g.

ss. 114 ILLUST, (b) (Presumption as to accomplice evidence.)

Taylor, Ev., §§ 967—971; Best, Ev., §§ 170—171; Foster's Crown Law, 352; Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 121—127, 12th Ed., 113—118; Criminal Procedure Code, ss., 337—339 (Tender of Pardon to accompluce), s. 297 (Charge to jury); Stewart Rapalje's Law of Witnesses, §§ 226—228; Burr Jones, Ev., §§ 786—788; Wharton's Criminal Ev., §§ 439—445; Wigmore, Ev., § 2056, et seq.

COMMENTARY.

Accomplice

An accomplice is one concerned with another or others in the commission of a crime (3) The term "accomplices" may include all participes criminis (4) An accomplice is a person who is a guilty associate in crime or who sustains such a relation to the criminal act that he can be jointly indicted with the defendant (principal) (5) But it is not every participation in a crime which makes a party an accomplice init, so as to require his testimony to be confirmed: much depends on the nature of the offence and the extent of the complicity of the witness in it (6) It is generally unsafe to convict a person on the evidence of accomplices unless corroborated in material particulars. But in considering whether this general maxim does or does not apply to a particular case, it is to be remembered that all persons coming technically within the category of accomplices cannot be treated as on precisely the same footing; the nature of the offence and the circumstances under which the accomplices make their statements must always be considered No general rule on the subject can be laid down (7) Where a witness admits that he was cognisant of the crime as to which he testifies, and took no means to prevent or disclose it, his evidence must be considered as no better than that of an accomplice.(8) A person who offers a bribe to a public officer is an accomplice in the offence of taking an illegal gratification (9) Where certain persons accompanied another, who was entrusted with and carried the money intended to be given as a bribe to the head

- (1) Per Scott, J., in R v. Magan Lall. 14 B, 115, 119 (1889) see remarks of Peacock C J, in R. v. Elah Bux, post, at p. 1994, and Karnala Prasad v. Sital Prosad, 24 C, 739, 324, 343 (1901).
- (2) R. v. Jones, 2 Camp, 131, R. v. Lluhs Bax, B. L. R., Sup Vol., F. B., 459, 462 (1866). See Wigmore, Pr., § 2056.
- (3) Wharton Law Lexicon, 5th Ed. The co-operation in the crime must be real and not merely apparent. Wharton, Cr. Er., $440.
- (4) Foster's Crown Cases, 341; thus in Enghab fast its includes both principals in the first and second degrees and accessories before and after the fact. But in India it was held that an accessory after the fact (ender the law proct of the Penal Cole) stood on a very different footing from an accomplice. R. v. Challerdanses, Sast, 5 W. R., C., 52 (1969); see also Magne's 10.

- ---
- 212, 216.
  (5) Per Sir S Subramania Alyyar, Offa C. J.
  Ranaezmi Gourden v. R., 27 M., 271 (1903).
- * c , 14 Mad. L J , 226
  (6) R. v. Chulterdharee Sing, 5 W. R., Cr., 59
- (1866); Best, Ev., § 171; R. v. Hargrate, 5 C. & P., 170; R. v. Jarres, 2 Moo & R., 40; E v. Hoyes, 1 D. & V., 311, 322; see first supplementary Mustration to ill. (b), s. 114
- (7) R. v. Malhar, 26 B, 193 (1901); s. c., 3 Bom, L. R., 694, R. v. Hanmant, 6 Bom, I. R., 443, 459 (1904).
- (8) R. v. Chando Chandalinee, 24 W. F., Cr., 55 (1875); see Ishan Chandra v. R., post. (9) R. v. Chagar Dayaram, 14 B., 331 (1890);
- R. v. Magan Lat, 14 B., 115 (1889); R. v. Mat. Aor, 20 B., 193 (1901); see also R., Obboy Churn, 3 W. R., Cr., 19 (1863); R. v. Kamiagra, 15 M., 63 (1891).

constable in the knowledge that it was to be so paid and in order to witness and assist in such payment, they were held to be accomplices (1) While it is usually unsafe to convict a public servent of receiving bribes on the uncorroborated evidence of persons who say they have given them, the question as to the amount of corroboration depends on the circumstances of each case (2)

The mere presence of a person on the occasion of the giving of a bribe and his omission to promptly inform the authorities do not constitute him an accomplice, unless it can be shown that he somehow co-operated in the payment of the bribe, or was instrumental in the negotiations for the payment. (3) There is nothing in the law to justify the broad proposition that the endence of witnesses, who admit that they were cognizant of a crime, that they made no attempt to prevent it, and that they did not disclose its commission, should only be relied on to the same extent as that of accomplices (4) A person who has helped the accused to conceal the corpse of a person murdered or has omitted to give information of the murder is not an accomplice, although he may be guilty of an offence either unders 201 or s 202 of the Indian Penal Code (5) "An accomplice witness is one who is either being jointly tried for the same offence and makes admissions which may be taken as evidence against a co-offence and makes admissions which may be taken as evidence against a co-

The action of a spy and informer in suggesting and unitating a criminal offence is itself an offence, the act not being excused or justified by any exception in the Indian Penal Code, or by the doctrine which distinguishes the spy from the accomplice. But the act of a detective in supplying marked money for the detection of a crime cannot be treated as that of an accomplice. Where an informer was upon his own statement cognisant of the commission of an offence, and omitted to disclose it for six days, the Court was not prepared to say that he was an accomplice, but held that his testimony was not such as to justify a conviction, except where it was corroborated (10) "When the Judges speak of the danger of acting upon the uncorroborated evidence of accomplices, they refer to the evidence of accomplices who are admitted as evidence for the Crown in the hope or expectation of a pardon." (11)

This section is the only absolute rule of law as regards the evidence of ac-

R. v. Chando Chandalinee, suprs.

<sup>(1)</sup> Rajon: Kant v Asan Mullick, 2 C W. N., 672 (1895). (2) R v Malkar, 26 B , 193 (1901)

<sup>(3)</sup> R. v. Deother Simph, 27 C, 144 (1899), and in Akhoy Kumar v Jayet Chunder, 27 C, 925 (1900), it was held that a person lending money in ordinary course of business to pay an amount extorted was not an accomplice.

<sup>(4)</sup> R v. Smither, 26 M , 1, 12 (1902) (5) Ramasami Gounder v. R , 27 M , 271 (1903), per Sir S Subcamania Aigyar, Offg.

C. J., and Sir Bhashyam Aiyangar, J.
(6) Per Glover, J., in R. v. Earnsoloy Chacker-batty, 20 W. R., Cr., 19 (1873); as to giving evidence under parlon, see remarks of Peacock.

buty, 20 W. R., Cr., 19 (1873); as to giving evidence under parlon, see remarks of Precock, C. J., in R. v. Elak Eur, at p 468; see E v. Boyes, 311, 322, supra. R. v. O'Hera, 17 C.,

<sup>642 (1890)
(7)</sup> R v. Ramsodov Churlerbuttu, sapra

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Er., § 971, Whartor, Cr. Fr., § 440, Stewart Raysle, op or. § 528 R v Duspord, 28 How. 8t Tr. 489, R v Mal'ss, 3, Cor., Cr., 525, referred to and followed in R. v. Jacchersm., 9 R., 352 (1891), in which the distinction between a spy and an accomplier is position of Sec. 4800 R v. J. Geor. Fran., 16 E., 661, R. v. Shewler, Cr. R., 91 (Bom), 21 Dec., 1858, cited in 19 D. repro., 4t p. 365.

<sup>(9)</sup> R. v Jareclaram, supra. (10) Jahan Chandra v R., 21 C., 328 (1893);

<sup>(11)</sup> Per Peacock, C. J., in R. v. Elah Buz, supra, at p. 469.

regard; and it is to be found in illustration (b) to section 114 The latter section enacts a rule of presumption, and read with section 4 it indicates that this is not a presumption meapable of rebuttal. The right to raise this presumption is sanctioned by the Act; and it would be an error of law to disregard it. What effect is to be given to it must be determined by the circumstances of each case. The evidence of the accomplice requires to be accepted with great coution because among other things he is likely to swear falsely in order to shift corroboration of such evidence when re-anired in material particulars as would induce a prudent man to believe, on consideration of all the circumstances, that the evidence is true so far as it affects each person implicated.(1)

The rule in this section and in section 114, illustration (b), are part of one subject, and neither section is to be ignored in the exercise of judicial discresubject, and neither section is to be sented in England, (3) and laid down 114. Illustration, (2) and they coincide with the rule observed in England, (3) and laid down in India prior to the passing of this Act (4) "On the whole, the result" of these sections "appears to be that the legislature has laid it down as a maxim or rule of evidence resting on human experience that an accomplice is unworthy of credit against an accused person, re., so far as his testimony implicates an accused person, unless he is corroborated in material particulars in respect to that person, that it is the duty of the Court which in any particular case has to deal with an accomplice's testimony to consider whether this maxim applies to exclude that testimony or not; in other words, to consider whether the requisite corroboration is furnished by other evidence or facts proved in the case, though at the same time the Court may rightly in exceptional cases, notwithstanding the maxim, and in the absence of this corroboration, give credit to the accomplice's testimony against the accused, if it sees good reasons for doing so upon grounds other than, so to speak, the personal corroboration."(5) The rule that an accomplice must be corroborated in a material particular is a mere rule of general and usual practice, the application of which is for the discretion of the Judge by whom the case is tried. Thus the rule has no application in the case of an accomplice who is merely a vouthful tool in the hands of one who stood to him in loco parentis (6)

> This section in unmistakeable terms lays it down that a conviction is not illegal merely because it proceeds upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice, and to hold that corroboration is necessary is to refuse to give effect to this provision (7) And so a jury may, if they please, act upon the evidence of an accomplice, even in a capital case, without any confirmation of his statement (8) And there may be cases of an exceptional character in which the accomplice's evidence alone convinces a Judge of the facts required to be

Rule in this section and

<sup>(1)</sup> R. v. Shrinitas Krishna, and R. v. Naor Bhaslar, 7 Bom L R., 969

<sup>(2)</sup> R. v. Chayon Dayaram, 14 B., 331, 344 (1890); E. v. Mohiuddin Sahib, 25 M., 143, 147 (1901), [the section must be read with illust (b) to s 114].

<sup>(3)</sup> R v. Ramasams Padayachs, 1 M., 394 (1878); B. v. Ram Saran, S A., 306 (1886). R Majan Lal, 14 B., 115 (1889).

<sup>(4)</sup> See the Full Bench case of R v. Elahi Bur (B. L. R., Sup. Vol., F. B., 459, May, 1866; a. c . 5 W. P., Cr., 80), in which the law which is the subject of these sections was fully discussed. (5) Per Phear, J., in R. v. Sadhu Mundul, 21

W. R., Cr., 69, 70 (1874). See remarks in Abdal Karim v. R , 1 All. L. J., 110 (1904), where the Court was unable to regard a witness as an accomplice of such an exceptional kind as would justify the Court in dispensing with confirmatory evidence Corroboration is required unless the Court can unbentatingly believe it. (6) Ramasami Gounden v. R., 27 M . 271 (1903) per Sir S. Subramania Ayy...r, Offg. C. J.

<sup>(7)</sup> R. v. Ramasarıs Padayachı, 1 M , 394 (1878); R v. Gobardhan, 9 A , 528, 553 (1887); R. v Koa, 19 W. R., Cr., 48 (1873); R. v. Ram Saran, 8 A., 306 (1885); R. v. Magan Lel', 14 B , 115 (1889); R. v. Chagan Bayaram, 14 B., 331 (1890).

<sup>(8)</sup> R. v. Godai Raout, 5 W. R , Cr., 11 (1866); R. v. Ramasami Padayachi, supra: R. v. O'Hara, 17 C . 642, 665 (1890) ; R. v. Mahima Chundra, 6 B. L. R., App , 108, 111 (1871); R. v. Nidharam, 18 W. R. Cr., 45 (1872)

proved, and section 133 would support him, if he acted on that conviction without the corroboration usually insisted on (1) "Although, as a general rule, it would be most unsafe to convict an accused person on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, such evidence must, like that of any other witness, be considered and weighed by the judge, who, in doing so, should not overlook the position in which the accomplice at the time of giving his evidence may stand, and the motives which he may have for stating what is false If the Judge, after making due allowance for these considerations and the probabilities of the story, comes to the conclusion that the evidence of the accomplice. although uncorroborated, is true, and the evidence, if beheved, establishes the guilt of the prisoner, it is his duty to convict (2) Before acting on the presumption mentioned in section 114, the Court or jury is required by the section and the sequel to the Illustrations to take into consideration certain facts with the view to ascertain the probability of the story told (3) It is not wise or feasible to construct a fixed rule of law for all cases, though constant attempts have been and are still made to turn what was in its origin and is under the Act a cautionary practice into a rule of law (4)

i

without great danger to society that a conviction is not illegal merely because it proceeds upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice. '(7) The general result therefore is that it almost all cases the presumption mentioned in section 114, illust.(b), should be raised and corroboration in material particulars required. The bare existence of a principle is acknowledged in order to meet the requirements of very exceptional cases, but from the very fact of the exceptional character of these cases this principle is in practice constantly disapproved of and frequently violated (6). "There is no rule of law or practice that the self-incriminating portion of the evidence of an accomplice is unworthy of belief unless corroborated. The credibility of a witness who says that he and another joined in committing an offence stands per set, so far as his self-accuston is concerned, on the same footing as

<sup>(1)</sup> Per Scott, V., in R. v. Magan Loll, 14 B., 115, 119 (1889); R. v. Ramasamı Padayachı, sapra.

<sup>(2)</sup> R. v. Gobardhan, 9 A., 528, 554, per Edge.

<sup>(3)</sup> R. v. Romasam: Padayachi, supra. as to the character of an accomplice, see sequel to flust. (1), s. 114; and remarks of Peacock, C. J., In R. v. Elahs Bux, 468.

<sup>(4)</sup> See Wigmore, Ev., § 2050.

<sup>(5)</sup> Rajoni Kanta v Asan Mullier, 2 C W N . 872 (1895)

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v. Magan Lall, supra; Best, Fv., § 171. it is not a rule of law but of practice only, R. v. Amir Khan, 9 B. L. R., 36, 57 (1871); R. v. Kulla, 25 L. J., M. C., 16; but it is a practice which deserves all the reverence of the law R. v. Farlar, S C. & P., 107, per Lord Abunger In the matter of Jogendra Nath v. Sanga Garo,

<sup>2</sup> C W N, 55 (1897), Kamala Prasad τ. Sital Prasad, 28 C, 339, 343 (1901)

<sup>(7)</sup> Per Jardine, J., in R. v. Chopan Departm., 3 He, 313, 344 (1890), set also R. v. Iman. 3 Dom. H. C. R., 57, 59 C. C. (1807), R. v. Hohan Enginey, 22 W. R., C., 23 (1807), [self-the-evidence of approver alone, uncorroborated, was sufficient to justify the Court on calling upon sufficient to justify the Court on calling upon the prisoner for his defence), R. v. Luchmes Persade, 19 W. R. (7., 43 (1852)).

<sup>(8)</sup> See Remarks in Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 12th Ed., 114, 115.

that of a witness who says that he alone committed an offence, though in the latter instance there would be a narrow basis for cross-examination to test his own self-accusation. If a witness is an accomplice, he is an accomplice and must own to being an accomplice if he tells the truth. It is therefore merely arguing in a cricle to say that the self-incriminating statement of an accomplice requires corroboration because he is an accomplice. What must first be decided is, whether the witness in question is in truth an accomplice or is merely posing as an accomplice. When it is once established that he is an accomplice, then the next practical question arises who are the other accomplices, and it is at that stage, when his evidence implicating others has to be weighed, that there comes into application the maxim, that it is unsafe to convict upon the evidence of an accomplice, unless he is corroborated in material particulars, both as to the circumstances of the offence and the identity of the persons whom he implicates "(1)

Charge to jury.

The evidence of accomplices should not be left to the jury without such directions and observations from the Judge, as the circumstances of the case may require, pointing out to them the danger of trusting to such evidence when it is not corroborated by other evidence (2) The omission to do so is an error in law, (3) in the summing up by the J setting aside the conviction when the

has been prejudiced by such omission, justice (5) Where a Judge charged the jury that they were not to convict was an accomplice and uncorroborated, xpression of opinion that G was not an a misdirection in fact, though not in form, calculated seriously to prejudice the prisoner's case.(6) Where the only evidence of the payment of a bill to the accused, apart from hearsay statements which were not admissible, (7) consisted of the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice which was further in itself improbable and to some extent inconsistent with the story of the other accomplices, the High Court set aside the conviction (8) It has been recently held both that the conviction of an accused on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice is perfectly legal; and that a direction to the jury that it would be their duty to convict the accused

(1) R v. Hanmant, 6 Bom. L. R., 443, 450 (1901), per Aston, J.

(2) R v. Elahs Buz, supra. R. v Bailanthanath, 3 B L R . F B . 2 note (1869) . R. v. Karon, 6 W. R., Cr , 44 (1866); R. v. Mohima Chandra, 6 B L R., App., 108 (1871); R. v. Navab Jan, 8 W. R., Cr., 19 (1867). R. v. Ganu, 6 Bom H C. C C , 57 (1963) . R. v. Sadhu Mundul, 11 W R. Cr , 69 (1874), R. v. O'Hare, 17 C , 642, 665 (1890) . R v. Ram Saran, 8 F., 306 (1898), R. v Arumuram, 12 M. 196 (1898), see cases cited aute, passim. R. v. Mayon Lall, 14 P., 115, 119 (1889), R. v. Elahi Bur, supra, 479.

(3) R. v. Elaki Luz, supra; R. v. Arumuyam, supra; R. v. Navab Jaz, supra, R. v. Ahotab Sheith, 6 W. R., Cr., 17 (1866); see cases cited ante, passim. See per contra. R. v. Chapan Dayaram, 14 B., 331, 335 (1890); R. v. Gang, 8 Rom. H. C. R., C. C , 57 (1868); R. v. Stubbe, 25 L. I., 3f. C., 16; s. e. Dear, C. C., 55; Phillips, Ev., L 95. See also s. 297, Cr. Pr. Code (charge to jury).

(4) Cf. s. 418, Cr. Pr. Cule ; but see R. v. Chegan Dayaram, supra, 336, and ss. 435-437, Cr. Pr. Code (revisional powers); as to proceedings under the Letters Patent, see R. v. O'Hara, 17 C., 642 (1890); R. v Narroji Dadabini, 9 Bom, H. C., 358 (1872); R. v. Hurribele Chunder, 1 C , 207 (1876); R v Pdambar Jino, 2 B., 61 (1876) : R. v. Shib Chunder, 10 C., 1079 (1981);

R. v. Pestanjes Dineha, 10 Bom. H. C., 75, 89 (1875). (5) R. v. Elahi Bur, supra : cf. also Cr. Pr. Code, s. 537; and see R. v. Tate, C. C. A. (1908), 2 K. B , 600 and R. v. Beanchamp (1909), 25

Times L. R , 330

(6) R. v. O'Hara, 17 C., 642 (1890). (7) It was field in the case cited that a statement by a witness that he heard A say in the absence of the accused, that he had raid a sum of money to the accused as a bribe was bearsay and not admissible. (8) Rajoni Kani v. Asan Mullick, 2 C. W. N., 672 (1895). In R. v. Latchmayya Panderom. 22 M., 491 (1899), that accomplice's statement was not only not corruborated, but was distinctly contradicted by the eridence in the case.

if they behaved the accomplice and gave credit to his evidence is a perfectly that the evidence of an accomill be a misdrection(1); as also he is corroborated in material particulars. Where there is no such corroborated in material Judge to direct the jury that there is no sufficient evidence before them upon which they will be justified in finding an accused guilty. A Judge who combines the functions of Judge and jury is equally bound to scrutinise accomplice-ovidence with great care and to consider whether there is any corroborating evidence when the main evidence is of an accomplice character. (2) Although it is not usual for the High Court to interfere in revision with the decision of the Lower Court, when it is based on a consideration of the evidence, yet where the Lower Court, when the based on a consideration of the evidence of view that the witnesses were accomplices and where hearsay evidence has been improperly admitted in important points, the Court will go into the facts of the case (3)

The corroboration must be on a point material to the issue, the testimony Corrobora of the approver ought to be corroborated in some material circumstance, such tion. circumstance connecting and idealitying the prisoner with the offence (4)

"There is a great difference between confirmation of an accomplice as to the circumstances of the felony and those which apply to the individuals charged. The former only show that the accomplice was present at the commission of the offence, but the others show that the prisoner was connected with it This distinction ought always to be attended to The confirmation which I always advise juries to require, is a confirmation of the accomplice in some fact which goes to fix the guilt on the particular person charged (5) The "corroboration ought to consist of some circumstance that affects the identity of the person accused A man who has been guilty of a crime himself will always be able to relate the facts of the case, and if the confirmation be only on the truth of that history, without identifying the persons, that is no corroboration at all "(6) It is an established rule of practice that the accomplice must be corroborated by independent evidence as to the identity of every person whom he impeaches (7) The accomplice must be corroborated as to all of the persons affected by his evidence If he is corroborated in his evidence as to one prisoner, there will still be need of corroboration of his testimony with respect to the other prisoners (8) But "it is sufficient, if the evidence is confirmatory of some of the leading circumstances of the story of the approver as against the approver was held to be sufficiently correborated.

W, LE

<sup>(1)</sup> Ramasum: Gounden v R , 14 Mad L J , 226 (1903), s c , 27 M , 271, per Bhashyam Aiyangur, J

<sup>(2)</sup> Ib , per Boddam, J

B. V. Nasob Jan, S. W. R., Cr., 19, 20, 28,
 S. (1867), followed in R. V. Bepin Barver,
 S. (1867), followed in R. V. Bepin Barver,
 D. C., 790, 797 (1884), R. V. Talok Bar, B. L. R.
 Sep. Vol., F. B., 459 (Vay) 1860), S. c., 5 W. R.
 Cr., SO, R. V. Buslantis Nath, 3 B. L. R.
 F. B., 2 note (1883), R. V. Lodeak Barwer, 10 B. I.
 R. J. Sander (1873), R. V. Lodeak Barwer, 10 B. I.
 R. 455 note (1873), R. V. Lodeak Barwer, 10 B. I.
 R. 455 note (1873), R. V. Lodeak Barwer, 10 R. Cr. Collisti, R. V. Boreta, S. W. R. Cr. Collisti, R. V. Boreta, S. W. R. C. 18 (1860), R. V. Boreta, S. W. R., C. 18 (1860), R. V. Boreta, S. W. R., V. Sapl Son, V. Ollera, I. C., 621 (1850), R. V. Sapl Son, L. C., 621 (1850), R. V. Sapl Son, Ba, 21 C., 621 (1850), R. Fersharer of the Lakh, 25 M., 143 (1901), the resharer of the exchance of the

Stewart Rapalje, op cit , § 227 , Wharton, Cr. Ev , §§ 441-442

<sup>(5)</sup> R v Willer, 7 C & P, 272, per Alderson, B, cited in R v. Elahi Bur, 466, supra, R v. Maliudija, Sahib, 25 M, 143, 147 (1991)

<sup>(6)</sup> R v Forler, S C R P., 106, even m R v. Ellah Bur. 485. suppr. [Nower, C Y E., 124-and see R v Stelde, 25 L J M C, 16 per Cresswell, J — "You may take it fer granted that the accomplex was at the committed of the foliare, and may be corroborted as to the facts, but that has no tendency to show that the parties accused were three "New also R v. Rem Serse, 9 A, 206, 310 (1884).

R. v. Ershhalkat, 10 B., 319 (1996); R. v. Endlu Nanku, 1 B., 473 (1976); R. v. Malapa bas, 11 Bom. H. C., 196 (1974); R. v. Rom. Sarun, 8 A., 306 (1985), and cases cited, aste (8) Abdal Karm v. R., 1 AB L. J., 110 (1994).

particular prisoner, so that the Court may be able to presume that he has told the truth as to the rest. The true rule on the subject of the corroboration of the evidence of approvers probably is that, if the Court is satisfied that the witness is speaking the truth in some material part of his testimony, in which it is seen that he is confirmed by unimpeachable evidence, there may be just ground for believing that he also speaks truth in other parts as to which there may be no confirmation "(1) It is not necessary that an accomplice should be corroborated in every material particular, because if such evidence could be found, it would be unnecessary to call the accomplice; but he must be confirmed in such and so many material points as to satisfy the Court or iury of the truth of his story.(2) "Not only as to persons spoken of by an accomplice, must there be corroborative evidence, but, which is more important still, as to the corpus delicts there must be some prima facie evidence pointing the same way, to make the evidence of an accomplice satisfactory."(3) The corroboration must be independent of the accomplice or of a co-confessing prisoner.(4) The evidence of one accomplice does not corroborate the evidence of another. but the evidence of either requires corroboration before it can be acted upon.(5) The evidence of two or more accomplices requires confirmation equally with the testimony of one (6) There may be circumstances, such as where previous concert by the informers is highly improbable, in which the agreement in their stories, together with corroboration which is afforded by the circumstance that their stories cannot have been arranged between them beforehand, must be taken into account.(7) Previous statements made by the accomplice himself, though consistent with the evidence given by him at the trial, are insufficient corroboration His statement whether made at the trial or before the trial, and in whatever shape it comes before the Court, is still only the statement of an accomplice, and does not at all improve in value by repetition (8) Nor can the confession of one of the prisoners be used to corroborate the evidence of an accomplice against the others because such a confession cannot be put on a higher footing than the evidence of an accomplice (which itself requires corroboration), and is moreover not given on oath or subject to the test of cross-examination, and is guaranteed by nothing except the peril into which it brings the speaker and which it is generally fashioned to lessen. Tainted evidence is not made better by being corroborated by other tainted evidence.(9) Where several persons are indicated and the evidence of the accomplice 19 confirmed as to some only and not as to others, the Court ought (and in trial by jury the latter ought to be advised) to acquit those against whom there is no corroboration (10)

aupra.

<sup>(1)</sup> R v Kala Chand, 11 W. R., Cr., 21 (1869), per Norman J.

<sup>(2)</sup> R v. Gillagher, 15 Cov. C. C., 291; R. v. Barnari, 1 C & P., 88; R. v. Boyer, 1 B. & S.,

<sup>311, 320.
(3)</sup> R. v. Chalur Pursholam, 1 B., 476, note.

<sup>(4)</sup> Abd Korns, v. R., I.AB, L. J., 110 (1901).
(10) R. v., Malopa Ion, H. Born, H. C., 198, 199 (1974); but or second distration appended to flictly by the second distration appended to flictly by the second flower by the second f <sup>400</sup> preceding, note.

(7) R. v. Ningappa, 2 Born. L. R., 610 (1900)

<sup>(8)</sup> R. v. Malapa bin Kapana, 11 Pom. H.C., 196 (1874); R. v. Bepin Bisness, 10 C., 971

<sup>(1884);</sup> and see note to a. 157, post.
(9) R. v. Majora bas, Il Bom, H. C., 196
(1874); R. v. Repan Buenes, 10 C., 970 (1884);
R. v. Bayoo, Choodray, 25 W. R., C., v. 41
(1875); R. v. Krahandhad, 10 B., 119 (1885);
R. v. Jaffer, 10, 10 W. R. C., v. 75 (1873); R. v.
Rudak Nardan, 1 B., 475 (1875); R. v. Udhan Intel.
19 W. R., C., 68 (1873); R. v. Mohan Lind, 4
46 (1881); R. v. Sarba Mardal, 21 W. R. C.
67 (1874); R. v. Ren Karna, 8. A., 200 (1883)

<sup>(10)</sup> E. v. Bolls, M. & M., 320; R. v. Horts, T. C. & P., 270; and see E. v. Stabls, appearing marks of Juris, G. J., Boscor, Cr. Er., 12th Ed., 115, 116; R. v. Ram Sortin, 6 A., 3ct, 315 (1883); R. v. Juan, 3 Dom. H. C., 57 (1801); R. v. Elsh Hur, 607, sepa, following R. v. Stable.

The extent of corroboration will depend much upon the nature of the crime, and the degree of moral guilt attached to its commission; and if the offence be one of a purely legal character or if it imply no great moral delinquency, the parties concerned, though in the eye of the law criminal, will not be considered such accomplices as to render necessary any confirmation of their evidence.(1) The application of the rule is for the discretion of the Judge by whom the case is tried; and in the application of the rule much depends on the nature of the offence, and the extent of the complicity of the witness in it.(2) Ordinarily speaking, the evidence of an accomplice should be corroborated in material particulars. At the same time the amount of criminality is a matter for consideration; when a person is only an accomplice by implication or in a secondary sense his evidence does not require the same amount of corroboration as that of the person who is an actual participator with the principal offender. In dealing with the question what amount of corroboration is required in the case of testimony given by an accomplice, the Courts must exercise careful discrimination and look at the surrounding circumstances in order to arrive at a conclusion whether the fact deposed to by the person alleged to be an accomplice, are borne out by these circumstances, or whether the circumstances are of such a nature, that the evidence purporting to be given by the alleged accomplice should be supported in essential and material particulars by evidence alrunde as to the facts deposed to by that accomplice (3)

134. No particular number of witnesses shall in any case Number of Witnesses be required for the proof of any fact.

Principle.-This section deals with the question of the quantity of legitimate evidence required for judicial decision. Cases now and then, though seldom, occur, in which injustice is done by giving credence to the story of a single witness. On the other hand, however, as the requiring a plurality of witnesses, clearly imposes an obstacle to the administration of justice, specially where the act to be proved is of a casual nature; above all, where, being in violation of law, as much clandestinity as possible would be observed .- it ought not to be required without strong and just reason (4)

s. 133 (Accomplice.)

89. 68-71 (Atlesting writness.) s. 3 (" Fact.")

8. 3 (" Proof.")

Wharton, Ev., § 414, & Cr. Ev., § 386 et seq. ; Best, Ev., §§ 596-622 ; Taylor, Ev., §§ 952-966; Indian Penal Code, Ch XI (False Evidence); Ch. VI, 1b. (Offences against the State analogous to "treason"), Starkie, Ev., 827; Cr. Pr Code, Ch. XXXVI (Maintenance); Stewart Rapalje's Law of Witnesses, § 225.

COMMENTARY.

Section 28 of the repealed Act II of 1855, which was more directly and in Quantity cf terms in accord with the present English law on the subject than the present section, was as follows .- " Except in cases of treason the direct evidence of one witness, who is entitled to full credit, shall be sufficient for proof of any and dements of the 'wass sullus" rule, see 15., § 598, and generally §§ 596-622, 65-70 process: see Kulum Mundal v. Blowansprosad, 22 W. lt., Cr., 12 (1874), Taylor, Ev., $$ 952-965; Starker, Ev., 827, we also remarks of Ser Lawrence Pecl in R. v. Hedyer, post; Wharton, Fs., £ 414.

<sup>(1)</sup> R. v. Boyes, 1 B. & S , 311, 320, 322, Taytor, Ev., § 968, and cases there cited are first supplementary illustration to illust. (5), s. 114. (2) R. v. Eoges, supra. (3) Kamala Prasad v Sital Prasad, 28 C.,

<sup>239 (1901);</sup> s. c., 5 C. W. N., 517.

<sup>(4)</sup> Best, Ev., $1 597, 594; as to the ments

ifact in any such Court or before any such person. But this provision shall not affect any rule or practice of any Court that requires corroborative evidence in support of the testimony of an accomplice (v. ante, section 133), or of a single witness in the case of perjury." The effect of the present section is that in any case the testimony of a single witness (if believed by the Court or jury) is sufficient for the proof of any fact. Thus a conviction upon the statement of a complainant alone is lawful (1) The evidence of one witness, it believed, is sufficient according to the law of this country to establish any fact to which the witness speaks directly.(2) A Magistrate is fully justified in believing one witness in preference to three others, if he sees leason to do so, and it is not legally necessary that he should detail his reasons (3) The Act contains no provision corresponding to the English rule requiring corroboration in breach of promise of marriage(4) and affiliation cases (5) or in claims on the estates of deceased persons (6) or in prosecution for perjury.(7) In regard to the giving of false evidence it was held by the Full Bench of the Calcutta High Court (following the English rule) under section 28 of Act II of 1855, that a person cannot be convicted of giving false evidence upon the uncorroborated evidence of a single witness (8) Though the present Act does not in terms require corroboration in any of the abovementioned cases (9) leaving the Judge unfettered to determine in each case whether the evidence is sufficient; yet it is conceived that the Courts will, in coming to such a determination, follow as a general rule, but with such modifications as the law may here require(10) the practice in England, where it is not thought safe in such cases to accept the testimony of a single witness with-

<sup>(1)</sup> Kulum Mundul , Ehourins Prosud, 22 W R., Cr., 32 (1874).

<sup>(2)</sup> E-114 Prosonno : Romonee Dossee, 10 W R. 236 (1869)

<sup>(3)</sup> Gobind Suain. v. Narain Kaoot, 24 W. R. Cr., 18 (1875) "ponderantur testes non numerantur," see Bost, Ev., e, 596

<sup>(4) 32</sup> and 33 Viv. c 68, s 2, Wiedemonn v. Walpide, 2 Q. B., 534.

<sup>(4)</sup> S. S. P. Vic., e. 10, p. 6, 35 & 26 km., e. 95, a. 4. Taylor, Ev. 1 904, Colev. Mansing, 2 Q B. D., 681 Lancrave. Isymure, 20 L. T. Rep., N. S., 301 et Cr. Pr. Code, Ch. XXXVI for the manateman columns and children; the eventuace of the mother must be corroborated in some material particular.

<sup>(6)</sup> Fuch v. Fuch, 2:1 G. D., 207, Lercy v. Smith, 15 G. D., 655, In re General, 31 G. D., 1; Hiller, Hullow, L. R., S.Ch., See, In re Hodgeson, 31 G. D., 183, Forestere v. Frantserer, 27 Times L. R., 279, Steph. Dg., Art. 121 A., Taplor, Ev., § 965, Williams on Executors, 600 Ed., 1635, 1902, 1903; He rubbas here act drops in India's Webys, Novellound, Cd., High C., Sui X. Soil 600 1809, Furst 44 T Feb. 1898.

(i) R. v. Libert (1988). G. C. C. See, Ta., 149, P. 817, Taylor, Ev., If 920-2043, two witnesses are also required in Inglah has in certain treavant; ib., §§ 902-2053, corrolocation is also required to critic cases under the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1883, s. 4, and the Preception of Corolly to Children's Act, 1889, s. 8. See Stewart Explying up. cd., § 225; Whatton, Cr. Ev., § 886, Rep. 1892, pp. cd., § 225; Whatton, Cr. Ev., § 886, Rep.

<sup>(8)</sup> P. v. Latchand Kourah, B. L. R. Sep-Vol., F. B., 417 (Feb. 1860); s. c., 5 W. R., Cr. 23 See also R. v. Bathore Charbey, 5 W. R., Cr., 88 (1866); R. v. Ross, 6 Mad. H. C., 342 (1871); [kind or amount of confirmatory proof required].

<sup>(9)</sup> The Law of England, as to the accessity of calling at least two attners to support an assignment of pripry, is not law in Inlia; pr Duthot, J., in R. v. Gheta, T. A., 44, 50 (1881), but in England though corroboration is required, it is not precisely accurate to say that the corrolevative circumstances must be tantamount to another widness. Taylor, Ev., § 300.

<sup>(10)</sup> Thus the law in India, a to contradictory statements is not the same as in England ; Taylor, Er., § 962; Field, Ev., 614, 615. It has been held by two Tull Beaches of the Calcutta High Court, that where no evidence for the prosecu tion is offered corrol pratise of either statement and the giving intentionally of false evalence is charged on two contradatory depositions made, the one before the committing Magistrate, and the other before the bessions Judge, a had ing in the alternative is sufficient to maintain a convetient R v. Zameras, B. L. E. F. R. 321 (1866); s. c. 6 W. H. Cr., 65, R v. Malemed Hoomayoon, 13 R. L. R. F. B., 324 (1974); e c., 21 W. R., Cr., 72; Halsballah v. R , 10 C., 837 (1894); Saila Shelh v. R., 10 C., 105 (1994). followed by the Madras High Court, in E v Palany Chetty, 4 Mad. H. C. R., 81 (1864). F. v. Rose, 5 Med. H. C. R., 342 (1871); and Allaha bad fligh Court in R. v. Ghulet, 7 A., 44 (1554)

out some corroboration.(1) "The rule" (necessity of more than oath against oath on an indictment for perjury) "cannot be defended as a rule founded in all cases on reason, for it is easy to conceive cases, where the credit due to one person is so far beyond that which is due to another, as to leave no ground for reasonable doubt in acting on the testimony of a single witness, though directly in conflict with that of another. But though the rule be unwise as an inflexible rule of law, the principle, on which it rests, is of great value in the difficult task of weighing evidence." (2) Where direct testimony is opposed by conflicting evidence, or by ordinary experience, or by the probability supplied by the circumstances of the case, the consideration of the number of witnesses becomes most material (3) fovernling P. v. Non. 10, 5 A, 17 (1882); R. v. Matcheld, 15 A, 302 (1897); and see R. v. Klem, 22 A, 115 (1899), Bombay Hub Court; see R. v. Zenn; Sepidence, 10 B, 121 (1883); R. v. Blazen; H. B. v. O. (1898), R. v. Mospen, bas, 18 D., 377 (1891). See also Field's Ev., 614—616, See also provision in India rate tree to the necessity for suction of proviution; a. 195. Cr. Pr. Code.

(1) v. Field, Ev., 617; Whitley Stokes, 92;

R. v. Ral Gangadhar, 6 Bom. L. R., 324 (1904) [perjury], s. c , 28 B , 479.

(2) Per Sir Lawrence Peel, C J, in his charge to the jury in R. v. Heider (1852), see remarks in Best, Ev., § 605, 606, and s. 195, Cr. Pr Code, which provides in India as a slegured in the necessity of obtaining a sanction to prosecute.

(3) Starkie, Ev., 828, cited and adopted in R. v. Hedger, supra at page 13: see also Field Ev., p. 451.

CHAPTER X

OF THE EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES,

As the last Chapter dealt with the competency and compellability of witnesses, the present deals with the examination in Court of such witnesses as are rendered by the provisions of the last Chapter competent and compellable to give evidence. This Chapter consists of a reduction to express propositions of rules as to the examination of witnesses which are well established and understood in English law, the only provision which requires special notice being that contained in section 163, giving to the Judge power to put questions or to order the production of documents.(1) The sections of this Chapter assume that the witness is already before the Court. Process to compel attendance of witnesses or production of documents is provided by the Procedure Code. A short note is, however, here given with reference to this process and other kindred matters relating to witnesses.

Attendance

The duty of citizens to appear and testify to such facts within their know-Artendance and The duty of citizens to appear and testiny to such total status and and produce ledge as may be necessary to the due administration of justice is one which has unon of documents.

The duty of citizens to appear and testiny to such that status and produce ledge as may be necessary to the due administration of justice is one which has unon documents. right to compel the attendance of witnesses was an incident to the jurisdiction of the common law Courts, and Statutes have extended the power to other officers, such as arbitrators. Every Court having power definitely to hear and determine any suit, has, by the common law, inherent power to call for all adequate proofs of the facts in controversy and to that end to summon and compel the attendance of witnesses before it (3) By an early English Statute witnesses were entitled to their "reasonable costs and charges."(4) The wilful neglect to attend or to testify after proper and reasonable service of the subprena(5) and, in civil cases, after payment or tender of the witness's fcc(6) of waiver of payment, (7) is a contempt of Court (8) When it is necessary not only to secure the oral testimony of the witness, but also the production of documents in his possession, the subpoena contains in addition to the ordinary command to app

ment or documer

duces tecum.(9) obey like other

- (1) Previous to examination the witnesses should be a mirmed or sworn . see the Indian Oatha Act. Arreid.z
  - (2) Amer v. Icon, Fast, 484; Butt, Jones. § 797; the process by which attendance is enforced is the subperse of testiforedum common-Ir called a su'pras which commands the witpres to appear at the trial and give his testimony Inil. & Arnall, Ev., i. 424 of ery : Tarler, Fr., $ 1232 d ser
    - (3) Greenl., Fr., § 300.
    - (4) 5 Phr. Ch. 9.
  - (5) See Scholes v. Hillion, 10 M. & W., 15; H.T v. D.D. 7 IVG. M. & G . 297.

- (6) Brocas v. Lloyd, 23 Pear., 199, Acres v. Horland, 1 M. & G . 916; Edder v. McLod. 3 Bag. V. C., 405.
  - (7) Goff v. M.Rs. 2 Dowl. & I., 23. (4) Phil. & Arn. Ev , n. 432.
- (9) 2 Phil. & Arn. Ev , 421; 3 El. Comm. 3.2 . Amey v. Long, 9 East,, 43. In the High Court following the Enclish practice a subpress duces from is only usued when the person in possession of the documents is not a party to the sail. When the writings are in possession of the adverse party or his attorney, some to produce 16 given. See 2 Phil. & Arm., Ev., 425.

documents shall be produced than whether he shall appear as a witness. It is his duty to attend and to bring with him the documents according to the exigency of the writ. It is for the Court to determine whether the documents are admissible, or whether they should be produced and exhibited.(1) A witness clearly cannot be compelled to produce documents by the subprara unless they are under his control or possession. But a person having the actual custody of the document may be compelled to produce it though it be owned by others.(2) For public convenience sake, when documents are in the custody or control of public officers they are provable by certified copies. When the documents are produced in obedience to the subpena, the person calling the witness is under no obligation to have the witness sworn.(3) From a very early period the common law recognised the privileges of parties and witnesses in judicial proceedings to go to the place of trial, to remain so long as necessary, and to return home free from arrest on civil process; this being an immunity considered to be a necessary in the administration of justice.(4)

All the matters abovementioned are in this country provided for by the Climnal Procedure Codes and the Penal Code, ri., procedure for summoning and compelling the attendance of witnesses; (3) the production of documents and other things; (6) the expenses of witnesses; (7) the freedom of complainants and witnesses in criminal cases from police restraint; (8) recognizance for the attendance of complaints and witnesses in criminal proceedings; (9) exemption from attendance in person by reason of non-residence within certain limits; (10) or of the witness being a purdanashin lady or person of rank (11) the exemption of witnesses from arrest under civil

(I) S. 162, post 2 Ph.I. & Ara., Ev., 457, Burr, Jones, Ev., 5 Sol, and cases there cited. Doe v. Kelly, 4 Don.I., 273, E. v. Euvell, 7 Don.I., 533 pt. v. Diros, 3 Burr., 1637; Amy v. Lory, Supra. The subposs or notice should describe the papers to be produced with certainty and cleamers, Cv. Pr. Code, a 163

(2) Amey v. Iong, 1 Camp, 17, Corven v. Dubois, 1 Holt., 239, R v. Daye (1998) 2 K. B., 333.

(3) Perry v Gibson, 1 A & F. 48, Summers v. Modey, 2 Crompt, & M. 477.

(4) Cir. Pr. Code. s. 135, p. 468, Burr Jones, Ev , 55 805, 806 , Bacon Abr. tit Privileges, 4, 17, 55. Merkins v. Smith, 1 H Black, 636; the privilege extends to eases where the attendance is voluntary Halpele v Alexander. 3 Doug , 45 , Arding v Flower, 8 T R , 534 Spence v. Stuart, 3 East., 89, Ex-parte Lyne. I Ves. & B. 316. A person who violates the privilege is guilty of contempt . Cole v. Hawkins, Andreas, 275, Strange, 1094 Children v Barrett, 11 East., 439. The immunity extends until the witness can return home Strong v. Diclenson, 1 M. & W., 488, Sally v. Hills, 8 Bing , 166 , Pott v. Coomb s, 5 B & Ad . 1078 , Leahtfoot v Cameron, 2 W. Black, 1113, Escheta v Curney, 7 Price, 669, Sidpier v Birch, 9 Ves. Jr., 69

(5) Cv. Pr. Code, O. AVI, pp. 75%-85%, as 31, 32, p. 197, O. V., p. 613-635, Criminal Pr. Cole, as, 68—74 (summons), 75—86 (sustants of arrest), 87—89 (proclamation and attachment), 82—93 (other rules regarding processes), 228 (summons on jures or assession); 485 (impresentant or committal of person trefusing to answer or produce document); 205 (production of further evalence in case strabb-by Court of Services or High Fourt); 216 (symmons to witnesses for differe when accused is committed); 219 (power to summon supplementary witnesses), 23 reveal of witness), 244 (issue of process in cummons cases); 254, 256, 257 (arternat cases), 266 (power to summon material witness or examine person present). Presal Code ss. 174, 175. As to the attendance of witnesses before Coreners, see Act IV of 1871, and before the Bernal and Bombay Councils, Acts III (Ib. C.) of 1866, XIII (Flom C.) of 1866.

(6) Or Ir. Code, O. XVI, pp. 795-822, Sreas to discovery, admission, unspection, producing and return of documents, Cryl Pr. Code, O. XI, pp. 736-774, Crumanl Pr. Code, as, 94, 82 (summons to produce document or other thme), 96-99 (search sarrants), 453 fromequences of refusal to produce) See 162, post, 162, post,

(7) Cir. Pr Code, O. XVI, er 2-4, pp. 801-

802 ; Criminal Pr. Code, as 244, 257 (8) Cr. Pr. Code, a 171

(9) Cr Pr Code, ss. 217, 170

(10) Cir Pr. Code, O All, r 19, p 808 (11) Ib., as 131-133, p. 467. There is no similar exemption from attendance before the Criminal Courts, but a purdanessin lady may claim to be examined sitting in a pulnapsin, Rutha Lazar, P. Peetri, J. D. L. R., S. N., 5 (2843), Misrial Lisson v. Mikamad Sayrin, 18 W. E., 230 process (1) Non-attendance may further render a witness liable to a civil action for damages (2) Witnesses cannot be sued in a Civil Court for damages. nor prosecuted in a Criminal Court (except for perjury) in respect of evidence given by them in a absolutely privileged as to anything they may to the enquiry on which , they are called as protection is this. "that it concerns the pu ice, that witnesses giving their evidence on oath in a Court of Justice should not have before their eves for damages, it must be conceded that it is equally undesirable that they should be liable to be prosecuted (6) An action for defamation cannot be maintained against a Judge for words used by him whilst trying a cause in Court even though such words are alleged to be false, malicious, and without reasonable cause (7) And a party receiving a notice is entitled to reply to it, and state his reasons, and such reply is privileged as long as it is confined to the matter in hand and is relevant,-provided the reply is not published by the party making it (8) In England it has been recently held that the report of the Official Receiver dealing with a company in liquidation, is absolutely privileged(9) and that "the real doctrine of absolute privilege is that in the public interest it is not desirable to enquire whether the words or acts of certain persons are malicious or not The privilege is to be exempt from all inquiry as to malice "(10)

Assuming that the witnesses are in attendance before the Court, certain other provisions are laid down for their examination and the general conduct of the suit or trial In civil proceedings the witnesses must be examined orally and in open Court (11) This general rule is qualified by the provisions which relate (a) to evidence given on commission (12) (b) evidence given by direction of the Court on affidavit; (13) (c) examination before trial of witnesses about to leave the sursdiction (14)

In criminal proceedings, except as otherwise expressly provided, evidence must be taken in the presence of the accused or when his personal attendance

(1872); or or commission. In re Huera boondery, 4 C , 20 (1878), In re Dintarini Debi, 15 C , 775 (1888), or to have special arrangements made for an examination in private, In re Boviet Ribs, 12 A., 69 (1889), la witness may be exammed at some place other than the Court-house Hem. Communer v R , 24 C , 531 (1897)]. A purlapashin complainant must personally attend in Court, such arrangements being made as are necessary to secure her privacy. In re Fand. na-niess, 5 A., 92 (1882) (1) Cir. Pr. Code, a 135, p 469, see

Taylor, Ev., $1330-1311 , there is no protection piven acainst eximinal process. (2) Under the provisions of s. 26, Act XIX of 1853, which is 11 force in the Dengal Presidency. or of s. 10 of 1ct X of 1855, which is in force in the Mailras and Bombay Prosidencies, see Roy Dhunput v. Prem Bibec, 24 W. R., 72 (1875).

(1) Buckmath Rukhit v. Ram Dhone, 11 W. B., 42 (1869), Gunnesh Dutt v. Mugneerem Choudary, 11 B. L. R., 329 (1872); Bhilamber Singh v. Berkerem Sirear, 15 C., 264 (1898), Chilam. tara v. Thiremani, 10 M., N7 (1896); Manjaya

1. Sesha Shetts, 11 M , 477 (1889); Dawan Singh, 1. Mahip Singh, 10 A , 425 (1888); R. v. Bubayi, 17 B., 127 (1892); R v Balkrishna 17 B , 573 (1893), Templeton v. Lourse, 25 B , 230 (1900) But see R v. Ganga Prasad (1907), 29 1., p 686, supra, p. 829.

(4) Seaman v. Netherclift, L. B , 2 C 1. D.,

(7) Raman Nayar v Subramanyor Ayyar, 11 M., 87 (1993).

(8) Parka-permal Chelliar v. Dan Thangam (1009), 31 31, 400.

(9) Burr v. Smith, C. A. (1909), 2 K. B. 30c. 25, Times L. R., 542.

(10) Bettomby v. Brougham (1908), I.K. B . 587; lollowing Maneter v. Lumb, 11 Q B D., 844 (11) Civ. Pr. Code, O. XVIII, r. t. p 810. (12) 16 , 0 XXVI, er. 1-8, pp. 1052-1055; are 8. 33, ante. (13) Ib., O. XVIII, r. 10, p. 822; are s. 1, asie. (14) 15., O. XIV. pp. 823-824, and see is dispensed with(1) in presenc by the provisions relating (a) (b) the case of an absconding Court that additional eviden evidence be taken without the accused person or his pleader being present (5) The order of production and examination of witnesses is regulated in the case of trials before High Courts and Sessions Courts by sections 286, 287, 342, 289, 290, 292 (6) As to the procedure in summons, (7) and warrant, (8) cases; the right of accused to be defended by pleader (9) the procedure on revisions,(10) and on appeal;(11) and when Magistrate cannot pass sentence sufficiently severe; (12) the conviction or commitment on evidence partly recorded by one Magistrate and partly by another (13) see the sections and chapters of the Code noted below.

Edwards v. Matter, 5 B L. R., 252 (1570).

In civil proceedings it is in the discretion of a Court of first instance after the plaintiff's case is closed to allow him to call further witnesses, and there is no right of special appeal upon that point (14) The Judge has a discretionary power of recalling witnesses at any stage of the trial He will seldom, however, except under special circumstances, permit a plaintiff after his case is closed, to recall a witness to prove a material fact A witness after cross-examination may also be recalled to be further cross-examined, and a question omitted in examination-in-chief may with permission (which is usually given) be put to the witness in re-examination either by the Judge or Counsel (15) Cross-examination ordinarily gives notice to the other side of the line of defence where the defendant's Counsel cross-examined as to certain misrepresentations made towards the defendant and deceptions practised on him: this was held to be considered as notice to the plaintiff's Counsel of the line of defence; and, therefore, if he had letters of the defendant tending to show that he knew the real state of the facts, the plaintiff's Counsel ought to have given them in evidence before the plaintiff's case was closed, and he will not be allowed to p them in as evidence in reply (16)

(1) See Cr. Pr Code, se 116, 205, and In the matter of Rahim Ribi, 6 A , 59 (1883) (parda nushin). In a warrant-case, the accused being a pardanashin, the Magistrate can dispense with her attendance, if he issues a summon in the first instance Basumots Adhikarini ( Budram Kalita, 21 C . 588 (1894)

(2) Cr. Pr. Code, 8 353. Sec R . Kanye Shealb, W. R., 1864; Cr., 38, R v Shealb Kya mul, 1b , 1 , R v Affazuddeen, 1b , 13 R v Mo kun Banfor, 22 W. R., Cr., 38 (1874); R. v. Rai Irishna, 1 B. L. R , O ('r , 37 (1868) , Ali Menh v. Magister's of C'allogong, 25 W R. Cr., 14 (1876), Subbay R , 9 M., 83 (1805) , R v Nasd Ram, 9 4 , 609 (1887)

- (3) fr Pr. Code, so. 503-507 , 1 4 37, ante (4) Ib . 4, 512, r + 33, ante
- (5) Ib , # 429 ere also e. 510, th
- (6) See Cr. Pr. Code, Chap AXIII passen, as to commitment for trial, c. ss. 205-220, 470, 499,
  - (7) R., Chap XX, *, 471 A. (8) 16., Chap XXI

(9) Il. s. 340. The Code makes no express provision for advocates addressing the Court in Magistrate's cases or in the course of proceedings preliminary to commitment, but such c ses will he covered by this section, Field, Ev., 619 (10) Ib , ss 430, 440 As to the right of prison-

- er's Counsel to begin in cases under s. 434, see R v. 1pps Sublana, 8 B , 200 (1884).
  - (11) Ib , s. 423. (12) 14 , s 349.
  - (13) Ib., s. 250, there is no similar provision as to cases tried by the Court of Session, the whole trial must take place before the same Judgo ef , Field, Ev , 620 , R v. Charoo, W R. 1864 Cr , 32 : R v. Gops Nosbyo 21 W R , Cr . 47 (1874), R v. Raghonnath, 23 W. R., Cr., 59 (1865)
  - (14) Ralhal Dass v Pretap Chunder, 12 W. R. 455 (1870) as to recall of witnesses in criminal cases, are Cr. Pr. Code, av 231 276, 330
  - (15) Taylor, Pv . $ 1477, and cases there cited See . 138, post. The practice should not be encouraged of allowing either party after resting his rase, to amend and add to his proof until by repeated experiments he conforms to the view of the Court Burr Jones, Fr . s. N. . see 35 to evidence in reply and fresh exidence after close of case R. v Hadard, 5 ( & P., 299 , Gate v. Powel, 2 C. & P., 259 , Halle v. Stehtman, 2 C. & P., 298.
  - (16) Whatton v. Louis, 1 C. & P., 529.

Whenever a prisoner is put upon his trial, he is entitled to have the witnesses examined de novo if they have previously given evidence on the trial of another prisoner; and it is not sufficient to require the witnesses to identify the prisoner and to read over to them their former examination, and require them to attest it.(1) It has been held that though to omit to do this is illegal yet if it has not occasioned a failure of justice a new trial need not be ordered (2)

It is not generally competent to the Court to refuse to examine any of the witnesses produced by the parties The Judge is bound to receive all the evidence tendered, unless the object of summoning a large number of witnesses clearly appears to be to impede the adjudication of the case or otherwise to obstruct the ends of justice Thus it was held not right for the lower Court to select five out of twenty witnesses tendered for examination.(3) It appears from the case first cited that a Civil Court has power to refuse to examine any excessive number of witnesses, if satisfied that the object of the person calling them is clearly to impede the adjudication of the case. The Code of Civil Procedure, however, contains no provision analogous to that contained in section 216 of the Criminal Procedure Code, which gives a Magistrate discretion to exclude from the list of witnesses to be summoned for the defence the names of persons whose evidence is not really relevant.(4) The fact of a witness not having been named in the plaintiff's list of witnesses is no ground for refusing to examine him when produced (5) In the undermentioned case, the plaintiffs in the Court of first instance produced both documentary and oral evidence in support of their claim. The Court, being satisfied with the documentary evidence produced by the plaintiff, declined to record the evidence of the witnesses tendered by them. The defendants appealed, and the lower Appellate Court reversed the decree of the Court of first instance, but in its turn declined to allow the plaintiffs-respondents to produce fresh evidence before it. On appeal by the plaintiffs to t!

section of the Code of Civil

of the case, the Court was ceedings of both Courts below and in directing the Court of first instance to retry the case, admitting all admissible evidence which had proviously been tendered to the Court of first instance, and which that Court had refused to record (6)

(1) R. v. Kanya Shella, W. R., 1864, Cr., 28, P. v. Skell4 Kyamat, ib., Cr., 1, R. v. Afgazelden, ib., Cr., 13, R. v. Mohm Ranfor, 22 W. R., Cr., 33 (1871), R. v. Raltrahba, 1 R. L. R., O. Cr., 37 (1889), Interrup-General N. S. Walter, Extract, L. R., 1 P. C., 520; R. v. Dohonath, 12 W. R., Cr., 37 (1889), Ah. Media v. The Moyntan of Charles of Chattayon, 23 W. R., Cr., 14 (1878).

(2) Su'lia v. R., 9 M., 83 (1895); R. v. Nand Ram, 9 A., 609 (1887).

(3) Rombins Mardal v. Ratallah Paramani, 6 B. L. B. Npp. 10 (1870); and to the same effect, see "lating at Po. v. Nutre Mardal, 6 W. B. (Art X), 8 (1882); Jassen Paper, v. B. (Sarger, 5 W. L. A., 248; E. v. Isleva Ball, 6 B. L. B. App. 88 (1871); R. v. Belova Balle, 2 W. R., Cr., 55 (1863); R. v. Addal Kraz, 3 W. R., Cr., 6 (1863); R. v. Addal Kraz, 5 W. R., Cr., 10 (1863); Rate of Sarger Addal of Sarger Sarger Lating at Physics (1863); R. v. Addal Kraz, 5 W. R., Cr., 10 (1865); National Standard, 5 W. R., Cr., 10 (1865); National Sarger Latin, 8 d. P. (1865); R. v. Addal Kraz, 10 (1865); National Sarger Latin, 8 W. R., Cr., 10 (1965); National Sarger Latin, 8 W. R., 27 (1867); Lection Steph v. R.; parter Latin, 8 W. R., 27 (1867); p. party is en titled to have all his sutnesses examined, whatcover opt that the Court may from be nutripation as to the probable value of the evidence when it shall be preven; M. Abanamater v. Lisanchas der, March Rep., 200 (1403). [The Court cannot put a party to elect which of several values be will call, where all ner material and their cridence lears upon different points in the cancertion quashed, the witnesses not having been summored; R. v. Aslor Taldow, S. V. R., Cr. 55(1800). Ram Sadata v. Santare Taldow, S.

6 B. L. R., App. 65 (1871).

(4) Field, Ev., 4th Ed., 659; when the Magintate does not proceed under this section the accused is entitled to have the witnesses named in the list examined before the Court of Session.

E. v. Prosunno Coomar, 23 W. R., 56 (1875) (5) Rollad Doss v. Privab Chunder, 12 W. R., 455 (1970); as to criminal cases, see a, 20), Cr

(6) Durys Ibh & v. Anweys, 17 A., 22 (1876).

In the undermentioned case(1) the plaintiff's Counsel called and examined a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, but he was not cross-examined by Counsel for the defendants. The latter for the defence proposed to recall him, as a matter of course, as a witness-in-chief. But the Judge refused to allow him to be recalled without leave of the Court, which, he observed, should have been asked for when the first examination was concluded.

Order of andexamin ation.

The order, where there exist any provisions on the point, is regulated by production the Procedure Codes, and in the absence of any such provision by the discretion of the Court (2) This is a subject which lies chiefly in the discretion of the Judge before whom the cause is tried, it being from its nature susceptible of but few positive and stringent rules (3) In the regular order of procedure, the party having the affirmative ought to introduce all the evidence necessary to support the substance of the issue; then the party denying the affirmative allegations should produce his proof; and finally the proof, if any, in rebuttal is received (4)

> The order of examinations is laid down by section 138 of this Act. The rule with regard to the production of evidence in Civil cases as laid down by the Civil Procedure Code is as follows :-The plaintiff has the right to begin, unless where the defendant admits the > facts alleged by the plaintiff, and contends that either in point of law or on some additional lacts alleged by the defendant, the plaintiff is not entitled to any part of the relief which he seeks, in which case the defendant has the right to begin (5) On the day fixed for the hearing of the suit, or on any other day to which the he ng the right to begin shall state the issues which he is bound to his case and case and produce his evidence prove The (if any) and may then address the Court generally on the whole case. The party beginning may then reply generally on the whole case. Where there are several issues, the burden of proving some of which lies on the other party, the party beginning may, at his option, either produce his evidence on those issues or reserve it by way of answer to the evidence produced by the other party , and in the latter case, the party beginning may produce evidence on those > case (6) Criminal proceedings being of a varying character, the Criminal Procedure Code lays down no such general rule as that reproduced above. Chapter XVII, however, of that Code deals with the procedure in the case of enquiries into cases triable by the Court of Sessions or High Court; and Chapters XX-XXIII deal with the procedure on the trial of summons-cases, warrant-cases, summary-trials, and trials before the High Court and Court of Session, respectively. Chapters XXXI, XXXII treat of the procedure on appeal, reference and revision.

> issues after the other party has produced all his evidence, and the other party may then reply specially on the evidence so produced by the party beginning; but the party beginning will then be entitled to reply generally on the whole

<sup>(1)</sup> Maclintoch v. Natormoney Praces, 2 Ind. Jur . N. H . 100, 181 (1967)

<sup>(2)</sup> S. 135, pod. (3) Green! , Fv., § 471.

<sup>(4)</sup> v. ante, pp. 629, et seq. The trial ludge is to determine what is evidence in reluttal, and it Ire within his discretion to receive or exclude such testimony, Mursiall v. Davies, 78 N. Y., 414, 420 (Amer.); as to the asture of explenes ..... P = D33.61 50 1 P "W. atte calling fresh evidence after close of case, see Gles . · ·

<sup>4.</sup> Khadipih Khanum v. Abdad Kurrem, 17 to. 114 (1kgn).

<sup>15)</sup> Try. Pr. Code, G. XVIII, c. I. p. 815. (4) fir. It. Code, O. XVIII, et. 1-1. p. 915. See Field, Et., 252.

The rules for examination are contained in sections 136—166, and are in Examina general conformity with the English and American law upon the subject. The nesses. rules requires but little explanation. Such chickation as has been considered necessary is given in the Notes appended to these sections to which the reader is referred.

135. The order in which witnesses are produced and order of examined shall be regulated by the law and practice for the time and examined shall be regulated by the law and practice for the time and examined being relating to civil and criminal procedure respectively, and witnesses in the absence of any such law, by the discretion of the Court.

Taylor, Ev., §§ 1394, 1478, Burr Jones, Ev., § 797 et seq; Greenleaf, Ev., § 431; Chr. Code, O XVII, rr. 1—3. p. 815; Cr. Pr. Code, Cls. XVIII, XX—XXIII, XXXI, XXXII, and cases and authorities cited in Introduction, the close of the examination-in-chief of the plaintiff's attorney, Counsel for the defendant asked that the cross-examination of the witness be deferred until after the examination-in-chief of the plaintiff by his Counsel, submitting that the word "examination-in-chief of the plaintiff by his Counsel, submitting that the word "examination, and referring to section 138, and submitting that the plaintiff should have been first called and given his account of the transaction. The Court, however, stated that it was slow to interfere with the discretion of Counsel as to the order in which witnesses should be examined, and stated that it thought that in that case the ordinary practice should regulate the order of examination, and that the witness should be cross-examined at the conclusion of the examination-in-chief, which was done.

COMMENTARY.

136. When either party proposes to give evidence of any Judge to defect, the Judge may ask the party proposing to give the evidence admissibility of the standard that the fact, if proved, would be relevant; evidence and the Judge shall admit the evidence if he thinks that the fact, if proved, would be relevant, and not otherwise.

If the fact proposed to be proved is one of which evidence is admissible only upon proof of some other fact, such last-mentioned fact must be proved before evidence is given of the fact first mentioned, unless the party undertakes to give proof of such fact and the Court is satisfied with such undertaking.

If the relovancy of one alleged fact depends upon another alleged fact being first proved, the Judge may, in his discretion, either permit ovidence of the first fact to be given before the second fact is proved, or require ovidence to be given of the second fact before evidence is given of the first fact.

<sup>(1)</sup> Aute, pp. 838-845 (2) Aute, pp. 844, 845.

<sup>(3)</sup> Kedar Nork v. Ekupenden Nack, 5 C, W. N., XV (1900).

Illustrations.

(a) It is proposed to prove a statement about a relevant fact by a person alleged to be And, which statement is relevant under section 32.

The fact that the person is dead must be proved by the person proposing to prove the statement, before evidence is given of the statement.

- (b) It is proposed to prove, by a copy, the contents of a document said to be lost. The fact that the original is lost must be proved by the person proposing to produce the cony, before the copy is produced.
- (c) A is accused of receiving stolen property knowing it to have been stolen-It is proposed to prove that he denied the possession of the property.

The relevancy of the denial depends on the identity of the property. The Court may in its discretion, either require the property to be identified before the denial of the possession is proved, or permit the denial of the possession to be proved before the property is identified.

(d) It is proposed to prove a fact (A) which is said to have been the cause or effect of a fact in issue. There are several intermediate facts (B, C and D), which must be shown to exist before the fact (A) can be regarded as the cause or effect of the fact in issue. The Court may either permit A to be proved before B, C or D is proved, or may require proof of B, C and D before permitting proof of A.

```
a. 3 (" Erudence.")
```

n. 3 (" Proted.")

- s. 3 (" Relevant.")
- s. 3 (" Court.") e. 162 (Admissibility of documents.)
- s. 101 (Burden of proving fact to be proved to make evidence admissible.)

Greenleaf, Ev., § 51 a , Burr. Jones, Ev., §§ 812, 813; Norton, Ev., 319. Principle -The necessity of confining the proof to those facts, which being relevant, can alone be given in evidence under the provisions of this Act.

The ground of the last clause is general convenience, v. post.

COMMENTARY.

Judge to decide as to

In order that the proof may be confined to relevant facts and may not stray beyond the proper limits of the issue a. . . . .. male in miles more wall . . "?

> ent the pro-. by the parties (1) A Civil Court also should, irrespective of objections made by the parties compel observance of the provisions of this Act (2) In the case of documents the Court must decide the validity of any objection there may le to · rroncous omission to object to that 41 -1- - - 1 41

nissible.(1) The Court must, at the whether or not it is legally admis-

evidence, oral or documentary, should be decided as they arise and should not be reserved until judgment in the case is given (5)

With the second clause read section 10t, aute, which enacts that the burden of proving any fact necessary to be proved in order to enable any person to give

(3) S, 162, post.

(5) Julu Rel v. Bhelafaran Nunde, 17 C.,

<sup>[1]</sup> Cr. St. Code, e. 293, v. oute, p. 124. (2) v. ante. p. 124.

<sup>(4)</sup> Miller v. Maller Bie, 22 I. A., 106; * c., 19 4., 76 (1893)

evidence of any other fact is on the person who wishes to give such evidence. In other words, no person shall be allowed to give evidence before he has shown that he, is in a legal position to do so. It often (to take an example) happens that an agent to carry a message and bring back an answer, or to do some other act, is put into the box before his agency or authority is proved. Thereupon an objection is taken by the opposing Counsel that the evidence is not receivable because the agency or authority is not proved. An undertaking is usually then given that evidence to prove the agency will be forthcoming at a later period, whereupon the case proceeds if the proof of agency should break down the whole of the alleged agent's evidence is expunged from the Judge's notes. It would often be highly meonvenient to interrupt the witness in his story, and call another witness in the middle of his examination, to prove agency. It is to meet such a state of things that this clause is provided.(1)

Subject to the general rule that each party should, in his turn, produce all the testimony tending to support his claim or defence, the order of time for the introduction of evidence to support the different parts of an action or defence should be generally left to the discretion of the party or his Counsel. These cannot he expected to show ability to establish the entire claim or defence in advance, and a reasonable latitude must be allowed as to the order in which the details of evidence shall be brought forward. When evidence is officred which proves or tends to prove any relevant fact, it is to be presumed that this will be followed by such other proof as is necessary to establish the proper connection. Hence it is of no consequence in what order the evidence is introduced, so far as its ultimate legitimacy is concerned, provided in its relation to the Counsel shows will be rendered material by other evidence which is understakes to produce. If it is not subsequently thus connected with the issue, it is to be laid out of the case.(3) But before Counsel can claim the indulgence of the Court in this manner to introduce evidence, otherwise presumably incompetent, he should state what he expects to prove, or in some other way satisfy the Court that the evidence will be made competent. If Counsel fail to make the testimony relevant by other evidence it should be withdrawn from the consideration of the Court. Having, however, regard to the influence of the improper testimony upon the minds of the jury, it is clear that the Court should exercise great caution, in criminal cases, in admitting testimony of doubful competency, upon the promise of Counsel to show its materiality by subsequent puoof.(4) The section accordingly gives the Court a wide discretion in this matter. It should be added that it is extremely desirable that, where possible, proofs should be offered in a connected sequence, whether it be chronological or logical, for the greater convenience of the Court and facility of apprehension A Judge who has suggested not then decide against the part made when the party has acted . giving him an opportunity of calling witnesses whom he had been ready to adduce and whom he had refrained from calling at the suggestion of the Judge.(5)

(1) Norton, Er., 319.

<sup>173 (1889);</sup> Gorachand Sercar v. Ram Narain Choudley, 9 W. R., 587 (1869); Rama Konan v. Manyai Kev, I All. L. J., 224 n. (1904), and documents which are not adjussible should be returned when they are presented, i.J., v. gate, p. 127.

<sup>(2)</sup> Burr. Jones, Ev., § 812.

<sup>(3)</sup> Greenleaf, Ev., § 51 a.

<sup>(4)</sup> Burr. Jones, Ev., § 813.

<sup>(5)</sup> Hasaji v. Dhondsram, 6 Bom, L. R., 635 (1904).

to the question, only that part will be stricken out which is objectionable for not being responsive.(1)

As to objections by the Court to the admissibility of particular questions v. ante, pp 127, 128 and as to objections by parties, pp. 129-132, ante. As resnects the form of objections they should be specific rather than general, that is, should show the ground or grounds of objection. Objections to questions should be made at the time they are put, or they will generally be regarded as waived (2) A distinction, however, must be drawn between the effect of the admission without objection of wholly irrelevant evidence and relevant evidence presented in an improper form. Only in the latter case will want of objection For an erroneous omission to object to that which is not relecure the defect vant at all will not render at relevant (3) The failure to object to one improper question to which an unsatisfactory answer was given does not preclude objection to a substantial reiteration of the same question. Special objection may be taken to an answer as well as to a question. When several questions pertaining to the same point are asked in immediate succession, and an objection to the first one, which is merely preliminary to the others is improperly overruled, the objection will not be limited to the first question, but will be deemed to cover the others which sprang naturally from it.(4)

When evidence is rejected at the trial, the party proposing it should formative the desired and request him to make a note of that fact.(6). The moment a witness commences giving evidence which is inadmissible he should be stopped by the Court (6)

The witness must be competent If there be any doubt upon this point, the modern practice is to interrogate the witness before swearing or affirming the intert the facts upon the examination-in-chief, when, if his incompetency appears, he will be rejected (7)

As to evidence in rebuttal, see the Civil Procedure Code, O. XVIII, rr.2 & 3,(8) and ante, p 630. In addition to the case there mentioned, the plantist is also generally entitled to give evidence in reply, even though all the issues are upon himself, when the case made against him is one of which he has had no notice on the pleading (9) and in any case where a defendant does not lay a foundation for his own affirmative case by such a cross-examination of the plantist's witnesses as will give him fair notice of the points as to which they are going to be contradicted, the plaintist will generally be allowed to give evidence in reply (10)

As the demeanour of the witness while under examination is a most important test of his credibility, the Coursts are empowered by the Codes to record their remarks relative thereto (11)

Leading Counsel may interpose and take the examination out of a junior's hands (12)

<sup>(1)</sup> Burr Joses, Er., § 814. Stewart Rapaly's Law of Witnessen, § 232 and cover first rolls In America it has been held that the refusal of the trail ludge to strike out and irresponence assert is recertible error, unless it is shown that such risidence is not prepalical or the party appealing, 45. Ger Tarlor, Ev., § 1475.

<sup>(2)</sup> Steuar Repulje's op cil , $ 244. (3) Miller v. Malta Ima, 23 1. A., 106, 116

<sup>(1906):</sup> s. c., 19 4 . 76, aste, p. 130
(4) Stewart Ropalfe's op. cu., § 244; see generally Taylor, Rv., § 1881-1882B.

<sup>(5)</sup> Taylor, Er., $ 18821.

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v. Fillamber Sinder, 7 W. R., Cr., 25 (1867); v. axie, p. 601, and 3, and cases there cated (7) v. ante, p. 801. The preliminary examination as to competency is technically called examination on the roire dure; see Taylor, Ev., 1323; Wigmore, Ev., 4869; see a. 118, ast; Stevari Rapule's op. ct., 232; Warner's Law of Eridence, 28-61.

<sup>(8)</sup> O., Fran. rr. 2, 3, p. 815.

Dor v. Gosley, 2. M. & Rob., 243.
 Begsby v. Dickinson, 4 Ch. D., 243 cf.

Briggs v. Ayanoroti, 2 M. & R., 1884 see Wills. Pr., 230. [11] Civ. Pr. Code, s. 1884 Criminal Procedure

Code, s. 363. {12} Dos v. Ror, 2 Carep., 240.

an objection able because evidence of any other fact is on the person who wishes to give such evidence. In other words, no person shall be allowed to give evidence before he has shown that he is in a legal position to do so It often (to take an example) happens that an agent o do some other act, is put in

then given t

ed. Thereupon is not receivaking is usually ming at a later period, whereupon the case proceeds. if the proof of agency should break down the whole of the alleged agent's evidence is expunged from the Judge's notes. It would often be highly inconvenient to interrupt the witness in his story, and call another witness in the middle of his examination, to prove agency. It is to meet such a state of things that this clause is provided (1)

1 47 4

' . . . should, in his turn, produce all ence, the order of time for the parts of an action or defence party or his Counsel. These cannot be expected to show ability to establish the entire claim or defence in advance, and a reasonable latitude must be allowed as to the order in which the details of evidence shall be Lrought forward When evidence is offered which proves or tends to prove any will be followed by such other proof Hence it is of no consequ

duced, so far as its ultimate legitimacy is concerned, provided in its relation to the other evidence in the case, it is at the end pertinent to the issue.(2) It has often been declared that the relevancy of testimony need not always appear at

If it is not subsequently thus connected with the issue, it is takes to produce to be laid out of the case (3) But before Counsel can claim the indulgence of the Court in this manner to introduce evidence, otherwise presumably incompetent, he should state what he expects to prove, or in some other way satisfy the Court that the evidence will be made competent. If Counsel fail to make the testimony relevant by other evidence it should be withdrawn from the consideration of the Court Having, however, regard to the influence of the improper testimony upon the minds of the jury, it is clear that the Court should exercise great caution, in criminal cases, in admitting testimony of doubtful competenc proof.(4) scretion in this proofs should be offered in a connected sequence, whether it be chronological or logical, for the greater convenience of the Court and facility of apprehension. * 1--

A Judge who has suggested " ' ' ' not then decide against the parmade when the party has acted giving him an opportunity of calling witnesses whom he had been ready to adduce and whom he had refrained from calling at the suggestion of the Judge (5)

<sup>173 (1989);</sup> Gorachand Sircar v. Ram Narain Chowdiry, 9 W. R., 587 (1868); Rana Karan v. Mangat Sev. 1 All. L. J., 224 n. (1904), and documents which are not admissible should be returned when they are presented, al., v. cate, p. 127.

<sup>(2)</sup> Barr. Jones, Ev., § 812.

<sup>(3)</sup> Greenleaf, Ev., § 51 a. (4) Barr. Jones, Ev., § 813.

<sup>(5)</sup> Hasoji v. Dhondiram, 6 Bom, L. R., 635 (1904).

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Er., 219.

137. The examination of a witness by the party who calls

Order of examination t

Examina-

Cross exa-

Re exami-

tion-in-him shall be called his examination-in-cheif.

The examination of a witness by the adverse party shall be called his cross-examination be called his cross-examination.

The examination of a witness, subsequent to the cross-examination by the party who called him, shall be called his re-examination.

138. Witnesses shall be first examined-in-chief then (if the adverse party so desires) cross-examined, then (if the party calling him so desires) re-examined.

The examination and cross-examination must relate to relevant facts, but the cross-examination need not be confined to the facts to which the witness testified on his examination-in-chief.

Direction of The re-examination shall be directed to the explanation of matter referred to in cross-examination; and if new matter is, by permission of the Court, introduced in re-examination, the adverse party may further cross-examine upon that matter.

DIOC OTODO CHANI

The exa minations and their order

COMMENTARY. The whole subject of the word rira roce examination of witnesses in open Court is confined of necessity to a very great extent to the sound judicial discretion of the Judge presiding at the trial; and but few positive and unbending rules have been laid down with regard to it. The control of the Court here referred to is that which it posses es over the manner and extent of an examination of a witness. The admissibility of testimony is another question. The time and manner, however, of examining a witness is in the discretion of the Judge before whom the trial is had. This discretion extends to determine the length of time and the extent to which the witness may be examined. So the Judge may interfere and protect the witness against irrelevant inquiries and overrule a question repeated after being several times substantially answered, and allow the witness to finish a proper answer to a proper question before permitting another to be put The Judge has also an unlimited right, in his discretion, to interrogate the witness himself both in civil and criminal cases, even to the extent of asking leading questions (1) But a Judge should not ordinarily interpose after the examination-in-cluef has been finished, and question the witnesses on the points to which the cross-examination will properly be directed, as to do so may render their subsequent cross-examination ineffective. It is not the province of the Court to examine the witnesses, unless the pleaders on either side have omitted to put some material question or questions; and the Court should, as a general rule, leave the witnesses to the pleaders to be dealt with as laid down in section 138 of this Act (2) The necessity for the Court's interposition was of course, formerly greater than at the present time, though

C. L. R., 385. "It is obtions that these profileges of the Court should be so exercised as not to prejudice the rights of the parties or to unduly interfere with the presentation of the cause of action of defence."—Burr, Jones, Lv., § 81.

<sup>(1)</sup> Stewart Bapalje's Law of Witnesses, §§ 229, 274; 1 Greenbad, Ev., § 471; Taylor, Fv., § 1709; Busha v. Carre, Rvan & Mooily, 177; as to the Julice's questions, see a 165, p.id. (2) Now Bur v. E., 6 C., 279 (1840); s. c., 7

even now cases occur to which the following remarks of Sir Barnes Peacock are applicable. The Chief Justice, after referring to the observations of the Privy Council upon the misfortune of Hindu litigants in that their cases often fall in the carlier stages of litigation into the hands of incompetent advisers who by falsehood, suppression or abandonment of part of a case create impedimenta to its success, said "And I may add that it is another great misfortune of litigants in the Molussil in this country that the witnesses who are called to prove the facts of the case are not properly examined, through the incompetency of those who have the management of the suits, and that the Judges do not make up for that incompetency by themselves examining the witnesses or exercising those powers for obtaining the truth with which they have been entrusted by the law of procedure."(1) Though where a witness is called by the parties and is questioned by the Court no cross-examination upon the answer given in reply is allowed without the leave of the Court (2) yet if the witness be called by the Court he may be cross-examined in the same manner as if he had been produced by the adverse party.(3)

The order of examination is as follows :- When a witness has been sworn or affirmed he is first examined by the party calling him to testify, this is called the direct examination or examination-in-chief. When the direct examination is finished, the adverse party is at liberty to cross-examine, after which the party calling the witness may re-examine him. This usually closes the examination of the witness, though in many cases the adverse party is permitted to re-cross-examine at the close of the re-examination , but this is no more than a further cross-examination, permitted either because new matter is brought out in the re-examination, or because the Judge in his discretion sees proper, under the circumstances, to allow it. The party beginning then calls his next witness, who is examined in like manner When all the witnesses of the party beginning have been thus examined, his case is closed. His opponent then opens his case and calls his witnesses, who are examined in the same way, first by himself, then by his opponent, and then re-examined if necessary by himself. The close of his case is ordinarily followed by his summing up of the evidence and then by the speech in reply of the party who began Sometimes, however, the latter at the close of his opponent's evidence claims to adduce further evidence in reply to that which has been given on the other side. As to this rebutting evidence v. post The object of the examination-in-chief is to lay before the Court and jury the whole of the information of the witness that is relevant and material, that of the cross-examination is to search and sift, to correct and supply omissions; that of the re-examination, to explain, to rectify, and put in order.(4)

The privilege to examine witnesses has also been extended to jurors and ansessors (6). A witness may not fost into his answer in any examination statements not in answer to questions put to him. This is called "voluntering evidence," and the pleader of the opposite party should be on his guard to check its introduction by objection (6). The trial Judge should upon motion strike out answers that are not responsive to the questions asked, that is, then answers that state facts not called for by the questions, or those which exper an opinion as to the matter in question, unless the question calls for an operation in the case of experts. But where only a part of the answer is not rej.

<sup>(1)</sup> Ram Gutty v. Munta; Bechee, 10 W B., 280 (1668). (2) S. 165, post, R v. Salkaran Mulundy.

<sup>11</sup> Bom. H C. R., 166 (1974).
(3) Tarini Charan v. Saroda Sundari, 3 B L.
R., A. C., 145, 158 (1869); R. v. Grick Chander.

<sup>5</sup> C, 614 (1879), Gupal Lal' 1 11, C, 288 (1807), (4) Stewart Papalyr's or r Fv., 218-221,

<sup>(5) 9, 188,</sup> post, 6) Norten, Fr., 22'

to the question, only that part will be stricken out which is objectionable for not being responsive.(1)

As to objections by the Court to the admissibility of particular questions ratte, pp. 127-128 and as to objections by parties, pp. 129-132, and. As respects the form of objections they should be specific rather than general, that is should show the ground or grounds of objection. Objections to questions should be made at the time they are put, or they will generally be regarded as waived (2) A distinction, however, must be drawn between the effect of the admission without objection of wholly irrelevant evidence and relevant evidence presented in an improper form. Only in the latter case will want of objection cure the defect. For an erroneous omission to object to that which is not relevant at all will not rer' and the state of the stat

tion to a substantial

be taken to an answer as well as to a question. When several questions pertaining to the same point are asked in immediate succession, and an objection to the first one, which is merely preliminary to the others is improperly overruled, the objection will not be limited to the first question, but will be deemed to cover the others which sprang naturally from it.(4)

When evidence is rejected at the trial, the party proposing it should formally tender it to the Judge and request him to make a note of that fact.(5). The moment a witness commences giving evidence which is inadmissible he should be stopped by the Court (6).

The witness must be competent If there be any doubt upon this point, the modern practice is to interrogate the witness before swearing or affirming him or to elicit the facts upon the examination-in-chief, when, if his incompetency appears, he will be rejected (7)

As to evidence in rebuttal, see the Civil Procedure Code, O. XVIII, rr. & 3,(8) and onc, p. 630. In addition to the case there mentioned, the plaintiff is also generally entitled to give evidence in reply, even though all the issues are upon himself, when the case made against him is one of which he has had no notice on the pleading (3) and in any case where a defendant does not lay a foundation for his own affirmative case by such a cross-examination of the plaintiff switnesses as will give him fair notice of the points as to which they are going to be contradicted, the plaintiff will generally be allowed to give evidence in reply (10)

As the demeanour of the witness while under examination is a most important test of his credibility, the Courts are empowered by the Codes to record their remarks relative thereto (11)

Leading Counsel may interpose and take the examination out of a junior's hands (12)

<sup>(4)</sup> Part Jones, Fr. § 512, Stemart Randy's Jam of Witnessen, § 523, and cause there cited In America it has been held that the retural of the trial. Judge to strike not and irresponsive annears is recruited error, subsent it is shown that such explance is not prejudical to the party appealing, it. Sor Tarlor, Fr. § § 1873.

<sup>(2)</sup> Steman Bapalyr's op. et., § 211. (3) Miller v. Matta Doc 23 I A., 106, 116

<sup>(1976):</sup> a.c., 19 4., 76 mais, p. 130 (6) Strwart Expelie's op, et., § 246; are provi-

ally Taylor, Fr., $1 1801-1802R.

(f) R. v. Pillamber Sieber, 7 W. B., Cr., 25 (16-7); v. auf., p. 801, nide 2, and cases there cred.

(7) v. ove, p 801. The preliminary examina-

Rapalye's op. c.t., 222; Harner's Law of Life dence, 58-61.

<sup>(4)</sup> O. xrac er 2, 2 p. 815.

<sup>(9)</sup> Dor v. Godey, 2, M. & Rob., 243.
(10) Erysly v. Dichuma, 4 Ch. D., 24; cf
Preps v. Agamenth, 2 M & R., 168; see ICEs Fr., 220.

<sup>(11)</sup> Cir. Pr. Cale, s. 168; Caminal Procedure Cade, s. 362.

<sup>(12)</sup> Dre v. Ros, 2 Camp., 247.

This is the first examination after the witness has been sworn or affirmed.(1) It is the province of the party by whom the witness is called to examine him in chief for the purpose of eliciting from the witness all the material facts within his knowledge which tend to prove such a party's case.

Few general rules can be laid down as to this topic, inasmuch as the propriety of the questions put by a party to his own witness in proof of his case must in the nature of things depend to a very great extent upon the particular circumstances to be proved. The object of the examination is to elicit the truth to act at the face a great of the case are the issue in favour of the

by the questioner,

are collateral and impertinent, may be inquired about. But it is not necessary that every question put to a witness shall be so broad and comprehensive that the answer shall be evidence of some issue in the case. If all the answers to a series of questions upon the same general subject, taken together, are competent, each is competent, and a question tending to elicit such an answer should be allowed Each question should call for a fact and not a conclusion of law and should not embrace the whole merits of the case. It is no objection to a question that it assumes facts which are undisputed, but a question based upon the supposition of facts not proved is improper (2) So also a compound question, one part being admissible, and the remainder inadmissible, may be rightly excluded as a whole. But Counsel are often allowed to ask apparently irrelevant and consequently madmissible questions, upon their promise to follow them up at the proper time by proof of other facts, which, if true, would make the question put legitimately operative.(3) The party examining a witness-in-chief is bound at his peril to ask all material questions in the first instance, and if he fail to do this, it cannot be done in reply No new question can be put in reply unconnected with the subject of the cross-examination and which does not tend to explain it. If a question as to any material fact has been omitted upon the examination-in-chief, the usual course is to suggest the question to the Court, which will exercise its discretion in putting it to the witness (4)

On the examination-in-chief a witness as a general rule can only give evidence of facts[5] within lis own knowledge and recollection In some cases hearsay and opinions are relevant. But in all cases the facts must be relevant, [6] and in all cases the answer must be upon a point of fact as opposed to a point of law. Ordinarily a witness cannot be asked as to a conclusion of law. Sometimes this has been so far pressed as to involve the assumption that a witness cannot be asked as to conclusions of fact. The error of such a contention consists in this that there are few statements of fact which are not conclusions of fact.[7] The conclusions of a witness as to the motives of other persons are

<sup>(1)</sup> S 139, as to eaths and affirmations, v. Appendix.

<sup>(2)</sup> See notes to # 139, past

<sup>(2)</sup> Stream Rapalye's op earl, 2 28 (as to the order of proof, r = 130, pp. 843-847, arts). In direct examination although medicently is more easily attenable, it may be a question whether the highest degree of eredline r is not even still more rare." (i.e., than in cross-examination). "For it requires mental power of no inferior order so to interrogate each stiness whether learned or unkerned, intulgent, or dill, matter, of fact or imaginative, sincle-minded or designing, as to be lenging has tory before the tribunal a the most natural, comprehensible and effective form." Pett, Ex., § 62.

<sup>(4)</sup> Stewart Rapalie's op. cat., § 233.

<sup>(5)</sup> v s 3, aste, pp. 9-11

<sup>(6)</sup> S 138, for meaning of "relevant," r s 3, sate, p 109 as to belief and opinion, see Taylor, Ev. § 1414, et seq v ante, pp 397-425

<sup>(7)</sup> Wharton, Ev., § 507, 15, 207, Wharton, Cv. Fv., § 7., see p. 307, and Creditations of law are for the Court todraw, not witnessees. So a states will not be permitted to testify as to whether a party is responsible to the law; whether certain facts constrate in law an agreey and the like, 3. Fernard Rapple's, sp., ed., § 235, witnesses are not permitted to rate there were no matter of moral or lipid obligations or on the manner on which other persons would probably have been independed and the parties acted in one way rather than another; Taylor, Ev., 1410.

inadmissible, motives being eminently inferences from conduct.(1) Yet when a party is examined as to his own conduct, he may be asked as to his own intention or motive, his testimony to such intention or motive being based not on inference but on consciousness. But the right of a party to testify to his intent in drawing a contract or other document is limited by the rule that a party cannot be admitted to prove his intent so as to vary the terms of a document by which he is bound.(2)

As to opinion evidence and the distinction between "matter of fact" and "matter of opinion," see ante, pp 398-400 and as to hearsay, p. 464, ante,

In the case of documents the witness may testify to their existence and identity, but not, unless secondary evidence be admissible, to their contents :(3) and he may explain but may not in general contradict or vary their terms.(4) A witness may give the substance of conversations or writings, but he will not be permitted to say what is the impression left on him by a conversation unless he swears to such impressions as recollections and not inferences. And it is enough if a witness swears to events and objects according to the best of his recollection and behef (5) Further, in order to save time, a witness will be permitted to state the result of numerous or voluminous documents, subject to cross-examination as to particulate (6) So he may state whether a party's books showed his insolvency or the reverse :(7) or in what manner bills have been invariably drawn .(8) but he will not be allowed to give his impressions derived from unproduced documents, for these are matters of inference or construction which belong to the tribunal (9) and production of the books themselves should be given if required (10)

The witness will, while under examination, be permitted to refresh his memory by reference to documents.(11) Leading questions may not ordinarily be put in examination-in-chief.(12) In cases where the witness proves to be hostile, he may be cross-examined by the party calling him (13) Questions tending to corroborate evidence of a relevant fact are admissible;(14) and former statements of a witness may be proved to corroborate later testimony as to the same fact (15) Whenever any statement relevant under sections 32, 33, ante, is proved, all matters may be proved to corroborate it, or to confirm the credit of the person by whom it was made, which might have been proved if that person had been called as a witness.(16) Where the prosecu-

phy. S C. & P., 297.

<sup>(1)</sup> Wharton, Ev , $ 508, (2) Wharton, Fr , $$ 508, 492 further, ordinarily extrinsic explence of intent is madmissible in the case of the interpretation of documents, Let-Makarans v. Cillector of Etaunk, 17 A , 188, 209 (1894); r. aute, introd to Ch VI, except in eritam case of ambiguity, + pp 606-620, ante, Wharton, Ev. $ 955 As to proof of intention and motive, v. cate, a 14, and cases there effed; and Stewart Rapalje's op. rst., 391, 392 A common instance of the admissibility of explenes of mental condition exists when a party is asked whether in entering into a contract on which the action is lased, he relied upon the representations of the other party.

<sup>(3)</sup> v. uste, so, 91, 53, 65, and notes to those rections: Phipson, Fr., 3rd Fd., 412, as to the interposition of questions for the purpose of ascertaining whether the untier spears to was contained in a document, ore s, 141, post.

<sup>(4)</sup> v. nate, introl. to Ch. 1 I and sa, 92, 99, (5) Taylor, Er., § 1615, Wharton, Ev., §1

<sup>514, 515.</sup> If a witness called to prove the hand. writing of a paper say that he beheves it to be of the handwriting of the defendant from sts contents and from other circumstances, he may be asked what those circumstances are: R. v. Mar-

<sup>(6)</sup> S. 65, cl.(g), ante, p 490; Rove v. Breslov, 3 M & F. . 212, Roberts v. Daron, Pea, N. P. C.,

<sup>(7)</sup> Hayor v. Selton, 2 Stark. R , 274.

<sup>(8)</sup> Spencer v. Filling, 3 Camp , 310. (9) Tophum v. McGergor, 1 C. & S., 320.

<sup>(10)</sup> Johnson v. Kershaw, 1 D. O. & S., 291; see Taylor, Dr., § 462; Statk, Er., 845; Steth. Dig., Art. 71 (8).

<sup>(11)</sup> Sa. 157-161, rest. (12) 5a, 141, 142, poel,

<sup>(13)</sup> S. 151, pod.

<sup>(14)</sup> N. 156, pad. (15) S. 157, and

<sup>(10)</sup> S. 158, post

tion declined to call in the Court of Session a witness for the Crown who had been examined in the Magistrate's Court and such witness was therefore placed in the witness-box by Counsel for the defence, it was held that Counsel for the defence was not entitled to commence his examination of the witness by questioning him as to what he had deposed in the Magistrate's Court. Questions as to his previous deposition were under the circumstances only admissible by way of cross-examination with the permission of the Court, if the witness proved himself a hostile witness (1)

After the party calling a witness has concluded the examination-in-chief, mination. the opposite party has a right to cross-examine the witness as a matter of course. Cross-examination, if properly conducted, is one of the most useful and efficacious means of discovering the truth. Though certain rules have been laid down for the guidance of advocates in this respect, (2) the faculty of interrogating witnesses with effect is mainly the result either of natural acuteness or of long forensic practice.(3) It will, however, prove useful to recall here Mr. Norton's observation (Law of Evidence, p. 320) that cross-examination is to be warrly approached and the way carefully felt; that unless there is some very good ground for believing that the witness can be broken down it is rarely good policy to submit him to a severe cross-examination. Sometimes consequently a cross-examination is little more than affectation in order that the examiner may not seem to let the witness go without question, as if he were totally impregnable, and a few questions are asked to shake his credit or show the weakness of his memory "The object and scope of cross-examination is two-fold,-to weaken, qualify or destroy th establish the party's own case by means of this view the witness may be asked not on relevant thereto, but all questions (a) tending to test his means of knowledge, opportunities of observation, reasons for recollection and belief, and powers of memory, perception and judgment; or (b) tending to expose the errors, omissions, contradictions and improbabilities in his testimony, or (c) tending to impeach his credit by attacking his character, antecedents, associations and mode of hie, (4) and in particular by eliciting (1) that he has made previous statements inconsistent with his present testimony, or (ii) that he is biased or partial in relation to the parties in the cause (5) or (iii) that he has been convicted(6) of any criminal offence "(7)

The cross-examination must as much as the examination-in-chief relate to relevant facts (8) Therefore hearsay is always madmissible as substantive

<sup>(1)</sup> R. v. Zowar Husen, 20 A . 155 (1897) (2) See Best, Ev . 38 649-663 (in the last paragraph citing D. P Brown's "Golden Rules," pp 614, 615), § 21, " Examination of aitnesses, Hints for conducting a trial," Des Moines, Joua. 1977, Harns' Hints on Advocacy Ouinti'ian, Inst. Orat., Bentham's Judicial Fuidence Hints to witnesses in Courts of Justice by a Larrister (Baron Field), London 1815, Stark, Fv., 194; Taylor, Ev., § 1428, Alisons' Practice of the Criminal Law of Scotland, 546, 547. Evans on cross-examination in his Appendix to Pothier's "Obligations," No. 16, Vol. 11, pp. 233, 234 , Field, Fr , 630, 631 , 13-40 (tests of emblibility and copec-1) 44-50, 50-54 (demeanour and other in lications of truth or falschool) 55-73 (atility, memory, descriptive powers), Stewart Rapalje's op. ci' , § 245, et sey . Whatelv's "Rhetoric" and "Historic Doubts": Campbell's Rhetorie; Glassford's Principles of Evidence, Edinburgh, 1820, see Observations of Norman, J , in Swood 11s v. Kashinath Pos, 6 W R . 181 R v Ramchandra Cound. 19 B .

<sup>759 (1895)</sup> (3) Best, Ev ($ 650 663

<sup>(4)</sup> See s 146, po t

<sup>(5)</sup> Accs 155 (2) and (3) which deal with the impeachment of the credit of the witness by calling other persons to tretify to the facts therein mentioned if he denies the same or cross-examination. The impeachment of credit in the text refers to iminachment by cross-examination of the witness himself and not by means of in lependent testimony As to the partialty of the witness, etc s 153, Exception (2),

<sup>(6)</sup> Sec v. 155, Exception (1)

<sup>(7)</sup> Phipson, Er , 3rd Fd., 471. (8) S 134, see Observations a Wille, Lr., 225,

<sup>220.</sup>

avidence whether the evidence be elicited in examination-in-chief or crossexamination.(1) In so far, however, as the credibility of a witness is always in issue, (2) 'relevancy' is a term of a wider scope in cross-examination than in examination-in-chief embracing all those questions to credit which are the subject-matter of sections 146-153, post. Moreover, the cross-examination need not be confined to the facts to which the witness testified in his examination-in-chief (3) This is in accordance with the English practice by which the cross-examination is not limited to the matters upon which the witness has already been examined-in-chief, but extends to the whole case, and therefore. if a plaintiff calls a witness to prove a single, even the simplest, fact connected with the case, the defendant is at liberty to cross-examine him on every issue, and by putting leading questions, to establish, if he can his entire defence.(4) In America, however, on the other hand, the rule which prevails in most of the States is quite different, and the cross-examination can only relate to facts and circumstances connected with the matter stated in the direct examination of the natness. If a party wishes to examine a witness as to other matters, he must do so by making the witness his own,(5)

A witness may be cross-examined as to all facts relevant to the issue and his answers thereon may be contradicted. He may also be cross-examined on all matters which affect his credit, but his answers thereon cannot, except in two cases, be contradicted (6) A witness cannot, however, be cross-examined as to any collateral endependent fact errelevant to the matter in issue, for the purpose of contradicting him, if his answer be one way, by another witness, in order to discredit the whole of his testimony (7) So where, as in the case last cited, defendant's Counsel cross-examined a witness as to the nature of a contract made by him with Mr. S (such contract not being the matter in suit nor Mr S. a party thereto) intending if the witness gave an affirmative answer to his question to draw from thence a conclusion that he had made the same kind of contract with the defendant (which was suggested to be the fact), or if witness answered in the negative to call Mr. S, and then to prove the contrary and thereby destroy the witness's credit, it was held that the question could not he put.

Whether the right to cross-examine survives if the cross-examiner afterwards calls his opponent's witness to prove his own case, seems in England doubtful But the better opinion is that it does not, and that the witness rannot be asked leading questions on his second examination, while he may afterwards be cross-examined by the party who originally called him.(8) This last opinion appears to have been adopted by this Act. The party who calls a witness apparently at any stage of the case-examines him in chief. Such examination would naturally be directed to the support of his own case, upon which the adverse party would then have a right to cross-examine. If the adverse party again called the same witness, he could clearly only examine him in chick(9)

Leading questions may be put in cross-examination.(10) As to evidence regarding matters in writing,(11) cross-examination as to previous statements

<sup>($)</sup> date, p. 497. (2) Fest, Ev., § 263.

<sup>(3)</sup> S. 134, the same rule prevailed prior to this Act, R. v. Islan Date, 6 B. L. B., App , 82 (1871); * c., 15 W. R., Cr., 341.

<sup>161</sup> Mayer v. Marray, 10 L. J., Ch., 281 | Tav-Int. Pr., 1 1432; Steph. Dig., Art. 127. The rule prevails though the proof a of a merely formal characters Merrin v. Prodpes, 2 Stark , 314.

<sup>(5)</sup> Burr, Johns, Fr., $ 1861.

<sup>18)</sup> N. 183, 104

<sup>(7)</sup> Spencely v. De William, 7 East, 106; h other words, na such question can be put for the mere purpose of impraching the aitness's emili by contradicting him; Taylor, Fr., $ 1472.

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Sr., 4 1437

<sup>(9)</sup> Fiell, Er., 630.

<sup>(10) 8. 143.</sup> (11) 9, 144.

in writing.(1) and the questions which generally may be put in cross-examination,(2) see the sections cited below. It is the right of every litigant, unless he waives it, to have the opportunity of cross-examining witnesses whose testimony is to be used against him, and even, when circumstances require, to adduce evidence on his own behalf to meet the evidence which such cross-examination may have brought forward. He is also entitled himself to examine the witnesses who can give evidence in support of his case in order that he may bring out the necessary information as fully as he thinks possible, and in the form which he considers most favourable to himself. It follows that evidence given when the party never had the opportunity either to cross-examine, as the case may be, or to rebut by fresh evidence, is not legally admissible as evidence for or against him, unless he consents that it should be so used.(3) When a case decided ex parte in the absence of the defendant, who had thus no opportunity of cross-examining the plaintiff's witnesses, was re-admitted to the file and to a hearing; it was held, that the Court of first instance ought to have recalled the plaintiff's witnesses and allowed the defendant an opportunity of cross-examining them; and this not having been done, that their previous depositions could not be treated as evidence.(4) Where the witness dies or falls ill before cross-examination, his evidence will be admissible, though its weight may be 'slight.(5) When a witness has been intentionally called and sworn by either party, the opposite party has a right, if the examination-in-chief is waived or if the Counsel changes his mind and asks no questions, to cross-examine him.(6) Where a witness called by one of the parties is a competent witness, the opposite party has a right to cross-examine him, though the party calling him has declined to ask a single question.(7)

Examination of a witness by mistake does not give the other side a right to coss-examine. So where the plaintiff's Counsel called ''Captain S'' and Captain Hugh S answered and was sworn, and the plaintiff's Counsel after asking him a few questions ascertained that it was Captain Francis S whom they meant to examine, this was held not to give the other side a right to cross-examine Captain Hugh S, as he was only examined by mistake (§) A witness called merely to produce a document under a subpana duces tecum, need not be sworn if the document either requires no proof, or is to be proved by other means, and if not sworn he cannot be cross-examined (9). Witnesses to character may be cross-examined (10). As a ruls, the proper and convenient time for the purpose of cross-examination of the witnesses for the prosecution is at the Criminal Court to allow the accused to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution at any period of defence, when the Court thinks that such a step is necessary for the purposes of pustice (11). But it has been recently held

(10) S. 140, post

(l) S 145.

<sup>(2)</sup> Ss. 146-153

<sup>(3)</sup> Gorachand Sirear v. Rem Narain, 9 W. R., 587, 588 (1968), per Pheat, J., and see Radha Jeeban v. Taramonee Devere, 12 Mon. I. A., 380 (1960).

<sup>(4)</sup> Ram Baks v. Kisori Mohan, 3 B. L. R., A. C., 273 (1989).

<sup>(5)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 1469, Physica Fa., and ML, 450 and cases there cited

<sup>(6)</sup> R. v. Broods, 2 Stark R., 472. I https://doi.org/10.100/10.10000/10.1000/10.1000/10.1000/10.1000/10.10000/10.1000/10.10000/10.10000/10.1000/10.10000/10.10000/10.10000/10.10000/10.10000/10.100

<sup>(7)</sup> R. v. Islan Datt. 15 W. R. Cr., 34 (1871)

<sup>(8)</sup> Cleffert v. Hunter, 3 C & P., 16, and see Rush v. Smith, 16 M. & R., 94, Heed v. Marbaneon 2 M. & R., 273, Reed v. James, 1 Stark.,

<sup>(9)</sup> S. 139, post. It has has been held in England that a witness whose examination has been stepped by the Judge before any material question has been put is not liable to cross-examination. Overey v. Care, 7. U. & P. 64.

<sup>(11)</sup> A harmshiftene Suny v. Prochable Mandal, 22 W. R. C. 44 (1754), meG. Tv. Ode, m. 250, 257. In re-Finker-Popil, IT W. E., Cr., 51 (1872), E. v. Pem. Kirkin, 25 W. E., Cr., 45 (1873), E. v. Pem. Kirkin, 25 W. B., Cr., 45 (1874), Landler-Suhn, 2. A., 233 (1872), Fau & v. Kerond, 7 G., 25 (1884), E. C. L. R., 253.

by the Calcutta High Court that section 347 of the Criminal Procedure Code cannot be read as subject to section 20S, so as to render it imperative on a Magistrate, after he has decided to commit a case to Sessions, to allow the accused to cross-examine the prosecution witnesses and to call witnesses in his own defence; and that when the accused did not cross-examine the prosecution witnesses immediately, but applied for leave to examine them, after the close of the case for the prosecution, and to call witnesses, the Magistrate was justified in refusing the application and commutting the case (1) As to crossexamination by co-accused and co-defendants, v. post, p. 861.

A witness ought to be allowed on cross-examination to qualify or correct any statement which he has made in his examination-in-chief (2) A witness is not always compellable to answer questions put to him in cross-examination :(3) and though he may be contradicted on all matters directly relevant to . the issue he cannot [except in the cases mentioned in section 153, post(4)] be so contradicted on matters relevant merely as affecting his credit. A witness's credit may be impeached either by cross-examination(5) or by calling independent testimony to prove the facts mentioned in section 155, post (6) Crossexamination is notice to the opposite party of the line of defence adopted and will therefore in some cases prevent evidence being given in reply (7) The. decisions on the question whether or not a party is entitled to see a document, which has been shown to one of his witnesses while under crossexamination by his opponer --- --- --- --- On the whole, how-· putting ever, the practice seems to as to its

a paper into the hands of general nature or identity, his adversary will have no right to see the document; but that if the paper be used for the purpose of refreshing the memory of the witness, or if any questions he put respecting its contents, or as to the handwriting in which it is written, a sight of it may then be demanded by the opposite Counsel (8)

Length of cross exa-

Intimidat ing cross

tion

Cross-examination may be, and in this country, not unfrequently is inordinately long (9) Where the Court is satisfied that the cross-examination of any witness on commission is being unnecessarily prolonged, it will order such crossexamination to be concluded within a certain time (10)

As to this Professor Wigmore remarks :-

"An intimidating manner in putting questions may so coerce or disconcert the witness that his answers do not represent his actual knowledge on the So also questions which in form or subject cause shame or anger in the witness may unfairly lead him to such demeanour and utterance that the

<sup>(1)</sup> Pharindra Aath Mitter v E. (1908), 36 Cal., 49; following in re Clice Durant, 1898, Ratenlal's Unrep., Cr Co., p 975 disenting from R. v. Almod (1999), 20 All, 264, and E. v. Mulammal Halt (1903), 26 A., 177, and distinguishing E. v. Nagal Samles, 1893, 21 Cal., 643.

<sup>121</sup> R. v. Tules Drawni 14 W. E., 57 (1572)

<sup>(1)</sup> St 147, 149, put (4) See a. 157, poor, and are also s. 155, cl. (2).

<sup>(5)</sup> See a 146, post,

<sup>(6)</sup> In this Act the term " improching credit " to confined to the latter of these modes. The English and American writers often use the term in a water sense. It is obvious that a witness's character may often be successfully imprached in cross-regulation without recourse to lude.

pendent testimony under the provisions of

<sup>(7)</sup> Il harton v. Lewis, 1 C. & P., 529 . v. ante, pp 841, 842

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev , § 1452, and cases there eited , where the document is used to refresh memory, see s. 161, peak. The right should be exercised before or at the moment the witness uses the document. In se Jhubboo Mahlon, 8 C., 730, 744 (1882) (9) See as to such cross-examination, Galles River Mining Co v. Buxton Mining Co., 97

Fed. Rep., 414 (Amer.), cited in 4 C. B. A. (10) Seral Provad v. Standard Life Insuran's

Co., 30 C., 625 (1903)

impression produced by his statements does not do justice to his real testimonial value. These are two of the notorious abuses of cross-examination, and always have been, both in the early period when it was still chiefly used by Judges only, and also since the time of its mature elaboration, more than a century ago, as the greatest weapon of truth ever forged. In two noted passages of fiction its inveterate abuse has been satirized." (Dickens, The Pickwick Club, Ch. XXIV; Anthony Trollope "The Three Clerks" Ch. XI.).

"The remedy for such an abuse is in the hands of the Judges. The disgrace of these occurrences is even more theirs than that of the offending Counsel; for the former have not the temptation of partisanship to sway them, and their duty to interfere is easier to fulfil than the Counsel's duty to refrain. The slack sense of duty thus so often exhibited becomes the more blameable in contrast with a scrupulous sentimentality which will be exhibited in insisting on the tender quiddities of the law that favour guilty persons,—such as the rules for confessions and the privilege against self-crimination. For the probably guilty when brought to book, there is often an abundance of protection, while for the unimplicated and innocent witness, coming to serve justice and truth, there is scanty assistance. The sport is of more interest than the victim. Such Judges, as well as Counsel, were justly pilloried by the great novelist (Dickens), and his pen expressed only the widespread fecling of dread and disgust among the laity for the abuses of the witness-box. Those abuses, it is true, are, as a whole, probably less to-day than they formerly were; but they are in many places still not uncommon. They are too frequent when they occur at all.

to prevent and rebuke them. (4)

Mr. W. D. Evans, in his Notes on the French Jurist Pothier, says :-

"The abuses to which this procedure is hable are the subject of very frequent complaint, but it would be absolutely impossible, by any but general rules, to apply a preventive to these abuses without destroying the liberty upon which the benefits above adverted to essentially depend; and all that can be effected by the interposition of the Court is a discouragement of any virulence towards the witnesses which is not justified by the nature of the cause, and a sedulous attention to remove from the minds of the jury the impressions which are rather to be imputed to the vehemence of the advocate than to the prevarication of the witness. Whatever can elicit the actual dispositions of the witness with respect to the event,-whatever can detect the operation of a concerted plan of testimony, or bring into light the incidental facts and circumstances that the witness may be supposed to have suppressed,-in short, whatever may be expected fairly to promote the real manifestation of the ments of the cause, is not only justifiable but meritorious. But I conceive that a client has no right to expect from his Counsel an endeavour to assist his cause, or what is a more frequent object, to gratify his passions, by unmerited abuse, by embarrassing or intimidating witnesses of whose veracity he has no real suspicion, or by conveying an impression of discredit which he does not actually feel, and that where such expectations are intimated, there is an imperious duty upon the advocate, who, while the protector of private right, is also the minister of pubhe justice, which requires them to be repelled Considering the subject merely as a matter of discretion, the adoption of an unfair conduct in cross-examination has often an effect repugnant to the interests which it professes to promote.

<sup>(1)</sup> Mr. Baron Alderson once remarked to a Counsel of this type Mr. ----, you seem to think that the art of cross-examination is to examine crossly '(Sergeant Ballantine * Fixperien ees, 103).

<sup>(2)</sup> Wigmore, Fr., § 781, referring also to

&#x27;Cross-examination—A Secratic Dialogue' by E. Manion is Law Quart Rev., 1604, and Smollett selecter of reliable to a Counsel who had wanton'r aboved Lim. (Foss' Memovies of Westmisster Hall. 1, 203).

....But, however unfavourable an injudicious asperity of cross-examination may be to the advancement of a cause, it, for the most part, is congenial to the wishes of the party; the neglect of it is regarded as an indifference to his interests and a dereliction of duty; and the practice of it is one of the surest harbingers of professional success."(1)

On the same point Bentham remarks :-

"Under the name of brow-beating (a mode of oppression of which witnesses in the station of respondents are the more immediate objects) a practice is designated which has been the subject of a complaint too general to be likely to be altogether groundless. Oppression in this form has a particular propensity to alight upon those witnesses who have been called upon that side of the cause (whichever it may be) that has the right on its side; because the more clearly a side is in the right, the less need has it for any such assistance as it is in the nature of any such dishonest arts to administer to it . . . . Brow-beating is that sort of offence which never can be committed by any advocate who has not the Judge for his accomplice.. .Rule 1. Every expression of reproach, as if for established mendacity: every such manifestation, however expressed-by language, gesture, countenance, tone of voice (especially at the outset of the examination) - ought to be abstained from by the examining advocate. If the tendency of such style of address were to promote the extraction of material truth, at the same time that the action of it could not be supplied to equal effect by any other plan of examination,—the vexation thus produced (how sharpsoever) not being of any considerable duration, the liberty might be allowed, with preponderant advantage for the furtherance of justice. But, on a close investigation, no advantage, but rather a disadvantage, even in respect of furtherance of justice, seems to be the natural result of an assumption of this kind .. . By reproachful and terrifying demeanour on the part of a person invested with, and acting under, an authority thus formidable, it seems full as natural that an honest witness should be confounded, and thus deprived of recollection and due utterance, and even (through confusion of mind) betrayed into selfcontradiction and involuntary falsehood, as that a dishonest witness should be detected and exposed. The quiet mode above described is not in any degree susceptible of this sort of abuse: the outrageous mode seems more likely to terminate in the abuse than in the use..., Rule 2. Such unwarranted manifestations, if not abstained from by the advocate, ought to be checked, with marks of disapprobation, by the Judge. In the presence of the Judge, any misbehaviour, which, being witnessed at the time by the Judge, is regarded by him without censure, becomes in effect the act, the misbehaviour of the Judge On him more particularly should the reproach of it lie; because for the connivance (which is in effect the authorization) of it, he cannot ever possess any of those excuses, which may ever and anon present themselves on the part of the advocate. The demand for the honest vigilance and occasional interference of the Judge will appear the stronger when due consideration is had of the strength of the temptation, to which on this occasion, the probity of the advocate is exposed. Sinister interests in considerable variety concur in instigating him to this improper practice....Rule 3. When on the false supposition of a disposition to mendacity, an honest witness has been treated accordingly by the cross-examining advocate (the Judge having suffered the examination to be conducted in that manner for the sake of truth)-at the close of which examination all doubts respecting the probity of the witness have been dispelled, -it is a moral duty on the part of the Judge to do what depends on him towards soothing the irritation sustained by the witness's mind; to wit, by expressing his own satisfaction respecting the probity of the witness, and the sympathy and ration the date of it is to be observed, and it has not the same truth at the present day.

<sup>(1)</sup> W. D. Evans in his Notes to Pothler il, 220 (1976), as regards, honever, the last obser

regret excited by the irritation he has undergone...... Under the spur of the provocation, I remember now and then to have observed the witness turn upon the advocate in the way of retaliation. On an occasion of this sort, I have also now and then observed the Judge to interpose, for the purpose of applying a check to the petulance of the witness. For one occasion in which, under the spur of the injury, the injured witness has presented himself to my conception as overstepping the limits of a just defence,—ten, twenty or twice twenty, have occurred, in which the witness has been suffering, without restance and without remedy, as well as without just cause, under the torture inflicted on him by the oppression and insolence of an adverse advocate. Scarcely ever, I think, had I the satisfaction of observing the Judge interpose to afford his protection to the witness, either at the commencement of the persecution, for the purpose of

· satisfaction as the nature of the

Lord Langdale, M. R., said in Johnstone v. Tod: (2) "Witnesses and particularly illiterate witnesses must always be lable to give imporfect or erroneous evidence, even when orally examined in open Court The novelty of the situation, the agitation and hurry which accompanies it, the cajolery or intimidation to which the witness may be subjected, the want of questions calculated to excite those recollections which might clear up every difficulty, and the confusion occasioned by cross-examination, as it is too often conducted, may give rise to important errors and omissions."

Lowrie, J , in Eliott v. Boyles(3) said "It is entirely natural that in the public trial of causes the earnestness of Counsel should often become unduly intense, and it is not possible to prevent this without such an attribution and exercise of power as would be entirely inconsistent with the freedom of thought that is necessary to all thorough investigation. The remedy for it is to be found in inner rather than in outer discipline. Those who are zealously seeking the truth cannot always be watchful to measure their demeanour and expressions in accordance with the feelings or even with the rights of others. This zeal. even when inordinate, must be excused, because it is necessary in the search of truth, and generally it is not possible to condemn it as misguided or excessive until its fault has been proved by the discovery of the truth in the opposite direction; and possibly its very excess may have contributed to the discovery. When the presiding Judge is respected and prudent, a hint kindly given is generally all that is needed to restrain such ardour, when it does not arise in any degree from habitual want of respect for the rights of others and for the order of public business. Witnesses often suffer very unjustly from this undue earnestness of Counsel, and they are entitled to the watchful protection of the Court In the Court they stand as strangers, surrounded with unfamiliar circumstances giving rise to an embarrassment known only to themselves, and in mere generosity and common humanity they are entitled to be treated. by those accustomed to such scenes, with great consideration,-at least until it becomes manifest that they are disposed to be disingenuous. The heart of the Court and jury, and all disinterested manliness, spontaneously recoil at a harsh and unfair treatment of them, and the cause that adopts such treatment is very apt to suffer by it It is only where weakness sits in judgment that it can benefit any cause. Add to this that a mind rudely assailed naturally shuts itself against its assailant, and reluctantly communicates the truths that it possesses."

"There is another matter connected with cross-examination, in which Insulting and other there is no room for doubt as to the duty of Counsel and as to the duty incum-observations on the

(I) Jeremy Bentham, Rationale of Judicial (I) 31 I'a., 66 (Amer.), (1937), cited in Wig evidence for energy, R. II, c. IX, P. III, c. 5. more, p. 87C.

<sup>(2) 5</sup> Bear., 601 (1843).

tion has often an effect repugnant to the interests which it professes to promote, ....But, however unfavourable an injudicious asperity of cross-examination may be to the advancement of a cause, it, for the most part, is congenial to the wishes of the party; the neglect of it is regarded as an indifference to his interests and a dereliction of duty, and the practice of it is one of the surest harbingers of professional success."(1)

On the same point Bentham remarks :-

"Under the name of brow-beating (a mode of oppression of which witnesses in the station of respondents are the more immediate objects) a practice is designated which has been the subject of a complaint too general to be likely to be altogether groundless. Oppression in this form has a particular propensity to alight upon those witnesses who have been called upon that side of the cause (whichever it may be) that has the right on its side; because the more clearly a side is in the right, the less need has it for any such assistance as it is in the nature of any such dishonest arts to administer to it. . . Brow-beating is that sort of offence which never can be committed by any advocate who has not the Judge for his accomplice.. Rule 1. Every expression of reproach, as if for established mendacity: every such manifestation, however expressed-by language, gesture, countenance, tone of voice (especially at the outset of the examination)-ought to be abstained from by the examining advocate. If the tendency of such style of address were to promote the extraction of material truth, at the same time that the action of it could not be supplied to could effect by any other plan of examination, -the vexation thus produced (how sharpsoever) not being of any considerable duration, the liberty might be allowed, with preponderant advantage for the furtherance of justice. But, on a close investigation, no advantage, but rather a disadvantage, even in respect of furtherance of justice, seems to be the natural result of an assumption of this kind. .... By reproachful and terrifying demeanour on the part of a person invested with, and acting under, an authority thus formidable, it seems full as natural that an honest witness should be confounded, and thus deprived of recollection and due utterance, and even (through confusion of mind) betrayed into selfcontradiction and involuntary falsehood, as that a dishonest witness should be detected and exposed The quiet mode above described is not in any degree susceptible of this sort of abuse the outrageous mode seems more likely to terminate in the abuse than in the use ... Rule 2 Such unwarranted manifestations, if not abstained from by the advocate, ought to be checked, with by the Judge, is regarded by him the misbehaviour of the Judge.

On him more particularly should the reproach of it lie; because for the connivance (which is in effect the authorization) of it, he cannot ever possess any of those excuses, which may ever and anon present themselves on the part of the advocate. The demand for the honest vigilance and occasional interference of the Judge will appear the stronger when due consideration is had of the strength of the temptation, to which on this occasion, the probity of the advocate is exposed. Sinister interests in considerable variety concur in instigating him to this improper practice . . . Rule 3. When on the false supposition of a disposition to mendacity, an honest witness has been treated accordingly by the cross-examining advocate (the Judge having suffered the examination to be conducted in that manner for the sake of truth)-at the close of which examination all doubts respecting the probity of the witness have been dispelled, -it is a moral duty on the part of the Judge to do what depends on him towards soothing the irritation sustained by the witness's mind; to uit, by expressing his own satisfaction respecting the probity of the witness, and the sympathy and vation the date of it is to be observed, and it has not the same truth at the preunt day.

<sup>111</sup> W. D. Evans in his Notes to Pothier ii. 204 (14m), as regards, however, the last older

regret excited by the irritation he has undergone...... Under the spur of the provocation, I remember now and then to have observed the witness turn upon the advocate in the way of retalation. On an occasion of this sort, I have also now and then observed the Judge to interpose, for the purpose of applying a check to the petulance of the witness. For one occasion in which, under the spur of the injury, the injured witness has presented himself to my conception as overstepping the limits of a just defence,—ten, twenty or twice twenty, have occurred, in which the witness has been suffering, without resistance and without remedy, as well as without just cause, under the torture inflicted on him by the oppression and insolence of an adverse advocate. Scarcely ever, I think, had I the satisfaction of observing the Judge interpose to afford his protection to the witness, either at the commencement of the persecution, for the purpose of staying or alleviating the injury, or at the conclusion, for the purpose of staying or alleviating the injury, or at the conclusion, for the purpose of staying or alleviating the injury, or at the conclusion, for the purpose of staying or alleviating the injury, or at the conclusion, for the purpose of staying or silvers of the case admits of ''(1)

Lord Langdale, M. R., said in Johnstone v Tod (2) "Witnesses and particularly illiterate witnesses must always be liable to give imperfect or erroneous evidence, even when orally examined in open Court. The novelty of the situation, the agitation and hurry which accompanies it, the cajolery or intimidation to which the witness may be subjected, the want of questions calculated to excite those recollections which might clear up every difficulty, and the confusion occasioned by cross-examination, as it is too often conducted, may give rise to important errors and omissions."

Lowrie, J , in Eliott v. Boyles(3) said "It is entirely natural that in the public trial of causes the earnestness of Counsel should often become unduly intense, and it is not possible to prevent this without such an attribution and exercise of power as would be entirely inconsistent with the freedom of thought that is necessary to all thorough investigation. The remedy for it is to be found in inner rather than in outer discipline. Those who are zealously seeking the truth cannot always be watchful to measure their demeanour and expressions in accordance with the feelings or even with the rights of others. This zeal, even when mordinate, must be excused, because it is necessary in the search of truth; and generally it is not possible to condemn it as misguided or excessive until its fault has been proved by the discovery of the truth in the opposite direction; and possibly its very excess may have contributed to the discovery When the presiding Judge is respected and prudent, a hint kindly given is generally all that is needed to restrain such ardour, when it does not arise in any degree from habitual want of respect for the rights of others and for the order of public business Witnesses often suffer very unjustly from this undue carnestness of Counsel, and they are entitled to the watchful protection of the Court. In the Court they stand as strangers, surrounded with unfamiliar circumstances giving rise to an embarrassment known only to themselves, and in mere generosity and common humanity they are entitled to be treated. by those accustomed to such scenes, with great consideration,-at least until it becomes manifest that they are disposed to be disingenuous. The heart of the Court and jury, and all disinterested manliness, spontaneously recoil at a harsh and unfair treatment of them, and the cause that adopts such treatment is very apt to suffer by it It is only where weakness sits in judgment that it can benefit any cause Add to this that a mind rudely assailed naturally shuts itself against its assailant, and reluctantly communicates the truths that it possesses."

"There is another matter connected with cross-examination, in which Insulting and other there is no room for doubt as to the duty of Counsel and as to the duty incum the country of the c

<sup>(1)</sup> Jeremy Bentham, Rationale of Judicial (3) 31 Pa., 66 (Amer.), (1857), cited n Wig. evidence Er dence, B. II, c. 1X, D. III, c. 5. more, p. 876.

<sup>(2) 5</sup> Bear., 601 (1843).

bent upon Judges to enforce that duty stringently. The legitimate object of cross-examination is to bring to light relevant matters of fact which would otherwise pass unnoticed It is not unfrequently converted into an occasion for the display of it, and for obliquely insulting witnesses. It is not uncommon to put a question in a form which is in itself an insult, or to prepare a question or receive an answer with an insulting observation. This naturally provokes retorts, and cross-examination so conducted ceases to fulfil its legitimate purpose. and becomes a trial of wit and presence of mind which may amuse the audience, but is inconsistent with the dignity of a Court of Justice and unfavourable to the object of ascertaining the truth. When such a scene takes place the Judge is the person principally to blame. He has a right on all occasions to exercise the power of reproving observations which are not questions at all, of preventing questions from being put in an improper form, and of stopping examinations which are not necessary for any legitimate purpose."(1) In Ings' Trial(2) (1820) Mr Adolphus cross-examining an alleged accomplice: "I think you told us some things then (Monday, at another trial for the same plot) that did not come to your recollection to-day? A "That may be, I will not pretend to say, that the next time I come up here I can communicate as I have done to-day " O Certainly not , there are people that proverbially ought to have a good memory ?" A "Yes, certainly" Q. "You make your evidence a little longer or shorter, according as the occasion suits? A. "Yes, I mention the circumstances as they come to my recollection " . . Mr. Gurney "That is observation, and not question," Mr. Adolphus : "I am asking him a question" L C J Dallas . "You should not now observe on the endence" Mr Adolphus: "This about the digging entrenchments you did not state on Monday?" A. "No, I forgot that." Q. "The next time there will be a new story?" Mr Gurney "I must interpose, my lord." L. C J. Dallas . "All these observations are certainly incorrect" Mr. Adolphus : "He has said it himself, 'when next I come into the box, I shall recollect other things,' and upon that I put the question, whether he would tell another story the next time he comes'.' L. C. J. Dallas. "Ask him the question if you wish it" Mr .1dolphus "Shall you tell us a new story the next time." (2) A. 'No If anything new occurs to my mind when I come to stand here, I will state at "

In Hardy's Trial,(3) Mr Erstine, cross-examining a witness to the proceedings of an alleged seditions meeting "Then you were never at any of those meetings but in the character of a spy" - "As you call it so, I will take it so ' 'If you were not there as a spy, take any title you choose for your-self, and I will give you that 'L ('I Eyre: 'There should be no name given to a witness on his examination. He states what he went for, and in making observations on the evidence, you may give it any appellation you please, After a repetition of the practice, Mr Gibbs . "I am sorry to interrupt you, but your questions ought not to be accompanied with those sort of comments: they are the proper subjects of observation when the defence is made. The business of a cross-examination is to ask all sorts of acts to prove a nitness as closely you can; but it is not the object of a cross-examination to introduce that kind of periphrasis as you have just done "Mr Erskine: "But, on a crossexamination-Counsel are not called upon to be so exact as in an original examination; you are permitted to lead a witness;" L. C. J. Egre; "I think, it is so clear that the questions that are put are not to be loaded with all the observations that arise upon all the previous parts of the case; they tend so to distract the attention of every body, they load us in point of time so much; and that that is not the time for observation upon the character and situation of a witness is so apparent that as a rule of evidence it ought never to be departed from."

<sup>(1)</sup> Stephen's History of the Criminal Law of Finglan 1, vol. 3, pp. 425, 436. As auto offensive questions, v. 162, past.

<sup>(2) 33</sup> How, St. Cr., 237, 1910 (1824) (J) 24 How, M. Tr., 754 (1574).

"It is an established rule, as regards cross-examination, that a Counsel Questions has no right, even in order to detect or catch a witness in a falsity, falsely to lead or as assume or pretend that the witness had previously sworn or stated differently sume facts not proved to the fact, or that a matter had previously been proved when it had not. Indeed, if such attempts were tolerated, the English Bar would soon be debased below the most interior of society."(1)

A question which assumes a fact that may be in controversy is leading, when put on direct examination, because it affords the willing witness a suggestion of a fact which he might otherwise not have stated to the same effect Similarly, such a question may it may by implication put into which he never intended to testimony which is not his (2)

In the Parnell Commission's Proceeding, (3) the "Times" having charged the Irish Land League with complicity in crime and outrage, a constable testifying to outrages was cross-examined by the opponents as to his partisan employment by the "Times" in procuring its evidence . Mr. Lockwood : "How long have you been engaged in getting up the case for the 'Times?' Sir H. James : "What I object to is that Mr Lockwood, without having any foundation for it, should ask the witness How long have you been engaged in getting up the case for the 'Times.' Mr. Lockwood 'I will not argue with my learned friend as to the exact form of the question, but I submit that it is perfectly proper and regular If the man has not been engaged in getting up the case for the 'Times' he can say so ' Sir II James: "I submit that my learned friend has no right to put this question without foundation Counsel has no right to say 'When did you murder A. B ?' unless there is some foundation for the question. In this same way he has no right to ask 'How fong have you been engaged in getting up this case?' for it assumes the fact.'' President Hannen "I do not consider that Mr Lockwood was entitled to put the question in that form and to assume that the witness has been employed by the Times."

The Evidence Act gives a right to cross-examine witnesses called by the Co-defend-adverse party (4) One accused person therefore may cross-examine a witness accused called by another co-accused for his defence when the case of the second accused is adverse to that of the first (5) The section does not make special provision for the case of cross-examination by co-accused or co-defendants is, however, well settled that the evidence of one party cannot be received as evidence against another party unless the latter has had an opportunity of - It has been further held that all testing it by or cross-examination, is comevidence taken, that if all evidence is common mon and open t and that which is given by one party may be used for or against another party, the latter must have the right to cross-examine. The right therefore of a defendant (and a fortiori an accused) to cross-examine a co-defendant or co-accused is, according to the English cases, unconditional and not dependent upon the fact that the cases of the accused and co-accused are adverse, or the

<sup>(1)</sup> Joseph Chitty, Practice of the Law, 2nd

<sup>(2)</sup> Wigmore, Ev , § 780

<sup>(3) 19</sup>th Day, Times Rep. pt 5, p. 221. (4) Ram Chand v. Hand Sheeth, 21 C . 401 (1893), for the rule prior to the let, see & T Surroup Chander, 12 11, R., Cr., 75 (1889), cited in the last case Nee R. v. Parlat, & Co., & Lord v. Coless, 3 Drew., 222, 225

<sup>(5)</sup> Eam Chard v Hand Mau . 21 . . .

<sup>(6)</sup> then + then L. P. F. I. Car . ... (7) Led v. Coloud, 3 beauty 2"

there is an issue between the defendant and his co-defendant.(1) If a defendant may cross-examine a co-defendant's witnesses, à fortiori he may cross-examine his co-defendant if he gives evidence.(2)

Re-examination

The party who called the witness may, if he like, and if it be necessary, re-examine him. The re-examination must be confined to the explanation of matters arising in cross-examination. "The proper office of re-examination (which is often inartistically used as a sort of summary of all the things adverse to the cross-examining Counsel which may have been said by a witness during cross-examination) is by asking such questions as may be proper for that purpose, so as to draw forth an explanation of the meaning of the expressions used by the witness in cross-examination, if they be in themselves doubtful; and also of the motive or provocation which induced the witness to use those expressions; but, a re-examination may not go further and introduce matter new in itself and not suited to the purpose of explaining either the expressions or the motives of the witness "(3) So if the witness has admitted having made a former inconsistent statement, he may in re-examination explain his motives for so doing.(4) Even if inadmissible matters are introduced the right to reexamine upon them remains.(5) But as observed new facts or matters which related (6) If facts are called out on cross-examination which tend to impeach the integrity or character of the witness, he may, in re-examination, make explanation showing that such facts are consistent with his credibility as a witness although such testimony would be otherwise irrelevant (7) New matter may, however, be introduced by permission of the Court, in which case the adverse party may further cross-examine upon the matter.(8)

Cross ex amination of person called to produce a document.

A person summoned to produce a document does not become a witness by the mere fact that he produces it, and cannot be cross-examined unless and until he is called as a witness.

COMMENTARY.

Cross-examperson called to produce a

Any person may be summoned to produce a document without being summoned to give evidence; and any person summoned merely to produce a document shall I e deemed to have complied with the summons if he cause such document to be produced instead of attending personally to produce the same (9) This section is in accordance with the English practice by which if the witness he called under a subpana duces tecum merely for the purpose of producing a document, which either requires no proof or is to be identified by another witness, he need not be sworn, and, if unsworn, he cannot be cross-examined. (10)

<sup>(1)</sup> Leed v. Colonial, 3 Drewery, 222, followed in Allen v. Allen, supra; the only other alternative which is, however, I ardly practicable, is to declare the evalence given not to be common to all the parties; see R. v. Surroop Chunder, 12 W. R., Cr., 75, sujra.

<sup>(2)</sup> Allen v. Allen, supra. 254

<sup>. (3)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 1474; Greenleaf, Fr , § 467 (4) P. v. Woods, 1 Cr. & D , 429. The Queen

case, 2 L & B., 297. (5) Blevett v. Terpenning, 3 A. & P., 556,

<sup>(6)</sup> Princyv. Samo, 7 A. & E. 627 : Burr

Jones, I'v., 876.

<sup>(7)</sup> Burr Jones, Er., § 875. So where a witness had stated that he came from fail it was held proper for the party calling him to ask on what charge he had been committed; State T. Exell. 41 Tex., 25 (Amer.).

<sup>(6)</sup> S. 138, no Taylor, Pr., 3 1477.

<sup>(9)</sup> Cr. Pr Code, O. XVI, r. 6, p. 100; Cr. Pr. Col., s. 91.

<sup>(10)</sup> Steph. Dig., Art 126; Summers v. Now. 19, 2 Cr. & 31. 477; Perry v. Colons, 1 A. & F. 84 Rush v. Smul. 1 C. M. & He. 981 Taylor.

When a person called only to produce a document is aworn as a witness by a mistake, and a question is put to him, which he does not answer, the opposite party is not entitled to cross-examine him.(1) In the case undermentioned (2) a witness was summoned to produce a document in Court in connection with a certain suit. He attended the Court, but did not produce the document, stating on eath that it was not in his possession. But this statement was dishelieved, and the Court fined him Rs. 75, under section 174 of the former Code of Civil Procedure (Act XIV of 1882). Held, that the fine was illegally levied. The jurisdiction of the Court to punish under section 174 of that Code existed only in the case of a witness, who not having attended on summons, has been arrested and brought before the Court. Under the corresponding provisions of the present Code of Civil Procedure (O. XVI, rr 17, 18), the rules apply to any one who having attended in compliance with a summons departs without lawful excuse or refuses to produce a document.(3)

The case of a witness who having a document will not produce it, is provided for by section 175 of the Indian Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860) and section 480 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Act V tof 1898). Where a witness denies on oath that he has the possession or means of producing a particular document, he can, if he has been guilty of falsehood, be prosecuted forgiving false evidence in a judicial proceeding.

140. Witnesses to character may be cross-examined and Witnesses re-examined.

COMMENTARY.

According to English practice it is not usual to cross-examine, except under Witnesses special circumstances, witnesses called merely to speak to the character of a tocharacter; but there is no rule which forbids the cross-examination of such witnesses,(4)

- 141. Any question suggesting the answer which the person Leading putting it wishes or expects to receive is called a leading questions.
- 142. Leading questions must not, if objected to by the when they adverse party, be asked in an examination-in-chief or in re-asked.

  examination, except with the permission of the Court.

The Court shall permit leading questions as to matters which are introductory or undisputed, or which have, in its opinion, been already sufficiently proved.

143. Leading questions may be asked in cross-examina-when they may be tion.

Principle.—Leading questions in examination or re-examination are generally improper, as the witness is presumed to be biassed in favour of the Fr., § 1429. That the other side cannot in "t" upon the person called bring sworn: see Davis

v. Dak, M. & M., 514; E. v. Hardis, il., 515;

Eman v. Vosig. Posil, P. C., 5364.

"Taylor, Fr., § 1429.

Evans v. Mosely, 2 Dowl., P. C., 384.
(1) Rush v. Smith, 1 C. M. & R., 94.

party examining him and might thus be prompted. In cross-examination as the reason generally ceases so does the rule. See notes post.

Tavlor, Ev., §§ 1404, 1405; Greenleaf, Ev., § 434; Burr Jones, §§ 815; Best, Ev., §§ 641, 642, 643; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., p. 443; et seq.; Norton, Ev., 325; Starkie, Ev., 167 : Alison's Practice of the Criminal Law, 546 : Wigmore, Ev., $ 769, et sen.

COMMENTARY.

Leading questions.

"A question," says Bentham, "is a leading one, when it indicates to the witness the real or supposed fact which the examiner expects and desires to have confirmed by the answer Is not your name so and so ? Do you reside in such a place? Are you not in the service of such and such a person? Have you not lived so many years with him ? It is clear that under this form every sort of information may be conveyed to the witness in disguise. It may be used to prepare him to give the desired answers to the questions about to be put to him, the examiner-while he pretends ignorance and is asking for information, is in reality giving instead of receiving it."(1) It has often been declared that a question is objectionable as leading which embodies a material fact and admits of answer by a simple affirmative or negative.(2) While it is true that a question which may be answered by 'Yes' or 'No' is generally leading, there may be such questions which in no way suggest the answer desired and to which there is no real objection. On the other hand, leading questions are by no means hmited to those which may be answered by 'Yes' or 'No.' A question proposed to a witness in the form whether or not, that is, in the alternative, is not necessarily leading. But it may be so, when proposed in that form, if it is so framed as to suggest to the witness the answer desired.(3) It would answer no practical purpose to cite the numerous decisions which determine whether particular questions are leading or not, as each case as it arises must be determined with reference to its own particular circumstances and to the definition contained in this section, namely, that a question is leading which suggests to the witness the answer which he is to make, or which puts into his mouth words which he as to echo back "Leading" is a relative not an absolute term There is no such thing as "leading" in the abstract-for the identical form of question which would be leading of the grossest kind in one case or state of facts, might be not only unobjectionable, but the very fittest mode of interrogation in another (4) If a question merely suggests a subject without suggesting an answer or a specific thing it is not leading. A question is proper which merely directs the attention of the witness to the subject respecting which he is questioned (5) It follows from the broad and flexible character of the controlling principle that its application is to be left to the discretion of the trial Court (b)

In examina examina tion.

Leading questions are here generally improper because a witness is pretion in chief and re sumed to be biassed in favour of the party calling him, who, knowing exactly what the former can prove, might prompt him to give only favourable answers.

(I) Bentlam's Rationale of Judicial Pridence. Thus also a witness unlied to prove that A stole a watch from B's shop, must not be asked, "Pul you see A enter B's shop and take a match ? The proper inquiry is, What he saw A do at the time and place in question ; Phipson, Er., 3rd Pd., 413. "A question shall not be as propounded to a witness as to indicate the answer desired," per McLosa, J., in U. S. v.

<sup>(2)</sup> See Taylor, Ev., § 1401, Greenleaf, Ec., 474 6

<sup>(3)</sup> Burr Jones, Pr., § 815 ; Best, Er., § 841. (4) Brat, Ev., § 841.

<sup>(5)</sup> Ib.; Nicholla v. Doordsay, I Stark. F .. 81. "It is necessary to ascertain extent to lead the mind of the witness to the salfect of the enquiry," per Lord Filenborough. (6) Higmore, Ev., 1 770.

Such evidence would obviously be open to suspicion as being rather the prearranged version of the party than the spontaneous narrative of the witness (1) The section says "if not objected to by the adverse party." In practice, leading questions are often allowed to pass without objection, sometimes by express, and sometimes by tacit consent. This latter occurs where the questions relate to matters which, though strictly speaking in issue, the examiner is aware are not meant to be contested by the other side; or where the opposing Counsel does not think it worth his while to object. On the other hand, however, very unfounded objections are constantly taken on this ground.(2) If the objection is not taken at the time, the answer will have been taken down in the Judge's notes, and it will be too late to object afterwards on the score of its having been elicited by a leading question. Sometimes the Judge himself will interfere to prevent leading questions being put; but it is the duty of the opposing Counsel to take the objection, and (except in cases where as abovementioned the objection is advisedly not taken) it is only through want of practical skill that the omission occurs. At " evidence is elicited by a series of le evidence is entered by a series of the evidence so obtained is very muc cept where permissible, not to put such questions, whether it be likely that objection be taken to them or not.(3) The proper way to exclude evidence obtained by leading questions is to disallow the questions.(4) A Judge is not bound to reject an interrogatory and answer merely because the question is a leading one, but may exercise a discretion as to excluding or admitting the whole or part of the answer obtained by the leading questions (5) And the course followed in this case where the Judge caused part of the interrogatory and part of the answer to be suppressed, and the remainder, which appeared not affected by the context, to be read in evidence, was held to be correct.

As, however, the rule is merely intended to prevent the examination from being conducted unfairly, (6) the rule is subject to three specific exceptions mentioned in this section and in section 154. These exceptions are:—

(1). Introductory and undisputed or sufficiently established matter.—The and must therefore not be applied itroductory to that which is mateoach the points at issue by leading nveniently protracted. To abridge

the proceedings and bring the witness as soon as possible to the material points on which he is to speak, the examiner may lead him on to that point and may recapitulate to him the acknowledged facts of the case which have been already established.(7)

(2). Adverse coinces —A witness who proves to be adverse to the party calling him may in the discretion of the Court be led, or rather, crossexamined. (8)

<sup>(1)</sup> Phipson, Ev , 3rd Ed., 443 esting Best, Ev., § 641.

<sup>(2)</sup> Best, Er., § 641 ; v. poet.

<sup>(3)</sup> Norton, Fr., 325. It is often useful, in place of pressing the objection or when the objection is orceruled, to ask that the question appears upon the notes when the value of the assure will become appears to the Appellate Court before which the case may aram come for trial mail, 12 W. R., Cr., 3 (1862); a witness when under examination-m-chief before the Court of Session should not have his attention directed to his deposition before the Magistrate; R. v. Rom Chander, 13 W. R., Cr., 18 (1870).

<sup>(4)</sup> Tukeyn Rai v. Tupner Korr, 15 W R., Cr., 23, 24 (1871); see observations in R. v. Bisko.

<sup>(5)</sup> Small v. Naire, 13 Q R , 840 (1449).

<sup>(6)</sup> See P. v. Ablallal, 7 A., 385, 397 (1885). "The objection to leading questions is not that they are absolutely illegal, but only that they are unfair," per Petheram, C. J.

<sup>(7)</sup> Trylor, Ev., § 1404, a, 142, (8) S. 154, post, Best, Er., § 642.

<sup>. . . . . .</sup>

the bankruptcy list and would appear in the next Gazette," a witness who had only proved the first two expressions was allowed to be asked, "Was anything said about the Gazette?"(1) Upon a similar principle the Court demonstrates allow a pointed or leading question to be put to a witness of tender years whose attention cannot otherwise be called to the matter under investigation (2)

. (d). Complicated matters—The rule will also be relaxed where the inability of a witness to answer questions put in the regular way arises from the complicated nature of the matter as to which he is interrogated (3)

The above instances are mentioned as those in which the rule is generally and commonly relaxed, but it will be remembered that the Court has a wide discretion to allow leading questions, not only in these but in any other cases in which justice or convenience requires that they should be put As already observed, very unfounded objections are constantly taken on this ground. In the case undermentioned, in which it was held that prime face evidence of a partnership having been given, the declaration of one partner is evidence against another partner; a witness, called to prove that it and B were partners, was asked whether it had interfered in the business of B, and it was held not subject of enquiry In general no objections are more frivolous than those which are made to questions as leading ones "(4)

As soon as the witness has been conducted to the material portion of his examination, as soon as the time and place of the scene of action have been fixed, "it is generally the easiest course, to desire the witness to give his own account of the matter, making him omit, as he goes along, an account of what he had heard from others, which he always supposes to be quite as material as that which he himself has seen If a vulgar, ignorant witness be not allowed to tell his story in his own way, he becomes embarrassed and confused, and mixes up distinct branches of his testimony. He always takes it for granted that the Court and the Jury know as much of the matter as he does himself, because it has been the common topic of conversation in his own neighbourhood; and, therefore, his attention cannot easily be drawn so as to answer particular questions, without putting them in the most direct form. It is difficult, therefore, to extract the important parts of his evidence piecemeal, but if his attention be first drawn to the transaction by asking him when and where it happened, and he be told to describe it from the beginning, he will generally proceed in his own way to detail all the facts in the order of time (5) So also Mr. Alison savs(6)-" It is often a convenient way of examining to ask a witness whether such a thing was said or done, because the thing mentioned aids his recollection, and brings him to that state of the proceeding on which it is desired that he should dilate. But this is not always fair; and when any subject is approached on which his evidence is expected to be really important, the proper course is to ask him what was done, or what was said, or to tell his own story. In this way, also, if the witness is at all intelligent, a more consistent and intelligible statement will generally be got than by putting separate questions; for the witnesses generally think over the subjects on which they are to be examined in criminal cases so often, or they have narrated them so frequently to others, that they go on much more fluently and distinctly, when allowed to

(8)

Nicholla v. Dowderg, 1 Stark., 81, Rest, Er., § 641.

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor Ev. $ 1405.

Nacholls v. Dowling, I Stark, R., 81.
 Stark., Ev., 167.

<sup>(6)</sup> Practice of the Criminal Law, Scotland,

Such evidence would obviously be open to suspicion as being rather the prearranged version of the party than the spontaneous narrative of the witness.(1) The section says "if not objected to by the adverse party." In practice, leading questions are often allowed to pass without objection, sometimes by express. and sometimes by tacit consent. This latter occurs where the questions relate to matters which, though strictly speaking in issue, the examiner is aware are not meant to be contested by the other side; or where the opposing Counsel does not think it worth his while to object. On the other hand, however, very unfounded objections are constantly taken on this ground.(2). If the objection is not taken at the time, the answer will have been taken down in the Judge's notes, and it will be too late to object afterwards on the score of its having been elicited by a leading question. Sometimes the Judge himself will interfere to prevent leading questions being put; but it is the duty of the opposing Counsel to take the objection, and (except in cases where as abovementioned the objection is advisedly not taken) it is only through want of practical skill that the omission occurs At the same time it is to be observed that if the evidence is elicited by a series of leading questions unobjected to, the effect of evidence so obtained is very much weakened. It is advisable, therefore, except where permissible, not to put such questions, whether it be likely that obsection be taken to them or not (3) The proper way to exclude evidence obtained by leading questions is to disallow the questions.(4) A Judge is not bound to reject an interrogatory and answer merely because the question is a leading one, but may exercise a discretion as to excluding or admitting the whole or part of the answer obtained by the leading questions.(5) And the course followed in this case where the Judge caused part of the interrogatory and part of the answer to be suppressed, and the remainder, which appeared not affected by the context, to be read in evidence, was held to be correct.

As, however, the rule is merely intended to prevent the examination from being conducted unfairly, (6) the rule is subject to three specific exceptions mentioned in this section and in section 154. These exceptions are:—

(1). Introductory and undisputed or sufficiently established matter.—The rule must be enforced in a reasonable sense, and must therefore not be applied to that part of the examination which is introductory to that which is material. If indeed it were not allowed to approach the points at issue by leading questions, examinations would be most inconveniently protracted. To abridge the proceedings and bring the witness as soon as possible to the material points on which he is to speak, the examiner may lead him on to that point and may recapitulate to him the acknowledged facts of the case which have been already established (7).

(2). Adverse veitness —A witness who proves to be adverse to the party calling him may in the discretion of the Court be led, or rather, cross-examined.(8)

<sup>(1)</sup> Phipson, Er., 3rd Fd., 443 citing Best. Ev., § 651.

<sup>(2)</sup> Best, Ev., $ 641 ; v. post.

<sup>(3)</sup> Norton, Fv., 325 It is often useful, in place of pressing the objection or when the objection is overfuel, to ask that the question appears upon the notes when the value of the answer will become apparent to the Appellate Court before which the case may arain come for trial.

(4) Tubeys Rai v. Tuptee Kuer, 15 W R., Cr., math, 12 W. R., Cr., 3 (1809); a witness when under examination in chief before the Court of Session should not have his attention directed to his deposition before the Magistrate; R. v. Ram Chander, 13 W. R., Cr., 18 (1870).

<sup>(5)</sup> Small v. Vaier, 13 Q. R., 810 (1849).
(6) See P. v. Ab-lallah, 7 A., 355, 397 (1881)
"The objection to leading questions is not that they are absolutely illegal, but only that they are unfair," per Petheram, C. J.

<sup>(7)</sup> T. ylor, Er., § 1404, s, 142.

the bankruptcy list and would appear in the next Gazette," a witness who had only proved the first two expressions was allowed to be asked, "Was anything said about the Gazette?"(1) Upon a similar principle the Court will sometimes allow a pointed or leading question to be put to a witness of tender years whose attention cannot otherwise be called to the matter under investigation (2)

. (d). Complicated matters.—The rule will also be relaxed where the inability of a witness to answer questions put in the regular way arises from the complicated nature of the matter as to which he is interrogated (3)

The above instances are mentioned as those in which the rule is generally and commonly relaxed, but it will be remembered that the Court has a wide discretion to allow leading questions, not only in these but in any other cases in which justice or convenience requires that they should be put As already observed, very unfounded objections are constantly taken on this ground. In the case undermentioned, in which it was held that primal facte evidence of a partnership having been given, the declaration of one partner is evidence against another partner, a witness, called to prove that A and B were partners, was asked whether A had interfered in the business of B, and it was held not to be a leading question, Lord Ellenborough observing as follows:—"I wish that objections to questions as leading might be a little hetter considered before they are made It is necessary to a certain extent to lead the mind of the vatiness to the subject of enquiry. In general no objections are more frivolous than those which are made to questions as leading ones "(4)

As soon as the witness has been conducted to the material portion of his examination, as soon as the time and place of the scene of action have been fixed, "it is generally the easiest course, to desire the witness to give his own account of the matter, making him omit, as he goes along, an account of what he had heard from others, which he always supposes to be quite as material as that which he himself has seen If a vulgar, ignorant witness be not allowed to tell his story in his own way, he becomes embarrassed and confused, and mixes up distinct branches of his testimony. He always takes it for granted that the Court and the Jury know as much of the matter as he does himself, because it has been the common topic of conversation in his own neighbourhood. and, therefore, his attention cannot easily be drawn so as to answer particular questions, without putting them in the most direct form. It is difficult, therefore, to extract the important parts of his evidence piecemeal, but if his attention be first drawn to the transaction by asking him when and where it happened, and he be told to describe it from the beginning, he will generally proceed in his own way to detail all the facts in the order of time (5) So also Mr Alison savs(6)-" It is often a convenient way of examining to ask a witness whether such a thing was said or done, because the thing mentioned aids his recollection, and brings him to that state of the proceeding on which it is desired that he should dilate But this is not always fair, and when any subject is approached on which his evidence is expected to be really important, the proper course is to ask him what was done, or what was said, or to tell his own story, In this way, also, if the witness is at all intelligent, a more consistent and intelligible statement will generally be got than by putting separate questions; for the witnesses generally think over the subjects on which they are to be examined in criminal cases so often, or they have narrated them so frequently to others, that they go on much more fluently and distinctly, when allowed to

<sup>(1)</sup> Nutralis v. Douding, 1 Stark., 81, Best, Ev., § 641.

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor Ev., § 1405.

<sup>(3)</sup> Best, Fr., § 642

<sup>(4)</sup> Nicholls v. Doseding, I Stark, R., 81.
(5) Stark., Ev., 167.

<sup>(6)</sup> Practice of the Criminal Law, Scotland, 545.

follow the current of their own ideas, than when they are at every moment interrupted or diverted by the examining counsel."

Cross exa

It has always been an admitted rule that leading questions may in general be asked in cross-examination. But there are some circumstances in which leading questions ought not to be put even in cross-examination. For though leading questions may (perhaps in England and certainly under the terms of this section) in strictness be put in cross-examination, whether the witness be favourable to the cross-examiner or not, yet where a vehement desire is betrayed to serve the interrogator, it is certainly improper and greatly lessens the value of the evidence to put the very words into the mouth of the witness which he is expected to echo back.(1) It is also to be remembered that questions which assume facts to have been proved, which have not been proved, or that particular answers have been given, which have not been given, will not, as being an attempt to mislead the witness, be at any time, or on any examination, permitted.(2)

Evidence as

144. Any witness may be asked, whilst under examinato matters in writing. tion, whether any contract, grant or other disposition of property as to which he is giving evidence was not contained in a document, and if he says that it was, or if he is about to make any statement as to the contents of any document, which, in the opinion of the Court, ought to be produced, the adverse party may object to such evidence being given until such document is produced, or until facts have been proved which entitle the party who called the witness to give secondary evidence of it.

> Explanation .- A witness may give oral evidence of statements made by other persons about the contents of documents if such statements are in themselves relevant facts.

Illustration.

The question is, whether A assaulted B.

C deposes that he heard Assay to D-'B wrote a letter accusing me of theft, and I will be revenged on him.' This statement is relevant, as showing A's motive for the assault, and evidence may be given of it, though no other evidence is given about the letter.

Principle -See Note, post.

s. 3 (" Document.") s. 3 (" Court.")

88. 91, 92 (Exclusion of oral evidence in case of documents)

COMMENTARY.

Matters in

This section merely points out the manner in which the provisions of sections 91 and 92, ante, as to the exclusion of oral by documentary evidence may be enforced by the parties to the suit.(1) If the adverse party do not object riminal trials,(2) to prevent [and he may also in duction of inadmissible evidence notwithstand-

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, Er., ff 1401, 1431. See antes to (1) Phipson br . 3el Ed 452, 453; Taylor, s. 138, ante, Wigmore, Er., 5 771. Ev., § 1431.

145. A witness may be cross-examined as to previous of statements made by him in writing or reduced into writing, and relevant to matters in question, (5) without such writing statements when the writing the statements and relevant to matters in question, (5) without such writing the writing the statements are considered. being shown to him, or being proved; but if it is intended to contradict him by the writing, his attention must, before the writing can be proved, be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him.

Principle -The furnishing of a test by which the memory and integrity of a witness can be tried. See Note, post.

> s. 155, Cl. (3) (Previous verbal statements.) Taylor, Ev., §§ 1146-1451; Wharton, Ev., §§ 531, 68,

COMMENTARY.

This rule is in the nature of an exception to the general principle forbid-Previous ding all use of the contents of a written instrument until the instrument itself statements be produced The section re-enacts the provisions of Act II of 1855,(6) and is nearly the same as section 24 of the Common Law Procedure Act of 1854.(7) which altered the rule laid down in The Queen's case, (8) namely, that the crossexamining party was obliged, when the statement was in writing, to show it to the witness and afterwards put it in as his own evidence; a rule which it has been remarked(9) excluded one of the best tests by which the memory and integrity of a witness can be tried, it being clear that if the object of the crossexamination was to test the witness's memory this would be entirely frustrated by reading out the document to him before asking him any question about it.

The section says-" may be cross-examined." A witness when under mamination-in-chief before the Court of Session should not have his attention directed to his deposition before the Magistrate (10) The section does not say that the writing must be shown before the cross-examination, but that if it is intended to put in such writing to contradict a witness, his attention must be called to those parts which are to be used for the purpose of so contradicting him. That is, not that he is to be allowed to study his former statement and frame his answers accordingly, but that, if his answers have differed from his previous statements reduced to writing, and the contradiction is intended to be used as evidence in the case, the witness must be allowed an opportunity of

<sup>(1)</sup> Cunningham, Ev., note to a 141, see contained the following proviso, riz. The Queen's Case, B & B., 292.

<sup>(2)</sup> Cr. Pr Code, # 298.

<sup>(3)</sup> v. sate, pp 130, 131.

<sup>(4)</sup> Field, Fr , 637.

<sup>(5)</sup> See for a recent example Oriental Government, etc., Co., Ld. v. Naranmba Chart, 25 M . 183, 210 (1901).

<sup>(6)</sup> See R. v. Ram Chunder, 13 W. E., Cr., 18 (1870); Tukkeya Ros v. Tupers Koer, 15 W. R.,

Cr , 23 (1871). (7) 17 & 18 Vic., Cap 123, which, however, vided always that it shall be competent for the Judge, at any time during the trial, to require the production of the writing for his inspection, and he may thereupon make such use of it for the purposes of the trial as he shall think ft."

This proviso, is however, sutstantially contained in s, 165, post , Fall, Er., 637 (8) 2 B & B., 280.

<sup>(9)</sup> Taylor, Ev . 5 1447.

<sup>(10)</sup> R v. Pom Churder, 13 W. R., Cr., 18 (1870).

explaining or reconciling his statements, if he can do so; and if this opportunity is not given to him the contradictory writing cannot be placed on the record as evidence (1). The previous statement must be really those of the wilness. So where A was employed by B to write up B's account-books, B furnishing him with the necessary information either orally or from loos memoranda, it was held that the entrees so made could not be given in evidence to contradict A, as previous statements made by him in writing, the statements being really made not by A but by B, under whose instructions A had written them (2)

The section applies to both criminal and civil eases; and its provisions are therefore applicable at trials before the Court of Session to depositions taken before the committing Magistrate.(3) In the undermentioned ca-c(4) one of the witnesses for the prosecution was asked if he had made a certain statement before the Magistrate; but Wilson, J. held that it was unprecessing to ask this question, as the depositions should what the witness had said before the Magnetrate and added that the attention of the jury might be called to differences in the witness's statement without putting in his previous deposition. But the correctness of this ruling has been doubted(5) and recently overruled.(6) it being held that if it is intended to contradict a witness by his previous depositions, such passages of it as are used for this purpose should be put to the witness and tendered in evidence, though this (7) as has been already pointed out, was held by the Calcutta and Bombay High Courts under the Code of 1882 to gue to the pro-centor no right of reply. The Judge himself should compute the statements of the witnesses recorded by the Magistrate with the evidence of the same witnesses at the Sessions, with a view to put questions in crossesaminution, the answers to which may perhaps clear up discrepancies or possibly eliest facts favourable to the prisoners (8) A Judge is bound to put to the witnesses whom he proposes to contradict by their statements made before the committing Magistrate, the whole or such portion of their depositions as he intends to rely upon in his decision, so as to afford them an opportunity of erplaining their meaning or denying that they had made any such statements, and so forth (9) 'The depositions taken by the committing Magistrate are always sent up and are with the Sessions Judge during the trial. The accused can, if he wishes, have a copy of these depositions (10) He or his counsel or pleader can therefore inform himself of what the nitnesses said before the Magustrate, and is in a position to question any natness who varies in the Court of Session from his former statement. The Sessions Judge ought, if asked, to allow the original deposition to be used for this purpose. Where the Sessions Judge himself noticed the discrepancy, and it was material, there can be little doubt that in using the original deposition for the same purpose himself be would be acting wholly within the scope of his duty as indicated by the provisions of the Evidence Act and of the Code of Criminal Procedure. (11) Although previous statements made by untnesses may be used under this section, for the purpose of contradicting statements made by them subsequently at the trial of an accused person, they cannot, if they have been made in the absence of the accused, he treated as independent evidence of his guilt or innocence;

<sup>(1)</sup> Tulkeye Fir v Tapore Korr, 15 H F fr , 27, 24 (1971)

<sup>(2)</sup> Muncherstan Beronn v. The Sen Illu-

<sup>(1)</sup> F. S. Fr., 837
(4) E. v. Hen Cherge, A.C. L. B., 340 (1840)

<sup>(5)</sup> Fr11, Fr., 840

<sup>(6)</sup> R v. Lieuw Relmes, 31 C., 147; 6 C. W., N., eeh (1902), F. B

Inte, p. 624.
 R. v. Readohn Burres, 5 M. P. 47, 56

<sup>(9)</sup> R v. Inch Salon, T.A., 882 (3845)

<sup>110)</sup> See I'r. Dy. Cale, e. 814.

<sup>111)</sup> Field, Fen, 840. See charrations in F. v. Aryan Mopla, to Ross, N. C. P., 201, 702 11571).

nor will section 288 of the Criminal Procedure Code avail anything for this purpose.(1)

In England the settled practice in Criminal Courts is now as follows: A witness may be cross-examined as to what he said before the Magistrate, the Counsel cross-examining may show the witness the deposition and ask him whether he still adheres to the statement he made, without the Counsel reading the deposition or putting it in evidence, but he is then bound by the answer of the witness unless the deposition is put in to contradict him, and it is not admissible to state that the deposition does contradict him unless if is so put in (2)

A police-officer cannot by inserting in the special diary statements which can only have been made to him under section 161 of the Criminal Procedure Code, protect such statements from being used in the way that the law allows, eg, under sections 145 and 159 of this Act (3) "If a police-diary is used by the officer who made it to refresh his memory, or if the Court uses it for the purpose of contradicting such police-officer, the provisions of section 161 or 145 of this Act, as the case may be, shall apply (4)

If the special diary is used by the Court to contradict the police-officer who made it, the accused person or his agent has a right to see that portion of the diary which has been referred to for this purpose. That is to say, the particular entry which has been referred to and so much of the diary as is necessary to the full understanding of the particular entry so made but no more.(5)

The Act is silent upon the case where the document has been lost or destroyed, and upon the question whether in these or in any other cases a copy can be used instead of the originals It has, however, been stated that in such the contents of the paper, not-were material to the issue, he evidence In such a case the cross-examining party may interpose evidence out of his turn to prove the events such as loss, &c , relating to the document and to furnish secondary evidence thereof (6)

The section only relates to previous statements made in, or reduced into, writing. If, however, the previous statement has been verbal and not reduced to writing, it may also be proved to impeach the witness's credit if such former statement be inconsistent with any part of the witness's evidence which is hable to be contradicted (7) The Act makes no express provision to the effect that the witness's attention must first be drawn to the previous verbal statement and the witness asked whether he made such a statement before his credit can be impeached by independent evidence; but there can be little doubt that here also circumstances of such previous statement, sufficient to designate the particular occasion, ought to be mentioned to the witness and he ought to be asked whether or not he made such a statement.(8)

"The decisions upon the question, whether or not a party is entitled to Inspection see a document which has been shown to one of his witnesses while under cross-shown to examination by his opponent, are somewhat conflicting On the whole, how-witness. ever, the practice seems to be, that if the cross-examining Counsel, after putting

<sup>(1)</sup> Himuddin v R., 23 C., 361 (1895). (2) R. v Riley, 1866, 4 F. & F. 964 R v Wrajat, 1866, 4 F. & F., 967 . Taylor, 48 1449-

<sup>(3)</sup> Shern Sta v. H. 20 C., 642, 649 (1893) contra, R v. Manau, 19 A., 390 (1897) F B Bannetjee and Aikman, JJ , diseral

<sup>(4)</sup> Cr. Pr Code, s. 172; and see Dadas Gay v. R (1906), 33 Cal., 1023.

<sup>(5)</sup> R v. Manne, 19 A., 290 (1897) Sec also

as to police-diames . R v Jadah Das, & C. W N . 129 (1899)

<sup>(6)</sup> Taylor, Er., § 1447 (7) S. 155 cl (3), post

<sup>(8)</sup> Field, Er , 641, 642 are Taylor, Es., § 1451. and Corpenter v Wall, 3 P. & D., 457, where Patteson, J , said, "I like the broad rule that when you mean to give evalence of a witness's declaration, for any purpose, you shall ask him whether he ever used such expression."

a paper into the hands of a witness, merely asks himsome question as to its general nature or identity, his adversary will have no right to see the document; but that if the paper be used for the purpose of refreshing the memory of the witness, or if any questions be put respecting its contents, or as to the handwriting in which it is written, a sight of it may then be demanded by the opposite Counsel. But such opposing Counsel has no right to read such a document through, or to comment upon its contents, till so used or put in by the cross-examining counsel." [1]

Questions lawful in cross examination.

- 146. When a witness is cross-examined he may, in addition to the questions hereinbefore referred to, be asked any questions which tend—
  - (1) to test his veracity;
    - (2) to discover who he is and what is his position in life; or
    - (3) to shake his credit, by injuring his character, although the answer to such questions might tend directly or indirectly to criminate him or might expose or tend directly or indirectly to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture. (2)

When witness to be compelled to answer 147. If any such question relates to a matter relevant to the suit or proceeding, (3) the provisions of section 132 shall apply thereto. (4)

Court to de cide when questions shall be asked and when wit pess compelled to answer,

148. If any such question relates to a matter not relevant to the suit or proceeding, except in so far as it affects the credit of the witness by injuring his character, the Court shall decide whether or not the witness shall be compelled(5) to answer it, and may, if it thinks fit, warn the witness that he is not obliged to answer it. In exercising its discretion, the Court shall have regard to the following considerations:(6)

- (1) such questions are proper if they are of such a nature that the truth of the imputation conveyed by them would seriously affect the opinion of the Court as to the credibility of the witness on the matter to which he testifies:
- (2) such questions are improper if the imputation which they convey relates to matters so remote in time or of such a character that the truth of the imputation would not affect, or would affect in a slight

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Er., § 1452 (2) See P. v. Gopal Date, 3 M., 271, 274

<sup>(5)</sup> This means the same as relevant to a

<sup>(4)</sup> v. eb. (5) See un to mounting Maker Shitt v. R., 21

C , 392, 400 (1893). (6) See E, v. Gopul Phile, supra at p. 274

degree, the opinion of the Court as to the credibility of the witness on the matter to which he testifies:

- (3) such questions are improper if there is a great disproportion between the importance of the imputation made against the witness's character and the importance of his evidence:
- (4) the Court may, if it sees fit, draw, from the witness's refusal to answer, the interference that the answer if given would be unfavourable.

Principle —The credibility of the witness is always in issue, it being necessary to ascertain the value and weight to be attached to the media through which the proof is presented to the Court. But at the same time it is necessary to protect the witness against improper cross-examination.

ss. 137, 138 (Cross-examination.)
s. 132 (Incriminating questions.)

- ь. 3 (" Court.")
- s. 165, Prov. 2 (This section is binding upon Judge.)

O. R. 36, 38; Taylor, Ev. §§ 1426, 1427, 1426, 1427, 1445, 1459—1462; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 155—158; Markby Ev., 106, 107; Norton, Ev., 328; Field, Ev., 644; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1460—1467.

COMMENTARY.

Sections 132, 146-148, together embrace the whole range of questions questions in which can properly be addressed to a witness,(1) The words in section 146 constraint in addition to, &c, refer to the second paragraph of section 138, matter ante. In addition then to the questions which may be asked in crossexamination under the provisions of section 138, a witness may be further asked the questions mentioned in section 146, which latter section extends the power of cross-examination far beyond the limits of section 138, which in terms confines the cross-examination to relevant facts, including, of course, facts in issue. The language of section 146, coupled with that of sections 138-147, makes it appear as if the "additional facts spoken of in section 146 were considered as not relevant." But of course this cannot be the case. As is indicated in section 148, these facts are relevant as tending to show how far the witness is truetworthy, and the only object of classing these facts apart from other relevant facts is in order that special rules may be laid down as to when they may be contradicted and when a witness may be compelled to answer them.(2) The questions which may be put under the provisions of section 146 may relate to matters which are either directly relevant to the suit or relevant only as affecting the credibility of the witness. As a general rule, all questions as to facts relevant in the firstmentioned sense must be answered whether or not the answer will criminate the witness(3) and evidence will be admissible to contradict his answers. If, on the other hand, the facts to which the questions relate are relevant only as

R. v. Gopal Doss, S. M., 271, 278 (1881).
 Markby, Ev., 106. None but relevant questions can be asked, but relevancy is of a two-fold character; it may be directly relevant in its hearing on the very ments of the point in issue, or it may be relevant collaterally to the issue, as in the case of facts relating to the character of a winers, which are always relevant. Norton, Ev., 223. (3) Ss. 132, 147.

tending to impeach the witness's credit, it lies in the discretion of the Court to compel the witness to answer or not, dealing with the matter not under the rule contained in section 132 but under the provisions of sections 145—172. Evidence in such a case will not be admissible to contradict the answer when given, unless in the case provided for by the exceptions to section 135, posgiven, unless in the case provided for by the exceptions to section 135, pos-

No question respecting any fact irrelevant to the issue can be put to a sitness for the mere purpose of contradicting him, it being only with regail to relevant matters that a witness can be contradicted by proof of previous starments inconsistent with any part of his evidence (1). The provisions of sections 148—130, 133, are restricted to questions relating to facts which are relevant only in so far as they affect the credit of the witness by injuring his denote, whereas some of the additional questions enumerated in section 146 do not necessarily suggest any imputation on the witness's character. Nevertheless, it is believed to have been the intention of the Act, as also the practice, to consider all the questions covered by section 146 to be governed by the provisions of sections 148—130 and 153.(2)

Section 145, together with sections 149—152, was designed to protect the witness against improper cross-examination (v. post),(3). Sections 148, 149, are as binding upon the Judze as upon the parties,(4). Under the first-mentioned section, when a question is relevant only as affecting credit the Court Lis a discretion (for the exercise of which certain rules are Iaid down) as to compelling an answer, and section 153, post, enacts that where such a question has been answered the usual rule as to the inadmissibility of evidence to contained; an answer, to irrelevant questions shall apply save and except in two cases; but that if the witness answers falsely he may afterwards be charged with giving false evidence.

Under the first and second clauses of section 148, the fact asked must be such as if true would really and seriously affect the crelibility of the witness on the matter to which le testifies. The abuse of examination against which there clauses are directed is illustrated by the incident in the Tichborne case, where a witness an elderly man who was called to disprove the identity of the claimant with the real Roger Tichborne, was most improperly asked in cross-examination whether in early life he had not had an intrigue with a married woman-Questions respecting alleged improprieties of conduct, which furnish no real ground for assuming that a witness who could be guilty of them would not be a man of veracity, should be checked [5] "If a woman," says Sir J. F. Steplen in his lieneral View of the Criminal Law of England, "prosecuted a man for picking her pocket at would be monstrous to enquire whether she had not had an illegitimate child ten years before, though circumstances might exist which might render such an enquiry necessary For instance she might owe a grade to the person against whom the charge was brought on account of circumstances connected with such a transaction, and have invented the charge for this reason. (6) A Magistrate, it was held, should have disallowed upon the principle, embedied in this section, a question as to previous conviction thirty years o'd put to an intended surety on the ground that it related to matter so remote in the Harkler, Era Ice.

<sup>(1)</sup> v. sate, getes apon "emoceran mating" in s. 134, and post, s. 155, ct. (3)

<sup>(3)</sup> In Full, Ex., 644, it is east with reference to a. 14n. "If the witness, either of his war, and served or being compressed by the fourt, answer a question which to involve at or which is referred only in one far and affects become it, and it such question estimate him or expose him to protection aborded by a, 13% use. It would appear that he is not. Put it is sales red that the protecting about the extended to ank a case. Dec notes to a, 13% use.

<sup>(4) 5 165,</sup> port, Prov. (2)

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Fr., § 180. (C) See Nesser, Nevert, 20, A T., 227, 332 wast of chaotic or not abuse a ground for discrediting a witness, per his C. Creswell.

time that it ought not to influence his decision as to the fitness of such surety.(1) "Where the facts which form the subject of the question are comparatively recent, they are more important as bearing upon the moral principles of the witness than when they are of remote date, because a man may reform and become in later years incapable of conduct to which in earlier life he was prone. The interest of justice can seldom require that the errors of a man's life long since repented of, and forgiven by the community, should be recalled to remembrance at the pleasure of any future litigant."(2)

Third Clause declares it to be improper to make serious accusations against a witness who is called to prove some comparatively unimportant fact in the case. With reference to the jourth Clause, read Illustration (h), section 114, ante, and also the other matter which may be considered in connection with the same Illustration. It has been sometimes stated that if witness declines to answer, no inference of the truth of the fact can be drawn from this. But this general statement is open to question. It is going too far to say that the guilt of the witness must be implied from his silence, but it is in consonance with justice and reason that the Court should (as it indeed can scarcely help doing), consider that circumstance, as well as every other, when deciding on the credit due to the witness 30.

Where a party gave evidence in his own case, it was held by a majority of two out of three Judges that he might be asked, on cross-examination, with a view of testing his credit, whether an action had not previously been brought against him in respect of a similar claim, upon which he had given evidence, and the verdict of the pury was notwithstanding against him, and this, without producing the record of the proceedings in the previous case.(4)

But though as was done in the case last mentioned, evidence may be given of facts, as that the witness has brought or defended actions which have been dismissed or decreed against him. That the witness gave his evidence in such actions, that he made false charges and so forth: yet evidence of the particular opinion formed by a Judge in another case of the credit to be attached to the testimony of a witness who is cross-examined in a subsequent trial, is inadmissible [5]

No weight ought to be attached to the evidence of a witness, who himself deposes to his own turpitude.(6)

149. No such question as is referred to in section 148 question ought to be asked unless the person asking it has reasonable asked grounds for thinking that the imputation which it conveys, is reasonable section.

Illustrations

- (a) A barrister is instructed by an attorney or vakil that an important witness is a dàkàit. This is a reasonable ground for asking the witness whether he is a dàkàit.
- (b) A pleader is informed by a person in Court that an important witness is a dlakit; the informant, on being questioned by the pleader, gives satisfactory resons for his statement. This is reasonable ground for asking the witness whether he is a dlakit.
- (8) R v Ghalam Mustata, 26 %, 371 (1904), at p. 374
- (2) Taylor, Ev., § 1460
  - (3) Taylor, Fv., $ 1467.
  - (4) Henman v. Lester, 31 L. J., C. P., 366 (5) In to Passmarty Jappappa, 4 C. W. V.
  - (0) 12...., 7 ..., 7 10...
- (6) Ani Clauden v SAS Chanden, 6 R. L. R., S01, S07 (1870) , n c , 15 N , R., P. C., 12.
- 684, following Seamen v Arthredist, I., It., 2 C. P. D., 33, and distinguishing Herman v. Leder, supra.

(c) A witness, of whom nothing whatever is known, is asked at random whether he is dakait. There are here no reasonable grounds for the question.

(d) A witness, of whom nothing whatever is known, being questioned as to his mode of life and means of living, gives unsatisfactory answers. This may be a reasonable ground for asking him if he is a dakait.

Procedure of Court in cases of question being asked without reasonable grounds.

150. If the Court is of opinion that any such question was asked without reasonable ground, it may, if it was asked by any barrister, pleader, vakil or attorney, report the circumstances of the case to the High Court or other authority to which such barrister, pleader, vakil or attorney is subject in the exercise of his profession.

Indecent and scan questions.

151. The Court may forbid any questions or inquiries which it regards as indecent or scandalous, although such questions or inquiries may have some bearing on the questions before the Court, unless they relate to facts in issue, or to matters necessary to be known in order to determine whether or not the facts in issue existed.

Questions intended to insult or annov.

The Court shall forbid any question which appears to it to be intended to insult or annoy, or which, though proper in itself, appears to the Court needlessly offensive in form.

Principle - Ser Note, nor

z. 148 (Questions affecting credit.) a. 3 (" ( ourt.")

a. 3 (" Fact in issue.") s. 165 (Questions by Judge.)

Markby, Et , 107 , Steph. Dig., pp 159, 160; Taylor, Ev., § 949; Ponell, Er , 155, 156, and see authorities cited in last section, and in section 138, ante.

COMMENTARY.

Questions in cross inon

Sections 149-152 together with section 148, ante, were intended to proteet a witness against improper cross-examination-a protection which is often very much required. It has, however, been said that the protection afforded by section 148 is not very effectual, because an innocent man will be eager to answer the question, and one who is guilty will by a claim for protection nearly confess his guilt, and that the threats contained in sections 149, 150, do not carry the matter much further (1) These latter sections were substituted while the bill was in committee for certain other sections in the original draft to which much objection was taken and the discussion with reference to which will be found in the Proceedings in Council (2) Speaking of the substituted sections including sections 146-152, Sir J. I'. Stephen said :- "The object of these sections is to Ly down in the most distinct manner the duty of Counsel of all grades in examining witnesses with a view to shaking their credit by damaging their character. I trust that this explicit statement of the principles, according for wonts uttered in his offer as adversar, Jel.

(1) Markley, Fr . 107.

(2) See Proceedings of the Legislative Council. happlement to the Gardie of India, 3th March 1472, pp. 237, 234. Mah reference to se. 16% 150, it may be observed that an advarage cannot ......... a compat without the time or estimizable lines v. Austre, 10 M . 24 (tens). As fathers tent of the privilege of speech accorded to adverate, ove K. v. Kushersett Inchar, & Rom, H. C. R. Co., 142-146 (1971).

sufficient on many their substance is concerned, speak for themselves, and that they will be admitted to be sound by all honourable advocates and by the public." Section 165, post, further prohibits the Judge himself from asking any question which it would be improper for any other person to ask under section 148 or 149. But whatever doubts there may be as to the efficacy of sections 148-150, sections 151 and 152 ought to prove effectual. For in cases where it will be, for the reasons mentioned, of little use for the witness to decline to answer, the Judge may at once interpose and stop the question (1) With reference to section 151, it may be observed that "indecency of evidence is no objection to its being received where it is necessary to the decision of a civil or a criminal right "(2) The Court cannot forbid indecent or scandalous questions if they relate to facts in issue.(3) or to matters necessary to be known in order to determine whether or not the facts in issue existed. If they have, however, merely some bearing on the question before the Court, the latter has a discretion and may forbid them. Where a question is intended to insult or annoy or though proper in itself, appears to the Court needlessly offensive in form, the Court must interpose for the protection of the witness. See as to this, Notes to s. 138. ante.

When a witness has been asked and has answered Exclusion any question which is relevant to the inquiry only in so far as to contrar it tends to shake his credit by injuring his abstractor. any question when the credit by injuring his character, no evidence sweets it tends to shake his credit by injuring his character, no evidence sweets shall be given to contradict him; but, if he answers falsely, he testing vertexity may afterwards be charged with giving false evidence.

Exception 1 .- If a witness is asked whether he has been previously convicted of any crime and denies it, evidence may be given of his previous conviction.(4)

Exception 2.-If a witness is asked any question tending to impeach his impartiality and answers it by denying the facts suggested, he may be contradicted.(5)

Illustrations.

(a) A claim against an underwriter is resisted on the ground of fraud.

The claimant is asked whether, in a former transaction, he had not made a fraudulent claim. He denies it.

Evidence is offered to show that he did make such a claim.

The evidence is inadmissible.

(b) A witness is asked whether he was not dismissed from a situation for dishonesty. He denies it.

Evidence is offered to show that he was dismissed for dishonesty.

The evidence is not admissible.

(c) A affirms that on a certain day he saw B at Lahore.

A is asked whether he himself was not on that day at Calcutta. He denies it. Evidence is offered to show that A was on that day at Calcutta.

(1) Markby, Ev., 107.

(4) See 28 & 29 Vic., Cap. 18, § 1; Taylor, (2) Da Costa v. Jones, Cowp., 734; per Lord . Er., § 1437.

Manafield, Steph. Dig , pp. 159, 160; Taylor-Ev., § 949; Powell, Ev., 155, 156.

(5) See Att.-Gen. v. Hitchcock, 1 Ex., 93; Taylor, Ev., § 1442.

(3) See Rozario v. Ingles, 18 B., 468, 470 (1893).

The evidence is admissible, not as contradicting A on a fact which affects his credit, but as contradicting the alleged fact that B was seen on the day in question in Labore.(1)

In each of these cases the witness might, if his denial was false, be charged with giving false evidence.

(d) A is asked whether has family has not had a blood fend with the family of B against whom he gives evidence. He demes it He may be contradicted on the ground that the question tends to impeach his impartiality.

Principle -The reason of this rule, which restricts the right to give evidence in contraduction, is that it is an object of primary importance to confine the attention of the Court as much as possible to the specific issues. Without some rule so many collateral questions of fact might be raised in the course of a long trial that the specific questions to be determined might be lost sight of and the trial itself inordinately lengthened (2) The exceptions refer to two matters which are easily susceptible of proof and are so important as to strike at the very proof of the witness's trustworthiness, while no great expenditure of time need be involved in ascertaining how the facts stand (3)

4 146 (Questions to credit.)

Taylor, Ev , 55 1436, 1437, 1439, 1440-1442, 1444, 1490 , Stewart Rapalje's Law of Witness, $\ 208 -210 . Markby, Ev , 108 . Roscoe, N.-P Ev., 182; Steph. Dig., Art. 130 , Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 90, 91, Norton, Ev., 332.

COMMENTARY. Where a fact which is relevant as having a direct bearing on the issue is denied by a witness, it may of course be proved allunde, and his answer may thus be contradicted by independent evidence (4) So the statement of a witness for the defence that a witness for the prosecution was at a particular place at a particular time and consequently could not then have been at another place, where the latter states he was and saw the accused person, is properly admissible in evidence, even though the witness for the prosecution may not himself have been tross-examined on the point (5) But where the fact inquired after is only collaterally relevant to the issue, as is the case with the character of the witness, Counsel must be content with the answer which the witness chooses to give him. If he denies the imputation the answer is conclusive for the purposes of the suit (6) the matter cannot be carried further at the trial except in the two cases provided by this section, which, however, does not appear to be very accurately expressed, as there is at least one other common case where > him for it To this general rule there are, however, as already observed, two exceptions contained in the above section and taken from English law. The rule lumiting the right to call evidence to contradict witnesses on collateral questions excludes all evidence of facts which are incapable of affording any > the natures may be contradicted (see section 155, post). The only redress which a party has is to charge the witness with giving false evidence, and to try

(1) See R . Saklaram Hulundje, Il Bom. H. C R., 160, 169 (1874). (2) Kari Chalam v Ara Lhan, 8 Bom. H C.

21., 93, 96 (1869); Taylor, Fr., 5 1439 (3) Cunningham, Ev., § 153

(4) For Illustration (c) and Taylor, Fr., $ 1478. where the rule is stated to be that :- "if the unestions relate to relevant facts the answers may be contradicted; if too irrelevant they cannot, and enquiries respecting the previous conduct of a natures will almost invertably be regarded as my levant, if not connected with the cause or the parties," In Field, Er., $14, it ts said, "The Act does not lay down this rule in so many words; Int its prosisions as to relevancy and other matters necessarily lavely this rate." The express provisions of a. 3, date, however, renders unneversary this recourse to an implied rule ; see a. 155, post, 15) R. v. Salkarom Hulundis, 11 flore St. C. 21... 168 (1874).

(8) Are Illustrations (a) and (6).

Exclusion of evidence to contra diet reasonable presumption or inference as to the principal matter in dispute; the test being whether the fact is one which the party proposing to contraduct would have been allowed himself to prove in evidence (1) "The object of section 153 is to prevent trials being spun out to an unreasonable length If every answer given by a witness upon the additional facts mentioned in section 146 could be made the subject of fresh inquiry a trial might never end. These matters are after all not of the first importance beyond what is comprised in the exceptions." (2)

Under the terms of the first Exception above referred to when a witness denies that he has been previously convicted his previous conviction may always be put in to refute him (3) Section 511 of the Criminal Procedure Code declares the manner in which the previous conviction may be proved in an enquiry, trial or other proceeding under that Code. In the absence of any special provision the only medium of proof is the record of conviction.(4)

Whether the evidence referred to in the second Exception can be given has slature has here answered the in matter which was laid down v. Hitchcock.(5) Facts showing that the witness has been bilined, to has suborned other witnesses, has expressed hostility and the like can be shown, if the witness denies them (7)

The distinction made between cases coming within the section and those within the second Exception is exemplated in the undermentioned case [8]. There a person named Yewin was indicted for stealing wheat. The principal witness against him was a boy of the name of Thomas, his apprentice. The Judge allowed the prisoner's Counsel to ask Thomas in cross-examination whether he had not been charged with robbing his master, and whether he had not afterwards said he would be revenged on him and would soon fix him in Monmouth goal? He denied both The prisoner's Counsel then proposed to prove that he had been charged with robbing his master and had spoken the words imputed to him. The Court ruled that his answer must be taken as to the former; but that as the words were material to the guilt or innocence of the prisoner, evidence might be adduced that they were spoken by the witness.

Care must be taken to distinguish between that contradiction of answers rally disallowed and contradiction of answers.

In the latter case such answers may always e been given by the party's own witness, for the object is to show the true facts, not merely to discredit the witness. "It a witness state facts in a cause which make egainst the party who called him, yet the party may call other witnesses to prove that these facts were otherwise; for such facts are evidence in the cause and the other witness is not called directly to discredit the first, but the impeachment of his credit is incidental and consequential only." (9) The rule is thus expressed in the American cases:—

<sup>(1)</sup> Kati Ghelam v. Aga Khan, 6 Bort. H. C. R., O. C. J., 93 (1869), esting Att.-Gen. v. Hitchcock, 1 Ex., 91, 99

<sup>(2)</sup> Markby, Ev., 108.

<sup>(3)</sup> A similar rule prevails in England, see Taylor, Ev. § 1457; AH. Gen. v. Hitchood, supra.
(4) R. v. Hutsun, 2 Stark, 149; see so 76, 77, onte.

<sup>(5) 1</sup> Fx., 93; see Taylor, Ev., § 1440-1442.
(6) See z. 155, cl. (2), pod · Att. Gen v. Buckcock, supra.

<sup>(7)</sup> Norton, Fr., 332; Taylor, Ev., § 1440. Stemart Rapalle's op. cil., 346, 347; e.g., that the attness is the kept mistress of the party calling her (Thomas v. Darid, 7C. & P., 350), or that the winers has whomed (also satteries arxivat the opposite party (Gerea's care, 2B & B. B. 1).

All disc v. Hitcherd, supra) or has had quarrels with or expressed hostiling reseals hirs (R. v. Sler, 16 Co. Nl., ex Rosee, N. P., Er., 187. Steph. Int., Art. 1912 Bonco, C. V. V., 17th Ed. 19, 191. Tarkel, Er., § 1470, et sp. Morcover, if a plaintiff a witness derives material fact and states that premos constrict of with the plaintiff have offered him money to assert it, the plaintiff have offered him money to assert it, the plaintiff have offered him money to assert it, the plaintiff have offered him the plaintiff have offered him the constraint of the province of the plaintiff and call those privace, set only to prove the lart, let to depose the attempt to substrainting. Ridback of College 150 B, 1875.

<sup>(4)</sup> R. v. Fenn, 2 Camp , 634a.

<sup>(9)</sup> B. N. P., 397.

Although a party may not discredit his own witness by testimony as to have general character, he may give evidence to contradict any particular and material fact to which the witness has testified. He may show that the witness is mistaken or that the facts are different from the version he gives of them, i.e., for the purpose of upholding his cause of action or defence (not for the purpose of impeaching the witness) he may show how the fact really is If he calls a witness to prove a particular fact and fails in establishing it by him (or if he disproves it), the fact may nevertheless be proved by another witness, or the first one's account shown to be incorrect. A party may always correct his own witness, even though by directly contradicting him. If such evidence were to be excluded, the consequences would be most injurious to the administration of instite as well an criminal as in civil cases [1].

Question by party to his own witness. 154. The Court may in its discretion, permit the person who calls a witness to put any questions to him which might be put in cross-examination by the adverse party.

Principle -A party may therefore, with the permission of the Court, put leading questions to the witness under the provisions of section 143 or crossexamine him as to the matters mentioned in sections 145, 146. The rule which excludes leading questions being chiefly founded on the assumption that a witness must be taken to have a bias in favour of the party by whom he is called, whenever circumstances show that this is not the case and he is either hostile to that party or unwilling to give evidence, the Judge mayin his discretion allow the rule to be relaxed.(2) Further by offening a witness a party is held to recommend him as worthy of credence, and so it is not in general open to him to test his credit, or impeach his truthfulness. But there exist cases in which the rule should be relaxed at the discretion of the Court, as for instance, where there is a surprise, the witness unexpectedly turning hostile, in which and in other cases the right of examination or adverso is given. (3) A witness whether of the one or the other party ought not to receive more credit than he really deserves, and the power of cross-examination is therefore sometimes necessary for the purpose of placing the witness fairly and completely before the Court.(4)

s. 3 (" Court.")

ss. 145-163 (Questions in cross-examina-

s. 143 (Leading questions.)

tion.)

Taylor, Er., §§ 1404, 1426; Starkie, Er., 167, 168; Phipson, Er., 3rd Ed., 447; Ph. & Arm., Er., 462, 524—549; Wharton, Er., §§ 500, 549, d sep.; Stewart Rapshe's Law of Witnesses, §§ 242, 211—216, Bur Jones, Er., 857—862; Best, Er., §§ 642, 645, pp. 600, 601.

COMMENTARY.

Right of party to cross examine and impeach his own witness.

This section under which the party calling a witness may, with leave of the content of the content practical importance: it not unfrequently happening that a witness who has been called in the expectation that he will speak to the existence of a particular state of facts, pretends non-remembrance of those facts or deposes to an entirely different set of circumstances; in which case the question arises whether the witness has by his conduct entitled the party to cross-examine him. This question has in such cases generally been argued with reference to the English cases explaining the meaning of the term "salvere" used in the twenty-

(i) Streat Lapit's Law of Witnesser, 253, § 939, n. 4.
25, revalue Alexander v. Giben. 2 Camph., 555; (2) Dest., Er., § 642; Wharton, Pr., § 479.
Friedlander v. London Americant Co., 4 B. & Al., (3) Is., p. 60

second section of the Common Law Procedure Act of 1854, as meaning either "hostile" or "unfavourable" respectively. It is, however, to be marked in the first place that the English Statute dealt with the question of the admissibility of evidence to contradict the party's own witness, a matter which is dealt with by the next section of this Act; and that the question whether a party can cross-examine his own witness as to (for example) whether he had not upon another occasion given a different account of transaction from that which he then deposed to, is not the same as the question whether, if the witness denies having done so, the party calling him is at liberty to call other witnesses to prove it.(1) Nextly, the Statute mentioned is not in force in this country and the secton of this Act makes no mention either of the terms "hostile," "adverse" or "unfavourable," or of any others, but leaves the matter entirely to the discretion of the Court, which discretion must obviously be exercised with reference to the particular circumstances of each case.(2) It is much to be desired that the matter should, if possible, be set at rest by judicial decision, more especially since, as will hereafter be observed, the English cases lack unanimity. Some of the cases here cited deal with the right to discredit the party's own witness by calling other testimony, but such as are authorities for this right are à fortion also authorities for the right to cross-examine one's own witness, though, as already observed, the converse may not be the case. The question of the right of a party to impeach and contradict his own witness is properly the subject-matter of the next section, but being closely allied to that of the present section it is here alone treated to avoid unnecessary repetition

Prior to the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, it had been held, with re-cross-examination, that the party who calls a witness may cross-exa. amination

(1) See Greenough v. Ecrles, 5 C. B., N. S., 796, arguendo.

(2) See Basian Correr, R. R. M., 177 (1824). when Abbott, I.d., C. J., and upon allowing cross-cammation of an adverse witness;—"I mean to devele this and no further. That in each particular case there must be some discretion in the presuding judge as to the mode in which the exammation shall be conducted in order best to answer the purposes of justice," cited in Price v. Massasg, I. R., 42 Ch. D., 372 (1837).

(3) R. v. Chapman, S C. & P., 538, 550 (1838); see also R. v. Murphy, S C. & P., 308 (1837).

(4) R. v. Ball, S. C. & P., 745 (1839). The attraction in which a witness stands towards either party does not give the party calling the witness a right to erros-examine him unless the witness exidence be of such a native as to make it appear that the witness is an unsulling one]; Parkin v. Jam., 7.C. & P., 479, 469 (1839).

(5) Clarks v. Saffery, R & M., 126 (1824). Busin v. Carer, ib., 127 (1924).

(6) Ph. & Arn., Fv., 462.

(7) Clarke v. Safery. R. & M., 126 (1921): that is when the witness stands in a situation which naturally makes but adverse to the party who desires his testimony, as for example a defendant called as the plamtiff's witness: Radks Jeebun v. Taramones Doses, 12 Moo, I. A., 380, 393 (1869). It is, however, now settled law in England that a party when called by his oppo, nent cannot as of right be treated as hostile, the matter being solely in the discretion of the Court; Price v. Manning, 42 Ch. D., 372 (1887); "Since which decision also it would seem that the older cases (see Bouman v. Bouman, 2 M. & R., 501, Jackson v. Thomason, I B & S., 747: Coles v. Coies, L. R., 1 P. & M., 71) holding that a neceseary witness, i.e., one whom a party is compelled to call, and who may therefore be consulered rather the witness of the Court than of the party. as an attesting witness to a will, can be discredited (as of right) by his own aide, are no longer law ," Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 448. The same rule applace in India, see Subban v. Studdam, 26 B., 392, 395 (1901). Where, however, the accused applied for an adjournment to enable them to cross-examine the prosecution witnesses, which was refused, and subsequently had the witnesses summoned for the defence, it was held that the mere fact that the accused had been compelled to freat the witnesses for the prosecution as their onn witnesses did not change their character and hat trey were entitled to cross-examine them; er creater Singly, Jawhar, 25 C., 294 (1994);

56

ment.

And it was also held that a party's own witness who, having given one gives a totally different version. Then when asked by the counsel of the party calling him whether he has not previously made a statement different from his present evidence, objection is commonly taken by the other side on the ground that the witness has not yet appeared adverse. A similar objection was taken in the case undermentioned, (2) upon which counsel seeking to cross-examine replied that it might not at present appear that the witness was adverse, but that he desired to prove that it was so, and it could only appear how it was, by the question which he proposed to ask, which in effect was whether the witness did not give a totally different account of the matter to the attorney, to prove which he called him. Lord Campbell, C. J., then said :- " The defendant's Counsel stating that, I will allow the question to be put; but it must be done to diso get rid of part of his testimony.

will at am shat I a in mat tructuar or codicil may cross-examine them as these ar of either party but of the Court (4) Impeach. Passing from the question of the cross-examination of the party's own witness(5) to the question of his impeachment, it was settled law in England(6) prior to the common Law Procedure Act, 1854, that a party could not impeach his witness's credit by general evidence of his bad character. (7) but he might contradict him by other evidence on points directly relevant to the issue (8) It was, however, an unsettled point whether the witness could be discredited

<sup>(1)</sup> Melhuish v. Collier, 19 L. J., Q. B., 493, s. c., 15 Q. B., 878 (see this case cited on another point at p. 879, ante, note 7), where Frle, J., observed -"There are treacherous witnesses who will hold out that they can prove facts on one side in a cause, and then, for a bribe, or from some other motive, make statements in support of the opposite interest. In such cases the law undoubtedly ought to permit the party calling the witness to question him as to the former state. ment, and ascertam, if possible, what induces him to change it." And for similar cases subsequent to the Act of 1854, see Dear v Knight, 1 P. & F., 433 (1859) , where the prior statement was made to the party FaulIner v Brine, 1 F. & F., 254 (1954), where it was made to the party's attorney, Pound v Bilson, 4 F & F .. 301 (1865), where the prior statement was made m the Pankruptcy Court, and R. v. Lude, 15 Cox, 319 (1893) where the prior statement was made to the mother of the prosecutrix. In two recent cases in the Calcutta High Court Burlow v. Chuni Lall, Small Cause Court Transfer Suit No. 15 of 1899, 3rd Jan , 1901; McLend v. StedarmaZ, Suit No. 833 of 1900, 13th Aug , 1901 , the Court allowed cross-examination, it appearing that the witness had made a statement to the attorney of the party calling him. (2) Faulture v. Brine, 1 F. & Y., 254 (1858). 11) See also to the same effect. Amild' To A'es-ander, 16 L. T., N. S., 830 (1867); [A witness, called on behalf of the plaintiff, gave evidence quite different from the proof in brief of plaintiff's counsel and from the heads of evidence as taken down in writing by the plaintiff's attorney and alleged to have been read over by him to the witness. The witness was considered sufficiently adverse to be examined as to his previous statements to the plaintiff's attorney, and the Judge allowed the witness to be asked whether he did not say the several things stated in the pager containing the heads of his evidence as taken down by plaintiff's attorney.] See as to this cam, post. (4) Jones v. Jones (1998); Times, L. P., V.

<sup>24,</sup> p. 839. (5) As to which see further Taylor, Ev., $1404; Starkie, Ev., 167, 168; Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 447: 1h. & Arn., Ev., 462; Wharton, Iv., 1 500; Stewart Hapalje's up. cd., $$ 242, 216; Best, Ev., § 642.

<sup>(6)</sup> See Greenough v. Eccles, & C. B , N. b., 802, per Williams, J.; and see generally Taylor, Er., § 1426; Ph & Am , 524, 540; Stewart Ranalje's op. ett., $$ 211-216; Wharton, Ev., $$ 549, et ses ; Burr. Jones, Er., 1 857-862 ; Best, Er., § 645, and pp. 600, 601. (7) This is not the law in India unler se. 1'4,

<sup>155,</sup> and god. (8) v. aute, pp. 577-880.

by proof that he had made inconsistent statements. The act mentioned settled the controversy on this last question by declaring that in case the witness should, in the opinion of the Judge, prove adderse, the party might, by leave of the Judge, prove that he had made at other times a statement inconsistent with his present testimony.(1)

The question was then debated as to what was the meaning of the word adverse in the Statute. Was it meant that the witness himself shall prove hostile to the party calling him, or that the testimony he gives shall be adverse? Upon this question there appear to have been conflicting decisions cases(2) it has been held that a witness is adverse when, in the opinion of the Judge, he bears a hostile(3) feeling to the party calling him (as indicated by his attitude and demeanour and mode of answer) and not merely when his testimony contradicts his proof; but the contrary view has been taken in several other recent cases (4) It can therefore be hardly said in this state of the authorities (especially in India where the words of sections 154, 155, are alone to be considered) that it is a settled rule that it is only when a witness manifestly shows a hostile personal feeling by his conduct and demeanour that the Court ought to allow his cross-examination and impeachment. The testimony of a witness, if adverse, is only the more dangerous if he shows no hostile disposition ;(5) and if he be astute as well as treacherous he will take care to conceal his true sentiments from the Court. In the language of Lord Denman "it is impossible to conceive a more frightful inequity than the triumph of falsehood and treachery in a witness who pledges himself to depose to the truth when brought into Court, and in the meantime is persuaded to swear, when he given two indications that any rule upon this point should be of a liberal character: (a) It has placed no fetter on the discretion of the Court to allow crossexamination under the provisions of section 151; and (b) it has relaxed the rule of English law(7) that a party shall not in any case be allowed to impeach his witness's credit by general evidence of his bad character.(8) For under the provisions of section 154 the party calling a witness may, with the consent of the Court, impeach his credit by cross-examination by putting all the questions

arguend u

<sup>(1)</sup> See Taylor, Ev., § 1426; the section of the statute is, however, very confused. See it e judgment in Greenough v. Eccles, S. C. B., N. S., 802, supra.

<sup>(2)</sup> Greenough v. Eccles, 5 C. B., N S., 786 (1850), per Williams and Willis, JJ., Cockburn, C. J., not wholly concurring in the judgment; Reed v. Kiar, 39 L. T., 290 (1858); are Taylor, Ev., p. 938 z. (11).

<sup>(3)</sup> In Color v. Color, I. F., 1 P. & D. 7.1 [1865] While, J. O., adopting connectly definition, anal; "An adverse witness is one who does not give the evidence which the party calling him whele him to give. A hoofle witness is one who from the manner in which he gives its evidence about that he is not desurous of telling the traft to the Court." But as has been observed (Thippoon, Ext., 2nd Est., 4455, thun defaution, however, might is muty casses apply to a favorable witness.

<sup>(4)</sup> R. v. Lutte, 15 Cox, 319 (1883); where the objection was expressly taken th t there was nothing in the demonstrate of the witness to show that she was hostile; yet the evidence was admitted per Day,  $J_{\rm e}$  in consultation with fair,  $J_{\rm e}$ , Amodil v. Afterode, [18. I. N. N. S. 503 (1857)] I' in Gressooph v. Eccle, 5 C. B. N. S., 788, it fis laid down that to enable a privi has to contracte the own witness, the sitecest must appear not only unfavorable, just actually hottle. There must be some exhibition of animos which the wiscess the set of each to shibd. He is, however, in my opinion, adverse," yer Bramwell, B 1; Penad v. H. Zun, 4 F. E. F., 301 (1965), Ed. J. In this case there were merely different attacements and the winners was third disrrept. For v. Knip', 1 F. E. F., 431 (187) [a similar case], (5) Greenoph v. Eccle, 5 C. B. N. S. 7 09.

<sup>(6)</sup> Wright v. Beckett, L. M. & P., 414.
(7) See Greenough v. Eccles, 5 C. B., N. S., 502.

<sup>(8)</sup> The meaning of this rule is that a party after producing a witness cannot prove him to be of such a general had character as would reader him unworthy of crodit, Ph. & Ara., $29, $27.

mentioned in section 146 and may, under the provisions of section 155, impeach his credit by the independent testimony of persons who testify that they from their knowledge of the witness believe him to be unworthy of credit. It is, of course, clear that the mere fact that a witness tells two different stories does not necessarily and in all cases show him to be hostile. So it has been held that the mere fact that at a Sessions trial a witness tells a different story from that told by him before the Magistrate does not necessarily make him hostile. The pro per inference which may be drawn in such a case from contradictions going to the whole texture of the story being that the witness is neither hostile to this side nor that, but that the witness is one who ought not to be believed unless supported by other satisfactory evidence.(1) But it is also submitted to be clear that where these conflicting statements involve great discrepancies and contradictions and are the outcome of fraud, dishonesty and treachery on the part of the witness, the party calling him should be permitted to cross-examine him under this section as to the fact and cause of the discrepancies and contradictions, and if necessary to impeach his credit under section 155 by substantiating the facts contained in the questions put to him by independent testimony. "If a party, not acting himself a dishonest part, is deceived by his witness-or if a witness professing himself a friend, turns out an enemy, and after promising proof of one kind gives evidence directly contrary -is the party to be restrained from laying the true state of the case before the Court? The common sense of mankind might be expected to answer this proposition in the negative, and to decide that the true state of the case should be made known, ''(2)

Impeaching credit of witness

And in England it seems to have been held that the opinion of the Judge as to whether a witness is adverse is final and not the subject of appeal.(4) but this last rule may be held not to have application in this country. A prior contrary statement, it is clear, canno it can only be admitted for picton as to those parts of th

The rules considered are applicable to both criminal(3) and civil cases.

ment is at variance (5)

See further as to the impeachment of the witness the notes to the following section

155. The credit of a witness may be impeached in the following ways by the adverse party, or, with the consent of the Court, by the party who calls him:—

 by the evidence of persons who testify that they, from their knowledge of the witness, believe him to be unworthy of credit;

(2) by proof that the witness has been bribed, or has accepted the offer of a bribe, or has received any other corrupt inducement to give his evidence;

 by proof of former statements inconsistent with any part of his evidence which is liable to be contradicted:

Kalackand Screar v. R., 13 C., 53 (1886).
 R. v. Sayal Samba, 2 C., 612, 684, (1893)

Ph. & Ara., Fr., § 555; we d., 629, 540
 R. v. Murphy, S.C. & P., 297, 309; R. v. Lutte, 15 Cox, 519.
 D. Pecca, Margal, 15 O. R. D. Dal.

(5) Ph. & Aru., 529; Weight v. Backet, I Mod. R., 414.
(6) The word in brackets was substituted for

"had" by s. 11 of the Amending Act XVIII of

(4) when a man is prosecuted for rape or an attempt to ravish, it may be shown that the prosecutrix was of generally immoral character.

Explanation.—A witness declaring another witness to be unworthy of credit may not, upon his examination-in-chief, give reasons for his belief, but he may be asked his reasons in cross-examination, and the answers which he gives cannot be contradicted, though, if they are false, he may afterwards be charged with giving false evidence.

Illustrations.

(a) A sues B for the price of goods sold and delivered to B, C says that A delivered the goods to B.

Evidence is offered to show that, on a previous occasion, he said that he had not delivered the goods to B.

The evidence is admissible.

(b) A is indicted for the murder of B.

C says that B, when dying, declared that A had given B the wound of which he died.

Evidence is offered to show that, on a previous occasion, C said that the wound was not given by A or in his presence.

The evidence is admissible.

Principle—The witness being the medium through which the Court is to arrive at the truth or falsity of the claim or charge in higation, it is always necessary to ascertain the trustworthness of this medium. This is the common function of cross-examination which is, however, not in all cases adequate. It is necessary, therefore, that the parties should be empowered to give independent testimony as to the character of the witness with a view to showing that he is unworthy of behef by the Court, which may be done in the four ways specified in this section.

s. 3 (" Court.") s. 3 (" Evidence.")

s. 137 (Examination-in-chief and cross-examination.)

Steph. Dug., Arts. 131, 133, 134; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1445, 363, 1470—1473, 1476; Ph. & Arn., 603—540; Wharton, Ev., §§ 549—571; Burr. Jones, Ev., §§ 664, 865, 866, 866, 867, 871, 868; Stewart Rapalje's Law of Witnessev, §§ 196—216; Markby, Ev., 109; Norton, Ev., 334.

COMMENTARY.

The credit of a witness may be impeached in the following ways: (a) by Impeaching cross-examination,(1) that is, by electing from the witness himself facts dis-witness paraging to him, (b) by calling witnesses to disprove his testimony on made-rial points (2) The credit of a witness is of course indirectly impeached by evidence disproving the facts which he has asserted, (c) by eliciting in cross-examination, or if denied, independently proving the partiality or previous conviction of the witness, (3) or that he has been bribed, or made previous inconsistent statements, or the immoral character of the witness if she be the prosecutivix in a trial for rape, (4) (d) by independent proof that the witness bears such a reputation as to be unworthy of credit, (5)

(3) 5 152

<sup>(1)</sup> See se. 138, 140, 145, 146, 147-154.

<sup>(4)</sup> S. 155, choses (2), (3), (4),

<sup>(2)</sup> Under v. A. ante, see Taylor, Fr., § 1470; Freid, Fr., 607; and v. ante, p. 880

<sup>(5)</sup> S. 155, clause (1).

This classification, though corresponding with that generally given in the English text-books, is not that adopted by the Act, which deals with the abovementioned matters under the classes of (a) cross-examination; (1) (b) contradiction :(2) (c) impeachment of credit.(3)

(a) Cross-examination may or may not have the effect of impeaching the credit of the witness; a result which depends upon the nature of the questions put to the witness and the answers which he gives to them. (b) A distinction also appears to be drawn between contradicting a witness and impraching his credit (4) Where the facts stated by the witness are relevant to the issue, evidence may always to come to contact the mender the mount on of the fifth section, ante.(5)

ing except in so

in contradiction except in two specified cases (6) (c) Lastly the impeachment of the credit of a witness is considered and set apart from both cross-examination and contradiction, apparently because under the Act a witness's credit may be impeached upon a point upon which there has been no cross-examination and therefore no room for contradiction

This question of classification is, however, of no great practical importance, as the provisions of this section are in substantial accordance with those of English law on the point, though it is useful to hear it in mind in order to avoid the confusion which is not unlikely to result from the novel view of the matter presented by this Act The two main points upon which this section differs from English law are that under the first Clause a party may discredit his own witness by proof of such a reputation as renders him unworthy of belief, which may not be done in England; and that apparently it is not necessary under the third Clause to lay a foundation by interrogation of the witness for subsequent evidence in proof of the pre England, further, a party may give proof only where that witness is, in the opinio

though doubtless the English practice will be in a large number of cases followed in this respect vet it will be remembered that the Act has left the discretion of the Court wholly unfettered, either to allow or disallow such impeachment as the justice and the particular excumstances of each case may require. "The importance of the section lies in this that it by implication restricts the evidence which may be given (otherwise than in the exceptional cases mentioned in section 153) to impeach a witness's credit—to that specified in the section "(8)

- (1) Sa 199, 140, 145~ 152, 154
- (2) 94, 5, 153 (3) 5. 155.
- (4) See Paid, Le 651,

(5) See Congragham, Pr., 372, "The Bombay High Court in R v. Salharam Mulundy, 11 Bom. H. C. R., 169 (1971) appear to consider that the provisions of the Indian Evidence tot for the contradiction of witnesses is less extensive than that of the Fuglish law, If, however, a. 5 he read with three sections, it will, I think, to even that they are blentical," And see bield, Fr , 651 where it is said, "the Frairnes Act assumes that where the facts are relevant evidence may be given to contradict." The express provisions of a. 5 however, renders, unnecessary this recourse to an fasted rule. It is also to be observed that the nuestion whether contradicting evalence upon relevant points may le given is la part a question

Explanation to a. 5, nate.

(6) S. 193, t. i. , Freezhme (1) and (2) This section does not appear to be accurately expressed, for there is at least one other common case where the altness may be contradicted. If the situess to seled in cross-examination whether he made a previous inconsistent statement and denies bar ing done so, independent exidence may be given to contradict that statement under a, 154, cl (3, In Siell, Er, 633, the following explanation is piren . " In these tan exceptional cases (these mentioned in a 152), the evidence is allowed to contradict answers to quedicas actually fat. The evelence allowed be a. 155 to impeach the allores's credit may apparently be given although the witness has not been questioned upon the point unless some other peetion of the Act probibit it -we + 1. 1. 165."

(7) v. nele, s. 115.

The rules with regard to the impeachment of witnesses apply to both criminal and civil cases, and by the terms of the section, the same impeaching evidence may be given in the case both of the adversary's and the party's own witness. As to the cases in which a party may discredit his own witness, set he Notes to the preceding section.

Independent evidence may be given that an adversary's (or with the leave Glause (t) of the Court a party's own) witness bears such a general reputation for untruthfulness,(1) or perhaps for moral turpitude generally,(2) that he is unworthy of credit. According to the theory of English law such evidence should relate to general reputation only and not express the mere opinion of the impeaching witness. It is not sufficient that the impeaching witness should profess merely to state what he has heard "others" say; for those others may be but fow. He must be able to state what is generally said of the person by those among whom he dwells, or by those with whom he is chiefly conversant; for it is this only which constitutes his general reputation. Though, as observed, the English theory requires that the witness should not express his own opinion, yet in ess whether he knows what that reputation eve the person whose

m to this section is in accordance with English law upon the point. The impeaching witness cannot in direct examination give particular instances of the other's falsehood, or dishonesty, but upon cross-examination he may be asked as to his means of knowledge of the other witness, his feelings, if any, towards him and the like, and the answers to these questions cannot be contradicted (4) Where a witness's veracity has been attacked his credit may be re-established either by the cross-examination of the impeaching witness (v. ante), or by independent general evidence that the impeached witness is worthy of credit ,(5) and the party whose witness has been attacked may re-criminate, that is, the impeaching witness may in his turn be attacked either in cross-examination or by independent general evidence with a view to show that he is unworthy of credit, but no further re-crimination than this is probably allowable.(6) Where the general reputation of the witness for truth and veracity is proven to be bad, the Court may properly disregard his evidence except in so far as he is corroborated by other credible testimony.(7)

This clause runs "thas accepted the offer of a bribe," but was originally Glause (2) framed "has had the offer of a bribe". The substitution was probably grounded upon the ruling in the case of the httoney-General v. Hitchcock, (8) where it was held that the fact that the witness has accepted a bribe to testify may, if denied, be proved, though a mere admission by the witness that he has been offered a bribe cannot; Pollock, C. B., remarking that it was no disparagement to a man that a bribe is offered to lum, though it may be a disparagement to the person who makes the offer, (9)

<sup>(1)</sup> Taylor, Ev. §§ 1470-1473

<sup>(2)</sup> Taylor, Fv., § 1471, where the true is expressed that the engaing need not be restrated to reputation for scratic, but may usolve the wincess's entire moral character the opposite party being at liberit to enquire whether in spite of bull character in other respects the impeached witness has not preserved his reputation for truth The weight of dimerican authority confines the enquiry to the reputation of the satisses for truth and veractly. Dart Joses, Fv., § 564.

<sup>(3)</sup> Taylor, Er., § 1470. In practice the question is generally shortened thus, "from your knowledge of the witness would you believe him on his oath "R v Brooks 1 C C R., 70 See the question of the propriety of this question discussed in Burr Jones, Er., 4 865

<sup>(4)</sup> Steph Dig., Art. 133., Taylor, Ev., § 1473; Norton, Ev., 334. There are peculiar reasons for allowing a searching cross-examination of the impeaching witness. see Burr. Jones, Ev., § 884. (5) Taylor, Fv., § 1473; 2 Ph. & Am., Ev., 504.

<sup>(6)</sup> Ib., and see Wharton, Ev., §§ 568, 569, (7) Burr Jones, Ev., § 866, and cases there exted.

<sup>(5)</sup> Ex. R., 91.

<sup>(9)</sup> See, however, criticism in Cunningham-

Clause (3)

The witness may be impeached by proof of former statements inconsistent with any part of his evidence which is habbe to be contradicted. See Illustrations (a) and (b). In the undermentioned case,(1) Whoso, J., said: a minclined to think that in the third clause of section 155 of the Evidence Act the words 'which is liable to be contradicted' mean 'which is relevant to the issue.' Any statements, verbal as well as written, may be used for this purpose; but where the statement is in writing the provisions of section 145, and, should be followed. In fact, though it is not so expressly laid down and required by the Act in the case of verbal statements,(2) the witness should always, if possible, be specifically asked whether he made such and such a statement before he is contradicted through another witness.

It is always relevant to put to a witness any question which, if answered in the affirmative, would qualify or contradict some previous part of his testimony given in the tird of the issue; and if such question be put and be answered in the negative, the opposite part and for this simple reason that the contradthe previous part of the witness's testimony the principle just pointed out, if a case opinion admissible and material, the witness may on cross-examination be asked whether he has not on some particular occasion expressed a different opinion upon the same subject, and if he deny the fact, it may be proved by other evidence. But the previous opinion as to the merits of the cause of a witness who has simply testified to a fact cannot be regarded as relevant to the issue and cannot therefore be given in evidence. (4)

When it is intended to throw discredit upon the evidence of any witness more common in practice (especially in criminal cases) than for the Counsel for the defence to prove, if it can be proved, that that witness his previously made statements inconsistent with his evidence at the trial. When this fact is satisfactorly established, the Court cannot but regard the evidence of such witness with suspicion, and the fact is established by the evidence of any one to whom such statements were made, or in whose presence or heating they were made, (5). A statement reduced to writing by a police-officer under section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure cannot be used as evidence (6). But though it is not evidence, the police-officer to whom it was made may use it to refresh his memory under section 169 of this Act, and may be cross-examined upon it by the party aganast whom the testimony aided by it is given. The person making the statement may also be questioned about it; and with a view to impeach his credit, the police-officer, or any other person in whose hearing this statement was made can be examined on the point under this section (7) ing this statement was made can be examined on the point under this section (7).

Ev., 372, 373, where it is said. "The alteration, like several of the amendments introduced by vet XVIII of 1872, appears to have been made without allequate regard to the consideration which held the original framers of the Act to word it as they did."

<sup>(1)</sup> Riedyjak Klasawa v Addor Kurena. 17 C., 344, 345 (1859), reported to the authors to have been followed by Fall-J., in Romerchas Ricengy v. 1-L. Ries, Nat No. 536 of 1852, Calcutta High Court. 1847 (18, 1932, Genre, Inswere, whether these works do not refer to any part of the utines's evidence's which relates to a fact in issue or relevant, or which falls within the exceptions to a. 153;" Cunningham, Et., 373.

(2) In England the circumstances of the sup-

Taylor, Ev., § 1445; see Field, Er., 653; Whatton, Er., § 555, v. parl. (3) Taylor, Er., § 1445.

 <sup>[4]</sup> Jb., and sre Wharton, Ev., § 531.
 [5] R. v. Uttamekand, H Bom. H. C. R., 120.
 [121, 122 (1874), per Nanabhai Harkias, J.

<sup>(6)</sup> Under the preceding Code it was held that it could not be used as evalence for the atmost. R. v. Staronn Falled, 11 B., 617 (1887); that is the statement lived cannot be used as direct evidence: R. v. Toj Kkas, 17 A., 57, 69 (1894); nor egonat him, Cr. Pr. Code, s. 162.

77) R. v. Sideram Villed, supra; R. v. Utenchard, 11 Born. H.C. B. 120 (1874); R. v. Ismal I adad, 11 B., 659 (1847); R. v. Madlo, 15 A., 52 (1852); In v. Kali Chera, R. C., 154, 154 (1841); L. c., 10 C. L. R., 51; Roband Supra, R. p. U.

889

Where, however, it appeared that but for the principal witness for the defence having been discredited by means of proof of a previous inconsistent statement made by the said witness before the investigating officer, the accused would have been acquitted, it was held under the preceding Code that this amounted to a using of such statement as evidence against the accused within the meaning of section 162 (1)

Statements of witnesses recorded by a police-officer while making an investigation under section 161 of the Crimmal Procedure Code form no portion of the police-diaries referred to in section 172, and an accused person on his trial has a right to call for and inspect such statements and cross-examine the witnesses thereon(2) and a police-officer cannot by recording in his diary the depositions of witnesses taken down by him under section 161 of the Criminal Procedure Code protect them from being used by the accused according to the provisions of the law (3).

Where the impeaching declarations were oral it is of course necessary to call the persons who heard them.(4) A statement by J to H was reported at the thans by the latter and they recorded the them.

could be contradicted by the e

by J it could not under this cle as the first information (5) Generally, whenever on a former occasion it was the duty of the witness to state the whole truth, it is admissible to show that the witness in his evidence omitted facts sworn to by him at the trial and that he now states fact which he then did not state.(6) To make the impeaching statement admissible, it must be in some point a contradictory opposite of the statement made by the witness on trial. If the two statements are reconcitable, one cannot be received to contradict the other (7) Impeaching evidence is admissible, even though the witness when cross-examined as to the contra dicting expressions should say he is uncertain whether he made them or not (8) According to the English Statute, (9) it is required that before proof of such statement can be given the circumstances of the supposed statement, sufficient to designate the particular occasion, should be mentioned to the witness and he must be asked whether or not he had made such statement. In other words it is necessary, before giving evidence for the purpose of contradicting a witness, to lay a foundation for the evidence to be given by the interrogation of the witness himself and by obtaining his denial or non-admission not made necessary by the terms of the present section (10) But it is both usual and advisable and just to the witness to first interrogate him, whenever that be possible, in order that he may be able to deny, admit or explain his statement (11) The Act has made this necessary in the case of written statements,(12) (v. ante) except where the witness is a party [in which case his previous statement may be relevant as an admission],(13) the previous contradictory statement is not admissible as proof of the facts therein asserted it can only be admitted to impeach the credit of the witness and for the purpose of

<sup>455, 458 (1882),</sup> s. c., 11 C. L. R., 571. In the matter of Bomanjee Cowanjee, P. C. (1906), 34 C., 129, 34 I. A., 53.

<sup>(1)</sup> R. v. Madko, 15 A., 25 (1892).

<sup>(2)</sup> Bilao Khanx R. 16 C. 610 (1889), Mako med Ali v R. 16 C., 612 n (1889), Skew Skaw v. R. 20 C. 642 (1893), contra R. v. Manne, 19 A. 390, F. B. (1897) Banerji and Aikman, JJ., dissenting

<sup>(3)</sup> Shern Show v R , 20 C., 642 (1893)

<sup>(4)</sup> Wharton, Ev., § 533.

<sup>(5)</sup> B. v. Dan Bondin, 8 C. W. N., 218 (1993) at p. 221.

<sup>(6)</sup> Wharton, Ev., § 554.

<sup>(7)</sup> Wharton, Ev , § 538.

<sup>(8)</sup> Crowley v Page, 7 C & P., 791

<sup>(9) 29 &</sup>amp; 29 \ ic., c. 18, s 1 Taylor, Er , § 1445.

 <sup>(10)</sup> Cunningham, Ev. 372. Field, Ev., 653
 (11) Wharton, Ev., § 555. Burr. Jones, Ev., § 849. This was laid down to be the proper course in R. v. Modio, 15 A. 23 (1892), and v. ent., last in R v Modin, 15 A. 25 (1892), and v. este, has note to a, 145. When a state-secular examination make statements which are contrary to statements previously made by them, the Court ought to draw their attention to the contradiction. Slam Lall v. Assatie LaU, 22 W. 31., 312 (1874), 412, S. 145.

<sup>(13)</sup> See Burr. Jones, Ev., § 834.

neutralising or raising doubt or suspicion as to those parts of the witness's testimony with which the contrary statement is at variance.(1) So two persons made statements to the effect that C and another had robbed them and caused hurt while doing so. One statement was made to their employer and the other to the Head Constable. C was subsequently charged, and these two persons were called as witnesses for the prosecution, but they then denied that C was one of the men who had assaulted them. It was held that the former statements referred to and which implicated the accused could be used only under this clause for discrediting their evidence and not as substantive evidence against the accused (2) It is not necessary in order to introduce such contradictory evidence that it should contradict statements made by the witness in his examination-in-chief Ordinarily the process is to ask the witness on cross-examination whether on a former occasion he did not make a statement conflicting with that made by him on his examination-in-chief But the conflict may take place as to matters originating in the cross-examination: and then, if such matters are material, contradiction by this process is equally permissible (3) A statement to contradict the evidence of a witness may be contained in a series of documents, not one of which taken by itself would amount to a contradiction of his evidence (4)

Clause (4)

The Act as originally drafted contained the following additional section relating to the subject of character .- "In trials for rape or attempts to commit rape, the fact that the woman on whom the alleged offence was committed is a common prostitute or that her conduct was generally unchaste is relevant " It was, however, thought necessary to retain this as a separate section, and it was accordingly incorporated with the present one. In the case now mentioned evidence is receivable not so much to shake the credit of the witness as to show directly that the act in question has not been committed. In trials for rape or attempts to commit that crime, not only is evidence of general had character admissible under the first Clause "to show that the prosecutrix ought not to be believed upon her oath,' but so also is proof that she is a reputed protitute, for it goes far towards raising an inference that she yielded willingly. In such cases, general evidence of this kind will on this ground be received though the woman be not called as a witness, and though, if called, she be not asked, in cross-examination, any questions tending to impeach her character for chastity Counsel for the defence cannot, however, prove specific immoral act with the prisoner unless he has first given the prosecutrix an opportunity of denying or explaining them Moreover, the prosecutrix if cross-examined as to particular acts of immorality with other men, may decline to answer such questions, while if she answers them in the negative, witnesses cannot be called to contradict her.(5)

Re-establishing credit Recrimination. The Act does not in terms provide for either of these: but as already observed, (6) according to English practice, when a witness's character for truth and veracity has been directly impeached, the party calling him may sustain his character by countervailing proof, and the character of the impeaching witness for truth and veracity may itself be attacked. Whether a collateral attack admits sustaining testimony, that is, such a course is open where the witness is, attacked upon the other grounds mentioned in this section, or in sections 116, is a matter upon which there has been conflict in the reported cases here

<sup>(1)</sup> v. cate, p. 888, and R. v. Japarden Pauld (1903), A. W. N., 64 (examination of police to prove former statement)

<sup>(2)</sup> E. v. Chernik Choyi, 26 M., 191 (1902).

<sup>(3)</sup> Wharton, Er., § 552.

<sup>(4)</sup> Jackson v. Thomana, 1 11, S., 745.

<sup>(5)</sup> Taylor, Mr., $ 361 But to show consent ale may be cross-examined as to other immoral acts with the prisoner, and if she dealer them they may be independently proved. E.v. Edeg, 18 R. B. D., 481, Taylor, Ev., § 1441.

<sup>(6)</sup> v. onic, p. 808 and Wharton, Ev., $5 654. 569; and as to the order of introduction of eridence which is at discretion of the Court, v. O.

referred to (1) It has been held in America that a witness's character is so far impeached by putting in evidence his conviction of felony that evidence is admissible of his good reputation for truth (2) It is a matter of doubt whether such testimony can be received merely upon proof of prior conflicting statements of the witness or upon the eliciting of answers disparaging to the witness in cross-examination.(3) On the other hand, it has been said that where the opposing case is that the witness testified under corrupt motives, this being involved in the attack on his credibility, it is but proper that such evidence should be rebutted (4) The arguments for the admission of rebutting testimony to good character in all cases is that since the object of the attack is to impeach the witness, the mode of such attack is immaterial, and that the same reasons exist for sustaining the witness, as where witnesses are called to testify directly to his bad reputation, on the other hand, it is said that the admissibility of the evidence in all cases may lead to confusion and the multiplicity of collateral issues.(5) It is of course clear that in any case, and as a general rule, a party cannot fortify the credit of his witness by proving good character for truth until the credibility of the witness has been assailed (6)

156. When a witness whom it is intended to corroborate questions gives evidence of any relevant fact, he may be questioned as to corroborate any other circumstances which he observed at or near to the time widened or place at which such relevant fact occurred, if the Court is of fact and opinion that such circumstances, if proved, would corroborate the testimony of the witness as to the relevant fact which he testifies.

Illustration.

A, an accomplice, gives an account of a robbery in which he took part. He describes various incidents unconnected with the robbery which occurred on his way to and from the place where it was committed.

Independent evidence of these facts may be given in order to corroborate his evidence as to the robbery itself.

Principle-See Note, post.

4. 3 (" Fact.")

s. 3 (" Court.") s. 3 (" Relevant.") Markby, Ev., 109, 110 : Cunningham, Ev., 156.

COMMENTARY.

This section provides for the admission of evidence given for the purpose Corroboranot of proving a directly relevant fact but of testing the witness's truthfulness. witness There is often no better way of doing this than by ascertaining the accuracy

- See the subject discussed in Burr Jones, Ev., § 870.
- (2) State v. Ros. 12 Vt. 111 (Amer.), Paise v. Talden, 20 Vt., 354, Wharton, Ev. § 569, Burr. Jones, Fv., § 870
- (3) Wharton, E. p. 557, note (1) and cases there etted. Butr. Jones, § 870. It is easil to be the letter was that the evalence is not admissible though there are cases to the contrary. Butr. Jones, Ev., § 871, 870. In Taylor, Ev. § 1476, however, the rule is stated to be that "where existence of contradictory admissists of other.
- improper conduct on his part has been either clicited from a witness on cross-examination, or obtained from other witnesses with the weaof impraching his verseity—his general character for truth being thus in some sort put in visue, practal evaluation that he is a man of street integrity and sempulson regard for truth will be-
  - (4) Wharton, Et . § 570. (5) Burr, Jones, Er., § 871, 870.
  - 16) 14., $1 86%, 870

of his evidence as to surrounding circumstances, though they are not so immediately connected with the facts of the case as to be in themselves relevant. While on the one hand, important corroboration may be given in the case of a truthful witness, a valuable field for cross-examination and exposure is afforded in the case of a false witness. In order to prepare the ground for their correboration, it is necessary to elicit these surrounding circumstances in the first instance from the witness himself, and for this the section makes provision (1) This section, in effect, declares evidence of certain facts to be admissible; and if it had not been inserted the Judge would have had to determine the relevancy of these facts by reference to the 7th and 11th sections; and he might perhaps have been influenced by the practice in England which has been against the admission of such evidence (2) It is not incumbent on a party to give corroborative evidence of statements not challenged by the other party.(3)

Former statements of witness may be corroborate later testimony as to

157. In order to corroborate the testimony of a witness, any former statement made by such witness relating to the same fact, at or about the time when the fact took place, or before any authority legally competent to investigate the fact, may be proved.

Principle -The force of any corroboration by means of previous consistent statements depends upon the truth of the proposition that he who is consistent deserves to be believed. The corroborative value, however, of such previous statements is of a very varying character dependent upon the cirumstances of each case, and a person may equally persistently adhere to falsehood once uttered, if there be a motive for it.(4)

> 8. 3 (" Proved.") 8 3 (" Fact.")

Gilbert, Ev., 135, 136; Wharton, Ev., § 570; Taylor, Ev., § 1476; Starkie, Ev., 253; Best, Ev., p. 600, Phipson, Ev., 3rd Ed., 149; Markby, Ev., 100, 110; Field, Ev., 655. COMMENTARY.

Former statements provable in corrobora tion.

This section is not in accordance with English practice, according to which evidence of prior statements is not generally admissible to corroborate a witness (5) It is argued that by offering a witness a party is held to recommend him as worthy of credence, and warranting his veracity, corroboration is not permitted (6) That former statements are no proof that entirely different statements may not have been made at other times and are therefore no evidence of constancy, that if the sworn statements are of doubtful credibility those made without the sanction of an oath or its equivalent cannot corroborate them,(7) that a witness having given a contrary account although not upon nath necessarily impeaches either his veracity or his memory; but his having asserted the same thing does not in general carry his credibility further than nor so far as his eath (8) The section, however, proceeds upon the principle that consistency is a ground for belief in the witness's veracity. (9) So Chief

<sup>(1)</sup> Conningham, Ev., v. 156 (2) Markby, Fr , 109, 110.

<sup>(3)</sup> Moules Makomed Phramell Huny Willia

<sup>(1267), 11</sup> C W. N. 948. (4) R v. Malapa bin, Il Bom H. C. R , 190, 194 (1474).

<sup>(5)</sup> Wharton, Ev., $ 570; Taylor, Fv . $ 1476 Starkie, Er., 233 ; Bost, Rr., p. 600 In certain cases previous similar statements are admissible, er Phipson, Er., 3rd Ed., 149

<sup>15)</sup> Best, Er., p. 600.

<sup>(7)</sup> Wherton, Ec., $ 570. (8) Starkie, Ev., 253.

(D) R v. Malapabia, 11 Rom. H. C. R., 190, 19 (1874); R. v Bepin Risons, to C., 970, 973 (1824) It had long been the practice in India to admit this evidence : see Act II of 1855, s. 31. The provisions of which have been simplified and repres duced in the above section See B. v. Bickandi Pal, 12 W. B., Cr., 3 (1869); R. v. Biers Vall 7 W. R., Cr., 31 (1987).

Baron Gilbert was of opinion that the party who called a witness against whom contradictory statements had been proved(1) might show that he had affirmed the same thing before on other occasions and that he was therefore "consistent with himself." (2)

The section thus declares certain statements to be relevant which but for it might have been open to the objection of being hearsay (3) the only condition being that this previous statement shall have been made (a) either about the time of the occurrence or (b) before a competent authority. This condition is to some extent, a safeguard against fictitious statements designedly made to support subsequent evidence; but it is obvious that the corroborative value of such previous statements depends entirely on the circumstances of each case, and that they may easily be altogether valueless. The mere fact of a man having on a previous occasion made the same assertion generally, though not always(4), adds but little to the chances of its truthfulness, and such evidence should be distinguished from that which is really corroborative (5) One may persistently adhere to falsehood once uttered, if there is a motive for it; and should the value of such a corroboration ever come to be rated higher than it is now, nothing would be easier than (to take an example) for designing and unscrupulous persons to procure the conviction of any innocent men who might be obnoxious to them, by the convertion of any innocent men who might be obnoxious to them, by the convertion of any innocent men who might be obnoxious to them, by ments to different people innocent men (6) "The order to corroborate, may be a statement made either on oath or otherwise, and either in ordinary conversation or before some person who had authority to question the person who made it. It may also be verbal or in writing not made before any person legally competent to investigate the fact, it would seem that it must have been made at or about the time when the fact took place (7) In India perhaps more particularly than in other countries the statements made by those who have knowledge of the circumstances connected with the commission of an offence, immediately after the occurrence and before they can be tampered with by the police or others, are important to the ascertainment of truth."(8) Where a person making a dying declaration chances to live, his statement cannot be admitted in evidence as a dving declaration under s. 32, but it may be relied on under this section to corroborate the complainant when examined in the case (9) Section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code prohibits the use of the record of the statement of a witness taken under section 161 as evidence, but does not override the general provisions of this Act as to proof of such statement by oral evidence, and such statement is admissible under this section in corroboration of the evidence of the witness given at the trial.(10)

The evidence is only admissible in corroboration. In the undermentioned case, [11] in which the prisoner had been tried and convicted of an offence, the depositions of witnesses given in a previous trial of other persons charged with laving been engaged in the same offence were used against him. The witnesses instead of being examined in the ordinary way were re-sworn and said, "I gave

<sup>(1)</sup> This is not necessary under the section

<sup>(2)</sup> Gilbert, Ev., 135, 136

<sup>(3)</sup> Markby, Ev., 110, in Gilbert, Ev., 133, 136, these statements are treated as exceptions to the hearsay rule.

<sup>(4)</sup> An instance of the value of such evidence in this country is pointed out in the quotation from Field, Ev., 655, cited past

<sup>(5)</sup> Cunningham, Ev., s. 157.
(6) R. v. Malapa bin, 11 Bout. H. C. R., 196, 193 (1874).

<sup>(7)</sup> See Oriental Government, etc., Co., Lt., v. Narasimha Chari, 25 M., 210 (1901)

(%) Field, Ev., 635 and see Markby, Ev., Ite, "There is no doubt that this kind of evidence is extremely useful in criminal cases where there is a suggestion that a witness is telling a madeup story."

<sup>(9)</sup> E v Esma Satta, 4 Bom. L. P., 434 (1902). (10) Fannadra Anth Baneryee v. R. (1905), 36 C., 251

<sup>(11)</sup> R. v. Eudonath, 12 W. E., Cr., 3 (1

evidence before in this Court, and that evidence is true." The irregularity and injustice of this mode of proceeding were commented upon, and it was pointed out that the depositions containing the statements of a witness as to the commission of the offence in the earlier trial would have been admissible to corroborate his testimony given in the trial of the prisoner. The evidence of the witness whose testimony it was proposed to corroborate should have been first taken, and after such witness had finished his evidence, and not before, the former deposition might have been put in, not to add to his testimony, but simply to corroborate it by showing that the statements made by him, while the facts were still fresh in his memory, correspond with those made by him in the Court of Session in the present case. In the case cited, at the time when each deposition was put in, the evidence of the witness not having been given in the Court of Session, there was nothing in the record which made it admissible. was in fact nothing which was corroborated by it. In the undermentioned case(1) a witness was asked with a view to corroborating another person intended to be called as a witness whether or not the latter person had made any statement to him with respect to one of the matters in suit. It was held that as this section refers to the corroboration of the testimony of a witness, ordinarily before corroborative evidence is admissible the evidence sought to be corroborated must have been given The Court had no doubt a discretion to allow evidence to be given under this section out of the regular order upon an undertaking by Counsel to call the witness sought to be corroborated, though such a course will be found in most cases to be inconvenient. If necessary, a witness will be allowed to be recalled to give evidence under this section after the person sought to be corroborated has given his evidence.(2) And in the undermentioned case where an advocate was charged with having advised bribery, and the charge was founded on conversations with another Counsel, it was held that evidence of persons to whom the latter had in the absence of the accused repeated the conversation was admissible under this section, but did not help the determination of the real issue (the truth of the charge).(3)

Such statements must also be regularly proved by the person who received them or by some one who heard them given.(1) When it is desired to correborate a witness by a previous deposition, or by a first information report, recorded under section 154, Criminal Procedure Code, these documents must be produced, for they are documents required by law to be reduced to writing, and secondary evidence of their contents cannot be given (5) The case of a statement by way of complaint against the commission of a crime has been already dealt with by the eighth section Illustrations (i) and (k), ante. As independent evidence of a fact, statements are, by that section, relevant as conduct, if they accompany and explain facts other than statements (6) The exidence requisite for the corroboration of the testimony of an accomplice must proceed from an independent and reliable source, and previous statements made by the accomplice himself, though consistent with the evidence given by him at the trial, are insufficient for such corroboration The statement of the accomplice, whether made at the trial, or before the trial, and in whatever shape it comes before the Court, is still only the statement of an accomplice and does not at all improve in value by repetition (7)

<sup>(1)</sup> Middenni Domes v. Nundo La'l, 5 ( . W. N. 21 (1980).

<sup>(2)</sup> Ib.
(3) In the matter of Emmanges Cowanges, P. C. (1906), 34 C., 129; 34 L. A., 55.

<sup>(4)</sup> E. v. Bises Nath, 7 W. R., Cr., 31 (1467) 1 (5) Field, Ev., 655; sees. 91, sate, for an instance of the use of a deposition, in corroboration

ser P v Ishre Steph, 8 A., 672 (1886). (6) v ante, s. 8

<sup>(7)</sup> R. v. Malapa bis, 11 Rom. H. C. R. 196 (1874) R. v. Bepan Risers, 10 C., 979, 973 (1874) nor can the confession of one of the presence leued to corroborate the entires of an accorpliazing the others; R. v. Malapa Lis, 2374s.

158. Whenever any statement relevant under section 32 What matters may be proved either in order to con-proved in tradict or to corroborate it, or in order to impeach or confirm with proved in the connection of the confirmation of the confirmatio the credit of the person by whom it was made, which might have under sec-been proved if that person had been called as a witness and had tion ager 33. denied upon cross-examination the truth of the matter suggested.

Principle.-See Note, post.

s. 3 (" Relevant.") ss. 32, 33 (Statements by persons who cannot s. 3 (" Proved.") 8. 157 (Corroboration.)

8. 155 (Impeaching credit.)

be called as wrinesses.) s. 135 (Evidence to contradict.)

Steph. Dig., Art. 135; Burr. Jones, Ev., § 849; Norton, Ev., 335, 336; Cunningham, Ev., § 158.

COMMENTARY.

This section refers to certain statements made by persons, who from some Corrobora-unavoidable cause cannot be produced, and of which under sections 32 or 33 tradiction unavoidable cause cannot be produced, and of which and a second by the condense may, in the circumstances there described, be given The present Cratagories section has the effect of exposing any such statement, when admitted, as far as device the condense of the condens may be, to all the scrutiny, and giving it the advantage of all the corroboration, which it would have had on the cross-examination of the person making it. The statements admissible under section 32 or 33 or exceptional cases, and the evidence is only admitted from the impossibility, improbability or great inconvenience of producing the authors of the statements. It is only just, therefore, that all the same safeguards for veracity should be provided as if the authors of the statements were themselves before the Court and subjected to oath and cross-examination (1) So with regard to the impeachment of witnesses, the general rule applies where the witness whose testimony is attacked is deceased or absent Thus where the testimony given on a former trial by a witness, since deceased, was read to the jury, it was held competent to show that such witness had stated since the trial that such statement was untrue (2)

159. A witness may, while under examination, refresh his Refreshing memory by referring to any writing made by himself at the time of the transaction concerning which he is questioned, or so soon afterwards that the Court considers it likely that the transaction was at that time fresh in his memory.

The witness may also refer to any such writing made by any other person, and read by the witness within the time aforesaid, if when he read it he knew it to be correct.

Whenever a witness may refresh his memory by reference to mess may any document, he may, with the permission of the Court, refer decument but this appears to be a mistake. For another instance of the application of this section, see the (2) Craft v. Com., 81 Ky., 250 (Amer ), cited case of Ford Kinney v. Nobin Chander, exted aute. with other American cases in Burr, Jones, Ev., at pp. 329, 339, $ 549, where the passage read "incompetent," to a copy of such document: Provided the Court be satisfied that there is sufficient reason for the non-production of the original.

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Ev . 335, 336, Conningham, Ev . • 15%.

An expert may refresh his memory by reference to professional treatises.

Testimony to facts statment men-tioned in section 159-

160. A witness may also testify to facts mentioned in any such document as is mentioned in section 159, although he has no specific recollection of the facts themselves, if he is sure that the facts were correctly recorded in the document.

Illustration

A book-keeper may testify to facts recorded by him in books regularly kept in the course of business, if he knows that the books were correctly kept, although he has forgotten the particular transactions entered.

Right of party as to writing used to refresh me mory

161. Any writing referred to under the provisions of the two last preceding sections must be produced and shown to the adverse party if he requires it; such party may, if he pleases, cross-examine the witness thereupon.

Principle.-Though there are some objections to such a course,(1) it is yet clear that an important aid to exactness would be neglected, if, human memory and maccuracy being what they are, a witness were not at liberty to justify his recollection of facts by reference to written memoranda concerning them (2) It is desirable to secure the full benefit of the witness's recollection as to the whole of the facts,(3) and that a witness should not suffer from a mistake and may explain an inconsistency.(4) It is further to be observed that the committin, degree of atten versation. If the subject of been fresh in t . . . . . . 41 .

· itself.(5) The liu, o securing that the litions are laid down by the sections abovementioned (6) The witness may be cross-examined as to the paper in his hands, since in no other way can the accuracy and recollection of the witness he ascertained; and it is only by the production and inspection of the document and by such cross-examination that it can be ascertained whether the memorandum does assist the memory or not.(7) The right of production, inspection and cross-examination is necessary to check the use of improper documents and to compare the witness's oral testimony with his written statement.(8)

<sup>(1)</sup> See Goodere, Er., 20%, citing Bentham. Are also bis Judicial Evidence, Ch. II, " Notes whether consultable."

<sup>(2)</sup> Canningham, Er., 377, for the grounds of admission where the document cannot be said strictly to refresh the memory, see Notes, post, (3) In re Jaulion Malion, 8 C., 739, 744, 745

<sup>(1882),</sup> per Fielt, J.

<sup>(4)</sup> Halli lay v. Halyste, 17 L. T., O. S., 18. (5) Field, Ev., 657, citing Bentham, Jud. 1 v

<sup>(6)</sup> Cunningham, Ev., 377.

<sup>(7)</sup> Wharton, Er., 525; Burr, Jones, Fr., 1571. (9) In to Janthon Makion, 8 C., 739, 745 (1442). per Field, J.

8. 3 (" Court.")

s. 3 (" Document.")

Steph. Dig., Art., 136; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1406-1413; 2 Ph. & Arn., 480-487; Greenleaf, Ev., §§ 437-439; Wharton, Ev., §§ 516-526; Stewart Rapalie's Law of Witnesses, §§ 279-285; Burr. Jones, Ev., §§ 877-886; Powell, Ev., §§ 406-411; Dickson's Ev., ii § 1779; Wood's Practice, Ev., §§ 129-136; Goodeve, Ev., § 207, 209; Wigmore, Ev., §§ 758-764.

COMMENTARY.

A witness will be allowed to have his memory, respecting anything upon Refreshing which he is questioned, refreshed by means of written memoranda It is not memory. necessary that the document referred to should be one which is admissible in evidence. So in an action for money lent, an insufficiently stamped pro-missory note purporting to be signed by the defendant and expressed to be given for money lent was put into the defendant's hands by the plaintiffs' Counsel, for the purpose of refreshing his memory and obtaining from him an admission of the loan: held that the plaintiffs were entitled to use the note for that purpose notwithstanding the provision of the Stamp Act, that an instrument not duly stamped "shall not be given in evidence or be available for any purpose, whatever".(1) It has been said(2) that there are three classes of cases in which this may be allowed :- (a) Where the writing serves only to revive or assist the memory of the witness and to bring to his mind a recollection of the facts This is the case referred to in section 159 Here the writing is in Section 159 the stricter sense used to refresh the memory, that is, the witness has a present memory of the facts after the inspection of the writing. In this case the document is resorted to to revive a faded memory, and the witness swears from the actual recollection of the facts which the document evokes (3) Memory is in other words restored. (b) Where the witness recollects having seen the writing before, and though he has no independent recollection of the facts mentioned in it, yet remembers that, at the time he saw it, he knew the contents to be correct, see section 160, Illustration (4) In this case the witness has no present memory of the fact stself, but if the witness be correct in that which he does positively state from present recollection, etc. that at a prior time he had a perfect recollection, and having that recollection, says, it was truly stated in the document produced, the writing, though its contents are thus but mediately proved, must be true (5) (c) Where it brings to the mind of the witness, neither any recollection of the facts mentioned in it, nor any recollection of the scriting itself, but which nevertheless enables him to swear to a particular fact from the conviction of his mind on seeing a writing which he knows to be genuine. In this case the testimony of the witness is admissible to prove a fact although he has neither any recollection of the fact itself, nor mediate knowledge of the fact by means of a memorial of the truth of which he has a present recollection. This happens when the memorandum is such as to enable the witness to state with certainty that it would not have been made had not the fact in question been true Here the truth of the evidence does not wholly depend on the contents of the document itself or on any recollection of the witness of the document itself, or of the circumstances under which it was made, but upon a conviction, arising from the knowledge of his own habits and conduct, sufficiently strong to make the existence of the document wholly irreconcilable with the non-existence of the fact, and so to convince him of leaf, Fr., § 437 , Burr Jones, Fr., St 878, 854 Steuart Rapalje's op. cut , 461, 462 ; Starke, Er.,

(1) Birchell v Ballough, 1 Q B (1896), 325.

177, 178; Taylor, Fr., | 1412, Powell, Ev., 404,

407; and other writers. These sections substan-

(2) 2 Ph & Arn., $5 450, 481, followed in Green-tually follow the English rules in these matters. (3) Goodere, Er., 209, 213 Barr. Jones, Er.,

<sup>(4)</sup> And cases cited in Taylor, Er., § 1412. (5) Starke, Er., 177, 174,

the affirmative (1) Thus, in proving the execution of an instrument (one of the most ordinary and cogent cases within this class) where a witness, called to prove the execution of a deed, sees his signature to the attestation, and says he is thereby sure that he saw the party execute the deed, that is a sufficient proof of the execution of the deed, although the witness should add that he has no recollection of the fact of the execution of the deed.(2) The admission of such evidence is, however, not confined to attestations of the execution of written instruments (3)

Section 160.

These last two classes, which may logically be considered together, are the subject-matter of section 160.(4) In the two latter classes of cases, it is of course essential that the witness should 11- to depose positively to the facts to which he is .ve no pre-159 deals sent recollection of them independent the cases with cases in which the witness really referred to by section 160 the document is resorted to, to " gue a record of the past, the life of a present deposition by the witness's attestation of its truth, even where memory itself may wholly have vanished."(6) This is perhaps hardly logically termed "refreshing the memory," though undoubtedly it is so called in practice (7) The witness, after referring to the writing, swears as to the fact, not because he remembers it, but because of his confidence in the correctness of the unting (8) As to the use of a copy in the cases dealt with in section 160, v. wost.

"Any writ ing

The section says the witness may refer to any writing. It is immaterial therefore what the document is, whether it be a book of account, letter, bill of particulars of articles furnished, including such items as dates, weights and prices, way-bills, notes made by the witness, or any other document whatsoever which is effectual to assist the memory of the witness (9) As to the significance of the words "while under examination," v. post, note to section 161. If the witness has become blind, the paper may be read over to him for the purpose of exciting his recollections (10) And it has been held in America that where a paper is signed with the mark of a witness, who cannot read or write, it may be read over to him to the same purpose (11)

A statement reduced to writing by a police-officer under section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code cannot be used as evidence. But though it is not evidence, the police-officer to whom it was made may use it to refresh his memory under section 159 of this Act, and may be cross-examined upon it by the party against whom the testimony aided by it is given. (12) Statements of wit-

£ 833.

witness ran only testify in the manner mentioned

(8) Daris v. Field, 56 1t , 428 (Amer.). It has also been said that the witness is allowed to testle fy to the matter so reconful, because he knows he could not have made the entry unless the fact had been true: Costello v. Crowell, 133 Mass , 352 in the text; see Markby, Ev., 111, 112.

- between Label, 11 P.,637 (1987) 1

(t) Statker, Ev., 178.

<sup>(2)</sup> Per Rayley, J., in Maugham v. Hubbard, 8 B. & C., 14 , and see Bringlie v. Goodson, 5 Bing. N. C., 738 , see Taylor, Ev., § 1412.

<sup>(3)</sup> Maugham v. Hubbard, supra.

<sup>(4)</sup> Field, Er., 657. The want of recollection of the facts mentioned in the two latter classes, though it does not affect the admissibility of the erklener, must yet be considered in deciding upon the amount of value to be assigned to it 15, 657, <sup>(5) 2 17</sup>c. & Arn., Av., 481 ; Starker, 179 , Maug. ham v. Habbard, B.B. & C., 14 . R. v. St. Martine Lesceler, 2 A. & E., 210.

<sup>(8)</sup> Gooders, Er., 200, In the first of the three classes memory as restored, and in the second

Aist my in verified, ib., 213. (7) No s. 160 speaks of " lestify to facts" instead

<sup>(9)</sup> See cares in Taylor, Es , $$ $498-1414; Burr, Jones, Er., 15 874, 840, 841, (10) Taylor, Er., § 1410. (11) Commonwealth v. 1 or, 7 Gray (Mass), 508

(Amer.), cited in Stewart Rapalje's op. est, $ 285, it should not be read before the jury, but the witness should withdraw with one of the Council for each side and have it read to him by them without comment; sb , and see Bure, Jours, Fr , nesses recorded by a police-officer while making an investigation under section 161 of the Criminal Procedure Code form no portion of the police-diaries referred to in section 172 of the same Code, and an accused person on his trial has a right to cell for and inspect such statements and cross-examine the witnesses thereon (11) and a police-officer cannot by entering statements of witnesses recorded by him under section 161 in his diary, kept under section 172, protect them from such use as the law allows,  $e_{II}$ , under sections 145 and 159 of this Act.(2) The statement of a person recorded under section 161 of the Criminal Procedure Code is inadmissible under that section, though it may be used by the Police-officer who recorded it to refresh his memory (3)

The dying statement of a deceased person, it not taken in the presence of the accused and as a formal deposition, must, before it is admitted in evidence, be proved to have been made by the deceased. The statement may be proved in the ordinary way by the person who heard it, and the writing may be used for the purpose of refreshing the witness's memory (4)

A medical man in giving evidence may refresh his memory by referring to a report which he has made of his post-mortem examination, but the report itself cannot be treated as evidence and no facts can be taken therefrom (5) In Scotch law in the case of medical or other scientific reports or certificates which are lodged in process before the trial and libelied on as productions in the indictment, the witness is allowed to read the report as his deposition to the jury, confirming it at its close by a declaration on his oath that it is a true report (6) "In India the rule is slightly different, though similar in principle Where a dead body is sent to the Civil Surgeon in order to the making of a post-mortem examination, a printed form is sent therewith, which the Civil Surgeon fills up on examining the body. The report is not itself legal evidence (v. ante.) but it is usually placed in the hands of the Civil Surgeon, who refreshes his memory from its contents, when giving his testimory "(7)

In order to be useful for the purpose of refreshment a document need not be admissible itself as independent evidence. So though Junna-vasil-bulki papers are not admissible as independent evidence of the amount of rent mentioned therein, yet it is right that a person who has prepared such papers on receiving payment of the rents should refresh his memory from such papers when giving evidence as to the amount of rent payable. (8) Nor does a writing used to refresh the memory thereby become evidence of itself. Consequently it is not necessary that it should even be admissible, and a document which cannot be read for want of a stamp may be referred to by the witness in giving his evidence (9). The question sometimes arises whether memoranda used Iollowing R. v. Ultamehand Kapurchand, 11 Bom. H.C. R., 120 (1874). And see to same effect R. v. Ismal valed Fataru, 11 B., 659 (1887); Roghuni Scatter, 9, 00, 1887, 489 (1887).

Singh v. R., 9 C., 455, 438 (1892).
(1) Bikao Khan v. R., 16 C., 610 (1899); Mahomed Ali v. R., 16 C., 612 (1899); contra. R. v.
Manne, 19 A., 390; F. B. (1897). Bancry & Aitman, JJ., dissenting.

(2) Mices Sha v R., 20 C., 642, 648 (1893).
Contra R. v. Manne, supra.

(3) R. v. Stewart, 31 C., 1050 (1904) at p. 1052. (4) R. v. Samiradia, 8 C., 211 (1882); a. c., 10 C. L. R., 11.

(5) Replina Singh v. R., 9 C., 455, 460, 461 (1882); n. c., 11 C. L. B., 569, see 2 W. B., Cr., Let., 14, 6 W. R., Cr., Lett., 3; R. v. Jadab Dass, 4 C. W. N., 129 (1892). (6) Dickson's Law of Evalence in Scotland Vol. u, $ 1770; Abson's Criminal Law, 540-542, cited in Taylor, Ev. § 1413, p. 1019, not-(1), where the reasons are given for the rule.

(7) Fall, Ev. 661.

(1) Find, K. (2011).
(1) Find, K. (2011).
(2) All T. (Mander v. Avez., 10 C., 248 (1883); and are as to collection papers, Malomed Malomod v. Selar d. M. 11 C., 107, 407 (1883); so though nother statements under v. 181, Cr. Pr. Code (v. astr.), p. 850), nor polecularner (v. 1882) are evaluace in the case, they may still be used for the purpose of terferbing memory. And see Travelent's Mellick v. Jonat Norge, 5 C., 232 (1979), 80 (Whaterio, Er., 4, 30).

(9) Taylor, Ey., § 1411; Wharton, Ey., § 201; as to want of stamp, see Physican, Ev., 3rd Lit., 447, and sate.

for refreshment are themselves to be admitted in evidence. When the witness, after reference, finds his memory so refreshed that he can testifu recollection independently of the memorandum, there is no reason or necessity for the introduction of the paper or writing itself; and it is not admissible. But another rule prevails when the witness cannot testify to the existing knowledge of the fact independently of the memorandum, but can testify that, at or about the time the writing was made, he knew of its contents and of their truth or accuracy. In such cases, both the testimony of the witness and the contents of the memoranda are held admissible. "The two are the equivalent of a present positive statement of the witness affirming the truth of the memorandum."(1)

Any Criminal Court may send for the police-diaries of a case under inquiry or trial, and may use such diaries, not as evidence in the case but to aid it in such inquiry or trial Neither the accused nor his agent are entitled to call for such diary, nor is he or they entitled to see them, merely because they are referred to by the Court; but if they are used by the police-officer who made them to refresh his memory.(2) or if the Court uses them for the purpose of contradicting such police-officer, the provisions of this Act (section 161 or section 145, as the case may be) will apply (3) The special diary may be used by the police-officer who made it, and by no witness other than such officer, for the purpose of referencias its mannages. If the disertic pend by the police officer who we have the control of the fact of the property of the fact to see that the fact of th particular entry which has been referred to and so much of the diary as, in the opinion of the Court, is necessary in that particular matter to the full understanding of the particular entry so used, but no more (4) An accused has no right to msist that a police-duary, if not in Court, shall be sent for, or if it be in Court, that it be referred to for the purpose of refreshing the memory of a policeofficer, it being said that there is no authority for saying that a witness can be compelled to refresh his memory from any document unless the document is either in the possession of the party who desires to put it to the witness, or 18 at least such as he can ensist on having produced. (5) With regard to these documents, however, the law has expressly declared that the accused is not entitled to call for them, nor to see them, except in a specified contingency,(6) and if it were in the power of the accused to bring about this contingency, he might in nearly every case procure inspection of the document. It has, however, been also held that a witness, who has the means of aiding his memory by a recourse to memoranda or papers in his power, can lawfully be required to look at such papers, to enable him to ascertain a fact with more precision, to verify a date, or to give more exact testimony than he otherwise could as to times, numbers, quantities, and the like (7) m

" Made by himself or y any erson."

le by himself or by any other person, it to be correct when the facts were that the writing should have been made by the witness; for it is the recollection and not the memorandum which is evidence. Thus a seaman has been allowed to refer to a logbook which, diary in order to retresh his memory, and that it (1) Burt, Jones, Ev., $ 895.

<sup>(2)</sup> See R. v. Hurdut Surma, 8 W. R. Cr. 68. 69 (1967). (3) Cr. Pr. Code, 172, R. + Jaiah Dass, 4 C.

W. N., 129 (1899) (4) R. v Manne, 19 A., 300, F. B. (1897)

<sup>(5)</sup> In re Kali Churn, 8C., 154, 158, 157 (1891); e.c., 10 C. L. R., 51. In re Jhubbon Makton, 8.

C., 739, 745 (1892) ; s. c., 12 C. L. R , 231 ; It was also held that "the Seasions Judge was not bound to compel the witness to look at the so-called was wholly within his discretion whether be should do so or not.

<sup>(6)</sup> Cr. Pr. Code, s. 172. (7) Chapin v. Lapham, 23 Pick., 487 (Amer.).

<sup>£22:</sup>

Burr. Jones, Er , § 890, and numerous cases there cited.

....

though not written by himself, had from time to time, and while the occurrence were recent, been examined by him (1) So it has been said that a witness at Sessions might be shown his former deposition before the committing Maristrate in order to refresh his memory a couple of months after, if such first deposition were taken immediately after the occurrence (2)

But it is clear that a witness should not be allowed to use any document to the correct which was made by another person, unless he knows it to be correct

Section 159 substantially follows the English rule as to the time when the Time when writing must have been made, this rule being that a writing can be used to must have refresh the memory of a witness only where it has been made, or its accuracy been made recognised, at the time of the fact in question, or at furthest so recently afterwards as to render it probable that the memory of the witness had not then become defective (3) Its own peculiar circumstances and the discretion of the trial Judge must govern each case raising this question, which in part also depends on the mental character and capacity of the witness. It is clear that the memorandum must not be used to convey original information to the witness. It is, however, impossible to lay down any precise rule as to how nearly contemporaneous with the fact or facts recorded, the memorandum must be.(4) It has, however, been said,(5) that usually "If the witness swears positively that the notes, though made ex post facto, were taken down at a time when he had a distinct recollection of the facts there narrated, he will be allowed to use them, though drawn up a considerable time after the transaction had occurred" But if there are any circumstances casting suspicion upon the memoranda, the Court should hold otherwise, as when the subsequent memorandum is prepared by the witness at the instance of an interested party or his attorney.(6) or if the memorandum has been revised or corrected by such party or attorney.(7)

Use of copy.

ner as to enable the witness to swear to its accuracy (10) The words "such document" in section 160 might be thought to include "a copy of such document" to which reference is made in the last paragraph of section 159. But whatever may be held to be the rule in the second(11) of the three classes of cases abovementioned, (12) a copy is clearly inadmissible in the third class, (13) Where the witness neither recollects the fact, nor remembers to have recognised.

- (1) Burrough v. Martin, 2 Camp . 112.
- (2) Field, Ev., 658; eiting R. v. Williams, 6 Cox, 343. As to the use of depositions for refreshment, see Faughan v. Martin, 1 Esp., 440, Wood. v. Commercial C. & V. Ads. Whatton Fr. 5.524.
- v. Cooper, 1 C. & K., 645; Wharton, Ev., $524.
  (3) 1h. & Arn., Ev., $484. For a criticism
- of this rule, see Wigmore, Ev., § 761.

  (4) Recently is an expression of some latitude, see Greenleaf, Ev., § 438.
- (5) Taylor, Er., § 1407; and see Burr, Jones, Er., § 882.
- (6) Stendeller v. Newton, 9 C. & P., 313.
  (7) Anon, cited by Lord Kenyon in Page v.
- (7) Anon, ested by Lord Kenyon i Perlana, 3 T. R., 732, 734.
  - (8) Taylor, Er., § 1404.

- (9) Ib.; Burton v. Plummer, 2 A. & E., 311. It has been held in America in some cases that the "best exidence" rule has here no application;
- Burr. Jones, § 881. (10) Taylor, Ev., § 1408.
- (11) v. sate, pp. 896, 897. "The English rules that if the copy be an imperfect extract, or he not proved to be a correct copy, or if the unlaws have no sadependent recollection of the facts marrated therein, the original must be used;" Taylor, Eq. 31407.
- (12) v. aste, pp. 696, 897,
- (13) v. mate. pp. 896, 897. Are as to this question Markby, Ev., 117 (copy not allowed under a 160); Causingham, Fr., 376 (tor same);

the written statement as true, and the writing was not made by him, his testimony so far as it is founded upon the written paper, is but hearsay, and a witness can no more be permitted to give evidence of his inference from what a third person has written than from what a third person has said.(1) But the Court will not compel a watness to refresh his memory when the result of his doing so would enable cross-examining Counsel to see a document which is otherwise prinleged (2)

The rule of exclusion on the ground of a document being a copy (and the original not being accounted for) does not apply when though in form a copy, the paper is, in reference to the question of refreshing, in the nature of an original or a duplicate Thus in the case undermentioned.(3) which was one of a transcript from a waste-book kept by the clerk, copied thence into the ledger day by day under his checking, the ledger was admitted without production of the waste-book And though a mere extract from the original is insufficient. if the original is but a partial statement only, as for example, such a case as that of recording a speech, a conversation, or the like, where it failed to set out the whole verbatim, it might still be used to refresh, should the witness swear to its substantial correctness (4) In the undermentioned case(5) arbitration proceedings had been held some years prior to suit, and at their close a draft minute of the proceedings was prepared by the arbitrators and then fair copied by their clerk A witness who was present at the arbitration, who had compared the draft and fair copy minutes made by the clerk, and had found the latter to be correct, was allowed under a 159 to refresh his memory as to what occurred at the arbitration by reference to the fair copy minutes made by the arbitration clerk

Experts Section 181.

Experts may refresh their memory by reference to professional treatises,(6) tables, calculations, lists of prices and the like (7) So an actuary may refer to "the Carhale Tables" when called upon to give evidence respecting the value of an annuity on joint lives; an architect may refresh his memory with any price list of generally acknowledged correctness; a medical man may strengthen hus recollection by referring to books which he considers to be norks of authontv and so forth (8)

Thus section awards to the adverse party a right to the production and inspection of, and cross-examination upon, all that is made use of for the of refreshment The grounds upon which the right :- " in the note dealing with the principle upon graviously to the trial, According to English law, the memory may without the production of the document there, however much its absence might be matter of observation :(10) though if produced, the other side have a right to see it and cross-examine upon it. This Act, however, by the use of the words "while under examination" in section 159, apparently contemplates the use of the document in Court, whether or not it has also been previously referred to; and section 161 enacts that the document referred to while under examination "must be produced and shown to the adverse party." It would seem Norton, Ev., 339 (c. 159 read with a 180 would admit the copy); Field, Et., 869 (Act is silent as to use of copy under a. 160).

<sup>(1)</sup> Greenleaf, Er., 4 43%.

<sup>(2)</sup> Nems Chandr. Wallare, 4 C. L. J , 288 (3) Surion v. I'lummer, 2 A & E., 314; and mr Horne v. Mackensie, & C. & F., 628, 639, 643; Physion, Ev., 3rd Ed., 446, <sup>(4)</sup> The O'Coundlease, Armstrong and Trever.

<sup>151</sup> Nestorni Then v. Acade Lall, 5 C. W.

<sup>(6)</sup> S. 139 In this instance there is of course no condition stinched as to the persons by whom, or the time when, the document must have been

&#x27;(7) Taylor, Er., $5 1422, 1408.

<sup>(8) 16. .</sup> v. ante, p 399.

<sup>(9)</sup> v. cate, pp. 893, 896 (10) Kennington v. Inglie, 8 East , 273; Burton v. Flummer, 2 A. & E., 311 ; 2 I'h. & Arn., Er , 491, it is however usual and resconable to produce the document; Taylor, Er., § 1415 therefore that in every case where a document is used to refresh the memory it must be produced at the trial.(1) The adverse party is apparently entitled under the section to cross-examine not only on the particular part referred to, but on the document generally (2) As to cross-examination on matters other than those referred to, v. post.

The section says the document must be shown to the adverse party of he requires it: for if the object of the question be attained, it may be unnecessary for the Counsel for the other side to ask to look at the document (3) The opposite party has a right to look at any particular writing before or at the moment when the witness uses it to refresh his memory in order to answer a particular question; but if he then neglects to exercise his right, he cannot continue to retain the right throughout the whole of the subsequent examination of the witness (4) And it does not follow that because a party is entitled to see a writing which contains the statement of a witness taken down by the police that he is therefore entitled to see other writings which contain the statements of persons other than that witness, and which have no connection with that witness's statement except that they were taken in the course of the same enquiry by the police.(5) It is not necessary for the adverse party to put in the document as part of his evidence, merely because he has looked at it or has cross-examined the witness respecting entries which have been previously -referred to (6) It has however been held in England that if he goes further and cross-examines as to other parts of the memorandum, he thereby makes it his own evidence :(7) a matter as to which the section is silent.

It is to be observed that it is only when a document is used for purposes referred to in sections 159, 160, that the adverse party has a right to see and cross-examine upon it; and therefore, "if a paper be put into the hands of a witness, merely to prove handwriting, and not to refresh his memory, or if being given to the witness for the purpose of refreshing his memory, the questions founded upon it utterly fail, the opposite party is not entitled to see it, except sufficiently to enable him to recognise it, if it be subsequently offered in evidence, or to re-examine upon it, and may not comment upon its contents. Indeed, if under these circumstances he read it or comment on it, he may be required by his adversary to put it in.(8)

There are other modes of refreshing the memory of witnesses than the use Other modes of memoranda in writing. While a party cannot, as a rule, cross-examine his refreshin own witness, if a witness have given an ambiguous or indefinite answer, or if memory. his memory is at fault, the Court, in the exercise of a proper discretion, may allow verbal enquiry as to statements, or circumstances, which may tend to enable the witness to recollect more clearly the fact sought to be proved.(9)

<sup>(1)</sup> See observations in Goodeve, Ev., 212, on s. 48, Act II of 1855, which ran :- "A witness shall be allowed before any such Court or person oforesaid to refresh his memory." With regard to police-diaries, v. aste, pp. 839, 900.

<sup>(2)</sup> See Goodeve, Ev., 212; and Taylor, Ev., § 1413, ested post; but In re Jhubbon Makton, 8 C., 739, 745 (1882); Field, J , said ;-" The opposite party may look at the writing to see what kind of writing it is in order to check the use of improper documents; but I doubt whether he is entitled, except for this particular purpose, to question the witness as to other and independent matters contained in the same series of writings.

The Court may limit the right of inspection to such portions of the paper as are relevant. Wharton, Ev., § 525

<sup>(3)</sup> See for example, In re Jaubbon Makton. 8 C., 739, 743 (1832).

<sup>(4)</sup> In re Jhubboo Makton, 8 C., 739, 744 (1882).

<sup>(3)</sup> Ib. (6) Taylor, Ev., § 1413.

<sup>(8)</sup> Taylor, Ev., § 1413, and cases there ested.

<sup>(9)</sup> Burr. Jones, Ev., 5 885, and v. aute, s. 143, "Defective Memory."

Production of documents

162. A witness summoned to produce a document shall, if it is in his possession or power, bring it to Court notwithstanding any objection which there may be to its production or to its admissibility. The validity of any such objection shall be decided on by the Court.

The Court, if it sees fit, may inspect the document, unless it refers to matters of State, or take other evidence to enable it to determine on its admissibility.

Translation of docu-

If for such a purpose it is necessary to cause any document to be translated, the Court may, if it thinks fit, direct the translator to keep the contents secret, unless the document is to be given in evidence: and, if the interpreter disobeys such direction, he shall be held to have committed an offence under section 166 of the Indian Penal Code.

Principle -The summons to produce a document is like the summons to appear as a witness, of compulsory obligation, and must be obeyed by the witness, who has no more right to determine whether the documents shall be produced than whether he shall appear as a witness. It is his duty, therefore, to attend and bring with him the documents according to the exigency of the summons, it being for the Court alone to determine both as to the admissibility of the documents or whether they should be produced and exhibited.(1)

s. 3 (" Document ") 89. 121-131 (Privilege.) s. 3 (" Court.") e. 123 (Documents referring to matters of State.)

Taylor, Ev., § 1240; 2 Ph. & Arn., Ev., 425; Roscoe, Nist Prius, Ev., 154-156; Field, Ev., 662, 663, 579.

COMMENTARY.

Production of docu-ments.

The rule of English law is similar. For when a witness is served with a subpæna duces tecum he is bound to attend with the documents demanded therein, and he must leave the question of their actual production to the Judge, who will decide upon the validity of any excuse that may be offered for withholding them.(2) When so brought into Court the production of the documents in evidence will be excused where it has been declared to be privileged from disclosure under this Act, as where it is the third party's title-deed,(3) or a confidential communication dential communication professionally made between a legal adviser and his client(4) or the like. When the production is excused, secondary evidence is admissible,(5) and if the document be brought into Court by a witness, who

<sup>(1)</sup> Bure. Jones, Et., § 801, esting Amey t. Long, 9 East., 483 , Doc s . Kelly 4 Dowl , 273 , R. v. Russell, 7 Doul., 693, H. v. Diren. 3 Burt. (1687)

<sup>(2) .</sup>Imry v. Lung. 9 East , 473 , Rower, N. P., Ev., 154-156; Taylor, Ev., § 1240, 2 Ph. Arn., 425. An attachment will be for contempt in case of distributionce even though it may be very questionable whether the person summoned would be bound to submit the document to examination in the event of his bringing it into Court. R v Greenquay, 7 Q. B. 126; R. t. Carey, ile.; so to the penalty for non-production. see Penal Code, s. 175.

<sup>(3)</sup> S. 130, ante.

<sup>(4)</sup> Se, 193-197, anir, and sea generally as. [2]-13], ante. (5) Flow v. Hour. 7 M. & W., 102; Marelon v.

Downes, 1 A. & E., 31; see aste, pp. 484-494 where this question is discussed.

says that he is instructed by the owner to object to the production of it, this is enough to justify secondary proof without subprensing the owner himself to make the objection in person.[1] It is obvious that a witness cannot be compelled to produce a document by a summons, unless such document is under his control or possession. So a mere clerk in a bank is under no obligation to produce its books when they are under the control of the cashier; [2] and it was so held as to the secretary of a railway company, as he was only the employee of the directors (3) nor are documents filed in a public office so in the possession of a clerk there, as to render it necessary, or even allowable for him to bring them into Court without the permission of the head of the office. (4) But one having the actual custody of documents may be compelled to produce them, although they are owned by others. (5) The validity of any objection made by the person producing the document will be decided by the Court. And the Court has jurisdiction to punish disobedience to a subparae by attachment even when the disobedience is not will(16)

The provision that the Court may, if it sees fit, uspect the document unless it refers to matters of State) appears not to be in accordance with the rule as laid down in some English cases. For it has been held that when the witness declines to produce a document on the ground of professional confidence, the Judge should not inspect it to see whether it was one which he ought to withhold, and it seems that the mere assertion on oath by the solicitor that it is a title-deed or other privileged document is conclusive.(7)

The Court may also, in order to decide on the validity of the objection, take other evidence to enable it to determine on its admissibility. "All questions as to the admissibility of evidence are for the Judge. It frequently happens that this depends on a disputed fact, in which case all the evidence adduced both to prove and disprove that fact must be received by the Judge,—and however complicated the facts or conflicting the evidence—must be adjudicated on by him alone "(8) Thus the Judge must equally (for example) decide whether a confession should be excluded by reason of some previous threat or promise, and whether a document is protected from disclosure as being a confidential communication or the like [9].

O. XI, r. 14(10) of the Civil Procedure Code empowers the Court during the pendency of the sunt to order the production by any party thereto of such of the documents in a tree in question in such suit as the Ce held that the Ce power jointly with some other person, who is not before the Court.(11)

<sup>(1)</sup> Pholps v. Preu, 3 E & B., 430; it seems to be sufficient if one only of several interested parties object; Neuron v. Choplain, 19 L. J., C. P., 374, see also Kearsley v. Phillips, 10 Q. B. D., 465; Roscoe, N. P., Ev., 156.

<sup>(2)</sup> Bank of Utica v. Hillard, 5 Cow., 154 (Amer.); United States Exp. Co. v. Henderson, 69 Iowa, 40 (Amer.), cited in Burr. Jones, Ev., § 802.

 <sup>(3)</sup> Crowther v. Appleby, L. R., 9 C. P., 27.
 (4) Thornhill v. Thornhill, 2 J. & W., 347;
 Audin v. Evans, 2 M. & Gr., 430.
 (5) Amey v. Long, 1 Camp., 17. s. c., 9

East., 473; Corsen v. Dubose, I Holt, 239.
(6) R. v. Daye (1903), 2 K. B., 333
(Dum. Ct)

(Divn. Ct.)
(7) Rosens, N. P., Er., 156, citing Dos v. James.

<sup>2</sup> M. & Rob. 47; I'dort v. Supp. 12 C. R., 221
"There have, however, been cases m which the Julge has impreted documents in order to decide upon their admissibility. If it be objected on the one side that it is impossible for a julge who discharges the functions of Julge and Jury, to avoid receiving some Impression from the document it he do look at it, it may be urged on the other side that he rule of impretting prospects a targement against futile or dehouses objections and effects a great away of the time of the Court."

Field, Ev., 662, 663 (8) Taylor, Ev., § 23 A.

<sup>(9) 1</sup>b. (10) P. 767.

<sup>(11)</sup> Kenreley v. Philips, 10 Q. B. 11., 405, fo'low.

The provision that the translator may be ordered to keep the contents of a document secret refers to cases where a document is claimed to be privileged from production in evidence, but its translation is necessary in order that the Court may ascertain whether the claim of privilege is well founded or not. Section 166 of the Penal Code deals with the case of a public servant disoberg a direction of the law with intent to cause injury to any person. Of course, secrecy is unnecessary, if the document is to be given in evidence. In connection with this subject it may be noted that when documents are put in for the purpose of formal proof, it is in the discretion of the Court in criminal proceedings to interpret as much thereof as appears necessary (1).

Documents referring to matters of State stand upon a peculiar footing. Section 123 makes the giving of evidence derived from unpublished official records relating to affairs of State entirely dependent upon the discretion of the head of the department concerned (2) It may be therefore perhaps said to be unnecessary for the Judge to have the right of inspecting any document of this character; (3) though he must necessarily have such right in the case of other privileged documents in order that he may judge as to their admissibility and obligatory production in evidence. The person in custody of what he considers a privileged State document must bring it with him to Court, that the latter may decide whether it is a document of that character or not The position of the words " unless it refers to matters of State" in the second paragraph of the section, appears to show that the Court, although it may not inspect a document relating to matters of State, may yet take other evidence to enable it to determine on its admissibility (4) Apparently upon the objection and statements of the person appearing with the document, the Court will determine whether it is or is not a State document If the Court decides that it is a State document, then it is for the head of the department alone to determine whether evidence shall be given of it or not (5)

It has been said that in the case of State proceedings the Court cannot unspect them for the purpose of seeing if the character upon the word of the public off But by this, it is conceived is meant that the document which in his opinion show that it is one coming within the purview of section 123, and the Court then (though bound by the officer's statement and forbidden to inspect the document) determines whether those facts do or do not give the document the character claimed for it. Otherwise it does not appear that there is any function assigned to the Court in the matter, or that there is any reason why such a document is required to be produced in Court.

in Marroy v. Wolter, Cr., & Ph., 114 See the latter and hadred cases discussed with reference to the procedure to be adopted in this country in Hop., Johann v. Hop. Kanm., 1 B., 199 (1876), where it was held that one partner of a firm represents the other partners for the purposes of production of documents. See also Tuglor v. Rawdid, Cr. & Ch., 104; 1 Philips, 221, 226; Reitlewell v. Berston, L. R., 7 Ch. App., 696 (the fact that persons not parties to the suit are interested in the document is no ground for resisting production); London and York-brief Hole, Ld. v. Cooper, 15Q R. D., 427 (soutody of lipshator), U. C., 104, e., 301; eras dos, R. v. Antreell, (1) Cr. Jr. Code, s. 301; eras dos, R. v. Antreell.

din, 7 R. L. R., 36, 71 (1871).

(2) Leing in this in accombance with Bentson v.
Stone, 5 H. N., 834.

(3) Cunningham, Ev., 330; In Honnessy v. Wright, 1 Q. R. D., 509, 515. Field, J., and that he should consider himself entitled privately to examine the document to see whether the har of injury to the public service was the real motive for the objection.

(4) See Field, Ev., 578; where also other tentative interpretations of this section so far as it concerns State documents are to be found, which appear to the authors to be hardly supportable.

(6) Mayne's Criminal Law, 88.

unless it be that the officer may publicly and in the presence of the Judge claim privilege from production. The oath of secrecy which is taken by income-tax officers does not apply to cases in which they are summoned to give evidence in a Court of Justice (1) Rule 16 of the rules made by the Local Government under s 38 of the Income-tax (Act II of 1886) does not apply to the production of income-tax papers in a Court of Law in a suit between two partners.(2)

In the undermentioned case(3) the Magistrate of a district refused to produce a written report made to him by a Magistrate in charge of a division of a district as to the result of an enquiry made by the latter under the provisions of section 135 of the Criminal Procedure Code, into the cause of a sudden and unnatural death. When the case came before the High Court, the District Magistrate appeared, through Counsel, with the report, ready to produce it, if the High Court held it not to be privileged, or to show it to the Judges if they desired to see it before making their order, but submitted, amongst other grounds, that the report was a communication privileged under section 124 of this Act. It was held that this report was not a judicial proceeding and that the District Magistrate was justified in refusing to produce it.

163. When a party calls for a document which he has divide as given the other party notice to produce, and such document called for is produced and inspected by the party calling for its producing, and produche is bound to give it as evidence if the party producing it notice requires him to do so.

Principle -See Note, post

s. 3 (" Documents.")

ss. 65, 66 (Notice to produce.)

Taylor, Ev., § 1817, Wharton, Ev., § 156.

COMMENTARY.

The production of papers upon notice does not make them evidence in produced acquainted with their contents, in which case he is obliged to use them as his evidence, at least if they be in any way material to the issue (4) Where a party to a case calls for a document from the other party and inspects the same, he takes the risk of making it evidence for both parties. It rests, however, upon the party who calls for and inspects a paper to adduce evidence of its genuineness if that be not admitted (5). The reason for this rule is that it would give an unconscionable advantage to a party to enable him to pry into the affairs of his adversary, without at the same time subjecting him to the risk of making whatever he inspects evidence for both parties (6)

<sup>(1)</sup> Ib., citing Lev w Birrell, 3 Camp. 377, and stating that Scotlind. C. J., in R. y Faldra: Khas, 2 Mad, Sessions 1863, compelled the production of income-tax schedules, though the objection was taken by the officer who appeared, and see Verkelachilla Chiticar x Sampatha Chiticar, 23 Mad, 52.

<sup>(2)</sup> Jadobram Dey v Bulloram Dey, 26 C. 281 (1899).

<sup>(3)</sup> In re Troylokhanath Biswas, 3 C., 742 (1878, (4) Taylor, Ev., § 1817, and cases there cited If the party giving the notice declines to use the papers when produced, this, though matter of observation, will not make them evidence for the adverse party. Nogers. Archee, 1. Esp., 200 (for it notices to produce inverted the instrument called for with the attribute of evidence, bestimony incapable of proof might be browned; into a case by such notice. Whatron, Er. § 1501, though it is otherwise, as the section says, if the papers are inaperted by the party calling for them, see Norton, Er. § 212. A person is not obliged to put, nevidence the papers called for by him; Whatron, Er. § 150.

<sup>(5)</sup> Mahomed v. Abdul, 5 Bom. L. R., 380 (1903) (6) Taylor, Ev., § 1817 in Wharam v. Routledge, 5 Esp., 233; Lord Ellenborough said; "You cannot ask for a book of the opposite party and

When A calls upon B to produce a document and B produces it, this prima facie avoids the necessity of proving such document on A's part where it is relied on by B as part of his title.(1) Where notice has been given to the opponent to produce papers in his possession or power, the regular time for calling for their production is not until his case has been entered upon by the party who requires them; till which time the other party may, in strictness, refuse to produce them, and no cross-examination as to their contents is then allowable. Still, it is considered rigorous to insist upon this rule, and as a due adherence to it would be productive of inconvenience, the Judges are very unwilling to enforce it.(2) And according to the English practice, a party who has given his opponent notice to produce certain documents is allowed to call for them at any stage of the hearing.

Using as evidence documents production of which

164. When a party refuses to produce a document which he has had notice to produce, he cannot afterwards use the document as evidence without the consent of the other party or the order of the Court.

Illustration.

A sues B on an agreement and gives B notice to produce it. At the trial A calls for the document and B refuses to produce it. A gives secondary evidence of its contents. B seeks to produce the document itself to contradict the secondary evidence given by .1, or in order to show that the agreement is not stamped. He cannot do so

Principle See Note, post

s. 3 (" Document.")

produced.) 84. 65, G6 (Notice to produce.)

s. 89 (Presumption as to documents not Taylor, Ev., § 1818; Wharton, Ev., § 157.

CUMMENTARY.

Documents not pronotice.

A party is not permitted after declining to produce a paper, to put it in evidence after it has been proved by his opponent by parol. Should he be allowed to do so, he would be able to hold back the paper, until he saw whether its parol rendering would be favourable or unfavourable to him, and thus to obtain an unjust advantage over his opponent. The same rule is applied when the party calling for the paper has proved a copy, in which case the holder of the paper cannot produce it and object to the reading of it without proof by an attesting witness. Nor can be after refusing to produce put the paper into the hands of his opponent's witnesses for cross-examination or produce and prove it as part of his own case (3) He is in effect bound by any legal and satisfactory evidence produced on the other side,(1)

It has been declared as the rule that the mere non-production of documents on notice has no other legal effect than to allow secondary evidence, but be determined on the inspection of it whether you will use it or not. If you call for it you make it evalence for the other side, if they think fit to use it."

- (1) Wharton, Pv., § 156.
- (2) Taylor, Ev., | 1817. (1) Wharton, Ev., $ 157; Taylor, Ev., $ 1818; Burr, Jones, Pv., ff 117, 221.

[4] Norton, Er., 232; where it is also stated that the document cannot be used to refresh the memory of a witness; citing Till v. . lineworth. Bristol, 1847; Wilde, C. J., MSS. As to the prevalence of a similar rule when a party determines upon keeping back a chattel; see I eres v. Hart fey. 7 C. & P., 443; or refusing to give inspection. ere Cir. Pr. Calc. O. M. e 13 p 788.

the weight of authority sustains the view that there may also be a presumption that the evidence withheld would have operated unfavourably to the party refusing to produce it.(1). There is a presumption further that a document called for and not produced after notice was attested, stamped and executed in the manner required by law.(2)

165. The Judge may, in order to discover or to obtain Judge to proper proof of relevant facts, ask any question he pleases, in any proper form, at any time, of any witness, or of the parties, about any ender profest relevant or irrelevant; and may order the production of any document or thing: and neither the parties nor their agents shall be entitled to make any objection to any such question or order, nor, without the leave of the Court, to cross-examine any witness upon any answer given in reply to any such question:

Provided that the judgment must be based upon facts declared by this Act to be relevant, and duly proved:

Provided also that this section shall not authorize any Judge to compel any witness to answer any question, or to produce any document which such witness would be entitled to refuse to answer or produce under sections 121 to 131, both inclusive, if the question were asked or the document were called for by the adverse party; nor shall the Judge ask any question which it would be improper for any other person to ask under section 148 or 149; nor shall be dispense with primary evidence of any document, except in the cases hereinbefore excepted.

Principle — "This section is intended to arm the Judge with the most extensive power possible for the purpose of getting at the truth. The effect of this section is that in order to get to the bottom of the matter before it, the Court will be able to look at and enquire into every fact whatever; "(3) and thus possibly acquire valuable indicative evidence (v povt) which may lead to other evidence strictly relevant and admissible. The Court is not, however, permitted to found its judgment on any but relevant statements, because such a permission would lead to reliance on second-hand reports, would waste time and open a wide door for fraud (4). See further Notes, post

s. 3 (" Relevant.")

s. 3 (" Fact.") s 60, Prov. 2 (Production of chattel.) ss. 138, 145-154 (Cross-examination.) s. '3 (" Court ") s 3 (" Proted.")

s. 3 (" Document.")
ss. 148, 149 (Questions to credit.)

ss. 121-131 (Privilege.)
ss. 61-66 (Primary evidence.)

Steph. Introd., 161—163, 73; Best, Ev., §§ 86, 93, Wharton, Ev., § 291; Taylor, Ev., §§ 1477, 23—27, Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 12th Ed., 120; Norton, Ev., 323, 342, 65; Markby, Ev., 114, 115.

<sup>(1)</sup> Burr. Jones, Fv., § 17.

<sup>§§ 86, 93.</sup> (4) Steph. Introd., 162, 163.

<sup>(2)</sup> S. 89, cate.
(3) Steph. Introd , 162, and see Best, Ev.,

COMMENTARY.

Questions by the Judge

The Judge may question the witness either in the manner and with the object followed by the parties, or he may avoid himself of the more extended power of interrogation which is given to him under the terms of this section. It has been a matter of juristic "dispute whether a Judge can, on his own motion, put to the witness questions independently of Counsel, so as to bring out points Counsel designedly or undesignedly overlook. On one side it has been urged in conformity with the scholastic view, that the Judge is confined to the proof adduced by the parties. On the other side, it is insisted that it is absurd for a Judge with a witness before him not to do what he can to elicit the truth. So far as concerns the abstract principle, writers on the English Common Law repeatedly affirm the scholastic view that the Judge must form his judgment exclusively on the proof brought forward by the parties concerns the practice, Judges both in England and in the United States, do not hesitate to interrogate a witness at their own discretion, eliciting any facts they deem important to the case "(1) Again, "the Judge has a certain latitude allowed him with respect to the rules of forensic proof. He may ask any questions in any form and at any stage of the cause, and to a certain extent even allow parties or their advocates to do so This, however, does not mean that he can receive illegal evidence at pleasure; for, if such be left to the jury, a new trial may be granted, even though the evidence were extracted by questions put from the Bench, but it is a power necessary to prevent justice being defeated by technicality, to secure indicative evidence, and in criminal cases to assist in fixing the amount of punishment And it should be exercised with due discretion"(2) It is this latter object (the securing of indicative evidence) which is the main ground for the enactment of this section "It may be objected, and indeed, Bentham's Treatise on Judicial Evidence is founded on the notion, that by exclusionary rules like the above [i.e., rules of evidence] much valuable evidence is wholly sacrificed Were such even the fact, the evil would be far outweighed by the reasons already assigned for imposing a limit to the discretion of tribunals in declaring matters proved or disproved. But when the matter comes to be carefully examined it will be found that the evidence in question need seldom be lost to justice; for however dangerous and unsatisfactory it would be as the basis of final adjudication, it is often highly valuable as indicative evidence ,(3) that is evidence not in itself receivable but which is 'indicative' of better Take the case of derivative evidence; a witness offers to relate something told him by A: this would be stopped by the Court , but he has indicated a genuine source of testimony, A, who may be called or sent for So a confession of guilt which has been made under promise of favour or threat of punishment is inadmissible by law; yet any facts discovered in consequence of that confession, such, for instance, as the finding of stolen property-are good legal evidence. Again, no one would think of treating an anonymous letter as legal evidence against a party not suspected of being its author, yet the suggestions contained in such letters have occasionally led to disclosures of importance In tracing the perpetrators of crimes, also, conjectural evidence is often of the utmost importance, and leads to proofs of the most satisfactory kind, sometimes even amounting to demonstration.

<sup>(1)</sup> Whatton, E. 5, § 281 for Taylor, Et. 5, 1477 [Boson, C., Er., 12th Ed., 120, E. A., Remonst, R. & R., 125, Couloux, Declarough, 2 Q. R. D. (1859), 310 "The Court laways man, and often does, examine a wilners at the close of his examination. The Court is not bound by the same rules as to leading questions, etc. The Court may put what questions it pleases and in what form it pleases; and not in-cellal to my hat form it pleases; and most in-cellal to.

where the examination has not been so intifically or skilfully conducted." Norton, Ev., 323. At to the recall and examination of mitnesses by the Court; see O. XVIII, r. 17, p. 822, Civ. 17 Code, s. 540, Cr. Pr. Code

<sup>(2)</sup> Best, Ev., § 86
(3) In one place Butham also calls it

&quot;Evidence of Evidence," 3 Jud. Ft . 554.

It is chiefly, however, on inquisitorial proceedings—such as coroner's inquests, inquiries by Justices of the Peace before whom persons are charged with offences, and the like—that the use of 'indicative evidence' is most apparent, though even these tribunals cannot act on it.(1)

This therefore "is a most important section. Its provisions, though they may be in some respects not in accordance with English ideas, are wholly suited to the state of things which exists in India out of the Presidency-towns."(2) In his introduction to the Evidence Act, (3) Sir J. F. Stephen remarks :-"Where a man has to inquire into facts of which he receives in the first instance very confused accounts, it may and often will be extremely important for him to trace the most cursory and apparently futile report, and facts relevant in the highest degree to facts in issue may often be discovered in this manner. A policeman or a lawyer engaged in getting up a case criminal or civil, would neglect his duty altogether, if he shuts his ears to everything which was not relevant within the meaning of the Evidence Act. A Judge or Magistrate in India frequently has to perform duties which in England would be performed by police-officers or attorneys He has to sift out the truth for himself as well as he can, and with little assistance of a professional kind. Section 165 is intended to arm the Judge with the most extensive power possible for the purpose of getting at the truth The effect of this section is that, in order to get to the bottom of the matter before it, the Court will be able to look at and inquire into every fact whatever."

And in the Select commuttee the framer of the Act observed as follows:—
"That part of the law of evidence which relates to the manner in which witnesses are to be examined assumes the existence of a well-educated Bar, cooperating with the Judge and relieving lam practically of every other duty than that of deciding questions which may arise between them I need hardly say that this state of things does notexist in India, and that it would be a great mistake to legislate as if it did. In a great number of case—probably the vast numerical majority—the Judge has to conduct the tehole trial utself. In all cases he has to represent the interests of the public much more distinctly than he does in England. In many cases he has to get at the truth, or as near to it as he can by the aid of collateral inquiries, which may incidentally tend to wish to push an

ed with it We any questions, upon any facts, of any witnesses, at any stage of the proceedings, irrespectively of the rules of evidence binding on the parties and their agents, and we have inserted in the Bill a distinct declaration that it is the mainly in the light of private questions between the prosecutor and the pris-

<sup>(1)</sup> Best, Ev , § 93

<sup>(2)</sup> Field, Er. 655. In Norton, Er., 342. it is and of this section that it "merely embodies it is and of this section that it "merely embodies the exiting law as to the power of the Judge to part questions." Sr William Markhy also in his edition of the Act (p. 115) is of opinion that on the construction of the Act tong green in the text (v. popil very Magistrate in India possesses already all the powers of seeking after evidence which this section gives him, referring to Cr. 17 Code, O. XVI, v. 14, p. 805 (Court may of its own accord summon as witnesses strapers to mit and record summon as witnesses strapers to mit and.

see O. X. r. 4, p. 748. th., by which the Court may direct any perity to as unto to appear in person for examination, and O. XVIII.r. 17, p. 822, by which the Court may recall and examine a winner and crame of a court persons, see Gyp Singly v. Makomed Schiman, SC U. X., 584 (1902).

<sup>(3)</sup> Pp. 161, 162

<sup>(4)</sup> The bill was subsequently somewhat modified in this respect.

oner, are at all suited to India, if indeed they are the result of anything better than carelessness and anothy in England."

Under this section, which applies to both criminal and civil proceedings. the Judge may ask any question in any form : as for instance a leading question ;(1) and he has equal liberty with regard to the substance of his question, which may be about any fact relevant or irrelevant. But it is to be noted that the section only empowers the Judge to ask irregular question "in order to discover or obtain proper proof of relevant facts," that is, in order to discover or obtain regularly admissible evidence.(2) He may not introduce into the case any irregular evidence he pleases This is indicated by the first Proviso, which requires that the judgment be based upon facts declared by the Act to be relevant and duly proved. So in a trial for murder, where the weapon had not been found, a witness might state in answer to the Judge that he had heard that the accused had secreted it in a certain ditch. This statement being hearsay would be inadmissible as evidence in the case itself, but the Judge by means of it might be able to direct an inquiry which would lead to the weapon being foun ' '" rancy of a fact suggested, he c it lumself iles previunder this section ously laid down as to relevancy. The section merely authorises questions the object of which is to ascertain whether the case is or is not for may be proved in accordance with those rules (5)

It has, however, been held that it is not the province of the Court to examine the witnesses, unless the plenders on either side have omitted to put some material question or questions; and the Court should, as a general rule, leave the witnesses to the pleaders to be dealt with as laid down in section 138 of this In the case, now cited, at a trial before Sessions Court, (6) the Judge, on the examination-in-chief of the witnesses for the prosecution being finished, questioned the witnesses at considerable length upon the points to which he must have known that the cross-examination would certainly and properly be directed a course which it was observed must have rendered the greater part of the cross-examination ineffective.

Order for production

The Judge is also empowered to order the production of any document or thing, but this is subject to the condition in the second proviso that the Judge is not hereby authorized to compel the production of any document which the witness would be entitled to refuse to produce under sections 121-131, ante. if the document were called for by the adverse party. As to the production of chattels, see also the second proviso of section 60, ante.

Cross exa mination

The parties have no power of cross-examination without the leave of the Court upon any answer given by the witness in reply to any question of the Judge put under this section, and it makes no difference whether the crossexamination be directed to the witness's statement of act or to circumstances

<sup>(1)</sup> Norton, Ev., 323

<sup>(2)</sup> See R v. Lalehman, 10 B . 185 (1895)

<sup>(3)</sup> Markby, Ev., 114, 115, where it is pointed out that the construction of this section is not free from difficulty. That the true construction is that given in the text appears to the authors to be indicated by the words of the first Proviso " But then," as Sir William Markby says, " it is not easy to see why the last clause of the second Penriso was inserted. This clause would be quite intelligible if the section were intended as a general relaxation of the rules of evidence, but why should not a Judge who was merely hunting uperkience look at a cupy in order to see whether it was worthwhile to endeasour to procure the original. It may further be observed that if that clause on the other hand refers to the evidence to be accepted in the case itself, it appears to be mere surplusage, as the first provise has already declared that the facts must be "duly proved," i.e., where the fact is contained in a document primary evidence of that document must as a general rule be given.

<sup>(4)</sup> Steph. Introd., 73, (5) Cunningham, Ev., 341.

<sup>(6)</sup> Noor Bur v. R., 8 C., 279 (1840); a. c.

<sup>7</sup> C. L. R., 345.

touching his credibility. The principle that parties cannot, without the leave of Court, cross-examine a witness whom, the parties having already examined or declined to examine, the Court itself has examined, applies equally whether it is intended to direct the cross-examination to the witness's statements of fact, or to circumstances touching his credibility, for any questions meant to impair his credit tends (or is designed) to get rid of the effect of each and every answer just as much as one that may bring out an inconsistency or contradiction.(1)

But the case dealt with by the section must be distinguished from that Witness where the witness is called by the Court. When a party to the suit or a witness Court. is summoned by the Court such witness is liable to be cross-examined by the parties. The provisions of this section only forbid the cross-examination without the leave of the Court of any witness upon any answer given in reply to a question asked by the Judge. They apply rather to particular questions put to a witness, already before the Court, than to the whole examination of a witness called by the Court.(2) His examination is not to be confined to such questions as the Court sees fit to put to him, but his knowledge as to the facts he states may be tested, as in the case of any other witness, by questions put by the parties.(3) There is nothing in this section which debars or disqualifies a party to a proceeding from cross-examining any witness called by the Court. All the cross-e

Court moned, but was not called, by the defence, and was thereupon called by the Court, it was held that the witness was not a witness for the defence and that the accused should have been given opportunity to cross-examine him (5)

The proviso declares that the judgment must be based upon facts declared Proviso (1). by this Act to be relevant (v ante, ss 5-55), and duly proved (v ante, ss. 56 -100). This proviso as already observed (ante p 911) indicates the construction which should be placed on the first portion of the section The answer to an irrelevant question may lead to the discovery of important relevant matter which may be the basis of a decree, though an answer to an irrelevant question could not be so. The Judge will not be permitted to found his judgment upon the class of statements to which he may resort as indicative evidence, for the reason that it would tempt Judges to be satisfied with secondhand reports, would open a wide door to fraud, and would waste an incalculable amount of time ''(6) It may also be added that it would modify, if not entirely do away with, the admitted and declared rules of evidence to a very considerable extent (7) And it is of course intolerable that the Court should decide

(1897)

(1) R. v Sakharam Mulundys, 11 Bom H. C.

facts on behalf of a prisoner the Judge (there being no Counsel for the prosecution) calls back and examines a witness for the prosecution, the prisoner's Counsel has a right to cross-examine him again if he thinks it material, R v.

Il atson, 6 C. & P., 653 (3) Tarini Charan v Saroda Sundari, 3 B L, R , A C , 145, 158 (1869) , for the English rule

see Coulson v Disborough, 2 Q B D. (1894), 316, expra. (4) Gopal Lall v. Manick Lall, 24 C., 288

(5) Mokendra Nath v R., 29 C , 387 (1902).

(6) Steph. Introd., 162, 163. (7) If madmissible evidence has been received

(whether with or without objection) it is the duty of the Judge to reject it when giving judgment a

R., 166 (1874) (2) Field, Ev , 667, citing Tarini Charan v Saroda Sundari, 3 B. L. R , A. C . 145, 158 (1869); R. v. Grish Chunder, 5 C., 614 (1879), and see Gopal Lall v. Manick Lall, 24 C , 288 (1897), in which both the abovementioned cases were followed In England it has been held that at the trul of an action the Judge has power to call and examine a witness who has not been called by either of the parties, and when he does so, neither party has a right to cross-examine the witness without the Judge's have, which should be given to either of the parties against whom the evidence should prove adverse . Coulson v Disborough, 2 O. B. D. (1894), 316. It has been also held that where after the examination of witnesses to tion of any kind in reference to a case, whether it be relevant or not, other than such as comes before it in the way which the law recognises in the form of legal evidence.(3)

The functions of a Judge with regard to evidence have been declared(4) to be of a three-fold nature :- (a) to exclude everything that is not legitimately evidence, (5) and then when judgment is to be given ; (b) to ascertain clearly what the evidence is which he has before him; and (c) to estimate correctly the probative force of that evidence.(6)

However, even if the evidence on the record is in itself insufficient, the Judge may properly decide the case upon the evidence such as it is, if the defendant has waived his objection to its insufficiency and consented to its being taken as sufficient.(7)

Proviso (2)

This proviso subjects the Judge, in the exercise of the powers hereby given, to the provisions contained in sections 121-131, 148 and 149, ante. Thus a Judge can no more compel a witness to disclose a confidential professional communication, (8) or question him to his credit without reasonable grounds, (9) or compel a third party to produce his title-deeds(10) than the parties or their agents can do Of course it is the duty of the Judge to otherwise properly question and not to coerce the witness in any manner. So where in crossexamination before the Court of Session, a witness stated that, when she was before the committing Magistrate that officer addressing her, said "Recollect, or I will send you into custody," it was held that if the statements were correct, the conduct of that officer was not only most improper, but absolutely illegal, and that a repetition of it would involve very serious consequences (11)

Under this section, a Judge has the power of asking irrelevant question of a witness, if he does so in order to obtain proof of relevant facts; but, if he asks questions with a view to criminal proceedings being taken against the witness, the witness is not bound to answer them, and cannot be punished for not answering them under section 179 of the Penal Code.(12) and if he has not done so, it will be rejected on appeal, as it is the duty of Courts to arrive at their decisions upon legal evidence only . Jacker v. I. C. Co., 5 Times L R , 13.

<sup>(1)</sup> Sm Mchun v. Saral Chand, 2 C W. N., 27 (2) R. v. Jadob Das, 4 C W N., 129 (1899).

<sup>(3)</sup> Maholal v Sanila, 6 Bam. L. R., 789 (1904)-

<sup>(4)</sup> Norton, Ev., 65 . see Taylor, Ev., $$ 23-27. As to the duty of a Sessions Judge in criminal cases, see Cr. Pr. Code, s. 299.

<sup>(5)</sup> As le laid donn in criminal trials by a. 299 of the Cr. Pr. Code. As to the existence of a similar duty in civil cases, v oute, pp. 128 129 and cases there card ; as to want of objection to admusibility, see the case of Miller v. Madho Das. 23 I. A., 106; s. c., 19 A., 76; where it was held that an erroneous w 1 -sion to object to evidence does not make it admissible. "Under the old law, and almost as it were from the necessity of the thing, it was indicated on more than one occasion [see Circular No 31 (Civil sale), 13th Octo ler 1863] that the Courts had an active duty to is considered, and when it is reflected that many of the practitioners in the lower Courts have little idea of what is or what is not relevant, it will be apparent that if the Courts le themselves passive, the utility of the Code of evidence will seriously be impaired. (6) v. ante, pp 353-359, 366-369, and cares

there cited. (7) Sheetul Pershad v. Junmejoy Mullick, 12

W. R., 244, 245 (1869).

<sup>(8)</sup> v. ante, sa. 126-129. (9) v. astr, s. 149.

<sup>(10)</sup> v. ozfe, s. 130 (11) R. v. Ishra Singh, 8 A., 872, 675, 677 (1446), <sup>(12)</sup> R. v. Heri Latelman, 10 D., 163 (1843).

As to the meaning of the last clause of the section, prohibiting the Judge from dispensing with primary evidence of documents except in the cases hereinbefore excepted, see ante, p. 912 note (3).

166. In cases tried by jury or with assessors, the jury proper or assessors may put any questions to the witnesses, through assessors or by leave of the Judge, which the Judge himself might put tions.

and which he considers proper.

COMMENTARY.

Further, whenever the Court thinks that the jury or assessors should view Greations the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been commuted, or by Jury any other place in which any other transaction material to the trial is alleged to have occurred, the Court will make an order to that effect (1) If a jurer or assessor is personally acquainted with any relevant fact, it is his duty to inform the Judge that such is the case, whereupon he may be sworn, examined, cross-examined and re-examined in the same way as any other witness (2)

(1) Cr. Pr. Code, s. 293; see Taylor, Ev., $$ 554-558; Wharton, Ev., $$345-347, as to view of the locality by a Magistrate, see in the matter of petition of Lalii, 19 A., 302 (1897).

(2) Ib., 294; v. an'e, s. 118.

CHAPTER XI.

On Improper Admission of Rejection of Evidence. In his Introduction(1) to this Act, Sir James Fitzjames Stephen observes

with reference to the sections concerning relevancy that "important as these sections are for purposes of study, and in order to make the whole body of law to which they belong easily intelligible to students and practitioners not trained in English Courts, they are not likely to give rise to litigation or to nice The reason is that section 167 of the Evidence Act which was distinctions formerly section 57 of Act II of 1855 renders it practically a matter of little importance whether evidence of a particular fact is admitted or not. The extreme intricacy and minuteness of the law of England on the subject is principully due to the fact tion and answer wor upon a cruninal trial the Court for Crown ! evidence in India has no effect at all, unless the Court thinks that the evidence improperly dealt with either turned or ought to have turned the scale. A Judge, moreover, if he doubts as to the relevancy of a fact suggested can, if he thinks it will lead to anything relevant, ask about it himself under section 165,"(2)

Errors committed by the Court, rectangle of the Court, and occasionally application to a superior tribunal.

been improperly admitted or rejected, a new trial was granted unless it was been improperly admitted or rejected, a new trial was granted unless it was the present rules of the Supreme Court, which prescribe that a new trial shall not be granted on the ground of the improper admission or rejection of evidence, unless in the opinion of the Court to which the application is made some substantial urong or inscarriage has been thereby occasioned in the trial of the action (3)

In England in ciril cases, whether in the case of trials by a Judge and Jury or by Judge alone, if admissible evidence has been rejected by the Judge, the injured party is entitled to a new trial, provided he formally tendered such evidence to the Judge at the trial and requested the latter to make a note of the point (1) So, also, if admissible evidence has been received, provided it was formally objected to at the trial. But the grounds of objection must be distinctly stated and no others can afterwards be raised.(6) These cases are

(2) See Vallam Markly (P. 1). 117) observes:

"I blish there words must have been written under some misconcepton. As the law stands, an error in the reception or repretion of easience may have the gravate consequences." The language is perhaps milesdaine, but don't less Sir J. P. Stephen meant that if was practically a matter of little moment whether an error was made in the reception or rejection of some partial interior of existence which does not really affect the deviation on the merits, but which time might under the rather practice of the Prelish Courts have been ground for a new trial or the quashing of a counts thon. In other north, the section be cents the all results of laght and reall's unnealmed create makes their commission of no great importanand the rathing of technical objections by reacon of such commission ineffectual.

v. Londer, 34 L. J., Fr., 30)
(3) Ph., citing Williams v. Wilcox, S A. & Fo.

<sup>(1)</sup> M p 73.

of such commission incursions.

(3) Best, Fr., J. N., v., poof, and see aleast, as to the misconduct of a jury so as to defeat justice.

(4) Phipson, Fr., 3rd Fd., 82 esting Comptell.

however subject to O. 39, R. 6, by the terms of which new trials cannot under any circumstances be granted for the improper admission or rejection of evidence, unless the Court, to which the application is made, is of opinion that some substantial verong or miscarriage has been thereby occasioned in the trial.(1)

In England if in a criminal case evidence is improperly rejected or admitted there is no remedy, unless the prisoner is convicted, and unless the Judge, in his discretion, acting under the Statute 11 and 12 Vict., s. 78, states a case for the Court for Crown Cases Reserved; but if that Court is of opinion that any evidence was improperly admitted or rejected, it must set aside the conviction.(2)

In India there is no trial by Jury in curif cases, the Judge being in all cases judge both of law and of fact, and discharging the functions of both Judge and Jury. All criminal trials, however, before a Court of Session are either by jury or with the aid of assessors.(3) Criminal cases in the Court of Sessions are tried by jury in those districts in which the Local Government has under the provisions of section 269 of the Code of Criminal Procedure directed that the trial of all offences, or of any particular class of offences, shall be by jury.(4)

Section 167 applies to both criminal as well as civil proceedings,(5) and is which is at the root of modern y, that if legal technicalities

peding the course of judicial proceedings, and the attanment of that substantial justice which should be their only aim. (6) Another application of the same principle is that contained in section 99 of the Code of Civil Procedure which enacts that no decree shall be reserved or substantially varied, nor shall any case be remanded in appeal on account of any misjoinder of parties or causes of action or of any error, defect or irregularity in any proceedings in the suit

314, Persad v. Millogas, 7 Q. B., 730, Ban v. Mildoffer, G. Co., 3 H. L. C. 1. McDosglov, K. KngMt, 14 App. Cas., 194, moreover, even if the specific objections prevail, yet should the exidence be admissible for any other purpose, a new trial will not be granted. Arish Society v. Derry, 12 C. & F., 641, Milney L. Estler, 7 H. & N., 780. See also as to objections, Burr. Jones, Ev., #8 896—899.

(1) See Annual Practice, 1906; Notes and cases eited under Order XXXIX, Rules 1-8, Taylor, Ev., §§ 1881-1882 B , Best, Ev., § 82 , Chitty's Archbold, 730 , Roscoe, N. P. Ev., 273, 274 , Steph. Dig , Art. 143 It is open to a defeated party; (1) to appeal m all cases, (2) to move for a new trial or to set aside the verdict, finding or judgment . Powell, Ev., 663. See also as to the granting of a new trial, Hughes v. Hughes, 15 M, & W., 701, 704 [will not be granted if, with the evidence rejected, a verdict for the party offering it would charly be against the weight of evidence or if without the evidence received, there be enough to warrant the verdict] , Doe d Twier, 6 Bing., 561 , [see Wright v. Tatham, 7 A & E., 330}, Crease v Barrell, 1 C. M & R , 919 , Moore v. Tuckwell, 1 C. B , 607 , Solomon v. Buton, 8 Q. B. D , 176 , the last case observed upon a Metropolitas Ry Co v. Bright, L. R , 11 App Cas., 152; and Bebeter v. Friedeberg, 17 Q B D. 736 . Phillips v. Martin, L. R., 15 App. Cas., 193, R. v. Crant, 5 B. & Ad., 1081 [it is only where the evidence in question is deemed by the Court to have been admissible for the purpose for exchict it was tendered at the treat that its rejection forms a unifcent ground for a new trial | Lord Ethon said in Walter v Frebisher, 6 Vec, 72, that "a Judge must not take it upon himself to say whether evidence improperly admitted had or had not an effect upon him smid."

(2) Steph. Dg. Art. 143, as to the practice in the Crown Cases reserved under 11 and 12 Vice, c 78, and prior to that Statist see R r. Nargy Dadekhan, 9 Rom H C. R. 7374—390, 392 −398 (1872), and R. v. Oaben, L R., 18 Q lt. D., 357, c c, 16 Cox, C Ca., 314, R. v. Croest, S I. L., 188, R v. Claris, L. R., 1 C. C R., 54; R v. More, S L. T. L. R., 287, 1 Rousen, C. F. v. 219—223, 12th Ed., 207, R v. Breass, 224 Q. B. D., 357.

- (3) Cr Pr. Code, s. 26%.
- (4) See ab., n. 269
- (5) v. post, p. 799

(6) See Goshan Tota v. Rechmusace Bulls), 3 Moo I. A. 77, S. a. c., 12 M. In. P. C., 3.2. (The Judical Committee will not determine an appeal against adceree upon the mere fact that some evidence has been improperly admitted by the Contr below. It in the rule of that inhunal too substantial justice between the parties, and to see if there is not sufficient relations on the whole record to justify the coordinate to which the Court below arrived); and as to substantial justice, sealso below Bolkansers, Voreno Singl. No new trial for improper admission not affecting the merits of the case, or the jurisdiction of the Court. Similar provisions are contained in section 537 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. But the disregard of an express provision of law as to the mode of trial is not a mere irregularity such as can be remedied by this section.(1)

The improper admission or rejection of evidence(2) shall not be ground of itself for a new trial or reversal of any or rejection decision in any case, if it shall appear to the Court before which such objection is raised that, independently of the evidence objected to and admitted, there was sufficient(3) evidence to justify the decision, or that, if the rejected evidence had been received, it ought not to have varied the decision.

Principle.-See Introduction, ante.

a. 3 (" Endence.")

s. 3 (" Court.")

Steph. Dig., Art. 143; Taylor, Ev., §$ 1881—1882B; Best, Ev., § 82; Chitty's Archbold, 730, Roscoe, N. P Ev., 273, 274; Powell, Ev., 663; Markby, Ev., 116, 117; Roscoe, Cr. Ev., 12th Ed., 204-210; Steph, Introd., 73; O'Kinealy's Civ. Pr. Code loc. cit.; Henderson's Cr. Pr. Code, loc. cit.; Field, Ev., 669-678; Annual Practice, 1906, Notes and cases therein given and cited under XXXIX, Rules 1-8.

COMMENTARY.

Improper admission The principle of this section is in accordance with that upon which the or rejection Courts in England now act, of evidence, visions of section 57 of the

is based, as also the provisio have been already referred reference should he made The section applies to criminal cases as well as civil cases, whether or not the trial has been had before a jury ;(4) and the prin-and subsequent ust depend upon precedent to be followed in another, it would serve no practical purpose to analyse in detail the cases decided under this section, or section 57, Act II of 1855, but reference may be made to the undermentioned cases,(5) as illustrations of the manner in 13 Moo. L. A. 519 a c. 15 W. R P C. 1 (1870). (1) Subrahmania Ayyar v R . 1 L R., 25 M.,

61 (1901). (2) Opinion of an assessor is not R. v. Terumal, L. R., 24 M., 541 (1901) (3) Ser 16, at p. 91.

(4) R. v. Hurrsbole Chunder, 1 C . 207 (1878) . E. v. Narrojs Dalabhai, 9 Bom H C R , 374 (1872): R v. Pitambar Jina, 2 B., 61, 65 (1877)

R. v. Nand Ram, 9 A., 609 (1897) , Kubrahmania Agyar v. R., 25 M , 61, 75 (1901): R v. Rama Satta, 4 Rom. L. R., 434 (1902); R.v. Alloomiya, 29 B , 129, 152 (1902). The words of this section are Mentical with those of a, 57 of Act Hof 1955 but the latter Act contained no express words making it applicable to all Courts whatever see a ction (1), astel, and it might have been doubted whether all its provisions were intended to be enforced in all proceedings criminal as well as civil R. s. Narroy Dadahhai, 9 Bom. H. C. R. 374 (1872), it was, however, held to be applicable in criminal case in R. v. Ramewans rn - 2 0 11 Cr Ca 47 (1869) 6); λ.

nak DA.

which these sections have been applied. In one of these cases(1) in which evidence had been improperly admitted and objections taken thereto, the Privy Council observed as follows:—"It seems to their Lordships that giving full weight to all these objections, there is still sufficient and more than sufficient proof in the unsuspected evidence given in the cause to support the decrees against which the appeal is brought. Their Lordships, of course, do not give to a decree founded upon evidence which has been so impeached, the same ading of an Indian Court upon evidence alleged. But they are not in the posibefore which, on a motion for a new trial, it is shown that evidence improper to be admitted has been admitted before the jury. The Court in that case are not Judges of fact and are unable to say what weight the jury may have given to the evidence that ought not to have been admitted. But it is the duty of their Lordships, who are Judges of the fact in such a case as this, to consider intelfer, throwing saide the evidence which ought not to have been admitted, there still remains sufficient evidence to support the decrees. Their Lordships must nevertheless express their regret that the Court of first instance in the case before them should have been as lax as it has been in the admission of evidence. The improper reception of evidence always to be deprecated, if only from its tendency to provoke an appeal "(2)

Evidence cannot be said to have been improperly admitted merely because its admitted at an improper stage of the case, unless indeed the other party has been prejudiced by this course (3)

The words "reversal of any decision" indicate the applicability of the Civil cases, power to reverse the deci-The Code of Civil Procecases. But O. XLVII(5) of this Code provides for a review of judgment, and O. XLVII, r. 8,(6)

ting the review A review is distinct from an appeal in that the primary intention of granting a review is a re-consideration of the same question by the same Judge, as distinguished from an appeal which is a hearing before another tribunal (7) In the undermentioned case(8) Farran, C. J., said, with reference

C. L. R., 233, R. v. Pandhorsanih, 6. B., 34 (1881), R. v. Nand Rem., D.A., 690, 610 (1887), R. v. Mard, R. v. Nand Rem., D.A., 690, 610 (1887), R. v. Maren, D. R. v. 197, 223 (1889) and set as long R. v. Hurrhole Chander, 1 C., 207 (1876), R. v. Narroy, Dadohhay, D. Dom. H. C. R., 574 (1872), R. v. Plamber Juna, 2. B., 61, 65 (1877), R. v. Remercani Mulri'aire, 5 Dom. H. C. R., Cr., C. 4. 47 (1889), cited in preceding note, and Womesh Chander V. Chander, V. Chande, Change (Change).
 V. D. V. C. (1890) Worldow Khan, v. R., 21 (2. 935 (1891) R. v. P. Remcander, Change (1895), cited pant. R. v. Alformyo Husan, 2. S. 129, 122 (1902); R. v. Alformyo Husan, 2. S. 129, 122 (1902); R. v. Ames Solita, 4. Bom. L. R., 435 (1902)

- (3) Doe v Boter, 16 C B , 805; Taylor, Ev., § 387. Goshain To'a v Rickmunee Bullub, 13
- Moo I A., 77, 83 (1869) (4) Field, Ev 675
  - (5) pp 1314 -1337 (6) p. 1333
- (7) Access to Review Civ. Pr. Code, O. XLVIIIpp 1314—1337 and the case-cited in Civ. Pr. Code, (the author's edition) in the notes to this Order and in Field, Ev., 675, 676.
- (8) Madkarrar v. Gulabkai, 23 B., 177 (1908

<sup>(1)</sup> Mohnt Singh v. Churiba, 6 B L R, 495, 499, 499, a c., 15 W. R., P C, 8 (1870) (2) See also Eggs Bommerquize v. Gangagamy

Mudaly, 6 Moo, I. A., 232 (1855), Lala Banahidar v. Government of Bengal, 9 B. L., R., 371, 14 Moo, 1 A., 86; 16 W. R., P. C., 11; Goshain Tota v.

Reclawase Bullub, 13 Moo. I A., 77, s. c. 12 W. R. P. C. 22 (1899) [The Judical Committee will not determine an appeal against a decree upon the mere fact that some evidence has been impropried admitted by the Court below. It is the rule of this tribunal to do substantial justice between the purites, and to see if there is sufficient evidence on the whole record to justify the conclavous to which the Court below arrived.

to the powers of revision: "I am myself strongly inclined to the view that when Courts in the exercise of their judicial functions decide that a document is reised their judgment upon the question of

we have no jurisdiction to interfere in the the Courts do in such a case, assuming the document tendered to be erroneously rejected, is to make a mistake upon a quesaterial whether the mistake in the final decision. A mere terial irregularity within the lis provided for by section 37 of Act XV of 1882 in the case of Presidency Small Cause Courts. Under the provisions of sections 38 and 39 of the latter Act a suit decided by the Small Cause Court, and in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds Rs. 1,000 can in certain cases be re-heard by the High Court. Under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act IX of 1887, a review of judgment can be applied for, but not a new trial As to re-trials in criminal cases v. post.

Appeals in cutl cases are of three kinds; (a) appeals from original decrees of first or "regular" appeals as to which see O. XLI; of the Civil Procedure Code; (b) appeals from appellate decrees or second or "special" appeals dealt with by O. XLII, sections 100—103; 107—108 of the same Code, (2) and (c) appeals to the Privy Council regulated by O. XLV of the Code Appeals are also permitted from certain classes of orders (O. XLIII). In addition to the power of appeal conferred on suitors, the Courts themselves are possessed of certain discretionary powers by way of "revision" (Sections 113—113) and "review" (O. XLVIII) at their own instance or that of suitors.(13)

In the words of their Lordships of the Privy Council in the case of Mobur of a the duty of a council in the case of Mobur of a council in the case of Mobur of the the case of the perly admitted by the Court of first instance. It should throw aside the evidence which ought not to have been admitted, and then consider whether there still remains sufficient cudence to support the decree. Where the evidence which is to be so thrown aside is wholly decree can be supported upon rel rerelevant has been thrown aside, to support it, the decision must be reversed. The party who is thus defeated may say that, if he had known that the evidence given would have been insufficient for the purpose, he could have produced other evidence that would have been sufficient. The answer to this objection is to be found in the following observations of their Lordships of the Pricy Council in the case of (5) Mahabeen sufficient. The answer to this objection is to be found in the following observations of their Lordships of the Privy Council in the case of (5) Maharaja Koowar v. Nund Lall Singh. "(6). "The learned Counsel for the appellant have not strongly contended that the proper order to be made on this appeal is one remanding the case for re-trial. They have rather in-sixed that on the materials now before their Lordships, he is entitled to have the decree made in its favour by the Principal Sudder Ameen affirmed. Their Lordships, how-

<sup>(1)</sup> Now section 115, p. 437.

<sup>(2)</sup> The term "ayes al appeal" is not used in the present Cale, which speaks of "second appeals" and "appeals from a gellate discret. As a 372 of the old and a 100, p., 334 of the present Cale. And as to the origin and history of second appeals, see Fahl's Pengal Regulations, Introduction, 178-454.

O. XLV, p. 1289—1307 (S.113, p. 478), O. Mill, PP. 128-1424. As to the Gril Appello: Control to that High Courts in Bornal (Act Mi of 1887), st. 33, 21), Maltan (Act III of 1873, st. 33, 21), Maltan (Act III of 1873, st. 34), and Bombay (Act AIV of 1864, st. 8, 16, 178). Presidence are the Acts and sections noted in the preceding breakets.

<sup>(4)</sup> B B. L. R., 493, 466, 469 (1870), v. an's

<sup>(5)</sup> Field, Ev., 671, 672. (6) 8 Mon. I. A., 199, 219; s. c., I W. R., P. C., 51,

ever, desire to observe that in their judgment the majority of the Sudder Court was right in treating the cause as ripe for final decision. The appellant had at all events from the note of the settlement of the issues, clear notice of what he had to prove. He had been called upon to adduce further evidence on these issues, if he had any to give. He advisedly declined to do so, and called for the judgment of the Court upon the evidence already given. If this manner of trial were irregular, it is not for him to complain of an irregularity committed at his instance or with his consent. And the suspecion, however probable, of the Judge that a vart second and fuller "But there is an

"But there is an itself has been er law, as for example, where secondary evidence of the contents of a document has been admitted without the absence of the original having been accounted for. The rule in England is that, unless the opposite party objected to this evidence at the time that it was offered, he cannot object afterwards; and in accordance with this it has been lield more than once by the Calcutta High Court, that it is not competent to an appellate Court sitting in regular appeal to reject the copy of a document to the admission of which by the lower Court no objection was made by any of the parties, although the original was not produced or its non-production not accounted for."(2)

If the Appellate Court is of opinion that the rejected evidence, if received, ought to have varied the decision, it does not follow that such Court should in every case proceed at once to reverse the decision of the lower Court. It is competent for the superior Court, and in most cases it would be proper, to proceed in the manner provided for by O. XLI, r. 27, of the Civil Procedure Code relating to the production of additional evidence in the Appellate Court (3)

The wrongful reception or rejection of evidence is an error of law, and as such may be made the ground of second appeal (4) But it has been said (5) that there is great difficulty in applying the provisions of this section to the generality of cases which come before the High Court on second appeal on second appeal the Court has no power to deal with the sufficiency of the evidence; it has only a right to entertain questions of law And its duty being thus confined, it seems that when evidence has been wrongly admitted by the Court below, the High Court has, generally speaking, no right to decide, whether the remaining evidence in the case, other than that which has been improperly admitted, is sufficient to warrant the finding of the Court below. It seems that the High Court cannot decide that question, without examining in detail that other evidence, and determining as a question of fact, whether it is suffi-'cient of itself to warrant the lower Court's finding The only cases which the High Court may with propriety dispose of under such circumstances without a remand, are those where, independently of the evidence improperly admitted, <sup>(1)</sup> See also R. v. Medhab Chandra, 21 W. R. Cv., 13 (1814), where the High Court declures on appeal, to receive evalence which was available at the trial below, when the prisoner deliberately elected not to give evalence in reply to the case make against him, and as to the admission of additional evalence in the Appellate Court, et Civ. P. Code, O. XLI, v. 77, p. 1267, Ran Das v. The Official Upstador, 9 A., 306 (1887), Morgan v. Morgan, 4 A., 316 (1882), Upstador, Nohan v. Gopa Chandra, 21 C., 344 (1894), v. post.

<sup>(2)</sup> Field, Er., 672, 673, v sate, a 5, and cases there cited. As to the madmissibility of documents by reason of want of registration, v. Appeadur. In the case of the Stamp law, where a document has been wrougly admitted in evidence no objection can be taken to the decree in appear on that account. See Appeadix, and cases there the lower Court has apparently arrived at its conclusion upon other grounds. Where this appears pretty clearly from the judgment, a remand is unnecessary, because then the error committed by the lower Court has not affected the decision upon the merits (Civil Procedure Code, section 99) (1) The Court may, upon the hearing of a second appeal, remand the case for reconsideration and a fresh decision by the lower Court.(2)

<sup>(3)</sup> P. 1267 and see Field, Ev., 675.

<sup>(4)</sup> Mohim Chandra Roy v Kali Tara Debia, (1907), 11 C. W N., 1028, and see Trailothya Mohim Dain v Kali Procanna Ghose (1907), 11 C W. N., 380, (disregarding evidence without giving sufficient reason)

<sup>(5)</sup> Per Garth, C. J., in Bomesh Chunder v. Chundy Churn, 7 C., 293, 295, 296 [1681] [doubting Watern v. Gopee Swonduree, 24 W. R., 892] referred to in Palabidiars Roy v. Manners, 23 C. 179, 185 (1893).

The rule of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council is never to disturb the concurrent decisions of the Courts below upon a mero question of fact, unless it very clearly appears that there has been some miscarriage of justice or that the conclusion drawn by the Courts below is plainly erroneous (3) Where evidence, such as hearsay, is improperly admitted, the question for the Judicial Committee is whether, rejecting that evidence, enough remains to support the finding, (4) of . for the purpose same weight is to the vertical to so to the vertical to so the vertical to the purpose same weight is so the vertical to the purpose same weight is so that weight to the purpose same weight is so that we will be a so th of a jury in England, in which the Judge who tries the cause makes no objection. The Privy Council, therefore, will not disturb a judgment of an Indian Court upon a question of the credibility of vitnesses; unless it is manifestly clear from the probabilities attached to certain circumstances in the case that the Court below was wrong in the conclusion drawn from such evidence.(3) And in the undermentioned case(6) the Council observed as follows:—"This Board never heard of an appeal being instituted on the ground that witnesses had been discredited, the Court below were aware of the character of those witnesses, and besides the knowledge of their character had the advantage of seeing their demeanour and behaviour of which we, on written evidence, have no power of judging We feel it our duty, therefore, to decide this case on the general principle that no appeal will he from the judgment of a Court below on the ground that the Court discredited the witnesses produced to them by either party."

Criminal Cases As already observed it has been held that this section applies to criminal as well as civil cases (7) In criminal cases an Appellate Court may, if it sees fit, order the appellant to be re-tried (Criminal Procedure Code, section 423); and the High Court in the exercise of its powers of revision may exercise any of the powers contered on a Court of appeal, including the power of ordering a new trial (ib., section 439). With reference to appeals in criminal cases, see the Criminal Procedure Code, sections 401, 418, 430, 407, 409, 410—414, 417, 427, 419, 431, and as to reference and revision, Chapter XXXII of the same Code, Section 437 contains the important provision based on the same principle which underlies section 167 of this Act that no finding, sentence or order is reversible or alterable unless the error, omission, irregularity, want of sanction or mistirection has occasioned a failure of justice. It has been held by the Caleutta High Court, (8) following the decision of the Privy Council in Mahn v. Matorney.

(I) P. 378.

<sup>(2)</sup> Naveh Khan x. Rughoonath Doss, 20 W. R., 474 (1873); Rajkshore Nag v. Mudhoovadher Roy, 20 W. R., 395 (1873), see further as to second appeals, cases cited in Full, Ev., 676— 678; and Civil Procedure Code, notes to ss. 100—103, p. 350—404.

<sup>(3)</sup> Gashain Tida v. Eickmunee Bullub, 13 Moo. I. A., 77 (1869); where also the rule of the P. C. as to the improper admission of evidence is laid down, v. aste, p. 919, note (2).

<sup>(4)</sup> Maker hingh v. Ghunda, 6 B. L. R., P. C., 495 (1970).

<sup>(5)</sup> Musadee Mahommed v. Mahommed Khan,

<sup>6</sup> Moo I. A., 27 (1854).

<sup>(6)</sup> Saniacana v. Arlend, Knapp. 269 (7) v. ante. p. 918, and note (4)

<sup>(8)</sup> Wajadora Khan v. R., 21 C., DS. (1920). Sadda Bhell v. R., 4 C. W. N., 255 (1920). Briber v. R., 25 C., 229 (1457). The first mentional case was discreted from in Taige Transack v. R., 2 C. W. N. 255 (1928). Seatticles in 4 C. W. N. exercilectic, and Schedunger v. R., 25 M., 61, 75, 77 (1931). The Geat may go into the facts for the propose of acreticaling whether three should be a rewitted.

General of New South Wales, (1) that an accused in a trial by jury is entitled to the verdict of the jury on questions of fact, and where a verdict is vitiated owing to misdirection by the Judge, or the improper admission or rejection of evidence(2) the Appeal Court has no option but to set aside the verdict and direct a re-trial. Were the Appeal Court (it was said) to go into the facts in such a case, it would be substituting the decision of the Judges of that Court for the verdict of the jury, who have the opportunity of seeing the demeanour of the witnesses and weighing the evidence, with the assistance which this affords. Section 537 of the Code of Criminal Procedure does not warrant an Appeal Court, in a case where there has been misdirection in a charge to a jury, going into the evidence with a view to decide whether there is sufficient evidence to iustify a conviction by a jury lies on matters of law only ry the accused on matters of fact. section 423, it was held, must not be read as "wrong on the facts" but must be read in connection with the words that follow as meaning that the verdict has been vitiated and rendered bad or defective by reason of a misdirection or a misunderstanding of the law.

However in Bombay it has been held to the contrary, following the practice of that Court, (3) that, when part of the evidence which has been allowed to go to the jury, is found to be irrelevant and madmissible, it is open to the High Court in appeal either to uphold the verdict upon the remaining evidence on the record under section 167 of this Act, or to quash the verdict and order a R v Gibson.(4) and as for New South Wales(5) ace has been improperly admitted, does not apply to India Similarly the High Court at Madras have recently ttal that it was not obligatory on re-trial and that the High Court cc oing, it formed the opinion that the evidence could not, in any proper view of the case, support a conviction, it would not alter or reverse the order of acquittal (6) Improper advice given by the Judge to the jury upon a question of fact, or the omission of the Judge to give that advice which a Judge, in the exercise of a sound judicial discretion, ought to give the jury upon questions of fact amounts to such an error in law in summing up as to justify the High Court, The power of setting on appeal or revision, in setting aside a verdict of guilty aside convictions and ordering new trials for any error or defect in the summing up will be exercised by the High Court only when the Court is satisfied that the accused person has been prejudiced by the error or defect, or that a failure of justice has been occasioned thereby (7) The nature and extent of the powers of the High Court under section 26 of the Letters Patent has proved to be a question of considerable difficulty has been held that section 1" ' trials by jury in the High Court ;(8) as to the d section admissibility of evidence re

Birenden Lal v. R., 30 C., 822 (1903) See an to evidence see R v Haman, 27 B , 626 (1903) misdirection, Rahamat Als v. R., 4 C. W. N., (4) L R, 18 Q B. D, 537 196 (1900) (5) L. R., 1894, App. Cas., 57, 69, 70

<sup>(1)</sup> L. R (1894), A. C , 57.

<sup>(2)</sup> Makin v. Attorney-General for N. S. Wales,

<sup>(3)</sup> R. v. Ramchundra Gorind, 19 B., 749, 761 (1895); all the cases will be found there collected. As to the effect of the admission of madmissible

<sup>(6)</sup> R v Smither, 26 M . 1 (1902). (7) In re Elakee Butsk, 5 W. R., Cr., 80 (1866).

<sup>(8)</sup> R v Narroy Dadatlas, 9 Bom. H. C. R., 358 (1872) , R v. Hurribole Chunder, 1 C., 207

<sup>(1876) .</sup> R. v. Pitamber Jina, 2 B., 61, 65 (1577).

101 of the High Court Criminal Procedure Act (X of 1876) has power to review the whole case and determine whether the admission of the rejected evidence would have affected the result of the trial, and a conviction should not be reversed unless the admission of the rejected evidence ought to have varied the result of the trial, and that the same rule applies where evidence has been improperly admitted. (1) Where however there was a misjoinder of changes,

s held by the Privy Council that be amended by the High Court

arranging afterwards what might or might not have been properly submitted to the jury. Upon the assumption that the trial was illegally conducted, it could not be suggested that there was enough left upon the indictment upon which the conviction might have been supported if the accused had been properly tried: the mischief had been done. The effect of the mischief charges, which was not curable under section 537, could not be averted by dissecting the verdiet afterwards and appropriating the finding of guilty only to such parts of the charge as ought to have been submitted to the jury. To do so would be to leave to the Court the functions of the jury, and the accused would never have really been tried at all upon the charge arranged afterwards by the Court.(2)

Though there is a prerogative right in the Grown to entertain an appeal in criminal cases, there is no absolute right of appeal to the Privy Council interent in the person convicted, and the Council will only entertain such an appeal upon the certificate of the High Court or in very exceptional cases (3) "Her Majesty will not review, or interfere with, the course of criminal proceedings unless it is shown that by a disregard of the forms of legal process, or by some violation of the principles of natural justice, or otherwise, substantial and grave impusite has been done." (4)

<sup>(1)</sup> R . Pitamber Jing, 2 B . 61, 65 (1877) . following R v. Nairoji, 9 Bom H C. R., 35 (1872) , R v Hurribole Chunder, 1 C , 207 (1876); . c, 25 W R, Cr, 36. [Apart from s. 157 of the Exidence Act, the Court has power in a case under el 26 of the Letters Patent to review the whole case on the merity, and affirm or much the conviction.) R v O'Harn, 17 C , 642 (1890). In these cases it was argued for the t rown that for the Full Court to go into the merits of the case would be practically the same as sitting as Judge and Jury, but it was held that the Court had power to deal with the case on the ments as it appeared from the notes of the trial Julye, and in the just case quashed, and in the others upbeld, the consutton In the recent tage of H. v. McCluire, 4 C W X , 433 (1900), st was held that this section applied to cases brand by the High Court when exercising its powers

under clause 26 of the Letters Patent. See also Subramana Ayyor v. R., 25 M., 61, 77 (1991). (2) Subramana Ayyor v. R., 25 M., 61, 96,

<sup>97 (1901).</sup> (3) In to Joylissen Mockerjee, I W. R., P. C.,

<sup>(3)</sup> In to Joylissen Monkriet, I W. R., P. bu 13, s. c., 9 Moo. I. A., 168, R v. Edulge Dyram-

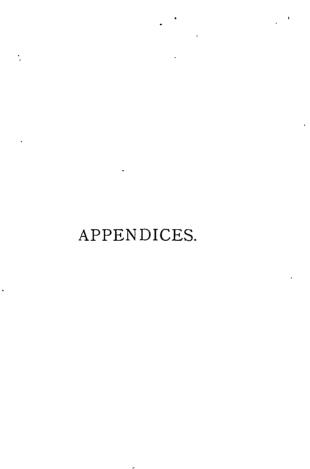

Per Billett, 12 App. Las., see, see, see arguered in Ball Gangedder v. R., 22 B., 52 (1897), in which leave to appeal was refused. In the case of Subrahmania Ayar v. R., 4 C. W. N., ceru (1990), S. M., 61 (1901), have to appeal was granted and the conviction set assle (1) Art Y of 1907 repeals so much of the Indian Evaluation that the trade of the Subrahmania and Artists to Act 1 of 1801.

SCHEDULE. ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

[See section 2.]

Number and year.	TITLE.	Extent of repeal.
Stat. 26 Geo. III, cap.	For the further regulation of the trial of persons accused of certain offences committed in the East Indies; for repealing so much of an Act, made in the twenty-fourth year of the reign of his present Majesty (intituled 'an Act for the better regulation and management of the affairs of the East India Company, and of the British possession in India, and for establishing a Court of Judicature for the more speedy and effectual trial of persons accused of offences committed in the East India; as requires the servants of the East India Company to deliver inventories of their estates and effects; for rendering the laws more effectual against persons unlawfully resorting to the East Indiae; and for the more easy proof, in certain cases, of deeds and writings executed in Great	Section 38 so far as it relites to Courts of Justice in the East Indies.
Stat. 14 and 15 Vict., cap. 99.	Britain or India. To amend the Law of Evidence	Section 11 and so much of section 19 as re-
-	1	lates to British India.
Act XV of 1852	To amend the Law of Evidence	So much as has not been heretofore re- pealed
Act XIX of 1853	To amend the Law of Evidence in the Civil Courts of the East India Company in the Bengal Presidency.	Section 19.
Act II of 1855	For the further improvement of the Law of Evidence.	So much as has not been heretofore repealed.
Act XXV of 1861	For simplifying the procedure of the Courts of Criminal Judi- cature not established by Royal Charter.	Section 237.
Act I of 1868 (1)	The General Clauses Act, 1868	Sections 7 and 8.

<sup>(1)</sup> Act A of 1827 repeals so much of the Ind an Evidence Act as relates to Act I of 1868.

APPENDIX.

Α.

IA .- PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN SPECIFICALLY APPLIED.

		_
Names of places.	Notification or other authority.	Where published.
SOUTHERN INDI Bangalore		British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Madras and Mysore), Ed. 1899, pp. 104 and 111.(2)
2. Hyderabad Assigned Districts or Berar.		British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Hyderabad), Ed. 1899, p. 39.
<ol> <li>Sikandarabad Canto ment, inclusive of Cantonments of Aurugabad and Bolarum.</li> </ol>	ın-ı	Gazette of India, 1904, Part I, p. 115.
I. The Hyderabad Redency Bazaars.		Ditto.
5. Lands occupied by Nizam's Guarants State Railways Copany, the Great Ind Peninsula Railw the Dhond and Mmad Railway, the Marsa Railway and Hyderabad-Goda v Valley Railway in Hyderabad State.	eed musian as, as, an Ma- the	Ditto.
NORTHERN INDL. 6. Manipur [For purpo of cases in which It ish subjects are definants].	ses No. 413-E., dated the 3rd Bri- March, 1891.	British Enactments, Native States, Northern India, Ed. 1900, p. 56, Gazette of India. 1901, Part I, p. 60.
8. Lands occupied by Kalka Simla Rails in the Patisla, Barl and Keonthal Stat	the No. 427-I.B., dated the 29th hay January, 1904.	Ditto, 1904. Part I, p. 96.
	the No. 1245-I.B., dated the	Ditto, 1903, Part I, p. 193,

The two amending Acts of 1887 and 1891 were applied by this notification.
 The volumes referred to are Macpherson's British Enactments in force in Natire - 2nd Edition, by A Williams, LCS

1A.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN SPECIFICALLY APPLIED—(contd.)

Charles and the second sections
Names of places.	Notification or other authority.	Where published,
NORTHERN INDIA— (contd.) hal Railway, the Raj- pura-Bhatinda Rail- way and the South- cer Punjab Railway in the Maler Kotla, Jhind, Nabha and Patiala States. 10. Jammu and Kashmir (For purposes of cases in which the Governor- feneral in Council has jurisdiction). 11. Baluchistan Agency	No. 933-E., dated the 8th May, 1891.	States, Northern India, Ed. 1900, p. 182.
Territories.  12. Lands occupied by the Rewart-Phulera Chord	Law, 1890.	States, Northern India, Ed. 1900, p. 238.
Railway in the Patiala and Nabha States. CENTRAL INDIA AND		-, p
RAJPUTANA  13. Lands occupied by the Indian Midland Rail- way in the Dholpur State in the Rajputana Agency and in the States in the Central India Agency, includ- ing the Bhopal-Ujian, the Goona-Bina and the Goona-Bina and the Goona-Bran Rail- way, but excluding the Naugor-Katali Sec- tion in the Panna State.	5th June 1896, and No. 1160-I. B., dated the 7th March, 1900.	States, Rajpulana and Central India, Ed. 1899, pp. 109 and 300 respec- tively, and Gazite of India, 1900, Part I, p. 155.
14. Lands becapsed by the Rejputana-Malwa Railway in the Native States in the Rajputana Agency (including the Caw prore-Achinera Section and the Godra-Rutlam and Rutlam-Ujjain Railways) and in the Central India Agency (excluding the portion of the Bailway to the	No. 332-1., dated the 24th January, 1896.	Ditto, pp. 126 and 324 respectively.

1A.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN SPECIFICALLY APPLIED—(contd.)

Names of places.	Notification or other authority.	Where published.
CENTRAL INDIA AND RAJPUTANA-(contd.)
<ol> <li>Lands occupied by the Jodhpur-Bikanir Railway System in the States in Rajputana.</li> </ol>	No. 356-LB., dated the 25th January, 1901.	Gazette of India, 1901, Part I, p. 60.
	No. 4350-I.B, dated the 2nd December 1904; No. 4863-I.B., dated the 24th November, 1905.	Ditto, 1904, Part I, p. 896, and 1905, Part I, p. 839.
<ol> <li>Lands occupied by the Agra-Delhi Chord Railway in the Bharat- pur State.</li> </ol>	26th August, 1904	Ditto, 1904, Part I, p. 630.
(Indore State)	December, 1891.	British Enactments, Native States, Central India, Ed. 1899, p. 97.
19 Neemuch Cantonment (Gwalior State).	No. 5022-I., dated the 24th December, 1891.	Ditto,
<ol> <li>Nowgong Cantonment and Civil lines Chatar- pur State Bundel- khand).</li> </ol>	No. 5022-I., dated the 24th December, 1891	, Ditto.
WESTERN INDIA.
<ol> <li>Kolhapur Civil Sta- tion (Kolhapur State, Bombay).</li> </ol>	No. 4803-L, dated the 9th November, 1887, as amended by No. 2328- LA., dated 14th June, 1901.	British Enactments, Native States, Western India, Ed. 1900, p. 269, and Gazette of India, 1901, Part I, p. 383,
22. Disah Cantonment (Pahlahpur State, Bombay) [except the 3rd paragraph of sec- tion 1].	No. 5287-L., dated the 30th July, 1906	Bombay Government Gazette, 1906, Part I, p. 685.
23. Bhuj Cantonment (Cutch State, Bom- bay).	No 2840-I, dated the 9th July, 1891.	British Enactments, Native States, Western India, Ed. 1900, p. 335.
24. Baroda Cantonment (Baroda State). 25 Lands occupied by the following Railways in States in the Bom- bay Presidency —	17th February, 1899.	Ditto, Ed. 1900, p. 419.  Ditto, p. 377, and Gazette of India, 1901, Part I, p. 134.
(1) Bhaunagar-Gondal- Junagad-Porban- dar Railway. (a) Jetalsar-Veraval Section.

IA -PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN SPECIFICALLY APPLIED-(contd.)

Names of places.	Notification or other authority.	There published
COMMON WITH OTI BRITISH DISTRICTS SOUTHERN INDIA  1. Ramandrug (in respect to eximinal jurisdiction oner all persons not being subjects of the Raya of Sandur.) 2. Lands occupied by the Shoranur-Cochin Railway in the Travancore and Cochin States.	H THE ACT HAS BEEN HER ENACTMENTS IN FS OR PLACES UNDER BI  No. 1018-L, dated the 5th March, 1891.  No. 4862-LB., dated the 2nd November, 1990.  No. 507-L, dated the 6th February, 1886.	British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Madras and Mysore), Ed. 1890, p. 30.  Gazette of Indea, 1900, Part I, p. 731.
	i	and the same

1B.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON WITH OTHER ENACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOURING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDICTION— (cond).

Names of places,	Notification or other authority.	Where published,
SOUTHERN INDIA-
clusive of the Yes wanthpur Junction Ry. Station to the frontier of the State on the Bang a lore - Hindupur section of the Mysore State Ry. (d) Lands occupied by the Kolar
Gold Fields Railway.  4. Lands occupied by the Mysore Section of the		British Enactments, Nativ
Southern Mahratta Railway.	September, 1889.	(Madras and Mysore), E 1899, p. 238
5. Lands occupied by the Southern Mahratta Railway in the Hyder- abad State.	No. 4564-1., dated the 18th November, 1891.	British Enactments, Nation States, Southern Ind (Hyderabad), Ed. 189: p. 687.
6. Lands occupied by the Barsi Light Railway in the Hyderabad State.	No. 3244-I.B., dated the 26th August, 1897.	Ditto, p. 688.
7. Lands occupied by the South Indian Railway in the Travancore State.	No. 1474-I.B , dated the 20th April, 1906.	Gazette of India, 1906 Part I, p. 236.
NORTHERN INDIA.  8. Lands occupied by the Bengal-Dooars Railway and by the Eastern Bengal State Ry. in Cooch Behar.	No. 1102-I.B., dated the 6th March, 1903.	Ditto, 1903, Part I, p. 17
9. The Tributary Mehals of Orissa (in respect to criminal jurisdiction in certain cases.)	No. 1375-I.B., dated the 21st March, 1900.	Ditto, 1900, Part I, p. 18
10. The Tributary and Political States of Chutia Nagpur (in respect of criminal jurisdiction in certain cases).	No. 3444-I.B., dated the 17th August, 1906.	Ditto, 1906, Part I, p. 586

IA —PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN SPECIFICALLY APPLIED—(contd.)

APPLIED—(conta.)
Names of places.	Notification or other authority.	Where published
WESTERN INDIA— (contd.) (b) Dharaji-Porban- dar Section. (c) Jetalsar-R a j kot Section. (2) Sombay-Baroda and Central India Railway. (3) Dharangadhra Railway. (4) Jamnagar Railway (5) Morri State Rail- way. (6) Rajputana-Malwa (Western Rajputana, State) Railway.
COMMON WITH OT	H THE ACT HAS BEEN OF THE STATE	ORCE IN VEHICUROUSING
		British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Madras and Mysore), Ed. 1890, p. 30.
Shoranur-Cochin Rail- way in the Travancore	No. 4862-I.B., dated the 2nd November, 1900.	Gazette of India, 1900, Part I, p. 731.
the Bangalore Branch of the Madras Rail- way.	No 507-I, dated the 6th February, 1886.	British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Madras and Mysore), Ed. 1899, p. 239.
(b) Lands occupied by the Mysoro State Bailway from and inclusive of the Harihar Ry. Station to and inclusive of the Bangalore Ry.
Station. (c) Lands occupied by the Mysore State Railway from and in-	1

1B.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON WITH OTHER ENACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOURING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDICTION— (contd.).

Names of places	Notification or other authority.	Where published,
SOUTHERN INDIA— (contd.)
clusive of the Y e s wantapur Junction Ry.
frontier of the State on the Bangalore-Hindupur section of the Mysore State Ry.
(d) Lands occupied by the Kolar
Gold Fields
Railway.		1
4. Lands occupied by the Mysore Section of the Southern Mahratta	No. 3713-I., dated the 19th September, 1889.	British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Madras and Mysore), Ed.
Railway.		1899, p. 238.
5. Lands occupied by the Southern Mahratta Railway in the Hyder- abad State.	No. 4564-I., dated the 18th November, 1891.	British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Hyderabad), Ed. 1899,
	No. 3244-I.B., dated the	p. 687. Ditto, p. 688.
Barsi Light Railway in the Hyderabad State.	26th August, 1897.
7. Lands occupied by the South Indian Railway in the Travancore State.	No. 1474-I.B., dated the 20th April, 1906.	Gazette of India, 1906, Part I, p 236.
NORTHERN INDIA.
		Ditto, 1903, Part I, p. 178,
in Cooch Behar.		]
9. The Tributary Mehals of Orissa (in respect to criminal jurisdiction	No. 1375-I.B., dated the 21st March, 1900.	Ditto, 1900, Part I, p. 187.
in certain cases.}	No. 3444-I.B., dated the 17th August, 1906.	Ditto, 1906, Part J, p. 586.

IA —PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN SPECIFICALLY APPLIED—(contd.)

Names of places.	Notification or other authority	Where published
WESTERN INDIA— (contd.) (b) Dhiraji-Porbandar Section. (c) Jetalsar-Rajkot Section. (2) Bombay-Baroda and Central India Railway. (3) Dharangadhra Railway. (4) Jamagar Railway (5) Morvi State Railway (6) Rajputana-Malwa (Western Rajputana State) Railway.
COMMON WITH OT	H THE ACT HAS BEEN OF THE STATE	ORCE IN NEIGHBOURING
pect to criminal juris- diction over all persons not being subjects of the	·	British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Madras and Mysore), Ed. 1890, p. 30.
Raja of Sandur.) 2. Lands occupied by the Shoranur-Cochin Railway in the Travancore and Cochin States.	No. 4862-I.B, dated the 2nd November, 1900.	Gazette of India, 1900, Part I, p. 731.
	No. 507-I., dated the 6th February, 1896.	British Enactments, Native States, Southern Indea (Madras and Mysore), Ed. 1899, p. 239.
Harihar Ry. Station to and inclusive of the Bangalore Ry. Station. (c) Lands occupied by the Mysore State Railway from and in-

1B.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON WITH OTHER ENACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOURING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDICTION— (contd).

Names of places.	Notification or other authority.	Where published,
SOUTHERN INDIA— (contd.)
clusive of the Yes wanthpur Junction Ry. Station to the frontier of the State on the Bangalore-Hindupur section of the Mysore State Ry. (d) Lands occupied by the Kolar
Gold Fields Railway.  4. Lands occupied by the Mysore Section of the Southern Mahratta Railway,  5. Lands occupied by the Southern Mahratta Railway in the Hyder- abad State.  6. Lands occupied by the Barsi Light Railway in the Hyderabad	September, 1889.  No. 4564-I., dated the 18th November, 1891.	British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Madras and Mysore), Ed 1890, p. 238. British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Hyderabad), Ed 1809, p. 687. Ditto, p. 688.
State. 7. Lands occupied by the South Indian Railway in the Travancore State.	No. 1474-I.B., dated the 20th April, 1906.	Gazette of India, 1906, Part I, p 236.
NORTHERN INDIA.  8. Lands occupied by the Bengal-Dooars Railway and by the Eastern Bengal State Ry. in Cooch Behar.	No. 1102-I.B, dated the 6th March, 1903.	Ditto, 1903, Part I, p. 178
9. The Tributary Mehals of Orissa (in respect to criminal jurisdiction in certain cases.) 10. The Tributary and Political States of Chutia Nagpur (in respect of criminal jurisdiction in certain cases).	21st March, 1900. No. 3444-I.B., dated the

1B.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON WITH OTHER ENACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOURING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDICTION— (confd.)

(conta.)
Names of places	Notification or other authority.	Where published
NORTHERN INDIA— (contd.)  11. Lands occupied by the Bengal-Nagpur Railway in the	No. 1101-I.B., dated the 6th March, 1903.	Gazette of India, 1993, Part I, p. 177.
Moharbhunj State (Orissa) and in the Tributary States of Chutia Nappur, except a portion of the Gangpur State.
the Bengal-Nagpur Railway in the Hingir Taluq, and in the western parts of the Gangpur State between the Sambalpur Road and Gobindpur Railway Stations.	No. 3443-LB, dated the 17th August, 1906.	÷ .
13. Parts of the Namwan Assigned Tract form- etly administered by China.	No. 788-I.B., dated the 2nd June, 1899.	British Enactments, Native States, Northern India, Ed. 1900, p. 65.
14. Lands occupied by the Bareilly-Rampur- Moradabad Ranway, (Oudh and Robilkhand State Ranway).	No. 1880-L, dated the 1st June, 1894
<ol> <li>Lands occupied by the headworks of the Bhawalwah Lodran Canai (Bhawalpur State, Punjab).</li> </ol>	No. 2854-I., dated the 25th September, 1883.	Ditto, p. 94.
<ol><li>Kasumptı, Simla</li></ol>	No. 1516-L., dated the 15th	Ditto, p. 109.
(Keonthal Hill State.) 17. Lands occupied by the Delhi-Umballa- Kalka Railway in the Kalsia and Patiala States (Punjah).	October, 1891.	Ditto, p. 143.
18. Lands occupied by the North-Western Railway in the Nabha, Patiala and Kapurtha- la States (Punjah).	Мьу 1886.	Ditto, p. 149.
19. Lands occupied by the Rajputana-Malwa Railway in the Nabha and Pataudi States (Punjab).	No. 1007-I., dated the 21st   March, 1891.	Ditto, p. 162.

1B.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON WITH OTHER ENACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOURING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDICTION—(conf.)

Names of places.	Notification or other authority	Where published.
NORTHERN INDIA-
20. Lands occupied by the Rewari-Feroze- pore Section of the Rajputans - Malwa Railway in the Nabha and Faridkot States (Punjab).	No. 2925-L, dated the 28th August, 1885.	British Enactments, Native States, Northern India, Ed. 1900, p. 165.
21. Lands occupied by the Rewari-Feroze- pore Section of the Rajputans-Malwa Railway in the Pat- als, Jhind and Dujans States (Punjab).	No. 3927-L, dated the 5th November, 1886.	Ditto, p. 163.
22. Lands occupied by the Southern Punjab Railway in the Bhawalpore and Rikanir States.	No. 3387-LB., dated the 13th November, 1899, and No. 733-LB., dated 9th February, 1900.	Gazette of India, 1899 and 1900, Part I, pp. 1023 and 88, respectively.
23. Lands occupied by the Jammu and Kashmir Railway (Sialkot Jammu Section of the North- Western Railway) in the State of Jammu and Kashmir.	No. 1458-L., dated the 8th April, 1891.	British Enactments, Native States, Northern India, Ed. 1900, p. 193.
CENTRAL INDIA AND RAJPUTANA.
24. Meywar and Marwar- Merwara.	No. 38-J., dated the 8th March, 1872.	Ditto, Rajputana, Ed. 1899, p. 56.
<ol> <li>Deoli Cantonment (Meywar and Jaipur States).</li> </ol>	No. 99-J., dated the 18th June, 1875.	Ditto, p. 82.
26. Lands occupied by the Bengal-Nagpir Railway in the Feudatory States of the Central Provin- ces, and in the Rewah State in the Central India Agency.		Gazette of India, 1906, Part I, p. 585.
27. Lands occupied by the Saugor-Katni section of the Indian	4th August, 1899.	British Enactments, Native States, Central India, Ed. 1899, p. 309.

1B.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON WITH OTHER EXACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOURING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDICTION— (cond.)

(contd.)
Names of place-	Notification or other authority.	Where published
NORTHERN INDIA-
11. Lands occupied by the Bongai-Nagpur Radway in the Moharbhun State (Orissa) and in the Tributary States of Clutta Nagpur, except a portion of the	6th March, 1903.	Gazette of India, 1903, Part I, p. 177.
Gangpur State 12. Lands occupied by the Bengal-Nagpur Railway in the Hingur Taluq, and in the wes- tern parts of the Gang- pur Stato between the Nambalpur Road and Gobindjur Railway Stations	17th August, 1906,	Ditto, 1906, Part I, p. 583.
13 Parts of the Namwan Assigned Tract form- erh administered by China.		British Enactments, Native States, Northern India, Ed. 1900, p. 65.
14. Lands occupied by the Bareilly-Rampur- Morndabad Railway. (Oudhand Rohilkhand State Railway).	No. 1880-L, dated the 1st June, 1894.
15. Lands occupied by the headworks of the Bhawainah Lodran Canal (Bhawaipur State, Punjah).	No. 2834-L., dated the 25th September, 1883.	Ditto, p. 94.
16. Kasumpti, Simla (Keonthal Hill State.)	No. 1516-L., dated the 15th May, 1885.	Ditto, p. 100.
17. Lands occupied by the Delhi-Umballa- Kalka Railway in the Kalsia and Patinla States (Punjah).	No. 4196-L, dated the 15th October, 1891.	Ditto, p. 143.
18. Lands occupied by the North-Western Railway in the Nabha, Patiala and Kapurtha- ia States (Punjab).
19. Iands occupied by the Rajputana-Malwa Railway in the Nabha and Pataudi States (Punjah).	No. 1007-I., dated the 21st March, 1884.	Ditto, p. 102

1B.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON WITH OTHER ENACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOUR-ING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDIC-TION—(conf.)

Names of Places	Notification or other authority	Where published
NORTHERN INDIA— (contd.)
20. Lands occupied by the Rewari-Feroze- pore Section of the Rajputana - Malwa Railway in the Nabha and Faridkot States (Punjab).	No. 2925-L, dated the 28th August, 1885.	British Enactments, Native States, Northern India, Ed. 1900, p. 165.
21. Lands occupied by the Rewari-Feroze- pore Section of the Rajputana-Malwa Railway in the Pati- ala, Jhind and Dujana States (Punjab).	No. 3927-I., dated the 5th November, 1886.	Ditto, p. 163.
22. Lands occupied by the Southern Punjab Railway in the Bhawalpore and Bikanir States.	No. 3387-I.B., dated the 13th November, 1899, and No. 733-I.B., dated 9th February, 1900.	Gazette of India, 1899 and 1900, Part I, pp. 1023 and 88, respectively.
23. Lands occupied by the Jammu and Kashmir Railway (Sialkot Jammu Section of the North- Western Railway) in the State of Jammu and Kashmir.	No. 1458-L., dated the 8th April, 1891.	British Enactments, Native States, Northern India, Ed. 1900, p. 193.
CENTRAL INDIA AND RAJPUTANA.		•
24. Meywar and Marwar- Merwara.	No. 38-J., dated the 8th March, 1872.	Ditto, Rajputana, Ed. 1899, p. 50.
<ol> <li>Deoli Cantonment (Meywar and Jaipur States).</li> </ol>	No. 99-J., dated the 18th June, 1875.	Ditto, p. 82,
26. Lands occupied by the Bengal-Nagpur Railway in the Feudatory States of the Central Provin- ces, and in the Rewal State in the Central India Agency.	17th August, 1906.	Gazette of India, 1900, Part I, p. 585.
27. Lands occupied by the Sauger-Katni section of the Indian	4th August, 1899.	British Enactments, Native States, Central India, Ed. 1899, p. 309.

1B.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON WITH OTHER ENACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOURING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDICTION—(cond.)

(conta.)
Names of places.	Notification or other authority.	Where published.
CENTRAL INDIA AND RAJPUTANA—(contd.)  Midland Railway in the Punna Statem the Central India Agency. 28. Lands occupied by the Indore Section of the Raputana-Malwa Railway to the south of the River Ner- budda.	No 1007-I., dated the 21st March, 1884.	British Enactments, Native States, Central India, Ed. 1899, p. 318.
WESTERN INDIA.		•
29. Lands occupied by the Ahmedabad-Parantij Railway in the States	No 1082-I.B., dated the 2nd March, 1900,	Ditto, Western India, Ed. 1900, p. 395.
of Baroda and Idar, 30. Bombay, Baroda and Central India Rail	Ditto.	Ditto.
way (Godhra Branch).  31, Lands occupied by the Godhra-Rutlam- Nagda Railway in the Baria State (Bombay	Ditto.	l Ditto.
Presidency).  32. Lands occupied by the Great Indra Pennsula Ry. in the Kurundwar State (Bombay Presi-	Ditto.	Ditto.
dency)  33. Lands occupied by the Kolbapur State Bail- way in the States of Kolbapur and Miraj, Senior (Rombay Pre- sidency).	į į	Ditta
34. Lands occupied by the Kotri-Rohri Rallway in the Khairpur State	Ditto.	Ditto
in Sindh.  35. Lands occupied by the Mehvana-Virangam Railway in the Baroda State and in the Kato- san and Jipura Estates of the Mshikantha Agency (Bombay Presi- dency).	Ditto.	Ditto

1B.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON-WITH OTHER ENACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOURING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDICTION— (cond.)

Names of places,	Notification or other authority	There published.
WESTERN INDIA— (contd.)
<ol> <li>Lands occupied by the Palanpur-Disah Rail- way in the Palanpur State (Bombay Presi- dency).</li> </ol>	No. 1092-I.B., dated the 2nd March, 1900.	British Enactments, Native States, Western India, Ed. 1900, p. 395.
37. Lands occupied by the Rajpipla State Railway (Ankleshwar- Pardi Section) in the Rajpipla State (Hom- bay Presidency).	Ditto.	Ditto.
38. Lands occupied by the Southern Mahratta Railway in States in the Presidency of Bombay.	Ditto.	Ditto. Ed. 1899, p. 395.
39. Lands occupied by the Tapti Valley Railway in the Baroda and Sachin States.	Ditto.	Ditto.
40. Lands occupied by the Anand-Petlad-Camhay Railway in the Baroda and Cambay States.	Ditto as amended by No. 1432-I.B., dated the 12th April, 1901.	Ditto, and Cazette of India, 1901, Part I, p. 232.
2.—	***************************************
1. Zanzibar	Zanzibar Order in Council, dated the 7th July, 1897, Art. 11 (b) and Schedule 1.	British Enactments, Native States, Western India, Ed. 1900, pp. 515 and 530.
2. Persian Coast and Islands.	Persian Coast and Islands. Order in Council, dated the 13th December, 1689,	Ditto, pp. 478, 479 and 481.
3. Somali Land Pro- tectorate.	Arts. 7, 8, & 23. Somali Order in Council, dated the 7th October, 1899, Art. 7.	Ditto, p. 496.
4. East Africa Protectorate	The East Africa Orders in Council, 1897, dated the 7th July, 1897, Art. 11(b) and Schedule.	Gazette of India, 1897, Part I, p. 791.

<sup>(1)</sup> This list only contains such information as has been collected up to date and does no profess to be exhaustive.

1B.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON WITH OTHER ENACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOURING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDICTION— (cond.)

(conta.)
Names of places	Notification or other authority.	Where published
CENTRAL INDIA AND RAJPUTANA—(contd.) Midland Railway m
the Punna State in the Central India Agency. 28. Lands occupied by the Indore Section of the Rajputana-Malwa Railway to the south of the River Nerbudda.	No. 1007-L, dated the 21st March, 1884.	British Enactments, Native States, Central India, Ed. 1899, p. 318.
WESTERN INDIA		'
29. Lands occupied by the Ahmedabad-Parantij Railway in the States	No 1082-LB., dated the 2nd March, 1900.	Ditto, Western India, Ed. 1900, p. 395.
of Baroda and Idar. 30. Bombay, Baroda and Central India Rail-	Ditto.	Ditto.
way (Godhra Branch). 31. Lands occupied by the Godhra-Rutlam- Nagda Railway in the Baria State (Bombay	Ditto.	Ditto.
Presidency). 32. Lands occupied by the Great Indian Peninsula Ry in the Kurundwar State (Bombay Presi-	Ditto.	Ditto.
dency)  33. Land-occupied by the Kolhapur State Rail- way in the States of Kolhapur and Miraj, Senior (Bombay Pre- sidency).	Ditto.	Ditto.
34. Lands occupied by the Kotri-Rohri Rallway in the Khairpur State	Ditto.	Ditto.
in Sindh.  35. Lands occupied by the Mehsana-Viramgam Railway in the Baroda State and in the Kato- san and Ijpura Estates of the Mahikantha Agency (Bombay Presi- dency).	Ditto.	Ditto

IB.—PLACES TO WHICH THE ACT HAS BEEN GENERALLY APPLIED IN COMMON-WITH OTHER ENACTMENTS IN FORCE IN NEIGHBOURING BRITISH DISTRICTS OR PLACES UNDER BRITISH JURISDICTION— (cond.)

Names of places	Notification or other authority	Where published
WESTERN INDIA— (contd.)		1
<ol> <li>Lands occupied by the Palanpur-Disah Rail- way in the Palanpur State (Bombay Presidency).</li> </ol>	No. 1032-I.B., dated the 2nd March, 1900.	British Enactments, Native States, Western India, Ed. 1900, p. 395,
37. Lands occupied by the Rajpipla State Railway (Ankleshwar- Pardi Section) in the Rajpipla State (Hom- bay Presidency).	Ditto	Ditto
<ol> <li>Lands occupied by the Southern Mahratta Railway in States in the Presidency of Bombay.</li> </ol>	Ditto.	Ditto. Ed. 1899, p. 395.
39. Lands occupied by the Tapti Valley Railway in the Baroda and Sachin States.	Ditto.	Ditto.
40. Lands occupied by the Anand-Petlad-Cambay Railway in the Baroda and Cambay States.	Ditto as amended by No. 1432-I.B., dated the 12th April, 1901.	Ditto, and Gazette of India, 1901, Part I, p. 232.
MADE APPLICABLE	IE LIMITS OF INDIATO W E BY HIS MAJESTY IN O H HIS MAJESTY HAS JUR	COUNCIL FOR PURPOSES
l. Zanzibar	Zanzıbar Order in Council, dated the 7th July, 1897, Art, 11 (b) and Schedule 1.	British Enactments, Nature States, Western India, Ed. 1900, pp. 515 and 530.
2. Persian Coast and Islands,	Persian Coast and Islands. Order in Council, dated the 13th December, 1889, Arts. 7, 8, & 23.	Ditto, pp. 478, 479 and 481.
3. Somali Land Pro-	Somali Order in Council,	Ditta, p. 496.

dated the 7th October,

Council, 1897, dated the 7th July, 1897, Art. 11(b)

The East Africa Orders in | Gazette of India, 1897, Part

I. p. 791.

1899, Art. 7.

tectorate.

4. East Africa Protec-

(i) This list only contains such information as has been collected up to date and does no profess to be exhaustive.

3.—A LIST OF SOME NATIVE STATES IN INDIA WHICH HAVE ADOPTED THE ACT AS THEIR LAW,(1)

Names of places.	Notification or other authority	Where published,
WESTERN INDIA-
Puddukottai (Madras Presidency).	Puddukottai Regulation II of 1882.	See note in Native States Lists, Southern India (Madras and Mysore), Ed. 1889, p. 20.
<ol><li>Sandur (Madras Presidency).</li></ol>	Introduced by the Raja	Ditto.
3. Mysore	Schedule attached to the Instrument, dated 1st March, 1881, transferring the Government to the Maharaja.	British Enactments, Native States, Southern India (Madras and Mysore), Ed. 1899, p. 57.
4 Akalkot (Bombay Presidency) (2) 5. Janjira (Bombay Pre- sidency).	Notification No. 3413, dated the 19th July, 1880. Notification by the Nawab of Janjira.	Bombay Government Gazette, 1880, Part I, p. 658.
6. Jath (Bombay Pre- sidency)	Notification by the Chief of Jath, dated the 5th May 1888.
<ol> <li>Kolhapur State (Bombay Presidency).</li> </ol>	Notification by the Coun- cil of Administration on behalf of the Minor Raja, dated the 25th February, 1888.	Not known.
<ol> <li>Miraj (Junior). (Bombay Presidency).</li> </ol>	Notification by the Joint Administrators on behalf of the Minor Chief, dated the 10th August, 1888
<ol> <li>Ramdrug (Bombay Presidency).</li> </ol>	Ditto, ditto, dated the 17th December, 1888.	Gradit
10 Sachin (Bombay Pre- sidency).	No. 2983, dated the 7th May, 1887 (on behalf of the Government of the Nawab of Sachin).	Bombay Government Gazette, 1887, Part I, p. 377.
11. Sawantu adi (Bombay Presidency)	Notification No. 540, dated the 10th March 1888, by the Political Superin-	Not known.
	tendent of the State (on behalf of the Govern- ment of the Chief).
12. Savanur	Notification dated the 21st May, 1897, by the Ad- ministrator of the State (on behalf of the Minor Nawab of Savanur).	Published in the bayanur State on 25th July, 1897.
<ol> <li>Jamkhandi (Southern Mahratta Country).</li> </ol>	Notification dated 1st Feb- ruary, 1901, by the Poli- tical Agent.	Not known.

<sup>(1)</sup> In addition to the Nature States that have subpied the Act it may be mentioned that in the Kathlawar Agency, rules shared on the Indian Fractures Act (first 1827) have been brought into force by Natification No. 1, dat of the first harmony 17 has not provided by the Natural 1747 has not provided by the Natural 1747 has not provided by the Natural 1747 has not provided by the Original Natural 1747 has not provided by the Original Natural 1847 has not provided by the Natural Natu

APPENDIX

AA.

FIFTH REPORT OF HER MAJESTY'S COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED TO PREPARE A BODY OF SUBSTANTIVE LAW FOR INDIA.

REPORT.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

WE, Your Majesty's Commissioners appointed to prepare a body of Substantive Law for India, now humbly submit to your Majesty rules of law which we have prepared on the subject of evidence.

India does not at present possess an uniform law upon this subject. Within the Presidency-towns the English law of Evidence is in force, modified by certain Acts of the Indian Lexislature, of which Act II of 1855 is the most important.

The Act contains many valuable provisions . It extends the range of judicial notice and facilitates the proof of documents, of foreign systems of law and of matters of public lustory. It removes incompetency to testify by reason of interest or relationship; renders mony cannot be procured. The Act also gives to books regularly kept, and to certain existing law, and it appears to have been designed, not as a complete body of rules, but an applementary to, and corrective of, the English law, and also of the cautomary law of evidence prevailing in those parts of British India where the English law is not adminstered.

the most equitable.

In laying down uniform rules for the guidance of the Indian judges in general, as well in the Courts just mentioned as in those in which the English law of critience has hitherto prevailed, we do not think that it would be advisable to adopt a system so artificial as that which has grown up in this country.

hich has grown up in this country.

The Book showen's has been monthing in a mast flavour force and a god to at the state.

it was thought could not safely be presented to an unprofessional tribunal. In order to obtain this end, vernous knods of evidence, which were deemed little worthy of credit, we pronounced madmissible, and a great deal of evidence which, if duly weighed and disposantately considered, would tend to the elecciation of truth, is shoultely evidence to the elecciation of truth, is shoultely evidence to the other hand, evidence is admitted, which is at least as dangerous as that which is that out. Thus parent and child cannot refuse to bear testmony for or against each other in criminal cases, while a wife cannot be saked a question on the trial of her husband understeners of the law as to the competency of the married persons to give evidence cause frequent embarrassment, and even occasional fainty of justice.

In a country like India, where the task of judicial investigation is attended with pecuhar difficulties, and where it is the duty of the judge in all civil, and in some criminal caves, to decide without a jury, there is greater danger of miscarriage from the mind of the Court being uninformed than from it being unduly influenced by the information laid before it. It seems, therefore, better to afford every facility for the admission of truth although with some risk that falschood or error may be mixed with it, than to narrow, with a view to the exclusion of talsehood, the channels by which truth is admitted. It is of course impossible to admit all evidence that may be offered, for this would lead to excessive waste of time; but we have provided that all relevant evidence not expressly excluded by our rules shall be admissible, and that except in those few cases where the law itself attaches a special importunes or effect to particular evidence, the Court shall decide for itself whether any weight, and what weight, shall be assigned to each piece of evidence that is submitted to it. The judge must, of course, form has onn opinion regarding the relevancy of any evidence which the parties may desire to submit to him , but it is often difficult, especially in the early stage of a trial to how the exact hearing of each piece of evidence upon the issues. It is by no means our deare that our rules should be understood as imposing upon the judges the use of excessive strictness in excluding evidence of which the applicability cannot be fully shown at the moment when the evidence is tendered. We have, however, inserted provisions intended to guard against the trial of collateral issues arising out of questions asked with a view to impugn the credit of witnesses

It will be seen that we have discarded, for the most part, the rules which limit the discretion of the Court in drawing its conclusions from the whole of the redirince. While we do not interfere with those purysons of the Action from the whole of the window of assurances of the documents. The conclusion which regimes expending a grand force sendence, that to say, a conclusion of the conclusion of any class more videous, get we do not by our own rules attach that the conclusion of any class more conclusions of the conclusion of a winess that here attacked,—do we recognise anything as corroborative though not independent videous, even in the case of the gravest offences against the State, or of perjury, or of criminal charges supported by the evidence of accomplices a locate, or of perjury, or of criminal charges supported by the evidence of accomplicate alocate, or of perjury, or of

An attempt to define all the cases in which, and the purposes for which, particular evidence may be received, would in our opinion impedit instead of an the investigation of truth. We also the control of the control

The exclusion even of relevant evidence may be desirable, when the evidence is such that people are naturally inclined to attach undue importance to it; when it is such a semiot be admitted without the danger of neocouraging forger; so when it is such as cannot be received, or at least cannot be extorted, without injury to interests which are even more important than the judical investigation of truth.

Although, we have ind it down generally that all relevant evidence shall be admirable, we have thought it necessary to make certain exceptions from this rule. These exceptions relate shell, but the exception from the rule. These exceptions relate shell, but the exception from the rule with the transport of the uncertainty and exquences of the meaning usually attributed to that word, the uncertainty and exquences of the meaning usually attributed to that word, and the transport of the uncertainty and exquences of the meaning usually attributed to that word, and that the wides or popular serve; but the extended in the extended of th

After much considering this subject, we have thought that it would promote a nore accurate apprehension of our meaning, and he of more practical utility of the hotics Courts, if we were to exclude the word altogether. We have, there with our scholar the word 'hearvay,' embavoured to by does most office excluding that class of criticines in the case with which he think it ought to be excluded, and for the admission of the word.

sion of it in the cases in which we think it ought to be admitted. We have accordingly gone through the various classes of evidence in which arises the question of admissibility or exclusion of what is called in the English law "hearsay," and have endeavoured to state the rule applicable to each class.

Most of the rules for the admissibility of this kind of evidence are recognized by the English law, others are in accordance with the Indian Act II of 1855, above referred to, or are intended to relax the English rules still further than was done by that enactment

We have, for instance, made admissible in evidence, that which has been spoken, writ-1 41- -1 value as a test of truth.

We have admitted statements as to matters of reputation and of pedigree made by persons since dead or incapacitated, or whose presence cannot be procured; adding in the case of pedigree means of knowled that the stateme that this circumst

We have allowed a limited effect, as evidence, to newspaper reports of public meetings.

The indulgence afforded to witnesses by the existing law in permitting them to refer to contemporaneous memoranda appears to us to be carried too far when copies of such memoranda are allowed to be used for the purpose; and our rules do not permit the use of copies.

The third case in which we have excluded testimony is, where its admission would be dangerous to the public service or inconsistent with decency or morality, with the confidence of married life, or with the freedom of intercourse between a client and his legal adviser,

We have provided that questions of a criminatory tendency shall not be asked merely in order to test the credit of a witness. We have not adopted section 19 of Act XIX of 1853, which excuses witnesses from producing their own title-deeds—a provision which must,

(1) By the Indian Registration Act. XX of 1868, it is provided that instruments creating 18. To 18. (6, 18. in order to be received in immorable property may, in order to be received by the property of the order to property. The property is not to the property of the property in the property of the pr comprised in the rules of lan now submitted by us, and that the enactments which will thus be rendered unnecessary should be repealed.

We recommend the repeal of so much of Acts II of 1855 and XIX of 1853 as remains unrepealed, except section 26 of the latter enactment, which does not form part of the last of evidence

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laus and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 d. 25 Vic , cap. 67

The Council met at Sunla on Wednesday, the 28th October 1868.

PRESENT .

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India, prending. His Excellency the Commander in Chief, G.C.S L. E.C.B.

The Hon'ble G N Taylor.
The Hon'ble H S Maine
The Hon'ble John Strackey The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple, a.c s t. The Hon'ble Colonel H. W. Norman, C a. The Hon'ble F. R Cockerell

The Hon'hle Su George Couper, Bart, c B.

EVIDENCE BILL.

The Hon'ble M: Maine musted for leave to introduce a Bill to define and amend the The Hon Die 33 Manie moved for leave to introduce a Bill to define and amend the Law of Erudence He said at would probably be sufficient to state that the Bill emboded the draft rules of law which the Indian Law Commissioners had recently prepared on the subject of evidence. There was probably no subject in which a codified has more wanted in India, and the Commissioners had fully stated in the report which had been included to Hon'ble Membes, the reasons for all the changes which the Bill proposed to introduce If he got leave to introduce the Bill, he proposed to ask Bis Excellence the Piscellent to supposed the rules for the conduct of bissness, and, on their upcroson to introduce the Bill with a view to its publication in the Origin. There was no use in now dilating to any length on the technical subjects comprised in the Bill

The motion was put and agreed to. The Hon'ble Mr Mame then asked the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business The President declared the Rules suspended

The Han'ble Mr Maine then introduced the Bill

WHITLEY STOKES.

And, Sery to the Gott, of Indea. Home Department (Legislative).

State. The 28th October 1868

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Lives and Regulations under the Processors of the Act of Purliament, 24 of 25 Fig. , esp. 67.

The Council met at Government House, on Trulay, the 4th December 1868

PRESENT:

His Excellency the Vicercy and Governor-General of India, presiding

The Hun'ble Str George Couper, Bart, c. b. The Hon'ble G. Noble Taylor. The Hon'ble H. Summer Maine. The Hon'ble John Strachey. The Hon'ble Colonel H. W. Norman, c.n. The Hon'ble Maharaja Sir Ihrg. Ihijay Singh

Bahadur, x.c at, of Baltempur.
The Hon'ble Gordon S Forbes. . The Hon'ble D Conic. The Hon'ble F. Il Cockerell

The Hon'ble M J. Shaw Struart

The Hon ble Mr. Shaw Stewart took the path of allegianer, and the outh that be would faithfully discharge the duties of his ofher.

EVIDENCE BILL.

The Hon blo Mr. Maine moved that the Bull to define and amend the Law of Evalence be referred to a Select Committee with instruction to report in two months. He said that the Council were no doubt aware that in referring a Bull to a Select Committee, what was affirmed was the principle of the measure or the expediency of fegulation within the general principles of the measure. This being understood, Mr. Maine dul not suppose that the Council would erre seriously think of refuging to refer to a Select Committee a Bull prepared by the Indian Law Commissioners, and therefore he should say very fittle in commending it to the Council. The consideration of the measure was executably a consideration of its detail, and to that detail the Select Committee would doubtless give the most careful attention, not, as Mr. Maine hoped, for the purpose of setting its judgment against the judgment of the Commissioners in the matters which by legitimately within the sphere of their great judicial and forensic experience, but for the purpose of setting whether their specific proposals required in any way restriction or extension with regard to the special circumstances and facts of this country.

On the general expediency of obtaining a coldified law of evidence for India, Mr. Manned and on suppose that there could be two opinions. He ventured to think that the Commissioners had, if anything, rather understated the grounds on which such a law was desirable. They observed that India did not possess any uniform law on the subject. After stating that within the Presidency-towns the English law of evidence was in force, modified by certain Acts of the Indian Legislature of which Act II of 1855 was the most important, they went on to lay that a customary law of evidence prevailed in those parts and the Indian where English law was not administered. "This excountry law," they added to—

"Has not assumed any definite form; the Mahomedan law, since the exactment of the new Code of Criminal Procedure has exacted to have any valship in the country courts, even in criminal matters; and those courts have in fact on first dues of evidence except those contained in Act II of 1853. They are not required to follow the English law as such, although they are not delaured from following it where they regard it as the most equitable.

On looking, however, at the two Indian Evidence Acts, it would seem that they implied

The Mark of the Mark Mark Market and Market and Market Market and Market Market Artificial Control of the Contr

land in the second of the second comprised in the rules of law now submitted by us, and that the enactments which will thus be rendered unnecessary should be repealed.

We recommend the repeal of so much of Acts II of 1855 and XIX of 1853 as remains unrepealed, except section 26 of the latter enzytment, which does not form part of the lat of evidence.

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the proxisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Viz., exp. 67

The Council met at Smila on Wednesday, the 28th October 1863.

PRESENT :

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India, presiding. His Excellency the Commander in Chief, a C. 8 1 , K C. B

The Hon'ble G N. Taylor, The Hon'ble H S Maine The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple, & c $1 The Hon'ble Colonel H. W. Norman, C s., The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell The Hon'ble John Strachey

The Hon'ble Su George Couper, Bart., C.R.

EVIDENCE BILL.

The Hon'ble M: Maine moved for leave to introduce a Bill to define and amend the In Hone big M. Manne moved for leave to introduce a 1801 to deline and afficient.

Law of Evedence: He said it would probably be sufficient to state that the scale and the said of the sa use in now dilating to any length on the technical subjects commised in the Bill

The motion was put and agreed to. The Hon'ble Mr. Maine then asked the President to suspend the Rules for the Canduct of Business The President declared the Rules suspended.

The Hon'ble Mr Maine then introduced the Bill

WHITLEY STOKES.

Asst. Secy. to the Gott, of India. Home Department (Legislater)

STATE 4. The 28th October 1868.

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the Pentisons of the Act of Parliament, 24 it 25 Vic., cap 67. The Council met at Government House, on Priday, the 4th December 1868

PRESENT: His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India, presiding

The Hon'ble Sir George Couper, Bark, CR The Hon ble O Noble Taylor, The Hon ble H. Summer Maine The Hon ble John Strachey, The Hon ble Colonel H. W. Norman, c.n. The Hon' ble Maharnja Sir Dirg-Bijay Singh Bahadur, R.C. 1, of Baltamper, The Hon ble Gordon S. Farbra.

The Hon'ble I'. B Cockerell The Hon'ble D. Couje.

The Hon'ble M. J. Shaw Stewart.

The Hon'ble Mr. Shaw Stewart took the oath of allegance, and the noth that be would faithfully discharge the duties of his office.

EVIDENCE BILL.

The Hon ble Mr. Maine moved that the Bull to define and amount the Law of Evidence berferred to Select Committee white the selection of the Council were nodouble ware that was the principle of the measure. This being undictions, Air, have one intropped that precommittee ability think of relaying to refer to a Select Committee ability privated erre strongly think of relaying to refer to a Select Committee ability as consideration of the Indian Law Commissioners, and therefore he should say very little in commending it to the Council. The consideration of the measure was essentially a consideration of its detail, and to that detail the Select Committee would doubtless give the most careful attention, not, as Mr. Maine hoped, for the purpose of setting its judgment against the judgment of the Commissioners in the matters which by legitimately within the sphere of their great judicial and forenuc exprenses, but for the purpose of setting whether their specific proposals required in any way restriction or extension with regard to the spread circumstances and facts of this country.

On the general expolance of obtaining a codified law of evidence for India, Mr. Maine, and assessment the state and the grant and the state of the s added:-

"Has not assumed any definite form, the Mahomedau law, since the enactment of the new Code of Criminal Procedure has exact to have any valuity in the country courts, even in criminal matters; and those courts have in fact in first rules of withere except those contained in Art 11 of 1853. They are not required to follow the English law as such, although they are not debarred from following it where they regard if as the most equitable.

On locking, however, at the two police Williams takes the Massess of at their jumbled that the English law.

India, the Mofussal.

of evidence was, 12 p

new and a limit of representations

The Mark and the second much related to the analysis of the second secon n de la composition La composition de la known to English havyers as 'hearsay.' It was not at all meant that hearsay evidence ast not uncelentally wakable, and M. Mavne could sell imague a great Infine Stateman conducted in an emergency to a most unportant conclusion by evidence which a Court of Justice would report as shedularly madminishle. But, taking men as you found thus, and taking the average of judicial ability, it was really true that some kinds of evidence did produce so suppression on the mind far desper than max consistent with their rail weight. The good sense to which the English Law find claim was evidenced by the tests which it had down for distinguishing those kinds of evidence from those which remained. It would be presumptions in Mr. Maine to praise the Commissionner's proposals, but he ventured to say that, in his hamble opomon, they had wavely a saided themselves of the results of English experience, but had weely modified those results upon two considerations, which, they stated as follows:

'The English practice has been moulded in a great degree by our social and legal mutuations and corforms of procedure and much of it is admitted to be unsuited to the various states of society and the different forms of decority which are to be met path in India.

In a country like finds where the bask of judyas increates to a strength which peculiar difficulties, and where it to the duty of the judye in all criss and in some commits cause to docted without a judy, there is practice thanger at manarrage from the mode of the fourt being uninformed than from it being under induced by the information lead before the country of the country of

Mr Maure had said that he would not comment on the details of the measure, but there ing effect .-

The state of the s

she course juridical point of control juridical commercial instruments were easily levied, and did not press hardly on the people, the Government was not prepared to give up that portion of the public receipts, The motion was put and agreed to

The following Select Committee was named :-

On the Bill to define and amend the Law of Evidence-The Hon'ble Mr Cockerell, the Hon'ble Sir George Couper, and the Hon'ble Mesers Gordon Forles, Shaw Stewart and the Mover.

The Council adjourned till the 11th December 1869

WHITLEY STOKES.

CHICKTEL The 4th December 1868 .last Secy. to the Gort, of India. Home Department (Legislative).

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Lang and Regulations under the Provisions of the Act of Parliament. 24 d 25 l'ic. enp 67

The Council met at Simla on Tue-day, the 6th September 1870.

PRESENT :

His Excellency the Viceroy and the Governor-General of India, K.P., O.C.S L. presiding, He Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, o c.n , G c.s L.

The Hon'ble John Strachev. The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple, K C.5 1 The Hon'ble B. H. Ellis. Major-Genl, the Hon'ble H. W. Norman, C.B.

The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen, Q.c The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell, His Highness the Hon'ble Suramade Rajahal Hindustan Raj Rajendra Sri Maharaja Dhirai Siva-Ram Singh Bahadur of Jeypur, c.c s t.

EVIDENCE BILL

ter, are Country on and all as the Homble Me Conselecte added and a figure this country two years ago It was introduced by Mr. Maine, referred to a Committee, hatman ama 1 simmer and not as an rules ruth.

Unit as all as to feets and as to impression on the mind far deeper than was consistent with their real weight. The good sense to which the English law lawl claim was evidenced by the tests which it laid down for distinguishing those kinds of evidence from those which remained. It would be presumptions in Mr. Maine to praise the Commissioners' proposals, but he ventured to say that, in his humble opinion, they had swiedy availed themselves of the results of English experience, but had wisely modified those results upon two considerations, which, they stated as follows:

"The English practice has been moulded in a great degree by our social and legal institutions and our forms of procedure, and much of it is admitted to be unsuited to the various states of society and the different forms of property which are to be met with in India.

"In a country like India where the task of judicial investigation is attended with preclair difficulties, and where it is the duty of the Judge is all evit and in some remnal cases to decide without sufficiency there is greater danger of miscarrange from the mind of the Court being uninformed than from its being unduly influenced by the information has bloom at."

Mr. Maine had said that he would not comment on the details of the measure, but there was one point of detail which it was necessary to notice, because, as it involved a financial operation, the Select Committee would probably not like to deal with it without insures the

it save

Act. '

General before the p present measure.

Commissioners' Dra

preagraph of their Third Report, on the Law of Aegotiable Instituments, was to im-red. This inspot un end to red. This inspot unty in case intit tour

Now from the Commissioners' point of view, which was the purely juridical point of But commercial instruments were easily levied, and did not press hardly on the people, the Covernment was not prepared to give up that portion of the public receipts.

The motion was put and agreed to

The following Select Committee was named :-

On the Bill to define and amend the Law of Evidence.—The Hon'ble Mr Cockerell, the Hon'ble Sir George Couper, and the Hon'ble Mesers, Gordon Forbes, Shaw Stewart and the Mover.

The Council adjourned till the 11th December 1868

Cucurri.

The 4th December 1868.

WHITLEY STOKES. Asst. Secy. to the Gort. of India, Home Department (Legislative).

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Lans and Regulations under the Provisions of the Act of Parliament, 21 d 25 lic., mp 67.

The Council met at Simla on Tue-day, the 6th September 1870.

PRESENT :

His Excellency the Viceroy and the Governor-General of India, K.P., n.c s t., presiding. He Excellency the Commander in Chief, a c.R. a.c.s t.

The Hon'ble John Straches.

The Hon'ble B. H. Ellis.

The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple, K.c.s 1

Major-Genl, the Hon'ble H. W. Norman, c.B.

The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen, Q.C.

The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell.

His Highness the Hon'ble Suramade Rajahal Hindustan Raj Rajendra Sri Maharaja Dhiraj Siva-Ram Singh Rahadur of Jeypur, o c.s.t.

F17 69 ruth. He hanni

upon the subject. This was the state of t	iobably from four to five hundred decisions note hings for which the Committee would have, if po- nich in justice to exceedingly hard-worked officia
	*************
	**********************************
The Council then adjourned to the 2	0th September 1870.
•	WHITLEY STOKES,
Simla.	Secy, to the Council of the Garr. Gen
The 6th September 1870.	for making Laws and Regulations
1 ng om Beptemoer 1810.	for making Laus and Rejounded
the purpose of making Laws and Regult 24 & 25 Vic., cap. 67.	ncil of the Governor-General of India, assembled fo ations under the Provisions of the Act of Parliamen
The Council met at Government Hou	se on Friday, the 18th November 1870.
Pre	SENT:
His Excellency the Vicercy and Gave	rnor-General of India, K.P., c.c.s 1., preading
The Harling the Victor and Gove	MaiGenl the Hon H. W. Norman, CB
	The Hon'ble D. Cowie. The Hon'ble Francis Steuart Chapman The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell
	***************************************
	,

EVIDENCE AND	CORONERS' BILLS
The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen also moved Select Committee on the Bills to define and the laws relating to Coroners.	that the Hon'ble Mr. Chapman be added to the amend the Law of Evidence, and to consolidate
The motion was put and agreed to
***************************************
The Council adjourned to Friday, the	25th November 1870.
	WHITLEY STOKES,
CALCUTTA,	Secy. to the Gort. of India,
The 18th November 1876.	•
20104
hument, 24 d. 25 Vic., cap. 67.	uncel of the Governor-General of Indea, assembled egulations under the Provisions of the Act of Par
The Council met at Government House	on Friday, the 2nd December 1870.
Pa Pa	PODVINA
His Excellency the Viceroy and Gover	nor-General of India. K.r., a.c.s.t. prending.
	1 and from one of
	The Hon'ble D. Cowie.

EVIDENCE AND INSOLVENCY BILLS.

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen moved that the Committees on the following Bills -	he Hon'ble Mr. Inglis be added to the Select
To define and amend the Law of Eviden To amend the Law of Involvency The motion was put and agreed to	c c
***************************************
***************************************	***** ** ******************************
The Council adjourned to Friday, the 9th
	WHITLEY STOKES,
	Sery to the Gort. of India.
Cilcutti,	and the control of Thatis.
The 2nd December 1870
ment, 24 d 25 Vic., cap. 67.	ons under the Provisions of the Act of Parlia-
The Council met at Government House of	n Friday, the 9th December 1870.
Presen	T:
His Excellency the Victroy and Govern-	or-General of India, K.F., C.C S.I., presiding.
	The Hon'ble Francis Steuart Chapman. The Hon'ble J. R. Bullen Smith. The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell. The Hon'ble J. F. D. Inglis. The Hon'ble D Cowie.
The Hon'ble	V. Robinson, c.s.1
***************************************
SUNDRY	BILLS.
The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen moved that the Committees on the following Bills:—	· Hon'ble Mr. Robinson be added to the Select
To define and amend the Law of Evidence To amend the Law of Insolvency. For the Limitation of suits. The motion was put and agreed to.
***************************************
***************************************	,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,
The Council adjourned to Friday, the 16 council anjourned to ratually the lan	WHITLEY STOKES.
	Secu to the Gort, of India.
CALCUTTA,	said to the point of Thank
The 9th December 1870.

DRAFT REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

(The Guzette of India, July 1, 1871, Part V, p. 273.)

This following Draft Report of a Select Committee together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 31st March 1871 a.

print and double columns There were upon the subject. This was the state of sible, to provide a remedy. It was one	probably from four to five hundred decisions no things for which the Committee would have, if p which in justice to exceedingly hard-worked office ought not to be permitted to continue.  The motion was put and agreed to.
***************************************	• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •
The Council then adjourned to the
	WHITLEY STOKES,
Simla,	Secy, to the Council of the GovrGe
The 6th September 1870.	for making Laws and Regulation
ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Co the purpose of making Laus and Reg- 24 & 25 Vic., cap. 67.	ouncil of the Governor-General of India, assembled pulations under the Provisions of the Act of Parliames
The Council met at Government Ho	ouse on Friday, the 18th November 1870.
Pr	RESENT .
His Excellency the Viceroy and Go	vernor-General of India, K.P., G.C.S.I , presiding.
	Maj -Genl. the Hon. H. W. Norman, c The Hon'ble D. Cowie The Hon'ble Francis Steuart Chapma The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell.
***************************************
***************************************
	•
	D CORONERS' BILLS.
The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen also move Scient Committee on the Bills to define a the laws relating to Coroners.	ed that the Hon'ble Mr. Chapman be added to the nd amend the Law of Evidence, and to consoldate
The motion was put and agreed to
***************************************
m . a	- 0*41 N1 1970
The Council adjourned to Friday, th	WHITLEY STOKES, Secy to the Gort. of India
CALCUTTA,	, beey to the seem ,
The 18th November 1870.
hament, 24 d. 23 Vic., cap 67.	Council of the Governor-General of India, assemble Regulations under the Provisions of the Act of Par
The Council met at Government Hor	use on Friday, the 2nd December 1870.
1	Present:
His Excellency the Vicercy and Gov	cernor-General of India, Kr., G C.51, presiding.
err - Traulia Tala Gazzal	The Hon'ble Francis Steuart Chapman.
	The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell
	The Hon'ble Francis Strum. The Hon'ble J. R. Bullen Smith. The Hon'ble F R. Cockerell The Hon'ble J. F. D. Inglis. The Hon'ble D. Cowie.
	The Hon'ble D. Cowie.

a particular man. He has, in each case, a present recollection of a past direct perception. Moreover, it is equally necessary to ascertain facts of each class in judicial proceedings, and they must in most cases be ascertained in precisely the same way,

Facts may be related to rights and liabilities in one of two different ways.

The many her themselves on in connection up the other facts, court tiete such a state

. . . . status involves. From the fact that I caused the death of B under certain circumstances, and with a certain intention or knowledge, there arises of necessity the inference that A murdered B, and is liable to the punishment provided by the law for murder.

Facts thus related to a proceeding may be called facts in issue unless, indeed, their existence is undisputed

2. Facts, which are not themselves in issue in the sense above explained, may affect the probability of the existence of facts in issue, and these may be called collateral facts.

It appears to us that these two classes comprise all the facts with which it can in any event be necessary for Courts of Justice to concern themselves, so that this classification exhausts all facts considered in their relation to the proceeding in which they are to be proved.

This introduces the question of proof. It is obvious that, whether an alleged fact is a fact in 1-sue, or a collateral fact, the Court can draw no inference from its existence till it believes it to exist, and it is also obvious that the belief of the Court in the existence of a given fact ought to proceed upon ground; altogether independent of the relation of the fact to the object and nature of the proceeding in which its existence is to be determined. The question is whether A wrote a letter. The letter may have contained the terms of a contract It may have been a libe! It may have constituted the motive for the commission of a crime by B. It may supply proof of an alibi in favour of A. It may be an admission or a confession of crime, but whatever may be the relation of the fact to the proceeding, the Court cannot act upon it unless it believes that A did write the letter, and that belief must obviously be produced, in each of the cases mentioned, by the same or similar means. If, for instance, the Court requires the production of the original when the writing of the letter is a crime, there can be no reason why it should be satisfied with a copy when the writing of the letter is a motive for a crime. In short, the way in which a fact should be proved depends on the nature of the fact, and not on the relation of the fact to the proceeding

The instrument by which the Court is convinced of a fact is evidence. It is often classified as being either direct or circumstantial. We have not adopted this classification.

If the distinction is that direct evidence establishes a fact in issue whereas circumstantial evidence establishes a collateral fact, evidence is classified, not with reference to its essential qualities but with reference to the use to which it is put; as if paper were to be defined not by reference to its component elements, but as being used for writing or for printing. We have shown that the mode in which a fact must be proved depends on its nature and not on the use to be made of it. Evidence, therefore, should be defined, not with reference to the nature of the fact which it is to prove, but with reference to its own

dence," which means either

Bur strayeshing stratum mutatid thing. Traget publicans is a stranger of what a them.

(1) words spoken or things produced in order to convince the Court of the existence of facts ; or

(2) facts of which the Court is so convinced which suggest some inference as to other facts: We use the word 'evidence' in the first of these senses only, and so used it may be reduced to three heads-1, oral evidence; 2, documentary evidence; 3, material evidence, Finally, the evidence by which facts are to be proved must be brought to the notice of the Court and submitted to its judgment and the Court must form its judgment respecting

These general considerations appear to us to supply the groundwork for a systematic and complete distribution of the subject as follows:—

We, the members of the Select Committee to which the Evidence Bill has been referred. have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill

From Officiating Under-Scoretary, Home Department, No. and enclosures.

From Assistant Secretary, Foreign Department, No 338, dated 12th December 1868, and Remarks by the Honble the Hemarks by the Hon ble the Chief Justice, Bombry (no date), Remarks by Hon'ble Justice Phear, dated 5th December 1889.

From Secretary to Chief Com-missioner, British Burmah, No 595-1, duted lat December 1868. From Assistant Secretary to Government of Bengal, Lega-lative Department, No. 37, dated 9th January 1869, and enclosure.

From Deputy Judge Advocate-From Deputy Judge Autocase-General of the Army, dated 25th January, 1859, and enclosures From Officiating Under Secre-tary, Home Department, No. 258, dated 17th February 1863, forwarding memorial from forwarding memorial from Mukhtaus and Revenue Agents, Howrab, dated 4th February From Secretary to Indian Law Commissioners, dated oth Fab-ruary 1869 From Chief Secretary to Gov ernment, Fort St George, No. 120, dated 18th March 1869, and enclosures

From Secretary to Govern-ment of Bombay, No 2971, dated 7th September 1869, and cuclusures From Secretary to Govern-ment of Bombay, No 9188, dated 24th September 1969, and

Fifth Report of Her Majesty's Indian Law Commissioners on

From Officiating Inspector-General of Police, Punjab, No 2657, dated 28th September 1879.

From Secretary to Govern-ment of India, Home Depart-ment, No. 1892, dated 18th Octo-ber 1870, forwarding letter from Commissioner, British h. No 61, dated 15th Burmah, No 61, dated 1 August, 1870, and enclosures and the papers noted in the margin. After a very careful consideration of the draft pro-pared by the Indian Law Commissioners, we have arrived at the conclusion that it is not suited to the wants of this

We have recorded in a separate report the grounds on which this conclusion is based. They are, in a few words, that the Commissioners' draft is not sufficiently elemen tary for the officers for whose use it is designed, and that it assumes an acquiantance on their part with the law of Eng land, which can scarcely be expected from them. Our draft, however, though arranged on a different principle from theirs, embodies most of its provisions In general, it has confined to points in issue is founded on the system of piexu-The rule that hearsay is no evidence is part of the practice of the Courts; but the two sets of rules run into each -1 -- to produce hetween them can be acquired and understood only by those who have ly take part in it. This knowledge, moreover, must be qualified by a study of text-books which are seldom systematically arranged.

. - sames to which we need not refer, ٠. ne may the total ery part of it, by a single instance. In Mr. Pitt 143102, work on Evidence it is stated that "ancient documents" when ten-dered in support of dered in support of ancient possession, form the third ex-ception to the rule which excludes hearsay. The question is whether A is entitled to a fishery. He produces a royal grant of the fishery to his ancestor. This fact the law des. cribes as a peculiar kind of hearsay admissible by special exception. Surely this is using language in a most uninstructive manner.

-_ -- hinh the English id then to and freg-

, 11 Into

a particular man. He has, in each case, a present recollection of a past direct perception Moreover, it is equally necessary to ascertain facts of each class in judicial proceedings, and they must in most cases be accretained in precisely the same with Facts may be related to rights and habilities in one of two different ways.

1. They may by themselves, or in connection with other facts, constitute such a state of things that the existence of the departed right or liability would be a legal inference from them. From the fact that A is the eldest son of B, there arrives of necessity the inference that A is by the law of England the heirast-law of B, and that he has such rights as that states involves. From the fact that I caused the death of B under certain circumstances, and with a certain intention or knowledge, there arises of necessity the inference that A murdered B, and is lable to the punishment provided by the law for murder.

Facts thus related to a proceeding may be called facts in issue unless, indeed, their existence is undisputed

2. Facts, which are not themselves in issue in the sense above explained, may affect the probability of the existence of facts in issue, and these may be called collateral facts.

It appears to us that these two classes comprise all the facts with which it can in any event be necessary for Courts of Justice to concern themselves, so that this classification exhausts all facts considered in their relation to the proceeding in which they are to be proved.

This introduces the question of proof. It is obvious that, whether an alleged fact is a fact in issue, or a collateral fact, the Court can draw no inference from its existence till it believes it to exist, and it is also obvious that the behef of the Court in the existence of a given fact ought to proceed upon grounds altogether independent of the relation of the tot to the object and nature of the proceeding in which its existence is to be determined. The question is whether A wrote a letter. The letter may have contained the terms of a conting.

of a cı

the C

If, for instance, the Court requires the production of the or anal when the west as of the letter is a crime, there can be no reason why writing of the letter is a motive for a crime.

be proved depends on the nature of the fact, a proceeding

The instrument by which the Court is convinced of a fact is evidence. It is often classified as being either direct or circumstantial. We have not adopted this classification.

If the distinction is that direct evidence establishes a fact in issue whereas circumstantal evidence establishes a collateral fact, evidence is classified, not with reference to its essential qualities but with reference to the use to which it is put; as if paper were to be defined not by reference to its component elements, but as being used for waring or for printing. We have shown that the mode in which a fact must be proved depends on its mature and not on the use to be made of it. Evidence, therefore, should be defined, not with reference to the nature of the fact which it is to prove, but with reference to its own nature.

Sometimes the distinction is stated thus: Direct evidence is a statement of what a man has actually seen or heard. Circumstantial evidence is something from which

dence," which means either

- (1) words spoken or things produced in order to convince the Court of the existence of facts; or
- (2) facts of which the Court is so convinced which suggest some inference as to other facts;

We use the word 'evidence' in the first of these senses only, and so used it may be reduced to three heads—1, oral evidence; 2, documentary evidence; 3, material evidence.

Finally, the evidence by which facts are to be proved must be brought to the notice of the Court and submitted to its judgment and the Court must form its judgment respecting them.

These general considerations appear to us to supply the groundwork for a systematic and complete distribution of the subject as follows:—

- L-Prelminary.
- IL-The relevancy of facts to the issue.
- III .- The proof of facts according to their nature by oral, documentary of material evidence.
- IV .- The production of cridence.
  - V .-- Procedure

We have accordingly distributed the subject under these heads, in the manner which we now proceed to describe somewhat more fully.

L-PRELIMINARY.

Under this head we have defined "facts," " facts in issue," "collateral facts," " a document," " evidence, " proof, and " proved," " necessary inference" and " presume," We have also laid down in general terms the duty of the Cour.

Of our definitions of "fact." "facts in issue." "collateral facts" and "evidence," we need say no more than that they are reframed in accordance with the principles alread? stated. We may, however, shortly illustrate the effect of the definition of evidence. It will make perfectly clear several matters over which the ambiguity of the word as used in English law has thrown much confusion. The subject of circumstantial evidence will be distributed into its elements, and will be dealt with this. The question is whether a committed a own, for it . that he was wrote a letter .. : are relevant . doct influenc these facts or evidence of s of some one who saves he saw them, the possession of the property by the production of the property in Court, and by the direct oral evidence of some one who had seen it in the prisoner's possession and the latter, by the production of the latter itself, or secondary evidence of it if the case allows of secondary evidence. ....

modifications), with the Euclish law, in what cases the statements and opinions of that es te . wittess . . . . - .

who says he saw it, if it could be heard, by a witness who says be heard it; whiches it is a fact to issue, or a collateral fact. These provisions distribute the different thins described by the phrase "hearast evidence" in the same way in which the different thins described by the phrase "circumstantial evidence" are distributed by the close provisions

So, our definition does away with a confusion, which arises out of the double cerains of the confusion of th in each case 49.00

Finally, we have substituted, for the words " conclusive evidence " the phrase, " neces At a finance " The abuse of the words " conclusive evidence" the possess we understand by • • • • . . . . " ereas " conclusive grangiture in the ٠.

The definitions of "proof," "proved" and "moral certainty" require some comment. The definition of "proof," is subordante to that of "proved," which is, that a fact is said to be proved in two cases, that is to say, when the Court after beautiful the proposed of the cases, that is to say, when the Court after beautiful the proposed of the cases, that is to say, when the Court after beautiful the cases, the case of the cases of the the evidence respecting it-

- (1) believes in its existence : or
- (2) thinks its existence so probable that a reasonable man ought, under the circumstances of the particular case, to act upon the supposition that is existe.

This degree of probability we describe as "moral certainty," and we provide this no fact shall be regarded as morally certain unless the evidence is such as to render its non-existence improbable. This is as near an approach as we have been able to make to a distinct equivalent for the phrase. "reasonable doubt," which is weally employed by English Judges in leaving questions of fact to a jury. The question "when is a question, not of science, but of prudence, and our definition of the word "proved" is meant to make this plans. We have, however, attached to it the negative condition it is a question, not of science, but of prudence, and our definition of the word "proved" is meant to make this plans. We have, however, attached to it the negative condition it is probable, if other conclusions are also probable. It is essee to illustrate this principle than to state, without a prolonged abstract discussion, which would be out place on the present occasion, the general grounds on which it rests. Our illustrations are meant to point out to Judges that they are not to convict A of an offence which must have been committed either by him or by B, unless circumstances exist which make it improbable that the offence was committed by B. We have not attempted to carry the matter further. We believe that in all countries, and in this country more than in any which they choose to incur in coming to a decision, and that this is a matter of prodence and practice, as to which rules ought to be laid down rather with a view of guiding, than with a view of guiding, than with a view of guiding.

by drawing inferences-

(1) from the evidence given to the facts alleged to exist;

(2) from facts proved to facts not proved;

- (3) from the absence of evidence which might have been given ,
- (4) from the admissions and conduct of the parties, and generally from the circumstances of the case.

to exist do or did actually exist, as very often the most difficult to draw. The truth is, that to infer in one or other of the different shapes which we have stated, is the great duty of the Judge in every case whatever, and we have thought it desirable to point this out in the plainest and broadest way.

We have added two qualifications only to this general rule; (1) that, when the law declares an inference to be necessary, the Court shall draw it, and shall not allow its truth to be contradicted; (2) that, when the law directs the Court to presume a fact, it shall infer its existence till the contrary appears. We have treated in detail of necessary inference and presumptions in other parts of the Bill.

II .- THE RELEVANCY OF FACTS.

These rules declare to be relevant-

(1) all facts in assue :

- (2) all collateral facts, which
  - (a) form part of the same transaction;
  - (b) are the immediate occasion, cause or effect of fact in issue;
  - (c) show motive, preparation, or conduct affected by a fact in issue;
    (d) are necessary to be known in order to introduce or explain relevant facts;
    (e) are done or said by a conspirator in furtherance of a common design:

(i) are either inconsistent with any fact in issue; or inconsistent with it, except upon a supposition which should be proved by the other side; or reader its existence or non-existence morally certain, according to the definition of

The remainder of the chapter throws into a positive shape what in English law forms the exceptions to the rule, excluding the various matters described as hearsay. They relate the conduct of the parties on previous occasions; the statement of the parties on previous occasions; previous judgments, statements of third persons;

- 1. In reference to the conduct of the parties on previous occasion, we embody in three cections the existing law of England as to evidence of character, with some modifications. We unclude, under the word "character," both reputation and disposition, and we permit our control of the propose of the evidence to be given of previous convictions against a prisoner for the purpose of put judicing limit. We do not see why be should not be prejudiced by such evidence, if it is true.
- 2 Under the head of the statement of the parties on other occasions, we deal with the question of admissions, as to which we have not materially affered the existing law.

We have not thought it necessary to transfer from their present position in the Code of Criminal Procedure the rules as to confessions made to the Police. This appears to the a special matter relating rather to the discipline of the Police than to the principles of evidence.

Previous judgments appear to follow naturally upon previous statements.
 Under this head we deal with the question of res judicata.

We have not attempted to deal with the question of the bar of suits by previous pudgments between the same parties. This is a question of procedure rather than of evidence and will be properly dealt with whenever the Codes of Civil and Criminal Procedure are re-enacted. We have, the principles of the law of Engl. between strangers For the saldefining or enumerating judgmen Sir Barnes Peacock in Kunya Lal opinions of third persons.

and or cannot be

A statement d to the peer d to the pecuet the weight "make-shift

evidence.

We also provide for the admissibility of statements in public or official books (and in certain cases) of evidence given in previous judicial proceedings.

5. The cases in which the opinions of third persons are relevant are dealt with in sections forty-four to fifty.

tees, copies

They declare to be relevant, the opinions of experts, opinions as to handwriting, opinions as to usages, and opunions as to relationship and the grounds of such opinions.

This completes that part of the Bill which relates to the relevancy of facts. In the include other matters which we treat of under other heads.

$III \rightarrow PROOF.$

The second Chapter having decided what facts are relevant we proceed to show how a relevant fact is to be proved

In the first place, the fact to be proved may be one of so much notonety that the Court will take judicial notice of it, or it may be admitted by the parties. In either of these cases no evidence of its existence need be given. Chapter III, which relates to judicial notice, disposes of this subject. It is taken in part from Act II of 1855, in part from the Commusioners' Draft Bill, and in part from the law of England.

il, documentecultarities of applies to all primary and We regard f finding out the contents of a document is to read it yourself, and we have accordingly defined primary and secondary evidence thus in the case of documents or other material things, the document or thing itself is primary evidence. A copy, model, or oral description is secondary evidence. In all other cases oral evidence is primary.

We next proceed (Chapters V, VI, VII and VIII) to the question of proof by the various kinds of evidence successively, namely, oral, documentary, and material. With regard to oral evidence, we provide that it must in all cases whatever, whether it is primary or secondary, and whether the fact to be proved is a fact in issue or collateral,

We have, however, provided that if the fact to be proved is the opinion of an expert who cannot be called (which is the case in the majority of cases in this country), and if such opinion has been expressed in any published treatise, it may be proved by the production of the treatise, This provision, taken in connection with the provisions on relevancy contained in Chapter II, will, we hope, set the whole doctrine of hearsay in a perfectly plain light, for their joint effect is this-

(1) the sayings and doings of third persons are, as a rule, irrelevant, so that no proof of them can be admitted :

(2) in some excepted cases they are relevant. (3) every act done or word spoken, which is relevant on any ground, must lift proved by oral evidence) be proved by some one who saw it with his own eyes or heard it with his own cars and the second second second second section and the second section and the second section and the second section sec owed, with ins most of They are sineness of of depositions, &c. · - ' evidence. They subject, though . ". so far as we are

On the subject of the exclusion of oral evidence of a contract, &c , reduced to writing, we have (in Chapter IX) simply followed the law of England and the Commissioners' draft.

IV .- THE PRODUCTION OF PROOF.

From the question of the proof of facts, we pass to the question of the manner in which the proof is to be produced, and this we treat under the following heads:-

The burden of proof (Chapter X) :

Witness (Chapter XI);

The administration of oaths (Chapter XII);

Examination of witnesses (Chapter XIII).

With regard to the burden of proof, we lay down the broad rules that the general presumption of partnership from the fact of acting as partners

We may observe that we have disposed, in an illustration, of a matter in which the lws of several countries contant alaborate, and we think somewhat arbitrary, provisions be made in the case of the death of several persons in a common catastrophe. We treat it as an instance of the ryle as to the burden of proof. The person who affirms that A died before B must prove it. This is the principle adopted by the English Court.

We follow the English law as to legitimacy being a necessary inference from marriage and cohabitation, and we adopt one or two of the rules of English law as to estoppel.

In the chapter as to the examination of witnesses, we have been carful to interfers as the a possible with the existing practice of the Courts which in the Mofusil Courts and tutle as possible with the existing practice of the Courts which in the Mofusils Court and under the Code of Crul Procedure is of necessity very loose and much guided by circumstances; but we have put into propositions the rules of English law as to the examination and cross-examination of witnesses.

We have also considered it necessary, having regard to the peculiar circumstances of the country, to put into the hands of the Judge an amount of discretion are to the atmost bits country, to put into the hands of the Judge an amount of discretion are to the atmost bits of the country of th piecusis in this country gives a power over the books. The hands of the England. For this reason we have thought it necessary to attemption the hands of the Judges and to enable them to act efficiently and promptly as the representatives of the public interest.

chink that the witness erwards be used against

If they relate to matters not relevant to the case, except in so far as they after the credit of the witness, we thank that the witness ought not to be compelled to snower. He releval to do so would, in most cases, serve the purpose of descrediting him, as well as an express admission that the imputation conveyed by the question was true.

In order to protect witnesses against needless questions of this kind, we enset that any advocate who asks such questions without written instructions (which the Court may call upon him to produce, and may unpound when produced) shall be guilty of a contempt of Court, and that the Court may record any such question, it asked by a prity to the proceedings. The record of the question of the written instructions are to be admissible as evidence of the publication of an imputation intended to horm the reputation of the person affected, and such imputations are not to be regarded as privileged communications or as falling under any of the exceptions to section four hundred and musty nine of the Indian Penal Code, merely because they were made in the manner state. Upon a trial for defauntion, it would of course be own to the person accured to show, either that the imputation was true, and that it was for the public good that the imputation should be made (Ex. 1, section 449, I. P. C.), or that it was made in good faith for the protection of the interest of the person (Ex. 9). This is the only method which occurs to us of providing at once for the interest of a boar debt questioner and an innocent witness.

In the same spirit, we have empowered the Court, in graceral terms, to forbid indecent and scandalous inquiries, unless they relate to facts in issue as defined above, or to matters absolutely necessary to be known in order to determine whether the facts in issue existed; and also to forbid ourselvous intended to insult or among

We prefer the general power to the sections drawn by the Commissioners, which for the questions to merical persons. "which substantially amount to inquiring whether that person has had sexual intercourse forbidden to him or her by the law to which he or sho is subject," and "questions regardine the occurrence of sexual intercourse between a husband and write, every in the case of Christians, where the suit is for a decree of multiply of marriage

tery. In all these cases, and so in many others which might be suggested, it appears to us that it would be absolutely preessary to admit such evidence as it referred to. As to questions relating to sexual intercourse between husband and wife we think it better to forb! I indecent and seandalous inquiries in general terms, than to lay down a positive rule which in possible cases might produce hard-but and.

Finally, we deal (Chapter XV) with the question of the improper admission or rejection of ovidence.

We provide in substance that in regular appeals each Court successively shall decide Finally, we recommend that the Draft Bill, together with this report, should be circulated for the oninon of the Local Governments.

J. P. STEPHEN.

J. STRACHEY.

F. 8 CHAPMAN.

F. R. COCKERELL. J. P. D. INGLIS.

W. ROBINSON.

The 31st March 1871.

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, assembled for the purposes of making Lates and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 d 23 Vic., cap. 61.

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 31st March 1871.

PRESENT :

His Excellency the Vicercy and Governor-General of India, K.F., C.M.S. I., presiding,
His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

		commander-in-Chief, G.C.R., C.C.S.I
		Colonel the Hon'ble R, Strachey, c.s.t. The Hon'ble F, S, Chapman The Hon'ble J, R, Bullen Smith, The Hon'ble F, R, Cockerell The Hon'ble J, F, D, Inghs.
	The Hon'	ble W. Robinson, c.s.I.
***************************************		/******************************
***************************************

INDIAN EVIDENCE BILL

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen presented the Report of the Select Committee or the Bill to define and amend the Law of Evidence. He said:-

"I feel that I owe an apology to your Lordship and the Council for requesting their attention to a second speech upon a purely legal subject after the one which I delivered a week ago upon the Limitation Act. On this occasion, however, I have to explain the potion of a measure perhaps as important as any that has been passed of late years by the Indian Legislature, missnuch as it it becomes law, it will affect the delig administration of both of fact, however imperfectly it may have been attained.

" I will state, in the first place, the history of the measure down to the present time.

which I need not state in detail on the present occasion, as they are fully stated in the hyperbooks with the English law upon this subject

"The Commercement deat, noted, would hardly be intellicable to a person who do not enter upon the seady of at with a considerable hossisted of the Emiliah hav Under these accountance, as the seady of the seady of the seady of the seady of the and on which I hope to receive the opinions of the local Governments and lifes foots on the course of the summer, say, by next September, so that their criticisms may be deliberately weighted, and the measure may be finally disposed of by this time next year

"With this reference to the Bill and the report of the Committee, I proceed to the leading features the general question connected with the subject, and to moniton a few of the leading features of the measure.

To some questions mucht be raised as to the particular parts of the country—the English law of Exi-Act to the second

. ٠. for an elaborate legal system, well understood and strictly administered. A good deal may be said for unaided mother-wit and natural abreadness; but a half-and-half system, in which a vast body of half-understood law, totally destitute of arrangement, and of uncertain authority maintains a dead-alive existence, is a state of things which it is

"Legislation thus being necessary, in what direction is legislation to proceed? A gentlemen, for whose opinion upon all subjects connected with Indian law and legislation I, in common with most other people, have a profound respect, said to me the other day in discussing this subject: "my Evidence Bill would be a very short one. It would consist of one rule to this effect. "All rules of evidence are hereby abolished." I believe that the opinion thus vigorously expressed is really held by a large number of persons who would not arow it so plainly. There is, in a short, in the lay would, including in the expression the majority of Indian civilians, an impression that rules of evidence in the expression the majority of matter thinking, an impression that rules of evidence are technicalities invented by lawyers principally for what Bentham called feegathering purposes, and of no real value in the investigation of truth. I cannot admit that this impression is in any degree correct. I believe that rules of evidence are of very great value in all inquiries into matters of fact, and in particular in inquiries for judicial purposes; and that it is practically impossible to investigate difficult subjects without regard to them.

"It is worthwhile to illustrate this point a little, because the necessity for rules of evidence rests upon it; but strong proof of it is to be found in the fact that in all ages and countries there have been rules of evidence. In rude times, and amongst primitive people, the task of arriving at the truth as to matters of fact was regarded as so hopeless and difficult, that rude arbitrary substitutes for any sort of rational procedure were provided in the shape of ordeals and judicial combats. When people began to obtain ghmpes of the true methods of investigation, they seem to have considered good instance of this. At a later period, arbitrary rule Such a fact must be proved by two eye-witnesses; su by seven To say nothing of European systems, in Hedaya is full of them These rules were never i

England, but the system which was adopted, or rather which grew up by degrees, was of England, but the system which was acceptant. Part of it consisted of rules declaring a very mixed and exceedingly singular character. Part of it consisted of rules declaring a very mixed and exceedingly singular character.

ed as to define with extreme . , as the phrase goes, at issue, Courts, and these were by far 'aw of Evidence. Most of the he rules which still remain may experience in modern times.

In the most general terms these rules are - by no means easy to praise

- that evidence must be confined to the issue;
- 2. that hearsay is no evidence;

d١

20

- 3. that the best evidence must be given :
- 4. rules as to confessions and admissions;
- 5. rules as to documentary evidence.

"I have two general remarks to make upon them. The first is that they are sound in substance and eminently useful in practice, and that, when properly understood. they are calculated to afford invaluable assistance to all who have to take part in the administration of justice.

"The second is that I believe that no body of rules upon any important subject were ever expressed so loosely, in such an intricate manner, or at such intolerable length. . was to the recom-

be introrose the educe the are substantially sound and do far more good than harm, even in their pre-ent confused condition. The proof of this is, I think, to be found, in a comparison between the proceedings of English Courts of Justice and those of countries which have no such rules, and between the proceedings of English Courts in which thee rules are, and those in which they are not, understood and acted upon. As a preliminary tenank, I these rules In fact, the clumsy, intricate, ambiguous, and in many instances about, theory by which the rules of evidence are connected together came after the eminently segacous practice which they were intended to justify and explain. What is the practical effect of these rules 'I may perhaps be permitted to answer this by referring to a book which I published in 1865 on the criminal laws of England, and which contains, amongst other things, an analysis of several celebrated traits, England and short on the contraction of the presence and absence of rules of evidence; and I think that any one who would take the trouble of original in those most mas to shorten the e per nch #

them than floods of urrelevant gossip and collateral questions enough to confuse and besulder the strongest head Again, compare the proceedings of an ordinary Court of criminal justice with the proceedings of a court-martial, in which the rules of evidence are far less strictly enforced and less clearly understood. An ordinary enimal Court never gets very far from the point, but a court-martial continually wanders into questions are remote from those which it was assembled to try. Nothing, for instance, is most common than to see the prosecutor change places, as it were, with the prisoner, or find collateral issues pursued till the Court finds itself engaged in determining, not whether A was guity of a unitiary offence, but whether Z told a falsebood on some gerfectly irrelevant subject. In a case which I well recollete, B testified against 4. B being cross-examined to his credit stated a fact not otherwise relevant to the were contradicted by intermediate letters of the alphabet. No Judge can enquire in expected by the mere light of nature, to know how one of them and energy, and a creat weakening of the authority of his Court, is sure to follow. Active and zealous divocates, who have no rules of evidence to justine their real, would have it in their power to pervert the administration of justice to the basest purposes, and to inflict immose minury on every class connected with it, directly or remotely, that might, and often would, in such kands, be made the excess for tearing open old quarrels and review of the collateral issues. I may be excused for lefering to my own experience at its reduction and man question would frequently be lost sight of in a cloud of irritating and the man question of this Appeals against orders of affiliation used invariable by difficult or an amount of perryus, and counter-peripry which I should think it was et almony for other them to the collection is one of the counter-peripry which I should think it was et almony for an amount of perryus, and counter-peripry which I should thi when I should think it would be difficult to the control of the co would have been torn in pieces. The rules of evidence kept matter of a point and so minimized the cvil; but the parties, the witnesses, and the strongers at appeared to me to be one none unious than another to, light the matter out till the transport has ranged to be one note unious than another to, light the matter out till the transport has ranged to be one note that the transport has ranged to be one note that the transport has ranged to be one note that the transport has ranged to be one note that the transport has ranged to be one to be not the transport has ranged to be one to be not the transport has ranged to be one to be not the transport has ranged to be not the n, woman, and child, whose mame each Courts display the vir In any referred with cound an account disposed of under the English rules a day or that the most, In the and branched out into all norts of any or the each of the most of the country light of the country light on his character. He mactions, but was stopped on the hand to first it been thrown on his character and been thrown on his character and the country of the

"It is not, however, merely for the purpose of confining judicial proceedings within reasonable limit that rules of evidence are useful. Hey are also of pre-eminent importance for the purpose of protecting and guiding the Jodge in the discharge of his duty. There is a sense in which it may be said with perfect truth that can legislative power is unequal to the task of abolishing rules of evidence. No doubt, it is competent to the Legislature to provide that no rules of evidence shall have force of law, but unless they expressly forbid all Courts and Judges to act upon any rules at all or to butten to any arguments as to the manner in which they shall exercise degrees, the system would grow up again in the most cumbrous, chaotic and inconvenient of all concernable shapes. The plain truth is, that there is only one possible way of getting rid of the law of evidence, and that is by getting rid of the administration of justice by lawyers and returning to the system of mere personal discretion.

Morrover,

"It may be that some persons would like this policy, but I suppose it is one which I need not discuss.

"So far I have considered the rules of evidence merely as they conduce to the important practical objects of keeping proceedings to the point, and of protecting and supporting the Judges. I must now say a few words on their value as furnishing the Judge with solid tests of truth. I fully admit that their value in this respect is often exaggerated and misconceived; but I think the

for this purpose. There are two great problems c no light at all, and on which they are not intenc be admitted that those problems are by far the mo has to solve. No rule of evidence that ever was smallest degree in determining the master questio how far he ought to believe what the witnesses say? Again, rules of evidence are not, and do not, profess to be rules of logic. They throw no light at all on a further question of equal importance to the one just stated. What inference ought the Judge to draw from the facts in which, after considering the statements made to lum, he believes? In every judicial proceeding whatever these two questions—It that true, and, it it is true what then I—ought to be constantly present to the mind of the Judge; and it must be admitted, both that the rules of evidence do not throw the smallest protein of light upon them and that persons who are absolutely ignorant of those rules may give a much better answer to each of these questions than men to whom every rule of evidence is perfectly familiar. I think that a more or less distinct perception of this, coupled with impattence of the exagerated pretensions which the same for the distinct and delike, with which they are at times regarded. This distilks is I think merely a particular application of the vulgar error which in so many instances leads people to depretate art in comparson with nature, as if there were an opposition between the two, and as if art in all cases and not pre-suppose and depend upon nature. The best shoes in the world will not make a man walk, nor will the best glasses make him see; and in just the same way, the best rules of evidence will not supply the place of natural separator of a taste for and training in logic; but it no more follows that rules of evidence are useless as guides as a substances to the feet and to the eyes The real use of rules of evidence has accretanting the truth consists in the fact that they supply in egalesce as a secretanting the truth consists in the fact that they supply in egalesce is a secretanting the truth consists in the fact that they ever a long of the procedure of the presence, as to two great evidence by which particular fact-ought to be proved. They may in the broadest and most nought prombes that they in the proce

"If you want to arrive at the truth as to any matter of fact of serious importance, observe the following maxima ---

A Richard Control and American Control and American Str., pt.

ed to grasp their full meaning and to apply them to the practical questions which arise in the administration of justice, with a considerable of the property of the considerable of the c d only by ne. I leel by the aid of long practice, he learns the intention of the different rules, of which they beap together unnumerable and often mechanical instantions. I am far from wwhing to impute this as fault to the indistrious, and in many cases distinguished, authors of with reference to theoretical principles which it has never been worth any lawyers while to investigate a con the second of the second may become when he is forced to squeeze it into the terms of a theory which does not hit it and is not true. I will give one or two illustrations of my meaning. The expression 'bearsy is say, and this is its most obvious meaning; but it is difficult to imagine a guessiabundity than the assertion that no one over to prove, in a judicial procedur, which me such that the proof of the provided of the provided of the provided of the which a person did not perceive with his own organs of perception; but this it not the natural sense of the word, and it is almost impossible in practice to direct a word of its natural meaning a grounder being and has been the state of t nee'

hey
nee
(s is an
B om
C. wwn
the utts

477

· ,ery

think, however, that it is hard to expect people to understand, bear in mino, and in all its ramifications, a system which employs language in such a peculiar manner as to call uncient deeds written 'hearsay.' To talk of hearing a document is like talking of seeing a annod.

"I now turn to the ambiguity of the word 'evidence,' to which I have already referred, As I have just said, "evidence" sometimes means a fact which suggests an inference. For instance, it is continue to any, - Recent possession of stolen goods is evidence of theft, that is, the fact of such possession suggests the inference of theft. At other times, and I think more frequently, 'evidence' means what a uttness actually says in Court, or that which he produces For instance, no ear the endeane which he can a new true. I make some will not say the attention. attempt to describe the ar and obvious distinction has serving that it produces the effect of giving a double meaning to every expression into which the word 'evidence,' introduced 'Creumstantial evidence,' 'hearsay evidence,' 'direct evidence, 'pumary evidence,' best evidence have each two sets of meanings, and the result is, that it is almost impossible to arrive at a clear and comprchensve knowledge of the whole subject, or see how its various parts are related to each other, without an amount of study, thought, and practical acquaintance with the actual working of the rules of evidence which few people are in a position to bestow upon the subject.

"I may appear to be detaining the Council unduly upon merely verbal questions, but .........

"I shall now proceed to describe shortly the principles on which the Draft Bill of the Committee has been framed In the first place; we thought it necessary to fix the sense in which the fundamental terms of the subject should be understood, and for that purpose we define 'fact,' 'evidence,' 'proof,' 'proved,' and some others as to which I will content rayself with a reference to the report. It seemed to us that the remainder of the subject would fall under the following general heads .-

(1) the relevancy of fact to the assues to be proved; (2) the proof of facts according to their virtue by oral, documentary, or material cvidence :

(3) the production of evidence in Court;

(4) the duties of the Court, and the effect of mistaken admission or rejection of evi-

"These heads would, we think, be found to embrace, and to arrange in their natural order, all the subjects treated of by English text-writers and Judges under the general head of the Law of Evidence. I will say a few words on their relation to each other, and of each of them in turn.

- second chapter of the Bill

Froude's opinions, or asserting the truth of his facts. I am concerned merely with their relevance " 'She (Mary) was known to have been weary of her husband, and anxious to get rid of him " (By our draft, facts which show motive are relevant )"

"The difficulty and the means of disposing of him had been discussed in her presence and she had herself suggested to Sir James Ballour to kill him,"

" (Facts which show preparation for a fact in issue are relevant.)

"She brought him to the house where he was destroyed; she was with him two hours before his death ':

" (Facts so connected with the facts in issue as to form part of the same transaction are relevant )

"'And afterwards threw every difficulty in the way of any examination into the circumstances of his end,'

" (Subsequent conduct influenced by any fact in issue is relevant ')

"The Earl of Bothwell was publicly accused of the murder."

" (Facts accessary to be known in order to introduce relevant facts are relevant.)

"She kept him close at her side, she would not allow him to be arrested; she went open d hemself i, breause waring.

" (Subsequent conduct influenced by any fact in Issue is relevant )

A lew weeks later, she married Bothwell, though he had a wife already, and when her subjects rose in arms against her and took her prisoner, she refused to allow herself to be divorced from him."

" (Subsequent conduct. Motive.)

.. . .

L -h the Queen was said to go to tters · con-

- "Finally, Mr. Froude observes: 'In her own correspondence, though she denies the erime, there is nowhere the clear ring of innocence which makes its weight felt even when the evidence is weak which supports the words."
- "The letters would be evidence under the section relating to admissions, and Mr. Fronde's remark is in nature of a criticism on them by a prosecuting counsel.
- "In English text-books, so far as my experience goes, these rules and others of the same sort are newhere presented in a compact substantive form. They come in for the most part, as exceptions to the rule that evidence must be confined to the points in sisse. In fact, they can be learned only by the practices of the Courts, though they are as natural and lax as any rules need be, if they are properly state.
- "From the rules which state what facts may be proved, we pass to those which pro-scribe the manner in which a relevant fact must be proved. Passing over technical matters —such as the law relating to judicial notice, questions relating to public documents, and the like—there rules may be said to be three in number, though, of course, numerous intro-ductory rules are required to adopt for practice fur.) They are these—
- If a fact is proved by oral evidence, it must be direct; that is to say, things seen must be deposed to by some one who says he saw them with his own eyes, things heard by some one who says he heard them with his own cars
- " 2. Original documents must be produced or accounted for before any other evidence can be given of their contents
- "3. When a contract has been reduced to writing, it must not be varied by oral evi-
- " Passing over certain matters which are explained at length in the Bill and report, I come to two matters to which the Committee attach the greatest importance as having peculiar reference to the administration of justice in India. The first of these rules refers
- to the part taken by the Judge in the examination of witnesses, the second to the effect of the improper admission or rejection of evidence upon the proceedings in case of appeal. "That more of the law of at lance of the white of the manner in which systematical and
- an cases he has to represent the interests of the public much more distinctly than he does

  - the truth and that even criminal of private questions between the if indeed they are the result of
- anything better than carelessness and apathy in England.

- "I have addressed your Loriship and the Council at great length, but not, I think, at greater length than the unportance of the matter requires. I have only to add that I propose to proceed with the Bill when the Government returns to Calcutta, and that I hope before that time to receive the criticisms of the Local Government supon the measure."
- The Hon'ble Mr. Strachey said that, although it was not enstomary, he should like to as a few words on this uccasion. The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen, in irtroducing a measure not long ago for which he was virtually responsible, said that he riight be allowed to say that it anything he knew to the c picked to pieces the worl entering into details, he b accustomed to administer circumstances of the country.

that could possibly have been rendered to this country.

The Hon ble Mr Robinson said that, after the very full exposition of the Bill before the Council, which had been given by learned and Hon ble Members, it was not possible that any useful remarks should be made by one whose knowledge of this intricate part of the science of the law was as limited as his.

He merely endorsed all that the Hon'ble Mr. Strachey had said of the probable benefit which would be conferred by the Bill on the administrators of the law.

. .... mith which he was more . he had long mtative and is fell to the o his mind the Bill before the Conneil promised to provide very effectually for this TO TO Y the for The Hon ble Mr. Inglis wished to say, briefly, that he thought the Evidence Bill intiduced by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephen would be of the very greatest benefit to the country, He did not intend to go into the question as to whether any of its provisions were opposed to the technical rules of evidence observed in the Courts in England. He did not feel est a managed Pill as he understood st way possible.

· in twisting the out this sornd principle, it has been found necessary to put ande any of the technical rules of Eridence observed in the English Courts, it was a step in the right direction.

ومادي ده

ment of this fact, by the provisions of the proposed Bill, which empowered a Judge to ask any questions upon any facts, relevant or irrelevant, at any period of the trial, would be root useful.

He thought, also, the state of the Modusett Court, conduct his case, who, acquire of the English I mg questions as to the would emble the Judge to decute all questions of the kind at once, by a reference to a short. Act, at his elbow, instead of having as now, to wate through volumes of decisions, many of which might not be in his library.

At the present time, we had no law of Evidence for India Some Judges admitted all kinds of evidence; others tired to regulate their proceedings by so much of the English faw as they had been able to pick up by a study of some of the many voluminous treatises pubished on the subject. The result was a general discretify of precise, and the want of some fixed principles which should guide all the Courts had been long left.

The Manuscha Continues Growing files at the stand of the manuscribus and at this been sumposed basis.

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen left very much gratified at the terms in which Hon'ble Members had been pleased to speak of the ment of this Bill. He could hardly suppose that His Honour was serious in the suggestions be had made at the conclusion of his speech.

The Council adjourned to Thursday, the 6th April 1871.

WHITI EY STOKES, Secy. to the Gott. of India.

CALCUTIA, The 31st March 1871

ABSTR 4CT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Covernor-General of India, assembled for the purpose of meting Laus and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Fig., cap. 17.

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 8th December 1871.

	Present:
His Fxcellency the Viceroy and Gove	ernor-Ceneral of India, K.P., Q.M S I . presiding
The Unethia Tabe Comphan	The Hon'ble J. F. D. Inglis, The Hon'ble W. Robinson, c.s.: The Hon'ble F. S. Chapman The Hon'ble R. Stewart,
The Hon'	ble J. R. Bullen Smith,
****** ******** *****************
-
	DRY BILLS.
Bullen Smith, be added to the Select Com
***** ****** **** **** ******** ****
To define and amend the Law of Evi
*
	1   - not to raish
	The state of the s
The next Bill, to which he had to refer more about it than that it was under the	r, was the Evidence Bill He need not say anything the consideration of the Committee He, however the motier had excited a sent for
•
	The second secon
•	•
•	• •
The Council of our 2 to To-2	1241 December 1871
The Council adjourned to Friday, the	H. S. CUNNINGHAM,
	H. S. CUNNINGTHAN
CALCUTTA,	Offg Seey, to the Council of the Gor. Gent for maling Laws and Regulations.
Mt . O.L There I 1071	for mai ing Laws and Ing

SECOND REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

(The Gazette of India, February 17th, 1872, Part I', p. 81.)

THE following Report of a Select Committee together with the Edl as settled by them was precented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 30th January 1872:—

Second Report of the Select Committee.

We, the undersigned, the Members of the Select Committee of the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, to which the Indian Fudence Bill was Petition from certain Barris ters and Advocates of Bombay, referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

dated 8th August 1871. From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner of Courg.

Chica Commissioner of Thorg, No 21, dated ath October 1871, and enclosures From certain pleaders of the High Court, Bombay, dated 4th October 1871 From Officiating Secretary to

Chief Commiss oner of toorg, No. *i*, dited 9th October 1971, and enclosures From Chief Secretary to Government Fort Saint George, Government Fort Saint George, No 186, dated 21st November 1871, and enclosures. From F. J. Fergusson, Esq. Barrister, High Court Calcutta, dated 5th December 1871, for-warding memorial from Barris ters and Advocates, High Court,

From Secretary to Chief Com-missioner, Central Provinces, No. 2449, dated oth December 1871, and enclosures.

From Officiating Sorretary to the Government of Bengal, No 5326J, dated 13th December 1571, and enclosures.

Memorial from certain mem es of the Madras Bar, dated 16th December 1571

We have made some alterations in the arrangement of the Bill

2 We have counted the definitions of "proof" and "moral certainty" and the sections relating to inferences to be drawn by the Court as being suitable rather for a trea-

We have omitted the provisions relating to material evidence, and have given a new and simpler definition of the difference between primary and recondary evidence. We have provided that the Act shall apply to all judicial proceedings, but not to affidavits presented to any Court or officer, nor to proceedings in arbitration.

As to the effect of an admission by one of several persons jointly tried for an offence, we have omitted sec-tions 120 and 121 of the Original Bill Instead of these, we have provided that when two or more persons are on their trial for the same offence at the same time, and an admission is proved against one of them, which affects others of the accused besides himself, it may be taken into consideration by the Court against all the persons whom it affects

We have re-drawn Chapter VI, as to the exclusion of oral by documentary evidence, so as to make the sections more distinct and complete. We believe that they now represent the English law on the subject freed from certain refinements which would not be suitable for this country.

7. Exception was taken to the Bill in several quarters on the ground that it did not sufficiently dispose of the matter of presumptions. We have reconsidered this subject with attention, and have provided for it as follows:

Some presumptions have the effect of laying the burden of proof on particular persons in particular cases. These we have dealt with in sections 103 to 111 of the new Bill.

A conclusive presumption is a direction by the law that the existence of one fact shall, in all cases, be inferred from proof of another. This we have provided for in sections 112 and 113.

We have substituted the term 'conclusive proof' in these instances for that of 'necessary inference,' which was employed for the same purpose in the first draft of the Bill. . I'm 'n tale a same work which for the make to be said deal at its discretion.

We have provided in the Chapter on the Buiden of Proof that a Notification in the Guzette that a territory has been ceded to a Native State shall be conclusive proof of a valid cession at the date mentioned in the notification. The object of this section is to at rest questions which, as we are informed, have arisen on this subject.

The subject of presumptions as to documents is a very special matter, and appears to us to belong to the subject of documentary evidence, under which head we have placed it in Chapter V.

8. The Chapter on Oaths has been omitted as they form the subject of a separate Bill now under discussion

9. We also recommend the omission of sections 141 to 145 of the old draft, as to questions to credit asked by barristers or pleaders, and the substitution of provisions showing the principles by which the asking of such questions, should be regulated, and empowering the Court, if any such question is improperly asked, to report the circumstance to the authority to which the nerson asking it is subject

164 as now drawn makes this clear.

12 Subject to these amendments we recommend that the Bill be passed, but we also commend that the amended Bill be published in the Gazette, and that this report be not taken into consideration for a month from the state of its nublication.

J. F. STEPHEN.
J. STRACHEV.
J. F. D. INGLIS.
W. ROBINSON.
F. S. CHAPMAN.
B. STEWART.
J. R. BULLEN SMITH.
C. R. COCKERELL

The 30th January 1872

AFSTR ACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, a sendled for the purpose of making Law v and Regulations under the Provisions of the Act of Particumal, 24 to 25 to., cap (7)

The Council met at Government House on Tuesday, the 30th January 1872.

PRESENT.

The Hon'ble John Strachey, Senior Member of the Council of the Governor-General of India, presider.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

The Hon'ble W. Robinson. c %.1 The Hon'ble F. S Chapman. The Hon'ble P. Stewart. The Hon'ble J. B. Bullen Smith.

The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell.

INDIAN EVIDENCE BILL.

The Hor'ble Mr. Stephen then presented the se in the Report of the Committee. The alterations which the Committee recommended would be seen when the Report was published. If the proposed that the Bill should be before the Committee for a reasonable time, and that it should be finally submitted to the Council four or five weeks after the publication of the Report.

907

The Council adjourned to Tuesday, the 13th February 1872

H S. CUNNINGHAM.

Catet Trs, The 30th January 1872 Offg. Seey to the Council of the Govr.-Genl, for maling Laws and Regulations.

ABSTPACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, assembled for the purpose of mixing Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliamers, 24 & 25 Free, cir. 67.

The Council met at Government House on Tuesday, the 12th March 1872.

PRESENT .

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India, K.T., presiding.

His Honour the Licutenant-Governor of Bengal.

His Excellency the Commarder in Chief, c.c.B , c c.c.I.

The Hon'ble John Strachey.
The Hon'ble J. Fitzjames Stephen, o.c.
The Hon'ble R. H. Elle.

The Hon'ble W. Robinson, cs i. The Hon'ble F. S. Chapman. The Hon'ble R. Stewart. The Hon'ble J. R. Bullen Smith The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell

The Hon'ble B. H. Filts Maj. Genl the Hon. H. W. Norman, C.E. The Hon'ble J. F. D. Inglis

.....

INDIAN EVIDENCE BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr Stephen also moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to define and amend the Law of Evidence be taken into consideration. He said:

addressed them on the subject.

"After a very full and careful consideration of its various details, the Bill was published in the Gozette and forwarded to the Local Covernments for opinion. It was carefully reconsidered in Committee after the return of the Government to Calcutta.

papers it has made with two peculiarly valuable papers and the other in the form of a letter of the High Courts, except the he Bill, but took exception to two Calcutts announced its intention of Madras and Allahabad have, them for many months I precomplete in essential respects.

"Upon this point, I would specially refer to the valuable papers already referred to which have been received from Madras. It is impossible, in reading them, not to see that their authors do not like the Bill. They find every fault they can with it, sometimes coming to very -Bill had been in question has entitled to sa tion of at leas

given the mat

few remarks as I go on. I refer to them now for the sake of showing the importance of the opinions which I am about to read.
"The letter of the Madras Government says:

'It is both advisable and possible so to codify the Law of Evidence as to present within the limits of a single enactment a treatise upon that law practically sufficient for ordinary purposes. and it then adds :--

"The Draft Bill in its scheme and general arrangement appears to furnish an adequate ontime of such a Code .

but it is observed that the Bill 'in its present state is far from complete.'

"Mr Norton expresses the same opinion at greater length, and each of these authorities agrees in the statement that the Bill is only a skeleton, which will have to be completed by a greater number of judicial decisions.

"Mr Norton criticises the Bill, section by section, and in order to show how fully he has done so, he observesering Lames and other text e; with · access a m the

"He could hardly, I think, have submitted it to a more searching test. Further on 'The process by which this Bill has been, in the main, built up, appears to me to have been by following Mr. Pitt Taylor's work on Evidence, and arbitrarily selecting certain sections of portions of acctions.

" He then criticises the Bill in detail, and concludes by saying-

Such are the observations that have occurred to me in the most careful study I can give the Ball and I think that, with some omissions, a little re-arrangement here and there, and considerable extension NO. 8 LUIN 1818, WIR SOME ORNSHOMS, & BILICE-arrangement here and there, and constructed released and enlargement, it promises to prove a great step in advance and improvement in the prevent localified have devidence, and likely to afford very valuable aid and facilities to the Modesni Julges and all concerned, in the previous of the law in the Modesni Julges

- " was, but it nd much 19 very observatoo spa ry much I will ·k anvitled to pages, brought ust and the Bill.

are the following-

- " 1 .- Its provisions as to the effect of judgments are ' meagre."
  - " 2 -It does not deal fully enough with the subject of presumptions.
- "He also suggests slight additions to, or enlargements upon, four sections of very subordinate importance, which I will not trouble the Council by referring to.

. . . . . far from comect of presumpmpleteness.

"The charge of incompleteness, then, comes to this, that the lidli does not deal falls the charge of incompleteness, then, comes to this, that the lidli does not deal falls and normanisms. I will refer to those points e words on the positive - end does deal with every vidence or by English at it consists of lats of I truth in this charge. be in saying that the speech which I am now making is compassed of words arbitrarily chosen out of the dictionary. I could hardly mention any English law-book in common use, which is, or even pretends to be, much more than a large index, made up of extracts from cases atrung together with little regard to any other than a very superficial functionary arrangement of the subject-matter. There is always some one book which is in possession of the field at a given moment, because it is more complete than its rivals, and has the latest cases and statutes entered up in it. This position at present is occupied by Mr. Taylor's book, as it was occupied before his time by Gilbert, Phillips, Starkie, and others; and as analogous positions are occupied, in relation to other aubjects, by Russell on Ceimes, Bullen on Pleading and other works known to all lawyers. To say, however, that the Bill now before the Council consists of this taken from Taylor, and especially of hits taken, arbitrarily, is altogether incorrect. In the first place, the arrangement of the Bill, and the first place, the arrangement of the Bill, and the general conception of the subject on which that arrangement is based, are altogether unlike anything in Taylor or in any other text-books on the subject with which I am acquainted. Nowhere in Taylor, nor in Mr Norton's own book on the subject, will be found any re-tion stands where it does . Upon the question of completeness, however, I will make this non stands where it does took are question of completeness, nonever, i will make this remark. I assert that every principle applicable to the circumstances of British India which is contained in the 1598 royal octavo pages of Taylor on Evidence, is contained in the 167 sections of this Bill, I also assert that the Bill has been carefully compared section by section with the last edition of Mr. Norton's work upon Evidence, and that it disposes fully of every subject of which Mr. Norton treats

' As to the specific instances of incompleteness which are alleged against the Bill, two only are of any importance, and upon each of them I will say a few words

"The first is that the Chapter on Judgments is meagre. My answer is, that it may appear meagre to those who take their notions of the Law of Evidence from works like same head I might give many illustrations of this; but the Law of Evidence, I think, supplies more glaring illustrations than any other department of law.

words.

"The second section of the Code of Civil Procedure enacts that :-

'The Civil Courts shall not take cognizance of any suit brought on a cause of action which shall have been heard and determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction in a former suit between the same parties, or between parties under whom they claim."

"The Code of Criminal Procedure enacts that a man shall not be tried again after he han and the --- 'tend as annieted' To in a section of many at ACC. toward ---- to deatv of ntains

in the been . ·can-e

o the enticism is, that the authors of the two Codes in question were quite right in considering the matter as essentially e dence than the thousand are, for instance, cases in would be a crime. If a the existence of a previous judgment.

"The only questions connected with judgments, which do appear to me to form part of the Law of Evidence properly so called, are dealt with in sections 40-44 of the Bill These sections provide for the cases in which the fact that a Court has decided as to a given matter of fact relevant to the issue may be proved for the purpose of showing that that fact exists This, no doubt, is a branch of the Law of Evidence, and the provisions referred to dispose of it fully.

general principle on which general principle on which sumptions is one of some degree of general i part of Continental lawyers to try to fra which would spare Judges the trouble of judg their own experience and common sense value and import of a particular proved fact in number and were arranged in a variety of and presumptions which were irrebuttable: juris, and Prasumptiones facts. There were a evidence; so much in the way of presumption and so much evidence was full proof, a little less was half-full, and so on. Scraps of this theory have found their way into law to which it properly belongs.

English law, where they produce a very incongruous and unfortunate effect, and give use

"I will not weary the Council by going into all the details of the subject, though I could with perfect case, if it would not take too long, answer specifically the remark of the Madras Government on this matter. That Government says-

Sections 102—4 contain three instances of presumptions, selected from a chapter of the Law of Evidence which in Taylor's fills 111 sections. It is difficult to see why any should be inserted when so few are chosen.'

"In general terms the answer is this; large parts of Mr. Taylor's chapter relate to topics which have nothing to do with the 1 importance are all included in the Bill .

first draft, and they fall under these he expedient to provide that one fact shall be vious reasons—the inference of legitimacy from marriage is a good instance There are several cases in which Courts would be at a loss as to the course which they ought to take under certain circumstances without a distinct rule of guidance. After what length of absence unaccounted for, for instance, may it be presumed that a man is rule is a great conve-surden of Proof, and I of the Bill provide raft of the Bill ; but it of doubt. It is in the

. 114. The Court may presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened, regard being had to the common course of natural events, human conduct and public and private business, in their relation to the facts of the particular case."

Illustrations.

The Court may presume-

(a) that a man who is in possession of stolen goods soon after the theft is either the thief or has received the goods knowing them to be stolen, unless he can account for his possession

- (e) that judicial and official acts have been regularly performed.

  (f) that the common course of business has been followed in particular cases:
- (1) that explence which could be, and is not, produced, would, if produced, be unfavourable to the person who withholds it,
- (A) that if a man refuses to answer a question which he is not compelled to answer by lan the answer, if given, would be unfavourable to him;
- (s) that when a document creating an obligation is in the hands of the obligor, the obligation has been discharged
- been discharged

  But the Court shall also have regard to such facts as the following, in considering whether such
- maxims do or do not apply to the particular case before them —

  As to illustration (a)—A shop-leeper has in his till a marked rupee soon after it was stolen and cannot
  - account for its possession specifically but is continually receiving rupes in the course of his bruness.

    As to illustration (b) -- d, a person of the highest character, is tried for causing a man's death by an
  - As to illustration (b)—4, a preson of the highest character, is tred for cassing a map's death by an act of negligence in artanging certain machinery. If, a person of equally good character who also took part in the arrangement, described precisely what was done, and admits and explains the common carelessness of A and himself precisely what was done, and sometimes of the described precisely what was done, and sometimes and explains the common carelessness of A and himself precisely what was done, and sometimes are considered to the common carelessness of A and himself precisely a subject to the common carelessness of a distinct of the common carelessness of a distinct of the common carelessness of the common carelessness of the common carelessness of a distinct of the common carelessness of the carelessness of the common carelessness of the common carelessness of the careles
  - As to illustration (b)—A crime is committed by several persons. A, Band G, three of the entimals, are captured on the spot and kept apart from each other. Each gives an account of the erime implicating B, and the accounts corroborate each other in such a manner as to render previous concert highly improbable.
  - As to illustration (r)—A, the drawer of a bill of exchange, was a man of business. B, the acceptor, was a young and ignorant person, completely under A's influence:
  - As to illustration (d)—It is proved that a river ran in a certain course five years ago, but it is known that there have been floods since that time which might change its course:
  - As to Illustration (e)—A judicial act the regularity of which is in question, was performed under exceptional circumstances
  - As to illustration (f)—The question is, whether a letter was received. It is shewn to have been posted but the usual course of the post was interrupted by disturbances.

    As to illustration (g)—A man refused to produce a document which would bear on a contract of small
  - importance on which he is sucd, but which might also myore the feelings and reputation of his family As to illustration (h)—A man refuses to answer a question which he is not compelled by law to answer
  - but the answer to it might cause loss to him in matters unconnected with the matter in relation to which it is asked:

    As to illustration (i)—A bond is in possession of the obligor, but the circumstances of the case are such
  - that he may have stolen it."

"As I have already observed, I do not wish to trouble the Council with technicalities; but I hope this explanation will show that this part of the Bill, at all events, is not incomplete.

"I may observe that many topics closely comincapable of being satisfantathe theory on which should be used in present occasion and I propose to pu tion to, the Act its ot angue to

... un matters of

"I now turn to a criticism made on the now of Bengal, who anneas with the question

'The Lientenan

The Limitenan as 10 mins are the minimum, protecting or the minimum, clearing up the obscurity now prevail evidence us no way applicable, and rendering the Judges as some tigers masters in their evidence as reformed and what evidence as reformed what the minimum of doubt is, whether the bit to define by he doubt the contract of the minimum of different characteristics are selected as the minimum of the minim when reduce is relevant and is not. He is neckard to think that relevancy to degree, that the relevant shades off into the irrelevant to the relevant shades off into the irrelevant to the relevant shades off into the irrelevant to the relevant to the rel stores not seem to man very clear in the draft whether or no counsel are to be entured to take objection to be continued to argue the question as to whether its or in one admissible under the evidence unless and to argue the question as to whether its or in our made clear, for if rounsel may object and argue, the Lieutenant Governor evitable four that the argumentations reportion rebonness will be made in a continue to the continue of the continued to the conti fear that the argumentations regarding relevancy will be endiess.

I (ampt altogether agree with these remarks. As to the arguments of councel, I do not feel that horors of them which His Honour appears to feel Hrs, I think, abundantly clear that counsel will be permitted to argue as to the relations are never to argue No one, I think, impediment to the administration of ] sistance to it , but if they are to exist i aubjects I must, however, observe the less and trifling argument in the first the relevancy of which is under debate self under section 165 In the second evidence is not to be a ground for a ne the opposite is the rule in England is the cality of English law on this point. permitted after being objected to, ar had been wrongly permit was ne useful principally as guias rules which will enable the Judge to ties are very likely to wish to introduc is possible to give the true theory of the enter upon a very abstract matter in thi and how this Bill is founded upon low of d they tion . secti cons of a party to the proceeding subsequent to a fact in issue, and is so relevant under section 18, (4) it is fact which in tisted irradies a fact in issue highly probable, and is therefore relevant under section 11. This fact, therefore, is relevant under no less than four sections, each of which would admit a great number of facts which would not be admitted by the other sections. Indeed, the littlede of the definition of relevance will be best appreciated by negativing the conditions which the Act imposes. Suppose that you are able to assert of a fact that it is neither itself in issue, nor forms part of the same transaction, nor is its occasion, cause or effect, immediate or otherwise, that it shows no motive or preparation for it; that it is no part of the previous or subsequent conduct of any person connected with the matter in question, it has it does not explain or introduce any fast which is a connected with the matter in question, or rebut or support may internee suggested thereby, or establish time of which is important, that it is not inconsistent with any relevant fact of facts in issue; and that, mether by itself, nor in connection with our facts, does it make any such fact highly probable—fall these negatives can be a fairmed, I think we may say, without much risk of error, that the one fact has nothing to do with the other, and may be regarded as irrelevant.

"I now come to a matter which has excited a good deal of discussion, though it relates to a subordinate and not very important part of the Bill—that which concern the examination of untraces by course! The Bill as originally dust the substance, that he person should be saked a question which effected on he charter, as to matters irrelevant to the case before the Court without written instructions; that if the Court condered the question improper, it might require the production of the instructions; and that the giving of such instructions should be an act of defamation, subject, of course, to the various rules about defamation laid down in the Penal Code. To ask such questions without instructions was to be a contempt of Court in the person asking them, but was not to be defamation.

"The proposal caused a great deal of enticasu, and in particular produced memorials from the Bars of the there. Prevendences. It was also objected to by most of the Local Governments to whom the Bill was referred for opinion. Some of the objections made to the proposal, were, I thought, well founded, I was pointed out, in the first place, that the difficulty of obtaining the written instructions would be practically insuperable, in the next place, that the Native Barthronhout the country were already subject to forms of discipline which were practically sufficient; and, in the third place—and perhaps this was the most important argument of all—that, in this country, the administration of justice is carried on under so many difficulties and is so frequently abused to purposes of the worst kind, that it is of the greatest importance that the characters of witnesses should be open to full injury. These reasons satisfied the committee, and mixed among the rest, that the sections proposed would be increpedient, and other have accounted the roam are as follows:

- '146. When a witness is cross-examined, he may, in addition to the question hereinbefore referred to, be asked any questions which tend
  - (1) to test his veracity;
  - (2) to discover who he is and what is his position, in life, or
  - (3) to shake his credit by injuring his character, although the answer to such questions might tend directly or indirectly to extramate him, or might expose, or tend directly or indirectly to expose him to a penalty or forteture.
- 147. If any such question relates to a matter relevant to the suit or proceeding, the provisions of section 132 shall apply thereto.
- 148. If any such apretion relates to a matter not relowant to the suit or proceeding, except as so far at affects the credit of the witness by majoring has character, the Court shall decid swhether or not the witness shall be compelled to answer it, and may, if it thinks fit, warm the witness that he is not obliged to answer it. In everanging the direction, the Court shall have regard to the following considerations:—
  - Such questions are proper if they are of such a nature that the truth of the imputation conveyed by them would sensonly affect the opinion of the Court as to the credibility of the witness on the matter to which be testifies.
  - (2) Such questions are improper if the imputation which they convey relates to matters so remote in time, or of such a character that the truth of the imputation would not affect, or would affect in a slight degree, the opinion of the Court as to the credibility of the witness on the matter to which he textifies.
  - (a) The second of the property of the prope
- 149. No such question is referred to in section 148 ought to be asked, unless the person asking it has reasonable grounds for thinking that the imputation which it conveys is well-founded.

exercise of his profession

Mustrations

- (a) A Barrister is instructed by an attorney or valul that an important witness is a decoit. This is a reasonable ground for asking the witness whether he is a decoit.
- (b) A pleader is informed by a person in Court that an important witness is a dacoit. The informant, on being questioned by the pleader, gives satisfactory reasons for his statement. This is a reasonable ground for saking the witness whether he is a dacoit.
- (c) A witness, of whom nothing whatever is known, is asked at random whether he is a decort. There are here no reasonable grounds for the question.
- (d) A witness, of whom nothing whatever is known, being questioned as to his mode of hie and mean of hiving, gives unsatisfactory answers. This may be a reasonable ground for asking him if he is a decor.
- of nrung, gives unsativatery awares. And may be a reasonation ground for asking nim the is a discus-160. If the Court is of opanion that any such question was asked without reasonable grounds, it may, it it was asked by any barrister, pleader, vakil, or attorney, report the circumstances of the case to the High Court or other authority to which such barrister, pleader, vakil, or attorney is subject in the
- 151. The Court may forbid any questions or inspuries which it regards as indecent or sendalour, although such questions or natures may have some bearing on the questions before the Court, unless they relate to facts in issue, or to matters necessary to be known in order to determine whether or not the facts in issue existed.
- 152. The Court shall forbid any question which appears to it to be intended to insult or annoy, or which, although proper in itself, appears to the Court needlessly offensive in form.

none of the bodies in question have made any further remarks on the Bill since it appeared in the Guzette, in its amended form, about a month ago, I suppose that the alternative product in the Bill their proposed that is not better that the little than a proposed that is not better that the little than the Bill their states of the second of the little than the bill the bil memorials. The one sent in by the Calculta Bar was for the most park proper, though it contained passages which I think might as well have been omitted. The memorial of the Bombay Barristers contains similar passages, expressed more fally and less temper ately, and I shall accordingly contain myself to noticing such of their remarks as appear to me to deserve notice.

"I may observe, in the 61st place, in general, that I have read in the newspapers and in these memorials much that can only mean that I individually was actuated in drawing this Bill by hothing to the Bar, indeed, the Bonday memorial says, in so many words, that remarks made by one member (meaning, I suppose, me) in Council spects contemplate the extinction of the profession of a Barrater-at-law in India' In support of this surprising statement, they quote, as being 'open to no other construction, the following words from the report of the Select Committee:

"The English system, under which the Bench and the Bar act together and play ther respective parts independently, and the professional organization on which it reits, does not so yet exist in this country, and will not for a very long course of time be untroduced."

"Refore I made the remarks which this suggests, let me ask your Lordship and the Council whether a charge that I, of all people, wish for the extinction of the profession of erying evil-one with which is likely to extend more general, and when the rights defined. The remedy, I will admit the remedy is the property of the remedy of the research of the remedy of t was to some extent mappropriate, but for merely proposing it, for merely recogning the aristance of the evil against which it was directed, I am charged with withing to extinguish my own professions.

- "The real meaning of the expressions in the report (for which I am fully responsible) was. I think, so plain, that I cannot understand how the memoralists can have sarribed to them a sense which I think they could never suggest to any fair mind. The report said:—
- . "The English system, under which the Bench and the Bar act together and play their respective parts independently, and the professional organization on which it rests, does not as yet exet in this country, and will not for a very long course of time be introduced."
- "Yes, say the memorales, it does exist, to wit, in the Presidency towns. This is a much as if the safet-works of Calcutts were referred to, to contradet a statement that India is wretchedly supplied with drinking-water. I make a statement about an Empire as large as Europe without Russia, and an told that it is moorred, because there are three English Courts, and three knots of, perhaps, a dozen or so English Barrasters, to be tound at towns which are in the nature of English retilements. The reason why the statement complianted of was not qualified by exception these towns and Courts was simply that the exception was not important enough to be stated. It would, indeed, have been matter of great indifference to me, personally, whether the Bull extended to the High Courts sitting on the original sade or not. It is a mitside to make exceptions without a necessity for them, but it is sometimes to the proposal of very little towns is one of very little.

hes in the effect which it at large. It is framed in officers, by giving them a short and clear view of a subject which has been converted into a sort of professional mystery, the knowledge of which was confined to a knot of persons specially initiated in it. Now, as regards the Molussil, I repeat the expressions complained of. I asset that they are absolutely true, and state a fact notionous to every one. I say that, throughout India generally, nothing like the English system under which the Bench and Bar act together and a state of a length of the profession of a length of the profession of the p stantially one body.

Barristers look forward is to become Judges.

"That is not the case in India, nor anything like it. The great mass of Indian Budges are not, and never have been, lasyers at all, the great mass of Indian Buyers have no chance or expectation of becoming Judges, and many of them flave no wish to do. Even in the Presidency towns, the whole organization of the profession differ from that of England in ways which I do not think it necessary to refer to, but which are of great importance. I may, however, observe that the position of an English Barrister who practices in the Modussil, whether he is habitually resident in the Presidency town one, is altowerher different from that of an English Barrister in the ordinary practice to a whole series of professional extraints and professional rules which do not, and cannot, apply to prectice in the Modussil in this country. He acts under the eyes of a public which takes great interest in his proceedings, and puts a powerful check upon him. He practices in important cases before Judges whom he feels and knows to be his professional superiors, and to whom he is accustomed to defer. No one of these remarks applies to a Barrister from a Presidency practising in the Mufusul. The results of this state of things must be matter of opinion. It is impossible to discuss the subject in whope they are right. My opinion, of convex, is forward upon grounds which it is not very easy to assign, and, as it can be of Juttle importance, I shall not express it. In any case this Bill can do no harm.

"Passing, however, from the case of English Barristers to the case of pleaders and vakils and the Courts before which they practise. I would appeal to every one who has experience of the subject, whether the observations referred to are not strictly true, and whether the main provision founded upon it there—the provision which empowers the Court to ask what questions it please—is not essential to the administration of justice here. In saying that the Bench and the Bar in England play their respective parts in themselves relevant to the matter in issue, but may lead to something that is, and it is in order to arm Judges with express authority to do this that section 16%, which has been so much objected to, has been framed.

"I have now referred to the main points in the Bill which have been attacked, and as I fully explain (the principles on which it was founded more than a year ago, I have only to move that it may be taken into consideration."

APPENDIX AA.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen then moved the following amendments:-

That, in section S, instead of the second paragraph, the following be substituted :-· *-rence to

That, in section 9, line 3, after the word "which," insert the words "support or". That, in the explanation to section 57, instead of the words "the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain, of England, of Scotland, and of Ireland," the following he substituted .-

That the words " or in any other case in which the Court thinks fit to dispense with it" be added to the proviso in section 66

That the following new section be inserted after section 157:-

"158. Whenever any statement, relevant under section 32 or 33, is proved, all matters may be proved either in order to contradict or corroborate it, or in order to impeach or confirm the credit of the person by whom it was made, which might have been proved if that person had been called as a witness and had denied upon cross-examination the truth of the matter suggested."

And that the numbers of the subsequent sections be altered accordingly.

The motion was put and agreed to.

President

that the ( day. The amendment which His Honour intended to propose was not of much impartance . it was simply to lon off a dead branch of the Bill, namely, section 150.

The Hon'ble Mr Stephen said that the section to which His Honour the Lieutenant-Covernor referred was one of considerable importance, to which great weight was attached. He might say that the Council ought to have had notice of such an amend-It was, moreover, a matter which would give rise to a great deal of discussion.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Covernor believed he was correct in saying that the Council had not had notice until yesterday or the day before that the Bill was to be brought forward. He would not have asked, at the stage, for leave to more a substantive amendment . his amendment was mercly to lop off a dead branch

His Excellence the President thought that this was a question of great importance, and that notice should have been given of the intention to move the amendment.

The Hon ble Mr Cockerell felt very much inclined to support His Honour the Lacuteuse which His Honour had y other members who were was a dead branch, which

d a similar smendment in

- conduct aduct in-· ibscouent committee, but had been overruled.

nl inc

circumstances, he advisable

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen said that, looking to the great pressure of business before the Council, he would much rather consent to the amendment being brought on at once than that there should be an adjournment.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor would express a strong opinion that his amendment was not of sufficient importance to call for an adjournment.

His Decellency the Pre-livent had not had an opportunity of considering the nature of the amendment which His Isomer the Levetnent-Governor wished to propose, but by would be happy to set accordant to the revening upinion of the Council. The Ison-live Member in charge of the Bill had himself expressed a desire that the amendment should be brought on and sestials a conbe brought on and settled to-day.

His Honour the Licutenant-Governor then moved the omission of section 150. He had already stated, in regard to the amendment nearly all that he had to say, namely, that the section was really a dead branch, without any effect or practical meaning whatever. It would not be necessary for him, therefore, to detain the Council with many words upon the subject. It seemed to him that this section was the shadow of a real provision which had been struck out of the Bill, and which was past and gone. The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill had explained at considerable length, and in an extremely lucid manner, the circumstances under which a group of sections found place in the Bill, namely, sections 146 to 150. His Honour might say, broadly, that the effect of these sections, down to section 149, was to prescribe that certain questions affecting the character of witnesses might, under certain circumstances, be admitted, and that, under certain other circumstances, such questions ought not to be admitted. Well, as the Bill was originally drawn, it not only laid down what questions should be admitted and what questions should not be admitted, but another section prescribed penalities for the improper putting of such questions by advocates or other persons engaged in a case. After a great deal of discussion, he believed, these penal provisions were struck out of the Bill. The consequence was that advocates engaged in a case were subject, with regard to the putting or not putting of such questions, to no special pentilies, but only to those rules which quied and governed an advocate's professional conduct in regard to these as to all other matters. Well, be admitted, and that, under certain other circumstances, such questions ought not then, if it be, as he said, that this section provided no penalty at all, and provided no course of proceeding which the Court was not competent to take without it, it was in fact a fiction and a sham, a weak and defective compromise of a matter which had in fact a fection and a similar, a weak and detective compromise to a market was have been disposed of. His Lordship and the Council were aware that, in this country, Courts of all descriptions, from the higher to the lower, were subject to the control of the Court each was subject to the direct control of the Court under which it acted and by which it was supervised No law was necessary to enable an inferior Court to report to the superior Court any matter affecting any advocate who held his license from that Court It seemed to His Honour that this provision was much more in the nature of a section to enable a teacher to report a boy to his parents or to one who held a moral or legal control over him. The section was of no practical effect, but to some extent disfigured the Bill, as being a fictitious shadow of a reality which had passed away, and His Honour therefore purposed to omit it.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cockerell entirely agreed with what had fallen from His Honour the Lauetnant-Governor, and, in his opinion, if any provision of this kind could properly find a place in a legal enactment, it should rather be in a Bill relating to pleaders, such as the Bill on that subject, which was already before the Council. It seemed to him (Mr Cockerell) entirely out of place in a Bill of this kind. He had always entertained this opinion, and pressed it in Commuttee, and he thought His Honour had correctly described the clause referred to as a dead branch. But, as it was one pointion on the subject and press his views upon the Council. As, however, the matter had been taken up, he was exceedingly glad to have this opportunity of expressing his full concurrence in the Lauettenant-Governor's suggestion.

The Hon'ble Mr. Chapman could not help thinking that the provision which Histheoner the Leastmant-Coverancy proposed to omit was not a dead branch, but a branch which had some vitality in it. If advocates practiving in the Mofussil knew that their conduct could be liable to be reported to the Hirth Court, and thus brought to the notice of the profession, he thought this knowledge might act as a silutary check against those who were likely to abuse the liberty of the Bar.

The Hon'ble Mr. Rohuson joined entirely in the view taken by his hon'ble frend Mr. Chayman. He thought that the provision of section 159 would act as very wholesome check upon vakits who practised in up-country Courts. They aspired to tree to the judicial service, and it was desirable that the High Court should know something of the character of the men practising in the Lower Courts, and more especially have their shortcomness brought before them. Mr. Robinson thought that the provision which it was proposed to omit, was a very good one, and he would therefore vote against the amendment

Major-General the Hon'ble H. W. Norman thought, on the whole, that the section should be retained; it might be the means of doing some good, and he thought it could not do any harm.

The amendment was then put and negatived.

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen then moved that the Bill as amended be passed. He would not trouble the Council with any further remarks.

His Honour the Licutemant-Governor said he would not like to let this motion pass without asying a few words; he had presed so long a portion of his life in dealing with evidence, that he hardly liked to say he was at the last moment compelled to take this Bull upon trust; but he might say that he had placed his trust in a quarter take this Bull upon trust; but he might say that he had placed his trust in a quarter in which it could be very well placed. It was a Bill that, he believed, had received thorough consideration and thorough stifting in a most thorough and systematic manner.

It was in the hands of a man who was so extremely free from antiquated projuder and untiquated notions, that he hoped the Bill had been made as good at a Bill of this kind could be expected to be made in the hands of any man. His Honour had on a former occasion expressed his opinion against any law of evidence for this country He had doubts whether any legal law of evidence, as dattinguished from moral sad metaphysical laws, were really a good thoug. But at the same time he felt that thugs had taken that course, and the circumstances were now such that it was hopeless to avoid some law of evidence; and he hoped and beheved that a law of evidence, free from the same time of the same time.

CVIC

an manufacture shaking in the face of the Court a not to be found codified anywhere as substant admitting of its being easily referred to by our Juc His Honour could have wished that the Hon'ble A tound it necessary to tell the Council that the based on Taylor on Evidence, because His Honour's nis monor count we whence the action has a common we common the first of the common that the flow has a common that the flow of the common that common that common that the common that common that common that the common that common

The Hon'ble Mr Strathey expressed, in a few words, his feeling in which he as sure the Council would agree, that India owed to his hor libe and learned friend a great debt of gertrude for the Bill, which was now about to be Mr. Stracher of the Bill which was now about to be Mr. Stracher of the Bill conferred upon the country an unportant benefit, of which they would see the result hereafter in a realigness more word of the Bill conferred upon the country an unportant benefit, of which they would see the result hereafter in a realigness more word of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit, of which they would see the result hereafter in a realigness more word of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit, of which they would see the result hereafter in a realigness more word of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and unportant benefit of the Bill conferred upon the country and the Bill conferred upon th

The Council had to thank Mr Stephen for a very great deal of admirable work; and Mr Striches was sure that his name would long be remembered in India through this work in particular, which was now about to be completed.

The motion was put and agreed to

The Council adjourned to Tue-day, the 19th March 1872.

H. S CUNNINGHAM.

Offg. Secy to the Council of the Gorr Gent for making Laus and Regulations.

CALCUTA . The 12th March 1872.

AllSTR 4CT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, assembled by the purpose of making Loue and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament. 24 x 27 yes, cop. 67.

The Council met at Sunla on Thursday, the 15th August 1872.

PRESENT:

The Hon'ble Sir John Straches, R.C. 1., presiding. His Hunour the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjah His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, G.C. R., G.C. 1.

The Hunthle Arthur Hobbsons of

Maj Genl. The		W Norman,	The Hon't	le E. C. R. de R. E. E	gerton.
* *** *** **
*******		,
	EVIDE	ner act as	IENDMENT	BILL
Evidence Act, 18 attention had be common incident of which it was it from the new frelated to the period of 1852. One of the High Courts depending tellor not been resources would enable as would enable.	372. He said to reen called by a tattending the neural de vecue to the was wer of admin t the sections of in India and a them, admin them to say one exist. But the said the said of the said the said of the said	that the object the Legislature is passing of a mast large por id only ments stering an autil if the Act of ! Commissioner instered oaths obtuine had a f his new an	of this Bill was the Department, be Department, continues, and the an in detail the Act I of 18 1852 contained s, Arbitraturs, to witnesses, to such knowe thority that	is to amend and which elly, the total which the total warming of the most in 72 repealed the nather and other p. By an accorde of the neb a power ed him that 'Arbitrotoe If such a it might ea	to emend the Indias some defects to which were owing to a ver I mpeul of prior Act owne of those portion portant point. This the whole of Act XI ty on which meet of errors acting in suit don't the section has Indian Statute-bool to administer oath the could not find and Mr. Hobbous power of administer see great disturbance a point, is migh

The Hon'ble Mr. Hobbouse then applied to the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business.

The President declared the rules suspended.

The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple, a.c.s s.

The Hon'ble Mr. Hobbouse then introduced the Bill, and moved that it be referred to Select Committee with instructions to report in a week. The motion was put and agreed to

The Inlowing Select Committee was named: On the Bill to amend the Indian Evidence Act, 1872—The Hon'ble Sir John Strichey, the Hon'ble Messis. Bayley and Egerton and the Mover

The Council then adjourned till the 29th August 1872.

WHITLEY STOKES.

Sinca. The 13th August 1872. Secretary to the Government of India,

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Covernor-General of India, exsembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the processors of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Tec., sup 67

The Council met at Simls on Thursday, the 29th August 1872.

Denesia

His Excellency the Viceray and Governor General of India, a.m.s. L. presiding-His Honour the Livetenant-Governor of the Panjab, His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, a.c.s., a.c.s.t.

The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple, R.C.S.1. The Hon'ble Arthur Hobhouse, Q.C. Maj. Geol. The Hon. H. W. Norman, C.E. The Hon'ble E. C. Buyley, C.S.L.

INDIAN EVIDENCE ACT AMENDMENT BILL

The Hon'ble Mr. Hobbouse also presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. He sail that in convidering the Bill the Committee had proceeded on the principle that under the circumstances it was no part of their duty to alter any part of the Act on the score of principle, but only to effect such alterations as they believed the draftsman would have made, if his attention had been called to them. The principal reason for passing the present Bill into law before the 1st September was this:—

Act I of 1872 repealed in toto a prior Act XV of 1852; and one of the sections of that Act was as follows .-- cease to exist. The question then its very croles of

so he (Mr Hobbouse) could make out, that the power of administering an eath so well with the High Courts, but would not remain with the Commissioners and Arbitrator therein mentioned It was, therefore, important to leave upon the Statute-book as clear and extensive an authority as that which was taken out of it; and the simplest way of doing that in the present emergency was by continuing the existence of that section. When the time came for dealing with that matter finally, the proper place for it would be found in an Act relating to the subject of oaths and affirmations, rather than in one relating to the general subject of evidence

Mr. Hobbinuse thought it right to mention to the Council that he had received a telegram from Mr. H. S. Cunningham, desiring that the passing of the present following the present following that the passing of the present following the present following that the passing of the present following the pr that the or passing ad a great 7).

He proof many regretted 'Ir. Cunninguam's sessiembarrassment which v try and explain the er an oath would have vitated many legal proceedings. But in the present year, an Act (No VI of 1872), nar passed, which had two objects—one was to respect and bind the convence of sitnesses, and the other, to prevent the entire vitiation of legal proceedings by omissions.

testimony under such circumstances. On this point, sections 170 a.m. be Pensl Code showed the importance attached to the legal administration of an osh pdf dufy authorized persons.

telp thinking that we should be proceedings if we did not pass to I of 1872 was to come into thought the section in question.

With regard to the other amendments, he would not remark upon them in detail. They would all speak for themselver, and were intended to cover obvious defects and ship either of writine, or of printine, or of drafting. We had now received several criticisms on Act I of 1872, and there was little doubt that after it had been tested in actual practice, it would like most laws of great magnitude and difficulty, and especially those passed on subjects new to legalishing, repuir amendment in several particulars. Probably, in the course of a couple of years, it would be necessary to pass another than the proper of the properties of the properties of the properties of the properties of the properties. The thought proper that the letter plan would be, not to have any further delay at prevent, but to keep a careful record of all suggestions sent in and to use them when the time was released.

He also applied to His Excellency the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business.

The President said that, in his opinion, Mr. Hobbouse had shown sufficient cause for suspending the Rules in the present case. His Excellency accordingly declared the Rules suspended

The Hon'ble Mr. Hobbouse then moved that the report be taken into consideration.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Hobbouse then moved that the Bill be passed.

The motion was put and agreed to

٠.																::																				.,
••																					•	٠,	•	• •	٠	٠.	٠	٠	٠	••	•	• •	• •	• •	•	••	٠

The Council then adjourned till the 5th September 1872.

WHITLEY STOKES,

Secretary to the Government of India.

Stuls.
The 29th August 1872.

..

B.

STAMPS(1)

vil

peal

CERTAIN documents are required to be stamped; (2) and rules exist as to the admission in evidence of such in both the Civil and Criminal Courts No instrument(3) chargeable with duty shall be admitted in evidence for any purpose by any person having by law or consent of parties, authority to receive evidence, or shall be acted upon. registered or authenticated by any such person or by any public officer, unless such instrument is duly stamped : Provided that

- (1) Any such instrument, not being an instrument chargeable with a duty of one aims only, or a bill of exchange or promisory notify shall, subject to all just exceptions, be admitted in evidence on payment of the duty with which the same it. chargeable, for (in the case of an instrument instrumen of a sum equal to ten times such duty or portion;
- (2) Where any person from whom a stamped receipt could have been demanded, has given an unstamped receipt, and such receipt if stamped, would be admissible in evidence against him, then such receipt shall be admitted in evidence against him on payment of a penalty of one rupee by the person tendering it;
- (3) Where a contract or agreement of any kind is effected by correspondence consisting of two or more letters, and any one of the letters hears the proper stamp, the contract or agreement shall be deemed to be duly stamped; (4) Nothing herein contained shall prevent the admission of any instrument in evidence iminal in any proceeding, in a Criminal Court, other than a proceeding under Chapter XII, or urts. Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898; (5) Nothing herein contained shall prevent the admission of any instrument in any Court when such instrument has been executed by, or on behalf of Government, or where it bears the certificate of the Collector as provided by section 32 or any other provision of this Act :(5) ssion shall not, except strument of the same suit or

(1) This appendix does not purport to be a complete resume either of the Stamp Act or of the cases decided thereunder, but deals only

- with those provisions of, and cases decided under the Act which have an immediate hearing
- on the law of evidence. (2) Fee Act II of 1899; and the previous Act I of 1879 (General Stamp Act).
- (3) As to the meaning of this term, see Joharmal 1. Terram Jagrup, 17 B., 235, 240, 256 (1892);
- ., 2 (14), Act II, 1899. (4) But as to promissory notes executed out of British India, see Mahomed Rowthan v. Hugsin
- Rowthan, 22 M., 337 (1899). (5) Act II of 1899, s. 35.
- (4) Ib., a. 36.

(7) Ramasams Chelts v. Ramasami Chelts, 5 M . 220 (1882) , Deva Chand v. Hera Chand Kamara) 13 B., 449 (1889); Isharmal v. Tijram Jagrus. tamf . Jun-duly stamped (6) So ry to law, by a lower it account (7) In this nt has been stamped. en stamped at all, or gle Singh, 3 C., 787 (1878); Lalji Singh v Syad Alram Ser, 3 B L. R , 235 A.C J., (1869) ; Aftel. un-need v. Tej Ban, 1 A., 725 (1885), and Editor's Note on that page where the cases are collected, Gurdhar Naypuhet s. Ganpal Moroka, 11 Bom H. C. R , 129, 131 (1874); Mark Ridded v. Mulle. ramen Chetty, 3 B. L. B., 128, A. C. J. (1969). But see Telai Abom 1. Gagia Gura, 3 B. L. R. trp., 30 (1669); and Fuld, Ev., 674, 674. between cases in which the document is one which is, or is not, admissible on payment of a penalty. So where a letter of allotinent which required a one-anna stamp, but which was not stamped, was admitted in evidence, it was held that no objection to the admissibility of the document could be taken in appeal.(1) Moreover, the objection is one which does not affect the ments of the decision. The effect of these rulings is (a) the improper rejection of a document is a good ground for appeal, if the duty and penalty have been tendered (2) (6) the improper admission of a document cannot be remedied in appeal; the only remedy lies under section (3) or 45. Any omission in levying duty or penalty or stamp-duty cannot be remedied in appeal; the only remedy lies under section (3) or 45. Any omission in levying duty or penalty in case (6) may be notified under section (3).

The Stamp Act is a taxing Act, and all taxing Acts must be construed strictly (4) General and an authority on the Namp law is not an authority on the Registration law. 6). The present Stamp Act in India ought to be construed according to the same punciples of construction as the Stamp Act in England and the earlier Stamp Acts in this country (6).

If a plaintif produces in Court in support of his claim an unstamped or improperly stamped document, he primarily is the person from whom the requisite stamp-duty may be recovered under section 40 of the Stamp Act of 1890 (7).

It was held under the Stamp Act of 1869 that when a document which under the stamp laws required to be stamped as tendered in evidence, the only question for the Court is not bound, nor is at a theory to allow the parties to go into evidence to show at what time the document was stamped. For if that were permitted, as much time and cost might be expended in trying that question, as in trying the whole case upon its ment-(8). But in the undermentioned case, (9) during the examination of the plaintiff, a book was produced containing a receipt with a one-anan receipt-stamp plaintiff, a book was produced containing a receipt with a one-anan receipt-stamp plaintiff, a book was produced containing a receipt with a one-anan receipt-stamp plaintiff, a book was produced containing a receipt with a one-anan receipt-stamp plaintiff, a book was produced containing a receipt with a one-anan receipt-stamp that the stamp was affixed. The carlier cases were cited, and it was objected that upon these cases such questions were irrelevant, but it was keld that the cases cited were decisions under the Stamp Act of 1869, that the wording of the present Act was different; that it was the duty of the Court to ascertain whether or not the instrument was stamped hefore or at the time of execution and that the questions were allowable. The witness was them cassimized to the whole of the time of execution and that the questions were allowable. The witness was the resulting of the world of the world of the time of execution and that the questions were allowable.

The term "stamped" in s. 17 of the Stamp Act (II of 1899) means stamped not only with a stamp of the amount required by law but also in the manner presented by law. The expression "duly stamped" in s 33 of the same Act refers to the time when the document is tendered in evidence. In determining whether a document is esticitedly stamped for the purpose of deciding upon its admissibility in evidence, the

(1) Mokan Loll v. Cetton Mills Company, 4 C.W.N. 369 (1899) following Surja Karana v. Pratab Narain, 25 C., 393, 399) (1890). The decision appealed from itso far as it held that the letter of allotiment was admissible to catablish notice of the allotiment, notiviliationally the standing the words of the Act. "No instrument......shall be admitted in evidence for any purpose "is, its respectfully submitted, strongous. The decision in In re likinding Partarra, 40, 1, J. Ch., 176 (1879) under the Enclub Statute was, if applicable, at all outler.

42) See Civ. Pr. Code, s. 99, p. 378; and cases eited in last note; as to the Appellate Court's authority to direct the reception of an unstamped document, see Champolaly v. Ribi Jiban. 2 C., 213 (1878).

(3) Donogh's Indian Stamp Law, 2nd Isl., 117 (1899)

(4) Syed Sufdars, Amini Mi, 7C., 706 (1881):
"The Stamp Act being a facal enactment, the intention to tax a particular instrument must appear in terms clear and positive, and in case of doubt the construction must be in favour of the subject: Raisers v. Goold, 13 M v. 203 (1889), Gordan Nasjuket v. Gasput Moroba, 11 Bom. H. C. R., 129, 135 (1874), Richambon Nath v. Nand Kashors, 15 A v. 56, 58 (182).

(5) Syed Sufdar v. Amrad Ali, supra.

(6) Ramen Chelly v. Mahomed Chouse, 16 C., 432, 435 (1889).

(7) Secretary of State for India in Council v. Baskaratullah (1908); 30, All., 271.

(8) Kali Chara v. Nolo Kristo, 9 C. L. R., 272, 275 [1881], et Metolde v. Jugmohandas, 6 Bon. L. R., 701 (1904). Noor Bibre v. Sheekk Ruman, 24 W. Lt., 198 (1870); Blourem Jandan v. Ramangan Gopal, 12 Bom. H. Ca. R., 208 (1875). As to stamping at time of execution, see Suraj Mult. v. Hudona, 24 W., 261 (1904).

(9) Jethibai v. Romehanden Novietam, 13 R., 454 (1889)

(10) 15 , but see Rumen Chilly v. Mahomed Chouse, 16 C., 432 (15x2), past, as to the exclusion of evidence of collateral circumstances. The document itself as it stands and not any collateral circumstances which may be about nevidence, must be looked at. So where a cheque bearing a stamp of one-ann use dated the 23th September, and the evidence showed it to have been actually drawn on the 8th September and therefore to have been post-dated, and it was contested that the cheque was really a buil of evchange, payable 17 days after date, and therefore inviduisable in evidence as being insufficiently stamped, it was held in a suit to recover the amount of the cheque, on its being dishonoured, that it was admissible in evidence.(1) If at the time of delivery, which completes its legal character, a concellation take place at that time a spart of the leed is duly stamped if the stamp is affixed and if having been at any time previously affixed, it is When applied to a document the term 'execution' means the last act or series of acts which completes it. It much be defined as formal completion. The contract on a negotive lieuterment until delivery is incomplete and revocable. Until delivery a knowl is not clothed with the essential characteristics of a necotibal instrument [2]. So where a knowl was written by the defendant astamped by him with a one-anna string which was left uncancelled, and the knowl was unbequently taken by him to the plaintiff's son who received it from him, and at the time of receiving it cancelled the stamp by writing the date across it; it was held that the laund was duly stamped and was admissible in evidence.(3)

Secondary evidence in indiffusible when the weight document cannot be received in evidence because it is not fully so del (1). The Stamp Act declares not only that a document not duly stamped shall and be admitted in evidence but also that it shall not be acted upon "Therefor an admitted in evidence but also document, rendering it unnecessary for the party to put it in evidence, does not avail the party, the document being itself inadmissible in evidence for want of a stamp Act document is "acted upon" (within the meaning of the Stamp Act) where a deere it passed on it, whether posed or admitted, and owing to the language of the Act the Court cannot give effect to it in either case (5). It has been held that though an unstamped acknowledgment cannot be "acted upon" as an acknowledgment of a particular sum being due, still it may be used for the collateral purpose of showing an acknowledgment cannot be "acted upon" as an acknowledgment of a particular sum being due, still it may be used for the collateral purpose of showing an acknowledgment and purpose used to be a supported that an existing liability (0). But in a subsequent case it was pointed that an entitle of the stamp and the control of the stamp ack, cannot find unstamped to a suppose of the collateral purpose including the purpose of available and the stamp ack, cannot be unstamped in 1841, the document was not produced, and therefore secondary evidence was not receivable to prove its contents; and the plaintiff sought to red on oral evidence as to the execution of the document and the praying of procession under the deed, as showing that the defendant by such possession acquired only our graged such as a such words in the present Act and m tet I of 1879 "unless such instruments duly stamped" were substituted for "unless such instrument Beer a stamp" in Act XVIII of 1869, under which was held that it was no business of the Court to enquire at what time the stamp was affixed provided the stamp was affixed provided the stamp was affixed provided the proper stamp. But nos the words videly stamped "I's, 2 (11) would not only mean bearing a stamp of not less than the proper value but also stamped at the right time (ss. 17, 18). 19), in the proper manner (ss. 13, 14) with the requisite description of stamp (ss. 10, 11) accordance with the Stamp Rules and duly cancelled (se. 12, 13). Donoph, no. ct., 200.

635 (1894), as to the meaning of "stamped at the time of execution," see Sury Mull v. Hal-

<sup>(1)</sup> Rance Chity s. Malomed Ühaur, 16 C., 22 (1859); [elering to Eult v. O'Sulcens, L. R., 8 Q. R., 209; Gatty r. Fry, L. R., 2 Ex., 265; [charder Kest v. Kartic Charder, 8 R. L. R., 103], Senj Mall v. Hedoos, 24 M., 259, 261 (1900); Salkoren Slenker v. Fan Clondra, 27 R., 270 (1902); Notical v. Jaymakendar, 6 (1904), E. M., 200, 701 (1902).

<sup>(2)</sup> Bhawani Harbham v. Decte Punja. 19 B .

the time of execution," see Surij Mull v. 18s2 son, 24 M., 259 (1900) (3) Ib. (4) Kopasan v. Shama, 7 M., 440 (1834), Pro nano Nalk v. Terpara Sondare, 24 W. B., 55 (1870); Anler Chueder v. Malke Chueder, 2 W. R., 1 (1873); Panedar Jappenshir Ainsenbedgi, 12 B., 437 (1884); Nenandar v. Kdabir, 12 B., 437 (1884); Asnandar v. Kdabiran, 2 M., 204 (1880); Path Rol It v. Integrational of the Chuede Science, 10 M., 94 (1886); Seriek Albar v. Nirik Khan, 7 C., 255, 259 (1881).

<sup>(5)</sup> Chenhasopa v. Lalishman, 18 h. 363 (1893); Anter Chunder v. Madhub Chunder, 21 W. R., 1 (1873); Damoder Jappozeth v. Alma tam Babaji, 12 B. 443 (1848).

<sup>(1896).</sup>

would be to give some effect to the unstamped document by connecting the possession with the contents thereof, and was therefore contrary to the provisions of section 35 of the Stamp Act, and an admission of the mortgage by the defendant's ancestor was alwould not recreatable on the same grounds, for an unstamped document is admissible for no purpose whatever except in Criminal cases (1) The mere fact of a document being an acknowledgment of a debt within the meaning of section 10 of the Limitation Act would not make it liable to a stamp duty under Schedule i, Article 1 There are other conditions required to be fulfilled, one of which being that it should be intended to future time, the creditor, if the bill or note is not paid at maturity, may always, as a sideration of A deposition money with B. B contracts by a promissory note to repay it with interest at an months' date, here there is no cause of action for money lent, or otherwise than upon the note itself, because the deposit as made of notice because the state of the sta

:

- (1) Thaji Beehi v Tirumalaiappa Pillai (1907), 30 M., 386 and see Chabnasaps v Lalshmanan, 18 B., 369
- (2) Ambica Dat v. Nityanund Singh, 30 C, 687 (1903)
- (3) Statis 4ther v Statis Khoz, 7 C, 256
  (IRS1); [slibowed in Persoina Narian v Televi (IRS1); [slibowed in Persoina Narian v Televi (IRS1); [slibowed in Persoina Persoina Nation v Televi (IRS1); [slibowed in Nation v, Person Nation v Statis (IRS2); Posts Red v Pelaydemens, 10 M. od (1882); Posts Red v Pelaydemens, 10 M. od (1882); Fosts Red v Pelaydemens, 10 M. od (1882); Fosts Red v Pelaydemens, 10 M. od (1882); Fosts National Na
- (4) "See James v. Williams, 13 M & W , 828, and other cases mentioned in Addison on Contracts. 3rd Ed. p 1204, the cases of Clay v. Croice, 8 Exch., 295, Wain v. Bailey, 10 A. & E., 616, were of this nature ;" per Garth, C. J., Sheikh Albar v. Sheilh Khan, 7 C. 259, 260, post, other cases are Krishnasami Pillai v. Rangasami Chetti, 7 M., 112, 114 (1883); Ballbhadur Prosad v. Maharayah of Bettia, 9 A., 351 (1887) . Hira Lal v. Datadia, 4 A., 135 (1881) . and see Bengrei Das v. Bhikkari Das, 3 A . 717 (1881). When there is an independent admistion of a loan the holder of a hundi, bill, or note, which is defective and inadmissible in evidence for want of a stamp, may still sue upon the consideration the person to whom he gave it, though he cannot use the bill in support of his suit, Krishnaji v. Rajmal, 24 B., 360 (1899).

(5) Of this nature were the cases Anlur Chunder v. Madhub Chunder, 21 W. R., 1. Prosunno Nath v Tripoora Sonduree, 24 W. R . 88 The case decided by Kennedy, J. [Golap Chand v. Thakurans Mohokoom, 3 C , 314 (1878); 2 C. L. R., 412] apparently belongs to the former class; and in Farry Price, 1 East, 55, all that Lord Kenyon ruled was, that if, on the new trial, the plaintiff could prove his claim under the common counts, that is to say, independently of the note, he might recover. Per Garth, C. J , in Sheikh Albar v. Sheilh Khan, supra at p. 260. And see Sirdar Kuor v Chandrawati, 4 A., 330 (1882), Valianna Raonthan v. Makomed Kasım, 5 M., 166 (1881). The facts are very shortly stated in the report of Golap Chand v. Thalurani Mohokoom, supra ; but it seems difficult to distinguish it from later rulings to an apparently contrary effect; and see Molhoora Mohun v. Peary Mohan, 2 C. L R., 409 (1878) , 4 C., 259

(6) Skell A. Hibor v. Skelk A. A.a., T. C., 256, 259, 260 (1881); C. L. R., S. 32) one test is now shown does the once be; $\tilde{\text{B}}\), $200; and feet Redsland Skala v. Albopchure Mitter, $6 C, 721, 723, 724 [1882]; Pathi Redi v. Vidayedo-seva, 10 M., 94 (1884); Krahasami Pilla v. Rasposami Chetti., T. M., 112, 114 (1832); Demoder Joygandi v. Alterian Ralosy, 12 B., 415, 445 (1888); Cherkosape v. Lebelman, 18 B., 309, 372 (1893)

(7) Sennandan v. Kollakiran, 2 M., 205 (1840): Королея т., Shamu, 7 M., 440 (1884). 988 APPENDIX B.

penalty will not render or al evidence of a lost or destroyed unstamped document adoustile for payment of penalty is levable only on an unstamped or insufficiently stamped document actually produced in Court under the Stamp law, and it does not provide for the levying of any such on lost documents (1)

(1) Roja of Bobbis v. Muganis Chine, 23 M., yammi, 17 M., 4437 (1894); see under the of 49 (1899); s. c. 4 C. W. N., 117 . Koppans v. Act. Herras Chunder v. Russick Chunder, Shanu, T. U., 40 (1884), Roman Ras v. Rine, W. R., 80 (1873).

C.

REGISTRATION.(1)

the provisions of this Act (5). The words "or be received as evidence of any transaction affecting such property" usan "or be received as evidence of any transaction so for as it effects such property." (6). An unregistered document the registration of which is gifts (13) Further, a transfer of property in completion of an exchange can be madonly in manner provided for the transfer of such property by vale (14). The effect of the combined Acts is that the registration of deeds of sale or of mortgage of immovable property of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards, of leases year by year or for a term exceeding a year, and of deeds of gifts of immovable property of any value, is compulser.

- (1) This Appendix does not purport to be a complete résuné either of the Registration Act or of the cases decided thereunder, but deals only with those provisions of, and cases decided under the Act which have an immediate bearing in the law of syldence.
- (2) As to the meaning of the term "instrument," see Some Gerralial v. Rangammal, 7 Mal. H. C. R., 13 (1871).
- (3) Act XVI of 1998, s. 17; the registration of certain other documents is optional; i.b., s. 18.
  (4) It may, however, he used in evidence in apport of a claim for morable property;
  Thandacan v. Villana, 15 M., 136 (1892); but see also Lakshnamma v. Kamenwaro, 12 M., 281 (1883).
  - (5) Act XVI of 1908, s. 49
  - (6) Ulfain Annissa Elahijan v. Ilosain Khan, 9 C, 520, 523, F. B. (1882); 12 C. L. R., 209, and see Bengal Banking Corporation v. Mackertick, 10 C., 315, 322 (1883); Thandsinn v. Fullismma, 15 M., 336, 340 (1892).
- (7) Ullutunniesa Elahyan v Hosain Khan, aspra; see cases there collected and in Field, Ev. 151-151; see least not and Ommy v. Sois Feel, Sois-151; see least not and Ommy v. Sois Boarayapp., 15 Mr., 235 (1891); Modras Deposit Sois-ly v. Consamadal Ammal, 18 Mr., 29 (1891) So also though an agreement may not be admissible in evidence as creating an interest in land, still it may be used for the purpose of obtaining specific performance, Addaldom v. Therdma, 12 Mr., 2005 (1888), Nogappo v. Drew, 14 Mr., 55 (1890). See Anday v. Dolley, Dev., 14 Mr., 55 (1890).
- (8) Majniram v Gurmukh Roy, 26 C., 37, (1899).
- (4) Field, Ev., 451, 452. Thakore Tatesing; v. Bamanji Dalal, 27 B., 515 (1903)
- . Bamanji Dalai, 27 B., 515 (190 (10) Act IV of 1882, s. 54, 43 2, 3,
- (11) Ib , s. 59.

19 B . 36 (1893).

- (12) Ib , a. 107.
- (13) Ib., s. 123.
- (14) Ib., s. 11%.

988

APPENDIX B.

pen lity will not render oral evidence of a lost or destroyed unstamped document admissible, tor payment of penalty is leviable only on an unstamped or manificiently stamped docment, actually produced in Court under the Stamp law, and it does not provide for the levying of any such on lost documents (1).

(1) Raja of Bobbit v. Mugants China, 23 M., 49 (1899) s. c. 4 C. W. N., 117: Kopasan v. Shanu, 7 M., 4.0 (1884), Ranga Rau v. Bhatuyamms, 17 M., 4437 (1894); eec under the old Act, Haran Chunder v. Rusnick Chunder, 20 W. R., 63 (1873).

C.

REGISTRATION.(1)

The Indian Registration Act (XVI of 1908) declares the registration of certain documents to be compiliory, such as instruments(2) of gifts of immorable property; certain other non-testamentary instruments dealing with immovable property; loases of immorable property from year to year, or for any term execution one year of revering a yearly rint; and authorities to adopt a son not conferred by will,(3). It direct declares that no document which is required to be registered shall affect any immovible property comprised therein or confer any power to adopt, or be received as evidence of any transaction affecting are to be read as supplemental to the Indian Recustration Act. The Transfer of Property Act requires the registration of certain sales; [10] mortzages; [11] leases; [12] and gifts, [13]. Further, a transfer of property in completion of an exchange can be made only in manner provided for the transfer of such property by 34e [44]. The effects of the combined Acts is that the registration of deeds of sale or of mortgage of immovable property of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards, of lease year by year or for a term exceeding a year, and of deeds of gifts of immovable property of any value, is computed.

(1) This Appendix does not purport to be a complete résumé either of the Registration Act or of the cases decided thereunder, but deals only with those provisions of, and cases decided under the Act which have an immediate bearing in the law of evidence.

(2) As to the meaning of the term "instrument," ace Some Gurnillal v. Rangammel, 7 Mai. H. C. R., 13 (1871).

(3) Act XVI of 1908, s. 17; the registration of certain other documents is optional; 16., a. 18.

(4) It may, however, be used in evidence in support of a claim for marchle property; Thandacan v. I'lliama, 15 M. 138 (1992); but see also Lakshmamma v. Kamerwaro, 12 M., 281

(5) Act XVI of 1908, s. 49.

(8) Ulfata Anniera Elahijan v. Hosain Khan, 9 C, 820, 523, F. B. (1882); 12 C. L. R. 200, and see Bengal Banking Corporation v. Markerlick, 10 C., 315, 322 (1883); Thandaran v. Villiamma, 15 M., 33d, 340 (1992). supra; see cases there collected and in Pold, Er, 451—451; see last note and Gonaps, 7, 80, borspappo, 15 M., 223 [1891], Modras Depond Society v. Conomandia Amad, 18 M., 29 [1891], So also though an agreement may not be admissible in seedings as necessary in land, still it may be used for the purpose of totaling specific performance. Adalkadam v.

(7) Ulfutunnissa Elahijan v. Hosain Khan,

Threthan, 12 M., 505 (1888); Najappa v. Deru, 14 M., 55 (1890). See Antaji v. Dattaji, 19 B., 36 (1893).

(8) Majasram v. Gurmukk Roy, 26 C., 37 (1899).

(9) Fiel3, Et., 451, 452. Thokore Totesinji v. Bamanji Dalal, 27 B., 515 (1903).

(10) Act IV of 1932, s. 54, §§ 2, 3.

(11) Ib., s. 57. (12) Ib., s. 107.

(13) /6 . 4. 123.

(14) /5., a. 11%

Deeds of sale or mortgage of immovable property of less than Rs. 100 in value, and deeds of gift of immepossession when the 1 ort. gage, there can be no It has been held that it he registered in order to make it admissible in evidence (2)

But where an unregistered compromise petition, which was the root of the plaintiff's claim to an increased rent and in the control of the plaintiff's incorporated in the order it later civil suit for want of ..... Section of 100 . . . and had been followed by at a 1' e-.- . terms, it would not have been necessary to have had it registered (3) ŧ

Documents which require registration under the compulsory provisions of the Registration Act are (except for collateral purposes) inadmissible in evidence when not registered (1) Documents which do not require registration under those provisions are admissible in evidence for all purposes even though not registered (5) Section 17 of the Registration 14 (XVI of 1998) should not be comed as a section of the registered as a section of the r the document will be excluded by sections 91 and 65 of this Act. The result is that transactions - incapable of gistration A comes into

ed, he cannot when he has failed to register, and is, in consequence, unable to use his titledeed, turn around and say I can prove my title by secondary evidence. It would be useless to have a compulsory Registration Act if such a course were open to suitors Where the instrument inadmissible for want of registration was a receipt, oral evidence of the payment of the money was admitted on the principle embodied in illustration (e) premises in question for more than adverse to the predecessors of the plaintiff, whose claim as assignce of their interests

(1) Field, Ev., 446, 447

(2) Gupta Narasa v. Bejoga Sundars, 2 C W N., 663 (1871) , Jasmuddin Bisums v Bhuhan Jelini, (1907), 34 C. 456

(3) Bira; Mohines Dasses v. Kedar Nath Kurmalar (1904), 35 C., 1010, of Prana? Ann. v Lalebra Ann. P C. (1999), 22 M. 503 , Kali Charan Chosal v. Ram Chandra Mandal (1905), 30 C., 783; Birbhadra Rath v. Kulpataru Panda (1995), 1 C. L. J., 198

(4) Act XVI of 1903, s 49, v. aste and as to documents which have been held to require registration, see cases collected in Field. Ev., 447, 448; Ourunath Shrini asv Chenhasapa, 18 B .745(1893).

15) See cares collected in Field, Er., 418, 449. (6) Desai Motifal v Parasholam Nandlol, 18 B., 92 (1893) . Ram Coomar v. Krishari, 9 C., 68 (1882); but see also Lachman Das v. Depchand, 2 A., 851 (1890) . Jetabhai Dayalps v. Gerdhar. 20 B. 158 (1894), Gungaram Ghose v. Kalipado Ghase, 11 C , 601 (1895).

(7) Act XVI of 1908, s. 49.

(8) Field, Ev., 449, 450 . Sheith Rahmatulla v. Sheikh Saritalla, 1 P. L. R . F. R., 54 (1864); Monmohine Doscer v. Biskenmayer, 7 W. R., 112

(1867): Somu Gurullal . Rangammal, 7 Mail H C B., 13 (1871), [admissions by defendint] Mt. Kabaolun v. Shumsher Mt. 11 W. R., 16 (1869) . Dinanath Monkerjee v. Debnath Mullirk, 5 B. L R., App. 1 (1870); 13 W.R. 207. Sheekh Ibrahim v. Parraia, 6 Rom. H. C. R. 1. C. J., 163 (1871) Croule v. Aulier Choudbry. 21 W. P., 307 (1874). Shailh Mahomed v. Kolee Pershad. 24 W. R., 324 (1975): Rom Chunder v. Gobind Chunder, I C. I. R. 542 (1878) Decethi Vadara v. Krinhnasami Ayyan. gar, 6 M., 117 (1892).

(9) Monrochines Dorest v. Rishenmoyee Diaset, 7 W. R., 112 [1867], cited and appeared in Sheelh Rahmatulla v. Sheelh Secialfulls, 1 B L. R., F. B., 58, 79 (1869).

(10) Soorja Coomar v. Bhugwan Chunder, 24 8. R., 328 [1875]; Dalap Stagh v. Dargo Pranul, 1 A., 442 (1877) . Waman Ramchandra v. Ishan libe Krishanji, 4 B., 120 (1879): Fenlagyar v. Feekalasublayyar, 3 M., 53 (1891) (11) Nyzakka Routhen v. Varena Mahomed, 3 was consequently burned.(1) Where the defendants purchased land from the plaintiff, and gave bonds for the purchase-money, and these bonds were not registered and were, therefore, not admissible in evidence, it was held that the plaintiff, as vendor, was under no necessity to rely on the bonds in order to establish a charge on the property sold in respect of the unpuid purchase-money (2). A sub-equent oral agreement to discharge as prior registered agreement is not receivable, but actual discharge may be proved (3). If a contract of lesses is, for want of registration, ineffectual the lindlord is not debard from giving other evidence of a tenancy and requiring the Court to adjudicate on his right to reject (4).

Mad. H. C. R., 123 (1869); [followed in Chia na Krichna v. Dorusami Radio, 20 V., 31 (1996)]: Nagappa v. Dere, 14 M., 55 (1996).

When the fact is admitted to prove which it would be necessary to use in evidence a document which has not been registered, although registration thereof is by law compulsore, the non-registration cannot affect the decision of the case, The question of registration becomes material only when it is sought to use the document in evidence (5) So where the existence of the agreement was not disputed and its production was not necessary, it was held that the plaintiff was entitled to whatever relief the effect of the plant and written statement taken together would entitle him on the admission of the defendant, (6) It has, however, been said to be doubtful whether, if the document itself is tendered in evidence, any admission of its execution could make up for the want of registration; that there is a difference between admitting the fact, to prove which the document is sought to be used and admitting the document itself when offered as evidence and rejected for want of registration. Where, in consequence of the admission, it becomes unnecessary to use the document at all, the fact of non-registration may be immaterial; but the case is different when the existence of the document is disclosed and the document itself produced (7) Where a sub-registrar in disregard of the provisions of section 35 of the Registration Act registered a document as against a person denying execution thereof, it was held that his action was ultra rives and without jurisdiction and that the document could not be admitted in evidence as against the party denying execution.(8) The provisions of the Registration Act will not be permitted to be used to subserve fraud (9)

An agreement made without consideration on account of natural love and affection between parties standing in a near relation to each other is void unless it is expressed in writing and registered. (10)

- (1) Sambhubhas Karsandas v Shirlaldus Sadashirlaldas, 4 B , 89 (1879).
- (2) Firehand Lalchand v. Kumap, 18 B., 48 (1992).
- (3) Dina Nath Das v Matemala Dassya, (1906), 11 C W. N., 342.
- (4) Venlatagirs v. Raghara, 9 M., 142 (1885). disapproving of dictum in Nangals v. Raman, 7 M., 226; see Lakshmanna v. Kameswara, 13 M., 281, 284 (1889).
- (5) Synd Reza v Bhilun Khan, 7 W. R., 334
  - (6) Chedombaran Chetty v. Karunalyaralanga-

- puly Tarer, 3 Mad. H. C. R., 342 (1867); Huddleston v Brivos, 11 Ves., 583—596; and see Sheekh Ibrahim v. Parcata, 8 Bom. H. C. R., A. C. J. (1871).
- (7) Field, Ev., 453, 454.
- (8) Razi-un-nissa v. Sabir Husain, 26 A., 57 (1903).
- (2) See cases cited, ib., 459; and see generally as to the Registration Act and cases thereunder; Field, Ev., 443—459; Rivar, Indian Registration Act.
  - (10) Act IX of 1872 (Contract), s. 25, cl (1).

n

INDIAN DATES ACT.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate the law relating to judicial oaths, affirmations and declarations, and to repeal the law relating to official oaths, affirmations and declarations; It is hereby enacted as follows:-

I.-Preliminara

This Act may be called "The Indian Oaths Act, 1873" It extends to the whole of British India.(1) and, so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty, to the territories of Native Princes and States in alliance with Her Majesty;

[Commencement ] Repealed by Act XII of 1876.

2 (Repeal of enactment*) Repealed by Act XII of 1873 3. Nothing herein contained applies to proceeding before Courts-Martial, or to oaths, affirmations or declivations prescribed by any law which, under the provisions of the Indian Councils Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict, c 67), the Governor-General in Council has not power to repeal

II - Authority to administer Oaths and Affirmations.

- The following Courts and persons are authorized to administer, by themselves or by an officer empowered by them in this behalf, oaths and affirmations in discharge of the duties or in exercise of the powers imposed or conferred upon them respectively by law -
  - (a) all Courts and persons having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence :(2)
  - (b) the Commanding Offices of any multary station occupied by troops in the service of Her Majesty :

Provided-(1) that the oath or affirmation be administered within the limits of the station, and (2) that the outh or affirmation be such as a Justice of the Peace is competent to administer in British India.

III .- Persons by whom Oaths or Affirmations must be made

5. Oaths and affirmations shall be made by the following persons

(a) all witnesses, that is to say, all persons who may lawfully be examined, or give or be required to give, evidence by or before any Court or person having by

(I) 4ct X of 1873 has been declared in force in the Southal Parganas by Reg. III of 1872, a, 3, as amended by Reg III of 1899, s. 3; the Arahan Hill District by Reg. 1X of 1874, * 3; Upper Burma generally (except the Shan States) by Act XIII of 1898, s. 4; British Paluchistan by Reg I of 1899, s. J. Angul and the Khondmals (with an exception) by Reg. I of 1894, s. 3. It has further been declared by notification under the Scheduled Districts Act (XVI of 1874), to be in force to the following Scheduled . Districts, namely .- The Dutricts of Hazarilugh, lobardege and Manbhum, and Pargent

Dhalbhum and the Kolhau m the Dietrat of Singbhum. hee Gazette of India, 1981, Pt I. P. 344 The North-Western Provinces Tacat; are Gazette of India, 1878, Pt. I. p 501, It has been extended, under the same Act, to the Schoduled District of Coorg-See Gazette of India, 1876, Pt. I. p. 417. As to onthe taken in commissions executed in foreign territory, are Kadambeni Dann v. Kumudens Doom, 30 C., 934 (1903) and Appendix. (2) R. v. Alogu Kone, 16 M , 421 (1492); R v. Chail Ram. 6 1., 103 (1981) and care to next milt

law or consent of parties authority to examine such persons or to receive evidence;(1)

(b) interpreters of questions put to, and evidence given by, witness; and

(c) jurors

Nothing herein contained shall tender it lawful to administer, in a Criminal proceed-an only or affirmation to the accused person, (2) or necessary to administer, to the official interpreter of any Court, after he has entered on the execution of the daties of his office, an orth or affirmation that he will faithfully discharge those duties (3)

Where the witness interpreter or juror is a Hindu or Muhammadan, or has an objection to making an oath,

he shall, instead of making an oath, make an affirmation

In every other case the witness, interpreter or juror shall make an oath.(4)

11' .- Forms of Oaths and Affirmations.

 All oaths and affirmations made under section 5 shall be administered according to such forms as the High Court may from time to time prescribe.

And until any such forms are prescribed by the High Court, such onths and affirmations shall be administered according to the forms now in use.

[Explanation.1-Repealed by the Lower Burma Courts Act (VI of 1900), s. 48 & Sch. II.

8. If any party to, or witness in, any judicial proceeding(5) offers to give evidence

9. If any party to any judicial proceeding offers to be bound by any such oath or solemn affirmation as is mentioned in section 8, if such oath or affirmation is made by the other party to or by any witness in, such proceeding, the Court may, if it thinks fit ask such party or witness, or cause him to be asked, whether or not be will make the oath or affirmation:

Provided that no party or witness shall be compelled to attend personally in Court solely for the purpose of answering such question. (9)

- (1) See R. v. Chota Jadub W. R., 1884, Cr., 15: II. v. Jibhai Vaja, 11 Bom. H. C. R., 11 (1874)
- (2) Sec s. 342 of the Criminal Procedure Code and notes to s. 118, post.
- (3) Niderancy Dues v. Nucle. Lell. 3 C. W. N., 264 (1890), the Court said it would scept a statement from counsel from his place at the har without building him with m oath, but in the same case m append [4 C. W. N., 169; 27 C. 429 (1900)), the Court scal that shough it had been the practice in Courts in England to accept the statements of counsel, it entertained great doubt whether, if that course be objected to br the oppoints said, the party putting forward such statement could linust upon its fewir made without the sanctivy of an oath.

(4) R. v. Maru, 10 A., 207, 216 (1898); R v. Lall Sahai, 11 A, 183 (1888).

(5) The expression "party to judicial proceding "does not include either the complanant or the accused in a Criminal case, the provisions of as 8—11 do not apply to Criminal proceedings; R. v. Marary, Goladon, 13 B, 399 (1888).

- (6) Ram Narain v. Babn Singh, 18 A., 46 (1893).
- (7) As to whether arbitrators have power to proceed under this section, see Wals-ul-la v Ghulam Ali, 1 A., 535 (1877).

(8) Ram Narain v. Babu Eingh, 18 A., 45 (1893). As to the applicability of the provisions to a case in which the parties agreed that the matters in difference between them should be decided according to the oath of a third person, see Lethern Simpl v. Dalman Kung. 4 A. 302

(1880), (9) Where a case involves questions of law and fact the record of the Court must show what questions are to be decided in accordance with the oath; Rom Lal v. Saltanat Beg, 8 Oudh Cases 11 (1905). The consent of a guardian toan agreement under this and the following section will bind a minor, even though not sanctioned by the Court under O. XXXII, r. 7, p. 1104; of the Civ. Pr Code, Chengal Redde v. Ventata Reddi, 12 M , 483 (1889); followed in Shen Nath v. Sulf. Lal. 4 C. W. N., 327 (1899) : s. c., 27 C , 229 Then is nothing in sa. 9-11 which allows a party who has agreed to the administration of an oath under those sections to retract after the opponent has accepted the proposal. The Act gives the Court a discretion to administer the oath or not, and though it should not administer it if good grounds beshown for retracting, it is justified in so doing. notwithstanding the retraction if the grounds are frivolous. They Ammel v. Subbaraya Madels. 22 11., 234 (1893).

10. If such party or witness agrees to make such osth or affirmation, the Court may proceed to administer it or, if it is of such a nature that it may be more conveniently made out of Court, the Court may issue a commission to any person to administer it, and authorise him to take the evidence of the person to be saorn or affirmed and return it to the Court.

11. The evidence so given shall, as against the person who offered to be bound as aforesaid, be conclusive proof of the matter stated.(1)

12. If the party or witness refuses to make the eath or solemn affirmation referred but the Court shall record, as part firmation proposed, the facts that be refused it, together with any reson

I' -- Muscellaneous

13 No onussion(3) to make any any one for any other of them, and n one of them is administered, shall any evidence whatever, in or in irregularity took place or shall effect the obligation of a witness to state the truth (5)

14. Every person giving evidence on any subject before any Court or person hereby authorized to administer oaths and affirmations shall be bound to state the truth on such subject (6)

15. The Indian Penal Code, sections 178 and 181, shall be construed as if, after the word "oath," the words "or affirmation" were inserted

16. Subject to the provisions of sections 3 and 5 no person appointed to any office, before entering on the execution of the duties of his office, be required to take any orth or to make or subscribe any affirmation or declaration whaterer.

SCHEDULE.

[Repealed by Act XII of 1873]

(1) See for a discussion of the object and effect of this section, Francisco Shandoy v. Neuron Per. 2 M., 356 (1879), and see Badrad Din Almed v. Vizamuddin Hander (1908), 33 Cs., 356, (an antis not binding as conclusive endruge in any proceeding other than that in which it was taken, and Filhs Gornal v. Ramy Filding, B. Bont. L. R., 19 ("conclusive proof" is to be understood as defined by section 4 of the Evidence Act).

(2) A presumption adverter to the party refung to take the eath may be raised. Issen Mesh e Keleram Chinder, 2 C. I. R., 476 (1878), and see Noyan v. Pathikuri (1907), 31 N., 1; (when a plaintif after agreeing to take onth, relues to do so, the Court cannot dismiss the sult, but must record the refusal under thus vection and proceed.

(3) Sie R. v. Tarines Churn, 21 W. R., 31 11974) R. v. Ramsodoy Chuckerbutty, 20 W. R., Cr., 19 (1973) (omission to swear jury)

(4) Haloudda y. Ghulam All, 1 A , 535, 539 41877).

(5) Compare Art XLV of 1800, a 191. (For Act XLI of 1860, see the revised edition, an modified up to let May 1896, published by the Legislative Department). It has been held that the word "omission" in this section includes any omission such as a wilful omission, and is not limited to accidental or negligent omissions; R. v. Sewa Bhogia, 23 W. R., Cr., 12 (1874); E. C., 14 B. L. R., F. B., 294; R. v. Museamul Hvarya, 22 W. R., Cr., 14 (1874). s. c., 14 B. L. R., 51; R. v Share. 16 B., 359 (1891); (In this case Parsons, J., declined to deal with the question). See, however contra, the came of R. v. Annunto Chuckerbully, 22 W. F. Ct., 1 (1874); R. v. Moru, 10 A., 267 (1888); R. v. Lal Sahas, 11 A , 183 (18×8) See also R v. Viraperumal, 16 M , 105 (1892), in which care quare whether the omission to affirm the child having been intentional the case rame within the provinges of this section. And we Kunde Lall v. Nistarene Dassi, 27 C., 428, 435, 440 (1900), where the argument was characterised as at once novel and startling, s. c , t C. N. N.

(6) See under preceding law: In re I ede.

metta, 4 Mad. H. C. IL., 185 (1886).

F.

BANKERS' BOOKS.

As already observed, the general rule is that witnesses who are competent to give evidence are compellable to do so. An important qualification of the rule is enacted by the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, the provisions of which are of frequent application and are as follows :-

ACT No. XVIII or 1891.

PASSED BY THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL. (Received the assent of the Governor-General on the 1st October, 1891.)

An Act to amend the Law of Evidence with respect to Bankers' Books.(1)

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Law of Evidence with respect to Bankers' Books : It is hereby enacted as follows :-1 (1) This Act may be called "The Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891."

> context,tments relating of the Colonies of Parliament atent ;(2)

(a) any company carrying on the business of bankers:

(b) any partnership or individual to whose books the provisions of this Act shall have been extended as hereinafter provided; - "ice (3)1

cash books, account books

uiry in which evidence is or may be given, and includes an arbitration; (5) "the Court" means the person or persons before whom a legal proceeding

19 held or taken;

(6) "Judge" means a Judge of the High Court . which evidence is taken - and

(I) In the statement of Objects and Reasons of the Bill of this Act it was stated that the object of the Bill was to apply to British India the provisions of the English Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1879 (42 & 43 Vic . c. 11). See Harding v. Williams, L. B., 14 Cb. D , 197. The provisions of the Act were extended to books of savings bank and money-order offices of the Post Office by Act I of 1833.

(2) Amended by Act XII of 1900 Under the section as it originally stood, it was beki that copies of entries in the books of a bank which did not come within the definition of a "Company" as given in sub-section (1) though certified in accordance with the form present adby that Act, were not admissible in evidence under the provisions of the Act. R. v. McGuire, 4 C. W. N., 433 (1900). See 4 C. W. N., elei. cervii, cerrir, cerrur.

(3) Added by Act I of 1893.

- 3. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Cazette, extend the provisions of this Act to the books of any partnership or individual carrying on the business of bankers within the territories under its administration, and keeping a set of not less than three ordinary account-books, namely, a cash-book of day-book or journal, and a ledger, and may in hike manner rescend any such notification.
- A Subject to the provisions of this Act, a certified copy of any entry in bankers' book shall in all legal proceedings be received as prindfarie evidence of the extretence of such entry, and shall be admitted as evidence of the matters, transactions and accounts therein recorded, in every case where, and to the same extent as the original entry is now by the admissible, but not further or otherwise.[1]
- 5. No officer of a bank shall in any legal proceeding to which the bank is not a party be compeliable to produce any banker's book the contents of which can be produced under this Act, or to appear as a witness to prove the matters, transactions and accounts three in recorded, unless by order of the Court or a Judge made for special cause.
- 6 (1) On the application of any party to a legal proceeding the Court or a Judge may order that such party be at liberty to inspect and take copies of any entires in a banker's book for any of the purposes of such proceeding, or may order the but to prepare and produce, attitum a time to be specified in the order, certified copies of all such entires accompanied by a further certificate that mo other entires are to be found in the books of the bank relevant to the matters in issue in such proceeding, and such further certificate shall be dated and subscribed in manner herenbefore directed in reference to certified copies (2)
- (2) An order under this or the preceding section may be made either with or wibout summount the bank, and shall be served on the bank three clear days (exclusive of bank holidays), before the same is to be obeyed, unless the Court of Jutze shall othersis
- (3) The bruk may at any time before the time limited for obscience to any such order as aforested either offer to produce their books at the trial or give notice of their intention to show cause against such order, and thereupon the same shall not be enforced eithent little order.

der of the Court or part of the bank.

- (2) Any order made under this section for the payment of costs to or by a bank may be enforced as if the bank were a party to the proceeding.
- (3) Any order under this section awarding costs may, on application to any Cont of Civil Judicature designated in the order, he executed by such Court as it the order were a decree for money passed by itself.

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be construed to derogate from any power which the Court or Judge making the order may possess for the enforcement of us or his directions with respect to the payment of costs.

- (1) See Dearlo Das v. Sant Haide, 18 A., 74 (1887). Where belone the Act a purty had a right to leave a subspan deareterm In complete and the subspan deareterm In complete handers to produce their books, he can now obtain an order under the Act. Re Marspäde, 25 C. D., 498. This has nothing to do with the law of discovery and cannot be attituded for trial to obtain unspection which cannot be obtained by means of discovery; Parsall J. Wood, 1892, p. 137, see however, Perry v. Phospher Smoot, 71 L. T., 834.
- (2) It has been held under the English Act that a Magnetart before whom Criminal pre-reducing an being taken has posser to make an order for the prosecutor to impret and take regise of cities in the books of a undar which the defendant kerps an account, R. r. Assphore (1984), 2 K. B., 80%; and that though the section is not in terms confined to entries in the account of a party role action, yet if the incommon of the party role action, yet if the control of a party role action, yet if the control of the cont

Court is asked for an order to inspect and take copies of the banking account of persons not connected with the litigation, it englit, if it can make such order at all, to exercise the greatest caution in doing so. Pullet v. Gene, 1998, 1 Ch . 1 See Annual Practure, Notes to s. 37, R. 7. It may do so where the banking account, though nominally that of a Jersey not a party, is really that of a party, or if the party is so closely connected with it that stems in it would be evaluate against him at the trail But the order ought to be on notice to the person, Stofferdahres Transcous Co. v. Ethenik (1871), 2 L. B., 667, and as to right to inspect reguler, are Bont of Rombay v. Saltimen Somis 75 L. A., p. 130 P. C., (1964), 32 P., 484 (the caus is on the claimant to show that he has a definite eight or object of his own and that he has risined it and no other, and has been refamili

F.

(See Section 13, p. 178, ante).

Judgment and Decree of the Subordinate Judge of Benares referred to by the Privy Council in Bhitto Kunicar v. Kesho Pershad Misser, 24 I. A., 10; ac, 1 C. W. N., 265 (1807).

No. 184.

Judgment of Baboo Mirtunjoy Mukern, Subordinate Judge of Benares, dated 10th December 1887.

*****

SUIT No. 30 OF 1887.

Kesho Parshad

Plantiff.

Sheodial Tewari alias Bacha Tewari and Raja Ajit Singh .. Defendants.

i

The defendant Shro Dial is the son of one Hemnath Teasti Kaulapat Tenari, brother of Hemnath, had two socs, Dub Hershad and Bhawani Pershad, and a daughter, Mustammat Lachho Kuar Debi Partiad, pro-deceased, Bhawani Rarshad, Mussam at Rani Kuar and Mussammat Dharma Kuar were the widows of Debi Parshad. Mussammat Lachho Kuar had a daughter named Sadah Kuar, who was married to one Bannath Musser, father of Rankishen Misser Bhawani Parshad ded a bachelor.

Meser, tather of Ramkishen Misser innamn Farshad died a bachelor.

Kesho Parshad, the plaintiff to this suit, claims to be the son of Bhondu Misser, who is alleged to have been a brother of Bajanath Misser.

On the 4th January 1859, an agreement was entered into between Rani Kuar, Ram Kashen Mirser and Bacha Tewar whereby one mosety of the estate aforesaid was, according to the allegatio to the state and the strength of the st

The plaintift claums to recover possession of it on the death of the widow of Ramikaben as his her under the lindu las, setting saide a decol-of-sale executed by Shoo Plain Tewan in respect of five villages forming part of the estate of Ramkishen, in favour of the other defendant.

The following is the substance of the defence made by the defendants in their written statement:-

The plaintiff is not the son of the brother of the father of Ramkishen.

He cannot also be his heir, as Ramkithen was adopted by Bhawani Tewari as his son. The suit is barred by limitation, as Shoo Dial Tewari has been in adverse possession of the estate for more than twelve years next preceding the date of this so it.

Ramkishen Misser had been in possession of the estate as a trustee under the agreement of 1850, and the plaintiff therefore can have no right to claim it as his heir.

INDEX.

PAGE,	PAGE,
A.	Accounts-
Abbreviations	burden of proof 635
meaning of 620, 624	secondary evidence of 492
	Accused-
Absconding-	cross-examination by co-accused 861 accused : evidence taken against 841	examination of 801, 802
inferences to be drawn from 139,	presumption when no evidence 139n., 141, 147	called by 717, 718
statements made at the time of 150n.	Acknowledgment
Acceptor-	of debt 231, 231n., 234, 565
of bill-of-exchange · estoppel 794	Mahomedan law 422n., 728, 729 Access-
sexual, absence of 699	Acquiescence—  admissions inferred from 148
,, incompetence of parent to prove 704,
803, 803n, 804	••
, meaning of 701-703	Acquittalto document and presumption of	barring subsequent trial 374, 375 mode of proving previous 375n, 520
knowledge 197
Accession-	Act-
of sovereign ; judicial notice 443, 446	estoppel by 763 to office of public officer 443, 447	Indian Evidence, application of 104
Accident-	" criticism of 97—98
and injury to goods; onus 642	77—79 evidence negativing 619	,, relation to English facts showing 136	Law 10
proof that act was or was not an 203-204	Act of Parliament-raising presumption of negligence 726	judicial notice of 442, 444, 445, 446
Accomplice-	private; presumption 529
charge to jury concerning 832	relevancy of statement in an 363-365 competence of 827-835	"Adding to"- confession of co-accused 283	terms of document 571, 588
corroboration of 833-835	Admiralty-detective not 830	judgment 376, 378, 381
informer not 630	Admission-meaning of 827, 828	by administrator 222, 223 presumption as to 706, 710	,, advocate 454 previous statement of 895	, agent 212, 220, 224-230
spy not 830	sgreement 454
untrustworthiness of 827, 829	" assignee 222
Account Books-	., assignor 236
See " Books of Account."	. " bank manager 226
Account Rendered-	" bankrupt 240, 241
when regarded as allowed 149	" co-defendant 223

			Page.		PAGE,
	ssion—ontd			Admission-could.
οv	conduct	1	43, 208, 242	in acknowledgment of debt	234
	,, of suit	••	., 454	" arbitration proceedings	106#
,,	co-parcener	••	236		-249, 453
	co-tenant		232	" Court	m
	counsel		229, 230	" deposition	., 453
	debtor		239, 241	" matrimonial causes	227m
••	director of Com		226	pleadings	214, 440
"	executor	. 2	22, 223, 232	inferred from conduct	139 m.
	guardian .		230, 231	" " facts	148, 766
	. ad litem	212-	242, 233, 243, 240	" " «ilence intestate		243, 240	invalid document operating as involving erroneous conditions	••
"	jaghirdar		233	law	. 291n.
	juginituar		221, 231		214
	, tenant		235	judgment considered as	2229
	. tortfeasor		. 224	made before arbitrator	4-4
,,	next friend		233, 234	for purpose of trial	****
	nominal party	. 2	22, 233, 234	" in judicial proceedings	299 manager of bar		. 226	" mistake	213
		du family	227	,, ,, sleep	., 213
	" pro	perty	. 227	, soliloquy
12	minor .		212	of it is not to be given	., 247
,,	officer of Comp		124n.	" to legal adviser	213
.,	partner	2	20, 231, 239	" , police	262, 263
7.	party adopting		235, 236	" " stranger	212
77	" interested	in matter		with fraudulent purpose	292
•			231, 235	, without prejudice 215	, 218, 219
11	to procee	-	219-224	matters provable by	216
	patnidar persons from		235n.	nature and form of	213-215
	derived		20, 235, 239	breing proof of 210	290-292
	pleading		455, 456	none where right acquired bel-
	prosecutor		212	obtained by compulsion	472, 479
"	referee .		223, 241	of contents of documents	4/-, 4/
	respondent		. 224	" evidence. See "Eridence."	ino rvot		232	" execution dispensing with pr of attestation 216, 601
	shopman		222
.,	solicitor .		229, 230
••			241	" privity unstamped or unregister	eđ
	suitor in repre	entative
	acter	• •	220, 222	. 1 015.	200-203
++			326	operating as estopped 224	g 216,
		non	232
			222, 223	party not bound by, in point	0! 250
	vakil	••		law	22.
,,	way warden	••	326	har whom may be made	385#
•	zemindar		236	nice of guilty, Contents
	nsisting of hear			principal and surely fined		208, 209, 219	proof of, against persons man,	212-216
	spensing with pro	oof :	229, 439, 440	them	203, 220
ef!	ect of	215, 2	44, 230—232
ge	neral rules with	regard to	74,	representation operating as, a	753
-			208-210	estoppel

1003

Page.	PAG
dmission-concid.	Advocate-
siles in execution and for arrears	judicial notice of 443, 44
of revenue 237—239	may be also witness 80
stamps and registration 213n. shifting burden of proof 292	Affairs of State-shifting burden of proof 292	privileged , 809, 81 statements by party interested in	Affect-subject-matter and from whom	meaning of word 62 interest derived must be made	Affidavits-during continuance of interest 239, 240	admission in 91 use of account-book as . 344	admission in value of . 292	excepted from Indian Evidence weight to be given to 218, 219	Act 104, 10 when conclusive 454	filed and withdrawn: liability to when may be proved by person	cross-examination 855x making it 242-246	of witness not receivable against whole must be considered 216-218	party in subsequent proceed-withdrawal of 215	• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •
dministration-	Affiliation-
effect of letters of 379n., 380	cases: corroboration 83
dministrator-	Affirmation-admission by 223	evidence on : use of deposition in admission by intestate against 236	former trial 330
estoppel against 761	omission to administer 80
dmissibility-	Affirmative-burden of proving fact to be proved	burden on party stating 62° to make evidence admissible 633	in substance and form . 630 question for the judge . 126, 845-847	legal, not necessarily grammati-
tule in favour of 198 197	cal 630 rule in favour of 126, 127 when to be decided . 127. 846 Agency burden of proof 633
doption-	distinction between, and estop-admission by party adopting . 236	pel 761, 762 invalid; acted upon; estoppel 773	in contract, tort and crime : simi-judgment declaring validity of 377, 378	lar facts admissible to prove 673-676
onus	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
opinion expressed by conduct 421, 422	Agent- admission by, in civil cases 211, 219, 221, presumptions as to 721,722	224—230
dulteryaction for, damages 161
admission receivable to prove 216	comment and any day death; 707
ante-nuptial incontinence: evid-	continuance of relationship 683
ence of 137π.	against, in favour of prindecree of divorce how far conclu-	-t1 761 769
sive 378π. evidence of character 434	estoppel by, statement of 761, 762 evidence to show person contract-
" subsequent to latest	ed as 58°
date charged in petition 137	misrepresentation and fraud of 762 presumption 733 proof of	notice to 199, 199m.
proot et 117m.
Adverse Possession-	of corporations 761 ples of agency: onus 642
onus 666	principal and, relationship : onus 683, 684
Adverse Witness-	proof of 847 meaning of 883a., 883, 884	report of : admissibility against admission of fact or law by 453	principal 226
•

INDEX.

•
PAGE.	Page,
Aggravation of damages	Animal-conti evidence as to propensities of 137
Agreement-	injury by: proof of scienter 188n
application of method of 48, 49	Appeals-difficulties as to method of, where	civil and criminal 118
several causes producing same	., , onus in 633, 634
effect 21	dealing in, with admissibility 130
illustration as to method of, and	estoppel from instituting 751 difference . 21	" varying case in 751
method of, and difference 20	objection in, to admission of se-
weakness of method of, how cured 21	condary evidence 487
where inconclusive . 20	Arbitration-
Agriculturist-	admissions made in. See " Arbitrator."
opinion of 405	no presumption against party from
•	refusal to submit to 249, 744
Alibi defence of 135, 153n.	Arbitratoradmission made before 222n.
Allenation -	,, of, for purpose of set-
onus . 652, 659, 660	ting aside award 244
Almanac-	without prejudice 248
reference to	as witness 806
Alteration	duties of 103, 106
of document 347	cyldence given before 330
Ambiguity-	not included in term "Court" 107
as to confining evidence to i-sue . 11	proceedings before, excepted from
" excluding bearsay 12	Indian Evidence Act 104, 105 construction of instrument good	regularity of proceedings of, pre()	sumed 737 effects of
in document surrounding cir-	Army- Articles of War for . 442, 446
latent . 555, 609, 615-620	Art - matters : reference to 443, 448
of document 355, 852n.	matters: reserve to 404
, , cleared by acts done	TOP TOT TOTAL under it 555-556	opinion on points of parent 555, 608-613	Articles of War-American Decisions	Indicial notice of authority of 756n	Artist-Ancient Document -	obition or alteration 317	Artizan - 405
calculation of period 30 years 547	opinion of comparison of 507, 508	Assaultcorroboration of 548	damages in action for
no presumption of executants' au-	Assessor- , 84"
thority 548	examination of witness by proof of possession 169n.	questions by iii, 015 relating to right and custom 325	view by rules as to 545-550	witness
secondary evidence of 489, 548	Assignee-value of 518	admission of plaintiff a title Ancient Possession-
evidence of 326	anit against to hus to Pible out
Animal-	of deposit of title-deeds
acts presumed to be in conformity	Assignor - 915, 236
with nature 731, 732	admission by

Pa	GE.		PAGE
Attachment-		Bailee-
burden of proof	635	estoppel of	794, 796
Attendance-		presumption of negligence	726, 727
	838	setting up title of another	796
exemption from	839	suit of interpleader by	796
Attestation-	1	Bailment-
admission dispensing with proof		law as to	796
	642 1	Bank-
and concurrence .	776	admission by manager of	226
" knowledge of contents of do-		custom of	. 420
cument . 197,	734	officer of, not compellable witne
formality of execution . 498,	499 .	•
meaning of 502,		Banker - books of	., 345n
of documents 501-			. 405
onus . 680.	681	not compellable to produce boo presumption in case of ancient do-		not compensable to produce non	s 990
cument 544-	546	Bankers—
presumption of, when document		evidence concerning	996
called for and not produced 539,	546 1	Bankers Books-
	216	certified copy of	493
rules with regard to 503-	505	Evidence Act	993, 996
want of: whether document ad-	1	Bankrupt-
	503	admission by assignee of	222
who may attest 502,		declaration of, before and af	ter
,			241
Attesting Witness-	676	leaving dwelling: evidence of i	inreportating time	1119	tention	150n.
See " Witness"	1	Bankruptey
Attornment-		enquiries in, guarding agair of tenant . 788,	780		378#.
Attorney-			194
admission by . 229,	230		240
and professional communication 811.	812	Baptism-
compromise of suit by	456	•	354
judicial notice of 443,	447	Barrister-proof of admission made to	247	· See " Counsel."
Auction-purchaser-		"Beheri -
Davides of Joseph	636	papers	348
presumption in favour of	742	Belief-
Authority-		admission consisting of	215
continuance of: presumption	711	as to identity	. 149n.
Avoidance-	1	Benami-
or mountainers and	636	tenant	. 786
Awargha-		transaction, burden of proof	536-638
papers 347,	348		770—773
		" fraud against creditors	772, 773
R.			. 590
Bad Character-		presumption	740, 741
previous 430—	-432 ]	Bengal Land Registration Act-
See " Character."		entry in register made under	. 353
Bad Paith-	1	Best Evidence -
fact showing 194m.,	199	rules as to	12
See " Good Faith."		Bible-
onus of manada 647.	694	statement in family	200

_		PAGE.	Pa	CI
Aggravation -			Animal-costd
of damages		433		13
Agreement-	,		injury by: proof of scienter 189	7.1
application of method	of	48, 49	Appeals-difficulties as to metho	d of, where			!1
several causes prod	ucing same		,, ,, onus in 633, 0
effect		21	dealing in, with admissibility 1
illustration as to meth	od of, and			5 difference		21		5
method of, and differer	ice	20	objection in, to admission of se-	_ weakness of method of,	how cured	21	condary evidence 4	8:
where inconclusive		20	Arbitration-
Agriculturist-			admissions made in See "Arbitrator	•
opinion of		405	no presumption against party from
Alibi-		•	refusal to submit to 249, 7-	11
	135,	155n.	Arbitrator-
Alienation -	.,,	1000	admission made before 222	ĸ
onus	652, 65	0 000	,, of, for purpose of set-
	. 002, 00	9, 600	ting sside award 2-
Almanac-			without prejudice 24
reference to .		448	as witness 80
Alteration—			duties of
of document		547	evidence given before 33
Ambiguity—			not included in term " Court " 10	77
as to confining evidence	to issue	11	proceedings before excepted from	_
" excluding hearsay		12	Indian Evidence Act 104, 10	Ū construction of instrum	nent: good		regularity of proceedings of, pre-	_ faith		694	sumed 73	7
effects of		13	Army-
in document: surrou	nding cir-		Articles of War for 442, 44	6
cumstances		775	Ant _
latent !	55, 609, 615	-620	metters : reference to 443, 44
	555,	852n.	manning of 40
,. " cleated by	acts done		opinion on points of 401, 40	5
under it	555	-556	4
patent	555, 608	-613	judicial notice of 447, 440	5
American Decisions –			*
authority of		756n.	opinion of	į Ancient Document-
alteration		547	Artizan - 403	į
calculation of period 30	years	547	Assault-
		, 508	180	,
corroboration of		548	damages in action for
no presumption of exec	utants" au-		Assessor-
thority		548	examination of withess by 015
proof of possession .		169n.	questions by 11, 915 relating to right and ci	ıstom	325	view by 803
rules as to		-550	witness
secondary evidence of	489	, 548	Assignee-value of		548
Ancient Possession-
evidence of		326	enit against : onus to provide and Animal-			of deposit of title-ucco-acts presumed to be in			Assignor— 235, 236
with nature .	. 731	732	admission by

Page.	Page
Attachment-	Bailee-
burden of proof 635	estoppel of 794, 79
Attendance-	presumption of negligence 726, 72;
of witnesses 838	setting up title of another 796
exemption from . 839	suit of interpleader by 700
Attestation-	Bailment-
admission dispensing with proof	law as to 796
of 642
and concurrence 776	Dank-
" knowledge of contents of do-	definition by manager of 220 custom of 420
cument 197, 734	officer of, not compellable witness 799 formality of execution. 498, 499
meaning of . 502, 503
of documents 501-506	opinion of 403
onus 680, 681	not compeliable to produce book 996 presumption in case of ancient document 544-546	Bankers -
presumption of, when document	evidence concerning 996
called for and not produced 539, 546	Bankers Books-
proof of execution of document 216	certified copy of 493
rules with regard to 503-505	Evidence Act 895, 996
want of; whether document ad-	Bankrupt-
missible for any purpose 503	admission by assignee of 222
who may attest 502, 503	declaration of, before and after wito may accest our con	bankruptcy 241
Attesting Witness-	leaving dwelling: evidence of in-repudiating will 676	tention, 150n,
See " Witness"	Bankruptey-
Attornment-	enquiries in, guarding against of tenant . 788, 789	fraud 378n.
or tenant . 166, 169	proof of knowledge of . 194
Attorney-	not are inint enterest 040
admission by . 229, 230	. '
and professional communication 811, 812	Baptism-compromise of suit by 456	register of judicial notice of 443, 447
proof of admission made to 247	· See "Countel."
Auction-purchaser-	"Beheri'-
burden of proof 636	paper* 348 presumption in favour of 742
Authority-	admission consisting of 215 continuance of : presumption 711
Avoldance-	Benami-
of incumbrance: onus 636
Awarsha-	transaction, burden of proof 638-638
papers 347, 348
F-F	" estoppel from 770—773 " fraud against creditors 772, 773
В.
Bad Character-	presumption 740, 741
previous 430—432	- the stranger and met meton and a
See " Character."	entry in register made under 353
Bad Faith-	Best Evidence -
fact showing 194m., 199	rules as to 12
See " Good Faith."	Bible-
onus of marrias 647 COA	statement in family 750

PAGE.	Page
Bigamy-	Books of Account-confd
prosecution for: proof of mar-	numerous and bulky 345n-
riage 422n	personal knowledge of facts stated
Bills-of-Exchange~	production of, in evidence . 345n acceptor of : estoppel 794 drawn in set 557, 569
presumption of consideration 705, 710	, that regularly kept 345
See " Negatiable Instrument "	test of genuineness of 140n-
Birth-	used to refresh memory 342-344
Annual plan of	" as admissions ., 342-314
during marriage and legitimacy 699-703	under s 34, cl. (2) 344
entry of, in India 350n.	weight to be given to 340n.
	Books of Reference - resort by court to 443, 448-451
register of . 348, 354	•
Bodily Feeling-	Boundary-
complaint, evidence 140n.	between lakhtraj tenure and zemiu- dar's anal land 659,660 fact showing statement of 187,	dat o min imid
190n., 191, 191n., 196	particle of proof
Body	demarcation of, by survey 366
admission as to existence of state	presumption of . 242, 245	proof of fact showing state of , 187, 194n	road : presumption of ownership 743 Bond -
hand and and the same	Breach of Promise-evidence of character Bribery—
stipulation for endorsement of pay-	evidence of confect
ment on back of 775	of witness 881-891
Book-	British India-
kept in ordinary course of buyi-	meaning of 101
ness 298, 305, 306, 367, 368	British Territories-
of broker 566	See " Territories"
, law-statements in 365, 366	Broker-
., public offices 510	books of 567
. reference: presumption 542	Bundan of Broof-
public or official See "Public	admission may shift
Record."	- Coated by composity US Books of Account-
admissibility of 342	on to property
admissions in 213, 214	ndention 655
commissions to examine 345n.	0.53
corroborative evidence only 342, 343	abanation by quardian 653
distinct entries in	Hindu father wit
entries kept in course of busi-	Hindu widow 652
ness 310-347	manager au
••	Sheleit 633
exidence
make evidence in his favour 208a	andian nurobase
hath-childa book 344	" adetion-post-membershee 635 inference from absence of entry 343	1 -1 4-marting (30-000
jama-wanl-baki, jamabandi and	. 020
other papers 314-318	# cetar 1
meaning of "kept in the regular	639, 640 course of business"., ,. 344	confession 251-250

				P	IGE.		PAGE
Bu	rden	of Proof-contd				Burden of Proof-coacht
	as to	consideration			641	to show cause comes within exce	р-
	••	contract		641,	642	tions of penal code	676, 677
		conveyance		641,	642	Burlal-
•		custom	18	4n , 644.	645	register of	354
		date of deposit of			245	Bye-laws-
	"	defamation	•••	•-	645	judicial notice of .	. 647
	"	deposition			331		. 01.
		easements			645	Bystanders-
	••	fact			632	exclamations of .	147
		fraud		645-		c
	"	good and bad fa		604-		Cannot be found-
		inheritance		655.		statement by person who, 297, 2	98, 328,
		insolvency			659		333
		insurance	••	••	659	Capacity-
			••	••	659	want of, in contracting party ex	ri.
		inventions	••	••			572. 673
	••	lakhtraj	•••		659	Caricature-	016. 016
		landlord and ter				and the second s
		legitimacy		••	665		110
	"	life and death	••	665, 681,		recognition by spectators of	. 328
		limitation	••	665-		Carrier-
		malicious prose	cution	٠٠.	667	negligence of	726
		minority		• •	668	of passengers .	726
	,,	mortgage		••	668	" goods .	727
		notices	••		, 66ª	Caste-
		ownership	(	669, 684–		enstom	. 165
	.,	partition	-	••	650	Cause-
	,,	partnership	••	669	, 683	fact the, of fact in issue or relevan	nt
		payment			669	facts	. 134
	••	pre-emption			669	Causation-
		perpetual or	perr	nanent		cases of well known and regular	136
		settlement		742	, 743		. 135
		rent-free land			671	Celibacy-	- 150
		self-acquisition			651	of member of family	. 321
	.,	settlement			636	•	. 321
		statement unde	r ss. 3	2. 33	293	Census-
	-	stridhan	••		651		. 349n.
		thakbust			636	officer, public servant:.	. 349
		title			672	Certificate of Guardianship-
		tort	٠.	672.	673	not a public record	351
		use of depositio		former		no evidence of minority .	. 351
		trial			331	Certified Copy-
		wills		673-	-676	difference between, and examine	ď
	gene		٠.	629-			520, 521
		opeal	•••		634		of
		aso of fact espen			0.72	Birthe, Deaths and Marriage	· 354 knowledge		678-	-681	under Registration Act .
		timinal law			643	of deposition
		ning of	••		-631	document of which such cop et in order to giv					. 473
		her fact			, 846		. 357
		in confession and			633	., marriage and other registers .
		isions as to			627	, proceedings under Insolver
	recit				670	Act	. 355
		••		•••			E10 001

PAGE,	Page
Bigamy-	Books of Account-contd.
prosecution for: proof of mar-	numerous and bulky 345n-
tiage 422n.	personal knowledge of facts stated
Bills-of-Exchange-	m 345
acceptor of: estoppel 794	production of, in evidence 345n.
drawn in set	proof of 345
presumption of consideration 705, 710	, that regularly kept 345 test of genuineness of 140n.
See " Negotiable Instrument"	used to refresh memory 342-344
Birth-	,, as admissions 342—344
date and place of 321	under s 34, cl (2) 344 during marriage and legitimacy 699-703
entry of, in India 350n.	O
proof of 570	Books of Reference - register of 348, 354	resort by court to 443, 448-451
Bodily Feeling-	Boundary-
complaint, evidence 140z	between lakhıraj tenure and zemin-
fact showing statement of 187.	dar's mal land 659, 660
190n., 191, 194n , 196	burden of proof 639
Body-	demarcation of, by survey 366
admission as to existence of state	presumption 741
	proof of road : presumption of ownership 743
Bond-	Breach of Promise-burden of proof 638	evidence of character execution of 638	necessity of corroboration 830, 837
in possession of obligor 719	Briberystipulation for endorsement of pay-	evidence of conduct 143
ment on back of 775	of witness 884-891
Book-	British India-
kept in ordinary course of busi-	meaning of 104
ness 298, 305, 306, 367, 368	British Territories-
of broker 566	See " Territories."
, law-statements in 365, 366	Broker-
, public offices 510	books of 507
, reference: presumption 542	Bunden of Buse?
public or official, See " Public	admission may shift.
Record."	. 678
Books of Account-	presumptions 120n, 631, 670
admissibility of 342	as to accounts admissions in 213, 214	adoption
commissions to examine 345n	635
corroborative evidence only 342, 343	alienation by guardian distinct entries in 367	Handu father 657
entries kept in course of busi-	Hindu widow box
ness 340—347	manager us, evidence 149	, Shebart . 100
exception to rule that party cannot	attachments make evidence in his favour 208a	enction purchase hath-chitta book 344	avoidance of encumbrance inference from absence of entry 313	benami transaction
jama-wasil-baki, jamahandı and	_ bonds other papers 314-348	 poundaries 630, 640
meaning of "kept in the regular	" Civil Procedure 251-256
summe of business " 344	eonfersion

			Р	IGI.		PAGE,
Burde	n of Proof-contd.				Burden of Proof-coacht.	I AUF.
as to	consideration			641	to show cause comes within exce	n.
.,	contract		641,	642	tions of penal code	676, 677
. "	conveyance		641,	642	Burial-
٠,,	custom	18	34n., 644,	645	register of,	354
	date of deposit			245	Bye-laws-defamation		• •	645	judicial notice of	645
	deposition			331	•	04.5
	easements			645	Bystanders— exclamations of
•	fact			632	C.	. 147
39	fraud		645-	-647
	good and had f		694-	-699	Cannot be found-
,,	inheritance		655,	656	statement by person who, 297, 2
	insolvency			659		333
"	insurance			659	Capacity-
	inventions			659	want of, in contracting party e-	ri-
.,	lakhıraş			659	dence of	572, 673
	landlord and ter	nant 6	61-664,	683	Caricature-
.,	legitimacy			665	a document	110
	life and death		665, 681,	682	recognition by spectators of	328
	limitation		665-	-667	Carrier-
,,	malicious prose	cution		667	negligence of	726
	minority			668	of passengers	. 726
,,	mortgage			668	" goods ,	. 727
,,	notices		689,	669	Caste-
	ownership		69, 684-	-694	custom	165
	partition			650	Cause-	100
29	partnership		669,		fact the, of fact in issue or relevan
,,	payment			669		. 134
	pre-emption			669	Causation-
	perpetual or	pern	asnent		cases of well known and regular	136
	settlement	••	742,	743		. 135
,	rent-free land			671	Celibacy-	. 1,,,
••	self-acquisition			651	at an and a state of	. 321
••	settlement			636	•	. 021
,,	statement unde	r ss. 32	2, 33	293	Census- records of, not admissible
-	stridhan			651	.00	. 349n.
••	thakbust			636	•	. 349
••	title			672	Certificate of Guardianship
	tort		672,	673	not a public record no evidence of minority	. 351
	use of deposition	י חו ח	lormer	331		. 351
	trial	٠	•		Certified Copy-
	wills .	•	673		difference between, and examine gene		• •	629-	634		520, 521
	ppeal			0.54	given by Registrar-General c Births, Deaths and Marriage nso of fact expe- knowledge		within 678~-	_CS1	under Registration Act .
	riminal law	•		643	of deposition
	ing of		629~		document of which such cop-et in order to giv				can be given in England .
	her fact			846	, map
	in confession and			633	., marriage and other registers .
	isions as to			627	a proceedings under Insolven
recit	ais		••	670	Act	. 355
test				630	- public document 511, 514, 515	SEC 521

	PAGE.		~
Certified Copy-coald		Claims on estates of dece	PAGE.
., public register	516
, register of copyright	353		836
presumption as to	523, 524	of professional adviser:
secondary evidence by	. 492
Cession -			905
of territory	448, 705	Client-
Character-	110, 700	communications made	by ., 904
as affecting damages	497, 432—436	Co accused hid	428	confession of	278-290
in cases of breach of promi-		cross examination by	. 861
famation · adultery	432, 433	and see "Accomplice."
, civil proceedings .	427-428	Co defendant -
" criminal proceedings		admission by	. 223
,, mitigation and aggravat		cross-examination of	224n
		", ", by'.	861
daniages	433	Coffin Plate
meaning of .	427, 432, 433	statement on	320
of prosecutor	427		,,
,, prosecutrix	884	Collateral Issue— when judge bound to try	129
., witnesses and parties	427		,, 127
presumption	713	Collector-
previous conviction eviden		kept for purposes of reven showing intention	. 423	register of, under Bengal I when important	76	gistration Act	., 353
" relevant .	127-436	Collision-
witness to	863	negligence : onus	: 672, 673
Charge-		Collusion~
to jury in case of accomplice	ev)-	decree re-opened on ground	l of 381
dence .	832, 833	judgment obtained by	389, 394, 395
Charitable Foundation-		meaning of	3/14 constitution and government	of 419	Colonial Law - Charitable Society-		proof of	336
documents of .	355	Commerce-
	,,,,	document used in a stateme	nt in 298, 305
Chart -		Commission -
presumption as to .	542	documents attached to, ol	jection
relevancy of statement in	356363	to	131
Chattel-		evidence given on	840, 841
	58, 467, 468	taken on	. 330n.
Themical Examiner		to ascertain amount of dan	161 age report of , .	405n.	returned before witness fully	CT049-
Shittah—		examined	337
nature of survey .	361-363	Commissioner-	3,00
of revenue-survey, public rec-	ord. 351	evidence given before	24
ircumstantial Evidence—		Common Course-	705, 714
admissibility of .	112, 113	of business, presumption and direct evidence distinguish	red 13	" human conduct, presum	11011 conviction on .	113n.	, natural events, presumpt	non v disregard of : by mofussil jurie		Communication-	884-896 distributed into its elements	124n	professional	001-0
in proof of fraud	, 98	Cempany~	226 meaning of . 13.	30, 112, 113	admission by agent of	496
value of	112, 113	director of	1015
ivil Procedure-		officer of	945
Code controls Act	125	acreant of 1,401,

Company—read.	Conduct-mett.
doctrine of estoppel applicable to 760, 761	esidence of, in sid of interpretation document served by post on 207	of document 553 certificate of shares or stock of 354	explaining 129 liability of 124	family 145m., 422 minutes of resolutions of 354	opinion on relationship expressed register of members of 354	by 401
• report of inspectors of 354	presumptions from 735 winding up 354	showing intention of parties to an Comparison-	instrument 143 direction to write for purpose of 507	statement affecting, made in pre-
of ancient documents . 508	sence 138, 147 signature, writing or seal 506-509 writings: meaning of 506, 507	Confession-proof of handwriting by 417	admission in reference to crime 75 conviction upon uncorroborated 210, 211
Competency - 800	corroboration of retracted 255 deception to obtain
of witness 798, 799, 838	definition of 209, 210
understanding, test of 800	distinction between admission and 209
who are competent $00-$03	evidence 111, 563
Compellability	false
of witness 798, 799, 838	general rule that accused affected
Complaint -	only by his own confession 211, 212 dismissal of : not acquittal 375
evidence of 140, 147
	judicial and extra judicial 210, 211 inducement: advantage to be Composition-
of offence; anus 644	gained or not to be Compromise-	aroided 259 meaning of "sufficient attorney's evidence of 249 decree made in pursuance of:	to give the accused evidence of custom 383n.	grounds" 260, 261 estoppel arising out of 731	, to confees must have not superseding decree 751, 752	reference to the charge 258, 259
of surt , 456	inferred from conduct of prisoner 209s.
power of counsel and pleader to 456	irregularity recorded 214 irrelevant 215, 249, 262
Compulsion-	irrelevant 216, 249, 202
admission obtained by 215	leading to discovery: meaning of Concealment-	"discovered " 270, 271
of evidence 139, 143	" " meshing of "in Conclusive Proof-	consequence of admission not 287	information" 271, 272 meaning of 119	, how much of of cession of territory	information may
1 1: 000 701	be found 272-275
, legitimacy 699-704	made: after removal of impression
Conduct-	eaused by inducement 275, 277 admission inferred from 140m., 208, 209m.
character in proof of 420	to police 262-265 when drunk 278
course of, as to innocence 34	when drunk 278
does not include statement 133, 145	while in police-custody 265-267 estoppel by 759	while in police-custody: information leading to evidence of 138, 141-145
was affecting docu-	discovery 267—275

				_
Conf	ession.	-contd.		Pige	, ·:
no	t necess	sary that Sessio	T. 3		Confro	ntation-			Page
					of wi	tness !		7
not	neces	sary that pro		253n.	Consen		••		84
t	breat al	ould be actuall	mise or		Court	hound s-	. `.
					fere	bound to d	leerde wi	thout r	e-obt	ained h	v undua ia		257		nce to prev veen partic		ngemer	2t
ir	of "	y undue influence	e, mean-of e	co-ucon	person in author	ity " 257	258	hind	de by test	imony d	loes no	t
			972	-290					. 128n
	"	affecting him	iself and		to one	e " Contrac	t."
		some "ot	her" 283	, 284	to evic	lence being	taken s	suffi-
	••	as agains	t such other pers	on as well		to rece	ption of ir	radmissib	le evi-
		as against :	the nemon		delice	• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •	••		129n.
		wno makes	such co	n-	Consent 1	Decree-
		lession '		280	setting	aside of			389#
		corroboration	286-	-289	Considers	tion-
*		" may take in	to con.		evidence	to show w	ant of	679 EO	£ 201
		sideration "	285—	289	minute (	n: onus			208
		" made "		284	non-rece	pt of: onu		 639, 640
		meaning of	term	*04	onus of	Droving	'		, 64 I
		"confession		282	presumpt	ion of
		meaning of	term	402	proof of		••	••	641 670
		" Court "		85	recital of	• • • •	••	••
		" proved "	994 004		'one-1		••	·	670
		"tried for the	Rama	:п. С	onspiracy	-
				^~	oridana	ns of cons	urators		145
"		"tried jointly		82	in tort or	n proof of			127
onus of	broam	ig voluntary ch	200, 20	21	proof of		••		124
			249—25				••	1	154
overhea	rd				in a f	or done by	conspira	tor
presume	ed to b	0. 7-1	. 27		m reiere	nce to comm	on design	153—1	55
			25		natruction	n
Interest 1	o upon	which reception	. 52,	5 6	Indian F	Evidence Ac	t	101-10	)3
depen	ds .		. 01,	. '	. documen	t .	5	54, 611	4.
promise	or indi	cement to mak	. 210	,	document	t consistent record o	ք։ թահ	licement to mak			faith	••	••,	655, 73 recorded	ph 71	agustrate			foreign w	rıting, opini	on as to	623	;
-ciciane	y of, to	agustrate be determined	213	Con	sul-
Court			256, 257	ce	rtificate of			. 517 weight to	be give	en to	218, 219	po	wer-of-atte	nrney execu	ted be-value of	ist be	considered	216, 367		fore
	• • •		210	Cont	inuance-			-
Confession	and A	Voldense	210				•	693
onus					life - nree	presumption imption		82, 683
-Confidence	_		642		northambi	p,—presum[		633
, person ir	novie	ion of: good			Jananess -	presumption	1	681
. faith	. 10011					Jacountano
		6	9 4 699		nuity-
Confidentia	1 Comm	unication.			re not pr	csumed	.	712
,,		nunication r 813, 814, 81		pres	nmbtion .	708	711, 712	, 720
Confirmatio	n-		0-815	Contr	act-facts suppo-	ortina t.	· forme				een breach	of, and
	V : simi	lar facts admis.	149		oppel .		751.
sible for	· · · · · · ·				h of, dam			161
-	••		137	burde	n of proo	ř	••	4:
					•	•

l'age.	Page
Contract-mati.	Coroner-
by agent 589	evidence given before 330 construction: notice of contents 199	and the second s document made proof of 126, 127	Corporationevidence of terms of . 556-571	admission by surveyor of 220
estoppel resting on 752	doctrine of estoppel applicable to 760
oral evidence to show time when	Corpse-document becomes 578	finding of, not essential to con-want of capacity . 572, 593	viction 254n
variance of	Corpus delictiexistence of, wrongly inferred 35, 36 Contradiction-	manufacture of by deposition in former trial 332, 333 by previous statement in writing 869	mile and a exclusion of evidence to contra-	" " " "
diet 877-880	Corroborationof answers tending to shake credit 403# *	afforded by books of account 342
., statement made under es. 32,	,, decree 195
33 293, 297	evidence given in158
,, witness 856, 872, 873	in affiliation cases 830
judgment admissible for 386	, breach of promise cases 836 of terms of document 571, 588	, claims on estates of deceased
Conversation~	persons 836
how much to be proved 367, 368	., maintenance cases 836n.
Conversion-	prosecution for perjury 836
from one religion to another 745	of accomplice . 833-834
,	" nncient document 548
Convert - Setire Christian 645	confession of co-accused 286-289
Mattre Cilitation .	of deposition 339
to Manomenani iii	" expert experience 398, 412
Conveyance-	, statement made under ss. 32, burden of proof 642
in reality mortgage 579	33 . '293, 297 ,, witness 852, 891—894
Conviction	two sets of evidence neither of barring subsequent trial 372	which alone can be excepted evidence of bad character 428, 430	without 287n.
judgment of, no evidence of its truth in civil cases 387	Co-tenant-mode of proving previous 375n.	admission by 232 obtained upon evidence of accom-	*
plice 827, 828	Councils-
previous, of witness: evidence of 877	proceedings of : judicial notice 444, 448
proof of	Counsel-
proving guilty knowledge 425	admission by 229, 230
upon statement of single witness 835, 836	called as witness : privilege 806
Co parcener-	cannot disclose professional com-
admission by 236
Copy-	munication 811 compromise of suit by 456 of copy not admissible	discretion of, as to introduction of kept in registration office " 476	evidence 847
use of, to refresh memory 901	for witness called on subports 824 notes of, as to what occurs at trial : 454 certified copy of entry in book of	prisoner leaving defence to 197n.
	proof of admission made to 247
registry 354	senior may take case out of junior's
admission of respondent	hands

Page.
Counterpart-	Page, Criminal Trial—
document executed in 472, 474, 477	rules of evidence 115, 117, 128
Course of Business-	admissions dispensing with proof
books kept in statement in 305-308	in 456
entries in books of account kept	bad unless conducted in manner
in 341—348	prescribed by law 116
evidence to contradict . 205n.	character in . 426, 428-433
kept in regular : meaning of 344	effect of evidence in 115-117
meaning of 206, 307, 308	election in presumption as to 738	waiver in private and public 206	King prosecutor in 338
proof of 205-207	improper admission and rejection ,, particular instances 137	of evidence in . 922, 923
statement made in 224, 305309	previous judgment barring 374
Ses "Statement made in the	proceeding between prosecutor course of business."	and accused 329
•	proof of marriage in 421, 422, 424
Course of Dealing-	Cross-examination-as explanatory of intention of do-	right and opportunity of 328-337
cument 144n.	as to previous statements in writ-evidence of interpretation of docu-	ing 869-872
ment 555	by accused 856
Course of Nature—	" co-defendant and co-accused 856, 862
judicial notice of ,. 414	defined 848
Court-	deposition 328, 337
application of Indian Evidence Act	document shown to witness in,
to proceedings in 104	whether other party may see 855. 856
does not include arbitrator 107	giving notice of line of defence " judicial notice by, of matters ap-	hearsay in 467, 853 pearing in its own proceedings 443	intriminating question in meaning of 107	inordinately lengthy
" " in s. 30 285
officers · judicial notice of 443, 447	liability to, where affidavit filed
seals of: judicial notice 443, 446, 447	and withdrawn
Court Martial -	must relate to relevant facts $31, 833 evidence in 104, 105	a t to to commingtion But, But,
Court of Wards-	none on questions put by Judge 909-914
admission by 231n.	where witness examined by manager employed by : public ser-	. 800
vant 349n.	and by the Court 815
Credit-	. fl I delente
distinction between competency	of co-defendant and 403n.	. expert
of experts 403n., 413	nester's own witness
" Witness 872—885	person called to produce docu
re-establishing 800, 891	ant
Crime-	witness called by the Court $48 burden of proof 643, 644	witness to character no professional privilege in respect of 812	presumption of opportunity of 358 proof of conversation 879-877
Criminal Law
admission by sgent in org	recall for further burden of proof 643, 644	right and opportunity of
	The state of the s

	1012
. Pige	D
Cross examination-cour	Damages-mat',
right of, though no question asked	meaning of 180
by party calling witness 855	measure of 161, 162
rules as to 818, 853—862	rutication and accravation of 160
survival of right to, when oppo-	nha4 642 nent's witness called 835	statement exposing party to suit upon new matter introduced in re-	for ~ 208, 300-313
examination 854, 855
want of qualification of expert	Date-
shown by 403	and place of birth321m- of ancient writing408 witness dying or falling ill before 855 Crowd-
expression of feeling or impressions	Death-
of. See " Expressions of feelings	entry of, in India
or impressions."	joint contract severed by : effect
Crown-	of 231, 232, 239
estoppel against	no presumption as to time of 652
See " Soverrigs "	of member of family 321
Custody-	onu« 663
confession made while in police 265, 266	proof of 570, 682, 683
proper; meaning of 530	register of 354
Custom-	registrat of, public servant 349 annexed to contract evidence 572,601-604	statement as to cause of, in dying caste	declaration 294, 293, 297, 302-305 statement by person who is existence of : relevant facts 161-187	dead 297, 328
family 165, 185, 186, 325*., 723	Deceit-judgment as to general or public 382—384	Onus 673
judicial notice of	Deception-
kinds of private, general, pub-	confession obtained by 277
lie 165	•
local 185 manorial 137n., 318n.	Declaration - accompanying act 196n.
manorial 137n., 318n, opinion on 162, 401, 417—419 proof of intention 192n., 194 presentment of customary court« 318n. proof of 183—186, 601 proof of, by entry in Wajib-ul-arz 353	Decreerequisites of 164, 165	admissibility of, as public record statement giving opinion as to	when relevant 369—389 public 316-319	tion" or "instance" under s.
, in document relating to transaction under s. 13 325-328	13 170—183 certified copy of 514, 519
,, in document relating trade 136a.	consent. See "Consent Decree."
See " Document relating to Right	evidence of contents 563
and Custom."	complement 179
~	disposession 172
p.	, , imat non
Dacotty belonging to gang : previous com-	obtained by fraud: setting aside of 359a.
missions of 431, 432	relating to matter of a public na-Damages-	ture 183
character as affecting 426. 433-436	reading of, in connection with judg-liability for, on failure to give evid-	ment 353m.
ence 485	Dedication-
local investigation as to amount of 161	tegister of 354

PAGE	P102.
Counterpart-	Criminal Trial-
document executed in 472, 474, 477	rules of evidence 115, 117, 128
Course of Business-	admissions dispensing with proof
books kept in : statement in 303-305	in 456
entries in books of account Lept	bad unless conducted in manner
in 341-348	prescribed by law 116
evidence to contradict 205n.	character in 426, 428-433
kept in regular : meaning of 344	effect of evidence in 115-117
meaning of 206, 307, 308	election in 134
	waiver in 131
	King prosecutor in 339
	improper admission and rejection of evidence in 922, 923
particular instances 137	previous judgment barring 374
statement made in 224, 305-309	proceeding between prosecutor
See "Statement made in the	and accused 329 course of business."	proof of marriage in 421, 422, 424
Course of Dealing-	Inter-
as explanatory of intention of do-	Cross-examinationcument 144n.
evidence of interpretation of docu-	as to previous statements in writ-
ment 555	10g 846
Course of Nature-	" co-defendant and co-accused 856, 562
judicial notice of 444	defined 200 337
Court-
application of Indian Evidence Act	document shown to witness in,
to proceedings in 104	whether other party may see 855, 876
does not include arbitrator 107	giving notice of line of defente judical notice by, of matters ap-	heatsay in pearing in its own proceedings 443	incriminating question in meaning of 107	mordinately lengthy 839, 860
., "in s 30 285
officers · judicial notice of 443, 447	liability to, where affidavit filed
seals of judicial notice 443, 446, 447	and withdrawn
Court Martial -
oridence in 104, 103	need not be confined to facts testi-
Court of Wards-	none on questions put by Judge pon_914 admission by 231n.	where natures examined by manager employed by : public servant 349n.	upon questions put by the Court . 845
Orealt-	notice of line of defence distinction between competency	of co-detendant and 403n.	" exheat " 880-181
of experts 403n., 413	" party a own within
, witness 872-885	" person called to produce docu
re-establishing 890, 891
Crime-	ment stances called by the Court burden of proof 643, 644	putness to character
no professional prisilege in res-	partial and not complete
pect of 812	presumption of opportunity 368 proof of constitution
Criminal Law-	questions lawlus in $41
admission by agent in 228	recall for further 855
barden of proof	-i-t- and apportunity "

PAGE.	Page,
Cross-examination-mat!	Damages-cost!
right of, though no question asked	meaning of 160
by party calling witness 855	measure of 161, 162
rules as to 848, 853—862	mitigation and aggravation of 160 surrival of right to, when opponent's witness called 855	012
upon new matter introduced in re-	statement exposing party to suit examination 854, 855	for 298, 309—313
want of qualification of expert	Date-
shown by 403	and place of birth 321no of ancient writing 408
• .	,, document 298, 299
Crowd-
expression of feeling or impressions	Death-
ol. See " Expressions of feelings	entry of, in India
or impressions"	joint contract severed by : effect
Crown-	of 231, 232, 239
estoppel against 761	no presumption as to time of 682
See " Sovereign "	of member of family 321
Custody-	onus 663
confession made while in police 265, 266	proof of 570, 682, 683
proper: meaning of 530	proof of 570, 682, 683 register of 354 registrar of, public servant 349
Custom-	statement as to cause of, in dying annexed to contract evidence 572,601-604	declaration 294, 295, 297, 302-305 caste 185	statement by person who is declaration as to public 318	dead 297, 328 existence of relevant facts 161-187 family 165, 185, 186, 325n . 723	Deceit-
judgment as to general or public 382—384	onus 673
judicial notice of 444	Deception-
kinds of: private, general, pub-	confession obtained by 277
lic 165	come their obtained by local 185	Declaration-accompanying act 196n.
manorial 137n., 318n, opinion on 162, 401, 417—419	estoppel by 763—784
presentment of customary courts 318n.	proof of intention 192n., 194 proof of 183—186, 601	Decree-proof of, by entry in Wajib-ul-arz 353	admissibility of, as public record requisites of 164, 165	when relevant 369-389
*tatement giving opinion as to	,, as a "transac-public 316-319	tion" or "instance" under a.
., in document relating to	13 170—183
transaction under s. 13 325-328	certified copy of 514, 519
., in document relating trade 136n.	consent. See "Consent Decree,"
See " Document relating to Right	evidence of contents 563
and Custom."	, corroboration 172
	" " dispossession 172
D	possession 172
Dacoity-	obtained by fraud: setting aside of 389n.
belonging to gang : previous com-	relating to matter of a public na-
missions of 431, 432	ture 183
Damages-	reading of, in connection with judgcharacter as affecting 426, 433-436	ment 383n.
hability for, on failure to give evid-local investigation as to amount of 161	Dedication— register of local investigation as to amount of 161	register of 354

1.401	- PAG
Deduction	Depositions in former trials-real.
	9 oral evidence of 3
	2 partial cross-examination 3:
steps for complete method of 2	2 proceeding must have been bet-
Deed-	ween same parties 3
admissions in, always evidence . 74	1 proof of meapreity to give evid-
-mstappel 747, 748, 77	4 ence, 3 statement as to relationship con-	proof that witness is dead 3
tained in 297, 32	1 ,, witness cannot be found 3.
'statement in, as to transaction	question in issue must have been under s. 13 299, 325-32
Defamation -	use of previous statements 332, 33 action for, in respect of words and	witness kept out of the way 35
	•
ovidence of character
	J meaning or
10aus 63	4 Abunton on 11
Delay-	Description- imperfect 61 statement of person whose attendance cannot be procured with-	part of, applying to one subject, out 297, 328, 33	. batt to another presumption from 74	4 Partity Correct, partition and correct
Demeanour -	Destruction-
of party 11	O of evidence 13 of prisoner when charged with	Discretion, Judicialorime 14
of witness , 110, 113, 118, 85	Disease-
Deposition	of body or mind rendering witness admission in . 213, 45	3 incompetent 50
certified copy of 33	Daelena corroboration of 33	register of evidence of contents . 56	3 Produced informal	not accomplice
in former trial	nor accompan-
See " Depositions in former trials"	Dhara-
, of deceased person relating to cus	land adjudged to be tom, prescription, pedigree . 33	Dialepstranof witness a public document 314, 54	l statements made in 331, 34
taken in absence of, and read over	. Dlary-
' to, prisoner	t and a second may Depositions in former trials-	PAG 11 11
admissibility of . 338-33
admitted on grounds of delay and	made under s. 161, Cr.
expense 33	Pr Code contradiction
· corroboration 33	contradict police commal trial or inquiry is pro· ceeding between prosecutor and	of commune admission by
. accused 338, 33	·
grounds of admissibility 329, 330, 33 illegal questions	760  AN production of documents 822-523
necessity of right and opportunity to cross-examine 336, 33 to cross-examine 336, 33 open to same objection as viva mee	presumption against 100
the to same only trop at the fire	need of

	PAGE.	Page.
Disproved-		Document-cold.
meaning of	113	evidence to point operation of ! 604
Dispossession-		executed in counterpart 472, 474
decree, evidence of	173	" " several pacts 472, 474, 569
Disposition-		execution of ,. 500, 501
evidence of 43	3, 435	of: admission 216
general	435	of, implies knowledge of
	3, 435	contents 197
Disposition of Property-		extrassic evidence madmissible to
	571	supersede 553, 556
	-608	force of documentary proof 559n.
		foreign , construction of 405n
Divorce		forged, effect of production of 460
	376,	found in possession of party, evi-
377, 37	8, 380	dence 149
privilege as to communications		genuineness in question : oral ad-
continues after	808	mission 246, 247
proceeding: proof of marriage in 42		interpretation, extrinsic evidence 852n
,, witness in 42		judicial and non-judicial 471
use of decree in previous suit	381n.	hability for failure to produce 824
Document-		matter required by law to be re-
access to, raising presumption of		duced to form of 556—571
knowledge	197	meaning of 110
admissible in England or Ire-		non-production of : inference 714
land	535	" " punishment. 863
admissibility of extransic evidence		not produced after notice 908
	-556	, when called for : pre-
	0, 681	sumption . 543, 544
ambiguity of	555	objection to production of 846
	506	oral admission as to contents
" does not imply know-		of 216, 246, 247
ledge of contents	197	oral evidence of statements of conduct showing intention of par-		contents of 868 ties to	144	patent ambiguity 608-613
construction of	554	presumptions as to 522—550, 738, 739 containing statement as to rela-		" " ,, knowledge of tionship 29	8, 320	contents of 734
course of dealing showing		presumption in favour of honesty of 726
	144n	production of : cross-examination 862
	B, 306	,, which another per-
	3, 474	son could refuse to produce 822
dispositive and non-dispositive .	551	production of, of witness, not party 822
distinct subsequent oral agree-		" of: procedure 838
ment 571, 599	-601	" · inspection · transla-evidence in aid, explanation and		tion of 904, 905
interpretation of	554	professional adviser stating con-
	1, 591 326	tents of 811, 812
,, of ancient possession .		proof of 77, 457, 458, 462, 472-479
" " conduct as affecting 578		" " by secondary evidence 479, 500
" " modern possession	327	, , formalities 642 , , mark on 414, 415
" ", terms of contract«, grants and other dispositions of property 556	-571	,, ,, signature and handwrit-
	. 511	ing 498, 499
	1, 604	. ,, separate oral agreement 572, 596—599
casing mee		. 2/2,000-009

Dotument—eath, provable in England by certified ground of admissibility 294 impeachment of declarant and private 471, 510 and private 471, 510 and private 471, 510 and private 471, 510 and missibility of 325—328 search for 489 shown to witness on cross-examination: whether party entitled to see 8. $56 shown to witness on cross-examination: whether party entitled to see 9. $55 shown to witness inspection 871, 872 statement in relation to transaction mentioned in s 13 299, 325 thirty years old 544—550 used in judicial proceeding, may be used as admission 224 variance of, who may give evidence 298, 306 used in judicial proceeding, may be used as admission 224 variance of, who may give evidence 298, 306 used for one with regard to admission of 1271, 128 proof of facts by 439 value of 469—472 meaning of 171, 469—472	•	PAGE	PAGE public
made to police-officer not to be regarded as if made in to the regarded as if made in the top to the top	provable in England by cert	ified	ground of admissibility 294
record 471, 512 record 471, 512 record 471, 512 relating to right and custom, admissibility of 325-328 search for 48 shown to witness on cross-examination; whether party entitled to see 856 shown to witness: inspection 871, 872 statement in relation to transaction mentioned in s 13 299, 325 thirty years old 514-550 used in commerce 298, 306 used in commerce 298, 307  Easement— fonus of commerce 298, 306 used in commerce 298, 307  Easement— fonus of commerce 298, 306 used in commerce 298, 307  Easement— fonus of commerce 298, 306 used, a deposition 307 usled of 224, 301, 302  Easement— fonus of commerce 298, 306 used, a deposition 307 usled of 224, 301, 302  Easement— fonus of commerce 298, 306 used, a deposition 306 used, as deposition 307 usled of 224, 301, 302  Easement— fonus of commerce 625  Easement— fonus of commerce 625	сору	533	impeachment of declarant 303
record	public	510521
record	,, and private	471, 512	not to be regarded as if made in missibility of 325—328 proof of death	record	471
shown to witness on cross-examination: whether party entitled to see 850 shown to witness: inspection 871, 872 statement in relation to transaction mentioned in s 13 290, 325 thirty years old 544—550 used in commerce 298, 306 used in judicial proceeding, may be used as admission 242 variance of, who may give evidence 625  Documentary Evidence excluding oral evidence 625  Documentary Evidence excluding oral evidence 625  Ensement of 110, 469 procedure with regard to admission of 127n, 128 prof of facts by 439 value of 400—472 proof of facts by 439 value of 400—472 proof of intentions 131  Domatch mortis causa presumption 712 prof of intentions 133  Donato mortis causa presumption 722  Drumb 803  Dureas 804  Ensement	relating to right and custom,	. ad-	previous statement of deceased 303s.
search for shown to witness on cross-examination; whether party entitled to see	missibility of	325 - 328 shown to witness on cross-examination; whether party entitled to see	search for	489 nation: whether party entitled to see	shown to witness on cross-ex	ami-statement in relation to transaction mentioned in s 13 . 299, 325 thirty years old . 544—550 used in inducial proceeding, may be used as admission . 242 variance of, who may give evidence	nation: whether party ent	ıtled shown to witness: inspection statement in relation to transaction mentioned in a 13 . 290, 325 thirty years old . 544—550 used in commerce . 298, 306 used in judicial proceeding, may be used as admission	to see	856	use of, as deposition 303 statement in relation to transaction mentioned in a 13 299, 325 thirty years old 544—550 used in commerce 298, 306 used in judicial proceeding, may be used as admission . 242 variance of, who may give evidence — 242 to a constant proceeding or a levidence — 242 meaning of . 110, 469 procedure with regard to admission of . 1127n, 128 proof of facts by . 439 value of . 460—472 proof of facts by . 439 value of . 460—472 proof of intentions . 103  Donate mortis causa— 250  Drunkenness— 260  Considered in estimating intention opinion admissible to prove . 400  Dumb— 400
thirty years old 544—550 used in commerce 298, 306 used in judicial proceeding, may be used as admission	statement in relation to transac	tion used in judicial proceeding, may be used as admission	mentioned in s 13	299, 325	E.
used in commerce 298, 306 used in judicial proceeding, may be used as admission	thirty years old	544 - 550	Easement_ used as admission	used in commerce	298, 306
variance of, who may give evidence of, who may give evidence of, who may give evidence of solution and, of evidence of 27,025 generally 409-472 meaning of 10,469 procedure with regard to admission of 10,469 procedure with regard to admission of 127n, 128 prof of facts by 439 value of 400-472 proof of facts by 439 value of 400-472 proof of intentions 103 proof of intentions 103 prof of intentions 103 prontsto mortis causapressumption 721 presumption 722 prountenness—2 confession made during 278 considered in estimating intention opinion admissible to prove 400 pumb—4 witness 803 pureas—4 plea of i onus 642 place of i onus 642 place of intentions 642 place of intentions 642 pureas—6 plea of i onus 642 pureas—7 presumption 644 pureas—7 presumption 645 pureas—7 presumption 7 presumption 7 presumption 645 pureas—7 presumption 7	used in judicial proceeding, ma	y be variance of, who may give evidence of constant facts
Documentary Evidence excluding oral evidence   551—555 generally   409—472 meaning of   110, 469 procedure with regard to admission of   127n, 128 proof of facts by   439 value of   400—472   200 michine—presumption   130 proof of intentions   103 proof of intentions   104 proof of intentions   105 proo	variance of, who may give
Documentary Evidence carduding oral evidence solutions of 400—472 meaning of 104 miles of 104 more solution of 1271, 128 proof of facts by 400—472 pond of facts by 400—472 proof of intentions 103 ponatio mortis cause— presumption 712 presumption 712 presumption 722 presumption 722 presumption 722 presumption 722 presumption 722 presumption 723 confession made during 278 considered in estimating intention of opinion admissible to prove 400 pumb— 40	dence	625	OI ICICVALIC INCCO
excluding oral evidence   551—555   generally   409—472   generally   409—472   generally   409—472   evidence in suit for   evidence in crimnal trials   134   evidence and evidence   100   evidence	Documentary Evidence -		• generally 469—472 meaning of . 110, 469 procedure with regard to admission of . 127n., 128 proof of facts by . 439 value of . 460—472 Domitche— presumption . 712 presumption . 712 Domatio mortis cause— presumption . 722 Prunkenness— confession made during . 278 considered in estimating intention 106 opinion admissible to prove . 400 Dumb— witness . 803 Duress— plea of 1 onus . 642 Dring Declaration— admissibility to be decided by Judge . 304 burden of proof . 301 comprency of declarant . 302 confirmation of declarant . 303 confirmation of declarant . 303 difference between law of England and Illrith India . 204, 3002 expectation of death unnecessary . 208, 3002  Election— In criminal trials . 134  Elements of Law— technical and general . 10  Endement presumption . 741  Endement presumption . 741  English Declares of . 10  English Law of Evidence - 11  Indomental rules of . 10  English Law of Evidence - 11  Indomental rules of . 10  English Law of Evidence - 11  Indomental rules of . 10  English Law of Evidence - 10  Lot to		551555
meaning of			evidence in suit for procedure with regard to admission of control of facts by 439 value of 400—472 brown of facts by 439 value of 400—472 brown of facts by 439 value of 400—472 brown of control of facts by 400—472 brown of facts brown of of 127n, 128 proof of facts by			th criminal criais
proof of facts by	• .
Domitole— presumption			technical and general
Domitoils			Encroachment
presumption 712 Encumbrance— proof of intentions 193 avoidance of : onus			presumption 741
Proof of intentions 193 avoidance of: onus		719	Encumbrance-
Donatio mortis causa— presumption			avoidance of : onus 630 presumption 722  Prunkenness 728 confession made during 278 considered in estimating intention opinion admissible to prove 400  Dumb 400  Dumb 501  Duress 718  plea of ; onus 612  Dying Declaration 612  admissibility to be decided by Judge 501  Durden oproof 301  competency of declarant 302  deposition used as 302  deposition used as 302  difference between law of England and British India 294, 302  expectation of death unnecessary 208, 302  expectation of death unnecessary 208, 302	-	100	Endowment-
Drunkenness— confession made during considered in estimating intention opinion admissible to prove  Dumb— witness 803  Bureas— plea of 1 onus  Dying Beclaration— admissibility to be decided by Judge 304  burden of proof 304  competency of declarant 303 confirmation of declarant 303 endiffraction used as 405 difference between law of England and British India. 204, 307 expectation of death unnecessary 208, 302  expectation of death unnecessary 208, 302  expectation of death unnecessary 208, 302		799
confession made during considered in estimating intenton opinion admissible to prove  Dumb- witness	• •	122 considered in estimating intention opinion admissible to prove			no reference to, made in the Indian conserved in estimating intention opinion admissible to prove Dumb— witness			not bunding authorities but valuwitnes  Dureas— plea of; onus  Dying Beclaration— admissibility to be decided by Judge burden of proof competency of declarant deposition used as a difference between law of England and British India. 294, 305 expectation of death unnecessary  sary 208, 302  Bright Law of Evidence— fundamental rules of 10 how formed 10 ments of 10 Act to 10 Bright Law on Evidence— fundamental rules of 10 ments of 10 Ments of 10 Ments of 10  Act to 10  Bright Law on Evidence— fundamental rules of 10 ments of 10  Act to 10  Bright Law on Evidence— fundamental rules of 10  Ments of 10  Act to 10  Bright Law on Evidence— fundamental rules of 10  Ments of 10  Act to 10  Bright Law on Evidence— fundamental rules of 10  Ments of 10  Bright Law on Evidence— fundamental rules of 10  Ments of 10  Bright Law on Evidence relation of the Imdian Evidenc		400
Dureas— plea of; onus  Dying Declaration— admissibility to be decided by Judge  Act to  Lenquiry—  Judge  J		000	E-aligh Lawret Evidence plea of; onus  Dying Beclaration— admissibility to be decided by Judge  Durden of proof  competency of declarant  deposition used as and British India. 204, 302  expectation of death unnecessary  asary 208, 302  difference between law of England and British India. 294, 302  expectation of death unnecessary  asary 208, 302  difference between law of England and British India. 204, 302  expectation of death unnecessary  asary 208, 302  difference between law of England and British India. 204, 302  expectation of death unnecessary  208, 302  difference between law of England and British India. 204, 302  expectation of death unnecessary  208, 302  difference law of England in book of one diminished 10  Ments of 10  Ments of 10  Act to  Enquiry  English answer to, by patients  criminal, a proceeding between  provecutor and accused  when answer to, admissible  when answer to, admissible  when answer to, admissible  after a ments of 10  Act to  Enquiry  Interval answer to, admissible  when answer to, admissible  when answer to, admissible  of Act to  Enquiry  Interval answer to, by patients  criminal, a proceeding between  in book of account. See "Enott"  18 256		803	fundamental sules of
Dring Declaration— admissibility to be decided by Judge burden of proof competency of declarant confirmation of declarant and British India 294, 302 expectation of death unneces asary 208, 302  Dring Declaration— relation of the Imdian Evidence Act to Act to  Ac			ham formed 10
Dying Bectavation— admissibility to be decided by Judge 304 burden of proof 304 competency of declarant 303 deposition used as 332 difference between law of England and British India 294, 302 expectation of death unnecessary 208, 302 expectation of death unnecessary 208, 302	-	042	merits of
Judge - 304 burden of proof - 301 competency of declarant 303 confirmation of declarant 303 difference between law of England and British India 204, 302 expectation of death unneces- sary - 208, 302			walehon of the Indian Evidence burden of proof  competency of declarant confirmation of declarant confirmation of declarant difference between law of England and British India 294, 302  expectation of death unneces asary 208, 302  denotics 194  answer to, by patients criminal, a proceeding between proceedure and accured 465s.  denotics in books of account. See "Books in books of competency of declarant 303 confirmation of declarant 304 deposition used as 322 difference between law of England and British India 294,302 expectation of death unneces- sary 208,302 expectation of death unneces- sary 1208,302			Enquiry - confirmation of declarant 302 deposition used as 332 difference between law of England and British India 294, 302 expectation of death unneces. sary 28, 302 expectation of death of the state of the st			answer to, by patients deposition used as a say prosecutor and accused when answer to, admissible and British India. 294, 302 expectation of death unneces. asay 208, 302 of Account. See "Books of account. See "Books of Account."			criminal, a proceeding between difference between law of England and British India . 294, 302			prosecutor and accused and British India			when answer to, admissible expectation of death unneces. in books of account. See " Hooks of account." 318-356 sary 298, 302 of Account." 318-356			in books of account. See " Books form of statement		in public record

PAGE	PAGE.
Equivocation—	Estoppel-coatd.
in document 615	mortgage : trust : vendor and purchaser: licensee 787
Escrow-	motive as state of knowledge im-
deed operating as 597	material 757
Patauna)	negotiable instruments 749n.
Estoppel— action cannot be founded on as a	none from ignorance of law 754 none where truth of matter appears 754
admission may operate as 290-292	none against person not party to against administrator or executor 761	making of public record 352
" Crown 761	of acceptor of bill 794-797
" inconsistent positions 752	, bailee and licensee . 794, 795
, pleading want of jurisdic-	, license 794, 796
tion 752	, tenant 784—794
arising from benami transactions 770	, tenant and licensee . 749n , 784
binds parties, privies and not	principle on which rule depends 756
strangers 244	purchaser at sale in execution 239
by acceptance of rent 748	recitals 774
" acquiescence 768
", conduct 747, 749, 750, 773 ", deed 747—748, 775 ", judgment 371, 372	representation and action must be connected as cause and effect 779
" deed 747—748, 775	representation must be a material
"judgment 371, 372
"judgment, stranger 387
" negligence 766	res judicata
"reason of agents' statements 761	statement or conduct should be
" record 746
,, representation 763
" partition 748
" pleading 453, 748 compromise of compromise of	where invalid adoption has been acted upon "declaration, actor omission" 763-777
definition of an act 756	Evasive or false responsion—denial of representation . 784	presumption from 143, 147
distinguished from breach of con-	Event-
tract 754	meaning of 108
distinction between agency and 761, 762
" between, and presump-	Events-tion 79, 746	caution in inference as to cause and doctrine of, will not be extended,	effect of 39
binds only parties and privies 290, 292	connection of, how traced . 38
doctrine of part-performance 582	rule as to cause and effect of 39 essential that the other party has	traceable influence of causes and been induced to do or forbear 781—782	effects as to 38
form of misrepresentation imma-	Evidenceternal	admissibility of, should be decided foundation of doctrine is changed	at once 846 situation . 781	" ", Judge to decide from appealing . 751	845847
" asserting rights waiver 753	affirmative better than negative 4
,, varying case in appeal 751	ambiguity as to confining, to issue 11
generally 746-784	,, excluding hearsay 12
in case of minor	, of word 12
,, partners 762 ,, trustee 762	as to opinion, exclusion of 75, 76
,, ,, trustee 762	cases where secondary, of contents meaning of 746, 754	of document admissible '77

PAGE.	PAGE.
Evidence-contd	Evidence-conti.
circumstantial 30, 112	record of: presumption 524-529
confession by co-accused not 285	rule as to best 12
destruction, subornation of 139, 139n.	secondary 113 documentary 15	self-regarding effect of improper admission or re-	self-serving 243
jection of, in India 40	spoliation: fabrication: suppres-
English system of Judicial, progress	sion of 715
of ., ,, ., ., 3	subornation of 139
erroneous omission to object to,	taken on commission de bene esse
does not make it admissible 245	or on affidavit 840
exception to rule that party can-	theories as to weight of 78
not make for himself 208#.	weight of 129
exclusion of, as to unconnected	what the law of, determines 14
	withheld, presumption 706
	witnesses conspiring to give fal-e 31 failure to give · hability to dam-	witnesses conspiring to give ages 485, 485n.	writings when exclusive 78
given in court without jurisdiction	value of, cannot affect admissi-
taken on commission . 330, 330n.	Dility C19
given in former judicial proceed-	volunteering
ing 328—339	Evidence Act-
See " Depositions in former trial "	commencement of hearsay or mediate 111n.	construction of 104, 105 how law of, relative to general	extent of theories 13	headings of sections in unproper admission and rejection	illustrations to of 627, 916—924	interpretation clauses of in judicial inquiries 25	marginal notes of in scientific inquiries 26	preamble of m Palmer's case 52	repeal of enactments by ın rebuttal 844, 844n.	title of material 111	Examination-meaning of . 11, 110-113, 437	Indge a discretion instrument of 110, 110n.
nature of expert 72	ly 621, 626, 676
of character only a make-weight 76	oral of matters in writing 868	1 1 010,01-oral 15, 110	romuliale answer order of introduction of . 847	given to illegal questions put by order of production 814	him
original or immediate 111n.	Examination de brue ent-personal 36, 111n.	evidence given on previous, how to be proved 76	Examination in-chief - 852
presumptions as to giving and re-	leading questions in 851
cording 741,742	object of 100
presumptive 113n.	of expert " nto 851-851 primary 113	rules as to production and effect of 78, 79, 627,	what is 628	what facts may be proses
proof of fact by oral 77	witness hostile
proof that given in judicial pro-	Examined Copy-ceeding 330	difference between, and certified real 111, 112	copy 512, 512*
reception of, depending upon pre-	of document
liminary question of fact 129	proof la

		PAOF.	Pac	a i
Exception -			Expert-matt
in Penal Civile ; onus .		656	evidence on matters of trade 405,	40 meaning of		634	,, of, to be received with Brelamations-				39
evidence of guilty inter	ition	192*	examination of 408,	40
of by-standers .		146	facts bearing upon opinions of	40
		51, 328	grounds of admissibility of Execution-			opinion of	40
denial of, by attesting	mut men a	501	grounds of opinion of 413.4	42
dispossession in .			may refer to text-books	39 evidence to show want			nature of evidence of
of document implies				41
of contents of docum			on handwriting 406-4	40.
			on handwriting 406-4 opinion of 401-413, 463, 4	46
of document, proof of , presumptions .		730	opinion of, open to corroboration presumption as to, when				195
called for and not pro			opinion of one, on another 403 presumption of, in case			refreshing memory 412, 895, 9
		44, 545	scope of opinion of 409-4 testimony: subjects of . 4
provable by admission			Explanatory Facts
proof of, where attestate			evidence of . 145, 146	۲., 8501
property of judgment-de			Expressions of feelings or impres registration not proof of		237		128
		234		28
Execution sale -
purchaser at, not repr	rescutative		F
of judgment-debtor	rescutative	783	F Fabrication of judgment-debter Executor—		783	Fabrication	15 of judgment-debtor  Executor—  acknowledgment barrin		783	Fabrication of evidence 7.	15 of judgment-debtor  Executor—  acknowledgment barrin  tion		783 231	Fabrication of evidence 7. Fact—of judgment-debtor  Executor— acknowledgment barrin tion admission by	ng limita	783 231 227	Fabrication of evidence of judgment-debtor  Executor— acknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against	g hmita	783 231 227 761	Fabrication of evidence	5tı
of judgment-debtor  Executor— acknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor	g hmita	783 231 227 761	Fabrication of evidence	5tı
of judgment-debtor  Executor— acknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by	ndmission	783 231 227 761 1	Fabrication of evidence Fact- admitted need not be proved 452-45 apparently relevant	56 73
of judgment-debtor  Executor— acknowledgment barring tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hindu	ng hmita-	783 231 227 761 32, 233 (n., 370	Fabrication of evidence	56 73
of judgment-debtor Executor— acknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hindu witness	ndmission	783 231 227 761 32, 233 (n., 370	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03
of judgment-debtor  Executor— acknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hindu witness  Exemplification—	g hmita	783 227 761 32, 233 (n., 370 803	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03
of judgment-debtor  Executor— scknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hindu witness  Exemplification— of document	ng hmita-	783 231 227 761 32, 233 (n., 370	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03
of judgment-debtor  Executor— seknowledgment bartin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hindu witness  Exemplification— of document	admission	783 231 227 761 32, 233 in., 379 803	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03
of judgment-debtor  Executor- scknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hinda witness  Exemplification of document  Expense- statement of person wh	admission	783 231 227 761 32, 233 (m., 379 803	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 7.
of judgment-debtor  Executor— seknowledgment bartin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hindu witness  Exemplification— of document  Expense— statement of person wh dance cannot be proc	admission	783 231 227 761 32, 233 in., 379 803	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 7.
of judgment-debtor  Executor- scknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hinda witness  Exemplification- of document  Expense- statement of person wh dance cannot be proco	admission	783 231 227 761 32, 233 in., 379 803	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 7.
of judgment-debtor  Executor— scknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel agamst of joint contractor by of will of Hindu witness  Exemplification— of document of document attement of person wh dance cannot be proco out  Experiment	admission 227	783 231 227 761 32, 233 in., 379 803 512	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 7.
of judgment-debtor  Executor- acknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hinda witness  Exemplification- of document  Expense- statement of person wh dance cannot be proco	admission 227	783 231 227 761 32, 233 in., 379 803	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 77.
of judgment-debtor  Executor— scknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hindu witness  Exemplification— of document  Expense— statement of person wh dance cannot be procuout  Experiment performed by expert  Experiment  Experiment	admission 222	783 231 227 761 32, 233 66, 370 803 512	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 7.
of judgment-debtor  Executor- acknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hinda witness  Exemplification- of document  Expense- attement of person wh dance cannot be proc out  Experiment performed by expert  Experi- compartson of writing if	admission 227	783 231 227 761 32, 233 (n., 379 803 512 28, 334 412 506	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 7.
of judgment-debtor  Executor- acknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hinda witness  Exemplification- of document  Expense- attement of person wh dance cannot be proc out  Experiment performed by expert  Experi- compartson of writing if	admission 227	783 231 227 761 32, 233 61, 379 803 512 28, 334 412 506 91, 404	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 76 31 13 13 19 18 19 18
of judgment-debtor  Executor- acknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hinda witness  Exemplification- of document  Expense- statement of person wh dance cannot be proce out  Experiment performed by expert  Experi- comparison of writing i compotency of credit of	admission 227	783 231 227 761 32, 233 76, 379 803 512 28, 334 412 506 93, 404 413	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 7. 31 13 19 18 19 19 19 19
of judgment-debtor  Executor- scknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hinda witness  Exemplification- of document  Expensa- statement of person wh dance cannot be procuout  Experiment performed by expert  Experiment out  computency of credit of cross-examination of	admission 2020	783 231 227 761 32, 233 6m., 379 803 512 28, 334 412 506 03, 404 413 413	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 7. 31 13 19 18 19 19 19 19
of judgment-debtor  Executor— secknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel agamst of joint contractor by of will of Hindu witness  Exemplification— of document of document dance cannot be procus out  Experiment performed by expert  Experiment performed of writing compatency of cornelit of credit of credit of cross-examination of definition of	admission 227 227 227 227 227 227 227 227 227 227	783 231 227 761 32, 233 76, 379 803 512 28, 334 412 506 03, 404 413 413 413 402	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 73 13 13 19 19 19 19 19 19 19
of judgment-debtor  Executor— scknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor by of will of Hinda witness  Exemplification— of document  Expense— statement of person wh dance cannot be procuout  Experiment performed by expert  Experiment out  out  competency of credit of cross-examination of definition of definition of distinction between of	admission admission age	783 231 227 761 32, 233 6m, 379 803 512 28, 334 412 413 413 402	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 22 7 31 13 13 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10
of judgment-debtor  Executor— secknowledgment barrin tion admission by estoppel agamst of joint contractor by of will of Hindu witness  Exemplification— of document of document dance cannot be procus out  Experiment performed by expert  Experiment performed of writing compatency of cornelit of credit of credit of cross-examination of definition of	admission 2227	783 231 227 761 32, 233 6n., 379 803 512 28, 334 412 506 01, 401 413 402 403n.	Fabrication of evidence	56 73 03 52 m. 31 13 9 19 8 19 2 19 15 19

Page	Page
act-mari.	Family-costs.
making existence of fact in issue	celibacy of member of 323
or relevant fact highly probable	ronduct 421
or improbable 155	eustom 163, 183
matter of 106	evidence as to state of 150
meaning of 18, 107-109	history 321
mere observation of, insufficient 20	issue of members of 321
Mill's theory of logic as to 19	joint Hindu: admission by man
necessary to explain or introduce 149	ager of 227
no decision upon, a precedent for	legitimacy 321
any other decision 45	occupation of member of 301
observation and recording of 19	pedigree 298, 321
occasion, rause or effect of fact	portrait
in issue or relevant fact 134	relationship 321
oral evidence as to, must be di-	residence of member of 321
rect 463-468	aucossion 221
physical and psychological 108, 191	usage of a opinion as to 419
principal 108	will or deed relating to affaire of the, 220 principal
, by ord evidence 77, 457, 462	Family arrangement-relation of, to rights and liabilities 109	estopper relevant . 38, 109, 123-125	eridence of relevant when right or custom is	Family-custom
in question	Farmer-
showing amount of damages 160	opinion of Fasts-
	judicial notice of 470, 413, 416
business 205-207	Justine and the existence of state of mind or	recling - statement by crowd expressing.
body or boddy feeling 187—202	See "Expressions of feeling"
" motive, preparation and	or imbranciant,
conduct 138	or impression.
similar but unconnected 135	Ferrotype stated in public round See " Pal	identification by
he Report"	Festivals-
stated by person not witness 293-339	judicial notice of 445,447
supporting or reducting inference 149 supposed to be proved must fulfil	Fiduciary relation (04-6")
lot of method of difference . 33	Court surent and to be proved by oral evolence 77	Pield book - 2el
that man holds an opinion 397	of autory
" verbal ' meaning of 465s	Fillation~ [100]
	presumption of
Pact in issue-	Pinger impressions-evidence may be given of 123	opinion on int.
existence of judgment, order or	thumb-impression
decree, a . 371, 381 389 meaning of	FIRE- 115 417
	judicial notice of False imprisonment
damages in action for 160s.	proof from 154*
Family-	Prost treat
Rible	Foreign-
bitthe trattrage, death of members	Court, meaning of 321, 414, MI

Pag	GE. PAGE
Foreign Country-	G.
acts of executive, proof 5	Gazette-documents of, proof 5	117
proceedings of legislatures, proof 5	117 medium to prove notice 36 104 notification in 356—36
Foreign Expressions-	notification in presumption as regards 446, 447, 529, 53
Foreign Judgment-	Genealogical purpose-
	374 meaning of 32
in rem 376, 378
	380 See " Statement as to matter of pub.
obtained by fraud 393
operating as bar to suit in British	tom," "Right,"
	374 meaning of 41
	Geography-
Foreign Law-	dumman of a material and a con-opinion on 401, 4
proof of 365, 3	,000
Forfeiture-
answer exposing aitness to 8	325 Good Character-
Forgery –	previous 429, 430
of document 4	160 See "Character"
,, in this country 4	71 Good faith-signature of drawer a 794, 7
Formality-	facts showing . 136, 187, 189n
presumption as to due perfor-	191, 194n , 196, 199
	737 presumption of 694, 735
Fraud -	relative position of parties consi-admission made with fraudulent	dered in determining 200 292 Good will-
against creditors : benams 770-7	72 fact showing 187, 190n.
	35 Government-
charges of, cannot be properly	map or plan made by authority tried on affidavit 389 81 preclamations of 517
document obtained by secondary	proof of Acts, orders and notifi-197 cations of 517
	374 revenue : onus , 647
	74 Grant-
invalidation of document on	evidence of terms of 556-571 ground of 571, 572, 583, 59 judgment obtained by 389, 390-31
nature of, which must be proved	Oromod-190 -
no professional privilege in res-	Guardian-and ward; admission 230-231 alienation by 653 alienation by 655
not to be presumed 673 of minor: relief against 758, 7	159 power of 230
plea of : onus . 643, 645-647, 6	73 Guardian ad Mem-25 admission by 211, 240
of intent to defraud 73	33
proof of 189m., 191, 199, 201, 40	62 #- setting aside of decree obtained	Habeas corpus-
by 389
whether party to, can show truth	Habits-
	77 presumption 713

			Pagz				Pagi	_
Handwriting -				Hindu Law			I IGI	Ε.
comparison of			417	altenation	by father		657—65	'n
expert on		40	6-408	3 .,,	guardian		65
identification of	••		401		manager		65
in public registe	t: proof of	35	55, 356		sebait		65 meaning of acqu		h 41:	3-417		widow	 	65
of attesting wit			504				16
opinion as to	. 399, 40	01, 413	3-417
peculiarity of		406.	406n.				655, 65
presumption of,		n an-		joint prope			64
cient docume			5547				650	•
proof of							230
1		,	1, 100	presumptio
Hastabud-				presumption				•
papers		••	348		n, adopte
Hatchment-					usa; endov
statement on	:		320	property	asa, endor		712—724
311111111111111111111111111111111111111		•••		presumption		 mit
Hath Chitta-				reversion		ri sult
book	••	•=	344	purchaser f
Headings-				self-acquisit			. 651
of sections			100				651
••						••
Hearsay-				History-
admission founds		215,		family			321
as to matter of g			326	matters of p	ublic: refer	ence to	443, 448
	private right:	٠.,	326	Holding of Of	fice –	•
" relationship			, 324	presumption			712
consent to abide 1	y testimony	1	128л.	Holidays-definition of	••	••	464	judicial notic	e of .		443, 447
doctrine of			438	Horoscope-
evidence of answe	rs given on 🤫	arch	489	admission in		. 21	4, 320n exceptions to rule	against		464	statement in			. 320 exclusion of		851	852	Hostilities-
m cross-examinati		••	467	judicial potic	e of .	. 4	143, 447
madmissible in ci	mss-examina	tion		Husband-854	communication	na durine	marriage	• meaning of	11, 12, 100n	. 464,				80	7-800
not receivable		••	464	competency o	f, in erimin	al action	803 objection to such			74	effect of adr	niveione of	wife #1 offered to prove e		40					227
opinion based on			421	of party to su	ut, compete	nt	803 reason for exclusio	n of		74	Hypothetical q
rule against	••	464,	466	meaning of			409
should not be tak		13	8n.
statements against					L
on		316, 31	16n.		-
statement by pers	on who can	oot		Identification - production of	nrivilean) d	ocument
he called as witr		291		for purpose			924 statement in abse
witness giving, sho				Identity- admissibility o	f exidence	of	149 stopped			128	of individual:	incidents of	domes.	•
why excluded	••	164.	165	tic history r	ecessary for		323
Highway Board -				" parties name	d in public	record.		, alminion by way-	warden of	•	227	proof of .		31.	1. 3 proof in

PAGE	PAGE.
Identity—vail.	Inducement -
of party who gave evidence . 529	removal of impression caused by 275
" persons, things and writings 399	to confess 249
opinion as to 399	Induction-
parol evidence: descriptions of 563	application of the method of 20 proof of 732, 846	deduction and 20
proof of, by photo engraving por-	different kinds of method of 20n
trait 400m.	proceeding of 20
witnesses' belief as to 149n-	Infancy-
Ignorance of law -	presumption
no estoppel 753
Illegality-	Infant- See "Minor"
of document : evidence to show 871-593	See Minor pler of: onus 642	Inference-Illegible characters	admissibility of fact supporting evidence as to 520, 622	or rebutting 149
•	as to cause and effect of event . 39
Statement by person as to his own 323st	as to presumption 122
See " Legitimacy."	difficulties of 31 drawn from fact admission which Illustrations— to sections . 100	15 mere
10 00-11-11-	from assertion to matter assert- ed 31.33.34
III-will- fact showing 187 188n, 190n	,, from assertion to truth 33 from facts proved to fact not Impartiality— want of, in witness . 877	otherwise proved . 34
want of in military	opinion formed by 122
Impartibility-	statement suggesting, admission 208, 209 uncertainty of, assertion to matter
Impeachment - of credit 856, 856n, 882, 883, 884—891	asserted ., 33
	Information-
Imperfect description— in document 616	as to commission of offence 810, 811 obtained for purpose of higa-Impression-	tion 820—822
statements by crowd expressing  See "Expressions of feelings or im-	Information and Beltef-pressions."
"Incapable of giving evidence" ~	* .
statement by person . 297, 333	Informer-
witness: use of deposition . 328	not accomplice 829
Incapacity-	Inheritance
cannot be set up in bar of action 757, 758	onus 655, 656
Income tax papers-	Injury-
production of 907	accidental onu 642
Incompetency-	Innocence-
want of jurisdiction See "Juris-	other presumption, yield to that of 724
diction ," " Witness "	presumption in disfavour of 728
Inconsistency-	presumption of 117, 432, 643, 344, 708,
facts showing . 155-160	724, 727, 725
Incriminating document	presumption of, affected by rule
' production of 822	as to onus in case of special Incriminating question-	knowledge 678 presumption of, in civil actions . 725 answer to 824
witness not excused from answer-	Innuendo - + + + + + + + + + + + + + + + + + +
mg 827—827	evidence to prove 400
`

Pac	Page.
Inquiries-	Intention-
advantages of judicial over scien-	as deducible from conduct 855m.
	25 burden of proof of 196
approximate generalization is	criminal 733
more useful in judicial, than in	evidence of character to show 429
scientific :	29 fact showing 136, 187, 190, 191, 192.
classes of inference in judicial :	103, 194, 194n, 196
complexity of relevant facts in	inferred from subsequent conduct judicial 28, 9
	8 not to be inferred from antecedent
	5 declaration 196
	5 of bankrupt leaving dwelling-judicial and scientific, compared 2 leading differences between judicial	of parties to instrument expressed 8 by conduct 143 object of judicial 2 object of scientific 2
opportunities of parties in judi-	proof of 106, 728, 852
cial 2
summary of the results of 2
· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	THEOLOGI-
Insanity-	evidence as to, due inadmissibility of non-expert testimony and general reputation 400	See "Statement as to matter of feigning 143n	At a second distance !! medical evidence as to 398
presumption 712, 732	See "Statement against interest" Inscription~
evidence of 492	Interlineation—on banner : parol evidence of 459n	opinion as to
In rem-	Interpleader— 796
judgment, See "Judgment"	suit 196
	Interposition— of questions in examination 852*.
Insolvent-	TO QUESTION IN THE
Debtor's Act: certified copies of	Interpretation-proceedings	or document, evidence in aid of the
See Mankrupi.	Interpretation Clauses - 100, 107
Insolvency-	of Indian Evidence Net jurisdiction: judgment 376, 381	Interpreteronus 659	Court: examination of nis
presumption 712	. 811
See "Bankrupten."	through 226s
Inspection-	attriction of agents
hy Court 111	Interrogation- confession obtained upon 278
of document shown to witness . 871	confession obtained upon
"document by Court 904	Interrogatory - 213, 215, 453
public document 510, 519
privileged document 799	answer to, or condens proof effected by 114
Instances-	cross: opportunity to cross-ex-
in which right claimed : judgment 383s.	amine 823, 826
of right or custom . 162, 161	incriminating questions 823,000 when answer not compellable 719s proof by 183
Insurance-
onus 659	of 571, 572, 593

1'401-	Pagr.
Investigation -	Judge-cratif
leading differences between judicial	competency of, in case tried by and physical inquiries 29	himself 806
Irrelevancy-	cross-examination upon question of judgments 384, 399	put by 848
See "Relevancy,"	decides as to admissibility 845-915 discretion of, as to examination of Irrelevant facts-	witness 848
what are	1 1-1-1 400 11
Ism navisi-	must be without interest 806
papers 347
• •	must not import his own know-
Issue of fact-	ledge 115 must not rely on statements made ambiguity as to confining evidence	to him out of Court 806n
to 11	note of, sufficient record of fact 454
facts in 13, 14	order of production by . 909
Issue -	presumed to do duty 726
judgments barring trial of 373, 374	protected by judgment 369
or failure of issue 321	questions by 129, 909-915
Invalidation-	refreshing memory of 451, 452 should abstain from looking at
of document 571, 572, 593	what is not evidence 115
Inventions-	when bound to try collateral issue 129
onus 659	When bound to try Constern 1990e 120
register of 355	Judgment-
	admissibility of 144, 170
J	admissibility of, as a "transaction"
Jaghirdar-	or "instance" under s 13 170-183
admission by 222	admissibility and effect of, tendered as evidence of its truth 369
Jai baki- papers	admissible as res judicala 170 Jamabandi –
papers 347	barring suit showing lis pendens 370, 371,
when public document . 513	376—381
Jama wasil baki-	" showing res judicata 370, 371,
papers 345, 346	376
value of 346	, where remedy might
Total	have been used for, in former
Joint contractor- admission by 224n, 227	action . 370, 372 by Court without jurisdiction . 389
	certified copy of 514
	conclusive of its existence, date effect of death of 232, 233, 240	and legal convequences . 386
Joint crime-	conclusive of its existence distin-admission of parties engaged in . 224	guished from its truth 369, 374
Joint property-	conclusive of its truth in favour of the Judge 369
	declaring partibility of property
presumption 723	and rule of descent 377m
Joint tenant-	domestic 369
admission by . 236	effect of, in other cases . 76
admission by . 236  Joint tort—	effect of, in other cases
Joint tort	effect of, in other cases . 76
Joint tort- admission of parties engaged in . 224	effect of, in other cases . 76 estoppel by
Joint tort— admission of parties engaged in . 224 Judge—	effect of, in other cases
Joint tort— admission of parties engaged in . 224 Judge—	effect of, in other cases 76 estoppel by 370, 372 evidence of contents 563 existence of fact in issue or rele-

ţ

Page
Judgment- coatd.	Judicial notice—confd.
foreign	of facts of which English Courts
in criminal case 375, 376	take notice444
in criminal not receivable in civil	, fasts 443, 447 action and vice versa 388	. Ann in proof of public or general rights	, geographical divisions 443, 447 or customs 162, 170n	1 111
irrelevant 384-389	3 . 15.
in personam 669, 370	1, 1
in rem 170, 369, 370, 371-375, 377-379	" law of the land 365 in rem: history of 377n.
not generally evidence between	  strangers or party and stranger 370 obtained by fraud 389, 390—391	" matters appearing in the pro-
obtained by collusion 389, 394	ceedings 444
on matter of public and general	matters directed to be noticed by the other Acts of the other help !!
operating as al-	7) the same of the same words
probate, matrimonial, admiralty,	" notifications in Gazette 444
insolvency 370, 376—381	" proceedings of councils 442, 446
	" proceedings of parliament 442, 446 relating to matter of a public na-	" rule of road 443, 448
ture 170. 183 370 381 - 204	" seals 443, 446
ture 170, 183, 370, 381-384 reading of, in connection with de-	" Statutes 412, 416
	,, what facts Court takes 77
3537.	proof effected by 116
. 103	Judicial proceedings-
when conclusions	application of Indian Evidence Act to 104
when relevant 369—396 where record is matter of induce-	presumption as to regularity of 736, 737
	proof that evidence was given in 330 Judicial record-
Judicial decision— error of, how cured ec	foreign: presumption 540-542
20	Jurisdiction-
Judicial evidence-	consent cannot give 752
general theory of 17	estoppel against pleading want of 752 .
Judicial inquiry—	evidence given in Court without 330
See Inquiries.	andoment without 359
Judicial notice-	presumption of 713, 736, 737 dispenses with proof 438, 440, 441, 445
in respect of public officers 443, 447	somestoner of 80fix lists of facts given, not complete 444	nitness 603 necessity for production of book or document . 444, 451-452	charge to, in case of accomplicacity of accession and sign manual of	3
Sovereign 443, 447	prominetion of witness by 849, 915
., advocates, attorneys, pleaders 443, 447	II
" articles of war - 442, 446	and the of to indeed intention in a British territories 443, 447	view by 111, 915
711	*
C #	agent cannot set up 796
. ( Hafom	-c
dustrian data	ĸ.
Printenne of Casts - 1 o
	Kanungo-
· • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •	papers

	Page.		PAGE
Kept out of the way "— witness; use of deposition	328, 334	Law Books- presumption of genuineness of	36
hasra-		relevancy of statements in	365, 366
plan 3' Choti—	58n, 360	Law Report- relevancy of statement in	365, 366
lands	. 374	Law of Evidence-
Cnowledge-		applicable to British India	99 fact showing, 187, 188n, 190n, 191	1, 194,	English law of	100
	97-199	lex fors	90
facts specially within : onus 5	78-581	See " English Law of Evident	re '' guilty: proof	. 643	Laws of Nature-presumption of	626	expert evidence as to	701n.
presumption of, estoppel .		Leading question -
proof of		in eross-examination	85385€
what it is composed of	. 18	" deposition in former trial	332
Culachar—		" examination-in-chief	852
meaning of		Lease-
opinion on		See " Landlord ," " Tenant.'
proof of	. 185	Legal adviser—
Curta—		admission made to	213
admission by	. 227	confidential communication w	th 813 relation of, to members of family	227n.	refusing to produce document	. *24
akhiraj-		Legal representative-
	569, 660	meaning of	236
inquiry into validity of date of	704 705	Legislature—acquisition of territories onus		proceedings of picof	. 517
0. 639, 100, 011,	012, 142	Legitimacy-
I.		birth during marriage, proof of	699-704
Land-		judgments in question of	377n.
	41-744	Mahomedan Law .	728
See "Landlord and Tenant"		onus .	699, 726
Landlord and tenant—		presumption of . rroof of, by treatment	422, 423 continuance of relationship	. 683		321, 377n.
encroachment	. 741	4	,
	663	Letters- admissibility of, found after an	rest 143n.
enhancement of rent .	. 662	connected series of how me	uch fractional portion of rent	. 664	of, to be proved	367. 368
intermediate tenure onus 661, 662,		containing admission, stamp	213n.
	664	contract contained in several	557, 566
presumptions as to holding		date of	298, 309
land	741744		. 197n
proof by parol of relation	560n.	left with servant of addressee	206
remission	. 663	postmark on .
rent-free land, onus	671, 672	presumption as to date of arriv
Latent Ambiguity—		none that prope
See " Ambiguity "		addressed	200
Law-		of receipt of previous, showing intention book containing presumption	513	later	190% foreign and colonial judicial notice of 442,	. 366	refusal to receive: knowledge	of contents	198л.
of the land : judicial notice of . presumption of knowledge of	. 735	registered refusal of addressee	to technical and general elements		receive	206n Rememen and Benerut chements of

Pior.	Puga
Letters -watt.	Local investigation-sending to post office 206	otal evidence 110, 113
"without projudice" . 248, 249	proof afforded by 114
Letters of Administration-	Loral usage 165, 185
See " Administration" and "Judg.	Logic-
ment,"	Mill's theory of, as to facts 19
Lex fort-	Loss of Document-
evidence applicable is that of 99	proof of S46
Libel-	Lunatio-
action for . damages . 161m.	not necessarily incompetent $10 evidence of animus . 185a.
meaning of word maction for 621	M.
opinion to prove innuendoes of 400	Magistrate-
proof that, referred to plaintiff 328	called as witness SOS-SOS
Licensee	confession in presence of, while in retopped of 749m , 787, 794, 797	police enstady 263-267
Lien -	included in Court 10:
document withheld on ground of 823	information received by, as to resistance of subparus on ground	offence SII
of 485	Mahomedan Law-
Life-	pre-umptions 722 721
love of a presumption . 682	Maintenance-
onus 665, 681, 682	cases, corroboration 821, 836
Limitation	Malice-
acknowledgment extending 363	feet showing 197, 190, 201
acknowledgment - secondary ex-	presumption of 150
dence . 482	proof of
in suits for possession 693	Malicious prosecution-onus . 665-667, 676	action for: damage
Lismota	conduct of party in case in conditions as to, do not apply to	interence of mater.
judgments 384	intention of defendant 607
meaning of 319	onus suit for; admissibility of judgment 188 statements as to relationship made before 323 of joint Hindufamily, admission by 633
Lin pendens See "Judgment"
Literary Society	Cannot traite
	" " herred ticht
documents of 353	2.7, 2274
matters of: reference to 443, 445	toan contract.
Lithograph	ed by Par-
a document . 110	sumption
	Map- 337
Lithography— documents made by 472	ancient "
	certified copy of 100
Littgation-	decument
information obtained for purpose	(levernment surve)
of	See Surery map
Local Custom	made for purpose of cause to get, 648
ppinion at to 419, 410a	map 576-576
	map Street
Local expressions meaning of 623	breembroom meaning of 620, 623	Later or

1 var.	PAGE.
Map-coatd.	Matter of opinion-
published: made by Government	distinguished from matter of fact 398 authority: relevancy of state-	See "Opinion," ment in 356-363	meaning of 852 statement in, as to public or general Matter required by law to be re-rights 325, 326	duced to form of document—
thak 360	evidence of 556-586
Marginal notes—	variance of 571-608
af 1.4
	Maxima-
Marine Courts-	application 26
Act applicable to 105
.,	as to human conduct 26
Mark-	judicial, simpler than scientific 27
by attesting witness 505	limitation 26
on document; opinion as to 414, 415	.letors incumbit probatio 629
	"A negative is incapable of Market value-	proof" 629
meaning of 400	"Better that ten guilty men
See " Value."	should escape than that one
Markman-	innocent man should suffer" 116n.
	Contemporanea expositio est op-
See " Marl "
Marriage-	tima et fortissima in lege 556
birth during, proof of legitimacy 699-704	Curlibet in arte sua credendum est 397 breach of promise, damages 160	Debitor non præsumitur donare 734 certificate of, from India Office 354	Er incumbit probatio qui dicit, non qui negat . , 629
communications during 807—809	Fatetur facinus qui judicium fugit 143n.
dissolution of earlier, onus 643
entry of, in India 350n.	Frans et jus nunquam cohabitant. 389
evidence that person unmarried,	Frustra probatur quod probatum presumption as to continuance	non relevat 125
	Habemus optimum testem confilen-tem reum 210
A reparation as to	In judicio non creditur nin jura-Mahommedan law 728
of member of family . 321
opinion not sufficient to prove 421-424	Interest res publicae ut sit finis liti-
presumed 699	um 375
Providence	Nemo debet his punits pro uno
1 amprior in turous	delieto 375
presumptions relating to 730, 731	Nemo debet bis vexari pro una ead-proof of 424, 570	em causa 375
shown by conduct . 324	****
shown by repute 325	Nemo moreturus prosumitur men-
Matrimonial Jurisdiction-	firs 294
	Nemo tenetur serpeum prodere . 825
• 0=- :	Nobil tam conveniens est naturals
Matrimonial proceeding -	aquitati quam unum quodque dis-competency of witness 993	soles co ligamene quo ligatum est 599
Matter of fact-	Odiosa et inhonesta non sunt in lege admission receivable to prove 215	præsurienda 726 definition of 108
	Omnia prasumuntur contra spolia-distinguished from matter of	torem 718 opinion 398	Omnia præsumuntur rile esse meaning of 852	acta, 205, 522, 523, 524, 526, 536,
Matter of law-	543, 713, 736, 739
admission receivable to prove 216	Omnia consensus tollit errorem 129n.
meaning of 109	Oplimus interpres rerum usus 143 party not bound by admission on 220	Poter est quem nuplier demonstrant 700

PAGE.	Page
Maxims-contil,	Mind-
Per rerum naturum factum negantis	admission as to existence of state
probatio nulla est 630	of 242, 243
Potior est conditio defendentis 629	fact showing state of 187, 194, 201
Panderantur testes non numerantur 836n.	Minor-
Que facit per alium facit per se 221	1
Qui sentit commodum sentire debet et onus 783	admission by guardian of 230, 231
Qui tacet consentire videtur . 148	admission by guardian ad litem and next friend 234
Quod ex facto orstur ambiguum tersficatione facts tollitur 610	acquiescence of, after majority 774, 774n.
Quod per recordum probatum, non	burden of proof of minority . 668
debet esse negatum 369	death of : cessation of representa-
Res inter olios judicata nullum inter	tion 223
alsos presudicium facit 385	falsely representing himself to be
Res inter alsos acta vel sudienta alteri	of age 758-760 liability for tort 759 nature of certificate of guardianship of 351
	obligation to restore 759
Vox audita perit; litera seripta	power of guardian 230, 231
manet 469	rehef against fraud of 759
'May presume' —	Minority-
meaning of	plea of: onus 640
Meaning-	Mistake-
of words 620-625	admission founded on
Measurement papers—	examination of witness by 855, 863 evidence to show 572, 503, 699 prepared by butwara amin 315 Mechanic-	Mitigation-434
opinion of 405	171
Mechanical agencies—	of turnages
evidence of similar facts admis-	Money Order Offices-
aible, . 137	00083 01 .1 **
Medical certificate~	Moral certainty-
inadmissibility of 413n.	meaning of .,
•	question of prudence and not of
Medical man-	calculation
opinion of 405, 405n	Moral conviction-post-morten examination by . 412	does not exclude departure from
Memory refreshing-	rules of evidence
See " Refreshing Memory"	Mortgage-
Mental condition-	apparent deed of sale really a 502, 503 declarations as evidence of 146	Attestation of person may testify to his own 400	hurden of proof proof of	document apparently conveyance
Mental disease-	but really
eridence as to	estoppel against mortgagee estoppel in case of Mental feeling- complaint, evidence of 140m.	extinction of a presumption liability of fraudulent minor tode-Merchants-	mortgageo permitting property to accounts tendered by 149	be sold : estoppel
Means profits-	mortgagor acknowledging receipt 775%.
onus G10	of mortgage-money

Pior.	PAGE
Mortgage-maid.	Negotiable instrument-
presumption: keeping alive prior 744	admission by assignor 236
property held in ; production of	estoppel in case of 795 document 822	miscarriage of notice sent by post 207n.
fortgagee-	notice of dishonour 198n.
accounts of: income-tax papers	presumption as to 710, 738, 796
madmissible in favour of 244	Newspaper-
acknowledgment barring limita-	presumption as to 446, 529, 530
tion 231	publication in fixing party with purchase by, at sale in execution 239
, , ,	notice 198 Next friend—
Motive-
absence of 142	admission of 234
adequacy of 142	Non-production-
admissibility of similar facts to	of documents: inference 715, 716
prove	Notary public—
affecting probabilities 141n.	certificate of 517, 521
Fyidence of 135, 140-142	credit given to 539
for parting with goods ; false pre-	foreign 539
tences 193	in King's dominions . 539 judgment showing 183	power-of-attorney executed be-meaning of 140	fore 536
proof of 728, 852	protest
Municipality—	seal of judicial notice 443, 447 record of proceedings, public document 515, 517	Not commonly intelligible characters- evidence as to 620, 622
Municipal—	-
committees: proceeding of 355	"Not proved '
registers	meaning of 113
Mural tablet-	Notice-constructive 198
	from registration 198n
statement on . 320	imputed 198
N	onus of showing 668
Naming-	proof of 197—199
register of 354	statutory definition of . 198
Native Christian-	through gazettes . 363, 364
usages 645	to admit document 440
Native State-	to admit fact 440, 441, 453
police officer of : confession 263, 267	Notice to produce-
Natural Law-	contents of 496
presumptions as to 731	Court may dispense with 498
Navy-	document 479, 485, 486, 494-498
articles of war for . 442, 446	document not produced after . 908
Negative-	document: not produced after,
incapable of proof . 629, 630	presumption . 543, 544
party stating : burden of proof. 630	inspection of document produced 498
proof of 679	refusal to produce 496
when necessary to prove 629, 630	required in case of adversary 495 Negligence -
accident raising presumption of . 727	when not required . 194, 497
contributory: evidence of . 160n.	Notification—
estoppel by 765, 766, 778	relevancy of statement in 363, 364 fact showing 187, 191m 201	Notoriety-not to be presumed 726	of fact supporting inference of onus 673	knowledge 198

PA	GE.	, Page.
Number-		Opinion-coatt.
excessive, of witnesses	842	grounds of : corroboration ; rebut-
of witnesses 835-	837	tal 412
		,, of, when relevant 424, 425
О.		of admissibility of 397
Oath-		in relationship 144
evidence of ; use of deposition in		matter of, distinguished from mat-
former trial	330	ter of fact 398
	628	of banker 405
judicial: nature of: history of		" experts 397—401 legislation . 628, 800, 8	301	" expert not called as witness 413
omission to administer 8	30 I	, expert in treatise 463, 467, 468
Objection-		" expert upon another 404n.
erroneous omission to take, does		" farmers and agriculturists 405
not make evidence admissible 245, 8	846	, mechanics, artizans, workmen 405
	129	" scientific men 405
to evidence by Court 126, 127, 847, 8		shop-keeper 405
	129	, skilled witnesses when admis-
	188	sible 398
	350	,, third persons when relevant 397-401
	350	on art 401
	129	" customs, rights, usages, tenets 401
	20	" foreign law 401
Observation-		" finger-impressions . 401-409
lesson from, of the world .	19	, handwriting. 401, 406-408,
Obsolete expressions-		,, nandwriting 413, 417
meaning of 620, 6	23	" relationship 421—424
Occasion-		" relationship " science 401
fact the, of fact in issue or rele-		proof of right and custom 183
	34	to prove character 400
Occupation-		drunkenness 400
	21	400
showing identity 149, 1		900
Offence-		,, mounty whereal con-
information as to commission of 810, 8	11	400
Official Communication –		to prove value privileged 809, 81	0	statement of; estoppel 780-101
Omission~		Opportunity-
estoppel by 756, 76378	34	evidence of onus probandi—		Oral agreement-
See " Burden of Proof"		572, 599
Opening-
of case by counsel 45		existence of separate 572, 596, 597-599
•	-
Opinion—		Oral evidence-
admissible independently of its		admission as to contents of docu-correctness as such . 39		ment* 102
admission, consisting of . 21	5	considered generally as to existence of general right of custom 417-41 identity 149s		facts to be proved by " meaning of words or terms 42 " usages, tenets, etc. 419—42
		meaning of 439, 458, 463-463 grounds of 39

Pior	Pugr.
Oral evidence/.	Partner-coald, must be direct; exception to rule 203	admission by, before partnership
of deposition in former trial 331	or after dissolution
irregularly recorded confession 177, 178	extepped in case of 762 of statements concerning contents	Partnership-of documents	continuance of 663
perof of facts by 462, 463	hability of members of 124
to prove boundary 350a.	Ohi suno
value of 4.79—461	presumption
what facts may be proved by 458	proof of, by parol evidence 561, 570
when not excluded by document 337	relation of conus
Order-	Part performance
relating to matter of a public na-	decime of All 383
ture 183
when relevant 309—396	Party-
See "Julyment."	admission by character 426, 433
Ownership— act of 325, 360s., 384s.	nominal 222, 223, 234 to civil suit: witness SiG. 804 acts of should true	Patentheensee of 787
builded of proof in the	Patent ambiguityindicia of, left by owner with third	See " Andiguity " barra : estobles
onus	Patnidar- admission by presumption of, where road boun-	admission by 235m.
tiary	Payment-
proof of	indersement of shown by possession 1162	made through ignorance, freud,
P.	misrepresentation 788
Pals—	ples of onus 642, 669
estoppel in	presumption of . 719, 720, 744
from what it sprang 74% 749	Pedigreemodern sense of term 749	matters of 320 modes in which estoppel in arise 763	report of panchayer as evidence
Panchayet-	of 320#
report of, as evidence of pedigrae 320*	statement in family . 298, 320
Pardon-	Penal Code-
evidence given in hope of 82% 829	burden of proving case within exceptions of 676
evidence of, to prove non-access 701	Penalty-
Parliament -	answer exposing witness to 825
meaning of word 442, 443	• =
proceedings of ; judicial notice 442, 448	Fending suit for same relief 270, 272
Parol evidence-
See "Oml Evidence"	Perjury
Partition-	no presumption of 462
estoppel by 749, 749	prosecution for corroboration 836, 837
onus (50)	Photograph
proceedings; conclusiveness of . 749	a document
Partnar-	identification by 150a., 300a.
acknowledgment barring limits	opinion as to execution of . 300
tion 231	to identify party named in public admission by	~ register
•

Page.	Pic
Photography-	Police-coast.
copy made by comparison 508, 509	reports, disries and statements document made by 472, 473, 476	made before 26
value of 508, 509	statements made to officer while Physical agencies -	investigating case 26
evidence of similar facts admis-	undue influence by, to procure sible 136	confession 256, 257, 258, 262,
Physical condition- declarations as evidence of 146	Police officer collecting number of statements:
person may testify to his own 399 Physical Science-
advantage of inquiries of, over	examination by a merminative
judicial 26
object of 24	information received by, as to of-
Place-	fence
admissibility of evidence as to . 150	meaning of Plan-	See "Police."
a document	report made by, not public docuadmission in	ment
made for purpose of cause 537, 542 not public document 514	statements made to, during in-relevancy of statement in 356-363	vestigation
presumption as to . 536, 542	statement of witness to, not public
• •	record
Pleader-	witness sent by 74
admission by 229, 230	Polygarcannot disclose professional com-	position of compared with rise-munication 811, 812	ager of Hindu family 227, compromise of suit by . 456
compromise of suit by . 456 judicial notice . 443, 447 proof of admission made to . 257	Portrait-family gos, at right of accused to be defended by 842	Possession-
Pleading-	admissibility of statement that admission in 213a , 215, 441, 453,	party in 435, 456	adverse, onu-esteppel by . 453m , 748	ancient
Plea of guilty-	as proof of ownership effect of ., . 456	decrees, evidence el evidence of admission 388a evidence of a neight document 100
Pledge- property held in production of	evidence of title 358, 186, 708, 740 fimitations in suits for
··· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
Police-	not necessarily same as user 70% 70%
admissions made to 264, 265
admissions obtained by questions	other evidence of than party
by 278 <sub>n</sub> .	part, by tenant confession made while in custody	police order for the transfer Et of	borecesoik anit miner starre. by confession to, cannot be proved 262-265	hef Act presumption as to continuence et 711
enstedy: confession: information	bresumbring se to commerce of owner leading to discovery 267-275
diary : how much of, accused may	whip

Pac	GF.			Page.
Possession-matd		Pre	sun	nption-maid
when force does not interrupt	690	as	to	common course of business 705, whether Bengal Land Registration				705n., 714
registers evidence of	353		,.	consideration for bill 706, 710
Post-mortem Examination-		,,	,,	continuance 682, 706, 720
	coo
	Birir	"	••	delivery of telegram 2076.
Postmark-		"	**
	207			documents . 423, 424, 738
on letter: evidence that letter in				" produced as re-
post	207			cord of evidence
Post Office-				424129
	715			,, admissible in
	739			England or Ire-
	137			land without
Post Office Savings Banks	_			proof of seal or books of 34	5n.			signature 530-536
Power-of Attorney-			,,	" thirty years old
certified copy of	193			544530
declaration as to execution of 574-6	536			due execution 642
execution of . 539, 6	540	"		" " of document
meaning of	539	"	•••	called for and
presumption as to . 538-5	210			not produced
registered 539, (				543—544
Power of man-
	32	•	"	" performance of judicial
to speak truth, on what it depends	32			and official acts 706
Preamble-				encroachment 741
of Indian Evidence Act 99, 1	100		"	evidence withheld . 707
Pre-emption-				extinction of mortgage . 743
onus (	669		*1	facts likely to have
Preparation-				happened . 705-745
evidence of . 138, 140-1	149		••	., within special means
Presence-				of knowledge . 735
	208	٠,	,,	filiation 699
	-00			foreign judgment 365
Press copy—				fraud 199
of document . 473, 4	175		,.	gazettes 529, 530
Presumption-		.,		genuineness of certified affecting burden of proof 120n,	197			сору 523, 524
afforded by public record 3	352			of law-books . 365
arising from conduct 143, 7			,.	giving and recording evi-
arising from possession 684,-6	388			dence 741
as to accomplice 706, 7	10	.,	.,	good faith 694
, adoption of usual course of			,,	grant being permanent . 742
	38		.,	guilt 728
	36			,, not accounting for pro-
., benami transaction 740, 7				perty 187n.
	06			holding of land . 741-744
	42			innocence 117n., 643, 708,
, " business (common course				724, 727, 728
of) . 706. 7	14		.,	jointness 637
and the same of the same			"	jurisdiction 713, 714 judicial record 540-5	49		:	knowledge from access to
	42	••		document 197
, collection of Laws and Re-				constructive
	38		••	notice 199
ports				25110 11 155

į

l'AGE,	Page,
Presumption-coatd.	Presumption—condit.
as to knowledge of contents of do-	none that director knows contents
cument 734	of books of company 197-198
., ., ., Law 121, 725n	of fact 120
letter having been properly	" Law
addressed 207n.	-11
" " , " sent to post
office 207	rebutted by contrary 727
,, ,, life and death 681, 682	rebuttable 119, 120
., ., litigation, procedure 744	strength of various kinds of 724
,, ,, love of life (against suicide) 683n.	under Hindu Law ., 721-724
, ,, map 357	under Mahommedan Law 728
,, ,, marriage 699	Previous attempts -
" " mortgage 741
	Previous conviction— mode of proving 875.
	mode of proving
., ,, party having had oppor- tunity of cross-examin-Previous statement-in writing: cross-examination
,, ,, not making statement	as to 869—872
against his interest un-	inconsistent with evidence used to less true 250	corroborate witness . 894
,, ,, payments 719, 744	use of 332, 333
" " permanent tenancy 743	use of, as admission 332
,, ,, person acting according to	use of, to corroborate witness 332
his interest 735	use of, to discredit witness 332
,, ,, knowing what he does 735	use of, as evidence-in-chief 332
,, ,, on point of death	Price-
speaking truly 294	market 400
,, ,, powers-of-attorney 538, 539	See " l'alue."
., ,, private Acts 529
,, ,, receipt of letters 207	applicable to documents only 463 refusal to answer 706	meaning by 13, 113, 472, 474
,, regularity of course of busi-	(7) 178
ness 205, 205n.	proof of
,, ,, judicial proceed-	Principalings 713, 736	acknowledgment of debt 234, 234%
m 1	and agent: relationship: onus 683, 684
" " official acts 713, 737	and surety; admission
, , , ,, use of deposi- tions 330,—332	continuance of relation in 201
1	estoppel against
" " religion 745	estoppel in favour of
,, ., Reports (law) 538	Principle
telegraphic message 542	of estimating Industriality
,, ,, theft 706, 708	Print - 472, 475
trade custom	document in
,, truth of what purty admits 216	Private document 510
	mentang of the distinguished from meampetency distinguished from meampetency different kinds of 177, 178 distinguished from estoppel 79,746 in case of possession
in criminal cases 117n.
meaning and history of the word 79	Ulletico Mad 44
none from refusal to submit to arbi-	of Counsel against being called

PAGE.	Page,
Privilege -maid.	Production-conid of Judges and Magistrates 806-807	of document which another per-of witnesses from suit or prosecu-	son could refuse to produce 822
tion 840	of evidence: effect of 627-628
official communication 809-810	of evidence: order of 844 production of documents; subject	of title-decds of witness not part; 822
of 822—825	Professional-
professional communications 811—812	communications ., 811-822 professional: not waited by volun-	Promissory Noteteering evidence 813-816	See " Negotiable Instrument"
Privity - admissions in respect of 235—240	Proof-admission dispensing with, in cit-and the second s	minal cases 456
recessive for evolution	admission made for purpose of dis-
Privy- meaning of 235n.	pensing with 229, 230
	by documentary evidence 469-472
See " Privily."	by oral evidence . 457-462
Privy Council-	by public record 352
orders of regulations of : proof 517	by secondary evidence 479-494
Prize-	conclusive 119
cause: judgment of Admiralty	conclusive of legitimacy 694-704
Court in 378, 381	considered generally 437-439
Probability-	estopped is only matter of 746 affected by question of motive 141n	facts requiring no 629
facts showing . 156—160	force of written 559
identity with Mill's theory . 31	in civil and criminal cases 115
in favour of transaction 459	in criminal cases 117
inference from cases of separate	nature of 113 independent and converging 35, 45	no particular number of witnesses of case: number of witnesses . 837	required 835—837
of truth of testimony . 114, 114n	none required where facts admitted
of statement 32	452—456
preponderance of	of custom . 183—186, 417
principle of estimating . 29	, document required to be at- tested . 501—506 Probate-
judgment . 377—379	., dying declaration 304, 305 ., execution 500, 501
" effect of 379n	,, fact only admissible upon proof
" of Court refusing 380	of other fact 845
no discretion to refuse 380	, facts which require no 77, 440, 441
of will 516, 557, 566	, foreign and colonial law . 367
upon application for, only question	, handwriting 414-417
is factum of will, not title 380n	., таттаде 424
Procedure-	mental condition 193
burden of proof 639, 640	. ownership: 186
presumptions relating to . 744	previous conviction or acquittal 375s
Proclamations-	., public document 510, 511.
of Sovereign . proof 517	512, 516—521
Production-	relevant facts 15
Judge's power to order 909	, signature 498, 499
of chattel 468	production of 15
of document 838, 904, 903, 912	of right 105-100,411
cross-examination 862	pulminety
, objection to 846	waiter of 441

Page	Psar.
Proper custody-	Public officer~
meaning of 545, 548-550	definition of 513
Propositions-	document forming act of 512, 513 meaning of 19	judicial notice 443, 447
what are true, and how framed 19	not to be compelled to disclose
Prosecution-	communications 809
burden of proof on 643	presumed to do duty contrast between evidence for, and	presumption as to acts of 713, 714 course followed by prisoner 716	" official character 523 duty of, to produce all available	regularity of acts of 736, 737
evidence 716	writing by which, appointed 557, 565
statement exposing party to 298	Public record~
Prosecutor-	absence of entry in 352
admission by 212 222-242	Bengal Land Registration Register 33
character of 426, 433	birth, baptism, naming, marriage, criminal trial a proceeding between,	death and burist recisters 354
and accused 329	Collector's book 333
duty of, in calling evidence 643	delay and irregularity in making 250
King is, in all criminal proceed-	documents held admissible or ings 338—339	not 350, 351
person should not be judge and 806, 807	errors and alteration in 350, 350s
Prosecutrix -	facts of which, is evidence 332-336
unmoral character of 885	meaning of public document 349
inimital character of , 655	no estoppel 3,2 Protest-	principle upon which, admitted 348
before notary public 599	presumption afforded by 352
Proved-	proof by 352
how much of statement is to be 367	proof of incidental particulars 355
meaning of 113	" , identity of parties named
Provincial expressions-	355, 356
meaning of 622	relevancy of entry in 348-356
Proviso-	reports of public officers 251
meaning of 634	statement to police-officer not 331
Public-	Public servant~
interest, statements as to matter of	census officer
See " Statements as to matters of	definition of 319
Public and General Interest"	entry made by 348
book, entry in . 348-356	See " Public Record"
See " Public Record "	manager of Court of Wards 319n.
Public document -	regulering omeer
considered generally 510-512	registrar of births and deaths 340
deposition, report by police officer 514	Purdanashin-
entries in 340-348	exemption from attendance
inspection of . 510	statements filed in Court in name
meaning of . 349,350, 510, 512	017 019
municipal proceedings 515, 517, 517a.	transaction with plaint, written statements are not.	Q judgments and decrees are 314, 515
proof of 471, 510, 512, 520, 521, 531	Quantity- of eridence £25-837
proof of other official documents 517—523	0. 0
public record of private document 518 secondary evidence of 492	Question- hypothetical 416 mecondary evidence of 492 what is a 511, 512, 513, 516
why entitled to credit 340	Quinquennial~ 'V' Palanta

Page	PAGE
R.	Refreshing memory—
Rashness~	by book of account 34
facts showing existence of 187	by copy of Statute 365n
Rasm-wa Riwai i khandan-	expert 398, 41 meaning of 165	in examination-in-chief 85
-	of Judge 451, 45:
Real evidence- marks on ground 134	reporter or shorthand writer, notes of evidence 33;
meaning of 111, 112
	rules as to
Rebuttal-	inference 706, 71
evidence in	Register - fact which rebuts inference 149	public. See " Public Record "
Recall-	under Bengal Land Registration of witness 841
. " for cross-examination 855
Receipt-	birth 35
affecting onus 670	burial 354
for money, goods, security and	death
other property 298, 305	dedication nature of : not a release 223n.	lands: village
not conclusive 776	marriage 354
oral evidence admissible notwith-	naming 354
*tanding 557, 570	public certified copy 517
Receiving stolen goods-	Registration -
presumption of 706, 708-709	Act : certified copy under 495
Recital-	., copies given under 355
as affecting burden of proof 670	document inadmissible for want of 488 estoppel 775, 776	evidence of subsequent oral agree-
in Acts and Notifications 363, 366	ment 572, 599, 600
Records-	not proof of execution 447
estoppel by 746, 747	of document containing admission
See " Public Records"	213, 214
	officer public servant 348, 349
Record of Court— obtaining copy of	operating as notice . 198n.
annum dealth at	priority 743
Record of evidence- in judicial proceeding 525	proof of 641
in judicial proceeding 525 presumption as to what is 524-529	want of , secondary evidence . 560
proof of identity of party giving	Regularity—
evidence 529	presumption . 708, 713
taken in accordance with law 525	Rejection-
- · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	of evidence . 627, 628
Re crimination— when allowed . 890, 891	Relation of parties— evidence as to 149
	Relationship-
Re examination— as to conversation cross-examined	by blood, marriage, adoption 298, 319
to	-325
direction of 848	opinion on 144, 401
introduction of new matter 848-802	. expressed by con-object of 849, 862	duct 401, 421—424 statements as to 297, 298, 319—325
rules as to . 848-862	statements as to 297, 298, 319-325
Referee	"See Statements as to Relationship." Relative - admission by 211	statement by 321

14	AGE,	Th.	GE
Relevancy -		Relevency-coald.
and mode of proof: distinction	437	of fact the occasion, cause or effect
definition of	123	of facts in issue or relevant facts	134
" obscurity of	39	., ground of opinion	425
Judge may ask how question re-		"judgments 369-	396
levant	845	. in probate, matri
illustrative cases on the subject		monial, admiralty, insolvency
of 40-	73	jurisdiction 376~	381
legal	123	., judgments relating to matters
limit of	38	of a public nature 381-	384
logical	123	" motive, preparation and con-
meaning of	38	duct	138
mode of describing ,	39	" opinion 377	101
proof of	14	ss se as to handwriting 413~	417
theory of . 38,	123	" as to usages, tenets,
of admission . 242-	246	etc 419
" " in civil cases 247-	249	" " on telationship 421	£24
, books of account 341-	347	" oral admissions as to contents
" certain evidence for proving, in		of documents 246-2	117
subsequent proceeding the truth		" statements as to fact of public of facts therein stated 328-	339	nature in Acts and Notifica-
, character . 426-	436	tions
. confession caused by induce-		" statements in law-books 365. 5	76
ment, irrelevant . 249-	261	., statements in maps, charts and	-2 confession made under promise		plans 356-3	is.
of secrecy, etc 265,	266	m.t
,, to be determined by		Relevant- means admissible 341	ĸ
	256	ments aggressione "
" entry in public record 348-	356	Relevant fact-mexistence of course of business		evidence may be given of !	25
205-	207
, existence of judgment, order, de-		Religion- behef as to, not required in wat-
стев 384	389	S00N	11
, fact constituting state of things		presumption as to
under which facts in issue or		tenets of	1 relevant facts happened . 1	132	teners of
, fact depending upon proof of		Religious foundation-
	345	constitution and government of 419-12	•
" fact forming part of same transaction . 1	32	ludgment for or against 336s
" fact necessary to explain or in-		Junkmens von
	10	Rent- 67	1
, fact not previously dealt with		enhancement of 55	estopped by acceptance of
,, fact showing amount of dam-		fractional portion of 671
	60	Technical State of the second
,, fact showing accident or inten-		payment of: presumption 744
	03 53	brament or a became
, fact showing conspiracy . 1	443	Repeat~ In al mind or body or bodily feel-		of ensetments by Act
ing 187-2	02	Reply- 660
fact stated by persons not wit.		eridence is str

	_
Report-	, PAGE.	Resumption-
admissible as hearsay evidence of	,
reputed possession		• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •
Indian Law		netrated confession-
Law: presumption		211, 249, 250
of agent : admissibility of		Revenue-
., director : confidential	226	registers 351
, inspector of company	354	sale for arrears of 237-239
" police	262n.	survey: chittah 351
., public officer : of what evidence	352	Revenue officer—
" surveyor to corporation	226	information received by, as to of-
Reporter-		fence 810, 811
note of evidence by	332	Reversioner-
Representative in interest-		suit by : presumption 712 meaning of	245	Right-
Reputation-	-10	declaration as to public and gen-
as to marriage	324n.	ers? 318
	2. 435	declaration by deceased person as general	435	to private 318
" as to marriage	424	existence of : relevant facts 161-187
in proof of right and custom	325	judgment as to general or public 381-384
" " private right	318	kinds of : public, general, private   163
madmissible to prove insanity	400	opinion on 162, 401, 417-419
judgments relating to matters of		private opinion not admissible to a public nature	382	prove 419
meaning of . 317, 432-43	3, 435	proof of 183—186
of witness	887	public or general, judgment : proof statement as to	317	of 162
Repute-		statement giving opinion as to evidence of general	432n.
Res gestæ-		statement in document relating dying declaration 302,	$302\pi$ .	to transaction under s 13 325-328 evidence of	132	Ring-
in proof of mental and physical	_ condition	193	Road cess return-meaning of 132n., 133,		cannot be used as evidence in 1, 225	favour of person submitting 306, 314
f of conspiracy	155	evidence 214
principal and surety	234	Ryot-
self-serving evidence not to be con-	245	admission by 232 founded with separate crime forming part of	728	Rule of Road-statements accompanying and ex-	•••	judicial notice of 443, 448
plaining acts 145-	-147	what is the 448
	65n.
Residence-		s.
presumption	712	Sale-
Res judicata-		apparent deed of, really a mort.
See "Judgment" 369,		gage 748 in execution and for arrears of estoppel by	747
principle on which rule based	375	revenue 237—239 irregularity: onus 640
Respondent-		private
admissibility of evidence of,	24%_ 2	Sale for arrears of Revenue
	224	rights of purchaser 742
		. 66
w, le		•

Page	PAGE.
Relevancy-	Relevency-could
and mode of proof; distinction 437	of fact the occasion, cause or effect
definition of 123	of facts in issue or relevant facts 131
., obscurity of 39	" ground of opinion 425
Judge may ask how question re-	, judgments 369-396
levant 845	" in probate, matri-
illustrative cases on the subject	momal, admiralty, insolvency
of 40-73	jurisdiction 376-381
legal 123	., judgments relating to matters
limit of 38	of a public nature 381-384
logical	" motive, preparation and conduct 138
meaning of 38 mode of describing . 39	" opinion 397—401
proof of	, as to handwriting 413-417
	, as to usages, tenets, etc 419-421
,, ,, ,,, ,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,	,, oral admissions as to contents
" books of account . 341-347	of documents ., 248-247
" certain evidence for proving, in subsequent proceeding the truth	,, statements as to fact of public of facts therein stated 328-339	nature in Acts and Notifica-
" character . 426—436	statements in law-books 365, 376
" confession caused by inducement, irrelevant . 249-261	, statements in maps, charts and plans 356-363
confession made under promise	plans 356363
of secrecy, etc 265, 266	Relevant-
,, ,, to be determined by	means admissible 341n.
Court not jury 256	mentis attantismie
" entry in public record 348-356	Relevant fact-
existence of course of business	evidence may be given of 125
203-207
existence of judgment, order, de-	Religion-
cree 384-389	belief as to, not required in wit-
,, fact constituting state of things	ntag under which facts in issue or	presumption as to relevant facts happened 132	tenets of ***
" fact depending upon proof of	Religious foundation-
other fact , 845	constitution and government of 419-421
,, fact forming part of same trans-	considerant and S.
action 132	Remainderman-
,, fact necessary to explain or in-	judgment for or against 350"
troduce relevant facts 149	Rent - 072
, fact not previously dealt with
as relevant 155	1 1 11 110
,, fact showing amount of damage 160	free land 788
, fact showing accident or intention 203	payment of: presumption 744
, fact showing conspiracy	Lahaman, ar. r
. fact showing existence of state	Repeal-of mind or body or bodily feel-	of enactments by Act
ing 187—202	Reply~ 868
fact stated by persons not wit-	evidence in p.19
pesses 203_398	speech in

_
Page Disproved	, 1202.
meaning of 11
Dispossession-	executed in counterpart 472, 474
decree, evidence of 17	several parts 472, 474, 560
Disposition-	execution of 500, 501
evidence of	" of: admission 216
general 435
meaning of . 433, 435
Disposition of Property -	extensia evidence madmissible to evidence of terms of 556-571	1 variance of . 571—608
	foreign . construction of 405n.
Divorce-	forged, effect of production of 460
decree of, how conclusive 376,	found in possession of party, evi-
377, 378, 380	dence 149
privilege as to communications	genuineness in question : oral ad-continues after 806
proceeding: proof of marriage in 421, 42-	interpretation, extrinsic evidence 852n.
, witness in 424, 425	juniciai and from Juniciai
use of decree in previous suit 381n	liability for failure to produce 824
Document-	matter required by law to be re-
access to, raising presumption of	duced to form of 556-571
knowledge 197
admissible in England or Ire-	non-production of : inference 714
land 533
admissibility of extrinsic evidence	not produced after notice , 908 to affect 551-556
alteration of onus . 680, 681
ambiguity of 555	, objection to production of it ogo
attestation of 501-506	oral admission as to contents
does not imply know-	of 216, 246, 247
ledge of contents 197 conduct showing intention of par-	oral evidence of statements of ties to 144	contents of 868
construction of	patent ambiguity 608-613 presumptions as to 522-550, 738, 739 containing statement as to rela-	presumptions as to 622—634, 138, 130 tionship 298, 320
course of dealing showing	presumption in favour of honesty of 726
intention of 144n.	production of : cross-examination 862
date of 298, 306	" which another per-date of 298, 306 definition of 473, 474	son could refuse to produce 822
dispositive and non-dispositive 551	production of, of witness, not party 822
distinct subsequent oral agree-	. of : procedure . 838
ment 571, 599-601	" : inspection: transla.
evidence in mid, explanation and	tion of 001, 905
interpretation of 554	professional adviser stating con-
interpretation of 554 evidence invalidating 571, 591	tents of 811, 812
,, of aucient possession ozo	proof of 77, 457, 458, 462, 472-479
" " conduct as affecting 578—587 " modern possession 327	" by secondary evidence 479, 500
,, ,, =================================	" ,, formalities grants and other dis-	, , mark on . 414, 415 , , signature and handwrit-
positions of property 556-571	ing., 498, 499
, showing relation of, to	" separate oral agreement existing facts 571, 604	572, 596—590

Pag	PAGE.
Document-coatd.	Dying Declaration-costs.
provable in England by certified	ground of admissibility 294
сору 53	3 impeachment of declarant 303
public 510-52
, and private . 471, 51
record 4
relating to right and custom, ad-	previous statement of deceased 303n.
missibility of 325—32	10
search for 48	proof of death or shown to witness on cross-exami-	restricted to res gesta 303n.
nation: whether party entitled project-mineral or 11 11 11
shown to witness: inspection 871, 87	0 statement in relation to transaction	2 value of 294, 301, 302
mentioned in s. 13 299, 32	5 E.
thirty years old 544-55
used in commerce . 298, 30	6 onus 645
used in judicial proceeding, may be	_ Effect—used as admission 24	fact which is the, of fact in issue variance of, who may give evi-	or relevant facts 134
dence 62	5 production and, of evidence 627, 628
Documentary Evidence -	Electment-excluding oral evidence 551-55 generally 469-47
meaning of I10, 46	9 in criminal trials 134
procedure with regard to admission	in cuminal mais of 127n., 12	8 Elements of Law-
proof of facts by 43
value of	Engroschment
	presumption 741
Domicile_	Encumbrance-
presumption 71	aroldenes of a priva
proof of intentions 19	,
Donatio mortis causa—	Endowment-
presumption 72
Drunkenness -	English Decisions—
confession made during 27	no reference to, made in the Indian considered in estimating intention 196 opinion admissible to prove 400	not binding authorities but valu-
Dumb-	able guides
witness 803	English Law of Evidence
Duress~	fundamental rules of 10
plea of ; onus 645	how formed 13
Dying Declaration-	merits of admissibility to be decided by	relation of the Indian Evidence
Judge 304	Act to burden of proof 304	Enquiry-competency of declarant . 303 confirmation of declarant . 303	eriminal a proceeding between denosition used as	prosecutor and accused difference between law of England	when answer to, admissible 465#.
and British India 294, 302
expectation of death unneces-	in books of account. See " Books
sary 298, 302	of Account." 348-356 form of statement 303

Page	PAGE.
Equivocation-	Estoppel-maid.
in document, 615	mortgage : trust : vendor and purchaser . licensee 787
Escrow-	motive as state of knowledge im-
deed operating as 597	material 757
Estoppel -	negotiable instruments 749s.
action cannot be founded on as a	none from ignorance of law 754 defence	none where truth of matter ap-admission may operate as 290-292	pears 754 against administrator or executor 761	none against person not party to making of public record 352 of acceptor of bill 794-797
	, bailee and licensee . 794, 793
	, license 794, 796
arising from bename transactions 770	,, tenant 784-794
	" tenant and licensee . 749n., 784
binds parties, privies and not	principle on which rule depends 756
ettangets	purchaser at sale in execution 239
y p	recitals 774
#1-m	representation and action must be connected as cause and effect 779
" deed 747—748, 775 " Judgment . 371, 372	representation must be a material statement of fact 780
B languages	res judicata 747
" negligence 766	scope of the rule . 756-758
" reason of agents' statements . 761	statement or conduct should be
" record	intentional 777 title by 777
partition 748	when mutual
" pleading 453, 748 compromise of 751	where invalid adoption has been compromise of 751	acted upon 773
"declaration, act or omission " 763-777	Evasive or false responsiondefinition of an act 756	presumption from 143, 147
demal of representation 784	bresquiption 11000 140, 141
distinguished from breach of con-	Event-
tract	meaning of 108
distinction between agency and 761, 762	Events-
,, between, and presump-	eaution m inference as to cause and tion 79, 746	effect of 39
doctrine of, will not be extended,	connection of, how traced 38
binds only parties and privies 290, 292	rule as to cause and effect of 39 doctrine of part-performance 582	traceable influence of causes and essential that the other party has	effects as to 38 been induced to do or forbear 781-782	Evidence-form of misrepresentation imma- terial 775	admissibility of, should be decided foundation of doctrine is changed situation 781	at once 846
from appealing	845—847 affirmative better than negative 4
" varying case in appeal 751	ambiguity as to confining, to issue 11
generally 746-784	excluding hearsay 12
in case of minor	of wash
" " partners 762	as to opinion, exclusion of 73, 76
n trustee 762	cases where secondary, of contents
H H ttustee 11	-f dean-out - 1 1 22

PAG	E. PAGE.
Evidence-contd	Evidence - contd.
circumstantial 30, 11	2 record of: presumption 524-529
confession by co-accused not 28 destruction, subornation of 139, 139	s. secondary 113
	5 self-regarding
effect of improper admission or re-	self-serving 243
	0 spolution: fabrication: suppres-
English system of Judicial, progress	sion of 715
of	5 subornation of 139
erroneous omission to object to,	taken on commission de bene esse does not make it admissible 2:
exception to rule that party can-	theories as to weight of 78
not make for himself 208
exclusion of, as to unconnected	what the law of, determines 14
	75 withheld, presumption 706
failure to give : hability to dam-	witnesses conspiring to give false 34 ages 485, 485
given in court without jurisdiction	value of, cannot affect admissitaken on commission . 330, 330
given in former judicial proceed-	volunteering
ing 328-33	Totalice in
See " Depositions in former trial."	Evidence Act— commencement of hearsay or mediate 111:	construction of 99—103
how law of, relative to general	101 105:
	extent of improper admission and rejection	meadings of accrease in of 627, 916—92	illustrations to interpretation clauses of marginal notes of
in rebuttal 844, 844;	repetit of chactarenes , 99 material 11
meaning of 11, 110-113, 43
instrument of 110, 110 of character only a make-weight 7 of matters in writing 86	818 710 BIR 710
oral 15, 11	order of order of introduction of 84
order of production 84	f him original or immediate Illi personal 36, 111:
presumptions as to giving and recording 741,74
presumptive 113	Splect or primary 11
production and effect of 78, 79, 627	mbat is
. 62
proof of fact by oral ?	7 witness hostile proof that given in judicial proceeding 33	o difference between, and certification 521
real 111, 11	2 copy 512 512 s.
reception of, depending upon pre-11-1

	l'age.		Page.
Exception -		Expert wat:
in Penal Code : onne .	676	endence on matter of trade	465, 406
mraning of	1.31	of, to be received *	123e
Breismations-		Caution	398
eridence of guilts intention	1928	to notenment	468, 409
of br-standers	146	facts bearing upon opinions of	401
of meb	131, 325	grounds of admissibility	ર્ભ
Execution		opmen of	402
denial of, by attenting within-	ja <sub>c</sub>	grounds of opinion of	413, 425
disposassion in	649	may refer to text-book.	395
eridence to show want of due		nature of explence of	75
of document implies knowled		not called as weiness: opinion s	of 413
of contents of document	. 197	on handwriting
	500, 501	opinion of 401-413	, 463, 467
presumptions .	739	opinion of, open to corroborate	on presumption as in, when docume		or rebuttal	398 called for and not produced		or rebuttal opinion of one, on another	403n.
presumption of the case of area		refreshing memory 413	895, 902
	544, 5 4 5	scope of opinion of	400-413
	216		. 484
provable by admission		Explanatory Facts-
proof of, where attestation requ	498501		145, 145n.
		Expressions of "cellings or imp
property of judgment debtor; en		sions-	ALGR.
			328
	. 217		328
Execution sale-		, , ,
purchaser at, not representate		F.	,.
of judgment-debtor	. 783
or landiment-depict		Patrication-
Executor-		Patrication- of evidence	715
Executor- acknowledgment burnes have	ia-		715
Executor- acknowledgment burney hand tion	1a- , 231	of evidence
Executor- acknowledgment berring limit tion admission by	1a- . 231 . 227	of evidence	452-456
Executor— acknowledgment bernag have tion tion admission by estoppel against	231 227 ., 761	of evidence	452—456 72
Executor- acknowledgment burner hand from admission by estoppel against of joint contractor; admissi	234 227 ., 761	of evidence	452—456 72
Executor- acknowledgment burring from tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor: admissi by	234 227 227 761	of evidence  Fact- admitted need not be present apparently relevant bearing on question whether a	452—456 72 .et 201
Executor- acknowledgment burring head from admission by estopped against of joint contractor; admissi by of will of Hinds 2	12- 227 761 100 232, 233 227g , 379	of evidence  Fact- admitted need not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a acceleral or intentional	452—456 72 .et 201
Executor- acknowledgment burning input tion admission by estoppel against of joint contractor; admissi by of will of Hudu 2 witness	234 227 227 761	of evidence  Fact— admitted used not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a necidental or intentional cases where impossible to dire line between relevant and in	452—456 72 .et 201
Executor- acknowledgment briring item tion	12- 227 761 100 232, 233 227π , 379	of evidence  Fact- admitted used not be pysied apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to die line between relevant and in levant collateral	452—456 72 .et 201 201 52 52 125n.
Execution- acknowledgment burring items from	12- 227 761 100 232, 233 227g , 379	of evalence  Pact  admitted used not be proved  spparently relevant  bearing on question whether a  accidental or intentional  cases where impossible to dre  line between relevant and in  levant  collateral  constituting state of things und	452—456 72 201 201 32 125n.
Exentor—acknowledgment burring items from	234 227 761 100 232, 233 227π , 379 803	of evidence  Fact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to fire line between relevant and in levant constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact	452—456 72 201 201 32 125n.
Executor- acknowledgment burring hund from admission by estoppel against of joint contractor; admissi by of will of Hindo 2 Exemptification- of document Expense- statement of person whose atter	231 227 761 ion 232, 233 227π , 379 803	of evidence  Fact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant .  bearing no question whether a accidental or intentional cares where impossible to fire line between relevant and in levant .  collateral .  constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact issue happened	452—456 72 201 201 32 125n.
Exentior— acknowledgment burring items from admission by estopped against of joint contractor: admission by of will of Hindu 2 witness  Exemplification— of document  Expense— statement of person whose attributes cannot be precured with the general contraction and the statement of the procured with the cannot be precured with the cannot be p	231 227 761 100 232, 233 227n 379 803	of evidence  Fact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to die line between relevant and in levant constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact levue happened tablishing identity	452—456 72 201 201 32 125n. ler in 131
Executor- acknowledgment burring hund from admission by estoppel against of joint contractor; admissi by of will of Hindo 2 Exemptification- of document Expense- statement of person whose atter	231 227 761 100 232, 233 227n 379 803	of evidence  Fact- admitted used not be pysred apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to die line between relevant and in levant collateral constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact issue happened cstablishing identity critiene of	452—456 72 201 201 32 125n. ler in 134
Exentior— acknowledgment burring items from admission by estopped against of joint contractor: admission by of will of Hindu 2 witness  Exemplification— of document  Expense— statement of person whose attributes cannot be precured with the general contraction and the statement of the procured with the cannot be precured with the cannot be p	234 227 761 100 232, 233 2278 , 379 803 512	of evidence  Fact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant . bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to dre line between relevant and irr levant collateral constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact issue happened . ctablehing identity . evidentiary	492—456 72 201 201 125n. ler 125n. ler 134 134 139
Exentor—acknowledgment burring items from  admission by estoppel against of joint contractor; admission by of will of Hundu  Exemplification—of document  Expenses statement of person whose attement of person whose attement of whose attement of the contract with out	231 227 761 100 232, 233 227n 379 803	of evidence  Fact— admitted used not be proved apparently relevant . bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to dire line between relevant and in levant collateral constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact issue happened establishmen dentity evidence of evidentiary explanancy or introducing n leva explanancy or introducing n leva	492—496 72 201 301 301 301 125n 131 140 110—113 105 pt
Executor—acknowledgment burring himst from  admission by  admission by  estopped against  of joint contractor: admissi by  of will of Hinds  Exemplification—of document  Exemplification—of document  Experiment  Experiment  Experiment  Experiment	12- . 234 . 227 ., 764 1000 232, 233 227π, 379 312 en- tb. , 328, 334 412	of evidence  Pact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to dire line between relevant and irr levant collateral constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact issue happened establishing identity evidence of evidentiang identity evidence of the providence of the constitution of the collateral case issue happened establishing identity evidence of evidentians identity evidence of the collateral case is the collateral case in the case is the collateral case in the case is	452-456 72 201 au
Execution—  Execution—  Execution of Hunds  Execution of person whose attended on the performed by expert  Experiment—   Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment	1a- 234 227 ., 764 1000 232 233 227a , 379 803 512 512 512 412 506	of evidence  Fact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to fire line between relevant and in levant constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact levue happened citablashing identity evidence of evidentiary explaining or introducing n leva fact external and internal	402—456 73 201 201 52 125n. er in 140 110—113 105 pt 140, 105
Execution—  Execution—  Execution of Hunds  Execution of person whose attended on the performed by expert  Experiment—   Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment—  Experiment	18- 234 227 761 100 232, 233 227π, 379 803 512 en- tb 506 403, 404	of evidence  Pact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cares where impossible to die line between relevant and in levant collateral constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact issue happened establishing identity evidence of evidentiary explaining or introducing r leva fact issue and providentiary explaining or introducing r leva fact internal and internal fact internal and internal fact internal process.	452—456 72 201 201 32 125n 125n 149 149 105 140 141 141
Executor—acknowledgment burring head how a choose dependent of inches on hy catoppel against of joint contractor; admissibly of will of Hindia 2 witness .  Exemplification—of document Expense—statement of person whose attitudes cannot be procured without ont.  Experiment—performed by expert .  Experiment—comparison of writing by competency at credit of .	234 227 2761 222, 233 227 379 222, 233 227 379 227 379 227 379 227 379 227 379 227 379 227 379 227 379 227 227 227 227 227 227 227 227 227 2	of evidence  Fact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to die line between relevant and in levant collateral constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact lesue happened tablashing identity evidentiary evidence of evidentiary explanuage of nice in the case external and internal fixing time or place forming part of same frametin.	452—456 72 201 88 201 88 125n er 10 125n 110—113 140 115 140 115 140 115 140 115 140 115 140 115 140 115 140 115 140 115 140 115 140 115 140 115 140
Executor— acknowledgment burring items from admission by estoppel against of joint contractor: admission by of will of Hundu Exemplification— of document Expense— statement of person whose attement of person whose attempt of statement of within the person of writing by competency of expectation of writing by competency of expectation of contents of cont	234 227 761 1010 1010 232, 233 227 8 379 312 227 8 334 312 217 8 303 312 217 8 304 403, 40	of evidence  Pact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to die line between relevant and in levant collateral constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact issue happened establishing identity evidence of evidentiary explaning or introducing in leva fact internal and internal fact of the external and internal fact or face (forming part of same framework).	452—456 72 201 201 32 125π 125π 131 140
Executor—acknowledgment burring head too	234 227 761 1000 232,233 2277 379 803 512 en. 512 506 403,404 413 413 413	of evidence  Fact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to die line between relevant and in levant collateral constituting state of things und which relevant fact or fact lesue happened exidental die relevant fact or fact evidente of evidentiary explanung or intended facting time or place forming part of sums transacting lesue in lesue joromittent with fact in inver- joromittent with fact in inver-	452—456 72 72 201 201 32 1258 140
Exentor— acknowledgment burring items from admission by estoppel against of joint contractor: admission by of will of Hundu Exemplification— of document Expense— statement of person whose attement of person whose attement dues cannot be procured without Experiment— performed by expert Experiment— comparison of writing by competency at eross-examination of definition of distinction between competer.	234 227 764 1000 232, 233 227 n. 379 803 312 en. tb. 328, 334 412 506 403, 404 413 413	of evalence  Pact- admitical used not be proved apparently relevant the apparently relevant the apparently relevant the apparently relevant the apparently relevant and in levant the apparent	452—456 452—456 172 181 182 183 184 184 185 185 186 187 188 188 188 188 188 188 188 188 188
Exentor- acknowledgment burring hast ton admission by estoppel against of joint contractor: adminst by of will of flinds 2 witness Exemplification- of document Expense- statement of person whose att duace cannot be procured wit out 207. Experiment- performed by expert . Expert- comparison of writing by competiency of erods of contraction of definition of definition of distinction between counciets.	234 227 764 1000 232, 233 227 803 512 506 403, 404 413 412 413 412 413 412 413 412 413 412 413 412 413 412 413 412 413 412 413 412 413 402 403	of evidence  Pact- admitted used not be proved apparently relevant bearing on question whether a accidental or intentional cases where impossible to die line between relevant and irr levant collateral constituting state of things und which relevant fast or fact issue happened extablashing identity evidence of evidentian identity exidence of evidentian fact in the case of the	452—456 72 72 201 201 32 1258 140

Page.	Page
Fact-contd.	Family-contd.
making existence of fact in issue	celibacy of member of 321
or relevant fact highly probable	conduct 421
or improbable 155	eustom 165, 185
matter of 108	evidence as to state of 150
meaning of, 18, 107-109	history 321
mere observation of, insufficient 20	issue of members of 321
Mill's theory of logic as to 19	joint Hindn: admission by man-
necessary to explain or introduce 149	ager of 227
no decision upon, a precedent for	legitimacy 321
any other decision 45	occupation of member of 321
observation and recording of . 19	pedigree 298, 321
occasion, cause or effect of fact	portrait 298, 320
in issue or relevant fact 134	relationship 321
oral evidence as to, must be di-	residence of member of . 321
4.00 400	succession 321
physical and psychological 108, 101	$BCCC221011 principal 108	usage of : opinion as to 419 will or deed relating to affairs of 298, 320
principal
proof of 13, 113118	Family arrangement-
	estoppel
relation of, to rights and liabilities 109	evidence of relevant 38, 109, 123—125	Family-relevant when right or custom is	custom 325n.
in question 161	Farmer—
requiring no proof 77, 440, 441	opinion of 405
showing amount of damages 160	•
, conspiracy . 153-155	Fasts- 439, 443, 446
,, existence of course of	judicial notice of 439, 443, 440
business 205207	Feeling -
, existence of state of mind or	statement by crowd expressing.
body or bodily feeling 187—202	See "Expressions of feelings
,, motive, preparation and	or impressions."
conduct 138	Ferrotype-
similar but unconnected 135	150π.
stated in public record. See " Puh-	identification by lic Record,"	Festivals-
stated by person not witness 293-339	judicial notice of supporting or rebutting inference 149	Fiduciary relation-
supposed to be proved must fulfil	good faith : onus
list of method of difference 35
to be proved by oral evidence 77	of survey 361
that man holds an opinion 397	· •
"rerbal" meaning of 465n.	presumption of 699
Fact in issue-
evidence may be given of 125	Finger-impressions-existence of judgment, order or decree, n 371, 384, 389	thumb-impression
	Flag- 443, 447
	Flag- 443, 447
False imprisonment-	judicial notice of
False imprisonment—damages in action for , . 160n.	judicial notice of False imprisonment— damages in action for 160n. Family—	judicial notice of  Foot-marks— 134*  proof from
False imprisonment—damages in action for , . 160n.	judicial notice of

PAGE.	PAGE.
Fact-contd.	Family-contd.
making existence of fact in issue	celibacy of member of 321
or relevant fact highly probable	conduct 421
or improbable 155	custom 105, 185
matter of 108	evidence as to state of 150
meaning of 18, 107—109	history 321
mere observation of, insufficient 20	issue of members of 321
Mill's theory of logic as to 19	joint Hindu: admission by man-
necessary to explain or introduce 149	ager of 227
no decision upon, a precedent for any other decision 45	occupation of member of 321
observation and recording of . 19	occupation of member of occasion, cause or effect of fact Potterne II. II.
	relationship
oral evidence as to, must be di-	residence of memori of rect 463-468	Buccession physical and psychological 108, 191 principal 108	will or deed relating to affairs of 298, 320
proof of 15, 113-118	Family arrangement-
., ,, by oral evidence 77, 457, 462	estoppel 773
relation of, to rights and liabilities 109	evidence of relevant 38, 109, 123-125	Family-relevant when right or custom is	custom 325# in question 161
requiring no proof 77, 440, 441	Farmer- 405
showing amount of damages 160	opinion of
" conspiracy 153-155	Fasts-
,, existence of course of	judicial notice of 439, 443, 446
business . 205-207	Feeling
existence of state of mind or	statement by crowd expressing.
body or bodily feeling 187-202	See "Expressions of feelings
,, motive, preparation and	or impressions."
conduct 138	•
similar but unconnected . 135	Ferrotype-stated in public record See " Pub-	identification by lic Recorl"	Festivals-
stated by person not witness 293-339	judicial notice of 443, 447
supporting or rebutting inference 149	Fiduciary relation-
supposed to be proved must fulfil	good faith; onus 694-699
list of method of difference 35
to be proved by oral evidence 77	Field book- 361
that man holds an opinion 397	of survey
"verbal" meaning of 465n	Filiation- 699
•	presumption of
Fact in issue—	Finger-impressions-evidence may be given of 125	Pinger-impressions— opinion on . 401, 408, 409, 509 401, 408, 401, 401
existence of judgment, order or	thumb-impression 401% decree, a 371, 384, 389
meaning of 109	Flag- judicial notice of 443, 447
Palse imprisonment-	lagiciai notice o damages in action for , 160n.
data sees of action for , , . 100%.	Foot-marks 134*
	Proof from Family-	proof from Foreign

PAGE.

(	PAGE.				Page.
Handwriting		Hindu Law-		-	1 102
comparison of	417	alienation	by father		657659
expert on 400	6-408	,,	guardian	-	1 450
identification of	401		таплует		450
	55, 356		echait
meaning of acquaintance with 41;				••	655
of attesting witness			widow	••	652
opinion as to 399, 401, 413		eustom or i		٠	166
, opinion as to 555, 401, 412		family: add
	406n.	inheritance			655, 656
presumption of, in tase of an an-		joint prope	rties		647
	517	partition	••	••	650
proof of . 316n., 414, 41	7, 498	powers or p			230
Hastabud-		presumption	n as to jou	nt family	. 638 papers	348	presumption	: eustom :	acquisit	ion'
Inches	0.10	by widov	r. adoptic	n: dona	tso
Hatchment-		mortis car	sa : endov	rment. io	int - statement on	320	property	-		712-724
		presumption	: manage	ti anit	bv
Hath Chitta-		reversione			724
book	344	purchaser fr			638
Headings-		self-acquisiti			. 651
of sections	100	Stridhan			651
			••	••	., 00,
Hearsay—		History-
admission founded on 215,	226n.	family			. 321
as to matter of general interest	326	matters of p	ıblic: refer	ence to	443, 448
public and private rights	326	Holding of Off	ice
" relationship 323	. 324	presumption			_ 712
	128n.	Holidays-
definition of	464	judicial notice	n of .	. ,	143, 447
doctrine of	438	• · · · · ·
evidence of answers given on search	480	Horoscope -		21	4, 320a exceptions to rule against	464	admission in exceptions to the against		statement in	•		. 020
	467	Hostilities-	• .	,	43, 447
in cross-examination	407	judicial notic	ent .	. +	+5, 4+1
853,		Husband-
		communicatio	ns during	marriage	- 000
					7809
not receivable	464	competency of	, in erimîn	al action	801 objection to such reason	74	effect of adn	nissions of	nife as	227
offered to prove estappel . 40				••	803
	421	of purty to su	it, compete	nt	303 reason for exclusion of	74	Hypothetical q	uestion -
rule against . 464,	466	meaning of		••	409
should not be taken down 12	8n statements against interest based			I.
on 316, 31	6n.
statement by person who cannot	•	Identification-		coment be called as witness . 291-	339	production of I		ocumen.	824 statement in absence of accused 89	Зи,	for purpose	of witness giving, should be at once	1	dentity-			149 stopped 1	128	ndmissibility of	evidence (	of why excluded . ,164, 4	165	of individual:	incidents of	donnes.	321
		tic history ne	rcensury for
	-	" parties name	d in public	14.Cotn*	370
admission by way-warden of !	227	· proof of .		3.40	•-

	PAGE	· P	10 E.
Inquiries—		Intention-	au g.
advantages of judicial over scie	n-	as deducible from conduct 8	55n.
tific	25	burden of proof of	196
approximate generalization	is	criminal	733
more useful in judicial, than	in		429
scientific	29	fact showing 136, 187, 190, 191,	192.
classes of inference in judicial .		193, 194, 194n.,	196
complexity of relevant facts		, inferred from subsequent conduct
	. 28, 29	of accused 14	3n.
degrees of habilities in judicial .		not to be inferred from antecedent
	. 25		196
	. 25	of bankrupt leaving dwelling-
judicial and scientific, compared,		house 15	DR.
leading differences between judicu		of parties to instrument expressed investigation and physical .	. 28	,	43
	. 25		06
object of scientific		presumption of 732,7 opportunities of parties in judi		proof of 196, 728, 8	52 43
cial	. 27	proof of galley	40
summary of the results of	. 27	Interest-
Insanity-		evidence as to, due 5
inadmissibility of non-expert tes		matters of public and general 296, 29 316-3	10
timony and general reputation	400
	(43n	See "Statement as to matter of public and general interest" medical evidence as to		statement against 295, 298, 309-31	6
presumption	12, 732	See "Statement against interest"
Inscription-
evidence of	492	Interlineation- opinion as to 406—40	В
on banner : parol evidence of	459n.	-pinton 10
In rem-		Interpleader—	3
judgment, See "Judgment,"
Insolvent-		Interposition— of questions in examination 852n.
Debtor's Act: certified copies of		Interpretation-
proceedings	355	of document, evidence in aid of 554
See " Bankrupt."		Interpretation Clauses -
Insolvency-		of Indian Evidence Act 100, 107
	6. 381	Internation
onus	659	Court : examination of 623
presumption	712	professional communication made
See "Bankruptcy."		through 226n.
Inspection-		statements of agents 220%.
by Court	111	Interrogation- 278
of document shown to witness	871	confession obtained upon 218
, document by Court		Interrogatory - 213, 215, 453
	D. 519
" privileged document	799	answer to, of co-detendant
proof effected by	114	as to damaga sustained
Instances—	-	cross: opportunity to cross-ex-
in which right claimed : judgment	383n	amine 823, 826
	2. 164	incriminating questions 823, 820 when answer not compellable 719s proof by		ntimidation-
Insurance-
onus	659	invalidation of document on ground

Judgment- coatd,	PAGE,	_
foreign	Judicial notice-conti.	PAGE.
in eriminal area	10, 214 of facts of which the late in committee (246)
in criminal not receivable in aint	Gardine Hotice	444 action and rece nored		443, 447 .
in proof of public or general rights	11 ting	443, 447
	" geographical divisions	443, 447
irrelevant	170n holidays	143, 447
in nerronem	-389 , hositilities	443, 447
17 rem 170 200 000 66	9, 370 , law of the land in rem 170, 389, 370, 371-375, 377	-379 " laws	365
		442, 414
not generally evidence between	is mara or jand-noiders	., 444
readingers of party and stranger	ist of talukdars	444 obtained by iraud 9go 900	on, matters appearing in the	pro-volumed by collingian		444
on matter of public and general	. 394 ,, matters directed to be not	ed.
	by the other Acts	444
operating as admission	20n. , meaning of English words	414
probate as admission	214 " notifications in Gazette
probate, matrimonial, admiralty,	proceedings of councils
msorrency 370 27c	381 proceedings of perliament	442, 446
public record	250 Moccounty of paritament	442, 446 relating to matter of a public na-	- 10 rate of 101d	143, 448
170 100 270 00-	" reals	443, 446
reading of, in connection with de-		442, 446 77 showing motion		. 116
upon question of legitimacy 37	183 Judicial proceedings-when conclusive 37	7n application of Indian Evidence Ac
when relevant	570	. 104
when relevant . 369-3	ina .
where record is matter of induce-	presumption as to regularity of 7
ment .,	proof that evidence was given in	230
Judicial decision—	Judicial record-
error of, how cured	foreign - presumption Kil	0542
Judicial evidence-	Jurisdictiongeneral theory of	consent connet cure	752
Judicial inquiry-	estoppel against pleading want of	752 .
See Inquiries,	evidence given in Court without	330
		387 Judicial notice	judgment without dispenses with proof 438, 440, 441, 44	presumption of 713, 736	,, 10.
in respect of public officers 143, 44	7
Hals Of facts given not witness	603
	Jurg
of accession and sign manual of	charge to, in case of accomplice evidence 832.	633
, advocates, attorneys, pleaders 443, 447	examination of witness by 849,	915
" articles of war	personally acquainted with fact	915
. British terminant 442, 446	manufact of the surface of intention 15	2n.
n bve-laws		015
a course of nature 444	,
Court officers	Jus tertii	108
, custom 443, 447	agent cannot set up n divisions of time
avistance of time 443, 447	K.
" talstened of State and Sover-	Kanungoeign 443, 447	paners	s

	Page.		Pine
Kept out of the way "-		Law Books-witness one of deposition	325, 334	presumption of genuineness of	365
Ti s. R n		relevancy of etatements in	365, 366
plan	1154, 300	Law Report
hou-		relevancy of atatement in	365, 366
landa	374	Law of Evidence-applicable to British India	99
nowledge-		English law of .	100
fact showing, 167, 166s, 190s,		ler from	09
	. 197—199	See " English Law of Erident facts specially within onus	575-551
guilty a proof	613	Laws of Nature -	701m.
presumption of .	. 626	expert exidence as to	101M.
handmirtim of equital	779	Leading question - proof of	. 729	in cross-examination	853-856
what it is composed of	14	" deposition in former trial	332
ulachar-		🕳 examination-in-chief	852
meaning of	165	Lease-
opinion on	421	See " Landlord ;" " Tenant,"	•
proof of	155	Legal adviser-
turta-		admission made to 🔩	213
admission by	227	confidential communication w relation of, to members of fan	ulr 227n.	refusing to produce document	R24
Akhiraj-		Legal representative
different classes of	569, 660	meaning of	236
inquiry into validity of dat	of	Legislature-acquisition of territories	701, 705	proceedings of a proof	517
0000 659, 660, 67	1, 672, 742	•
.,		Legitimacy- birth during marriage, proof of	699_704
ī.		birth during marriage, proof of	377n.
and-		judgments in question of	728
presumptions as to holding of	741—744	Mahomedan Law	664
See " Landlord and Tenant."	•	onus	699, 726
andlord and tenant-		presumption of	422, 423 continuance of relationship	683	proof of, by treatment	321. 377n.
encroachment	741	ijat mionir ai	021, 01111.
ejectment	663	Letters-
enhancement of rent	662	admissibility of, found after are	rest 143n.
fractional portion of rent	664	connected series of: how my intermediate tenure	664	of, to be proved	367, 368
onus 661, 66	12, 693, 684	containing admission: stamp
plea of part-possession	664	contract contained in several	557, 566
presumptions as to holden	g of	date of	298, 309
land	741-744
proof by parol of relation	560n.	left with servant of addressee
remission	663	postmark on
rent-free land, onus	671, 672	presumption as to date of arris
Latent Ambiguity—		" none that prope	riy
See " Ambiguity."			206n.
Law-			206
book containing: presumption	n 513	previous, showing intention	100-foreign and colonial	366	later	190n.
	12, 444, 445	refusal to receive: knowledge	01
of the land : judicial notice of	f 365	contents	., 198n.
presumption of knowledge of		registered;	TO technical and coneral element		receive

INDEX.

Pion	Page.
Letters-contd.	Local investigation-
sending to post office 206	oral evidence 110, 113
"without prejudice" 248, 249	proof afforded by 114
Letters of Administration-	Local usage 165, 185
See " Administration" and "Judg-	Logic-
ment "	Mili's theory of, as to facts 19
Lex fori-	Loss of Document evidence applicable is that of . 99	proof of 846
Tracer of Property Co.	Lunatic-Libel-
action for: damages . 161n.	not necessarily incompetent 800
evidence of animus . 188a.
meaning of word in action for 621	M-
opinion to prove innuendoes of 400	Magistrate-
proof that, referred to plaintiff . 328	called as witness 805-807
Licensee-	confession in presence of, while in estoppel of 749n , 787, 794, 797	police custody ., 265-267
Lien-	included in Court 107
document withheld on ground of 825	information received by, as to resistance of subpana on ground	offence
of 485	Mahomedan Law-
Life-	presumptions 728, 729
love of: presumption 682	Maintenance-
onus 665, 681, 682	cases, corroboration 835, 836
Limitation-	-11
acknowledgment extending . 565	Malice- fact showing 197, 199, 201
acknowledgment extending	733
dence 482	proof of
in suits for possession 693	Tt. M. J. ma manager tion —
onus . 665—667, 676
	Look of power in Case of the 1997.
Lis mota- conditions as to, do not apply to	s stalian
ludgments 384	t d-fendant 11
meaning of 319	07118
statements as to relationship made	suit for: admissibility of judgment 183
before 325	35
	of icint Hundu family, admission by
Lis pendens - See "Judgment"	alienation
Literary Society -	cannot revive documents of 353	harred debt
	227, 227#
Literature— matters of: reference to 443, 448	loan contracted by pre-
Lithograph-	sumption
a document 110	Map- 357
Lithography—	ancient 357
documents made by 472	certified copy of 109
Litigation-	document 357
information obtained for purpose	Government survey of 820-822	C Diamen man
presumptions relating to 744	made for purpose of comme
Local Custom -	order for possession 1
opinion as to 419, 419n	man
Local expressions-	nresumption as to 15
meaning of 690 693	proof of

	P.	OF.	Pat	07.
Nap well			Matter of opinion
imidiated engine by tensors in	155		distinguished from matter of fact :	308
sutbonts priesance of era	10		Sen ' Opinion "
ment in		31.3		852
statement in auto pulle or gene	- 1
tighte	125.	324	Matter required by law to be re- duced to form of document
tf sk		3(4)	eridence of 556-1	285
Marginal notes - of Act		tot	samaner of 571—f	~~~
01 A11		1112	Maxima~
Marine Course-			application	26
Act applicable to		ş44 ,	as to human conduct	20
Mark			judicial, simpler than scientific	27
		50%	i company	26
ig attesting witness	414.			20
on document, operion as to		498		/23 proof of		4.45	'A negative is inexpible of Market value-				150
meaning of		4(1)	letter that ten guilty men on ' l'alar			should escape than that one
Markman-			innocent man should auffer" 110	30.
See " Wark "			Contemporanea expositio est op-
Marriage-				556
birthduring, proof of legitimacy	691-	704	Cuslibet in acte qua credendum est 3	197
breach of promue, damages		100	Debitar non proroumitur donnre 7	34 certificate of, from India Office	. ′	354	Ei incumbit probatio qui dicit, non 507~		диз недаt 6	129
communications during	AU1-	613	Faletur facinus qui judicium fugit 143	Зn.
desolution of earlier, onus		:O#		89
entry of, in India	• ,		Frusten probatur quod probatum evidence that person unmatti				25
presumption as to continua		10-	Habemus optimum testem confilen-
of state	•••	12n.		019
general reputation as to	• •	424	In judicio non creditor nini jura.
Mahommedan law ,	٠	728		128
of member of family	•	321	Interest rei publicce ut ait finis liti-	20 opinion not sufficient to prove	421-			75 presumed		699	Nemo debet his puniri pro uno
presumption in favour of	••	726		75
presumptions relating to	730,		Nemo debet bis vexari pra una ead-
proof of	424.			74
shown by conduct	• •	324	Nemo moriturus prasumitur men-	•••
shown by repute		325		94
Matrimonial Jurisdiction-				25
judgment in	376.	380	Nihîl tam convenient est naturali	20
Matrimonial proceeding -			cequitati quam unum quodque dis-
competency of witness		993		99
Matter of fact-			Odiora et inhonesta non sunt in lege	.,, admission receivable to prove		215		26
definition of		108	Omnia præsumuntur contra spolia.
distinguished from matter	ol			18
		398	Omnia præsumuntur rite esse	••• opinion	••	852	aeta, 203, 522, 523, 524, 526, 536,
	•		543, 713, 736, 7
Matter of law-		216	Omnis consensus tollit errorem 129
admission receivable to prove		108		43
meaning of		229		00
party not bound by admission	1 011		pros demonstrant

PAGE.	Page
Maxims-const.	Mind-
Per rerum naturum fuctum negantis	admission as to existence of state
probatio nulla est 630	of 242, 245
Potior est conditio defendentis . 629	fact showing state of 187, 194, 201
Ponderantur testes non numerantur 830n.	Minor-
Que facit per alsum facit per se 221	admits to 1
Qui sentit commodum sentire debet	admission by guardian of 230, 231
el onus 783	admission by guardian of liter and Qui tacet consentire videtur . 148
Quod ex facto pritur ambiguna reri-
ficatione facts tollitur 610	acquiescence of, after majority 774, 774n.
Quod per recordum probatum, non	burden of proof of minority 668
debet esse negatum 389	death of : cessation of representa-
Res inter alsos judicata nullum inter	tion
alios prejudicium facit 385	falsely representing himself to be
Res enter alros acta vel radienta altere	of age 758-760
nacere nan debet 370, 385	hability for tort 759
Res upsa loquitur . 727	uature of certificate of guardian-
Reus excipiendo fit actor 630	ship of 331
Fox audita perit, litera scripta	obligation to restore 750 power of guardian 230, 231 telief against fraud of 759
'May presume'~	Minority-
meaning of 119	plea of: onus 640
Meaning-	Mistake-
of words 620-625	admission founded on 202
Measurement baners-	examination of witness by 855, 862 prepared by butwars amin 315	evidence to show 572, 595, 599
Mechanic-	Mitigation-
	character 434
•	of damages 434
Mechanical agencies~
evidence of similar facts admis-	Money Order Offices-
stble 137	COURS OF TO
Medical certificate~	Moral certainty~ .
inadmissibility of 413n.	meaning of
•	question of prudence and not of
Medical man-	calculation
opinion of 405, 405n.	Moral conviction-
post-moriem examination by 412	does not exclude departure from
Memory refreshing-	rules of evidence
See "Refreshing Memory."	Mortgage-
Mental condition-	apparent deen of said ready " non cold declarations as evidence of 146 person may testify to his own 400	hurden of probl
proof of 193	document apparently conveyance 579
Mental disease-	but really
evidence as to 136	estoppel against mortgaget
Mental feeling-	estoppel in case of complaint, evidence of 140a.	extinction of: prespination proof of 196	liability of fraudulent minor to de-proof of	cree for sale mortgagee permitting property to ne soid : estopped
Mesne profits-	mortgagor acknowledging 1776a.
onns 640	of mortgage-money

Pagr.	Pagr
Mortgage-wald.	Negotiable instrument-
presumption: keeping alive prior 744	admission by assignor 236
property held in; production of	estoppel in case of . 795
document 822	miscarrage of notice sent by post 207n.
Mortgagee -	notice of disbonour 198n.
accounts of: income-tax papers	presumption as to 710, 738, 796
inadmissible in favour of 244	Newspaper-
acknowledgment barring limita-	presumption as to 446, 529, 530
tion 231	publication in fixing party with purchase by, at sale in execution 239	notice 198
Motive-	Next friend-
absence of 142	admission of 234
adequacy of	Non-production-
admissibility of similar facts to	of documents; inference 715, 716
prove 138n	Notary public-affecting probabilities 141n.
evidence of 138, 140-142	certificate of 517, 521
for parting with goods ; false pre-	- credit given to 539
tences	foreign 539
judgment showing 183	in King's dominions 539 meaning of 140	power-of-attorney executed be-
proof of
•	protest 503 seal of . judicial notice . 443, 447
Municipalityrecord of proceedings, public docu-	Not commonly intelligible characters— evidence as to 620, 622
Municipal—	"Not proved "
The second secon	meaning of 113
	Notice-
Mural tablet-	constructive 198
accounting evidence of	from registration 198n. imputed 198 statement on 320
N.	onus of showing 668 proof of 197—199
Naming-	statutory definition of 198
register of 354	through gazettes 363, 364
Native Christian-	to admit document 440
usages 645	to admit fact . 440, 441, 453
Native State-	Notice to produce-police officer of : confession 263, 267	contents of 496
Natural Law-	Court may dispense with 498
presumptions as to	document 479, 485, 486, 494-498
Navy-	document not produced after 908
-titlete, of war in-	document not produced after,
Negative- incapable of proof . 629, 630	presumption 543, 544
party stating : burden of proof. 630	inspection of document produced 498
proof of 679	refusal to produce 496
when necessary to prove 629, 630	required in case of adversary 495
Negligence -	document, when given 839
accident raising presumption of 727	when not required 194, 497
contributory : evidence of 160n.	Notification—
estoppel by 765, 766, 778
fact showing 187, 191n 201	Notoriety-
not to be presumed 726	of fact supporting inference of onts 673	knowledge 199

Pag	E. PAGE.
Number-	Opinion-coat l.
excessive, of witnesses 84
of witnesses 835—83
0.	of, when relevant 424, 425
Oath-	" of admissibility of 397
evidence of : use of deposition in	in relationship 144
former trial 33	matter of, distinguished from mat-rxamination of witness on 621 judicial; nature of: history of	of banker 405 amport- now 401
legislation 628, 800, 801	" experts omission to administer . 801
Objection -	" expert in treatise 463, 467, 468
erroneous omission to take, does	" expert upon another 404n.
not make evidence admissible 245, 846	" farmers and agriculturists 405
	meenames, artizant, workmen
	" scientific men 405
to evidence by Court 126, 127, 847, 914	" shop-keepei 405
" evidence by parties . 129	., skilled witnesses when admis-
" evidence. effect of absence of 488	91ble 398
,, evidence form of 850	,, third persons when relevant 397-401
when should be made . 850
withdrawal of 129
Observation-	in a second tighter and the second 1 t t
	" finger-impressions 401-409
Obsolete expressions—	" handwriting 401, 406—408,
meaning of 520, 623	413, 417
Occasion -	" relationship 421—424
fact the, of fact in issue or rele-	" science proof of right and custom 183
134	to prove character 400
Occupation-	drunkenness 400
of member of family . 321	innuendoes of libel 400
showing identity 149, 150
Offence
information as to commission of 810, 811	100
	400
Official Communication -	to prove varue
privîleged 809, 810	statement of; estoppel 780-781
Omission -	Opportunity-
estoppel by . 756, 763—784
Onus probandi-	evidence of
See "Burden of Proof."	Oral agreement-distinct subsequent 572, 599-601
Opening-	exclusion of evidence of 571-608
of case by counsel 455	existence of separate 572, 596, 597-599
Opinion-
admissible independently of its	Oral evidence-
COFFEE PAGE AN AND A	admission as to contents of docundmission consisting of	110000
as to existence of general right exclusion of, by documentary evi-identity .	20,100
	facts to be proved by includes in case of dumb witness
" usages, tenets, etc. 419-421	writing and signs evidence must be direct 463 grounds of 397	must be direct 438, 458, 463-463

of deposition in immers that it is a statement content of decuments of decuments and the statement of the statement o	239 762 683 124 669 744
of deposition in former trial 331 or after dissolution	762 683 124 669 744
of deposition in immers that it is a statement content of decuments of decuments and the statement of the statement o	762 683 124 669 744
a irregularly recorded confession 177, 178 of statements concerning contents of documents proof of facts by 462, 463 to prove boundary 379 value of 479—101 what facts may be proved by 458 when not excluded by document 577 when not excluded by document 577 selection of contents of c	683 124 669 744 of statements concerning contents of documents proof of facts by to prove boundars value of value of value of value of value the proved by value facts may be pro	124 669 744 of decuments 808 peoof of facts by 462, 463 to prove boundary 379 value of 479-401 what facts may be proved by 458 when not excluded by document 557 entiting and the provided by part of the provided by document 557  The provided by the provided by the provided by part of the provided by the provided	124 669 744
period of facts by 462, 463 hability of members of to prove boundary 37% close of 45%—101 presumption	124 669 744
to prove boundars 3.50m onus value of 459—101 presumption proof of, by parol evidence 501, what facts may be proved by 458 proof of, by parol evidence 501, when not excluded by document 557 relation of conus	669 744
value of 459-461 presumption	744
what facts may be proved by 458 proof of, by parol evidence 561, when not excluded by document 557 relation of conus when not excluded by document 557 relation of; onus 683
	000
relating to matter of a public na doctrine of 551,	583
ture 187 Party
when relevant 369-396 admission by	222
See "Judgment" character 426,	433
Ownership- nominal	234
act of 325, 360m . 384m to civil suit : witness 803,	804 acts of, showing title 159 Patent-787
b-slee of proof as to 694—691
Patent ambiguity party: estoppel 770 See "Ambiguity."
presumption of, where road boun- admission by	35n.
presumption of an array dary Payment—	776
proof of	 788
intance processing and the contract of the con
748—755	144
from what it sprang matters of	320 modern sense of term
from what it Apranic	20n.
from what it aprang	20n.
from what it aprais:	20n.
from what it apraig 749 moders sense of term 749 modes in which estoppel in, anse 765 Panchayst- report of, as evidence of pedigree 320# report of, as evidence of pedigree 320# Pardon- Pandon- Pando	20n.
from what it sprain	20n.
from what it apraise	20n. 320
from what it sprain	20n. 320 676
from what it sprain	20n. 320
from what it sprain	20n. 320 676 825
from what it sprain	20n. 320 676 825
from what it apraise	20n. 320 676 825
from what it sprain	20n. 320 676 825
from what it sprain	20n. 320 676 825 272
from what it sprain modern sense of term	20n. 320 676 825 272 from what it sprain modern sense of term . 749 moders in which estoppel in are . 765 modes in which estoppel in are . 765 paralexidence of control of pauchayet as evidence of satement in family . 298.  Penal Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of  Penalty— answer exposing witness to	20n. 320 676 825 272 from what it sprain maders so matters of moders ease of term 749 moders in which estoppel in ares 765 Panchayset report of, as evidence of pedigree 320n report of, as evidence of evidence given in hope of 828, 829 Paront—evidence of, to prove non-access 704 Parliament—meaning of word 442, 443 more edigree of the proceedings of: judicial notice 422, 446 Parol evidence—See "Onl Evidence." Partition—See "Onl Evidence." Partition—see 178, 749 estoppel by 748, 749 entry exposurement of 740 proof and we report of panchayet as evidence of the sate ment in family 298, 298, 299 bring of 298, 299, 299, 299, 299, 299, 299, 299,	20n. 320 676 825 272 462 837
from what it sprain maders so matters of moders ense of term 765 modes in which estoppel in are 765 report of, as evidence of pauchayet as evidence of satement in family . 298, Pardon-evidence given in hope of 828, 829 burden of proving case within exceptions of . Penalt Code-evidence of, to prove non-access 422, 445 proceedings of : judicial notice 422, 446 proce	20n. 320 676 825 272 462 837
from what it sprain maders so matters of moders sense of term 749 modes in which estoppel in are report of, as evidence of panchayet as evidence of panchayet as evidence of satement in family 298, Paront—evidence of, to prove non-access relationship of paront—evidence of, to prove non-access relationship of paront—evidence of, to prove non-access relationship of proventions of Penalty—arware exposing witness to answer exposing witness to Penalty—no presumption of provention for corroboration 836, and comment indeptification by 150m, 20 opinion as to execution of to identify partly named in public	20n. 320 676 825 272 462 837 110
from what it sprain maders so matters of moders sense of term 749 moders in which estoppel in arrect report of, as evidence of pedigree 320n report of, as evidence of pedigree 320n report of, as evidence of the statement in family 298, Pardon—evidence given in hope of 828, 829 bruden of proving case within exceptions of 298, Parall Code—bruden of 298, Parall Code—bruden of 298, Parall Code—bruden o	20n. 320 676 825 272 462 837 110
from what it sprain maders so matters of moders ense of term 765 modes in which estoppel in are 765 report of, as evidence of pedicre 3208 report of, as evidence of pedicre 298, 829 report of, as evidence of 828, 829 burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- burden of proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within exceptions of . 9 real Code- proving case within ex	20n. 320 676 825 272 462 837 110 19n. 399

INDEX.

PAGE,	Pioe
Photography-	Police-costs
copy made by comparison 508, 509	reports, diaries and statements
document made by 472, 473, 476	made before 262n
value of, 508, 509	statements made to officer while
Physical agencies -	investigating case 262n
evidence of similar facts admis-	undue influence by, to procure stble 136
atate •• 130	confession 256, 257, 258, 262,267
Physical condition~	Police officer-
declarations as evidence of . 146	collecting number of statements:
person may testify to his own 399	evidence of 328
Physical Science-	diary of 871
advantage of inquiries of, over	examination by incriminating
judicial . 26	question 827
object of 24	information received by, as to of-
Place-	fence 810, 811
	meaning of 263, 264
	See "Police"
Plan-	report made by, not public docu-
a document 110	ment 515
admission in 213	restraint : complainant witness 639
made for purpose of cause 537, 542	statements made to, during in-not public document 514	restigation 565
relevancy of statement in 356-363	statement of witness to, not public presumption as to . 53%, 542	record
Pleader-	witness sent by 744
admission by 229, 230
cannot disclose professional com-	Polygarmunication . 811, 512	position of : compared with man-compromise of suit by 456	ager of Hindu family 2270.
podicial notice . 443, 447	Portrait-proof of admission made to . 247	family 298, 319
right of accused to be defended by 842	Possession~
Pleading-	admissibility of statement that ndinission in 213n, 215, 441, 453, 455, 456	offrerse name (600)
estoppel by 453n., 748	ancient 320.
•	as proof of ownership
Plea of guilty -	decrees evidence of 178
effect of 458	evidence to show character of 172
evidence of admission 388n.	evidence of : ancient document . 169n
Pledge -	359, 686, 704, 740
property held in: production of	hmitations in suits for 693, 694 document 822	modern
Police-	not necessarily same as user
admissions made to 264, 265
admissions obtained by questions	piner evidence or, than juice
by 278n.	part, by tenant confession made while in custody
of265—267	possessory suit under Specific Re-confession to, cannot be proved 262-265	tief Act custody : confession : information	presumption as to continuence of leading to discovery 267-275
	presumptive evidence of paints.
diary : how much of, accused may	ship 743
	presumptive evidence of paner. 695

PAGE.	PAGE.
Possession costd	Presumption-mail
when force does not interrupt 600	as to common course of business 705, whether Bergal Land Registration	705n , 714
registers exidence of 353	consideration for bill 708, 710
Post-mortem Examination	continuance 682, 706, 720
by medical man 411, 800	., ., date or arrival of letter 207n.
Postmark-	, delivery of telegram 207
evidence of date of despatch 207	documents 423, 424, 738
on letter evidence that letter in	., ,, produced as re-
post 207	cord of evidence
•	424120
Post Office-	, admissible in course of business of 715	England or Irepresumption as to posting 739	land without Post Office Savings Banks	proof of scal or
books of 315n.	signature 530-536
Power-of Attorney-	thirty years old
certified copy of 193	544530
declaration as to execution of 534-536	due execution 612
execution of 539, 540	of document
meaning of 539	called for and
presumption as to . 538-540	not produced
registered 539, 540	543-544
Power of man-	,, ,, performance of judicial
to speak truth, on what it depends 32	and official acts 706
to speak tracin on man in an in-	" " encroachment 741
Preamble~ of Indian Evidence Act 99, 100	" " evidence withheld 707
Indian Editorium term	" extinction of mortgage 743
Pre-emption-	" facts likely to have happened 705-745
Preparation-	" " within special means evidence of 138, 140-149	of knowledge 735
Presence-	,, filation, 699
statement made in party's 208	" " foreign judgment 365
Press copy-	,, fraud 199
of document 473, 475	,, ,, gazettes 529, 530
Presumption-	genuineness of certified
affecting burden of proof 120n., 197	copy 523, 524
afforded by public record 352	of law-books 365
arising from conduct 143, 735	, giving and recording evi-
arising from possession . 684,-688	dence 741
as to accomplice 706, 710	,, ,, good faith 694
adoption of usual course of	" " grant being permanent 742
business 738	" " guilt 728
,, ,, apparent ownership 636	" " not accounting for pro-
, , bename transaction 740, 741	perty 187n
, bill of exchange 706	,, ,, holding of land 741-744
., , books of reference 542	" " innocence 117n., 643, 708,
., ,, business (common course	724, 727, 728
of) 706. 714	jointness 637
, , certified copy of foreign	, iurisdiction . 713, 714
judicial record 540-542	" " knowledge from access to
, ,, charts 542	document 197
collection of Laws and Re-	,, ,, constructive ports 538	notice 199

IAGA.	Page.
Photography-	Police-contd.
copy made by comparison 508, 509	reports, diaries and statements
document made by 472, 473, 476	made before 262n
value of 508, 509	statements made to officer while
Physical agencies -	investigating case 282n
evidence of similar facts admis-	undue influence by, to procure confession 256, 257, 258, 262,267
sible 136	contession 250, 257, 255, 262,201
Physical condition-	Police officer—
declarations as evidence of 146	collecting number of statements:
person may testify to his own 399	evidence of 328
Physical Science-	duary of 871
advantage of inquiries of, over	examination by: incriminating
judicial 26	question 827
object of 24	information received by, as to of-
Place-	fence 810, 811
	meaning of 263, 264
admissibility of evidence as to 150	See "Police."
Plan-	report made by, not public docu-
a document 110	ment 515
admission in . 213	restraint : complainant witness 839
made for purpose of cause 537, 542	statements made to, during in-not public document , 514	663
relevancy of statement in 356-363	vestigation
presumption as to . 536, 542	statement of witness to, not public Pleader-
admission by 229, 230	witness sent by 744
	Polygar-
cannot disclose professional com-	position of compared with man-
munication . 811, 812	ager of Hindu family 227s compromise of suit by . 456 judicial notice 443, 447	Portrait-family 298, 319
proof of admission made to 247	•
right of accused to be defended by 842	Possession-
Pleading-	admissibility of statement that admission in 213n., 215, 441, 453,	party in 455, 456	adverse, onus
estoppel by . 453n , 748
Plea of guilty-	as proof of ownership effect of 456	decrees, evidence of evidence of admission evidence of ancient document 160a
Pledge-	evidence of title 358, 686, 708, 740 property held in : production of	inditations to suite to:
document 822
Police-	not necessarily same as use:
admissions made to 264, 265
admissions obtained by questions	other evidence of, than part end
by	part, by tenant 687
confession made while in custody
of 265—267	possessory suit under Specific Re-confession to, cannot be proved 262—265
custody: confession: information	presumption as to continuence of 711
leading to discovery 267-275	presumptive evidence of bunch 685
diary : how much of, accused may	ship 747
see, 368	prevails until title shown deing declaration made to 318	survey many as evidence of Pagr.	Page.

Possession med	Presumption-mxtd
when force does not interrupt 600 whether Beneal Land Registration	as to common course of business 703, consideration for bill 706, 710
The second secon	, continuance . 682, 706, 720
Post-mortem Examination	1 41 007
by medical man 411, 500
Postmark-
exidence of date of despatch 207	., ., documents ., 423, 424, 738 on letter : exidence that letter in	" " broduced as report 207	cord of evidence
Post Office~	admissible in
course of business of 715	England or Irepresumption as to posting 739
Post Office Bavings Banks	land without books of . 7457.	proof of seal or signature 630-536
Power of Attorney	., ., thirty years old
certified copy of 493	544550
declaration as to execution of 571-536	., ., due execution 642
execution of 539, 540	" of document
meaning of . 539	called for and
presumption as to . 538-540	not produced
registered . 539, 540	543544
Power of man-	, performance of judicial
to speak truth, on what it depends 32	and official acts 706
Preamble-	" "encroachment 741
of Indian Evidence Act 99, 100	evidence withheld 707
Pre-emption-	extinction of mortgage 743
onus	,, ,, facts likely to have
Preparation-	happened . 705-745
evidence of 138, 140—149	, within special means of knowledge 735
Presence-	filiation, 699
statement made in party's 208	., , foreign judgment . 365
Press copy-	,, ,, fraud 199
of document 473, 475	., , gazettes 529, 530
Presumption-	", " genuineness of certified
affecting burden of proof 120n., 197	copy 523, 524
afforded by public record 352	,, ,, of law-books 365
ansing from conduct 143, 735	, giving and recording evi-
arising from possession . 684,-688	dence 741
as to accomplice 705, 719	., ,, good faith 694
" , adoption of usual course of	" " grant being permanent 742
business 738	,, ,, guilt 728
, apparent ownership . 636	,, ,, not accounting for pro-
" benami transaction 740, 741	perty 187n. holding of land 741—744
, bill of exchange 706
, ,, books of reference 542	., ,, innocence 117n., 643, 708,
business (common course	724, 727, 728
of) 706. 714	., ,, jointness 637
, certified copy of foreign	,, ,, jurisdiction 713, 714
judicial record 540-542	,, knowledge from access to
, , , charts	document 19
collection of Laws and Re-	,, ,, ,, constructive

Page.	Page.
Presumption-coatd.	Presumption—concld,
as to knowledge of contents of do-	none that director knows contents
cument 734	of books of company 197-198
" " Law 121, 725n.	of fact 120
., ,, letter having been properly	" Law 119
addressed 207n.	physical 731
" , sent to post	psychological 732
office . 207	rebutted by contrary 727
" " life and death 681, 682	rebuttable ., 119, 120
" " litigation, procedure 744	strength of various kinds of 724
., ., love of life (against suicide) 683n,	under Hindu Law 721-724
., мар	under Mahommedan Law 728
., " татнаде 699	Previous attempts -
, mortgage 744	evidence of 143
., ., negotiable instruments 738, 795	Previous conviction-
" " partnership 744	mode of proving 875n.
party having had oppor-	where relevant 187, 202, 430, 431, 432
tunity of cross-examin-	Previous statement~
ation . 336, 337	m writing; cross-examination
,, ,, ,, not making statement	as to 869-872
against his interest un-	inconsistent with evidence used to
less true , . 250	corroborate witness 894
,, ,, payments 710, 744	use of 332, 333
., ., permanent tenancy 743	use of, as admission 332
" " person acting according to	use of, to corroborate witness 332
his interest 735	use of, to discredit witness 332
" " knowing what he does 735	use of, as evidence-in-chief 332
,, on point of death	Price-
speaking truly 294	market 400
,, ,, powers-of-attorney 538, 539	See " l'alue."
private Acts 529	Primary evidence-
, ,	applicable to documents only 463 meaning by 13, 113, 472, 474
., regularity of course of busi- ness 205, 205n	proof of 472, 478
1	Principal-
,, ,, ,, judiciai proceed- ings 713, 736	acknowledgment of debt 234, 234,
- Con and - La - Con mor	and agent: relationship onus 683, 684
non of demand	and surety: admission
tions 330.—332	Continuance of Iciarion!
" ,, religion 745	estoppel against
., ., Reports (law) 538	estopper in involution
., , telegraphic message 542	of estimating probability29—30
,, ,, theft . 706, 708
., ., trade custom 734	document in 472, 475
, truth of what party admits 216	Private document- 510 conclusive 119	meaning of conflicting . 713, 728	Privilege-different kinds of . 177, 178	distinguished from mecompetency 600 communication during marriage 607-609 distinguished from estoppel 79,746	evidence as to affairs of state 809-810 in case of possession 744	evidence as to analy of state of
in criminal cases 117n.
meaning and history of the word 79 none from refusal to submit to arbi-	Otherico
tration	of Counsel against heing cannot be got's witness

	1	*101	Pag	E,
Privilege	•		Production-mail
of Judges and Magistrates	ķ194.	507	of document which another per-of witnesse from and or prose	v II		Man tradition of the Property	122
tion		540	of rentence effect of 627-6
official communication	5177	810		114 production of documents sub-	rect		of title deeds of witness not party 8	122
of	822	- 525	Professional-
biolessional communications		-812	communications 811-8	22 professional not waited by to			Promissory Note~ feeling conjence	813	816	See " Negotiable Instrument."
			*
Privity	233	510	Proof-
admissions in respect of		2350	admission dispensing with, in ori-
meaning of		782		156
necessity for estapped		,	admission made for purpose of dis-
Privy-		235%	pensing with 229,
meaning of	•	-OUN.	In documentary evidence 469-
See " Printy			by oral evidence 457-
Privy Council-		317	try priorite transition	352
orders of regulations of prosi	٠	217	by secondary evidence 479-
Prize-				119
cause: judgment of Admi	ralts		canclusive of legitimacy 694-
Court in	3.	8, 381	considered generally 437-
Probability-				746
affected by question of moti	v C	141n		629
facts showing	15	160		539
identity with Mill's theory		31		115
in favour of transaction		459	III CIAMMA	117
informance from cases of ser	arate			113 independent and convergin	ι.	35, 45	no particular number of witnesses	~~~ of rese - number of witnesses		991	required 835-	83, of truth of testimony .	114	. 1144	none required where facts admitted
of statement
preponderance of			of custom 183-186, document required to be at-	411
principle of estimating		29		800
Probate-			tested 501- ,, dying declaration 304, andement	37	7379
effect of		. 379n.	" execution	001
, of Court refusing	٠.	380	t at a fact	845
Assession to refuse		380	1 L
of will	516, 5	57, 566	, foreign and colonial lan	365
undn application for, only qu	estion	1	11.
is factum of will, not title		. 380n.	" marriage	424
			" mental condition	193
Procedure burden of proof		539, B40	ownership:	186
presumptions relating to		. 744	previous conviction or acquittal 3	75n
			" public document 510, 51	1.
Proclamations~		. 517		-521
of Sovereign : proof	•		relevant facts	15
Production-		909	. signature 498,	499
Judge's power to order	•		- mendantion of	15
	٠		of right 183-186
of document 838.	901,	865	summary of rules with regard to cross-examina	(10n	0.56		441

Proper custody	1406
meaning of 545, 548-55	Public officer-Propositions-document forming act of 512, 513 9 judicial notice 443, 447 what are true, and how framed	,
Prosecution- burden of proof on 64 burden of proof on	3 presumed to do duty, 726 presumption as to acts of 713, 714 duty of, to produce all available
•
statement exposing party to 29
	Public record~
Prosecutor-	absence of entry in 352
admission by 212, 222—242 character of 426, 43	Designa arena aregineration aregister too manage,
erminal trials proceeding between, and accused	death and burial registers 354
	Concetts a book
duty of, in calling evidence 64: King is, in all criminal proceed-	detay and megoming in making ings 338-339	documents held admissible or person should not be judge and 806, 807
· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	facts of which, is evidence 352-356 Prosecutrix -
immoral character of 885	meaning or paons securious to Protest_	no estoppel before notary public 599
Proved-	proof by
how much of statement is to be 367	proof of incidental particulars 355
meaning of 113	,, ,, identity of parties named
Provincial expressions-	m 355, 256
meaning of . 622	relevancy of entry in 348-356
Proviso-	reports of public officers 351
meaning of 634	statement to police-officer not 351
Public-	Public servant-
interest, statements as to matter of	census officer 349
See " Statements as to matters of	definition of 349
Public and General Interest."	entry made by 348
book, entry in 348-356	See " Public Record"
See " Public Record "	manager of Court of Wards 349#
Public document—	registering officer . 340,
considered generally 510-512	registrar of births and deaths 349
deposition, report by police-officer 514	Purdanashin-
entries in 340-348	exemption from attendance 839
inspection of 510	statements filed in Court in name meaning of . 349,350, 510, 512	of municipal proceedings 515, 517, 517n.	transaction with 607, 698 plaint, written statements are not,	• judgments and decrees are 514, 515	Q
proof of 471, 510, 512, 520, 521, 531	Quantity-proof of other official documents 517-523	of evidence public record of private document 518 secondary evidence of 492	Question-secondary evidence of 492 what is a 511, 512, 513, 516	пуроспечен Quinquennial—
why entitled to credit 340	papers

				1095
	Pes	r.
R		Refreshing memor	v	Page.
Rashness		by book of accour	1	344
facts showing existence of	18	has a come of other con-		365n.
Rasm wa Riwaj i khandan		expert .		398, 413
meaning of	16	in examination in-		872
	10	of Judge .		451, 452
Real evidence		reporter or shorthan	id wen	ter, notes
marks on ground	13	of evidence		332
meaning of	111 113	rules as to		895903
Rebuttal -		Refusal to answer-	,	05000000
etidence in 844 n	819, 850			706, 719
fact which reliate inference	3.45		•	100, 119
Recall-		public See "Publ
of witness			re zien	ord," 841
* " for cross examination	1 835	6	••	353
Receipt		booth	••	354
affecting onus	. 670	burial	••	354
for money, goods, security as	nd	death	• •	354
other property	298, 305	Ledication		354
nature of - not a release	223n	lands: village	••	354
not conclusive	776	патраде	••	355
oral evidence admissible notwith	h-	naming	••	354
	557, 570	public . certified cor	•••	354
Receiving stolen goods-		Registration -	y	517
	08709	Act : certified copy u
Recital-		copies given un	gan mast	492
as affecting burden of proof .		document madmissibl	e for i	355
	. 670	evidence of subseques	t oral	want of 488
	173, 776 363, 366	ment		572, 599, 600
	ms, son	not proof of exce	sition.
Records-		notice of title	orion	447
estoppel by	146, 747	of document containing	og adr	71 / (1)
See " Public Records."				213, 214
Record of Court-		officer public servant		348, 349
obtaining copy of	518	operating as notice		1982
Record of evidence-		priority		743 in indicial proceeding	523	proof of presumption as to what is 52	4529	want of; secondary ev	idence	560
proof of identity of party giving		Regularity-		- 500
evidence	529	presumption		708, 713
taken in accordance with law	525	Rejection-		, ,
		of evidence		627, 628
Re crimination- when allowed 80	20.002	Relation of parties-
	90, 891	evidence as to		149
Re-examination-		Relationship-as to conversation cross-examined		by blood, marriage, ad	option	298, 319
to	368			-325
direction of	848	opinion on		344 401
	862	dunt , expressed	by	con.
	9, 862	4400	- 40	1. 421-424
ruies as to Sig	862
Referee-		"See Statements as to Relative	Relatio	nekip."
admission by	211	statement by
			•	. 322

Page	PAGE.
Relevancy-	Relevency-coald.
and mode of proof : distinction 43;
definition of 123	or recta th lastic of lefevally racts 134
, obscurity of 39	,, 3 - and - cpaned 1, ,, 40
Judge may ask how question re-	" judgments 369—396
levant 845
illustrative cases on the subject	monial, admiralty, involvency
of 40—73
legal 123
limit of 28
logical 123	" motive, preparation and con-
meaning of 38	duct 138
mode of describing 39	" opinion 397—401
proof of 14	" as to handwriting 413-417
theory of 38, 123	" " as to usages, tenets,
of admission 242—246	etc 419-421
" " m civil cases 247—219	" " on relationship 421—424
" books of account 341-347	,, oral admissions as to contents
" certain evidence for proving, in	of documents 246-247
subsequent proceeding the truth	" statements as to fact of public of facts therein stated 328-339	nature in Acts and Notifica-
" character 426-436	tions 363—367
, confession caused by induce-	" statements in law-books 365, 376
ment; irrelevant 249-261	" statements in maps, charts and
" confession made under promise	plans 356—363
of secrecy, etc 265, 266	Relevant-
" ,, to be determined by	means admissible 341n
Court not jury 236
" entry in public record 348-356	Relevant fact
" existence of course of business	evidence may be given of 125
205—207	Religion-
" existence of judgment, order, de-	belief as to, not required in wit-
cree 384—389	ness 800-801
" fact constituting state of things	presumption as to 740
under which facts in issue or	tenets of 421
relevant facts happened . 132
,, fact depending upon proof of other fact 845	Religious foundation— constitution and government of 419—121
other fact 845 ,, fact forming part of same trans-	constitution and government of setion 132	Remaindermanjudgment for or against 336#
,, fact necessary to explain or in- troduce relevant facts 149
troduce relevant facts 149 , fact not previously dealt with	Rent- enhancement of 671
as relevant 155	140
, fact showing amount of dam-	t to 1 mention of
age ., 160	free land
,, fact showing accident or inten-	payment of, by mistake
tion 203	payment of: presumption
" fact showing conspiracy 153
, fact showing existence of state	of enactments by Act 106
of mind or body or bodily feel-	Of Chartelling of
ing 187—202	Reply-
, fact stated by persons not wit.	evidence in ne-se< 293—328	speech in

Report- admissible as hearray evidence of reputed possession		PAGE			Page.
admissible as hearasy evidence of reputed possection (538) Indian Law (445) Law presumption (538) Indian Law (445) Law presumption (538) Indian Company (538) Of sport admissibility of (538) Of sport admissibility of (538) Of sport admissibility of (538) Impector company (534) Impector of company (534) I	Report-	, , ,			1'AUE
reputed posession Indian Law Law presumption of agent admissibility of of agent admissibility of affector, confidential police police public officer; of what evidence surveyor to corporation  Reporter note of evidence by note of evidence by store of evidence at to marriage at to prove instally polyment at to general cast a figure of the and to marriage at public nature  provents of relevant facts at public and general at the provent facts and private facts appeared of marriage at the provent facts at t	admissible as hearsay evid	lence of		4	660
Law presumption (338 of agent admissibility of 200 director, confidential 200 registers also for arreary of acreamy 351 impector of company 351 police (350 police) and protector of company 352 police (350 police) and protector of company 352 police (350 police) and protector of a surveyor to corporation 252 formation received by, as to al. fence (350 police (350 police) and generation of a surveyor to corporation 252 formation as to police and generation as to police and generation as to private protect (350 police) and generation as to private (350 police) and generation as to private private (350 police) and generation as to private (350 police) and generation	reputed possession	688	Retracted confersion
Law presumption of agent admissibility of agent admissibility of agent admissibility of admission registers and agent ag	Indian Law	445			211 219 950 of agent admissibility of director condential 200 and creator condential 201 and provided in the petition of company 354 and provided in the petition of company 354 and provided in the petition of the public officer; of what evidence 352 and purely children and provided in the petition of the petition	Law · presumption	. 538	•		, , , . , . , . , director condential impertor of company 354 poble poble officer: of what evidence 255 public officer: of what evidence 255 public officer: of what evidence 255 public officer: of what evidence 255 Reporter— note of eradence by 325 Representative in interest— treaning of 326 Representative in interest— treaning of 327 Representative in interest— at to marriage 424 treated 425 public officer of 425 treated 426 to private right 315 indenicable to prove instairty 499 polyments relating to matter of 327 public relating to matter of 327 treated 427 treated 428 treated 429 treated 4	of agent · admi*sibility of				251
mispector of company 354 police 2007 public officer: of what evidence 352 public officer: of what evidence 352 neutreyor to corporation 253 Reporter— note of evidence by 352 Representative in interest— maining of 354 Representative in interest— maining of 355 Representative in interest— maining of 356 Representative in interest— maining of 357  as to marriage 356 public of 153 public of right and custom 357 public of right and custom 358 public interest state sight 318 public of right and custom 358 public nature 359 public of vidence 359 public nature 359 public of vidence 359 public of vidence 359 public nature 359 public of vidence 359 public of v public officer: of what evidence surveyor to corporation Reporter- note of evidence by note of evidence by Reporter- note of e surreyro to corporation surreyro to corporation Reporter— note of eradence by			-	••	"""
Reportery note of evidence by note of evidence by Expresentative in interest— Examing of 245  Representation— as to marriage 254  as prize right and custom 255  private right and custom 255  as public nature 255  as public nature 257  definition of growth 257  for evidence of growth 257  for evidence of growth 257  as public nature 257  for evidence of growth 257  as public nature 257  for evidence of growth 257  as public nature 257  for evidence of growth 257  as public nature 257  for evidence of growth 257  as public nature 257  for evidence of growth 257  as public nature 257  for evidence of growth 257  as public nature 257  for evidence of growth 257  as public nature 257  for evidence of growth 257  as public nature 257  for evidence of growth 257  as public nature 257  for evidence of growth 257  for evidence of g	., public officer : of what e
Representative in interest— maining of the state of the s	surveyor to corporation	226
Representative in interest— treating of the continue of the co	Reporter-			••	010, 011
Representative in interest treating of statement of state	note of evidence by	332
Reputation— as to marriage  as private right  as professor of right and curtom  as private right  as private  as p	Representative in interest	_		20	712
restations of 432,435 riveral	meaning of	215
as to marriage 424 discovered person as to private 215 contract of right and custom 225 in proof of right and custom 225 in proof of right and custom 225 industrial to prove insuring 4 discovered person as to reserving 400 private right 215 priva	Reputation-
tractal  as to marriage  as to marriage  as to marriage  a private right  as to marriage  a private right  as professor of right and custom  private right  as private		324%
as to marriage 434 in proof of right and custom 225 indenies the top prove instally 499 jobranes relating to matter of 225 indenies relating to matter of 225 invariant of 215, 422 invariant of 215, 422 invariant of 225 invariant of	evidence of	432, 435		auss fore
as to marriage in proof of right and custom private right private opinion and administration private opinion and administration private opinion and administration private opinion and private private right private opinion and private private right private opinion and private private right private	general	435
inder of private right inclinated to prove insurity 499 judgments relating to matter of a public nature 252 menting of 215, 412–412, private opinion and adminish to private right; to matter of a public nature 252 menting of 215, 412–412, private opinion and adminish to private opinion and adminish to private opinion and adminish to private opinion and adminish private criticans of ground 215 menting of mental and glaysiand	as to marriage	424
indiminile to prove instally 400 pictures of 102,401,415-419 pictures relating to matter of a public nature of a public nature of 102,401,415-419 pictures relating to matter of 102,401,415-419 pictures relating to matter of 102,402 pictures of 10	in proof of right and custo		binds of sent's on	en er per en l	3.0 461—265
inadiaselle to prove insuity 499 juliments relating to matter of a public nature 252 menting of 217, 422-422, 457 of winness 257 relations in 217, 422-422, 457 of winness 257 relations of provent	private right property relating to matter 2 22 proof of 182—188 prints or green, judgment spends of vitters at 12 proof of 182—188 prints or green, judgment spends of 182—188 prints or green, judgment spends of 182—189 prints or green, judgment spends of 182—189 prints or green, judgment spends or green, judgment spends or green, judgment spends or green, judgment or green,	instmissible to prove insur
a prile rates produced of the principle of 183—184 principle of 183—184 principle of 183—184 principle of 183—184 principle of the principle of 183—184 prin		ters of reacting of visites 1	a publicusture relevant as 12 217  Experiment of promit	meaning of 317.
restriction of general confidence of con
Personne of general control of the control of general control of gener		317	statement göröte er	rátion e
Est general for the property of the property o		ere.	prim	••	217-210
criterion of			etatement in doors	ors est	dist.
in your of mental and physical stramment on strain confidence in the strain of the str		man make	io incommine and	er e. 12	227-721
in speed of mental and girysinal according to the control of the c			Eingcondition and account of the control			siviement on		320 resulting of the control of the control of agency of age		775	Transference records—
de aprejutery and arrest designation and in the members of completery and arrest designation and in the members of completery and arrest designation and in the members designation and in the members designation and arrest designation are designation and for arrests of members designation and for arrests of arrests designation and for arrests of arrests designation and arrests of arrests designation are designated as a resulting a more designation and arrests of arrests designation are designated as a resulting a more designation are designated as a resulting and arrests of arrests designation are confession of the arrests of				eridens	e it
of completery principal and survey principal and survey silver-rim evidence and to be small founded with separate artimate part of survey plaining and statements accompanying and survey plaining and statements part of statements accompanying statements and statement statements of statements accompanying statements accompanying statements accompanying statements of statements accompanying statements statements accompanying s		are are printigal and surery  will corridor evidence and to be sure  founded with  espectate actions from the color of the color o solided with a second of the s		400.0	True-founded with separate amount from the part of pulling and the part of pulling and the part of pulling and the part of the part	wif wereing erifoner mit in	in nur-			200
espectate officer formating parts of a substantial matters of $65,500 visits accompanying and an applications accompanying and an applications are substantially as a substantial part of a substantial accompanying and a substantial accompanying acc		II	THE OF THE planing and 200 contents and 200 contents and 200 contents part of 200 c	esperate aring furning par	3 al			ser, set
Submitted part of the second part of the second production of the second part of the second production of the second part of th	elatementa amontpurying a	mil en -	what is the		KSt
Zentiamore presumption and a surface of the control	glaining sate
Presumption  The finding of the first and finding a more finding of the finding o		4IL.75.	£.
Per participated to the property of the constraint down an areality a street.  The artificiant of the property of the constraint down and for account of the constraint of the				-
for "I beforem" and the second of the second			अवस्थान केली की उन	ally a mo	ميسي
estapped for principle on which rate forces and investment of the control of the	Zer Incheste-	Strike Street	कुम्पूल principle on which rafte Sames!  Despondent on the principle of the princi				· market
Personal Control of reflector of provided the control of the contr	remarkation are artifety only from Animalially of evidence of the State of the	Proceedings		Trainguil : mm alimistics or positionism of	atmissfaller of evidence	- เก็			== e administration of	arana ar-sugardent	_ =====================================		7833148-or, the	atimistion or outlession of	_ ====	mings at Languages	~
7 *	W. EX				עע
	F -

¥
PAGE	Page,
Saulty- presumption 7 - 712, 732	Secondary evidence-contil.
Pro	when, may be given . 479-494
Schedule-	where certified copy admissible 480, 492 where communication in violation of Act 100
Science-
conclusions of : judicial notice 448	Seduction— damages in action for 160—161
general object of 17	•
great object of Physical 24	Self acquisition—matters of reference to 443, 448	Series— 651 fact forming part of : Intention or accident 203
Scientific instrument—	Settlement-presumption of regularity in case	burden of proof ,. 636
	"Shall presume'—
Scientific Society-	meaning of 119 document of :355	meaning or Scientific man-	Sheriff- Admission by debtor against 241 opinion of ., 405	additional by debter against Scientific expression—	admissions of under-sheriff or bailiff against 241a
meaning of 620
Seal-	Shopkeeper-
comparison of 506-509	opinion of,
documents admissible without	Shopman- admission by 227
proof of ., ., 530—536	1-0101001011 07
judicial notice of 536	Shorthand Writer-proof of 415, 498	notes of, as to what occurs av illai
of Courts and persons: judicial	note of evidence by 332
notice 413, 416, 417	Signature-opinion as to 415	comparison of 506—509 Search-
hearsay answers given on 490	distinction between mark and 415n for attesting witness 504	document admissible without for document 489	proof of Bebait-
alienation by 655	presumption in case of ancient Secondary evidence-	document 544, 545, 545 proof of 414—417, 498, 499, 500
admission by counsel admitting. 455 admission of contents. 480, 488	proof of 414—1111 2001
admission of contents . 480, 488 cases when, of contents of docu-	Sign Manual-
ment admissible 77, 78	of Sovereign; judicial notice of 443, 446
Limitation Act: acknowledgment 482—	Signs-
483	questions and, amount to verbal loss or destruction of document 480, 489	statement
no degrees of 477	testimony by 403, 50
meaning of 113, 473, 474, 475	Silence-on ancient document ' 547	701
oral admission . 246, 247	presumption from 143, 147, 148 original consisting of numerous accounts, etc 480, 493	similar— acts: evidence of, to show intent original not easily provable 479, 491
original public document 480, 492	excluded 135
. proof by 472, 475, 479-494
when document in possession or	Sleep- gl3 power of other party 479	admission made in

1'403-	PAGE
Bolicitor-	Statement against interest-
See " Attorney."	admissibility of 298, 309-31
admission by 229-230	burden of proof 31
cannot disclose professional com-	difference between law of India
munication 811-812	and England 31
Boliloquy-	extension of English rule 29:
admission made in 213	ground of reception of 293
Sovereign-	in escaping criminal prosecution
accession and sign manual of 443, 446	or suit for damages 314
demise of 440	meaning of entry against interest 31 document forming act of authority 512	nature of the interest., 309-311 foreign: judicial notice 412, 444n , 417	must be against interest when proof of orders of 517	made 312, 313
Specific Relief Act-	need not be contemporaneous 310
possessory suit under 690	partially 312
Spoliation-	pecuniary 313
of evidence 715-719	personal knowledge unnecessary 316
Spy—	proprietary 313-314 whether evidence of collateral not accomplice 829
Stamp-
admission: invalid instrument 214	Statement made in course of business— admissibility of 305 document madmissible for want of 488
not required for letter containing	contemporaneous not required 308 ground of reception 295
admission 213n	meaning of "course of business" 307 presumption as to when document	personal knowledge unnecessary 308 called for and not produced 543-544	whether evidence of collateral presumption relating to, in case	matters 308—309 Statement as to matter of public and Walle of : Secondary orthogen	general interest—document without: suit on con-	admissibility of 316-319
sideration 557n. State-	form of the declaration 318 affairs of, privileged 809,810	lis mota and interest 319 document referring to matters of 904	meaning of terms "public" and proof of 643	"general" 317
State of things-	nature of the opinion 317 meaning of 108	reputation as to particular facts 317
under which facts happened : evi-	Statement as to relationship—
dence of 134	admissible as to particular facts 324
Statement-	lis mota 324
as to cause of death 294, 297, 302-305
See " Dying Declaration."	need not refer to contemporaby persons not witnesses 293-339	neous event 324
by witness who cannot be called 75	persons from whom receivable 322
how much of, is to be proved 367	personal knowledge unnecessary 323 made under special circumstances 7, 340, 341	Status-judgment declaring 370, 376 presumption as to, being true 76 previous. See "Previous State-	meaning of 447
ment."	Statute-
probability of 32	presumption as regards 446
probability or ,	public and private 445
Statements accompanying and explain ingacts-	Stridhan-admissibility of 145	onus 651

Page,	Page,
Teneta-	Trade Term-
obinion on 101	meaning of 621, 625
of any body of men or family:	Transactions-
оринов на to 419	exclusion of evidence of unconnec-
Term_	ted 75
need in batticular blace or by batti-	facts forming part of same 133
cular people 420	link in chain of 133
Territory-	meaning of 132, 166-167
British: judicial notice 443, 447,	offences constituting part of same 134
704705	series of 133-134
cession of 447, 704-705	touching rights and customs 161
Testator-	Translation-
evidence of habits of 625s.	Court, whether conclusive 623-624
Testimony-	meaning of 623-624
1 See " Wetnese," " Eredence."	of document ordered by Court 904
Theft-	Treatise-presumption of 706, 708-710	opinion of expert expressed in 413
Thak-	Trespass-
accuracy of 360	damages in action for 160".
map 360, 536	Trial- statements made in party's pre-Thakbust-
burden of proof 636	sence during ,. 148n. statement of Judge as to what oc.
Title-	curs at 454
acts of ownership showing 139	Troveradmission as to, by manager of	damages in action for . 160n.
property 227	Trust-
assertion of : decree, evidence of 177	estoppel in case of 787
by estoppel 777	Trustee-
not office of estoppel to pass 783n.	admission by 222, 234
onus 672	cannot set up adverse title 702 predecessor in, admission by 211	estoppel in case of 762, 703
of Indian Evidence Act 99, 102, 103	good faith: onus 694-699
proof of ,. 162
survey map as evidence of 358	U.
whether Bengal Land Registration	Undue influence-register evidence of 353	distinction between, and incapa-
Title-Deeds-	city 698n.
production of, of witness not party 822	in case of wills 698
Time-	in proving confession . 256-257
admissibility of evidence as to 149	Usage-divisions of : judicial notice 413, 447	affecting contract 144n.
Tombstone -	annexed to contract: evidence 572, 601-statements upon 298, 319—320	604, 624
Tort-	distinction between custom and 418# not presumed 726	evidence of, to affect document 554
onus 672-673	foreign Torture-
for purpose of extracting confes-	meaning of 165 of trade 165, 186—187
sion 256, 262n	of body of men or family, opinion
Trade-	as to 419
expert evidence as to matters of 405	opinion as to 401, 419n., 419, 420
Trade Mark-	proof of 420, 605n.
right to use 787	requisites of 164-165

DEX.

	PAGE.	1	PAGE.
Subject-		Surveyor-
natural distribution of	13	g of corporation : admission	by retabular scheme of such distr	ibu-	port of	226-227
tion	16	Survivorship-
Subornation-		presumption	720, 731
of evidence	139, 143	System-	120, 101
	100, 110		136, 203
Subpons duces tecum-	000	fact showing, or accident	230, 200 meaning and effect of	838	T.
required in case of strangers			• resistance to, on ground of lie		Technical expressions-	620, 623
when necessary	483	meaning of	020, 023
witness attending on: cross		Tels Khana-	351
amination	862—863	register	351
witness called on: right of co		Telegram-
sel to appear for	824-825	presumptions as to	207, 739
Succession-		proof of, contents of	569
family	321	Telegraph-
Suicide-		contents of message	542, 543
	683n, 735	message by : presumption	542, 513
		Telephone-
Suit- must include whole of claim	070	communications by	739
	372	Tenancy-
pending 🖽	370, 372	proof of	788
Summons-		Tenant in common—
	640	admission by	232
to produce document	485	•
Suppression-		Tenant- and landlord : continuance	oli of evidence	715	relationship	789
Surety-		and landlord : encroachment	741 and principal; admission	234
acknowledgment of debt	234n.	,, ,, proof by part	559, 562
judgment against debtor not b	ind-	· milationshin ·	onus
ing on	389	,, ,, feracionsup.	4, 683-684
Surrounding circumstances-		rent-free land	671672
ambiguous document	775	ojectment	663
evidence of 55	4, 605, 607	enhancement of rent	662
Secrecy-			762
promise of confession	. 277	749	ı. 784—794
Survey-		"at the beginning of	the Government map	357, 536	fenancy "	 743 officer: opinion of dharepatra		" against "continuance of	the revenue chittah	351	tenancy"	792-111
statement on, as to public or			ung
eral right	326	through landlord	790-792
Survey map-		person claiming thro	ngs:
admissibility of	356-357	such tenant
admission in	214	fractional portion of rent
as evidence of possession	358-360	intermediate tenure	- 44
as evidence of title	359	nermanent certified copy of	357	-te- of most noseession.	**
chittahs	361-362	annot be saven	54°
evidential value of	360-361	presumption of permanent	769, 769a.
Survey officer-		ing	782-790
proceedings of	360	relation of, with landlord

L'AGE.	L'Atte.
Without prejudice-	Witness-maid.
admiction , 215, 218—247	hability of, for failure to give evi-communication
meaning of	matrimonial proceedings 803, 804 must reperally apeak only to facts 400
Witness-	and a ferritary of the party of the second accused cannot be examined as 801-802	non-attendance · hability to dam-advocate and 802-503	agre 810
ASSCSSOT SO3	not importial 877
attendance of, procedure . 838	not party, production of title-
atte-ting	deeds 822
bribed RS1	number of witnesses . 835-837 called by Court 913	opinion of calling after close of case 841	order of production and examina-cannot be found 328	tion of 844, 848-862
cited, and not examined, presump-	party to civil suit . 803, 804
tion 716	privilego, in respect of evidence character of 426	given by 840 compatison of writing by 508	presumption as to accuracy of competency and compellability	record of what, said 528-529
of 798—800, 838, 850	provisions as to, and examination 628
conspiring to give false evidence 34	question as to credit of 872-877
convicted of crime 877	questions put to, by Judge ' 903
corroboration of 852, 891—895	recalling 841
Court cannot refuse to examine 842	recognizance taken from 839
cross-examination of 853	re-examination of 862
cross-examination of own 880-884	right of accused to have witness examined de noto 841
uesu	rules as to examination of 79
demeanour of 111, 114, 118 deposition of, public document 514	sent by police presumably under diseased in body or mind 601	restraint 744
document shown to: inspection 871-872	statement of , 110
drunken 801	statement by persons who cannot dintren 603	be called as 293-339 dumb	statement of, to police-officer not examination 855	public record 351-352
evidence of, or affidavit, ordinarily	unworthy of credit 885
not receivable against party in	when compelled to answer 872-875
subsequent proceedings 242	while being examined may be ask.
examination-in-chief of 628, 851	ed whether contract, etc., in examination of, by mistake 855-856	writing 867
,, considered gen-	who is competent to attest 503
erally 838-845	who may testify 800-803
exclusion of from Court-room 843	whose attendance cannot be pro-
executor 803	cured without delay or expense 328
expert not called as ; opinion of 413	Word-freedom from arrest 839-8; 3	meaning of : judicial notice 444
freedom from police-restraint E43	meaning of used in peculiar grounds for believing and disbeliev-	sense 620-625
ing 32	opinion as to meaning of 420
diving hearsay should be stopped 128	Workmanimpeachment of 882-884	opinion of 405 incapable of giving evidence 328	opinion of the incriminating question 825-827	World- geographical division of 443, 447
juror 603	lesson from observation of the 19

INDEX.

	Page.	PAGE.
Without prejudice-		Witness-conid.
admission .	215, 248-249	liability of, for failure to give evi-
communication	. 106	dence 821
meaning of .	249#	matrimonial proceedings 803, 804
Witness~		must generally speak only to facts 400 accused cannot be examit	ori as 801-802	non-attendance : liability to dam-
advocate and	802-803	sgr4 840
PERCENT	803	not importial 877
	. 838	not party, production of title-attendance of, procedure	501-503	deeds ., ., 822
attesting	884	number of witnesses 835-837
bribed	. 913	opinion of 400
called by Court		order of production and examinacalling after close of case		tion of 844, 848-862 cannot be found .		party to civil suit 803, 804 cited, and not examined,		privilego, in respect of evidence
tion
character of		presumption as to accuracy of comparison of writing b	y 508	record of what, said 528-529 competency and comp	ellability 800, 838, 850
conspiring to give false of	vidence 34	question as to credit of 872-877
convicted of crime .	877	questions put to, by Judge ' 909
corroboration of .	852, 891-895	recalling 841
Court cannot refuse to ex	mmine 812	recognizance taken from 839
cross-examination of .	853	re-examination of 862
cross-examination of ow	n 880884	right of accused to have witness dead	, ,, 328	examined de noto 641 demonstrate of	111, 114, 118	rules as to examination of deposition of, public doc	ument. 514	sent by police presumably under diseased in hody or mine	1 801	testraint
document shown to: ins	pection 871-872	statement of 110
drunken ·· ·	, 601	statement by persons who cannot dumb		be called as 293-339
dying or falling all bef	ore cross-	statement of, to police-officer not examination .	855	public record 351-352
evidence of, or affidavit,	ordinarily	unworthy of credit ,. 885
not receivable against	party in	i when compelled to answer 872-875
subsequent proceedin	gs 242	while being examined may be ask-
examination-in-chief of	628, 851	ed whether contract, etc., in
examination of, by mis	take 855-856	writing 867
, , consid	lered gen-	who is competent to attest 503
erally		who may testify 800-803
exclusion of, from Cour	t-room 843	whose attendance cannot be pro-
executor	803	cured without delay or expense 328
expert not called as: 0]	pinion of 🔏 413	Word-
freedom from arrest .	87-1-810	meaning of : judicial notice 444
freedom from police-res	traint 839	meaning of, used in peculiar grounds for believing an	d quapetten-	sense 620-625
ing	32	opinion as to meaning of 420
giving hearsay should !	e stopped 128	• impeachment of	. 882891	Workman-incapable of giving evi	dence 328	opinion of 405
incriminating question.	. 825-827	World-
jutot	803	geographical division of 443, 447
	328	lesson from observation of the 19

1048 INDEX.

	AGE.	 .* -			3	PAGE
Writing- companies of 506- cross-examination as to previous	-509	Written star admission i not public	in			213 514 statements in 869- ovidence as to matters in 868- evidence given in		nov passa		Z.	••	JIS
when exclusive evidence when required for agreements and	78	Zemindar- admission	by			236